

Chapter 1713 Exposed

Trevor followed Cyclops into Midnight's study.

Cyclops was the first to speak once inside. He bowed like a dog trying to flatter his master and said in a very flattering tone to Midnight, "Mr. Midnight, this is the best antique I've received recently. It's very rare and of good quality. I don't think a person like me deserves such a good treasure, so I hurried here to give it to you."

Cyclops cast a disdainful glance at Trevor as he spoke. He didn't say exactly what had happened and instead he tried to paint a good image of himself in front of Midnight. After a short pause, he continued, "I was very careful with this antique and I didn't think twice before coming here to give this treasure to you. But as I was going to your office, this doctor who obviously relies on your influence, deliberately hit me and insisted that I hit him and then asked me to apologize to him. I don't really care that he bullied me, but what if he broke the antique that I was going to give to you? It would be unforgivable!"

As he spoke, Cyclops took the antique out of the protection box while muttering to himself, "Humph! You useless doctor! When Mr. Midnight accepts my present, I will definitely teach you a good lesson!"

Midnight was actually well aware of the dispute between Trevor and Cyclops, but he didn't want to interfere.

Midnight knew how to keep his ideas cool and made a distinction between the treatment of his illness and the collection of antiques. He ignored what Cyclops was saying and just stared at the antique.

Although Cyclops twisted the truth, he didn't lie that the antique before him was indeed very rare and exquisite. It was an ancient, well-preserved half-moon jade, which was as ancient as a curio should be.

Midnight looked at the antique carefully with a big smile on his face.

Seeing his master smile, Cyclops slightly bent down and said in a flattering voice, "This ancient jade is very rare. In some places, it represents luck. I'm sure everything will be well for you if you accept it!"

Seeing Midnight's smile widen, Cyclops immediately turned his head and scoffed at Trevor, "I guess this doctor has a new outlook on life after seeing such a good treasure, right? Certainly he would never have had the chance to see such a precious thing in his life!"

As he spoke, he winked provocatively at Trevor.

Trevor originally didn't care about Cyclops' gift, but seeing Cyclops provoking him like that, he was curious to see what rare treasure Cyclops had brought.

Seeing Trevor's grin, Cyclops snorted, "What are you laughing at? Are your useless medical skills comparable to this treasure?"

Trevor paid no attention to Cyclops' words. He observed the antique carefully and found that there was indeed nothing wrong with the ancient jade itself. The lines were exquisite and it was of good quality. But the problem was that the ancient jade was only half of the whole.

The rare jade antique was divided into two parts which were identical. Only once the two pieces were assembled together would the antique be complete!

After a while, Trevor said sarcastically, "My medical skills definitely could not hold a candle to this rare ancient jade. But I have been lucky enough to see it once before. It's called Full-moon Jade. So it turns out you've bought it!"

Cyclops didn't understand what Trevor was trying to do. Thinking Trevor was praising him, he raised his head and said with disdain, "That's right. How can a useless doctor like you compare with me in terms of wealth?"

Trevor sneered and continued, "But if my memory is correct, it is said that the Full-moon Jade should never be separated. Why did you only bring half of it today? Where's the other half?"

Midnight understood what Trevor meant and his face darkened instantly. With sharp eyes, he glared at Cyclops and snapped, "So you try to fool me with half of the antique! Do you think there's any antique I don't know about?"
