

Chapter 1831 Pull The Plug

Trevor had no choice but to change the direction and instead headed to the orphanage's construction site with Balfour.

At this time, the structure of the orphanage was established, but it still needed a lot of time to be fully built.

The director recognized Trevor's car from a distance. He came out to welcome him and greeted them warmly.

"Raven, did you bring your friends here to see the place? The place is almost finished. You're welcome to visit us often."

Seeing the director's joyful expression, Trevor figured that the reconstruction of the orphanage was one of his wishes. He nodded happily and said, "Yes, I brought some friends over. This one's keen on the whole thing."

Balfour, looking slightly out of place, nodded with an awkward smile.

Just then, Lenard pulled up. He had been tailing them the whole time.

Seeing that Trevor actually stopped at the orphanage, Lenard jumped out and snapped with frustration, "Balfour has just arrived at Zayden. Why did you drag him and Luisa to an orphanage? My offer still stands, and it's better than this. They shouldn't waste their time here!"

However, Trevor and Luisa merely ignored him.

As the two did not pay Lenard attention, Balfour turned to the director and asked, "Sir, did Raven help renovate the orphanage?"

The director nodded at once.

"Without Raven, I doubt our orphanage would still be here."

"Raven's out here doing good. I could tell he's a good man!" Luisa chimed in.

"Stop being so suspicious of his kindness. What I appreciate most are kind and generous people like him."

As she spoke, her voice was a notch louder for effect.

Lenard heard it loud and clear.

Her appreciation for Trevor made him even more uneasy.

At this moment, Lenard's eyes widened in anger, and he was on the verge of losing his temper.

Why would she say that? Was there anyone in Mobious who was actually kind?

Not wanting to air the group's dirty laundry, he kept that thought to himself. As he tried so hard to hold back his words, his face turned red, and he looked like he had swallowed a lemon.

Since Luisa seemed to like the orphanage, he piped up, "Luisa, the Sandersons is one of the sponsors of this orphanage and have provided a lot of help for years. Maybe we have even funded its reconstruction."

Luisa's gaze flicked to Trevor, who merely smiled and shook his head.

With a knowing smile, she turned to the director and asked straight to the point, "Is what Lenard said true?"

The director shook his head and sighed.

"When things got tough, the Sandersons cut off their financial support. I heard that Collen had a hand in it. It was Raven who bailed us out. Without him, we wouldn't have survived."

Luisa shot a scornful look at Lenard.

Embarrassed, Lenard opened his mouth to blow his top, but Trevor suddenly asked him, "I've seen you with Collen. Did you get him to pull the plug?"

Livid, Lenard's face turned red. He clenched his fists and defensively said, "I had no idea!"