

Multiverse 131

Chapter 131: Phoenix

Tony in the meantime was able to reach Iron Patriot and released him from the bindings. "You look great Mr. President. IP take him away. And go to Rhodes to help him." After being freed IP flew away with the President inside. Now he could fight without any concern.

All these months he had been living in anxiety. This anxiety led him to make tons of suits and this was the backup Tony mentioned before. By the time the President flew away, all the suits came flying by. All were managed by Jarvis.

"Jarvis light this place up. Kill every being that has higher body temperatures by any means possible. Oh yes help Mera and Aquaman too when required."

Tony joined the fight too using his Mark 42 suit. As this was an harbor there was metal everywhere so he used this to his advantage of his iron alchemy. He killed dozens of them through it.

It had to be mentioned that there were more soldiers with Extremis Virus as Killian was supported by many rich corporations so he had more people to experiment upon than the original world.

Mera, Aquaman and Tony both were fighting intensely while many of his suits were getting destroyed in the fight. This caused explosions everywhere. And one of that explosion hit where Killian was operating from high up in the tower. He fell to the ground and Tony noticed it.

Tony flew to Killian and started fighting with him. For the first time Tony felt helpless as the suits of Tony would get destroyed instantly while fighting him. Tony had to abandon Mark 42 while fighting as one of his part got burnt a little. Mark 42 was a living suit and he didn't want to hurt any living being.

Tony had to use the other suits which he brought as backup to fight. Even his iron alchemy did almost no harm to Killian as metal melted away after a second touching his body. As the fight raged on between Tony and Killian due to the explosions around a huge crane fell in their position and exploded.

They both had to get away. Tony was able to fly way while Killian got buried under the huge crane. Mera and Arthur who were little far were relieved to see Tony being safe and they continued killed the other people who had Extremis Virus.

Tony finally came near the buried debris and sighed. This was really one of his toughest enemy. Killian almost bested him with his constant high temperature and faster physique. As he was reminiscing this, the debris moved by itself. Tony now had a look of gloominess in his face.

"Is this guy immortal or something? Even thousand kg of loads did nothing to him." Tony murmured.

"Seems like you do need help." said a voice from behind. Tony turned around only to see a very familiar face. He was relieved seeing him as the guy who came was basically a nemesis of Killian.

It was John. He came over to see if there was any wrong butterfly effect. Even though he had sent Mera and Arthur to help Tony he still felt that he should go and watch the scene.

What he saw really surprised him as there was almost an army under Killian and even the two superheroes John had summoned to help had been fighting for a long time now.

"I checked from Diana. She said you are here. Got bored at home. Emma went away for offline classes. Thought about giving you a hand as Umbrella Corporation is also my baby." John said.

As Tony and John were talking, Killian came out of the debris without any damage in his body. "John Jameson. Did you come to die? Good. I won't have to come to your place to finish the work given by the companies."

"You really think you are only one with superpowers? Though I think it would be an overkill but I guess I can show you before you die." As John said that as he transformed himself to Phoenix. Tony who already knew what John was going to do moved a few meters away from the beginning.

"It should be an honor for you to die by the Phoenix. Don't worry all the companies would follow your path soon."

"What the hell is this? What the hell are you?" Killian screamed in fear. He saw a huge bird burning in very hot flames. The flames were so hot even he who was injected by the virus could feel his skin burning.

"This is the power of mystical zoan fruit. Now please say hello to Mephisto for me if he exists in hell."
John said as waved his feathers towards Killian. This caused a fire wave enveloping Killian. He screamed in pain for half a minute before turning into ashes.

Tony who was looking at this murmured. "Never be the enemy of John. Never."

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

There will be no double uploads today because of low power stones.

.com

Chapter 132: The League

John transformed himself back to his original body. He saw the destruction around and thought

"Anime sometimes doesn't do justice to some powers."

John approached Tony who was few meters away sitting in exhaustion. Mera and Arthur too came after killing the last guard. They had long fight too but they didn't look so tired.

"Did you get all the evidence?" John asked.

"Yes. The President himself is the greatest evidence. But of course I caught everything in 4K." Tony said.

"Good. Send them to the required authorities and sue everyone involved." John said as he too was angry now. He didn't think such an invention would attract many jealous eyes.

"I have sent Cinch long ago to hack into his computers and take everything out." Tony assured.

"Send me a copy before you send to the officials. I don't want another case of Wilson Fisk here." John said.

"Huh you have other plans with them?" Tony asked.

"Yes. Since they wanted to hit me, they should better be ready to get hit too." John said as he wanted to send the League after every one of them who was involved in this. If they don't run then it's fine but if they did, John wanted to make sure that they would never see the light of the day.

"How do you plan to do that?" Tony asked being little curious.

"That's a secret." John said mysteriously.

"How many more secrets are you hiding?" Tony asked being more curious. John didn't reply to do that and just smiled.

After discussing if everything was alright they all left. Mera and Arthur wanted to roam the whole ocean and go for sightseeing, so they left via water. Tony flew away while John took his flight the next day as they were in Miami for the fight.

The next day Tony sent all the relevant information and he forwarded all this to the League. The League moved fast after getting the information and made sure nobody ran away. Surprisingly nobody ran because almost all of them thought they would never get caught as they were never directly contacted but the news in the next day broke this hallucination.

The media channels who had been chirping about the supposed dead Tony Stark came to know that he was alive and even returned with the evidence who the Mandarin was.

The whole conspiracy came into light with the President being kidnapped while the Vice-President cutting a deal with many corporations. This came as a shock to many people. The police had a field day as they had to arrest various high level personas. Many corporations were involved in his and many of them were caught.

Those who were not caught were handled by the League. The police found it weird as many people just vanished from the face of earth. They were sure even if some escaped, there would be at least one being caught but surprisingly they just vanished. Even SHIELD couldn't find any information.

John had brought the army of League from animated version but kept Ra's al Ghul from the Green Arrow so the army was more efficient from the series. Tony who saw the news knew that John had made them vanish. Though he didn't how John achieved that but was happy nonetheless as nobody actually escaped.

John had a smile too as League handled it perfectly. Now he didn't have any headache as the power shift towards the Umbrella Corporations would be more apparent.

It was already the end of April when all this fiasco ended. And the next movie would come on the first week of June. And he was eagerly waiting for it. That movie would help him a lot in future plans.

The days went by as normal. John and Emma even took a mini vacation to Canada for a few days to have a good time together. By the end of the year Emma would have patrol the galaxies so they wanted to spend time together as much as possible.

Even though she will have enough time to visit earth and be with John, there might be her absence for a longer period of time. So they wanted to make the most of it.

Finally it was the month of June and was time for the next movie. Hal had returned from Oa and was even contacted by Fury as he needed to have a proper file on Hal. Bruce after being appointed as Secretary scrapped the assessment part but accepted that offline files would be made for any super powered beings.

Fury had to accept this arrangement as maintaining a file too was enough. Hal even joined SHIELD as a pilot as he had a love for flying. Fury happily accepted this appointment as it meant having a super powered being which can travel the universe under him. Even though Hal wouldn't be always around, it was still better than Captain Marvel.

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Chapter 133: Bleak future

Everybody came to the premiere of the new movie including Hal, Bruce, Alfred, Fury and others. John and Emma stepped out of the car and were flocked by reporters instantly. They were now the 'couple goals' for many people as they had been together for quite sometime and never a bad rumor came out of their love life.

Little did they know John was too lazy to even talking to other people and start a rumor. He even faced flak from Emma for being so introverted with the people whom he doesn't know anything about from beginning.

"Sir, your Umbrella Corporation would soon launch. What are your hopes for it?"

"I hope that humanity would take a better step into the future. Now that all snakes are out of the way, us as a race can advance together." John said as the trial of the people who were caught already went through and almost all of them were guilty. It was a high profile case and White House wanted to end this whole incident.

It had tarnished the image of the government by a lot as the ugly truth of politics came into light. They fast forwarded the proceedings and the trial was ended in a month.

The reporters asked other questions of the company and John happily replied. Soon they went to the movie for its screening. All went inside, the audience were excited as a new superhero movie meant another hero emerging. They have already seen the videos of Aquaman so now they would be searching for a new one.

The movie started with a baby being born to a couple, but the difference was that the surroundings were different from a typical human room. It looked colorless. The camera moved and it showed the father having a debate with few old men sitting like kings. They were the council.

"We have weeks left. I warned you harvesting the core was suicide." said the man.

"We were out of reserves. What did you expect us to do?"

"Look to the stars like our ancestors did. We have outposts spread in the universe. We can easily find an inhabitable planet." said the man. As the debate went on, there was an explosion from behind.

Few men lead by a man in a suit which looked like a commander came and did a coup. It was General Zod. He wanted the man, who was Jor-El to join him and save the planet but he refused.

Soon there was a battle between the soldiers and the people of the council. Through twist and turns Jor-El was able to escape while the war raged on. Jor-El extracted the information of the codex into the baby's body while delivering him to a small spaceship. They had decided to send the baby to Earth

"He will be an outcast. A freak. They will kill him." said the baby's mother.

"How? He will be a God to them." Soon Zod came to them as the codex was stolen by Jor-El but failed to stop the baby's spaceship feeling away. Zod killed Jor-EL in rage but was captured by the council's guards.

At the end Zod was banished into the Phantom Zone. The camera moved and it showed the planet known as Krypton exploded by itself and ended all life on their planet. Even though the planet was destroyed it showed how advanced their technology was,

Spaceships, buildings, weapons were so high tech that the audience were in awe. Tony who looked at it finally said with a serious face

"We have to look for other inhabitable planets. I don't want a Krypton like situation in the distant future. Even with such high level of technology they couldn't save their race. What chances do we have for survival?"

"It's fine Tony. Humanity is still young. We have thousands of years still left for us to approach that cycle." John replied.

The movie continued as it showed a young man traveling. Along his travels the people got a glimpse of this man's powers. The movie also showed the man's childhood. His struggles with his powers and how his parents brought him up.

His father told him that he was sent here in a spaceship and that he didn't belong to earth. Yes. This movie was Man of Steel of Zack Snyder. John loved that movie in his previous life and he thought it was the most apt Superman ever.

The movie continued and the audience even got a bigger glimpse of his powers as he save people in an oil rig which had caught fire. He single handedly stopped a huge tower from falling on the escaping helicopter.

"How powerful is this guy? Flames doesn't effect him and now even such a huge weight doesn't even give him a scratch." Tony murmured.

"The universe once used to fear their race. I hope that gives you a context." Bruce said this time. He had been the right hand man of Darkseid for quite a long time so he had a general idea of the Kryptonians.

Chapter 134: False God

The story went on as the man named as Clark finally reached his destination. An icy island in Canada. Lois Lane, a reporter from Daily Planet reached there too. There was a military presence in the island as they had a found something hidden deep inside the ice berg and the thing was en capsuled by ice which was more than 15000 years old.

That night Clark went to find out more about the hidden thing. Lois Lane who too went out a night found Clark sneaking away from far and she followed him. Clark soon reached the depth using his heat vision and entered the scout ship that was sent by Krypton ages ago.

This was where Clark came to know about his ancestry and Lois Lane who followed her was attacked by ship's defenses. Clark came in time to stop the defense system killing Lois and had to use heat vision to cauterize the wound.

The ship accepting the commands of Clark flew away to a more hidden location. The military was dumbfounded and Lois was found somewhere far from all of this. Clark learnt to fly after his meeting with his dead father.

"This is impossible. Biologically this doesn't make sense." Banner shouted.

"Banner there would be many things in the universe which won't make sense. Is it that weird? You have seen Gods already." John said. Banner became silent after that.

Lois after returning to US went on a hunt to find the man who was responsible for this and wanted to know more. She finally found his mystery man and after talking with him she realized that bringing the truth out would be huge mistake as humanity wasn't ready for it.

The story continued and finally General Zod came out from Phantom Zone and found Clark in earth. On the way to Earth he even found world engines which to terraform any planet according to the needs.

Zod announced himself to the world and asked to hand over Clark. Clark surrendered himself after much contemplation. He was taken away but later understood what Zod wanted to do, and that was making Earth like Krypton.

Clark knew he had to get out and thanks to Lois who too was brought over, they were able to escape. By the time Clark returned to earth the world engines started their work. Lois suggested they use Clark's previous ship and collide with the world engine and the phantom drives would create a singularity. This will destroy the ships.

At the end they were able to do and this led to the last fight between Zod and Clark. And that was the highlight of the movie. The fight was so devastating that it destroyed almost half of the city of Metropolis. Everybody were surprised by such scenes and the audience even wondered if it was good if Clark showed up.

The destruction shown scared many while many thought he could help fight humanity. The story ended with the death of Zod.

"No wonder you once said, some could destroy the earth single handedly. He belongs to that category." Tony said. Steve too had a solemn look on his face. John saw all this and said.

"What are you getting nervous about? It's not like he is going to come."

"Huh you mean Superman won't arrive?" Hal said as he too knew of Clark. .com

"No. He is stuck somewhere, even if he comes it would be much further in the future." John said. He had enough fan values to bring Clark but he didn't want to.

Firstly, his arrival might be counter productive as he was way too over powered and he was sure many people won't like it. This might hamper his fan value collections. Secondly, he didn't really need Clark. He made the Man of Steel for future movies and another purpose which he had been planning for a long time. He would bring Superman when everything would be more settled and people would be more accepting of superheroes.

It wouldn't cost that much to bring Superman as this was the movie version, as opposed to comics where he was more powerful. He also wanted to show people that his movies didn't mean the people would come to life after the movies were made. He was sure people would find something wrong if all the characters in movies came to life after the movie itself. John wanted to misdirect the general public.

Soon it was time for post credits scene. The camera showed a dimly lit statue. The camera approached slowly to the statue as the statue was lit bit by bit. At the end it was revealed a statue of Superman but on his chest was written 'False God' in red paint.

Then it showed the 'Bat cave' where there was Bruce Wayne and Alfred looking at the destruction caused by Superman during the battle against Zod. Alfred then said

"This is how it starts. The fever, the rage, the feeling of powerlessness. It turns good men cruel."

As soon as the movie ended everyone looked at Bruce Wayne. Except for Diana who knew what had happened later.

"You went on a fight against Superman?" Steve asked little curious.

"You have guts, I have gotta say." Banner said. Emma too was interested and asked.

"Who won?"

"You will know." John replied this time. Bruce didn't say anything and he had a complicated look in his face. In both worlds Superman was a huge help but that came at a huge cost too. Doomsday being one of them.

(I know many of you feel cheated since the MC wouldn't bring superman for now, but trust me he will come but just not now and those who are thinking that the heroes are getting more powerful I can assure you, the future enemies would be equally as powerful)

Chapter 135: War

The next day there was a huge buzz everywhere about the movie. Some supported Superman while some said he was dangerous and he could never represent humanity. They even pointed out that Batman considered Superman as an enemy from the post credits scene.

There was a huge debate in almost all online forums. John who came to know of this was surprised. Fury on the other hand was very happy as John had said that Superman won't arrive. Having Diana and Naruto's world was a headache enough.

"I am not even bringing Superman. What's up with these people?"

At August, Umbrella Corporation had finally released the sale of solar panels made from the technology of the Treasure Planet ship to people. This panel was lightweight, stretchable and even could be folded like a cloth. These panels could generate more electricity than the present technology and it was highly efficient and durable.

As it was already approved by the many laboratories over the world people accepted started buying them like hot cakes. The efficiency was so high that a typical house could sustain by itself for a few days easily even if there was no sun. What really surprised John was that even Wakanda too gave an order to buy these panels. It wasn't produced at large amount for the first time.

This brought a smile in his face as even the magnificent Wakanda wanted to research on the panels. John by now had more wealth than he could even spend in hundreds of lifetime. Google, Facebook, Twitter, Netflix and now he had entered his hands in energy supply.

John was now probably the most influential person in the world. His movies, his companies and now his technology were revolutionizing. It was surprising that he gave away much of the money to charity.

As John was thinking all this Emma said

"I need to go the university. Want to go with me?"

"Sure I am bored anyways. Let's go." John said. They flew to Rhode Island and directly went to the university. Of course they wore proper masks and hats so that nobody would recognize them. f(r)ee

Emma had to meet with some of her friends to discuss a project they had been working on and Emma thought it would be better if they meet face to face and have a proper talk. Soon Emma found her friends and introduced him to John. They were really excited to meet John as he was kind of a legend.

John had a good fun time together with her friends. They were eager to ask about his future projects.

"What are your future projects?"

"Well for now a game and a movie at the end of the year. And of course if you watch animes the you will always see new ones being introduced every year."

"What is the new game about?" asked one friend of Emma.

"Well it's based on mythology but this time gods being at the receiving end of beating."

They all chirped a lot and finally Emma pulled her friends away as they had a project to discuss. They returned back the next day. John was happy to see her friends in his free time and spend time with Emma.

Emma had been taking defense lessons regularly and even John joined sometimes when he wasn't at office. Hal would sometimes come and teach her how to use the ring better. She was happy with all the training and care.

Soon it was September and it was time for the launch of new game. This too was built by CD Projekt RED. People had high expectations from the game and were looking forward to it. Even SHIELD kept an eye for the new game. Since Geralt was real, maybe the new game character was also real.

The game was a about a half mortal and half god. Here god being Zeus again. The story told of a warrior who rose from the commander of an army to killing every gods of Mount Olympus. Yes, the Game was 'God of War'. John specifically built this character to handle Malekith. He also had other plans with Kratos later.

The story spoke of his journey of how from being a servant of Ares to killing everyone. The story ended with him being in another world where he had a son names Atreus and them living peacefully.

John didn't add the full game of God of War 4. He just wanted the character Atreus for fun and giving a closure to Kratos so that at least in this world he would find peace.

The people loved this game as it had a vivid story. Even though it wasn't an open world game like Witcher, it still arose the excitement of the gaming nerds. His blades of Chaos was what people loved the most.

After Man of Steel there wasn't much of a sharp rise in fan values. John expected this as the character of Man of Steel was little controversial. But God of War took his fan values to high level again.

Chapter 136: Asgard

[Ding

Total fan values: 2.9 billion

Fan vales required to extract Kratos - 230 million]

"Extract Kratos and Atreus" John commanded.

[Ding

Command accepted]

"Well then it's done. No more characters for this year if it's not absolutely required."

John was now contemplating a lot. John always had a general idea of how he would handle some problems but this time he wasn't sure if his desired plan would work out perfectly. So, any weird diversion in the story would make his future plans go out of control and he needed to make contingencies for that.

After the proper success with the game's launch John said to Emma.

"Want to go far for a vacation?"

"Huh where do you want to go?" Emma said.

"It will be fine. Might take a few days." John said.

"Alright I will pack the things." Emma said as she went away to pack a small luggage. The next day early morning they took Bumblebee. John wanted to take Bee in this journey as well and came to an open clearing which didn't have anyone.

"Heimdall. I want to meet Odin." John suddenly shouted.

"Huh Heimdall? You want to go to Asgard?" Emma said as she knew the general knowledge of the universe now. Thanks to the books in Oa and the Guardians.

"Yes. Heimdall can you hear me? I want to meet Allfather Odin." John shouted again after seeing no response. Suddenly the clouds above started to swirl around. He was relieved as John didn't know if Heimdall could even listen to him and even if he did John wasn't sure if he would be allowed to come to Asgard.

"Bee you can transform yourself. We are going on a vacation. You won't have to hide from the people where we will be going. Don't touch anything while traveling. You might be thrown away to somewhere else." Bee transformed himself by the time Bifrost fell over them.

John, Emma and Bee were sucked into the Bifrost and started traveling in very high speed. John had to use bit of Pheonix power to stop himself disorienting. Even Emma used the ring to transform herself.

After quite a few seconds, all three stopped and they saw they were in a huge spherical chamber. At the side there was Heimdall standing with his sword wearing the armor.

"Hello Heimdall."

"Hello warriors from Midgard. I have notified Odin already. He is expecting you."

This was John's first time traveling somewhere outside earth. He always had the power to travel the universe but he never did as he didn't find any reason to and he had loads of work. But today was the first day he stepped his foot outside earth. John was really grateful for all of this as he had never expected that his life would take such a turn.

John looked at Heimdall while he looked at Bumblebee. It was the first time that Heimdall saw a creature that didn't belong to anywhere in the universe and had a strong curiosity for it. Emma too greeted Heimdall. Heimdall looked at her ring for a second and nodded.

Then they started walking on the rainbow bridge towards the Golden palace. The sheer size of the palace that they laid their eyes upon surprised them. John thought

"The movies never did justice to Asgard. It's more big than I had imagined."

John, Emma and Bee slowly walked on the bridge taking in all the scenes around, the sea and the surrounding city. They were in awe. Even Bee had an appreciative look in his face. The people saw a very weird machine creature walking on the bridge and were discussing among themselves of what this weird creature was.

As they were walking two guards wearing armor approached them. "Hello warriors from Midgard. Please follow us. Allfather Odin is waiting for you."

John and other followed the guards to the palace. The palace looked more majestic inside. They all went to the main hall only to see Odin sitting in his throne. John and Emma bowed down to him. Though they didn't have to but just for the fact that Odin had protected Earth from frost giants was something worthy of praise. Odin deserved some respect in this regard.

"Welcome powerful warriors of Midgard. I hope you like our hospitality."

"Thank you Allfather. Asgard has been great. More majestic than I imagined." John replied. "Where is Queen Frigga?"

"She was just notified that you all have arrived and on her way to here." Odin said.

"Hello Guardian. It's an honor to meet such a noble warrior of the universe." he continued.

"Huh! No no Allfather I am not a Guardian, I am just a recruit corp of them. I have still a long way to go to be a proper Green Lantern." Emma blushed and said.

"All father how do you know of the Guardians?" John asked in a surprised tone.

"I paid a visit once to the Guardians. They are more knowledgeable than me. It's a blessing to the nine realms that Oa has merged with us."

Chapter 137: Conditions

John never checked on the Guardians and he left Oa on it's own devices. So when John came to know of this he was surprised. He instantly checked the memories of the Guardians and he really did see Odin visiting.

Odin then looked at Bumblebee. He just greeted at Bee but didn't say anything much. Soon Frigga came. John and Emma greeted her and she was very enthusiastic of Emma.

"Go. Enjoy the surroundings of Asgard. Thor isn't here as he went to quell the rebellion in the nine realms. We can always talk later." Odin said. John too obliged as he had come here for vacation and wanted to have a good time.

Then led by Frigga, John and the other two roamed around the palace and even saw the training grounds. Emma even suggested that she should also join the training soldiers.

Emma joined in the arena and had a good exchange using her ring. The soldiers were surprised by this weird magic where she conjured weapons out of thin air. After a round of exchange she backed off. Emma actually wanted to try herself against the Asgardians.

She had seen the records on them and knew how powerful they were so as a lantern she had to try. She was happy that she could overpower them. Even though she didn't use all her strength she already had the upper hand. She felt proud to be a lantern and was able to demonstrate her powers to the Asgardians.

Later even Bee took arms against a dozen of soldiers together.

Bee wasn't so great in close fights. Being a transformer he was more of a long range fighting specialist. As a result he suffered a bit.

"Come out Bee. They use magic and technology together. Your body might not be able to handle it."

Bee came out of the arena in a sullen face. He hadn't been out for such a long time and now that he was out he suffered.

"It's alright Bee, don't sulk. If you want a proper war I will give you one soon." John assured. Bee's eyes lit up as soon as he said that.

John and other spent the entire day roaming around the city. Emma didn't have any currency to buy so she just went around and didn't buy anything. Some people recognized Bee from the bridge and wanted to say hello to him. Many were curious about them so John had to explain them that they were from Midgard.

At night Odin prepared a huge banquet. John who didn't like alcohol or beer had to chug in beer so as not to disrespect Odin as it was the tradition of Asgard. He literally had to use phoenix power inside his body to burn away the drunken feeling.

Emma and John went to the guest room which was big and spacious. They loved the style and Emma even suggested if they could build a home as spacious as this. John just smiled to it.

The next day John went to the palace as he needed to talk. He had an important thing to discuss.

"So warrior, why have you actually come to Asgard?" Odin asked.

"Allfather I want a total privacy with only you and Queen." John said.

"Huh. Sure. Guards leave the main hall." Odin said.

"But your Majesty.. It won't be safe.." a guard said looking at John apprehensively.

"Don't worry, if he really wanted to harm us, it would have been a monumental task for us to stop him. He doesn't need to go a roundabout way to deal with us." Odin said. John raised his eye brows when he heard that.

"Seems like Heimdall did peep on me quite a lot." John murmured. The guards were surprised by what Odin and took a deep look at John. John wasn't sure why Odin was so easy going knowing that John might be danger to himself.

The guards left after being directed again by Odin.

"Seems like you know quite a lot." John said.

"Heimdall did tell me about your other form. Got to say I am surprised that Midgard had produced such a powerful warrior as you. Had a talk with the Ancient One about you. She assured me that you are harmless." Odin said. John blushed at this as he was anything but harmless.

Soon the palace became empty, with only John, Frigga and John present. Odin even put an enchantment around so that nobody could listen after being suggested by John. Though he didn't understand why but he still did it.

"Now tell me what are you here for."

"Allfather I have a news for you. Queen Frigga is going to die." John said. Odin and Frigga were taken aback and Odin suddenly put his guard up as he thought John might attack. Even though he trusted Ancient One quite a bit, but not high enough to overlook everything. But then he understood that's not what John meant.

"What do you mean I am going to die?" Frigga asked in a tranquil face as if she expected it.

"I can't say much as me saying more of future would change many things. The only thing I can say is I am here to save you." John said.

"Save her? Why? I don't think you owe Asgard any thing." Odin asked.

"I don't and that's why I am here in a condition." John said.

"So you mean you can save me but we have to fulfill your condition." Frigga asked.

"Yes."

"Tell me about your condition."

"I want my movies, games and animes to be propagated in Asgard."

Chapter 138: TVA

John came to Asgard for two reasons. One was because he wanted to propagate his works here to gain more fan values. Earth would't be enough for John to gain more values and secondly he wanted to see if TVA or the Time Variance Authority, responsible for maintaining the Sacred Timeline, comes if he saved Frigga. Though in many universes Frigga was alive and was never hunted by the TVA.

John wanted to see if they really come. All his life he was in fear of being hunted down by them but soon realized that TVA never came when he touched the lives of many people. Even though he made sure that the timeline didn't distort a lot but after Hydra's demise the plot had already gone out of the window. All of Hydra died much earlier than they were supposed to.

Now he wanted to see if TVA comes when he saves Frigga. Because they showed up when Loki escaped and lived and would like to see what would happen if Frigga was saved.

"Are you sure of this condition alone? Is this some kind of a joke?" Odin asked.

"It's not a joke. I love my works and I want all of Asgard to watch it. Many people have started coming from different universes. Some might even come to Asgard. The people needs a guidance to that so my works would help them understanding the other party."

Odin contemplated a bit, he was confused about why John had a weird condition. He expected treasures from his vault for the exchange of Frigga's life but his condition really felt out of the world.

"Though I think you are hiding something with this condition but I will accept it only after you are able to save Frigga. " Odin said.

"I won't be saving her. I will be sending a friend of mine. He too like you comes from legends and Gods. Oh yes he is as grumpy old guy as you." John said. Frigga laughed loudly at the description of Odin.

"Now tell me how is she going to die. I will take proper measures." Odin asked without minding the slight of John.

"I can't, the more I speak more the future will distort. Don't act on anything and act as you are supposed to. It won't be long before everything is revealed. I must say that Queen Frigga compassion is enormous as even after knowing she might die you didn't flinch."

"Death will come when it's supposed to come." Frigga said in a tranquil voice.

"Who's your friend that is going to help us?" Odin asked.

"You will see him soon. Tell Heimdall to be on the lookout in Asgard as he will arrive here. Never antagonize him. He has a very bad history when it comes to Gods. He killed every last God in his previous world." John said.

"He will arrive here in Asgard? Won't it be dangerous for us?" Odin asked this time.

"It's fine as long as you don't mind his business, he won't care. He has a son now. Do you think a person with a family will care about other matters now? All his life only thing he had seen was bloodshed and revenge. He is at peace now. It's almost the same life as yours." John assured him.

Odin still felt skeptical and made a mind to remind Heimdall to keep a watch on the new guest. Then Odin lifted the enchantment as he could feel the guards outside were getting restless with this long absence.

Emma came too as John had been missing for sometime now. Odin didn't ask any more about this and kept his stance as usual. Frigga too wasn't bothered and continued talking with Emma.

John went outside the palace to continue his vacation as he wanted. He would summon Kratos and his son at night in the nearby woods. He was sure Heimdall would notice his arrival and take necessary measures.

As the night fell John and Emma returned to their guest room. As John laid down he said to the system

"Summon Kratos and Atreus in the woods nearby."

As soon as Kratos and his son were summoned, both Heimdall and Odin felt it. Heimdall asked for direction from Odin.

"Leave them be for tonight. I will summon them tomorrow." Odin said after contemplating. Even though John said that he would be harmless Odin still had to see if they were trustworthy.

The night went by and Heimdall said that the father son duo acted normal and even made a temporary home in a few hours in the woods.

"Summon them." Odin said. "Call John too."

Kratos and his son was soon approached by the guards. And since John had directed him to act accordingly, he obliged by the order and followed the guards with his son.

Soon all three came to the main hall of the palace. Kratos appeared bald with a red tattoo covering his right eye. He had a beard exactly like Odin but only difference was he had black beard. His son was very young and looked cute.

Odin called Frigga too and ordered his guards to give them privacy as he needed to speak with them in a secrecy. Like before he used enchantment too.

Chapter 139: Godson

Kratos stood in front of Odin with his typical scowl. He looked stoic as he held the hand of his son. Odin too looked at Kratos. He wore a more ancient clothing and had battle scars all over his body signifying he had gone through many battles.

"Welcome to Asgard. I hope the journey was pleasant." Odin finally broke the silence with that.

"Hmm. It was different." Kratos replied. John had his hand in his forehead. These two are way too stubborn. He needed to remedy the situation.

"Umm Kratos.. I have already guided you with the dreams. This is Asgard." John said as he needed to play the role.

"Yes I understand that I will have to keep her alive if I want to stay" Kratos said in a deeper voice.

"No. You can live here without any problems. Even if I die, it won't matter. You can live here peacefully without any hindrance. I understand that you have been flung here without consent so it's not your fault. Asgard will be your home now and forever." Frigga replied this time.

Kratos looked at Odin. He nodded his head. Then Frigga looked at his son and asked

"What a lovely boy. What's your name child?"

"Atreus.. Hello madam." Atreus said.

"Hello..."

"His mother was from Jotunheim. She named him Loki. Not the same Jotunheim of this universe. His universe too has Asgard and the nine realms. So his mother was from Jotunheim." John added this time.

Both Odin and Frigga shuddered when they heard this. Loki, a name which was very close to them.

"Is he really called Loki?" Odin asked Kratos this time.

"Yes. That's the name his mother gave him." Kratos said.

"Kratos, will you mind if I adopt your son as god-son?" Frigga suddenly asked. "He will be a Prince to Asgard." She continued.

"I don't think we want anything to do with your titles ." Kratos said.

"I know but the thing is I have another son named Loki who is in prison for his crime. I failed to educate him. I hope I can educate this child better. He lost his mother, didn't he. I will try to give him the best education possible. Of course he will be the Prince only if you say so. " Frigga said.

"Boy.. Would you like to be a Prince?" Kratos asked Atreus.

"I will follow whatever you say father." Atreus said but he had a smile on his face when he heard that he would be a Prince of such a huge place.

Kratos looked at John, as at the end John is the real controller of everything. John nodded his head. Odin too accepted Atreus as the new god-son. After removing the enchantment, he called the guards and asked for a banquet to announce the new Prince of Asgard.

Odin had his own calculations on it. He saw how Kratos looked at John and John was probably like a guide to everyone who comes from another universe. If he tied down Atreus to Asgard, John might help Asgard in future. Above all he would propagate his works in Asgard soon so John was basically a helper of Asgard. Odin himself didn't mind another son.

This would help Thor gain a brother's love again and teach him to be a kinder King. Asgard was in uproar as now there would be a new Prince. They soon came to know that it was an adopted son by Frigga and Odin. The subjects soon started preparing for the banquet as honoring a new Prince was a must.

Due to such arrangement, Thor and others would be brought back for the celebration and crowning of the new Prince. John on the other hand made sure Atreus didn't have a cocky character in the future like he did in the God of War 4 game. Having to keep an eye on the duo, as an added bonus Frigga would be his mother so that would teach humility.

"Aah.. Whatever.. Didn't expect that... Maybe one day he would be the king of Asgard as both the current Loki and Thor won't sit on the throne. What a cunning King Odin. Giving the position of prince to Atreus so that Kratos could almost give his life but of course there is a long time for that. I don't think Odin will ever hand over the throne to Atreus."

So by the evening the palace was decorated majestically for the ceremony. Emma soon came to know the reason. After watching so many things, she already accepted that random characters would arrive from other universes. Only this time it was in Asgard.

In the evening, Thor arrived along with Sif and others. He even brought some prisoners from nine realms. John even went to see the prisoners if there was a Dark Elf among them but didn't find any.

"I guess Kratos would have to wait for his opportunity. Let him be the hero. Knowing his history he deserves to settle down too."

Chapter 140: Loki

The ceremony started with many warriors present in a row. Thor, Frigga, Volstagg and others on the side too. Thor was taken aback when he came to know that he had gained a new brother named Loki. When the actual Loki came to know he was also dumbfounded. After Frigga told him that he came from another universe he understood.

People cheered for the new Prince. Atreus looked stunning with the Asgardian armor. He had a bow and arrows in his back instead of a sword or other melee weapons. It was his weapon of choice. As he walked he felt shy as he was basically a boy who grew up in the woods. It was the first time he had seen so many people at once and that too cheered for him.

He saw his father standing the front row and finally calmed himself and walked towards the throne where Odin was standing with his Gungnir. Odin too wore a majestic armor. Atreus finally reached near the throne.

"Atreus, son of Kratos. Do you accept the title of Prince and take a pledge to forever defend the dignity of Asgard until your death?"

"I pledge that from now and forever I will fight for the people of Asgard and defend their honor until I die." Atreus said with a loud tone.

"Very well. From now you are the Third Prince of Asgard, enjoying the same rights as Thor." Odin said.

Thor and others cheered. Even Emma and John were happy. Thor was happy that he finally got a new brother and he could be his protector. He didn't treat Loki well in his childhood, he wanted to remedy that and look for salvation in Atreus. There was a large banquet after. Kratos actually had a drinking duel with Thor and Thor lost at the end which surprised everyone.

Frigga even took Atreus to show Loki his new brother. Loki looked at his other version of himself in another universe with curious eyes. Atreus like him had the bloodline from Jotunheim but understood that Jotunheim of Atreus' universe didn't have frost giants.

The next day Thor had to go back to nine realms to quell the rebellion but this time Kratos joined them. He wanted to have a proper feel of the nine realms. Kratos brought the Leviathan Axe instead of Blades of Chaos as those blades was his dark history.

Thor too wanted to fight with someone who supposedly killed Gods in his universe and he wanted to see how he fights. And Kratos didn't disappoint them. His Axe worked like Thor's hammer and used ice element. Since Kratos was brought with his character fully maxed out, he was basically an overkill for those who revolted.

As Kratos went away, John too returned to earth. John had informed Odin before leaving and said if he needed in any help Odin can ask from him. He didn't want Ragnarok to come to pass as that would mean loss of fan values.

He had a very vague plan for Hela and he wasn't sure if that would be enough.

"Sigh! Will think of it when Hela comes. What a headache this whole universe is."

After John returned he noticed that he had received many calls and messages. Even Emma received. Surprisingly even Fury had called.

"Wow, even the baldy misses me. I am honored." John said in a sarcastic tone. John returned all the missed calls and messages. He returned to his work the next day while Emma was busy with her classes.

John went to the DC office to check how far the next movie was progressing. The next movie would open multiple characters which he would require in the future. He was looking forward to it.

After a few days, John suddenly saw a news that piqued his interest. He saw a news that Dr. Erik Selvig was caught near the Stonehenge parading naked with his instruments.

"So it has started. Emma I will be going to London for few days. Tell your parents to take a vacation outside in the next few days."

"Huh? Is something going to happen?" Emma asked as she knew John wouldn't give such a weird suggestion suddenly.

"Well some old guy will wake up and he needs to be beaten back. Don't worry. Everything has been taken care of. Just inform your parents."

"Need any help?" Emma asked as now she too could help.

"No, it's fine. In fact I will just go to London for sightseeing and do damage control."

John flew to London that day itself as he needed to see the whole phenomena himself. He had the phone number of Dr. Jane so he called her after landing in London.

"Hello Dr. Foster. Remember me? It's John. I am in London. I saw Dr. Selvig's in news. Is he alright?"

"Huh. Mr. Jameson, yes yes.. He is alright. We are going to the police station now to free him from custody."