

Chapter 1863 The Assassin Is Here!

It was only once the doctor had apologized that Trevor's expression softened.

He stopped arguing with the doctor.

When Trevor turned around, his phone suddenly fell to the floor.

Jasmine picked it up and handed it back to Trevor.

Trevor glanced at his bloodstained hands and said with a hint of embarrassment in his voice, "Please hold it for the time being. I haven't taken off my surgical gloves yet. Besides, we have to talk later. I need your help to handle something."

Jasmine nodded with a smile. Since Trevor had just saved her colleague's life, she felt much better. She replied in a relaxed tone, "Okay, I'll be waiting!"

When Trevor was gone to clean up, his phone suddenly rang.

Jasmine looked at the caller ID and hesitated whether to answer. Ultimately, she decided not to answer the phone.

The phone eventually stopped ringing.

But soon, the phone rang again. Jasmine thought for a while and finally answered it.

She wanted to tell the person that Trevor was not around.

However, before she could say anything, Balfour's nervous voice came from the other end of the phone.

"Raven! Where are you? Someone is coming to cause trouble here! Come back now! I need your help!"

There was not only Balfour's cry for help that echoed from the other end of the phone, but also the sound of smashing objects.

Jasmine remembered that Trevor found her through her cell phone ringing. So she guessed that the person who called for help might also be in the hospital!

After thinking for a while, she took a few steps forward. As expected, she heard the sound of smashing objects. It was from another ward on the same floor!

Jasmine hurried to help.

Meanwhile, in Luisa's ward.

Lenard had sent an assassin to kill Trevor. After destroying everything in the ward and also beating Balfour up, the hitman asked coldly, "Tell me, where is Raven? Let him come here now! If he doesn't come here right away, you two will all die!"

Balfour was beaten black and blue and his mouth was full of blood. Despite that, he didn't show any sign of fear. He stood in front of Luisa's bed and said firmly, "I don't know!"

Seeing that Balfour didn't cooperate, the assassin grinned viciously. The next second, he punched and kicked Balfour more fiercely.

Jasmine had finally arrived to the ward and seeing the scene, she shouted, "Stop! How dare you attack someone in a hospital?"

The assassin stopped for a while and turned back. Seeing that it was a woman who stopped him, he said with disdain, "I don't want to hit him, either. I have just been tasked with capturing Raven. Unfortunately for this fool, he doesn't want to tell me where Raven is. He's making things difficult for me and for him too. I advise you to mind your own business, or you might regret it. Unless you know where Raven is..."

Looking at the assassin with contempt, Jasmine immediately took out her military ID card and said angrily, "Do you really think you can scare me? Take a look at this and now reconsider how you talk to me! I advise you to surrender!"

Although Jasmine showed the assassin her military ID, he didn't take her seriously at all. Instead, he laughed loudly.

"Do you think I'll be scared of you since you have a fake military ID? Who will believe someone like you is from the army? Do you really think you can fool me? If you are a colonel as it is written on the ID, then I am a general!"

The assassin's eyes suddenly changed and he stepped forward threateningly.

"Now fuck off! If you continue to interfere with what's going on here, I'll teach you a lesson!"

Upon hearing the man's threat, Jasmine's face darkened.

She knew she wasn't strong enough to fight this man, so she could only stall for time while waiting for Trevor to come back.

However, she didn't retreat at all. Instead, she said firmly, "I'm going nowhere!"
