

Chapter 1772 Trevor's Advice

After observing the exchange between Collen and Jeanette, Trevor decided to ignore them and headed straight to Mateo's office.

The moment Mateo saw Trevor, he pulled out a chair and invited him to sit.

Trevor wasted no time and asked directly, "How is the plan to make things difficult for Collen coming along?"

After several discussions, Trevor became more certain. "Tucker is likely still alive. We must find him! If Tucker knows I've returned to Zayden, he'll surely come after me!"

Since the moment Tucker betrayed Trevor, their enmity had become irreversible.

Traitors were despised everywhere.

Hesitation was evident on Mateo's face when he answered, "It's proving to be challenging. Although Collen is clueless and incompetent, he's still Tucker's grandson."

He paused before continuing, "Many senior executives support him, especially the chief financial officer of the company. It becomes difficult when he gets involved. I even suspect that he helped Collen embezzle the company's funds in the past."

Trevor's face remained serious as he recollected his impression of the chief financial officer.

He remembered that during his time at Severich company, the officer had discovered Collen's embezzlement of company funds.

Therefore, Trevor didn't believe the officer would protect Collen.

He was likely to follow the rules.

Having assessed Collen's current situation, Trevor advised Mateo, "If that's the case, don't directly confront Collen. Instead, focus on undermining his prestige within the group and reducing his allies, especially damaging his image in the company."

Though Mateo listened attentively, he still found the implementation challenging.

There was a somber look on his face as he cautiously replied, "Collen has been keeping a low profile recently and hasn't been involved in any misconduct. I'm afraid it will be difficult to deal with him."

Trevor smirked playfully and responded, "He may not be easy to deal with, but those around him might be. Take his girlfriend for instance."

Mateo was initially taken aback by Trevor's suggestion, but as the general manager, he was not unintelligent. A smile crept onto his face as he whispered to himself, "Jeanette, Collen's girlfriend, was fired from Severich company for falsifying accounts. Now she's working here and has maintained her careless and casual attitude. Yes! I suspect Jeanette must have helped Collen embezzle funds from the company!"

As the general manager, Mateo proved to be intelligent, and within a few minutes, he discovered evidence of Jeanette's wrongdoing.

Mateo hadn't been able to find a solution within the company for a long time.

Yet, Trevor managed to pinpoint the key point in just a few visits.

Trevor smiled but didn't say anything.

He knew he had a broader perspective than Mateo and wasn't concerned about becoming CEO or controlling the Singh Group.

His main goal was to force Tucker to reveal himself.

Trevor was well aware that Tucker, being a sly and cold-blooded individual, would only reveal himself when the control of the Singh Group was about to slip from his grasp.

Considering Tucker's disregard for his own grandson, Collen's life, Trevor knew that such ruthless people only cared about their own interests.

After thinking it through, Trevor turned to Mateo and stated, "Jeanette needs to face severe punishment. But make sure that you don't kick her out of the company."

Puzzled, Mateo scratched his head and asked, "Why not take this opportunity to fire her? What's the point of keeping her?"

Trevor smiled and further clarified his reasoning.

"Even if we fire her, it won't significantly impact Collen. But if we pretend to fire her and she doesn't leave, what will others think?"

He paused before continuing, "They will believe that Collen has gone to great lengths to protect his girlfriend from being fired. This will create dissatisfaction among those who respect the company rules. For example, the chief financial officer!"

Mateo's eyes widened in astonishment as he realized the brilliance of Trevor's strategy.

No wonder he can be a major shareholder; he is truly extraordinary!

Mateo's excitement grew, knowing that if Collen lost credibility, he would have a chance to become the president of the company.

Without wasting any time, Mateo immediately scheduled a high-level meeting and made sure to invite Jeanette to attend.
