

Chapter 1394 Renowned Doctor

The tension was palpable in the air of the hospital hall.

Just then, a burst of warm applause rang out from the outside.

Trevor looked over his shoulder and saw a man in a hospital gown entering the lobby's front door.

The man looked familiar.

The director of the emergency department breathed a sigh of relief.

He glared at Trevor and said with gritted teeth, "Leave! It's ridiculous that you suddenly show up here and say you'll use the operating room. You only want to blackmail the hospital. I'm warning you. We've got surveillance cameras here. You can't blackmail us."

Then he glanced at Sinclair and sneered before continuing, "Take this man away. He can't die here. Your excuse was so lame. Get out!"

After saying that, the director fixed his lab gown and smiled. As if nothing had happened, he walked over to welcome the coming doctor.

However, the argument between the director and Trevor earlier was loud enough for others to hear.

Even the doctor turned his head to look in their direction.

Trevor looked over with a grimace.

But when he caught a glimpse of the doctor's face, surprised covered his face.

It was Armoni, the famous doctor he had met several times in Barlowtown.

Chapter 1394 Renowned Doctor

Trevor remembered Armoni's surprise when he saw Trevor perform the acupuncture. Armoni was even interested in learning it from him.

Trevor didn't expect to see him again in Zayden.

With the director blocking his way, Armoni didn't notice Trevor.

He met the director halfway and asked with furrowed brows, "What's going on?"

Flashing a smile, the director explained, "Oh, it's nothing. Just a petty move from the hospital's competitors. They sent someone here with a dying man to blackmail us. You don't need to concern yourself with it. The meeting room on the top floor is ready. We should go ahead."

Trevor wouldn't let this chance slip away.

The hospital wouldn't grant his request, and the director couldn't be reasoned with.

Time was running out, and Sinclair must be treated as soon as possible.

"Armoni, it's me! I need an operating room to save this man. Be my assistant. Hurry!" Trevor called out to Armoni.

Hearing Trevor's familiar voice, Armoni widened his eyes in surprise and shoved the director away from his view.

The director thought Armoni was angry, so he glared at Trevor and roared, "Hey! You can't yell here. Where are your manners? Apologize to Dr. Astley right now. Security! Security! We need you here. Take this man out of here!"

The director then turned to Armoni, only to be taken aback upon seeing his expression.

Armoni looked so thrilled that his face turned red, walking over and helping Trevor to push Sinclair's stretcher.

"What are you waiting for? Prepare the operating room now!" Armoni told the director.

After losing contact with Trevor in Barlowtown, Armoni was so regretful that he couldn't sleep.

The Scott family's traditional medical skill was exemplary. After only a few meetings with Trevor, Armoni gained so much knowledge, and his skills significantly improved.

With the experience Trevor shared with him, he was able to save a dying patient.

Since then, Armoni had felt remorse for not learning acupuncture from Trevor.

Thus, Armoni was elated to see Trevor and become his assistant in this treatment.

The director couldn't believe what was happening.

The guy causing trouble in the hospital knew Armoni, a renowned doctor.

The director froze on his feet, his head turning numb and his hands cold.

Chapter 1395 The Operation Failed

Armoni pushed Sinclair into the operating room.

Meanwhile, Trevor quickly changed into surgical clothes and disinfected his hands.

He then turned to Armoni and said quickly, "I need you to take care of this operation. I'll stay beside you and give you all the guidance you need. Is that okay?"

Armoni was so excited and he replied in a loud voice, "It's okay! I promise I will try my best to save him!"

Trevor nodded. With a frown, he turned to the door and shouted, "Where are the nurses? And the anesthetist too? I need you all here now!"

The nurses and the anesthesiologist at the door of the operating room were all speechless.

Even the dean of the hospital was stunned as he watched the scene speechlessly.

Who the hell was this young man? And how dare he give orders to Armoni, who was a famous doctor?

Even more astonishing was the fact that it didn't seem to bother Armoni at all, who seemed rather pleased with the situation.

How could that be possible? Armoni was a well-known doctor, wasn't he?

This hospital had worked hard to invite Armoni, a famous doctor, to host a seminar. Why would he humble himself in front of an unknown young man?

"Why are you standing there gawking? The patient is in a coma and we can't give him a general anesthesia. Give the patient a local anesthesia!" Trevor ordered as he put on his gloves. He was about to begin the operation.

Sinclair was in very critical condition and Trevor knew he had to hurry up.

Trevor then began to give orders to Armoni.

"We need to take care of the ruptured spleen first. Armoni, cut the outer skin and prepare to suture the spleen. Be careful not to touch any blood vessels."

Upon hearing what Trevor said, Armoni was shocked. "A ruptured spleen?"

By this time, Trevor had already taken out a silver needle and was holding it tightly. "Don't worry. I will help you stop the bleeding. Just focus on suturing!"

Armoni swallowed and regained his composure. He didn't argue with Trevor and began to perform the surgery as per Trevor's recommendations.

Meanwhile, Trevor quickly pricked the silver needle into Sinclair's skin.

"It's amazing! The bleeding is slowly stopping!" Armoni exclaimed, his eyes widened in surprise.

Even the nurses and anesthesiologist were also shocked.

They had never heard that needle could stop bleeding.

It was just unbelievable!

When it came to suturing the spleen, the biggest challenge was managing the blood loss. Most doctors were unable to prevent the bleeding and such an operation did not even allow time for a blood transfusion. They could only watch helplessly as the patients died from excessive blood loss.

However, now that the miraculous acupuncture stopped the bleeding, Armoni was more confident.

Seeing that Armoni was at a loss just now, Trevor said quickly, "I need you to focus for the time being. We'll talk later if there's any problem!"

Chapter 1395 The Operation Failed

Armoni quickly regained his cool and proceeded with the suturing.

The dean, who was standing next to Trevor and Armoni, looked at Trevor in a different way.

No wonder Armoni was so respectful to this young man. It turned out that he was really capable.

The operation was going on very well.

However, the director of the emergency department, who was still at the door of the operating room, was restless.

He was upset that he couldn't see clearly what was going on in the operating room. However, he felt something was wrong when he saw Armoni's attitude toward Trevor just now.

The man rubbed his hands nervously and murmured to himself, "Armoni is a well-known doctor. Yet, he is so respectful to that guy! Is that guy from some wealthy or powerful family? Anyway, Armoni definitely knows that guy! If that young man says ill of me in front of Armoni, I will be doomed."

The more the director thought about it, the more nervous he became. He couldn't stand still and paced back and forth in front of the operating room.

The operation lasted for an hour and a half. Then, the light above the door of the operating room went out.

When Trevor came out of the operating room, the director put on a flattering smile and greeted Trevor warmly.

"Sir, I'm so sorry, I offended you earlier. It was just a misunderstanding. You know, the patient's condition was too bad. No one could save him. We all know that you and Dr. Astley have tried your best." The man spoke softly as if to comfort Trevor.

Of course, it never occurred to him that they could save Sinclair.

When he saw Sinclair earlier today, Sinclair was dying.

The director felt that even if Armoni himself was in charge of the operation, there was no way Sinclair could be saved.

Trevor didn't say anything and just looked at him as if he was looking at an idiot.

The fake smile on the director's face vanished almost instantly.

After a while, Trevor slowly asked, "Who told you that the operation failed?"

Chapter 1396 Trevor's Identity Is Exposed

The director's eyes widened in shock when he saw a nurse pushing Sinclair out of the operating room.

Although there was still some blood on Sinclair's body, his breathing was smooth. His face wasn't pale anymore.

He was obviously out of danger now, just a little weak from the anesthesia.

"What? How is that possible?"

The director exclaimed in shock. His face grew pale as if he had seen a ghost.

When Sinclair was sent to the hospital, he seemed to be on the verge of death. But after just an hour and a half in the operating theater and he was out of danger?

With his hands in his pockets, Armoni just looked coldly at the director and didn't say a word.

He had seen this despicable man refuse to help Sinclair earlier today. Armoni deeply despised doctors who had no professional ethics.

Knowing that the director had made a big mistake, the dean of the hospital turned to Trevor and said respectfully, "Sir, I understand that this idiot has offended you, but I can assure you that his attitude in no way represents the values of our hospital. I leave it to you to decide how to deal with him."

The director was shocked upon hearing what the dean said. "Sir! How could you say that? I didn't mean to offend this gentleman! Please forgive me. It was just a misunderstanding."

The director was very nervous. The thing was, it wasn't because he had outstanding medical skills that he became a director, but it was thanks to his relationship with the dean.

Chapter 1396 Trevor's Identity Is Exposed

If he was fired, there were little chance any hospital in the whole of Zayden would be willing to hire him.

That meant he would have no more income.

Trevor glanced at the man coldly. By this time, his anger had subsided.

The reason Trevor had lost his temper in the emergency department earlier was because he was in a hurry to save Sinclair.

Now that Sinclair was out of danger, Trevor smiled.

"Well, in that case, I will give you a chance to make amends. Take good care of the patient. If anything happens to him... You can guess the consequences. It's up to you!"

The director breathed a sigh of relief. Luckily for him, Trevor wasn't going to make him lose his job.

The director was eager to show his determination to make amends. He smiled apologetically and said solemnly, "Don't worry, sir. I will take good care of the patient. I'll stay close to him all day and every day! The patient will be fine!"

He smiled fawningly at Trevor. His arrogance earlier was gone by now.

Trevor looked at the man up and down and said nothing. He was pleased to see that there was no mischief hidden in the director's eyes.

Sinclair was now out of danger. As long as he was well taken care of, he could definitely recover.

The director promised sincerely to take good care of Sinclair.

After Sinclair was taken to his ward and Trevor made sure his condition was stable, Trevor went out to discuss for a while with Armoni before leaving the hospital.

After leaving the hospital, Trevor went back to his rental apartment to have a rest. By the next day, he was ready to work as usual.

Chapter 1396 Trevor's Identity Is Exposed

However, when Trevor arrived at the parking lot, he soon noticed two men in black coming toward him.

The men walked briskly. At first glance, Trevor could tell they were well-trained people.

Trevor immediately became alert.

Soon, the men were standing in front of Trevor. One of them said coldly, "Trevor Sanderson, please come with us!"

Trevor's heart skipped a beat.

His identity was exposed!
