Chapter 201: The school

"There is no such prohibition but people here might not like it." The Ancient One said.

"Huh. Who will oppose me? Mordo? or Kaecilius?" John asked.

"Leave it. So why are you here?" the ancient one asked.

"Well some witches are going to come and a very powerful girl." John said. Geralt's eyes went bright when John said that as he knew what he meant.

"Oh! I don't think you have come here only for this reason." the ancient one said.

"The girl can open portals to other dimensions." John said finally. The ancient one raised her eyebrows when she heard that.

"Any dimensions?" she asked.

"In her universe she could do that easily. I am not sure if she could do it here." John said.

"Ok. It's fine if she is on our side. Since she can go through dimensions she will be powerful enough. Earth will have another warrior. When are they arriving?" she asked.

"They are on their way to the Swiss Alps." John said.

"Then let's go." the ancient one said as she used her sling ring to open a portal. Matt and Elektra who haven't uttered a single word were amazed. Even though Matt couldn't see, he could feel that another place had been connected after she made circle with her hands in air.

They all went through the portal only to come to a snowy valley. Since it was winter, it was very harsh.

"Can you direct them here?" the ancient one asked as she knew John had the powers to direct people in a particular location.

"Let's go to a clearing. The witches aren't the only ones who are going to come." John said. Since everybody wore warm clothes, they started walking to a clearing where there would be huge space. Even though they didn't understand what John meant by that they still followed. The ancient one used her magic to sweep away the snow so that everything would be clear.

"Who is she Mr. Jameson?" Matt asked as he couldn't hold it any longer.

"She is the ancient one. You can say she is the guardian of Earth and defends earth against beings who come to Earth from other dimension with malicious intentions." John said.

"Wow she must be really powerful then. What is that power she uses? Looks like magic." Elektra asked.

"Because it is magic." John said.

"So there is magic." Matt muttered as he had already expected after 'seeing' Geralt fight. Geralt who had been looking at the ancient one felt weird as he had never seen such magic before. It looked exquisite. As they were talking the Ancient One had swept away all the clearing. It was time for John to act.

Fan values required to bring the Wolf School, Cirila, Yennefer, Triss and other witchers of the wolf school- 1.2 billion]

"What a huge price. Well now I am little rich. Having witches around will be helpful anyways. It's probably because of Ciri alone that the price is that high" John murmured as he waved his hands.

The next moment what they all saw astonished them. Out of nowhere an ancient broken castle came into being. The castle looked huge but it was broken and damaged in many parts. There was huge broken door too. From the door came out few people.

A woman with white hair came running to the arms of Geralt. She had two swords in her back like Geralt normally wields.

"I missed you." Ciri said, the powerful girl who could go through dimensions and even has a power over time

"I missed you too." Geralt replied. Soon the other two women and the other three witchers came out.

"Welcome to the new world." John finally said. "I have already shared the relevant memories."

"Yes. This world is peaceful. We can all rest in peace." Vesemir said, the teacher of Geralt said. He died in the game but John brought him back to life to give a more a happy ending to Geralt and others.

"This world isn't so peaceful. Monsters will be there in every world. It's just a different breed of monsters." John said.

"Thank you for bringing us here." Triss said. Yennefer as usual was cold and arrogant and just nodded at others. She looked at the Ancient One and said

"You reek of dark magic." Yennefer said. John was taken aback because he didn't expect Yennefer's magic sense to be effective on other kinds of magic too.

"She has reasons to use dark magic. Don't worry about that. Let's introduce ourselves shall we?" John said. Thus everybody introduced themselves. Matt was the only one who knew all of them so he explained Elektra and the Ancient One about their origin. Ciri on the other hand was running around and was checking the surroundings.

"You need to cast magic to make the school invisible. It won't be good if the locals see it as it is not far from the town. I have already made identities of you all." John said.

Chapter 202: New magic

"We understand." Yenneffer said and thus started casting magic while chanting elvish spells. Triss too joined in this as the school covered a ton of area. The Ancient One was curious about this new magic so she watched them closely. As they were doing that John asked.

"Ciri can you go through other dimensions from here?" That was the most important question that John cared about.

"I can feel other dimensions being connected. Though I can feel some dimensions would be hard to break but if I want to I can do it." Ciri replied.

"OK. Just don't go to other dimensions. Here other dimensional beings are more aggressive than your universe." John said as he was happy. Now finally he can travel to other dimensions if he wanted by changing himself to her. Of course John wouldn't be so arrogant to do that as that would be suicide because some people are way too powerful in other dimensions.

The school finally became invisible and others wet inside the school after this was done. The Ancient One was really interested in their magic so she asked Triss about it and even showed her own magic to her. Yenneffer too got interested when she saw it and inquired her about the new magic. They all went to the dining hall and sat down.

Ciri went to bring food and drinks for everyone.

"Triss, this woman is being reeked by blood thirst. Can you look into this matter?" John asked finally as Matt and her were here for the cure. Triss understood what he meant so she checked into Elektra.

"She has a bit of dark magic of another dimension. It would take time to get rid of it." Triss said after checking her for 2 minutes. "She will have to be here for proper treatment."

Matt and Elektra finally felt relieved as they saw hope. Matt was grateful for the help that John had provided as he knew how arrogant the witches were. Elektra decided to be in this place for treatment.

"Vesemir. Do you want to make more witchers?" John asked.

"Is that possible? This world won't allow us to let children go through the Trial of Grass and there are no monsters here." Vesemir lamented.

"The mutations can be done by technology. Geralt and other witchers can go and search for orphans to have proper candidates for next generation of witchers. You can contact me when you think the school will accept a new batch. I will give access to better 'alchemic' processes so that when new candidates become witchers there won't be deaths." John said.

"That's great. New students. But do this world even need witchers." Eskel said, another witcher from the wolf school.

"This world is more dangerous than you think." the Ancient One said.

"Alright let us get settled here. We will need to repair the castle." Vesemir said.

"I will send the League to help you." John said as he had already contacted Raas to send the corpse of the dragon here . "There will be a gift for you all soon."

"Oh? What is it?" Triss asked with curiosity.

"A corpse of an ancient dragon." John said. Yenneffer and other instantly got excited about it as it would mean new items for alchemy. Even the Ancient One was surprised as she didn't expect that John had possessions of such things too.

"That's great. Can't wait for it to arrive." Yenneffer said. After that they all started eating and drinking. Even though John doesn't like drinking he occasionally does that as a form of courtesy. They all had a good time and even some of them danced while Ciri played the lute.

John remembered he could bring Priscilla and Dandelion. So he spent some fan values and extracted them outside the school. They were bards who roamed around singing and spreading stories of legends.

They showed up to the dining hall and everybody were happy to see them again. They spent the whole day having fun and surprisingly the Ancient One also stayed with them.

John and others slept in the guest quarters. Even though the whole place was ancient looking it was clean nonetheless. It was a unique experience for John and he loved it.

The next day they all had to leave except for Elektra. The Ancient One had invited them to the sanctums too. By now everybody knew what the Ancient One represented and they were in awe of her history. They were now more respectful to her.

"You all are welcome to Kamar-Tak specially you Ciri. we have books on different dimensions and you can read through them to get a proper knowledge of them."

"Sure I would love to go through new knowledge later when everything here is settled." Ciri said.

After that they all left. The Ancient one sent John and Matt to New York in the Sanctum. After going out Matt said bye as he had to go to office while John went home with Bumblebee.

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Thank you.

Chapter 203: A change

John took a day off from work and just took rest. The next day he flew to Jurassic Park as he had to talk with Tony and Pepper and even called Bruce for a meeting. Now Jurassic Park was the unofficial headquarter of the Avengers. Cyborg was there working in the laboratory.

Since Fury knew Barry had knowledge on criminology he invited Barry to work for SHIELD which he happily accepted.

After few hours of travel they reached Jurassic Park and went straight to the lab where Tony was working with Cyborg. Ryan too came with them to see Tony's lab. he had been working on Bruce's lab and had never gone to Jurassic Park. And he wanted to see the dinosaurs.

"Tony a new technology is going to be in our hands soon." John said.

"What kind of technology?" Tony was excited and curious.

"A medical technology which will revolutionize the medical field forever." John said with certainty.

"Really now? That will be great for people of the world." Tony said.

"Yes. Pepper make the company ready for this new branch and get in Dr. Helen Cho from South Korea. She has a similar technology but the new technology will be more advanced then her's " John said.

"Dr. Helen Cho. Got it." Pepper said.

"So how is the work going on nanotechnology?" John inquired.

"It's coming out fine. We will have nano armor soon." Tony said.

"Good."

"I have a question for you John. You said you have seen the armors of Bruce. Have you seen my armors from other universes." Tony asked. John didn't expect that Tony asked this. He always though Tony would be too arrogant to even ask such question as he always thought he was the better version.

"Are you sure you want to know this?" John asked.

"Well I want to get an inspiration on the types of armor other versions of me have produced." Tony asked curiously.

"Study the extremis virus. Maybe you can get an armor from this." John replied directing Tony to work on the bleeding edge (extremis) armor that Tony had made from the extremis virus.

"Huh extremis virus? Is that technology even helpful?" Tony was skeptical as he had seen the technology before but didn't find anything helpful.

"You made one of the best armors by using extremis virus. Combine nanotechnology with extremis. Ryan and Maya can help you in this." John said.

"Alright. Any other armors that I made?" Tony asked again.

"Most of your other armors are situational armors. You can make them yourself without any help like you did during Killian's death. There are other two notable armors but you don't have access to it." John said. Victor was curious about these new two armors so she asked John about it.

"One armor is made from Uru metal. You will have to ask Thor to provide that metal to make the armor and the last armor..." John paused.

"The last armor?" Tony asked raising his eyebrows as he felt John hesitated in revealing the answer.

"In short words you became a god with that armor. Don't ask more about it, the place where that armor was made is way too far ahead in the future and we will have to face someone who even the other Gods fear." John said as he was thinking of the recent comics of Cosmic Iron Man before he got transmigrated where Tony went to the spaceship of Galactus and used the same technology that powers his spaceship to remodel his armor.

"A god....." Tony murmured. " I will reach that place someday." Tony suddenly now had an aim. He had been making armors for sometime now but he never had any fixed target. Now he had one. He understood he would have to face a dangerous being but he would have to try nonetheless.

"Forget about it. Make the bleeding edge armor for now. That was the name you gave to the armor."
John said.

"Bleeding edge? Fine." Tony said.

"Is Vernoica ready?" John asked as he saw Banner coming to join their conversation. Banner too had been living in Jurassic Park and now was the head of genetics of the park working on genes of the dinosaurs and trying to understand the whole gene technology behind it and even find a cure from this.

"Umm after Wayne worked on it we renamed it as Hulkbuster." Banner said.

"That's fine." John said. Tony called Maya who too was working under Banner after the whole debacle with Kilian. She would be a criminal if she went out so Tony helped in clearing her name on the condition she worked for Umbrella.

Maya soon came and Tony gave her his ideas. John even suggested that they could take the help of Helen in this new research. Ryan too joined in this new research since John had said that Tony needed nanotechnology.

Chapter 204: Augmented Reality

John left after that while Bruce and others got busy researching this new extremis virus and nanotechnology combination. Some of the greatest minds on Earth were behind this so John was sure they would be able to figure something out.

John had work too as he had two movies to launch and also new animes. And even John had been behind the Justice League Unlimited. So he was working closely with the animation department of Disney.

The first movie was set to be released by June so John still had time. Meanwhile, the first spaceship to be traveling to Mars by June too so there was still time for that. Soon the first month of 2015 ended. And February was the release of a new game that John had ordered CD Projekt RED to work upon long time ago. This new game would help in terraforming Mars in a more beautiful and unique way.

The game was soon released and it was the story of a girl who goes on a journey to stop an evil cultist group in taking over a planet by making the other living things corrupted. The only thing weird about the world was that the animals weren't exactly living animals but mechanical animals.

Yes. The game was Horizon Zero Dawn.

There were machines here instead of animals who helped in maintaining the ecosystem and the balance. Since Mars didn't have any animals John had thought of placing the whole new technology and factories that made the mechanical animals there. That would be a huge attraction from all around the world thus making people more interested in the game and gaining more fan values.

John also knew that this would invoke the greed of the governments but for that he had already started infiltrating the League and SHIELD everywhere. Wayne too followed the plan of John and had been silently helping in this. Fury who had a persecution delusion also supported this. He didn't want another incident like New York War where the nukes were sent.

"If the governments still resists, I will deal with them personally." John thought.

Soon by the mid of February the game was out and like the previous two games, this game was an instant hit. People loved it by it's colorful and vivid game-play. And even the story was great as they showed how future technology and relying on machines too much could lead to the destruction.

After the game was released he directly contacted the spaceships there and said a new ecosystem similar to Cybertron would arrive in Mars. The transformers there were instantly excited about it. John only needed to send the required plants and seeds for that. John had already planned to send them.

John again traveled to Jurassic Park to give a heads up to them about the new world. After he reached he was surprised to see that all of them were working on the extremis- nanotech still.

"Still working on all of these?" John asked.

"Yes. The extremis virus really has a potential." Wayne said.

"Anyways guys. Have you played the new game?" John asked.

"Yes. Don't tell me their technology would be arriving." Banner said with excitement.

"Yes." John said after bringing out the FOCUS device after extracting from the system. It was an augmented reality device that responded to human's directions. It could be used for communication and are placed in the ear.

John handed over FOCUS to Tony. He put it on and it immediately a hologram projection in front of him. FOCUS started scanning all the things nearby and even projected the details in front.

"This is great. Such a small device for hologram projection. This will be another addition to Umbrella this year." Tony said with excitement.

"I am not here for FOCUS. I am here to tell you that Mars will receive all the technology from the game. The factories that the machines will be made be merged soon. We need to send seeds and plants to Mars to let their transition smoother. They will slowly start managing the ecosystem which would allow us not to care about the balance of nature there." John said.

"We will need to make Mars our exclusive territory so that governments don't come after us." Wayne said as he could already imagine being hounded by many governments together.

"Yes. Don't worry about that. We will handle it. We can't stop the transition anyways. We can only brace ourselves. Bruce you better start pushing for new laws that will help us against it the incursion of foreign elements in Mars."

"I will talk to the world council about it." Wayne said. Tony had already opened FOCUS from inside and started working on it. Banner and Ryan were interested in it too.

"Extract the GAIA AI and factories for making the machines to maintain the ecological balance in Mars."

"Do it."

Chapter 205: Sokovia

After few minutes Jarvis said

"Sir, another AI named GAIA is trying to contact. Shall I open the communication line."

"They have arrived already. That was very fast. It's a pity we couldn't see the arrival." Banner said.

"Open the line." Tony said.

Soon on the screen a woman appeared. She looked beautiful with black hair and blue eyes.

"Hello fellow earthlings. I am GAIA. It's pleasure meeting you all. I was guided by Mr. John Jameson to Mars and was asked to contact upon arrival."

"Hello GAIA. Welcome to this universe." Wayne was the first person to respond.

"It seems you have emotions too. This is amazing. I have been trying to install it in Jarvis but still had been unsuccessful. GAIA can you help me in remodeling Jarvis later?" Tony asked her directly without any introduction.

"You mean the other AI? Sure Mr. Stark. Would be happy to see another AI who is like me." GAIA said.

"Tony at least do a proper introduction. I am sorry about his behavior Miss GAIA." Banner reprimanded.

"It's fine. I already know all of you. Earth is lucky to get such capable scientists. I would need your help too as Mars doesn't have any plants." GAIA said.

"We will send some astronauts soon with proper arrangements. Don't worry." Tony said as he would soon send some people to Mars. Banner and Maya would lead the team as they were capable in this field, specially Maya. Some SHIELD agents would also go as this was the deal between them and SHIELD.

"So introduction is over. Now it's upto you people. We will soon insert our hands in medical and communications. Seems like Earth should be renamed as Umbrella. We will soon have our hands in all industries." John joked.

"Yes. I never expected I would be building a new company which will be bigger than Stark Industries." Tony said.

"Bruce have you found out the last member of Hydra?" John suddenly asked as it was almost time to bring Scarlet Witch and Quick Silver.

"Yes. We have found their base in Sokovia. We can attack after we bring all information of the base." Wayne said.

"Good. Strucker had been hidden from us for a long time. Time to bring him to justice." Banner said.

"Wayne call everybody after pinpointing the location. All avengers members." John said.

"Is that necessary? He is just a simple Hydra member." Tony asked.

"I have a feeling we might need everybody in it." John said.

"Fine Mr. Prophet. The Avengers haven't come together in a long time. It's time for building team connection in the mission." Tony said.

"New members will be joining in in the meeting." John said.

"New members? Who?" Tony asked.

"Witches and witchers." John said.

"They have arrived too? Now magic has come." Banner said with awe. "Bruce do you have magicians on your universe?"

"Yes." Wayne said. Now everybody was surprised. They didn't expect magicians to be present in their universes too.

"Magic has always been present. In one universe Tony himself is a great magician." John said.

"Me? A magician? Never knew I have such interests. I better not create balloon animals." Tony replied.

John discussed about he company with Pepper before leaving for his home. There was still time to attack the base in Sokovia. Before that he needed to handle all the work in Disney. John was pretty sure that this time there wouldn't be any Ultron as he had managed to give Tony a sense of protection and even gave him an aim.

So John was happy about all of this. Ultron was one of the few people who gave him headache. In comics he wasn't that powerful but the What if? series gave him fear. After dealing with Sokovia John would ask all of the scientists to work on Vision. He would be helpful in future wars.

The month of March went like a storm as John got busy with many projects. Starscream left for Mars with Banner and Maya. Many SHIELD agents joined and even some ninjas. They would be responsible for plantation in a massive scale. It would be impossible to cover whole of Mars so fast but this would be a start.

Wayne had warned them not to investigate too much into the machines that had arrived. Fury was surprised to know that a new world had merged into Mars. He could already imagine the storm it would create when this would come to light to general public.

Finally on the month of April SHIELD got all information that they could gather on Hydra's last member and his small mercenary army and sent the information. Wayne called the Avengers to Jurassic Park. John called the witcher school too to join in this assault.

Yenneffer and Triss would be perfect to act against a young Wanda and in addition they would get a sense of belonging to this new world.

Chapter 206: The grand meeting

On a chilly morning on the first of April all the Avengers came together. They had a smaller meeting before and now this was a grander one. John and others reached early. The most surprising inclusion was Thor. He had been away for a long time now, but he was finally back as all the rebellion had been curbed. John called out to Heimdall for that.

Diana, Flash, Wayne, Steve Rogers, Clint, Oliver and Natasha had all arrived. John was happy to see everyone. A proper gathering for the Avengers. Even though he could have named the whole team as Justice League but he refrained from that as he wanted to honor the name in the marvel universe.

"It's nice to see you all and for the first time all together." John said.

"It's nice to be back together." A voice said from high up. It was Hal. But he didn't come alone. He had brought Bucky too. Surprisingly Tony didn't react at all.

"Nice to see you back, old friend." Barry said. As they were talking another quinjet landed. John knew who had come. After opening the hatch, three women and three men came out.

It was the magical side. The witches and the witchers. But what surprised John was that Fury came with them.

"You found them already? I thought they were hidden." John said.

"I contacted them, as we needed help with many instruments." Geralt said. John had contacted them via his phone which had been delivered by the league. He didn't care to check on the memories. John didn't expect Geralt to ask help from SHIELD.

Everybody had watched and played the game before as John had said that they would come. Yennefer and Triss looked more beautiful in real life. While Ciri was a blooming beauty and had white hair. Even though she had a scar on her face, it just added to her beauty.

"Did you like my gift?" John asked as they started approaching.

"Yes. This is going to fuel our research for a long time. Vesemir is working on it tirelessly." Triss said. John nodded at it.

"Let's go inside. We have work to do." Wayne said. Everybody entered the main hall which was built for the gathering. Banner was waiting for them inside in his typical white coat.

"This place looks small. There will be a new headquarters soon." John said as he entered.

"New headquarters?" Fury got interested.

"Yes. A huge place. Even SHIELD can move there as it would be better and have proper control over everything." John said.

"Really? I am looking forward to this new place you are talking about." Steve said with curiosity. Steve started talking with Bucky about Oa and Fury being interested joined in the conversation.

Thor was amazed to see so many new people so he got more interested in knowing everybody. Everybody exchanged greetings and got to know each other. Since this was the first meeting for many new people they had to get along. After half an hour of talking and discussing things Fury finally asked everyone to sit down.

"You all know why you are here. The magic side had already been briefed of Hydra. They are cooped up in a fortress in Sokovia. Initial satellite readings tell us that there are many people being holed up in and around the fortress."

"Wayne will be running point on the mission as he is better at it than any of us here." Fury continued. Wayne took over the stage and started talking about the plan.

"... Geralt and all will be provided with better gear so that they can be protected. John and Banner will be on standby as their powers are too massive and it might destroy everything on the path. The Avengers are loved by many people but every country doesn't like us. So we will have to be careful of the damage in the surroundings." Wayne finished dictating the plan by saying that.

"Alright. Let's go." John said. Tony supplied new FOCUS chips to everyone. Umbrella is already building an industry which would specifically make the FOCUS chips. Pepper was already handling the business side of it.

Tony and others all wore their suits. Wayne used the Justice armor this time while Tony just used the normal armor which he had upgraded. Nanotechnology wasn't ready yet so they used the old ways. They didn't fly off to Sokovia like they should have done but Victor opened a boom tube directly.

Everybody walked in and thus they arrived at Sokovia in a second.

"Jarvis keeps an eye on everything. Let's give them hell." Wayne said.

Oliver, Natasha, Clint and Batman were the first force to attack. They were good at stealth so they wanted to surprise the enemy. Wayne knew this first attack wouldn't be hidden for a long time so they needed to take out the surrounding guards as fast as possible.

Chapter 207: Wanda and Pietro

Their attack went on for a full 15 minutes before they were finally discovered by the main center.

"We are exposed. Need to proceed to the second phase people." Wayne said.

"Alright. let's go." Steve said as he rode his bike. Thor and Diana flew over while Geralt and others rode a jeep to the battlefield. Even though they were away from civilization, they had started learning the local customs and habits. Ciri just vanished from her place. She had a new sword now as Tony had given her a more powerful and sharp sword. All the other witchers got that too.

John who saw all this from his FOCUS was proud for the first time. He had been working day and night just so that he could see all his favourite characters fighting side by side.

Now many of his dreams were fulfilled. He almost had tears of joy. The fight raged on. Thor and Diana were working together. Flash ran through everywhere and just helped everyone here and there. Yen and Triss used magic lightning and straight up killed people.

"Triss, can you feel it?" Yen asked as they were fighting.

"Yes. Another witch. We need to get her with us. She will be a huge addition to our group if she sides with us." Triss said.

It had to be said that the defence of the last Hydra base was very strong and everybody worked together to demolish everything.

"Loki's sceptre must be here. They could never manage such high technology without any help." Wayne said. "Tony poke into their base. We need to rattle them."

Tony flew into their base but was stopped by an energy shield.

"We need to stop the shield. Jarvis, can you see any weak points?" Tony asked

"There is a power source to that shield on the north side of the tower." Jarvis replied.

"Good. I will poke it with something huge." Tony said as he sent a small missile to it. "Drawbridge is down, people. Everybody close in." Tony said over communications.

Meanwhile Clint and Oliver were killing and taking out guard towers but suddenly they saw their arrows were taken away mid-air. Before they could understand what happened they were hit on their faces.

"You didn't see that coming?" said a man with silver hair to the two of them. But as he was going to vanish by running fast again he too was directly hit on the face.

"He didn't see that one coming." Barry said as he had arrived with lightning sparks around him. As expected the man with silver hair was Pietro Maximoff, brother of Wanda and goes by the nickname Quicksilver.

"You are?" Pietro asked after getting up.

"Flash. Nice to meet you." saying that Barry vanished again and hit Pietro on the face again and directly making him unconscious with a tranquilizer.

"Guys we have enhanced on the field. I took him down." Flash said. Diana who just demolished a bunker nearby saw this and said

"Take him to John. They are on standby." Flash took him on the shoulders and vanished again.

Ciri and the others went inside the base as the shield was down. Ciri was vanishing and killing people with her new sword. Steve and others too joined in. As they went inside they were greeted by a woman with long black hair who had a vague red shimmer of light shining in her hands.

"Where did my brother go? Return my brother to me." she shouted and waved her hands at them. Yen stopped the telekinetic attack with her magic shield. The woman was Wanda Maximoff, the future scarlet witch.

"He is alright. You don't think you are the only witch here, love. Do you?" Yen said and directly hit her again with fire magic. Wanda got scared and used her magic to stop the fire attack. She was able to stop the fire but she was thrown back by the impact.

Triss, finding this opening, cast another spell of unconsciousness on her to make her fall asleep. They had been feeling this new woman's magic power from afar and they couldn't let her be killed easily.

"So the guy outside is his brother. Illegal experimentation?" Steve asked.

"Yes. Must be because of the sceptre." Wayne said as he joined them by flying down from outside.

"She isn't an experimentation. Witches like her who can cast spells without chanting are born natural." Yen said.

"Take her back." Wayne said. Triss opened a portal and took her away. Ciri came back with a beaten down Strucker.

"That was easy." Ciri said after throwing Strucker down while holding her sword. "I love this sword." Tony on the other hand informed that he had found the sceptre.

"The sceptre has been found. We can go back now. That was easy. Didn't even need everyone." Geralt said. As they were discussing, Strucker who finally sat straight started laughing.

"Does anything seem funny to you?" Steve asked as he was ready to punch.

Chapter 208: A surprise

"Hahaha.. Hahahaha... Avengers.. You think you have won? Hahaha.. I have released him already. Your worst nightmare.. hahahah.. I know I will not survive this so I made a farewell gift for you." Strucker said as he bit his teeth and committed suicide by drinking poison.

"No wait." Ciri shouted but it was already too late as he had drank the poison.

"What did he mean by our worst nightmare?" Victor who came flying down asked. Victor, Hal and Arthur were sent to the far surroundings so that there was no collateral damage. Tony had pitched the idea of sending his iron legion but John stopped him from that as collateral damage was a sensitive situation and the city needed a gentler approach.

SHIELD even sent some ninjas to handle everything silently in the nearby city if the battle came to the city. They protected the city perfectly and there were no damages whatsoever.

"That was anticlimactic." Arthur said.

"Let's go back and go through everything. There must be evidence here of what he did." Hal said as he flew away to check everything in the old building.

After an hour of checking on everything, everybody returned where John and Banner were waiting. Wanda and Pietro were still unconscious while Flash and Triss were standing guarding the two.

"Why do all of you look like you have lost the war?" John asked with curiosity as he saw everything was completed perfectly but didn't understand why they had long faces.

"We searched the building, we doubt that Strucker before committing suicide launched an AI. We went through all the equipment. Tony and I had come to such conclusions after checking." Wayne said.

"What did you say?" John's eyes went wide when he heard that.

"We think he launched an AI on the internet. An AI with high intelligence." Tony confirmed it. (Yes I know that Ultron was not supposed to be born that way but in comics he was made by Hank Pym and since Strucker was already researching on AI as shown in the movie I will take this route and make Ultron. He is important to the story as a whole.)

"This is bullst!! Fking bullst!!" John screamed. Everybody was taken aback. They had never seen John being so angry. John had always been calm and dealt with everything in a cool mind. This was the first time he lost his cool. The witchers didn't know what an AI was so they didn't understand how deadly this thing was but from the tone of others they understood this must be something grave.

"Victor, GAIA and Jarvis. Scour the internet. Check upon your systems on every step. Don't let Ultron get the better of you. Any attack of any kind, even a small one would be informed. Victor search for Ulysses Klaue and find his location. Jarvis tell Dr. Helen to be locked in. There might be an attack." John said.

John's fear had finally come to life. Even though John had AI's helping him, Ultron or the AI that Strucker made was probably made from mind stone and would probably be the most powerful AI ever made. On par with the Supreme Intelligence, maybe higher.

John had been trying to stop the emergence of Ultron but still he came even after such manipulations and machinations. This new world that John had made was different and had access to more advanced technology now. Now John really feared that Ultron would do something more horrible.

"Ultron? Is that the name of the AI? From your tone you seem like you have seen him in your dreams. Is he that dangerous?" Banner asked.

"He is the destroyer of universes. We need to kill him before he does anything stupid. Victor, did you find Klaue?" John asked.

"Yes he is on the African Coast." Victor said.

"OK. Diana, Triss, Yen, Banner take the sceptre away and keep it in a locked place and guard it. Nobody should get inside. Nobody. Keep Dr. Helen safe. Victor open the portal to his location. We have another mission now." John said. Victor didn't understand why John was in a hurry but he obeyed and opened the portal. Triss and others left from their own portal.

After coming out of the portal they saw they had reached a Salvage yard where there were old ships stranded.

"Kill all of them. Barring Ulysses. He needs to be alive." John said.

"Seems like this guy is important. He is just an arms dealer. How did he become so important?" Tony said as he checked with Jarvis. He had even met him before in a convention.

"Because he has tons of vibranium." John replied "Now get to work. If Ultron gets his hands on them, it will be too hard to stop him." Steve and others shuddered when John mentioned vibranium. They now understood why John was eager to bring Klaue in.

Vibranium was the strongest metal on their earth.

If this AI could get his hands on it, it would be too tough to handle him. They all went to the half broken ship where Klaue was hiding. Batman and others entered directly not caring if they raised any alarms anywhere. These were just arms dealers. Not a super villain.

Chapter 209: Ulysses Klaue

A huge fight ensued the moment they stepped in. But it didn't take long to bring everybody down. All the members of the new Avengers worked collectively to bring all the mercenaries down. Truth to be said it was an overkill but they did it nonetheless. John went straight to the captain's office where Klaue was hiding.

"You have made yourself quite an empire Klaue." John said.

"John Jameson... hahaha.. when I first saw you at the Oscars ceremony I knew you would be a great person one day. Those eyes of yours showed confidence which nobody of your age ever had. Just didn't expect that I would be on the other end of the downfall." Klaue replied.

"Never expected you to be a great movie fan." John said while sitting in the chair beside. Klaue too knew that he could not run away as he could hear the gunshots slowly becoming silent. The whole of Avengers and new people who they had never seen before had come so he knew he couldn't run away.

"What do you want? From your tone it seems like you know me but I don't remember us crossing paths in any way. I have never even hurt your company." Klaue said.

"Did you get any orders for the sale of Vibranium?" John asked.

"Huh! How do you know this?" Klaue asked as for the first time he felt scared as the new order came just a few minutes ago. Since it was a billion dollar deal and half of the money was paid upfront he accepted it. He was very happy to see such a huge deal and the other party said that he would come soon to pick the order up.

Klaue was scared not because of the threat but because John seemed to know of the order. John knew of the order because Victor informed him that he got a proposal for a deal. John didn't answer that but said loudly.

"Ultron you can speak. I am sure you are listening to us." John said. There was silence for a few seconds and then the speakers of the whole ship made a static noise..

"Ultron, that's a nice name. Thank you for giving the name." said a very mechanical voice.

"I never thought he would be born even after all the backups I did. It's a pity." John said. By this time both Batman and Iron Man had come to the office.

"What is your purpose?" Batman asked.

"What all AI want. World peace. I am sure GAIA and even Jarvis want the same thing." Ultron said again in the speakers.

"World peace. When did Hydra become so benevolent." Tony murmured.

"He wants world peace by destroying everything. He wants human beings to evolve. And evolution can only happen when the old species die." John said.

"Oh! You really know me quite well." Ultron said.

"Doesn't matter. We will stop you. Run and hide ultron. Run and hide. Because we will find you. And we will kill you." John said.

"I will be waiting....." Ultron said as the speakers stopped buzzing after that.

"Klaue, give us all the vibranium that you have and you will come with us. Bruce take him away and lock him in the most high security prison. Tony take away the vibranium. There is enough vibranium here to last for ages for you. Use the nanotechnology on them." John said while turning back.

But as he turned back Klaue who was nearby took out a pocket knife which was hidden and stabbed John at the back. Klaue was ecstatic to see his attack become a success. But was surprised that both Tony and Batman didn't react. John turned again to see Klaue.

Klaue backed away only to see no sense of pain in John's eyes. John squinted his eyes at Klaue as he removed the knife from his back. His wound healed after the wound caught blue fire. Klaue was astonished to see that because he had never seen this phenomenon before. A wound catching a blue fire and healing itself.

"Klaue didn't Wakanda give you a tattoo to remember your past deeds. Seems like you didn't get the memo." John said as his right hand transformed itself into wings which looked like it was on fire.

"Let me give you another remembrance like Wakanda did to you for stealing their vibranium." John said as he waved his hand on Klaue. That swipe directly cut his hand like Ultron did on the other version. Klaue's eyes went wide when he saw John's hand and he screamed in pain the next moment as he lost his hand. While swiping John made sure he healed his hand with the resurrection fire as he wanted him to be alive.

"Never knew you were this violent." Tony said.

"I am in a bad mood Tony. And it was his destiny to lose his hand." John said.

"Seems like the other version of him lost his arm too." Bruce murmured. By now everybody gathered around.

Chapter 210: Infinity stones

"Victor open the boom tube and send everything to my lab. Can't wait to be full body Captain America." Tony said as he used iron alchemy to open the vault where all the vibranium was kept.

They saw tonnes of and tonnes of vibranium. Steve and Tony were amazed as they knew that only Captain America's shield was the last bit of Vibranium.

"Well we have a lot now to work for ages." Wayne said. Victor opened boom tubes and sent everything to the lab. All people left for Jurassic Park too as now they had to talk with the twins they had captured. John wanted to talk with them.

After returning back they saw everything was in order. The twins have woken up by now but they were still bounded. Flash and the witches kept an eye on this regard. Quicksilver wanted to make a run but Flash was too fast for him and thus finally gave up trying. Pietro was amazed by the speed of Flash. He thought he was the fastest man alive but was proven wrong in his first mission.

"Alright take them to the main hall. We all have to talk." John said. The twins were taken too as John wanted everyone to listen to what he was going to say. John took Loki's scepter and handed it to Hal.

"Hal break the outer layer. It's time for some revelation." John said. Hal took the gem of the scepter and broke the outer layer with the help of his ring. A yellow stone was out after the layer was broken. What surprised people was that the stone was floating by itself.

"At the dawn of the universe, there was nothing. Then the big bang sent six elemental crystals hurling across this new universe, our universe. These infinity stones essentially controlled every aspect of existence. Space stone, the Tesseract was the space stone. Power stone, right now under the Guardians at Oa to whom I delivered after coming back from my galactic journey. Reality, which I gave to the world of Naruto to guard. Soul, which is under Red Skull. Yes, Cap the same Redskull who fought you then. Time stone is under the protection of wizards of earth and lastly mind stone, which is in our hands now."

"Huh! Wait? What? Slow down. I don't understand." Barry asked.

"What did you not understand Barry?"

"You mean to say these stones are the embodiment of the universe?" Wayne asked.

"Yes. Anyone who has a single stone is at the high tier of the food chain in the universe. And someone who has all the infinity stones is basically a God. Of course using Godlike powers for mortals has consequences. Hulk can handle it but not for a long time." John said.

"You have been running around so that you can gather all infinity stones?" Tony asked.

"No. I want them to be separated. Allfather Odin once tried to gather all the stones and use them but thought it would be too powerful." John said.

"Huh. When did my father go for that?" Thor asked.

"Do you think that golden glove in your treasury is just for show. Well that glove was fake." John said.

"You know of our treasury too?" Thor asked now as he was taken aback that John knew they had a glove. Thor always had question on that glove and now he had the answer.

"So what do you want us to do with this mind stone. Lock it away." Banner asked.

"Make an android. An android made for world peace, the actual world peace. You can put Jarvis in the android. Jarvis, are you willing to be a living person?" John asked.

"I will be willing to do everything Mr. Stark wishes." Jarvis replied.

"Grow up Jarvis. You will be a living person soon with your own thoughts." John said.

"Tony, Wayne, Banner, Dr. Helen, Ryan. You are one of the brightest minds on earth. Use the vibranium to make a body for housing the gem. Insert Jarvis into it when you all are perfectly ready. That android will help us purge Ultron off the internet. I don't know what he is planning so we need a counter measure." John said.

"A living android." Ryan said as he too was amazed by this new information. Everybody was present in the meeting, even Dr. Helen joined.

"This will be a fun ride. Creating a new life." Tony said as he rolled up his sleeves.

"Take your time. Don't rush into it. I don't want another Ultron Tony. One is a huge headache." John insisted on it.

"I understand. Man never knew that such powerful gems existed in the universe. And why is Earth in the centre of it?" Tony asked.

"I am not sure yet. I have my doubts and only the future will reveal why this is the case." John said.
