

Chapter 1826 I Have Proof

This time, Lawson vehemently disputed Collen's claim. He yelled, "We've inspected the surroundings thoroughly. Everything's in order! Stop these false alerts!"

With that outburst, Lawson gestured dismissively, ready to depart. He commanded, "Everyone, regroup! Draw back!"

Collen, observing Lawson's sudden shift in demeanor, was taken aback. Puzzled, he mused internally.

Lawson's demeanor was always professional. Why did he suddenly appear distant after his private conversation with Raven?

Did he really get the benefit from Raven?

Suddenly, Luisa interjected, pointing accusingly at Collen.

"Mr. Ramos, hold on! This person is fabricating tales with malicious intent. He's plotting to leverage you to extort us! If you don't take measures, he will definitely do it again!"

Flustered, Collen's face flushed with rage. He countered, "Hold your baseless accusations if you have no proof! I had no intention of reporting anyone wrongly. You're the ones disturbing my peace!"

With a smirk, Luisa confidently retorted, "Of course I have the proof."

Hearing that, Trevor was also interested. He asked in a low voice, "Really?"

Luisa's response was silent but impactful. She unveiled her phone and played a video.

The footage clearly showed Collen, coercing and demanding money. His voice was unmistakably identifiable!

Luisa had cleverly documented the entire ordeal on her phone!

Amused, Trevor clapped with genuine admiration and said, "Always one step ahead, aren't you?"

Distraught, Collen trembled. He was completely desperate, he blurted out a denial.

"That isn't me! Where did you dig up this video just to frame me?"

Lawson brushed aside Collen's feeble attempts at justification. His patience had already worn thin due to Collen's antics against Trevor.

Armed with indisputable proof, he sharply retorted, "We can see clearly on the video that you're up to no good! You tried to exploit us for your own gain! Do you even have a shred of explanation?"

Rendered speechless, Collen crumpled to the ground, consumed by hopelessness.

Without hesitation, Lawson dialed the local authorities.

"We've got a false alarm at the orphanage, likely with ulterior motives of extortion. Kindly address this matter urgently!"

The police were swift in their response. Within moments, two police cars arrived, and officers escorted Collen away.

Inside the car, the weight of his actions hit Collen hard. Tears eluded him as he buried his face in his hands, grappling with a grim reality.

Could he face confinement after already losing family and fortune? Was there any purpose left to his existence?

Lawson also left.

The construction crew, buoyed by the day's events, shared a hearty laugh before resuming their duties.

Both the director and Cordell were overwhelmed with emotion, eyes glistening with gratitude.

Their dreams for the children's shelter remained intact, all thanks to Trevor!

The two of them expressed their gratitude to Trevor and Luisa sincerely.

"If everything progresses smoothly, our dream will soon be realized! We'd be honored to have you both revisit!"

Trevor and Luisa agreed happily. They all respected this old man who had been dedicated to raising orphans all his life!

Gazing at the bustling construction site, Trevor captured the moment with a photo, updating Esteban, "The orphanage will complete renovation soon. You will have a new home at once!"

On the other side.

Elsewhere, Esteban's spirits soared as he read Trevor's message. Overflowing with gratitude, he replied, "Thank you very much! I've officially joined the Wolf faction. A few days ago, I was approached by Patrice and Prescott. Plans are in motion for a collaborative effort. I believe our mates will soon be fully integrated into the faction."

Trevor smiled and looked into the distance, thinking.

It seemed that the time to overturn the Wolf faction was coming!

Suddenly, a thought struck Luisa. She turned to Trevor, murmuring, "Just remembered, my brother is set to visit Zayden soon."
