Chapter 189: Robots Exhibition

Zi Yi never expected such a response from Lu Jingye. Her eyes revealed her inner joy.

She nodded and said, "Ok!"

Even so, the safety equipment she had to upgrade still had to be upgraded.

After the meal, Lu Jingye headed for the company.

Zi Yi was constantly scrolling through her tablet on the sofa.

Just then, her phone rang. It was a call from Senior Bai.

Over the phone, Senior Bai smiled as he asked, "Little friend, do you have time today?"

Zi Yi originally had no intentions to go out today. However, since Senior Bai had asked, she said, "Yes."

Senior bai said cheerfully, "Then make a trip to the Painting and Calligraphy Association. I'll bring you around to introduce you to a group of artists. Also, remember to bring your ID card with you. I'll get someone to record your information and you'll officially be a member of the association."

Zi Yi heard Senior Bai's joyful tone and the corner of her lips curved up. She agreed to his invitation and hung up the phone.

Immediately after she put aside the tablet and headed up the stairs.

When she came down with a backpack, the housekeeper was standing downstairs.

"Miss Zi, are you heading outside?"

"Yes."

When facing the housekeeper's smiling face, Zi Yi recalled something. "If I return late, I'll be going back to my villa at night. Also... if there are parcels delivered today, please help sign for them on my behalf."

"I understand." The housekeeper gave her a gentlemanly farewell. "I hope that Miss Zi will have a great day today."

Zi Yi headed out the gates and was just about to drive out her racing car, when the housekeeper following behind her said, "Miss Zi, it is the weekend and there is most likely a traffic jam in the city. Why don't you drive a sedan out?"

Everyone knows that encountering a traffic jam while driving a racing car in the city was stifling.

Zi Yi recalled the scene where she was in a traffic jam for two hours and nodded. She then remembered her previous decision of installing a pair of wings on her car.

“Housekeeper, please get someone to drive four racing cars to the racing club. They can directly hand the keys to the robot M.”

Afterwards, she informed the housekeeper where she had stored the keys.

“I understand, Miss Zi.”

The housekeeper had also passed her a key and handed her a sun hat. He said thoughtfully, “Miss Zi, the weather is hot outside. You can wear a hat when you go shopping.”

Even though Zi Yi felt that she had no need for the sun hat, she still took it and kept it in her backpack.

The Painting and Calligraphy Association was located in the North of the downtown area. Zi Yi had to pass through the entire downtown to get to her destination.

However, she encountered a traffic jam as soon as she reached the vicinity of the city.

Half an hour later, she decided to park her car in a parking lot and travel by foot.

After she parked the car and left the building, she saw a few people walk into walls or bump into someone else, as they looked at her appearance. She then finally understood the housekeeper’s kind intentions.

She placed the sun hat on her head and it immediately covered most of her face.

It was only then, did it block the line of sight of those peeping in her direction.

As she stepped into the crowd, she soon reached the central square.

There were many businesses holding events in the central square, with loud noises and music all around.

After she walked for a while, the conversation of two people to the side had aroused her interest. She slowed down her pace and eavesdropped.

“There’s a robot exhibition in the Commercial Building today. Shall we go check it out?”

“What’s there to check out? Instead of looking at our country’s robot exhibition, it would be better to look at the recording of the International Robot Competition.”

“Our country has advanced greatly in robotics these few years. In particular, under Professor Dou’s lead, there are many technologies that are comparable to a few other strong countries leading in the advancement of robots.”

“Are you still unaware of it?” The person suddenly lowered their voice. “Didn’t the competition stop halfway in the previous International Competition? I heard that someone reported that the team led by Professor Dou had stolen the core technology of Company Y in Country D.”

“But there’s no evidence!”

“Perhaps it was suppressed by Professor Dou’s family.”

The two of them walked further and further away as they conversed with each other.

However, Zi Yi stopped walking. She looked towards the two who had walked far away and thought for a moment.. She gave Senior Bai a call, informing him that she would be late before she headed towards Commercial Building A.
