

Chapter 1783 Let Me Also Make A Call

Although Jonah came alone to the orphanage, he was still overconfident and shouted, "You old asshole! Get the hell out of here now!"

Just then, Trevor also arrived at the orphanage.

He was stunned to see Jonah there at first, then he realized that Jonah was here to make trouble again.

Thinking of that, Trevor smiled and stared at Jonah silently.

Jonah suddenly turned his head subconsciously and he saw Trevor who was smiling at him. The playful expression on Trevor's face made Jonah angrier.

He remembered how Trevor had insulted and humiliated him last time.

As those memories came back to his mind, Jonah's face became ferocious.

He murmured under his breath, "You won't ever bully me again. I have a bone to pick with you today! Raven! No matter what, I will make sure you go to jail today!"

While murmuring, Jonah looked at Trevor defiantly. Then, he shouted at the director of the orphanage, "Old bastard, either you comply with the demands of the Singh Group and accept the demolition of this establishment, or I'll teach you a lesson today! The choice is yours to make!"

Hearing that Trevor sneered, "Really? I'm curious to see what makes you so confident!"

Trevor's mockery didn't irritate Jonah at all. Instead, he grinned and suddenly rushed to Trevor.

Reflexively, Trevor raised his fists in a defensive stance. At the same time, he pondered.

He knew what a coward Jonah was. Besides, Jonah knew clearly that he was no match for Trevor. So, what on earth was Jonah thinking by rushing over to attack him alone?

Though confused, Trevor still slapped Jonah, making him fall to the ground.

Trevor looked at the man lying on the ground and questioned calmly, "Is this some sort of trick?"

Strangely enough, Jonah was very calm even though he had just been knocked to the ground. In fact, he even laughed loudly and shouted, "Ha ha! Raven, you're doomed! I have clear evidence that you hit me! I will call the cops on you!"

Looking at the weird man, the old director frowned and wondered why Jonah was so strange.

Trevor was also confused.

What the hell was wrong with Jonah's brain? Did Jonah really expect to scare him with such tactics?

Trevor stared at the man on the ground for a while, wondering why he was so confident.

While everyone was staring at him and wondering what was wrong with him, Jonah, who was still lying on the ground, burst into laughter.

Then, he took out his phone and called the cops. As soon as the phone was connected, he complained in a bitter voice, "Sir, someone just beat me at the orphanage. Please come help me!"

Then, he hung up the phone.

Before coming here, Jonah had already discussed with his cop friend about what to do.

According to their plan, the moment Trevor dared to make a move in the orphanage, the cops would immediately rush over and arrest not only Trevor, but also the director, and everyone else present in the orphanage.

With this tactic, there would be no one stopping the Singh Group amusement park construction project anymore.

Once everything was settled, Jonah could also join the Singh Group.

All he needed to do was to win Tucker's respect and he would become a famous man in Zayden.

Jonah was very excited thinking about everything he was going to gain and he shouted, "You are all doomed today! Once the cops are here, you'll go to jail. If you accept the demolition of the orphanage now, I could let you go!"

Hearing that, Trevor sneered. He was suddenly illuminated.

So that was what Jonah was up to!

Alas, Jonah was really naive to think such a method could work.

Staring at the man on the ground with disdain, Trevor sneered and said calmly, "In that case, I'll also make a call."

With a smile on his face, Trevor took out his phone and called Ernest.

"Ernest, I think you have corrupt cops in your ranks. They are going to interfere in the demolition of the orphanage."

Upon hearing Trevor's words, Ernest's face darkened. He said in a low voice, "I'm sorry, Raven. Any police force always has bad apples which are the shame of the profession and tarnish the image of the police. I'll personally deal with them."

Jonah, who was still on the ground, looked at Trevor and jeered at him.

"Hey, do you think it's of any use to put on an act now? You think you can fight the police too? You're really a big joker..."
