

Chapter 1542 The Villains Outside The Door

Outside Room 402, one of the three men raised their hands and placed them on the door frame, successfully trapping Nasir.

Since he was taller than Nasir, he used that as an advantage and looked down on him.

In a vicious tone, he ordered, "We're just come to tell you to stop improving the essence. Understood?"

Trevor narrowed his eyes as he heard this and instantly knew what was going on.

The essence! They were harassing Nasir because of it!

Trevor knew very well that Nasir had only one partner working on the essence—Newmere Cosmetics.

The Central Hospital ran well in terms of treatment and diagnosis. It also upgraded daily. It didn't rely on the essence as its main income.

So the other hospitals couldn't have hired these strong men.

Someone wanted to stop Nasir from improving the essence. That means someone was targeting Newmere Cosmetics.

Lost in thought, Trevor stroked his chin.

There were two possibilities.

One, a competitor found that Newmere Cosmetics had joined forces with Severich. So now the competitor was desperate and wanted to mess things up for Newmere Cosmetics by threatening Nasir.

Normally, this could be the most likely situation.

Most people thought the war between businesses was related to malicious acquisitions or prices. However, the major contribution was dirty tricks.

It was common to threaten business partners.

However, it was a normal situation. But after Trevor came to Dreles, any normal situation could not be considered normal.

Gunter!

Of course, Trevor hadn't forgotten that particular Mobius member.

Gunter had come to Dreles to get close to Luisa.

He had lost a bet against Trevor and had promised he would stay away from Luisa.

Now, Trevor had to consider the second possibility. Gunter was desperate enough to interfere in Newmere Cosmetics and force Luisa to cooperate by threatening Nasir.

In this way, without Trevor's knowledge, Gunter could successfully take Luisa away.

Trevor's eyes turned hard.

No matter what, he wouldn't let the situation deteriorate.

Nasir replied firmly, "I won't stop. You can leave now. Or else, I'll call the police!"

The burly man at the door sneered.

"So you're not going to agree? Do you think we're here to give you an option?"

He suddenly grabbed Nasir's shoulder to pull him out.

The look on Nasir's face changed dramatically. He struggled, but he couldn't resist their brute force.

He could only yell angrily, "Stop it! Get out!"

Trevor noticed the situation had turned ugly and quickly put on his black mask.

He walked out of the elevator and shouted, "Stop! What are you guys doing?"

All four of them were stunned to hear a strange voice. They turned to look. The three burly goons relaxed when they saw that Trevor was alone and not a cop.

The one closest to him laughed and said, "You scared me. Anyway, who the hell are you? Leave us to our business! Go away from here, or we'll beat you to a pulp!"

Although Trevor wore a mask that covered his mouth and nose, his eyes were visible, and they were extremely sharp.

Two of the three goons laughed and threatened him to get out and not interfere in their business.

But the burly man who held Nasir with one hand didn't laugh. He was the leader. He raised his chin at Trevor and ordered his men casually, "Go and teach him a lesson! That way, he won't call the police to cause us trouble. Also, cover his mouth so that he doesn't attract attention."

The two men laughed. They cracked their necks and knuckles to warm up. "No problem!"

The hotel's corridor wasn't narrow. But it shrunk when the two burly men walked side by side.

The leader dragged Nasir forward with one hand. He felt it was easy for his men to deal with an ordinary man.

However, he heard two loud noises.

The arrogant thugs were flung backward in the air before hitting the floor. They held their stomachs as they gasped in pain.

"What the hell!"

The leader screamed as his eyes widened in shock.

Nasir was shocked as well.

Trevor's eyes were frigid. He walked toward them in slow and confident steps. "Let him go!"

The burly man's expression changed from shock to fear. He looked at his men on the floor and quickly pulled Nasir in front of him as a shield. He tried to look fierce, but he was scared.

"No! Stop! Don't come here! Or I'll kill him!"

Now the thug regretted not bringing any weapons with him. He was under the impression that he had to only threaten a lowly doctor.

Trevor sneered and said something that only a doctor could understand.

The thug who held Nasir frowned in confusion.

He felt the masked man was a psychopath. After putting his men out of commission, the masked man suddenly started to spout nonsense.

The thug couldn't understand, but as a doctor, Nasir understood it very well.

Nasir swallowed nervously and raised his left arm high as Trevor had instructed.

The thug looked at the raised hand and got confused.

When he looked toward Trevor, the thug realized he was very close to them.

Trevor suddenly kicked the thug's chest through the gap created by Nasir's raised hand.

The thug screamed and flew backward.

He hit the wall and painfully slid to the floor.

Trevor turned to look at Nasir. "Are you okay?"

Confused, Nasir slowly put his arm down. "I'm fine. Nothing happened to me."

The thug struggled to stand. There was fear in his eyes as he looked at Trevor. But he was more afraid of the person who had given them the order.

The thug hesitated before he threatened fiercely, "Listen, kid! I admit that you're capable. However, this is none of your business. Stay out of it, and I will pretend that we never met. If you offend my boss, you are sure to be killed!"

Trevor frowned.

This meant that what he thought was true. Gunter was behind it.

Murders, threats, and arson to get their way was Mobius 'style.

Trevor stared at the thug and didn't say a word. His brain was working fast to come up with some idea.

After the last gamble, Gunter should have realized Ape's information about Raven wasn't reliable.

There must be a much deeper rivalry between Gunter and Ape.

Now that the opportunity presented itself, Trevor decided to find some fun for them.

Chapter 1544 Nasir's Request

Trevor remained calm in the face of the man's threat, and he even acted arrogant and unruly on purpose.

"Your boss? What does your boss have to do with me? You have the nerve to come up in my face and talk nonsense! Why don't you can ask your boss to come here in person? Let's see if he dares to come. Damn it! Don't you know that this is our territory? My boss is Ape!"

Of course, Trevor was lying.

He claimed Ape was his boss.

He was hoping the information would go all the way back to Gunter.

Gunter had already suspected that Ape had deliberately given him false news about Raven before, and so he had a grudge against Ape. Trevor was sure that Gunter would settle his accounts with Ape after his men's failed attempt to hurt Nasir.

Trevor was anxious to see the war that was sure to break out between Ape and Gunter, no matter who came out on top.

Trevor arrogantly grabbed the man's collar and forced him to stand straight.

"In our territory, we don't give a damn who your boss is. You better behave yourself! Otherwise, Ape will break your legs into pieces. Do you understand? If you do, then get the hell out of here right now!"

The man was so shocked and angry that he was unable to say a word for a moment.

Trevor pushed him out and shouted, "Go back and tell your boss not to make trouble in Ape's territory in the future. You can't afford to offend him!"

The man's face twitched for a moment. Then, he silently pulled up his two subordinates and the left dejectedly.

Before leaving, he muttered under his breath, "Wait and see! You are all doomed! Ape is also in big trouble. You all are dead meat!"

Of course, Trevor didn't take the man seriously at all. He sneered with disdain and raised his chin arrogantly.

He was actually snickering in his head. He deliberately mentioned Ape's name over and over to the point where this man memorized it.

At last, there were only two people left in the corridor on the fourth floor, Trevor and Nasir.

After the aggressors left, Nasir breathed a sigh of relief. "Thank you for your help. I'm really grateful."

However, there was still a trace of vigilance in Nasir's eyes.

After all, Nasir didn't forget that this man who saved him just said he was from a gang. So, he was probably not a kind person.

Seeing that Nasir was on his guard, Trevor didn't know whether to cry or to laugh. He took off his black mask and explained, "Don't be afraid. I was just putting on an act. Don't worry. I don't belong to any gang. Actually, I'm from a state investigative agency. I came here to investigate a heinous criminal as well as something else. My code name is Dragon. Rest assured, I won't hurt you."

Nasir nodded with a frown and kept silent.

He seemed to not entirely believe what Trevor told him.

Realizing this, Trevor had no choice but to pull out his Klein member ID and show it to Nasir.

It wasn't until Nasir saw the ID that he relaxed a little.

Although he didn't know which law enforcement agency it was, the identification was very convincing.

Trevor put away his ID and asked casually, "You are in trouble now. I'm afraid those bastards won't let you go. What are you going to do now?"

Nasir pursed his lips and frowned. He was very anxious. After hesitating for a while, he said, "Well... Sir, can you take me to the Central Hospital? The upgraded plan of the essence is still there. I don't want to give up on the research. I made a promise to a friend of mine to finish it and I fully intend to keep my promise!"

Trevor was stunned by Nasir's words, and he was deeply touched too.

It turned out that Nasir considered him as a friend. Even though Nasir hadn't seen Trevor for a long time, he still didn't forget about his promise.

Luisa's cosmetics company was developing well and Trevor didn't want Luisa to be targeted by Gunter because of this.

Trevor promptly agreed to Nasir's request.

"Okay, I promise to take you there. But not now. You should go back there in a couple days at least. I suspect the gangsters are still roaming around there. It's dangerous to go to the hospital now."
