

Chapter 850 Being Disqualified

"Sir, Trevor and Cecelia should be punished severely or more people will think they can ignore the rules of the competition!" Reynolds said, as he persisted in his attempt to persuade Lachlan to disqualify Trevor and Cecelia from the contest.

With a cunning and satisfied expression on his face, he winked at Trevor.

He was quite confident in himself.

He thought that his reputation as a star player would make it easy for him to deal with Trevor and Cecelia.

Unfortunately for him, Trevor appeared completely unfazed by his provocation.

Lachlan didn't dare pay heed to Reynolds' one-sided explanation. He just nodded and said, "Okay, I see. I still need to listen to their side of the story."

The satisfied look on Reynolds' face vanished.

Anxiously, he said, "There's no need for that; they'll just tell lies anyway. Just disqualify them from the competition."

However, Lachlan ignored him and walked towards Trevor.

He glanced at Cecelia, who was still fuming, and asked politely, "What happened?"

With a smile, Trevor briefly narrated what had happened.

Understanding gradually dawned on Lachlan.

Trevor's words were logical and convincing compared to Reynolds' ramblings.

Seeing the scattered objects on the scene, such as smashed rackets and scattered tennis balls, Lachlan could picture what had happened earlier.

Most importantly, it was hard to believe that Cecelia, who was from a wealthy family and was educated, would get angry so easily.

It was more likely that she was provoked by Reynolds first.

Lachlan nodded thoughtfully as one more thing dawned on him.

He realized that Reynolds had called him only because he wanted to use him to deal with Trevor and Cecelia.

The fact that he was expected to win the competition made him want to disregard the rules and do whatever he pleased.

The National University Games sounded like a large-scale one, but in fact, it was not a completely serious competition. Therefore, to a certain extent, the players who were considered the possible champions had some influence.

However, Reynolds' using that influence to perpetrate evil was reckless.

"What do you want to do?" Lachlan asked, sneering.

Reynolds still believed he had the upper hand and that his being a star player would definitely make his words more believable to Lachlan.

Excitement was audible in his voice as he hurriedly said, "Ban them from the competition! They have exhibited such shameful and disgraceful behavior and, as such, should be suspended from the competition!"

Tatiana, who had been hiding by the court, smiled happily and said, "That's right. They have to be punished."

Those who still felt pain in the lower part of their bodies pretended to be indignant.

"They have to be suspended from the competition for the rest of their lives. And you should inform their school!"

They all sneered as though Trevor and Cecelia would cry for mercy.

The more Lachlan looked at them, the more disgusted he felt. He snorted and uttered, "Well, your school's rugby team attacked other competitors, and for that reason, you are disqualified and your school will be informed. In addition, in view of the fact that Reynolds and Tatiana are both star players, they will not be suspended from the competition. However, the committee will send a warning to your school. If this repeats itself again, you will be banned from the competition for life!"

Reynolds and his men were dumbfounded.

Their mouths hung wide open in surprise.

"What? Sir, you must be mistaken. It was Trevor and Cecelia who assaulted us."

"You can't disqualify us from the competition! My scholarship depends on me winning the championship!"

"No! You can't do this. I was a little impulsive. You don't have to report the incident to our school. My reputation will be ruined!"

For a moment, the sound of protest rang out; however, it soon turned to pleading as they begged for mercy, hoping to move Lachlan to withdraw his judgment.

A large group of tall, strong boys wailed loudly. If they were disqualified from the competition and their school was informed of the incident, they would be too ashamed to go back to school.

However, Lachlan just straightened his suit and left with a snort, leaving no room for negotiation.

Trevor and Cecelia smiled at each other as they turned and left the tennis court.

Reynolds watched their receding figures with hatred visible on his face. Gritting his teeth, he said, "Damn it! When I meet them in the competition, I will help you vent your anger and make sure they get nothing! I will make sure both of them lose face!"

 I want no ads >