

Multiverse 111

Chapter 111: Show off

"When will the ships arrive?" Tony asked as he was excited to get his hands on the new technology. The New York war was traumatizing for him. Even though they won it by a huge mile but space had always been mysterious to him. This was their first step to space travel and he was looking forward to it.

"In time Tony. Relax. Enjoy the vacation for now." John said. Tony got little disappointed but didn't try to force.

They finally all set up their tents, sat down on the beach while eating snacks and enjoying the sea. John remembered something and finally said

"Guys I have another intention of coming to this secluded place. After the New York war I received a new power and truth to be said I never dared to try it. Finally here so far away I can use it."

"New power. Now dreams gives you powers too? Damn. I should sleep more." Tony lamented.

"Can we see?" Steve asked with hesitation as having powers is a very private matter. Even Emma was surprised as Jon never mentioned of this new 'power'.

"Watch me." John said and suddenly his arms stretched and it transformed into very long and wide feathers. The feathers were burning in blue light with a bit of golden flames that sparked slightly everywhere. Soon the flames covered the body and John transformed into a huge bird of flames.

The bird looked exquisite with golden flamed tails and blue fire all over the body. The bird flapped its wings as it hovered in air. Everybody was surprised after seeing this. They were in awe with such a huge bird that looked like it bathed in flames. Banner's eyes were shining differently as he knew what this power was.

"You ate the Tori Tori no Mi?" Banner asked.

"Yes Banner." said the bird.

"Wait. You are saying that John ate the mystical Zoan fruit? Holy mother of God. You are nigh invincible now." Tony said as he too follows anime but not as religiously as Banner.

"What is Tori Tori no Mi?" Steve asked as he wasn't still upto date with all the anime.

"In simple words John is basically a Phoenix. The bird of the legends. He can almost never be killed. No matter what physical damage he receives he can heal himself. And can even heal others." Diana said as they too watched the anime.

"Phoenix? Oh my God! That is a legendary creature." Pepper said while holding her hands before her mouth to stop her from screaming more loudly.

John flapped his wings and went high up in the air. He wanted to fly a bit around the island and feel the fresh air. He never used this power before so he wanted to see how powerful he was. Even though he didn't know Haki his flames were strong enough.

"No wonder he never cared before about his own assassination. He can never be assassinated. No one on earth has the power to kill him." Banner said.

Steve and other sighed as they got to understand how powerful John was now. Emma was very happy as John has taken a major leap and he would be safe no matter what. John came back after few minutes as he had flown enough and got a feel of fresh salty air.

"I thought after becoming a green lantern I might be able to defeat you. What a nice dream it was." Emma said.

"Oh c'mon me being your boyfriend can't be weak. Can I?" John said. "Guys the ship will come in a few days. Until then enjoy the vacation and you can watch the series too. You will see an interesting world." John said.

"John can you heal Bucky?" Steve suddenly asked.

"I am not sure if the fires of resurrection can heal his brain. His brain isn't actually damaged. It's just that his neuron wires are aligned a little differently." Banner answered it as he was an expert in this field.

"Don't worry Steve he will be fine soon." John assured. Everybody else spent the rest of the day enjoying in the beach. The island was big and it had a great beach along the shores. The sunset was breathtaking to see from the island.

The next day the scheduled series was released on Netflix and everybody started watching it together. They were curious about a new character that was going to arrive. The animated series started with a background voice of a girl saying

"Water... Earth... Fire... Air... My grandmother used to tell me stories about the old days. Of the time of peace when the Avatar kept balance ... that all changed when the fire nation attacked."

Yes. John went to the series of Avatar: The last air bender as a new character to handle a special situation. He couldn't let too high profile of a character be out and Aang would be the perfect candidate for his plans.

Chapter 112: Two ships

Everybody spent the whole day binge watching the series. They loved the series. It was a journey of a young boy who could control all four elements but never learned the process. He joins up a water bender and her brother to stop the fire nation conquering everything.

The series ended with the defeat of the fire lord while him mastering the avatar state. He maintained his vow of never killing anyone until the end and defeated the fire lord by taking away his fire bending.

It took 3 days to binge watch the whole series with everybody. It was a vivid story and all loved it.

"Who is coming from that series?" Diana finally asked the question that was burning inside everyone.

"It's Aang with Appa, Momo and Katara." John didn't want to rip the family much apart and wanted to keep Aang happy as much as possible. Although he could always erase memories with the help of system like always John didn't want to alter his summon's memories too much. Memories are what makes human beings humane.

"That's a pity. He can never be an Avenger." Banner said as Aang had the vow of never killing. This alone excludes him from joining their team as they had to constantly kill when required.

"Where will you guide him?" Bruce asked.

"I heard Coulson has formed a team which has a free reign and carry out mission which involves any kind of extraordinary events. SHIELD can let him join with Appa and Coulson will be a perfect person to guide him to our new world." John replied.

John wanted to handle the case of Inhumans with Aang. Since their trajectory has already changed with the death of Agent Grant Ward, Aang would be a perfect candidate to join in and see the new world.

John would just share memories of Inhumans and some aspects of the story. He believed Aang would be capable enough to handle Afterlife as the Inhumans lived away from society and Aang will understand them better since he was himself a monk.

There was enough time for Aang to grow as the story of Inhumans would take more than a year to start. John was looking forward to see what kind of butterfly effect would Aang create. He also remembered about the lost Inhuman, the Hive.

"It sure will be interesting."

After another day of lazing around the island with the boat and visiting the nearby islands and beaches it was finally time for John to extract two ships from the movie Treasure Planet.

[ Ding

Total fan values : 2.3 billion

Value of extracting ship from Treasure Planet - 5 million (value will depend on the size and fire power of the ship)]

"Extract two ships. One large and one big small with no firepower"

[Ding

Command executed. Total fan values spent - 11 million

Urging the host to work hard]

Everybody was looking at John who was closing his eyes with expectations as this was the first time John would guide something near them, as John had always guided people and things in solitary places.

John opened his eyes and waved his hands. Suddenly a huge portal opened and a two ships came out. One was a huge ship with triple masts. While the other was a smaller one with a single mast.

Both the ships looked almost the size of normal old fashioned ships of Earth. Only difference was that the sails were glistening in the sun. There were polygon shaped golden lines on the sail of both the ships. And both the ships at the read end and on the sides had propulsion canons.

Both ships landed on the beach as John wasn't sure if the ships were waterproof.

"Alright who here is a very old person?" Tony asked. Diana and Steve raised their hands.

"That was a trick question Steve. Diana is more old than you. Your generation didn't have such old ships. Diana do you know how to drive the old ships?"

"Yes I learnt in Amazon." Diana replied.

"Great. We will use this to go to Jurassic Park. I have an extra laboratory built exactly for this. Let's hop into it people. Can't wait to try this baby myself." Tony said with an adventurous tone.

Everybody hopped into the ship. Tony soon figured out a rough idea of the ships mechanism and started the engine with the help of Diana. Even though there was no solar wind in the Earth's atmosphere, the winds and the solar energy were high enough for it to sail in air.

"Alright buckle yourselves. it might be a bumpy ride. Emma sorry to bother you but only you save us all in a jiffy if there is any problem. Diana will ride the small one while I will ride the big one."

"Sure." Emma said. Diana, Bruce and Banner went into the small ship. While others on the bigger ship. Tony taught her a rough idea for controlling the thrusters. While Diana taught Tony how to use wind energy to their advantage.

-----

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donation by the end of the day.

Thank you.

This chapter is updated by fr\(e\)webnov\(e\)l.comwebnov(e)l.com)

Chapter 113: New people

Both of the ships set sailed. The ship went high up in the air and flew away. Everybody was surprised by it's high speed and stability, including John. He didn't expect the ships to sail in such high speeds. They proved to be much faster than John expected. John really didn't expect this as he had some serious doubts on the physics involved in it.

"Tony how fast do you reckon these ships can really go?" John asked.

"Well their universe is very weird. Here, due to air resistance the ships can't travel in supposed high speeds. In vacuum I presume they will sail much faster. According to my calculation it can travel much faster than our current technology of space ships. But we can never go beyond our solar system with it. It's possible to travel to Mars and other nearby planets and that's it. Of course our space ships equipped with these sails will be different and we will try to achieve maximum efficiency. It will be easy for us to insert our hands in transport industry."

"Good. Do it. We can use this technology in cars, ships and planes. Then within a year or two we will go for space." John said.

"Yes. Banner can also join the team and give his opinions in this huge project." Tony said.

"Sure."

They reached the Jurassic Park after a day of boring journey. The laboratory was already built and so Tony, Bruce and Banner got to work after arriving in the island. Pepper too joined as she had to make necessary changes to the new company and Tony would advice on it.

At the end only John and Emma came back to NY. Emma got busy with the classes while John was looking into the new superhero movie which would release at Christmas. In fact the superhero series would finish in a few days time too. John wanted to extract a cheap superhero from it and send it to SHIELD.

It didn't really matter to John with the new superhero, but John needed the third season of this series as he had plans to use it for more influence in the world. John called up Nick Fury as he needed to talk with him. Fury arrived at evening to talk since John asked for a proper meeting.

"So the satellites picked up two new ships arriving at Jurassic Park. Are those what I think they are?" Fury asked first. As John had asked SHIELD beforehand to notify the air force of various countries not to disturb them while they travel to Jurassic Park.

"If you are asking if those ships are from the Treasure Planet movie then yes. Currently Tony and others are dismantling it and figuring out the technology. Humanity is going to take a leap. We will arrive in space era soon." John said.

Fury got a headache because introduction such a technology to society would cause massive changes in the market. But then again Earth needed a boost, specially after the New York war. And this was the correct time for introducing such a technology.

"I called you here for two things. I suppose you have watched Avatar. Aang is going to arrive with Appa, Momo and Katara. He is still young like in the series and knows all bending, including the Avatar State. I want Coulson to be his mentor."

Fury who heard this was shocked. "Super powered beings again? And such a huge animal too. It's going to be a headache to explain to world council. I will let Wayne talk to the world council about it. What is the second thing?"

"Aang will be somewhere in the North Cascades National Park. Tell Coulson to start searching and another thing is that your precious Hawkeye is going to get a new companion. Watch out for the new upcoming series."

"Companion? Hawkeye? You mean an archer? Alright I am looking forward to it."

"You can try convincing him of joining SHIELD. I won't be guiding him anywhere. You take care of it." John said as he really didn't care about this new guy. It was just on a whim that he will extract this new superhero and his girlfriend.

Fury left after discussing some things about the new series. John just gave a general idea of the new series. After a week the new series was finally finish. The third season will finish and then he could extract all the required characters.

The series was about a rich playboy which got stranded on an island for 5 years. When he returned back, he was a changed person. He became a vigilante and started killing the corrupt people in the city. He was basically an archer like hawkeye.

The first season was him finding out that his best friend's father was the main enemy. The second season was about an old enemy from the island coming back to kill him while the last season was about Raas al Ghul.

Yes the series was the Green Arrow series from DC. John made sure that there were DC movie references all over the series denoting that Oliver Queen belonged to the same world as Batman. This gimmick would help him earn more fan values.

-----

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donation by the end of the day.

Thank you.

freew(e)bn(o)vel

Chapter 114: Another archer

John basically needed the template of Raas Al Ghul and his League of Assassins. He wanted to influence the underground world like the Mandarin. Since the actual Mandarin has taken his office off the League can fit in perfectly in the shadows.

The people in the underground world would definitely notice this new League and follow his series. This would help him gain lots of fan value. John didn't want to tell anyone of it. Even if SHIELD would find it out later, John could just say that he didn't know from his dreams if they arrived or not.

Another reason for bringing Raas al Ghul was Lazarus Pit. The water that could provide long life to anyone and heal wounds. Even though John had the philosopher's stone, he wanted to have as many contingencies as possible.

John spent a total of 500 million on Aang, Appa, Momo, Katara and the League of Assassins. The League along with Raas was placed in a dimension that was located very deep in the Himalayas so that people would find it difficult to search for them. He shared his memories with Raas and ordered him to control the underground world slowly and influence as many people as possible hiding the identity of the League.

The last 20 million was spent on Oliver Queen and Felicity Smoak. Since John finished the series in 3rd season so there was a romance between Oliver and Felicity. John just removed Oliver's memory of his child as that memory might influence him. John who was sitting in the family room with Emma while operating the system from his mind suddenly asked her

"Do you want to see Felicity and Oliver?"

"Huh they will be coming too?" Emma said as they had just finished watching the whole series.

"Yes," John said. "They will come soon."

The next day morning the doorbell of their home rang. John went and opened the door. There stood a very handsome tall man with blonde hair and a beautiful woman.

"Come in." John said. It was Oliver and Felicity and he summoned them yesterday in a random place in New York. Emma looked at the couple with a smile and invited them inside,

They all sat down and Oliver spoke " I guess you know of us since you made almost a perfect replica of my life."

"Yes, I know everything of you." John had to play this initial act in front of Emma. Even though he felt guilty of hiding his system from Emma but there was no way around it.

"Took me some time to find your home." Oliver said.

"Do you all have any plans?" Emma asked them instead.

"No. We have no idea what we should do? We just arrived yesterday. One moment we were sleeping in our bed, the other moment we were in a completely different apartment. This is crazy. Took time to understand that we had come to another universe. Saw that our life story was made in a series." Felicity said as in the series she loved talking constantly.

"I am sorry for invading your privacy with the series. But that's the only way possible to contact people from different universes. Felicity, you can join our new company. My friend Pepper can appoint you. And Oliver I am not sure where you will fit. There is SHIELD where you can join. I am sure their Director will come after you soon. "

"It's fine. Hmm... SHIELD, when I hacked into the internet to find more information I saw their presence." Felicity said.

"OK, I will think of it." Oliver said. "Why does it feel like you are accustomed to inviting people from other worlds?"

"That's my superpower. I can basically see different worlds and direct them when they come here for their own good." John said as he played a whole drama with Oliver and Felicity.

Felicity and Emma spoke a lot while Oliver wanted to know more about the world. John didn't give Oliver too many memories of this world and just gave a general idea, so Oliver was curious and wanted to know more.

As they were talking there was another knock on the door. Emma went to open the door only to see Nick Fury was standing with Maria Hill behind.

"Can we come in?" Fury asked. Emma nodded and let them in.

"Your information travels way too fast Fury," John said as he saw Fury. He was really surprised by the fast means of SHIELD, even after Hydra's downfall SHIELD still maintained the same power as before.

"Oliver this is Director Fury of SHIELD I was talking about. He is a paranoid old man, so be on guard against him." John said.

"Only the paranoid survive John. Hello Mr. Queen. I suppose you know my identity. I am here to offer you to join SHIELD. Of course, a proper assessment would have to be carried out before to see if you are really a person who believes in justice and a capable archer."

Chapter 115: Zephyr One

"We need to understand this world before I can make any decision." Oliver said this time.

"Sure. Take your own time. Contact us if you think you are ready." Fury said.

"We are on the search of Aang. The National Park has been closed off until we find him. Coulson is leading his team for this." Fury added as he looked at John.

"Whatever! It's your headache. Not mine." John said shrugging his shoulders. He didn't really care. He had already shared some memories with Aang and summoned him in the National Park.

Coulson on the other hand was having a hard time finding Aang. Even though Appa was huge, the park itself was immense. After almost 2 days of searching Fitz was able to find out Appa via a small drone. From the drone camera too they saw Aang and Katara with Momo on her arms.

"Chop chop Guys. We need to bring them to the team. Can't wait much. We need to plug this hole of Rising Tide Organization and this new super powered being in NY."

After few minutes, Coulson and Agent May approached where Aang was located. As they came near him they saw Aang and Katara assuming a fighting pose. Katara had a small puddle of water floating near her while Aang just stood there lifting his arms. Appa let out a low growl at them.

"Hello Avatar Aang. We have come in peace. We just want to talk with you." Coulson said.

"Who are you? What is that weird dress you both are wearing. Are men and women here wear the same dress?" Aang said. Coulson sighed as he realized from his reply that Aang was still naive while Katara was still alert.

"We come from an organization named as SHIELD. We are basically responsible for people who come from outer worlds, like you. Few days ago we noticed that you and your family crossed to our universe. So we are here as a welcoming party."

"How can we trust you?" Katara spoke this time.

"You don't. I don't know if you know or not but in this universe the general people don't know bending. We are just ordinary guys but we have weapons far more powerful than your world. Weapons powerful enough to destroy Fire Nation in a matter of seconds." May replied to Katara.

"That is impossible! Such powerful weapons doesn't exist." Aang said with a hint of anxiousness as he felt it was a lie. May took out her gun and shot at a nearby tree.

The gun was custom made so the damage on the tree was far higher than it should be. Aang and Katara were dumbfounded when they saw it.

"This is just a small weapon. We have larger weapons. This world is dangerous and only we can protect you from dangerous people. The person who informed us about you advised me to let you both join our team. He is my good friend and I really hope you can join us."

"You will be able to travel with us all around the globe and make your own assessment if we are good or bad. If you think we are bad then you can leave." Coulson said.

"You mean John? When we got launched into this universe he kind of guided us by speaking with us in our dreams. Is John your friend? Whatever John said is real? Is this really a new universe? I thought he was joking when he said this is a different universe. Does he really have the power to speak to people with dreams?" Aang said incoherently as he was excited. This supposed new world made his adventurous blood boil over.

"John Jameson. He is a consultant to our organization." Coulson said.

"What's a consultant?" Katara asked.

"I will be happy to explain you once we get into the plane. Will you join us?"

Katara and Aang thought for a bit and finally accepted to go with Coulson. Since John had ordered them to be with Coulson and help him as much as possible he didn't have any other choice. Plus, he himself was excited to try out this so called new world.

Aang and Katara hopped onto Appa. "Come over. You can direct us where we need to go." Katara said. She smiled for the first time. Coulson and May got over Appa. Appa floated up and Coulson directed to fly towards a particular direction.

"This is beyond physics." May murmured under her breath as they saw Appa flying without any help. After a minute of flying they came to a clearing where a huge airplane was lying down. It was the Zephyr one which was more advanced than the original story as Tony gave some ideas on it's design.

The Zephyr one looked weird as it had a open ranch type railings above it's body with a bunch of hay in one side.

Chapter 116: Skye

They landed near the Zephyr One. Aang and Katara were surprised by this huge thing so Aang was curious and asked

"Is this your home? Looks beautiful."

"Home? No. This is our plane, a transport machine that can fly. We will travel around the world with this and on the upper part you can keep Appa. Since John asked us to handle your situation we installed that over Zephyr One. Appa won't need to fly around and he can happily spend his time above while we fly around in the plane." Coulson said.

"Are you serious? You mean this thing can fly? OMG. This looks amazing. Can I go inside? Can I? Can I?" Aang was excited way beyond his imagination. Coulson looked weirdly at Aang for a second and said "Yes you can go in."

But before Aang could go in he saw two men and woman coming from the back of the plane. It was Fitz and Simmons and a ninja from Iwagakure, named Ittan.

Fury dispatched a ninja to there team as an added security. Jemma Simmons was a bio-chemist while Fitz was an engineer scientist. They both had genius level intellect. Jemma approached Aang with bright eyes and said

"Avatar Aang it's my honor to meet you. Your journey in defeating the fire lord was an inspiring one. Our world need people like you."

"Huh!! Hahah.. It's nothing.. Hahaha." Aang said embarrassingly. They all introduced each other. Aang and Katara came to know that like them Ittan too belonged to another world. Aang was happy to know that there was an other worldly being among them and was curious about Ittan's world.

"OK guys we need to leave. Aang tell Appa that he can land himself above the Zephyr inside the railings. We need to go on a mission. You can be with us till you find a good place to settle down. Get to know this world till then." Coulson said.

They soon boarded the plane and flew away. And like the original story Coulson was able to find a hacker named Skye that belonged to Rising Tide Organization. She was trying to get more information on the Centipede before she was taken in.

Skye was taken in where May interrogated her. Skye as usual didn't give up any information. Coulson was interested in Skye as she had no birth record nor much information from her childhood.

"Ittan it's up to you now. She is an asset. We can use her." Coulson said. Ittan nodded and went in. Aang on the other hand was getting used to the new world and the world fascinated him and Katara equally. They never expected that humanity could reach such heights with just using technology and science.

"What do you think of superheroes? The one with the mask when he killed so many aliens with his fire." Ittan asked Skye who was in the interrogation room.

"Huh! He is powerful if that is what you are asking." Skye said.

"Do you think he needed to cover his face? No he is powerful enough not to cover his face. He covered his face to protect his loved ones. Do you think exposing SHIELD will lead to any good thing?"

"SHIELD is the divide between the world and the more weirder world. You think us as bad guys but we are not." Ittan said as he brought out a kunai. He threw it to the wall.

The kunai traveled with such high speed and strength that it pierced 2 inches inside the wall. Skye was shocked and scared by it as she felt no normal human being could do that.

"You are a super powered being too like Mike Peterson?" Skye asked.

"If you want to know more about me you need to give up the information of Mike and tell us what is going on. You will understand how dangerous it is in exposing SHIELD."

Skye finally buckled under the pressure and blurted out everything she knew of Centipede. Fitz and Simmons were able to know more after researching on the Centipede and they were able to pinpoint the location of Mike.

"Ittan bring him in." Coulson said. Ittan reached the home of Mike and knocked the door.

"Mr. Mike I want you to come with me." said Ittan as Mike opened the door. Of course Mike flipped out instantly as he was mentally unstable because of the Centipede. Ittan had to constrain him using ninjutsu and made sure that Mike didn't blow himself up. After picking up his kid, Ittan returned to the Zephyr One.

Skye on the other hand met Aang and Katara. She wasn't a fan of anime and cartoons so she had no idea who they were. Though she found their behavior weird she didn't point it out. As Skye saw the process of how quickly Ittan over powered Mike from a drone, she trembled in fear.

"What happened? Just felt scared of a normal jonin ninja?" Coulson asked Skye seeing her trembling.

"I felt scared because I didn't know Mike was a walking bomb. Wait. Did you say ninja? Is Ittan a ninja?" Skye asked.

"It seems like you haven't watched John's works in animes and cartoons. No wonder you didn't recognize Aang."

"What do you mean John's works? Does John Jameson has anything to do with this?"

"I can only tell you more after you join us. You will be assessed in the meantime."

Chapter 117: The movie

Skye finally accepted the invitation of Coulson and joined as a consultant. She was very curious of what Coulson meant by John's works and Coulson finally opened up about Ittan and Aang belonging to the works of John.

"So you mean to say that even some cartoons and animes of John are real. This is crazy. I thought only his movies are real. Holy mother of God." Skye said.

"Your first assignment will be to go through all the works of John. That's the most basic thing you need to do as a consultant. All agents here are directed to do the same thing. Oh yes since you haven't gone out of this place you haven't seen Appa. Go outside there is Appa above the Zephyr one"

Skye's eyes went wide as she ran outside. She saw the images of Appa when Coulson explained about Aang. She never saw Appa before because she was brought to Zephyr One blindfolded. When she saw Appa playing with Aang her mouth went wide. At first she didn't believe Coulson but after seeing this her world changed.

"Skye come here. Appa wants to smell you." Aang said as they had met before. Skye hesitated for a bit but took up the courage to approach Appa. Appa smelled and nudged at her. Skye on the other hand loved the fluffy fur of Appa.

Later Skye rode Appa and flew high up in the air with the help of Aang. Skye really felt she was living in dreams. After returning back she saw Coulson waiting for her.

"So you think I am deceiving you? This world is more dangerous than you think." Skye now fully believed Coulson and accepted the role of consultant whole heartedly.

The next day John checked the memories of Aang and Ittan as he knew that Ittan too joined Coulson's team and from what he saw he was surprised.

"What the hell is wrong with this world? Centipede incident happens after Extremis Virus. Did Killian lose his mind by letting normal people use Centipede in the market? Damn the butterfly effect is taking a shape now. I need to keep an eye on Killian. Tony is in Jurassic Park surrounded by ocean. It's really a boon that the new superhero is associated with water."

According to the actual timeline the incident of Centipede was supposed to happen in late 2013 but it happened one year early. This surprised John a bit. John didn't want any bad thing happen to Tony like in 'What if'. Tony was important in this world and he needed to keep the timeline intact as much as possible.

Otherwise situations might go out of control and he wasn't ready to lose his prophetic vision of future. Especially Ultron. He was way too powerful in 'What if' and he wanted to make sure Ultron never gets the mind stone. That is why John never let any extra knowledge in computers connected with internet.

After two weeks it was almost Christmas time, the whole city was in festive mood. On 24th of December, the premiere for the new superhero movie was held in NY. John as usual came with Emma. Tony, Bruce, Diana and Banner specially took time off for the movie as a new member was going to join. Bruce had hinted before that the new superhero belonged to their team so they were looking forward to it.

Fury too came this time but Coulson was missing as he had his own missions now. The movie started the same way the last post credits scene ended. The man living in the lighthouse found a stranded woman wearing a white futuristic suit. She was wounded. The man took her to the lighthouse and nursed her back to health,

"Who are you?" asked the man.

"Atlanna, Queen of Atlantis." said the woman

"Oh wow. I am Tom, keeper of the lighthouse". The story rolled as they both fell in love with each other and bore a child together. They named the boy Arthur, after the legendary king Arthur. But the story didn't continue a happy story.

The people of Atlantis soon found out about the location of Atlanna and attacked. Atlanna successfully defended and killed all the Atlanteans who came. That fight scene was vivid and looked futuristic. Atlanna herself looked powerful with the trident. She at the end left because she knew if she didn't leave, she will be hunted down again.

"What the hell is wrong with your world? Even an underwater kingdom is more futuristic than human world. As a human race we have failed to evolve sufficiently." Tony looked at Bruce and complained. Wayne just shrugged his shoulders and didn't say anything.

The story continued as the boy grew up. The boy knew he was special from beginning. The camera moved and showed a submarine being hijacked by a group of pirates. As the pirates were securing the deck, there was a ping in the sonar. Before they could figure what it was, the submarine was suddenly hit by something.

Chapter 118: Namor

Yes. The movie was Aquaman.

A man appeared in the water and he with his own power destroyed the propellers and lifted the submarine above water. His power level was amazing and it shocked the audience. Then there was a fight between the pirates and the man. Bullets, swords and even a grenade launcher had no effect on him.

"We have a male Diana among us." Steve said as he too had joined for the movie. He was interested to see a new person arriving in their universe.

The movie went on as it showed a conspiracy by the son of Atlanna, Orm who was Arthur's half brother. He wanted to attack the surface dwellers and Mera, Daughter of Nereus, wanted Arthur to stop Orm. Arthur accepts the deal but was captured and even had to duel against Orm.

Later Arthur was able to escape with the help of Mera. They went on a search for the trident of the first king of Atlantis and was able to find the location of the lost trident. As they were returning back, Arthur was attacked by Black Manta, the pirate who Arthur confronted in the start of the movie but he had advanced technology. Thanks to Orm.

Arthur managed to defeat him and went to the trench where he had to go through the portal. He and Mera had to fend off monsters along the way to reach the core of the earth.

It was there where Arthur met his mother, who too was banished to the trench because of having a child with a human. Atlanna told that the trident of King Atlan was guarded by Karathen, a mythical monster and he would die if he went to reclaim it. Arthur insisted on the path as they had no way out.

Arthur went in to reclaim only to be stopped by Karathen. But Arthur who had always been able to speak to water creatures said.

"Stop. You are right I am a half breed mongrel. But I didn't come here because I thought I was worthy..."

"You understand me?" Karathen replied.

"I do." Arthur replied.

"No mortal has conversed with me since King Atlan." Karathen finally let him take the trident. The trident made him worthy to be a king as it allowed to command all the water creatures on the ocean.

In the meantime Orm declared himself as ocean master and attacked the last tribe which was opposing his rule. Arthur came and stopped the war from damaging Atlantis any further. This time Arthur was finally able to defeat Orm. The fight was vivid and jawbreaking. f(r)ee

The audience loved the way Arthur fought. As most of the audience now understood that John's movies were basically rituals before a new superhero emerged. And since Arthur had the blood of humans and even took the side of humans they really liked him. Especially his command over all sea creatures assured that the sea won't ever be a problem again.

"So we have a fishman. That's interesting." Tony said. While John on the other hand looked at Fury and said "Fury tell all governments not to search for Atlantis."

"Huh! Why?" Fury was curious and asked.

"Because this world itself might have an Atlantis. If there is Atlantis in this world then just pray that they aren't our enemy." John replied. Everybody was taken aback by this. After Diana became real many governments went to search for Amazon but didn't find anything but the search still continues to this day by several governments.

SHIELD never cared about it because Amazon didn't exist. But now there was a possibility of Atlantis in this world and governments might take it seriously as the kingdom showed was way too advanced.

"What do you mean? There is really Atlantis in this world?" Diana asked.

"I am not sure. If there is, then we have a problem." John said that because there was a rumor of Namor being present in the second part of Black Panther movie. In comics Namor was almost an anti-hero. And even on two occasions there was a very subtle reference to Atlantis in Marvel movies.

"Who is 'he' here?" Bruce asked as he too was interested.

"He is Namor. In many versions of our universe he is an anti-hero and has powers like Aquaman. So Fury tell governments not to make any rash decisions."

"Our universe also has many versions? Man, I wonder if I am not a Hulk in another universe. That would be such a relief." Banner said. John looked at him with pity as in most comics Hulk was more powerful than their world.

"You are more brutal in other universes Banner." John replied. "You are actually very weak here."

"What? I am weak. This is the first time someone said that of Hulk. Seems like I really will have to design Veronica. If Hulk becomes more powerful and out of control I hope all of you will stop" Banner said as he still didn't trust his other personality.

Chapter 119: The mutant

The movie continued as it was time for post credits scene like always. It showed a man standing. He had a scared look at his face as a war waged on in the background. The war looked futuristic with various flying ships shooting lasers at each other. The camera changed, it showed a new born baby being held by the same man.

"Goodbye my son. Our hopes and dreams travel with you."

"He will be an outcast. They will kill him." said the baby's mother.

"How? He will be a God to them." The post credits scene ended with a small spaceship traveling towards Earth.

"A baby to earth. Why did they do that? Isn't it cruel?" Steve asked.

"They were forced to do so." John replied. They all didn't ask much as John never spoiled the movie for anyone. Fury on the other hand had a lot of work as he had to stop governments to do any stupid things. He didn't want to take any risk before he fully knew the other side. There was a high chance of presence of Atlantis since John said so he had to be careful.

Aquaman wouldn't be able to save them if Atlantis decided on waging war against the humans. Everybody went back to their homes as they had work to do. John too left with Emma. The movie fared more than the previous movies as by now people understood that a superhero movie meant a new hero emerging.

John, unlike previous years had two superhero movie scheduled in 2013. He needed to change somethings so he decided on two movies. John spent the Christmas with his family and Emma and even decided to visit London with Emma for New Year's eve.

The year of 2013 was an intense time too as the Thor would have confrontation with the Dark Elves and the weird situation of Extremis virus. John had a plan for Malekith but it was going to take time.

John also wanted to influence the NY underground world and he had a game character for that. At first John wanted to use the anime "Katekyo Hitman Reborn" for handling the crime. But he didn't have enough time to prepare it.

All the recent high level animes had taken his time and now when he realized that he needed to influence the underworld in Hell's Kitchen, it was already too late.

"Whatever! A new game is going to be out. I will just use him. He won't fit in the whole setting but who cares. Let the new character get a feel of the world and later I will bring his whole family."

John and Emma spent a lot of time together in London as they had a vacation and even visited around various touristic places in Britain. After 2 weeks of vacation they returned as John's first game would be out in a few days time. Like series he had made a series of 3 games into a single long game.

It was an RPG game about a human who was experimented upon to become a mutant. John didn't play the first part of the game so he had to spend fan values for acquiring the old version of it. The story in the game revolved around the man named Geralt and his quest to hunt monsters while dealing with politics.

The third part of the series was where the story bloomed. He was on his quest to find Ciri, his adopted daughter. She was the most powerful person in their universe. The game had three different endings and according to people's choices the game had a sweet, sad and a bittersweet endings.

Yes, The game was 'Witcher' series. John had played the trial version of the game and he was happy with the story as that was the main concern for him. The technology of this earth was good enough to handle such a huge franchise. He had mad hopes for the game as he was a huge fan of it and was sure it would be a huge success.

In a week the game was out. People went to buy the game as John's name was pasted on it. Now many things in the world sells if there was John's name but when people played the game they loved it. They didn't expect that the game would be so good that people played it for like hours and still didn't have enough of it.

Since all the three parts of the game was in a single version. it was a long story but everybody played the game till the end. They loved the character portrayal, story telling and color of the game. It rose in game rankings within a week and topped the charts.

John even noticed a jump in his fan values due to it. He was happy to see this.

[Ding

total fan values - 2 billion]

"Extract Geralt of Rivea, the butcher of Blaviken."

[Ding

Command accepted. Fan value spent - 80 million]

Chapter 120: Matt Murdock

John was alone at home when he extracted Geralt. He summoned Geralt as he wanted to look at this legendary character. He had already shared the required memories for this world. He was from a world which was very much backward age so Geralt needed a total rundown of everything.

"Hello Geralt. Now you know everything that you are to know and the mission which you have. Later I will establish a school for you to teach. It will be done in due time." John said as he wanted to bring the whole family but it would cost a lot and he needed to save fan values for the new upcoming world he had planned to bring."

"Hmm.. The monsters aren't here but people themselves are monsters from what I have seen from the memories. You want me to handle the whole bunch of people and ninjas. That will cost you."

"Sure.. Here is a card containing 5 million dollars. If you need more you can ask me. You already know how to use it." John said while handing him a credit card. He also needed to handle the identity so he called Fixit for that. Fixit would be enough to handle his new identity.

"Hmm.. See you then. I will wait for Ciri and others." Geralt was on his way to leave when Emma returned. She was surprised to see a man with silver long hair while having two swords behind his back.

Emma looked at John who was behind standing as she wanted to know who was this new man. "Emma haven't you played the game? Didn't you say Geralt is more hot than me? This is Geralt."

"Huh. You are Geralt." Emma said as she blushed. She didn't really expect that John created a game to propagate the story of a person. She thought the whole game was just for fun and joked with John saying that Geralt was very hot, hotter than John.

"I am Geralt. It's nice to meet you. Excuse my clumsiness as I don't know the manners of the modern society." Geralt said. "I came here in order to know more about this world."

"No. It's fine. Since you are new here stay here for the time being. We will make lunch soon." Emma suggested. Geralt looked at John who nodded.

"Sure." Geralt stayed over till evening while Emma was curious about him and he constantly barged him with questions. Geralt left at night as he had a mission now.

"So still think he is hotter?" John asked with a fake jealous tone.

"Of course. But you are better" Emma said as she kissed him.

Geralt after going out took a taxi. Emma ordered new sets of clothes for Geralt. As having swords might just attract unwanted attention. She ordered a guitar set too hide the swords when Geralt stayed over to their place.

He soon reached Hells Kitchen as this was here where his long mission would start. He booked a hotel till he could find a proper place to stay. He soon found out information of Matt Murdock, the blind lawyer. John had sent Geralt to insert himself in the life of Matt and finishing the Hand later. While taking care of Wilson Fisk along the way.

After few days of searching he bought himself a cosy home. Even though Hell's Kitchen wasn't exactly a safe neighborhood, for a person like Geralt it was a walk in the park. Without using any potions he could beat all of the scums in the underworld. John had summoned Geralt with all his magical signs maxed out so it was very easy for him if he was attacked.

After finding out the location of Matt Murdock he kept away from him. From the memories of John he knew that Matt's hearing was on high level. He didn't want to expose himself yet.

Soon there was a news of murder of Daniel Fisher's murder, an employee of Union Allied Construction. Geralt knew instantly that this was his cue to insert himself.

After the case came out, Geralt kept a watch on Karen Page's home as he had already researched on her from before. After 2 nights of waiting at night he finally saw Matt Murdock fighting someone in rain outside her home. He looked at the fighting style of Matt and shook his head.

"What a dumb way of fighting. No wonder he is always bloodied after every fight."

Rance and Daredevil were fighting intensely when Matt suddenly heard someone walking towards them. He was scared thinking that Rance would attack the guy approaching but what the man said next stopped both Rance and Matt on their tracks.

"You guys are fighting like pigs fighting in a gutter. You both should take training lessons from me. Specially you Daredevil." Before Lance could turn his head to see who was talking, he felt dizzy and became unconscious in a second.