

Chapter 1880 A Strange Bodyguard

Upon seeing his reaction, Ewing's initial thought was that Trevor was afraid, causing a disdainful smile to appear on his face.

Because of that, he took the opportunity to boast about the bodyguard behind him and intimidate Trevor.

"Yes, I am a member of the Craig family." Ewing proudly lifted his chin.

"He's my bodyguard. Believe it or not, he's much more powerful than the special forces. I wouldn't go against me if I were you. Get out of my way, or else I'll make him beat you to a pulp!"

For a moment, Trevor glanced at Ewing's bodyguard. He was shocked when he saw him.

The bodyguard was wearing sunglasses and had a hooked nose. He stood motionless behind Ewing, most likely waiting for his orders.

Trevor frowned. He was confused.

The bodyguard was quite similar to the driver who attacked Nola.

Was he possibly the driver? But... Didn't Jasmine say that the driver committed suicide at the police station?

Ewing frowned and glared at Trevor.

"Hey, I'm talking to you. Are you leaving or not? If you give it to me, you can easily get fifty thousand dollars. Or else, I'll let my bodyguard beat you up!"

Unfortunately for Ewing, Trevor wasn't paying attention at all to him. He was still trying to guess the bodyguard's identity.

Because of that, Ewing became infuriated. He turned to the bodyguard and ordered, "Drive him away and make him go to economy class! Don't let him in before the plane lands!"

Noticing that a fight was about to escalate, the stewardess immediately went up to them. She looked worried as she turned to Ewing and said, "Mr. Craig, you're on the plane. Please don't beat him up here. Can't you handle the situation after you get off?"

Ewing, however, just glared at her.

"Mind your own business, you bitch!"

The stewardess knew that she couldn't afford to offend Ewing, so she just nervously stood aside.

Upon hearing Ewing's order, the bodyguard aggressively approached Trevor and was about to push him out.

That was when Trevor came to his senses and immediately stood up. Then, he exerted all his strength and pushed the bodyguard back.

It wasn't long before both of them tried to push each other back.

Unfortunately for the bodyguard, no matter how hard he tried to push Trevor back, he still wasn't able to move him an inch.

Trevor's eyes slightly widened in shock.

He didn't think an ordinary bodyguard of the Craig family could actually have such power. He was afraid of the possibility that he was even more powerful than the ordinary members of Mobius.

How could the Craig family have such strength?

Trevor furrowed his eyebrows and frowned.

He expended even more of his strength, causing the bodyguard to almost fall to the floor.

Suddenly, the bodyguard let out a loud roar and tried to push Trevor back again.

Ewing seemed to realize something when he saw what was happening.

"Stop!" he shouted. "Come back!"

Hearing that, the bodyguard immediately stopped what he was doing and stood behind Ewing.

Ewing pressed his lips into a thin line. Before he went back to economy class, he looked straight into Trevor's eyes.
