Chapter 200: I Intend to Apply for The Philology Major

When Zi Yi received a call from the Admission Office, she had just finished testing out the racing car, on which she had installed wings.

The teacher's voice was particularly kind over the phone. "Student Zi, I wonder if you have decided on what major you would like to apply for?"

Zi Yi had already decided ages ago. "I intend to apply for the Philology[1] Major."

"Huh!" The other party was surprised. "Student Zi, are you sure?"

"Yes."

Before the admission teacher hung up the phone, she said, "In fact, there's still time for you to reconsider." After which, she hung up.

Zi Yi did not take it seriously and continued her car modifications.

Not long later, she received phone calls from various popular subjects in the Metropolis University. They all advised her to reconsider and at the same time, promoted their major.

In the end, even the higher-ups gave her a call and had her make a trip down to M.U, so that he could give her some advice on choosing a major.

Zi Yi thought about it for a second and agreed.

After arranging the date and time, Zi Yi went over to her bar.

She had got someone to tear down all decorations in the bar. When she walked in, it was basically empty, with only a single empty shelf there.

Zi Yi spoke to the robot by her side. "Start decorating the bar. A, you're responsible for the renovation process."

A Robot: "Yes, Master."

Zi Yi set up instructions in A Robot's main program and looked at the group of robots standing nearby. She thought for a moment and said, "I will design your gender and appearance. You can choose what you prefer from the database. However, some adjustments have to be made and in order to avoid trouble, only 50% of the original images can be used."

The group of robots appeared very happy and they even started to discuss with one another, in a very human-like behavior.

"I want to be a Loli."

"I want to be a stylish man."

"I want..."

Unknowingly, Zi Yi stayed in the bar until 9 p.m in the evening.

The current timing was the busiest hours for bars.

The other bars were all rowdy and yet, Zi Yi's bar was closed.

Over time, all sorts of rumors had spread around.

"This bar was originally operated by a young master from the Ouyang family. I heard that he gifted it to a woman not long ago."

"Young Master Ouyang is sure rich, to think he is willing to hand over such a profitable bar to a woman. Could it be that she is his ahem?"

"It has been closed for quite some time. I heard from people nearby that trucks of items are being delivered every day."

"The things that are delivered must be great."

The bar street was a place where rumors spread the fastest, as more and more people started talking about it. And so, the number of people who had bad intentions for the bar increased.

It was only after Zi Yi had just left the bar, that she suddenly received an alarm from the robots.

She pulled over and took out her tablet to connect to the surveillance camera inside the bar.

She saw several individuals sneaking behind the back door and trying to pry open the lock.

Zi Yi gave orders to the robots. "Let them enter."

The back door was soon unlocked. After they entered, they immediately headed for the wine cellar. One of the individuals said excitedly, "There must be plenty of good wine in the cellar. We are going to get rich tonight!"

After they entered the wine cellar, their eyes instantly shone.

"Hahaha... brothers, we've struck the jackpot. I didn't expect so many good wines to be stored in this wine cellar."

"Move them quickly. If we clear this place out, we can live lavishly for the rest of our lives.

Zi Yi sneered and quickly gave instructions to her robots. "Give them a scare and keep them locked up. I will deal with them tomorrow."

After she gave the order, she turned off the connection and continued driving.

However, as she drove, she discovered someone following her from behind.
