

Chapter 1545 Return To Central Hospital

Trevor took Nasir to another hotel to avoid further trouble.

Two days later

Trevor had gotten a lot of information through Margaret. She informed him in particular about the actions of the local gangs. Klein was aware of absolutely everything that was going on.

Things were going on just as Trevor expected.

Sure enough, Gunter couldn't take this insult and humiliation. That same day, he took his men to the amusement arcade to find Ape.

Ape had a bad temper, and therefore there was no way he would sit and watch Gunter accuse him of things he knew nothing about.

Gunter was also furious and their argument quickly escalated. Finally, Gunter decided it was time for him to take revenge on Ape. Gunter gathered a group of local gangs and hooligans in Dreles to attack Ape's subordinates.

The news confirmed Trevor's guess that Gunter was the one threatening Nasir all this time.

Trevor narrowed his eyes and seemed deep in thought. It was clear that Gunter wasn't giving up his evil plans on Luisa.

The fight between Gunter's men and Ape's men was fierce and gunshots were even heard at night, which was scary.

After two days of fighting, the two sides were still at stalemate as neither Gunter, Rock or Ape came out to fight in person. Only their respective gangs were fighting.

It was kind of a proxy war.

Trevor smiled faintly as he thought of something.

It didn't matter if they hadn't gotten personally involved in the war. With all the resources Gunter had put into this war, he must be exhausted at this time and didn't have the energy to pressure Nasir any further or bother Luisa.

This was already a good result.

Feeling the time was right, Trevor went to see Nasir again.

"The situation has stabilized now. I'll accompany you to the hospital to collect the documents as a precaution."

Nasir was overjoyed upon hearing that and he hurriedly agreed.

Trevor and Nazir left for the Central Hospital at once. Once there, they went straight to the director's office.

Just as they were about to enter the office, Trevor heard voices inside.

The door of the director's office was slightly ajar.

Through the crack of the door, Trevor saw three familiar figures.

The first one was Korbyn, the acting director of the hospital. Then, there was Alisson, the nurse, and Rogelio. What on earth were they doing here?

Raising a brow, Trevor keenly watched and listened to their conversation.

He had the feeling that these three people weren't discussing anything work related.

With a cigarette in his mouth and one hand in the pocket of his white coat, Korbyn said casually, "Alisson, I hope you won't be ungrateful. My nephew, Rogelio, used to work in the land development department. It's fair to say he is a man who has seen the world. You should feel honored that he is willing to pursue you."

Rogelio was wearing a suit and leather shoes and he looked like a gentleman. He smiled politely after hearing Korbyn's introduction of him. He looked like an executive of the land development department.

Korbyn took a drag off his cigarette and blew a ring of smoke casually.

"Alisson, the day I took office here, I heard you speak ill of me. You can guess it made me very unhappy. I think you have a rather fair salary here, right? If you leave our hospital, do you think you can find such a well-paid job elsewhere? Now think carefully about what I have said."

Alisson's whole body was tensed but she said nothing.

With an expression of feigned fervor, Rogelio said, "Alisson, I really like you. I am now deputy director of the hospital's logistics department. We will have plenty of time to meet and build a solid relationship."

Hearing this, Alisson subconsciously took a step back. She lowered her head and didn't say anything. She wanted to leave, but she didn't dare to do so as she was afraid to offend the acting director.

She really needed this job and couldn't afford to get fired.

Alissón was in such a dilemma that she wanted to cry.

Behind the door, Trevor and Nasir saw clearly what Rogelio and Korbyn were doing.

Nasir was so outraged by what he saw that his breathing became heavy and Trevor could almost hear it.

It was clear that Nasir was angry.

"Damn it!" Nasir cursed in a low voice. How could such a scum be the acting director of the hospital while he was on a leave?

He couldn't stand it anymore and shouted from outside, "What the hell is going on here?"

Nasir pushed open the door. He glared at the two men inside and shouted angrily, "How dare you use your position as acting director to threaten a nurse?"

The three people in the room were all stunned.

When Alisson saw Nasir's face clearly, she was so excited that tears began to run down her cheeks. She covered her mouth with her hands, unable to speak.

All the staff at the Central Hospital held Nasir in their hearts. This was not only due to the fact that he was the director of the hospital, but also due to his integrity and kindness.

The moment Alisson saw Nasir, she knew that the beloved director would not let her suffer injustice.

However, neither Korbyn nor Rogelio knew Nasir.

Korbyn frowned deeply and stubbed out half the cigarette in the ashtray.

"Who the hell are you? And how dare you break into my office? Don't you see we are busy discussing work?"

Nasir had to leave the hospital in a hurry after he was forced to stop work. The reason the hospital board invited Korbyn to be the acting director was that he had been practicing medicine for a long time.

Korbyn had never seen Nasir in his life.

Hearing what Korbyn said, Trevor sneered.

"Work? You have the nerve to say you're discussing work? Is forcing someone into a relationship considered work now? What an eye-opener for me!"

It was only then that Korbyn and Rogelio noticed Trevor, who was standing behind Nasir. An angry look appeared on their faces.

"It's you!"

They didn't know Nasir, but they knew Trevor.

Korbyn was extremely angry. He glared at Trevor, and then looked at Nasir.

"Oh, I see. You two are here to make trouble, right? You must be out of your minds! Since I didn't kick you out last time, you probably think the security guards wouldn't drive you out. I need to teach you a lesson today, or else you will think that Dreles is your territory."

Korbyn then strode to his desk and pressed the button of the intercom. Staring at Trevor complacently, he said,

"Send two security guards to my office at once. Some people came to make trouble."

Trevor couldn't help smiling when he heard this.

He shrugged calmly and just watched the scene.

The acting director thought he could kick the real director out of the hospital.

It seemed that Korbyn thought too high of himself.

Nasir was so angry that he actually laughed.

"Good! Very good! I can't wait to see who will be kicked out of here today!"

Laughing loudly, Rogelio spat, "Are you an idiot? My uncle is the director of the hospital. Do you think we will be kicked out?"

The smile on Trevor's face still didn't disappear and if anything, it only grew wider. He reminded Rogelio casually,
"He's not the director, but the acting director."

The simple reminder seemed to have deeply upset Korbyn, who glared at Trevor.

"Shut up! The acting director is still the director! You'd better watch your tongue or you will face a harsher punishment!"

At this moment, sounds of running footsteps came from the corridor.

Soon, two tall security guards appeared at the door of the director's office.

The moment they saw Nasir, they couldn't help smiling happily and exclaimed in unison, "Director!"

Thinking that the security guards were referring to him, Korbyn immediately showed a smile and became more complacent.

He raised his chin and said proudly to Trevor, "Did you hear that? As I said, the acting director is also the director!"

Then he pointed at Trevor and Nasir and ordered the security guards, "These people came here to make trouble. Drive them out now. No, throw them out!"
