

Chapter 1711 The Fake Treatment For Midnight

Trevor and Rupert exchanged some information for a while, then they began to discuss the follow-up plan.

Obviously, it was easier to search for clues about Bradly than to rescue Elwood. After all, Black Gold Union was far less powerful than Mobius.

What was more, new information might be provided from saving Bradly and attacking the Black Gold Union that could help rescue Elwood.

Trevor and Rupert decided to find Bradly's whereabouts first and then planned to go to Elwood's secret prison.

The Black Gold Union had just attacked the Bradly Organization. Definitely, the Bradly Organization would take revenge. Aside from taking revenge on the Black Gold Union, the most important thing they needed to do was to catch a senior leader and force him to tell them about Bradly's information.

Trevor and Rupert agreed that when the Bradly Organization was ready and the time was ripe, they would inform Trevor to come over and work with them. After all, Dominic and the others knew that with Trevor's support, it would be much easier for them to succeed in the mission.

After their discussion, Trevor said goodbye to Rupert and was about to leave. He was Mobius' assassin, and it was not a good thing to stay in the black market for too long.

When Trevor returned to his apartment, he unexpectedly ran into Mikayla.

Mikayla noticed that he was in a hurry, so she walked up to him and teased him, "Baby, why are you back in such a hurry? Are you looking for me?"

After saying this, Mikayla put on a seductive expression. Obviously, she got the hint from Vulture and knew Trevor's identity.

Mikayla was deliberately seducing Trevor to her bed, so she could get the protection of Mobius' official assassin.

Mikayla was so familiar with this kind of thing that she didn't feel embarrassed at all. She had been in Glareder for many years. And during all this time, she had changed lovers faster than changing her clothes.

Trevor's heart felt heavy. He ignored Mikayla's temptation and went into his room, leaving Mikayla alone outside.

"Huh? Baby, wait!" Mikayla was in utter disbelief. She knocked on the door persistently, but Trevor still ignored her.

Mikayla stood there in embarrassment, dumbfounded.

Trevor rested for two days while waiting for the people from the Bradly Organization to contact him, so they could attack the Black Gold Union together.

But he did not receive a phone call from anyone from the Bradly Organization. Instead, Midnight called him first.

Midnight's meaning was very simple. He urged Trevor to come over and treat him.

Since Trevor had nothing else to do and wanted to get useful information, he agreed at once.

As usual, Trevor took a taxi to Midnight's villa. The security guards and servants already knew his identity as a private doctor, so he was able to go straight into Midnight's room without any obstruction.

Trevor and Midnight chatted casually. Trevor also pretended to perform acupuncture on Midnight to temporarily relieve the latter's headache.

Looking at the silver needles between Trevor's fingers, Midnight remembered the scene when Trevor tortured the prisoners with needles in the secret room. His face twitched, but he immediately returned to normal.

After some time, Trevor said that the treatment was over. He also told Midnight he would come back to observe Midnight's body condition later.

Midnight nodded and said, "Okay. You can rest in the villa for a while. You can ask the servant to bring you drinks like wine, whisky, and brandy."

Trevor nodded perfunctorily in agreement.

He was about to take the opportunity to investigate in the villa. But he didn't expect that not long after he walked out of Midnight's room, he would bump into someone.

