

Chapter 1816 Win Luisa Over And Uncover Raven's Identity

Trevor's worry deepened.

Lenard... His intentions were indeed unthinkable.

However, now was not the time to reveal his identity. With that, he made his way to Lenard.

Upon seeing Trevor, Lenard greeted, "Raven, what are you doing at the airport? Are you here to board a plane or pick up a friend?"

He studied Trevor's reaction to figure out why he had come here.

However, Trevor did not show any respect and let out a cold snort.

"What? Do I owe you an explanation? Humph! Stay out of Mobius 'business.'"

Lenard's face reddened with anger, but he held himself back from lashing out.

Just then, Collen approached, his eyes alight with anticipation.

He figured he needed a lot of money to rebuild the Singh Group. Last time, he had sold Lenard a fake antique to earn money and return the money to the bank.

If he wanted to make more money next time, he had to make up with Lenard.

Knowing that Lenard would be coming to the airport to welcome a beautiful lady, he brought him a gift.

Upon spotting Trevor, Collen's underlying resentment boiled over.

"Well, well, well. You've sold the Singh Group shares, but you're driving that shabby car? Is that second-hand?"

He then gestured to Lenard's vehicle, and added, "Look at Lennon's luxury car. That's the latest Aston Martin. Do you even call your car a car?"

Lenard, despite his mixed feelings about Collen, could not help but bask in the praise. "You have good taste."

Trevor paid no attention to the stupid remarks of the two and, with hands in pockets, patiently waited for the plane's arrival.

Meanwhile, Collen still mulled over his suspicion that Raven was Trevor.

He leaned over to Lenard and whispered, "Listen. Luisa is the fiancée of Trevor, the eldest son of the Sanderson family. If Raven is Trevor, he'll be livid when he sees you with her."

However, having learned his lesson not to trust Collen, Lenard shook his head and disagreed. "Didn't you try to sound out the truth last time? Raven knows nothing about antiques. He can't be Trevor."

"People make mistakes," Collen reasoned.

"Besides, Trevor is not a professional. It's normal for him to make mistakes. To think, Luisa is his fiancée. No man can stand by and watch his fiancée taken by another."

After pondering for a moment, Lenard nodded in agreement. "You're right. And once I marry Luisa and become the young master of the Sanderson family, I'll help you rebuild the Singh Group."

Though Collen did not quite believe him and felt disdain toward Lenard, he thanked him nevertheless.

"Thank you, Lenard. I wish you get your lady back soon!"

Invigorated by the conversation, with the flowers in his hand, Lenard urged with a sense of pride, "Come on. Today, I won't only win Luisa over but also uncover Raven's true identity!"

You've got a private message!

GO NOW