

Chapter 1892 The Attitude Of Begging

Connie stomped her foot in anger. How could it be that these people who had been on her side had suddenly turned against her?

She was on the verge of a breakdown when she suddenly recalled that Trevor had claimed to be a doctor.

Connie pointed at Trevor and said, "I don't have any medical skills, and there's an injured person here. Don't you care? You claimed to have medical skills. Save my boyfriend!"

Trevor was about to help Ewing with his injury, but Connie's imperative and arrogant tone disgusted him, causing him to withdraw his hand.

Connie arrogantly scolded him, saying, "Why are you still standing there doing nothing? Attend to him now. Don't you have medical skills? Do you know how lucky you are that you have a chance to save the young master of the Craig family? You would be paid handsomely if he was treated."

Trevor stared coldly at her and asked, "Is that how you beg? Let me make something clear to you. It was you who caused the car accident, and it's because of you that Ewing sustained these injuries. I am in no way obligated to help him. On the contrary, you would be in serious trouble if anything happened to him. It seems you are too dumb to figure this out and would rather yell commands at me. Who do you think you are?"

Connie's face darkened in anger. However, she knew if Trevor refused to help, Ewing might die.

She managed to restrain herself and said through gritted teeth, "What do you want me to do?"

Trevor shook his head and said, "You can't even be humble and ask for help to save your boyfriend's life. You really are not smart. Even a dog knows when to stand down."

However, Trevor took out a silver needle to stop the bleeding and relieve Ewing's pain, regardless of Connie's actions.

Luisa, who had been watching, said to Trevor, "You are kind-hearted and have good medical ethics. You are not like those who cause trouble yet do nothing to fix it. It's ridiculous how she gives orders without shame."

Connie didn't know how to react to Luisa's mockery of her. Angrily, she said, "Who do you think you are talking to? I'm better than you two. I'm the lady from the Archer family! Who are you? Just a couple of losers."

However, her friends paid her no heed. Instead, they all praised Trevor.

"I almost misunderstood you. You are a noble man. You didn't refuse to help the injured. Please save Mr. Craig!"

Seeing that no one was supporting her anymore, Connie hurriedly said, "What are you doing? I'm willing to back down to save Ewing because I care about him. I'm willing to compromise for his safety. This man claimed to be a doctor, yet no one here can confirm that. Who knows if the silver needle in his hand is used to save or harm people?"

Trevor, however, at this time, had stopped the bleeding and relieved the pain, and Ewing was beginning to regain consciousness.

He regained consciousness fully, turned to Connie, and glared at her.

Connie immediately got scared.

Would Ewing punish her now that he was awake?
