

Chapter 1574 Trevor's Advances

Trevor breathed a sigh of relief as he watched Gunter and Rock being taken away by Klein's people.

The arrest of these two dangerous individuals helped him obtain information from Mobius and save Luisa from danger.

Ape had died. Gunter and Rock had been apprehended.

Despite this good news, Trevor was still dissatisfied.

He intended to take advantage of this opportunity to ensure that Luisa would be completely free from harm's way.

Nonetheless, she needed to go into hiding for a brief period, and Trevor would have to make a false report to Raven's superior.

Communication within Mobius was one-way.

Trevor had to wait for Raven's superior to contact him, not the other way around.

Therefore, he had to bide his time and wait for the right moment.

While Trevor was lost in thought, his phone rang. It was Luisa.

"Dragon, I'm about to get off work. Could you arrange a car for me?" As usual, her voice was neither cold nor affectionate but polite.

A smile formed on Trevor's lips. Today felt like the perfect time to reveal his true identity to his girlfriend.

At the thought of this, he decided to give Luisa a surprise.

Trevor rushed back to Newmere Cosmetics and parked her white Chevrolet in front of the company. Then, he escorted her back to the apartment like he usually did.

After a long day at work, Luisa was exhausted. She opened the door of her apartment with her right hand and waved Trevor goodbye with the other.

"See you tomorrow," she said with a smile.

However, Trevor did not open the door of Balfour's apartment and instead asked with a smile, "I've been living in your brother's unit for quite some time. I'm technically your neighbor by now. But I haven't seen your room. Aren't you going to invite me in for once? It's a pity."

He shrugged his shoulders and feigned sadness.

In Luisa's mind, he had helped her a lot of times, so she had become less vigilant toward this mysterious shareholder over time.

After pondering for a moment, she nodded in agreement. "Sure. But just to be clear, I don't have anything to keep you entertained with."

With that, the two of them walked into her apartment.

Luisa's room was tidy and had minimalistic decorations.

As soon as they walked in, a small jewelry box on the cabinet caught Trevor's eye.

His gaze fell on the unique label on the jewelry box, which made him recognize the pair of earrings inside. It was called the Love of Crystal.

The earrings were a gift from him a long time ago.

Upon noticing his gaze, Luisa introduced the pair of earrings to him.

"That was a gift from my boyfriend. You can tell how much he loves me."

Trevor was moved. He gazed lovingly at Luisa, his eyes filled with indescribable tenderness and ardor.

He unconsciously touched the diamond ring in his pocket. Without a word, he took a deep breath and slowly approached Luisa.

Her eyes widened in surprise, and she took two steps away from him.

"Dragon, what are you doing? If you dare to do anything, I will scream for help! My brother is living next door. Get back!"

Trevor was so amused by her reaction that he could not stop smiling.

He found her nervous expression interesting, which made him want to tease her more.

Despite Luisa's warning, Trevor continued to approach her.

She retreated one step after another. With a hint of panic on her face, she repeatedly warned him not to do something reckless.

The atmosphere in the apartment was tense.

Luisa's heart raced in her chest. She never expected that

She now regretted letting him in.

The apartment was relatively small.

After taking several steps back, Luisa's back hit the wall, and she had nowhere else to go.

Trevor continued to approach her, and his face was getting closer to hers.

Terrified, she closed her eyes and opened her mouth to scream.

However, Trevor reacted faster than her.

He covered her mouth with his hand, preventing her from screaming. As a result, only a weak groan escaped from her mouth.

Luisa was on the verge of crying.

But just as she was about to lose all hope, she heard a familiar voice, the one she had heard in her dreams and memories countless times.

It was Trevor's voice.

"Don't be scared."

Luisa slowly opened her eyes and saw him remove a small, hidden device from his neck.

His usually deep and rusty voice became Trevor's.

The device was a voice changer.

At this moment, confusion was written all over Luisa's face. She examined his face and did not see any resemblance to Trevor's.

With a smile, Trevor brought his hand to his chin and fumbled around until he found the edge of the mask.

What he did next shocked Luisa.

He removed his mask, revealing a face she had been obsessed with.

Dragon had become Trevor before her very eyes.

He was standing in front of Luisa with a calm and reassuring smile, yet his trembling voice betrayed his excitement.

"I miss you, Luisa."

Luisa's eyes widened in disbelief. With trembling hands, she reached out and touched his face.

"Trevor... it's you. Wait. Is it really you?"

Trevor could not help but grin from ear to ear. He held Luisa's hand and gently rubbed it against his cheek.

"It's me, Luisa. I'm finally here. Sorry to keep you waiting."

Luisa could no longer hold back her tears. She let out a sob and wrapped Trevor in her tight embrace.

"Trevor... Trevor. Trevor!"

She called his name repeatedly. It felt so surreal that she feared it was only a dream. Now that he was finally in front of her, she held him as tightly as she could, unwilling to let go.

Luisa felt the urge to scream again, but Trevor covered her mouth again.

But this time, he covered them with his lips.

They enveloped each other with their warm embrace, and their heartbeats felt like they were in synchrony.

Tears streamed down Luisa's face.

"Trevor, where have you been? I missed you. I missed you so much. I thought you were dead. I was scared I wouldn't see you again."

Seeing her like this, Trevor felt a pang of pain in his heart. He gently wiped the tears off her face and explained, "A lot of things unimaginable things happened. Our villa in Dreles getting burned was actually orchestrated by a nefarious criminal syndicate. And because of them, some of the members of the Sanderson family betrayed us. To evade their pursuit, I had to change my name and appearance."

Trevor briefly explained what had happened after their parting but deliberately left out the part where he had risked his life.

Nonetheless, Luisa remained uneasy. She clutched his hand, afraid that he would disappear again if she let him go.

Once Trevor had told her everything, he fished out a jewelry box from his pocket containing an exquisite diamond ring.

The moment the jewelry box was opened, a dazzling light emanated from the diamond embedded in the ring.

Luisa gasped, and her eyes widened in disbelief.

Boyfriend. Alone. Reunion. Diamond ring.

She connected the dots and realized that this could be her boyfriend's romantic proposal.

To her surprise, Trevor shook his head and closed the jewelry box.

"What are you doing?" Luisa asked confusedly.

If he were to propose now, how could she say no to him?

Trevor lowered his gaze and put the jewelry box into Luisa's hand.

"Sorry. It's not the right time. My father and grandfather are still in the hands of the enemies. Luisa, please keep this for now. I promise to put the ring on your finger after I save my family."

Luisa nodded and firmly said, "Okay. I'll wait for you!"

Trevor sighed in relief and stroked her long and silky hair.

"Another thing. Please refrain from going outside in the following days. Although I've taken care of the criminals in Dreles, the organization behind them remains a threat. I'm going to fake your death so that you can escape from them."

He had made up his mind. When Raven's superior contacted him, Trevor would place the blame on Ape, Gunter, and Rock for the unsuccessful outcome.

Furthermore, he would take the opportunity to make it appear that Luisa had died in a fight. In this way, Mobius would not dispatch more people to Dreles.

Luisa was taken aback by his plan. "But..."

Before she could finish her words, Trevor hugged her and whispered in her ear, "Thank you so much, Luisa. You've done a lot for me. Many companies are backing me. You don't have to force yourself to work. You were so tired last time that you got sick. You don't know how sorry I was for you."

Luisa held him in her arms and shed silent tears.

She had insisted on establishing a branch of Newmere Cosmetics in Dreles in the hopes of helping Trevor upon his return.

One could not imagine how difficult it was to set up a company in a remote location.

It should be easy with Cecilia's help. However, the Wright family had been informed about the potential impact of Mobius' actions, making them fearful. Consequently, they confined Cecilia to their home and forbade her from helping Luisa.

Luisa had put a lot of effort into establishing a branch in Dreles.

Her love for Trevor was the only thing that kept her striving through challenging times.

Now, her boyfriend had returned, and his well-being exceeded her expectations.

"Okay." Luisa embraced Trevor. "I'll listen to you."
