

Chapter 1837 A Fair Competition

Afraid Sinclair would refuse, Ruben hurriedly said, "I'll give the gym to you as commission."

Sinclair nodded.

He came here to have the gym anyway because it had sentimental value.

Trevor snorted.

"Don't forget about the assets pledged by Severich, Mr. Sanderson. You have to admit defeat and transfer its ownership to me now."

Despite his disinclination, Ruben couldn't go against Trevor's wishes, knowing that even the most powerful man in Zayden couldn't win against the latter.

Having no choice, he signed his name on the contract and handed it to Trevor.

Trevor took it and sneered, "In the end, you still had to give me this. You would have avoided all this trouble if you only handed it to me in the beginning."

Clenching his jaw, Ruben lowered his head and remained silent.

He was so mad that his face contorted into a hideous grimace.

Trevor won.

The happiest about this result was Balfour. Watching Trevor take the signed contract felt like watching his love life blossom before his eyes.

Balfour couldn't help but praise Trevor, "That was impressive. I bet Luisa will be happy to know you helped acquire Severich. You'll surely catch her attention this time."

Lenard heard this and felt uneasy.

Why did Balfour mention Luisa?

He walked over to Balfour and asked, "What does the acquisition of Severich have to do with Luisa?"

Balfour glanced at him and casually said, "Newmere Cosmetics and Severich are partner companies. Now that Severich is closing down, Luisa wants to acquire it. With Raven's help, the company will now be under Luisa's name. He's pretty smart."

Lenard didn't like the implications of this and hurriedly whispered to his father for help, "Dad, do something. If things go on like this, Raven might take Luisa away from me. You've got to help me!"

Ruben grimaced. After a moment of contemplation, he said, "With its assets back, Severich can now continue their operation. Anyone capable and willing can acquire it, but it must be under a fair competition."

Balfour snorted, "Are you saying you also want to take over Severich now?"

Lenard tried to pacify Balfour by saying, "Don't worry, Balfour. It's for Luisa. I just want to help her, too."

Though it didn't show in his face, Balfour was inwardly pissed off with Lenard.

If Lenard acquired Severich and not Trevor, what would happen to Balfour's plan to get close to Sheena? Without Trevor's help, his love life would end before it could even start.

But this was something Balfour couldn't voice out to make his case, so he held himself back and just glared at Lenard.

Trevor sneered, "Fair competition? Alright. Just make sure you'd play fairly."

Trevor left with Balfour after that exchange, leaving only Lenard, Ruben and Sinclair in the house.

Sinclair could tell Trevor was concealing his real identity, so he rode along and said nothing. After all, he was only there to take over the gym previously owned by Stephenson, the deputy leader of Shadow Guards.

After Trevor left, Ruben reminded Lenard sternly, "You must get Severich, or you'll lose Luisa."

Lenard no longer seemed worried and said, "Don't worry, Dad. I have eighty million left. I'm sure I will win the acquisition and Luisa's heart!"

Upon hearing the conversation between the two, Sinclair's face hardened.

< Chapter 1837 A Fair Competition

+120 Points at most

Ruben and Lenard were so into the conversation that they didn't notice Sinclair's reaction.

Recommended for you