

Chapter 1774 Collen's Choice

Trevor was unfazed. He spread out his hands and said calmly, "Don't talk nonsense if you don't have any evidence. Plus, you've been stealing from the company's coffers for far too long. It's time for you to pay!"

In the face of Trevor's accusations, Jeanette was so angry that her face turned red and she almost broke into tears.

She nervously looked around the room, trying to find Collen.

Every time she falsified accounts to defraud company assets, it was under Collen's instruction.

And he always took the money.

But at such a critical moment, he was nowhere to be found.

Jeanette broke into a cold sweat. She was shaking all over and couldn't speak.

Her nervousness, however, spoke volumes. Now, the company's senior executives all realized that a mere employee had actually dared to defraud the company of a lot of money for a long time. They were furious to say the least.

"Why is she still in the company? Fire her and hand her over to the police," someone shouted angrily.

The chief financial officer was also seething. He clenched his fists and said angrily, "Hurry up and decide what punishment would be fitting for Jeanette's crime. But before anything, fire her! She shouldn't stay in the company for a day longer!"

Mateo was overjoyed with their reactions. However, he pretended to be embarrassed and said, "Although Jeanette's crime is unforgivable, it's really strange that an ordinary employee like her has the guts to do such a thing. I heard that she has a good relationship with Mr. Singh..."

As soon as he said that, the executives suddenly stopped shouting. They realized that Jeanette was in cahoots with Collen.

At this realization, they didn't berate her anymore and embarrassment was clearly visible on their faces.

The chief financial officer, on the other hand, remained calm and said with a cold snort, "She's just an ordinary employee. Forget about Mr. Singh! I don't think he will show her any mercy if he knows about this. Tucker is long gone, and his grandson, Collen, has become much more business savvy. I'm sure he will do what needs to be done in such a situation, and won't cover up a simple employee after she had done such a thing."

At this moment, Collen, who had just got the news, suddenly pushed the door open and walked in.

Mateo had deliberately informed Collen a little late, so that the situation would be like this.

When Jeanette saw Collen, she immediately felt relieved. She looked as if she had seen a savior. She complained with tears in her eyes, "Collen! Someone in the company wants to hurt me!

He fabricated fake evidence to ruin my reputation and get me kicked out of the company. Can you imagine that he accused me of stealing the company's property? Now they are going to fire me!"

With a slight smile on his face, Trevor looked at the newly arrived Collen, as if watching a movie. He had no intention of accusing him in public now.

The chief financial officer turned to Collen and said seriously, "Mateo said that this woman has some connections with you. Now that you are here, you can fire her in person! Prove your courage."

The cold tone in his words was like an order.

After all, he knew the bad things Collen had done before.

As many, the CFO believed that Collen had grown and became a new person.

However, the CFO was still a little wary of Collen, which was the reason why he was cold towards Collen.

Trevor looked at the two men with a playful expression. He was curious to see how Collen would deal with the situation.

Collen seemed to be in a daze. He hadn't expected to be hit by so much information as soon as he arrived.

He swallowed and looked at the tearful Jeanette who had nestled in his arms.

Could he fire her?

That was impossible!

With a serious look on his face, Collen fell into deep thought.

The thing was, not only did he embezzle the company's money to hire gangsters to do his bidding, but he also personally took a lot of money. At present, he had not yet been able to pay back.

If he fired Jeanette now, it would just be a matter of time before all the fake accounts were discovered.

At that time, when the shareholders would discover that he had embezzled so much money from the company, they would surely call the police.

Collen quickly made up his mind to keep Jeanette in the company.

Having made up his mind, Collen said firmly, "No! I object to firing Jeanette!"

The chief financial officer was stunned.

He never thought Collen would cover for Jeanette even when there was so much evidence against her.

The senior executives all looked nervous and upset with Collen's decision.

On the other hand, Jeanette looked at Collen affectionately.

She considered Collen's decision not to fire her as proof that he loved her the most. So, she decided that once this matter was over, she would show him her gratitude.
