

Chapter 1813 Take Action

Day two arrived, and Green Bat returned to Trevor, his body marred by wounds.

A fiery anger burned in his eyes. Once he laid eyes on Trevor, he spat out his resentment.

"Raven! Cheetah and Bear have lost their minds! How could they dare to launch a joint assault on me? This time, they cast aside their disguises, revealing their intent to end my life! If I hadn't sprinted away, I'd be no more."

Trevor's face feigned surprise, his voice tinged with concern.

"Buddy, are you okay? I have no idea about it at all! It must have been those two deciding without my knowledge."

Trevor continued, weaving a narrative, "Perhaps they've grown suspicious of my connection with you. This is bad!"

Green Bat paid no heed, dismissing Trevor's words with a cold snort. In a voice laced with determination, he declared, "I care little for the details. With Cheetah and Bear resolved to end my life, I cannot idly await my demise. At worst, a fight to the death awaits. You must free White Monkey swiftly. Tonight, I shall bring them down. Let's attack them first!"

Trevor feigned assurance, telling him, "Don't worry! I'll ask the mayor to release him!"

But he was not in a hurry at all.

The holdings possessed by Green Bat were not going to be relinquished without resistance.

Unless he was desperately willing to relinquish his shares to secure his life.

Having conferred with Trevor, Green Bat departed urgently, simmering with anger.

At that moment, Cheetah reached out to him, and with a sense of pride, he conveyed his message to Trevor.

"Mr. Sanderson, Green Bat sustained severe injuries from our covert strike. It is likely he will soon find himself in dire straits. This could be the opportune moment to coerce him into surrendering his shares!"

Trevor had already been apprised of this development. He commended with a hint of indifference, "Well done! Keep going!"

Cheetah's spirits soared. Since his earlier reprimand from Trevor, he had yearned for recognition from him.

Pausing in thought, he continued to divulge, "Moreover, Ruben and his son have recently initiated actions. They've established contact with Newmere Cosmetics in Dreles. Feigning the return of the Sanderson family's eldest son, Ruben and his son want to lure Luisa to Zayden. As for their intentions, I remain uncertain. Evidently, these two imbeciles remain unaware of Luisa's demise."

The news of Luisa's fate caused a fleeting frown to grace Trevor's countenance.

Lenard! Ruben! These two scoundrels dared to involve Luisa.

Veiling his disquiet with a veneer of calm, Trevor inquired nonchalantly, "When did this happen?"

Cheetah replied casually, "Yesterday."

Upon hearing the news, Trevor ended the call.

Ruben and Lenard had the potential to thwart his plan. It seemed he needed to conclude the battle swiftly.

If Luisa reached Zayden, news of her survival would undoubtedly spread to Mobius, putting her in jeopardy.

His only recourse was to eliminate all Mobius members in Zayden as soon as possible.

Considering the recent state of Green Bat, Trevor swiftly resolved to take action tonight.