

Chapter 1821 Pay The Bill

Lenard was so scared he broke out in a cold sweat.

Trevor's cold gaze made him panic and he even wanted to slap himself.

Why did he have to brag just now? At this time, Lenard was very regretful. What explanation could he give now?

Seeing that Lenard wasn't speaking, Trevor leaned forward and asked coldly, "I'm waiting! Or won't you answer my question? Are you helping Trevor to hide?"

Lenard was so freaked out his back was drenched in sweat. He quickly shook his head and waved his hand.

"No! I don't know him at all!" Lenard shouted.

Hearing that, Luisa rolled her eyes and asked in a cold voice, "You just said you and Trevor have a good relationship! Trevor and you are both members of the Sanderson family, but now that he is in trouble, you just stand by and do nothing?"

Lenard didn't know what to say. He was so helpless now.

He was in a dilemma. If he insisted that he wasn't friends with Trevor, he would come across as mean and leave a bad impression on Luisa. In that case, it would be almost impossible for him to have a chance to pursue her.

If on the other hand, he said that he had a good relationship with Trevor, he would immediately put himself in the crosshairs of Mobius. That might make him lose his position as the young master of the Sanderson family.

Damn it! How did he find himself in such goddamn situation all of a sudden? Fuck!

Lenard was so nervous he was trembling all over. When he finally came to his senses, he said vaguely, "Well, the whole thing is very complicated. I can't explain it clearly. I can't help him now although I want to."

Hearing that, Trevor smiled playfully and cast a knowing glance at Lenard.

Lenard felt uneasy being stared by someone from Mobius.

He knew very well that it was not easy to fool the people of Mobius.

Feeling nervous, Lenard looked down at the food on the table. At this time, he had lost all appetite and even all these delicious dishes seemed tasteless to him.

On the other side, Trevor and Luisa were very calm, and they enjoyed the delicious food.

Soon, it was time to pay the bill.

Trevor and Luisa looked at Lenard calmly. After all, he had said that their dinner was on him.

Lenard took over the bill and looked at the amount on it. When he saw how much the whole dinner cost, his expression changed and he looked pitiful.

The meal was so expensive, yet he hadn't eaten much.

Normally, Lenard wouldn't feel bad about having to pay the bill, even if it was so expensive. However, a few days ago, he bought a fake antique from Collen at a high price, which had seriously hurt his pockets.

Lenard looked at Luisa with mixed feelings. On the one hand, he didn't want to pay the bill, but on the other hand, he didn't want to ruin his image. He had to come up with a way to deal with the problem.

After thinking for a while, Lenard suddenly realized that this restaurant belonged to the Sanderson family.

Thinking of this, a bright smile appeared on his face and he decided to show off in front of Luisa. After all, wasn't he the young master of the Sanderson family? He didn't need to pay the bill.

Lenard proudly straightened his collar and said to the waitress, "I'm the young master of the Sanderson family, Lenard! I shouldn't have to pay to eat here."

Hearing that, Trevor raised a brow and said seriously, "Really? From what I know, only the direct line members and the shareholders of the Sanderson Group don't have to pay to eat here. The collateral members only enjoy a discount, right?"

Lenard had no idea he was neither. He truly considered himself the young master of the Sanderson family and said confidently, "Of course I am a direct descendant of the Sanderson family. I am the young master of the Sanderson family now!"

Hearing that, Trevor smiled playfully.

"Oh... Really?" he said teasingly.

The waitress, meanwhile, had checked the list of those eligible to eat here freely. After going through the list, she smiled and said, "Sir, your name is not on the list of people with lifetime free service at our restaurant. Please pay the bill as usual."

Lenard's eyes widened in surprise upon hearing that, and his face turned red. He was angry and said anxiously, "How could this be? I am the young master of the Sanderson family! Who else but me is most eligible to have a free pass here?"

Recommended for you