

Chapter 1872 Fearless

Beth was fuming. She judged that the prestige of the Wright family would be enough to subdue the two brazen people before her.

"You just run a small company and you are so arrogant? I am from the Wright family. You can't afford to offend me! If you are smart enough, you'd apologize to me right away and hurry to save my daughter!"

Luisa had had enough of Beth's arrogance. Just when she was about to retort, Lennon rushed into the ward.

He happened to hear Beth insulting Trevor, and he immediately scolded her.

"What nonsense are you talking about? Shut the hell up! I asked you to come find this highly skilled doctor to cure our daughter. How dare you scold them? Apologize to the doctor! Immediately!"

Pretending to be aggrieved, Beth covered her face and said reluctantly, "I'm sorry."

At this time, the hospital director, who had endured Beth for a long time, spoke up.

"Mr. Wright, you have come at the right time. I was kind enough to call this doctor to perform a second operation on Miss Wright. However, Mrs. Wright unexpectedly barged in and she not only offended this doctor, but also insulted our medical skills. I know that our hospital doesn't have the best doctors yet, so I specially came to ask for the help of a highly skilled practitioner. Such an operation must be performed by a skilled doctor."

Trevor didn't say anything. He wanted to see what Lennon would do.

Upon hearing what the hospital director said, Lennon frowned and raged at Beth.

"How can you be such a hypocrite? You don't care about your daughter's life, do you? Now, kneel down and apologize to the doctor!"

Hearing what her husband asked her to do, Beth was unhappy and retorted angrily, "Why? How can you ask me to apologize to a young man?"

Lennon couldn't hold back his anger anymore. He slapped Beth hard across the face.

The slap echoed throughout the ward.

Lennon roared, "Kneel down now! Don't make a fool of yourself. If anything happens to Nola, I'll personally kick you out of the Wright family."

Lennon's words were like a cold shower to Beth and made her take stock of her situation.

She wasn't a real member of the Wright family, but was an ordinary woman who happened to have married into a rich family. She could be expelled at any time.

Beth knew this, and she had no desire to give up the good life and high social status she enjoyed.

So, she gritted her teeth and knelt down in front of Trevor.

"Doctor, I'm sorry. Please save my daughter!"

Lennon also bowed to Trevor and said sincerely, "Doctor, my wife was thoughtless just now and she offended you. You can vent your anger on me. I just hope that you will still agree to save Nola. She is innocent!"

The director nodded and pleaded with Trevor, "Mr. Wright is really anxious. Please save Miss Wright."

Trevor had always intended to treat Nola, but he was disgusted by Beth's attitude just now. However, now that Lennon and the hospital director begged him, he calmed down and nodded slightly.

"Okay, go prepare Nola for the operation," Trevor said at last.

Seeing that the matter was finally solved, Luisa breathed a sigh of relief. But she was even more dizzy now and supported her head with one hand.

Trevor was quick to notice Luisa's dizziness and he comforted her, "You need to have a good rest. I'll be back as soon as I'm done with the operation."

Beth stared at Luisa for a while, and she seemed to have figured out something. She wanted to say something, but held back.

Nola was taken to the operating room.

The operation was very successful. All she needed now was a good rest and she could recover quickly.

Now that her daughter was out of danger, Beth began to make trouble again. She walked up to Trevor and asked, "Is the woman lying in that ward your girlfriend?"

Trevor was puzzled by the question, and somehow, he had the feeling Beth was up to something. He asked expressionlessly, "What's wrong?"

Beth smiled and said slowly, "Has she been drugged before she passed out? Did she complain of dizziness after she woke up?"

Trevor was utterly stunned.

As far as he knew, Beth knew nothing about medicine. How then could she know Luisa's symptoms?

Trevor felt it was very strange. He squinted at Beth and asked suspiciously, "How did you know that?"

Beth seemed to know something indeed. She said proudly, "You had me kneel down to you earlier, right? Now kneel down and beg me, and maybe I will tell you. If you don't do that, you can be sure you will regret it!"

Trevor's expression became serious and he asked in a low voice, "What do you mean? Why would I regret? Luisa just fainted once. She can recover after a good rest!"
