

Chapter 1865 A Villa In The Suburb

Trevor followed the assassin to the destination.

When the assassin stopped in front of a house, Trevor immediately recognized it as Lenard's suburban villa.

The villa was nowhere near as large as the Sanderson family's house, and it was also much more secluded.

Additionally, Lenard's villa was heavily guarded. There were guards every ten steps, all patrolling with guns in their hands.

This could be Lenard's ultimate stronghold.

Trevor entered the villa and when he walked into the main hall he saw Lenard. Glaring at Lenard, Trevor asked coldly, "Did you ask Collen to harm Luisa? You even had him drug her! Even if I kill you ten thousand times, it would still not be a punishment worthy of your crime!"

At that point, the assassin held Trevor at gunpoint. Seeing this, Leonard couldn't help but be happy.

With a wicked grin, he looked straight at Trevor and admitted casually, "Yeah, I did all that! Raven, you have to know that there are some people in Zayden that you can't afford to offend. Luisa will be mine sooner or later. I asked Collen to drug and bring her for me to have some fun with her. Unfortunately, you wouldn't live to see it. You will die here today!"

Lenard's words infuriated Trevor. He wanted to kill Lenard then and there. Trevor's cold and domineering aura filled the main hall. Glaring at Lenard, Trevor said coldly, "You are the only one who will die today!"

His voice was grave and solemn, as if he was announcing Lenard's fate.

Of course, Lenard didn't take it seriously at all. He looked at Trevor who was still held at gunpoint and laughed,

"Raven, I can't believe that even you also make mistakes. I thought you could win every time.

But no matter how powerful you are, you can do nothing now. The hidden assassin has his gun pointed at you.

By the way, I specially reminded him to take his guns with him before going to find you.

Turns out I did a good job of reminding him!"

At the mention of hidden assassin, Trevor sneered in his heart.

He found it so ridiculous. The Hidden Assassins was just a subsidiary organization of Mobius. Did Lenard really think Hidden Assassins could kill him? It was so ridiculous!

With a cold snort, Trevor turned his head away and ignored Lenard.

Lenard suddenly pulled out a pistol and pressed it against Trevor's forehead. He needed to vent his anger accumulated over the past few days.

"Raven, why are you not arrogant now? I will kill you today! It's your fault! You shouldn't have kept opposing me over and over again. I've endured your provocation for too long. Now, I won't have to endure it anymore. You know, I initially thought you were Trevor. I have tested you several times to discover your true identity, but the result were never conclusive. But it doesn't matter anymore now. My goal is to kill you! Once you're dead, no one else will be able to compete with me for Luisa's heart. I will have sex with her at will at that time."

As Lenard spoke, he couldn't help licking his lips and an evil smile tugged at the corner of his lips.

He had been fantasizing about Luisa's body for a long time.

Lenard was so engrossed in his fantasies that he didn't notice that he was in danger.

Trevor looked around with a sneer. After having completed his task which was to take him back, the assassin had relaxed his vigilance.

Neither Balfour, Luisa nor Jasmine were here. So, there was no one who Lenard could use to threaten him.

That meant Trevor could fight back at any time.

He could make Lenard pay for everything!