

Multiverse 231

Chapter 231: Wakanda

"Wait. What? What do you mean? The most advanced country on Earth. Aren't they a 3rd world country?" Pietro asked.

"No. Think of them as Atlantis on land. That's what they are." John said.

"Damn. Never knew we had Atlantis here." Tony said. "They have fooled everyone. Even the governments."

"Yes they did. But since they wanted to poke me. I will poke them and see who has greater power. Bruce, where is Klaue?" John said.

"He is in the prison that we made in the Park for all the bad people that we don't kill. We can't be savages every time now." Tony said. John closed his eyes for a second and vanished. He went to bring Klaue. Killmonger was still shaken by what just happened. Never in his life he expected that he would catch the eye of an Avenger.

Even though he didn't know who this new Avenger was, it looked like he had a high command in the team. He recognized everyone in the team. Wayne had a mask on his face so he didn't get to see Batman's face but others he knew by heart. Like others he too went through all the works of John.

That was the standard procedure now for all military personnels. He even knew the witchers. He just didn't know who the man in the golden helmet was as he had never appeared. As he was thinking that John appeared again with Klaue. He still didn't have one hand from the last time John cut it off.

Klaue was sleeping when John appeared. John just held him by his collar and vanished with him. Klaue woke up only to see his worst nightmare appearing again. What John showed him before his hand was cut had etched into his soul all his life.

"OK, is everybody ready?" John asked.

"Yes."

"Good. Let's vanish." John said as the Ankh symbol again appeared behind him. But this everybody vanished with John. The whole team appeared in a huge hall where there was a throne where King T'Chaka sat including other heads of the tribe on the seats adjacent to it.

The King was taken aback by the sudden emergence of so many people in the main hall. The Dora Milaje, King's personal guards who were nearby, attacked directly the moment they appeared as it was their duty to protect the king. John just stood there while the other members handled the Dora Milaje. Even though they were pretty powerful, they still fell short of the Avengers.

Especially now when Tony and Bruce had vibranium armor. After a minute every member of the Dora Milaje was lying down. Flash, Ciri and the witches didn't take too much time to defeat everyone. The King who saw stood up. He didn't expect The Avengers would appear right here, in the main hall.

Truth to be told, he was a little afraid of the Avengers. When the world engine arrived he understood that the technology of Earth would again be boosted and it would be a matter of time before Wakanda was exposed. They had been hidden in the shadows for such a long time and in order to continue that legacy he needed to take measures.

Thus he took the measure of making the Accords and since Wakanda had spies everywhere it was easy to manipulate the governments to accept the Accords. When John called last time, he didn't pay much heed to him as he thought no matter what they wouldn't cross any line.

But now he understood that he was wrong, so very wrong. The power shown by the Avengers amazed him too. They seemed more powerful than in the videos.

John put away his helmet after everything became silent. The heads of the tribe were trembling as they knew their lives were now in the hands of the Avengers. The King still tried to maintain his calmness as he knew that if the Avengers killed him then it would be game over for the Avengers. He just wanted to see what they want to do.

"Got to say you fooled the whole planet King T'Chaka." Wayne said.

"So what of it? Are you going to kill me because of that? I was right about you all. You are dangerous." King refuted.

"We are dangerous but you still messed with us. That wasn't very thoughtful of you. Was it?" Geralt said.

"Why are you all here? To show us your power? Or to kill me?" T'Chaka said.

"We are here to show the country what kind of person you are." John replied this time. "I guess the royal members are already informed about this assault. Let's wait for them shall we?" John said as he sat on a seat opposite the throne.

After a minute more Dora Milaje appeared with T'Challa, Shuri, their mother and even Zuli, a trusted confidant of T'Chaka.

Chapter 232: Black Panther

T'Chaka came while wearing the Black Panther suit and the moment he entered the hall, Geralt used Aard on him. It threw T'Chaka a few metres away.

"Stay down boy." Geralt said. T'Chaka got up to attack again while the remaining Dora Milaje charged. John sighed as he wore his helmet and waved his hand.

Yellow ropes emerged from the ground and bounded the hands of all of the members of the Dora Milaje. This was the magic of Dr. Fate. He even proceeded to bind the hands of the Black Panther and brought the hands down. Thus everybody was on their knees.

"You are Dr. Fate. Aren't you?" T'Chaka asked.

"I am honored that the King of Wakanda follows my works." John replied. "Let's not talk about my work. But yours. Since everybody is here it's time for revelation."

"What do you want to reveal? That you are a murderer?" Shuri shouted. Her mother got scared and she held her mouth so that she didn't antagonise the Avengers more. They knew they were on tight ropes now.

"The Avengers have never killed anyone which they didn't deserve. Did you see us killing any member of the Dora Milaje? No. We aren't here to kill anybody but to show you all the true face of your father. He is a murderer. He killed his own brother just so because his brother wanted a better world." John said, pointing at King T'Chaka.

Zuli and T'Chaka shuddered when John said that. Shuri and her mother's eyes went wide.

"That's a lie. My father would never do that. What a good lie to fool everyone." T'Challa spoke for the first time.

"Lie. Erik show them your Wakandan heritage." John replied. Erik showed the inner part of her mouth to show that he belonged to Wakanda.

"He is the son of your brother who you so easily murdered. You left your nephew because you didn't want anything to do with him. Isn't it right King T'Chaka? I wonder what the law is here for fratricide. If you want more proof, ask Zuli. He was present there when King T'Chaka murdered his brother." John said.

"That's a lie. He retaliated because King T'Chaka wanted to save me." Zuli spoke for the first time. Everybody in the room was surprised by this sudden acceptance of the incident that John just spoke about. Shuri and others couldn't believe that what John said was the truth.

"So you do accept that King T'Chaka killed his brother?" John spoke.

"Yes, but he did that to save me." Zuli insisted.

"Zuli. He is the Black Panther. The Black Panther. Do you think I am a fool not to understand what that title represents? He is basically Captain America with vibranium armor. And you are telling me that he really had to kill his brother to save you?" John said with a smile.

The Avengers didn't expect that the King was a powered being. Now when they thought about it, T'Challa too was probably a super powered being as the reflexes which he had shown aren't shown by normal people. All the Avengers were listening intently to the story of the King T'Chaka and finally understood why John was so sure that he could usurp the throne.

"W'Kabi, leader of the border tribe. I guess you know this guy. The murderer of your parents. This is my gift to you. I hope you can help me in invoking a proper trial for your King." John said as he pointed to Klaue who was standing beside holding his hand. The moment he appeared in the hall he knew that he was done for.

W'Kabi hesitated for a second but then made a determination. He had to go against his own king but in exchange he would get his hands on the murderer of his parents. Klaue had been hiding for a long time and now finally he was caught.

"W'Kabi no. You will betray the king if you do that?" Ramonda, Queen of Wakanda said.

"Betrayal? Even if Klaue wasn't here I would have made sure that the truth of his brother's murder was out for the people of Wakanda to see. Do you think the people will accept a King who murdered his own brother. I am sure the Jabari tribe would be very happy seeing that the Wakandan king had fallen to such lows." John said.

"How do you know all this? You seem to know everything about us." Ramonda asked.

"Doesn't matter how I know. King T'Chaka, don't you want to say anything in your defense? You have been eerily silent all this time." John said.

"The moment you all stepped into the hall I knew that I couldn't escape. I just didn't expect that you would bring me down in this way. I do accept that I had killed my own brother and I am ready to face the trial but only on one condition." T'Chaka said.

Chapter 233: New leader

"You don't have the leverage to negotiate with me, King T'Chaka. In the call I asked you for the reason you proposed for the Accords. You didn't reply. That time I told you that you would regret this." John said. T'Chaka sighed as he really didn't expect that everything would turn out like this. He should have spoken clearly with John before and should have trusted the Avengers.

"Tony and Batman had vibranium armor. You can't expect us not to retaliate. " T'Chaka spoke in his defense for the first time.

"That Vibranium was stolen from your country by Klaue, not by us. If you wanted the Vibranium you could have spoken to us but instead you went behind our backs." Wayne replied this time.

"You don't get to cry 'victim' when you yourself initiated the fight." Diana said. T'Chaka knew he was wrong and his past had come back now to haunt him.

"Erik will battle for the throne against T'Challa since that is the custom here. We won't interfere. Wakanda doesn't matter to the Avengers anymore. If there is any kind of retaliation from Wakanda then I will personally send the country back to the third world category. And this time it won't be a sham." John said

"I am curious, what condition you wanted to ask King T'Chaka?" Hal asked.

"I just hoped that Wakanda can continue remaining in the shadows." T'Chaka said with a sigh.

"That will depend on the next King. I don't care about what happens. I will keep a lookout in this country and I want the trial to proceed. If nothing is done I will make sure that everybody knows of what had happened in the past." John said as he vanished with the other Avengers leaving Erik and Klaue behind.

He wouldn't care about Wakanda any more as now he had more important things to do. That is to uproot the members of the government that had been an eyesore for him for a long time. Even though Umbrella has had huge influence, it was still sometimes overwhelmed by bureaucracy. Wayne and John had already thought about the purge and they needed to carry it this week.

"That was one hell of a trip. It's a pity we didn't get to see such an awesome country for a long time." Pietro said.

"We will have a much bigger and better country for ourselves." John replied.

"Really? A new world? Can't wait for it." Pietro said excitedly.

"Steve, Wayne I need to show you someone." John said.

"Someone? Sure." Steve replied.

"Others you can all go home. The Sokovia Accords will never see the light of day. I can assure you. SHIELD had been infiltrating all major walks of life and government too. We will just replace those people who are actively giving us problems. We need to get ready for the arrival of the new world because they will arrive in a few months. We don't have much time." John said.

"Which new world is coming. Now I am really curious. Will it be dangerous?" Hal asked as he was interested in new people.

"Dangerous? Yes. They are. But they are controllable." John said. Everybody went to their own places as Victor opened boom tubes for all. Only Steve, Wayne and John remained.

John again teleported with them to a place which looked like the Himalayas. There was snow and high mountains. There was also a huge palace-like structure built on the sides of the mountain.

"Is that what I think it is?" Wayne asked.

"Yes. This is the headquarters of the League of Assassins." John replied as he really brought Steve and Wayne here. He was here for a reason.

When Raas Al Ghul was extracted, it was done in order to give the League to Steve. Steve had a straight moral compass and he could lead the League perfectly. John knew he could do the same with Raas as he had proper control over everybody here but he wanted all members of the Avengers to have equal strength and Steve was seriously lacking in this regard.

And after he saw Steve dating Diana he was more determined to give the League to Steve. He wanted Steve to have a happy story and since he couldn't go back in time, it was better to give him more 'time'. John was a selfish man so he wouldn't hesitate to kill people to cover his interests but Steve was more morally straight and he thought it would be better to have someone to always show him the correct path.

John feared that he would become arrogant in the future with all the powers he possesses and he wanted to make sure there was someone who could direct his path if he ever goes astray. And Steve was the perfect candidate for that. And it could only be done if Steve had a long life. The Lazarus Pit could easily provide him that.

"The League? Of Ra's Al Ghul? Did they arrive in our world? Aren't they a very big organisation? Don't we need all the members to fight them?" Steve asked.

/yes, I know this is controversial and probably I will get hate for this decision. This was my personal choice/

Chapter 234: New leader (2)

"We are not here to fight." John said.

"Then what are we here for?" Steve asked as he was confused.

"Batman knows why we are here." John said.

"The old man still hasn't given up the obsession?" Wayne asked.

"Nope. He negotiated with me about that. This is the only way." John said.

"Guys what do you mean by that?" Steve asked as he was more confused now.

"He means that Raas wants to choose an heir. And you Steve is the perfect candidate for leading the League." Wayne said to Steve.

"You mean the story of him wanting Oliver to replace him is real. He still hasn't stopped searching?" Steve asked as he had seen the Green Arrow series as in the last season Raas wanted Oliver to be the leader of the League.

"Yes. He wanted me to be the leader but I refused. So now we are here." Wayne said as he saw many members fully covered in black coming out from the main gate in an ordered manner.

They took their positions in line and gave space to the middle. After a minute Raas finally emerged with a huge coat walking. All the members of the league bowed down when he came out.

"Boy is he the one that you have chosen?" Raas asked as he came up to the trio.

"Yes. He is Steve Rogers." John said.

"Wait, I haven't even decided to take such a huge responsibility. I will never be the leader of such an evil organisation." Steve replied.

"The League will whatever you picture it to be. If you want the League only to work for the good, then it shall be." John said. "Provided you can kill Raas and take the mantle of leader."

"But why am I being chosen? I am pretty sure that there are other more capable members." Steve asked.

"I have been watching you, Steve Rogers, for a long time. Your will and commitment moved me. I am becoming old and both Wayne and Queen rejected me. I just want to give away my position and rest in peace." Raas said.

"There will be a duel in a week. I will wait for you here. If you can defeat and kill me, the league shall be yours. If you don't you will die." Raas said as turned back and went away. The members too followed the leader. Raas still needed to show his arrogance and pride of being the leader of the League even though he was the summon of John.

"What a weird man. No wonder you never took the position of the leader. Is there no other way?" Steve asked.

"The League has infiltrated in many places just like SHIELD and we need a proper person as it's head. Raas came to me to search for a worthy one so I gave him your name. I am sorry but I could only think of you. Only you have the best moral compass among us." John said.

"I will have to think about it before I make a decision." Steve said.

"Sure. Let's go back." John said as all the three vanished again and were back at the headquarters. John said goodbye to them and went back home. It had been a long day so he wanted to have a rest.

7 days passed by very fast after that, as the SHIELD was getting ready for the purge. The ratifying of Sokovia Accords was pushed back a few days as the main country who proposed the Accords would apparently appoint a new King. This made every member of the UN panel surprised and some even suspected that Avengers had their hands behind the change of the King.

But it wouldn't matter as the Accords were ready and it would proceed even if Wakanda backs away later. John on the other hand was back at Wakanda as this was the day when the new king would be crowned.

Everybody gathered near the waterfall for the ceremonial fight. Even the Jabari tribe came as they were informed about the past of the King. In these 7 days King T'Chaka was in trial and he was sentenced with lifetime imprisonment. This was the law of the country and the fear of Avengers made them sure that the trial was fair.

Soon the fight between T'Challa and Erik started as T'Challa was stripped from the power of black panther. And the fight followed almost like the actual story. The only difference was that T'Challa didn't fall down from the cliff and was defeated fairly.

John, who levitated above, saw all of this but didn't have any expression. He didn't care who sat on the throne as long as Wakanda didn't poke in their business.

John levitated down to greet Erik one last time as he would leave.

"King Erik, how does it feel to be the king of Wakanda? I hope this revenge was fulfilling." John asked. Erik hesitated for a second but finally replied.

"I won't be the king of Wakanda." Erik said.

Chapter 235: New leader (3)

"Huh, what do you mean?" John asked as he was surprised. All the tribe members who joined the ceremony were also surprised by this declaration, including T'Challa as nobody expected Erik to say that.

"I have been here for the past 7 days. The people who know me here don't really look at me with good eyes, they treat me as an outsider. Even if I become their king a time will come when they will stop listening to me. I never wanted to become the king, I just wanted revenge and I think he has gotten the punishment which he deserved even though I would have loved killing him myself."

"I have always wanted to change the world and I don't think Wakanda has enough power to give me that. The Avengers and the Umbrella had been working towards that goal and I would rather join them than this conservative country." Erik said.

John never expected that Erik would ever say that. In the original world Erik became the king because he wanted revenge and for changing the world for a better place. It seemed since John had touched the destiny of Erik, this made him take a different decision.

John now wondered if TVA would come for him. Surprisingly TVA didn't come for Pietro. And it was probably because he had warned Mobius and spoke of Alioth. This must have scared Kang a bit. Anyway John didn't care but was happy to see Erik take a totally new decision.

"I understand. What are your plans now?" John asked.

"Can I join the Avengers?" Erik asked.

"You will have to talk to Wayne about that. He is the main person in the team." John said. "So want to leave with me?"

"Sure. I have nothing here." Erik said. John nodded and turned around to all other members of the tribe and said.

"I think most of you know about my powers. I can dream of other parallel universes and in this way I knew what actually happened before with the previous King. The funny thing is that in most parallel universes the Black Panther is one of the main members of the Avengers. Now we stand on opposite sides. As I said before, the Avengers won't interfere in Wakanda but don't stand on the other side of us, it won't end well. Goodbye."

John vanished with Erik after that. All the Wakandans were ashamed of what just happened. This was a huge blot in their reputation and even their pride. The Jabari were probably laughing at the other members of the tribe. M'Baku challenged T'Challa and this fight would take place after a day as he just fought against Erik and was tired.

Later T'Challa would be crowned as the King after defeating M'Baku but that was a story for another day. John after vanishing appeared in the dimension of the League again with Erik.

Erik thought he would be in Jurassic Park but didn't expect he was in snowy mountains. He even saw many people wearing full black standing in a circular manner near a cliff. On the edge of the cliff were two half naked men. One was wielding a sword while the other a shield.

Erik knew one of them. Captain Steve Rogers, but he didn't recognize the other guy.

Yes, Captain had decided to accept the duel and was ready to fight Ra's. He came to this dimension 2 days ago as he wanted to see how the League worked and would take concrete decisions only after seeing with his own eyes.

Suffice to say he was impressed by the discipline and training. The members were basically top level assassins and they did almost all forms of combat. After much contemplation he finally decided to fight Raas.

"Who is Captain America fighting?" Erik asked as he was curious.

"Ra's al Ghul, the Leader of the League of Assassins." John replied.

"The League? They are real too? Why are they fighting? Aren't you gonna stop them?" Erik asked as he was surprised.

"No. Steve is fighting to be the new leader of the League?"

"He will fight to be the leader of the League? Was Captain America defeated by the League before? Because as I remember only who survives the sword of Ra's al Ghul, will become the Ra's al Ghul." Erik asked. This surprised John as he never expected Erik to watch his works very minutely.

"Don't always trust my work. That's just one part of the story. Ra's is becoming old and he needs to give away his throne to someone. So we choose Steve to take the mantle and carry on. This would keep the League alive and well and have better control in the underground world." John replied

"I understand." Erik said.

The fight started between Steve and Ra's and it was intense. Captain used his shield to defend while Ra's used his sword to attack.

Chapter 236: The Purge

The fight went on for a full one hour. John and even the members of the League didn't expect that fight would go on for such a long time. Both were exhausted, Steve had many cuts in his body while Ra's had many bruises due to how Steve used his shield. Even though it wasn't the vibranium shield Steve still used it effectively.

And after an intense clash, Steve was able to get the better of John and was able to disarm Ra's by hitting the shield at his hand. The sword was thrown from Ra's. Then Steve proceeded to tackle Ra's with his shield. This prompted Ra's to take a few steps back. Steve saw this opening and didn't hesitate any more, as he took the lying sword and stabbed Ra's directly in his abdomen.

The League members knew that from now Steve would be their leader and since he defeated Ra's fair and square nobody had any doubts about his position. Steve looked at Ra's as he was on his knees at the edge of the cliff.

"May you lead the league to greater glory. From now you have the power over the dimension of the League." and saying that Ra's fell down the cliff. John who saw this sighed as he just lost Ra's though he could bring him back to life with the system. He just felt it was weird with almost the same plot repeating from the Arrow. Ra's died there after falling from a cliff.

Steve who just defeated and killed Ra's too was on his knees. John levitated in front of him as all the members of the league too were on their knees in order to show respect to the new Raas.

"You should go to Lazarus pit to heal yourself before those wounds get infected." John said.

"Can you take me there? I am really tired." Steve said. John smiled at it and vanished with Steve. They appeared again in a place which looked like a huge bathtub made of rocks. Steve didn't waste a second and directly jumped into the pit, only to emerge from the water after a few seconds.

"I gotta say, it feels weird with the healing power of the pit. I feel myself more powerful, younger and more energetic." Steve said.

"I have had no connections with Ra's whatsoever but strangely I respect him, even though he was evil. He didn't even flinch when I stabbed him. Now I am the leader of a place to which I have no idea about. I hope I can do a proper job." Steve said.

"You will do fine. Go through all the things that Ra's had done and take steps accordingly. Remember, this is an underground organisation so work with caution. The League is a perfect way to control the dark side of the world." John said.

"Yes, you are right. This is a huge responsibility. I guess immortality has a cost." Steve joked.

"Well now you and Diana can both lead a long and happy life." John said with a smile. Steve smiled at it as one of the main reasons he joined the League was because he could spend a long time with Diana, for centuries, which he could have never done before.

As they were talking Erik came with many members of the league. Erik didn't know where the Lazarus Pit was so he had to ask for directions.

"Erik? What happened? Did you lose to T'Challa?" Steve asked as he didn't know what happened at Wakanda.

"No. I won but gave away the throne. Don't want anything to do with such conservative country. I have changed my mind. Can I join the League?" Erik asked. John eyed Steve when he said that Steve would make a decision on that.

"You can but I will look into your behaviour. You have been consumed by revenge all your life so that hasn't been a good start. The League will evaluate you and only then you can join us." Steve replied and now with the tone of a leader. He had already accepted the role so he needed to act now as one.

"I am leaving. Erik will stay here then." John said as he vanished from his place.

John was back at the headquarters where Wayne and Fury were present. They needed to carry out the purge as they had been thinking about it for a long time. The names they had brought out were some of the worst scum who were sitting in high positions but carried out criminal activities underground.

Though all of them weren't in the UN Panel but a good number of them were. If they could just stick all the criminal charges on them then the whole Accords would stop as the recent news channels had been buzzing about it all day.

The normal people didn't like it as the Avengers didn't do anything wrong and many believed that the governments now were afraid of the Avengers and this was the reason they wanted to bring out the Accords.

----

There will be double uploads tomorrow if there are more than 350 power stone donations by the end of the day.

Thank you.

freew(e)bn(o)vel

Chapter 237: The Purge (2)

"So how do you want to proceed into this?" John asked as he removed his helmet. The helmet like always floated by his side.

"We will first go to the court and take out warrants after pressing charges with all the evidence we have. This will bring the whole empire down of these double faced criminals." Fury said.

"Yes. We can do that, but there will be runners." Wayne said.

"Yes. We have put them under surveillance. Thanks to ninjas." Fury said with pride now as the ninjas had totally integrated with SHIELD. The world council were ecstatic when they knew that SHIELD now had ninjas and finally they had their own private super powered army.

John just smiled looking at Fury as at the end SHIELD was in his palms. Even though Fury hasn't given too high level posts to the ninjas but that day wasn't far. This slow integration was what John had wanted when he brought the Naruto world. This was his major plan from the start after dealing with Hydra.

Fury and the duo then discussed of how to execute the purge and how they would handle the runners. SHIELD will bring those who would try to escape directly to the law and press more charges with that. That would cement everything.

"Good. Get only the bad people. I know there are annoying ones who we would love to catch like Ross but we can't be tyrants. Nothing good comes out of being total tyrants." Wayne said.

"Yes. I am aware of it." Fury replied.

"If by chance there are people who still go off the radar. Contact me. I will find him." John said.

"Then can you get Wilson Fisk?" Fury asked.

"Yes, but he is necessary evil. Sometimes evil is required so that heroes can rise. He is one of them. Don't worry if he crosses the line, I will bring him in." John said.

"OK I will look into this matter." Fury replied.

"Bruce is the Hall of Justice ready?" John asked.

"Yes. It's been built like we had before on the other side of the Park. Looks huge and have more space." Bruce said.

"Good. This will be our earth headquarters." John replied.

They discussed more about the plan and the purge would start from tomorrow. All the officials were in place. So they were just waiting for execution. John left after discussing everything.

And as they had planned the next day there were multiple arrests all over the globe. The arrests were done almost at the same time so the people knew this was a planned attack. But when the allegations came out against those government officials the people were surprised.

The people know that the governments were perfectly good but they never thought that they were this bad. Now they understood why the Sokovia Accords were made as the Accords would have made the Avengers their puppets.

As many members of the UN Panel were now missing, Wakanda too backed out from the Accords after T'Challa was appointed as the king. And as SHIELD suspected there were people who were trying to escape but SHIELD was ready and they were brought and were pressed more charges.

The public came out to protest against the Accords all over the globe as they it was a ploy to control the Avengers. Ross who was heading the whole Accords knew he had lost the remote to control the Avengers.

He directly called John

"Did you do this?" Ross asked.

"I Don't understand what you are talking about?" John replied after picking up his call.

"The arrests, Wakanda backing out. Did you do this?" Ross asked again in an angry tone.

"The arrests were done by SHIELD and the new king of Wakanda was appointed because their old king was a murderer. So no, I didn't do anything." John said.

"You will pay for this." Ross said angrily. John raised his eyebrows when he heard that. He directly wore the helmet and vanished from his place. The next moment he appeared was in the office of Ross.

There were officials in the office when Ross made that call. Everybody had already took out their guns and were pointing at the Ankh symbol when John appeared. John after arriving waved his hands and energy constructs came out of the walls and the floors to disarm every one of them.

"Who are you? What do you want?" Ross was the first to speak as he had never seen a man wearing such a weird helmet before. John removed his helmet to show them his face.

"John Jameson. Never expected you to be wearing a weird helmet apart from having the Phoenix powers." Ross mocked. John didn't say anything and directly conjured a magical knife and placed directly at the throat of Ross.

Ross wanted to move. Only to see yellow constructs holding him down and not allowing him to move.

Chapter 238: Ring (2)

"I am not like others, Ross. Don't try my patience. I can overlook your treatment of Banner before but don't even think for a second I am a soft one. I don't mind bringing out your darkest secrets and showing it to the public." John said.

Ross became silent when he heard that. He knew he might have crossed the line here.

"This is the last warning Ross and to the White House. Don't meddle in our affairs. Or I don't mind appointing our own President." John said as he removed the constructs. John then wore the helmet again and vanished without even listening to Ross or the others.

John didn't mind replacing the president but he chose not to do so as he believed everybody has free will and they deserve their freedom. The moment he introduces a character and changes the politics the people too would be his puppets. John didn't want that. It wasn't in his character.

He could have killed Ross easily too but this would create a turmoil and he didn't want any problems now when they were getting ready to welcome the new world.

John returned home to go to work as usual. The Halo game would be out in 3-4 months and he couldn't wait to extract the halo ring. He was checking with the CD Projekt RED and was waiting for the game to launch.

-----

Ross on the other hand was angry but felt fear too. He directed his officials to bring out the camera videos of John threatening them and even spoke about changing the president but was surprised to see there was no such footage in the video. John used magic before he left so that nobody could ever point their fingers on him or the Avengers.

"How is this possible? How did he do that?" Ross asked his officials.

"Sir, I think John now is Dr. Fate. He belongs to the magic side. It is said that whoever dons the helmet will become Dr. Fate. Provided he is chosen by the helmet." said an official as he had been watching Justice League Unlimited closely.

"Magic? Like the witches of Wolf School?" Ross asked again as he knew about them.

"I don't know Sir." the official replied.

---

The days went by like usual and the Accords were finally taken back after a huge backlash. All the officials who were engaged in criminal activities were brought to court in their respective countries. And SHIELD made sure that the trial was fair. Umbrella had huge influence now and the governments were forced to follow the laws and give proper punishment to the officials. This would disrupt many workings of the government but John didn't care.

By the end of March, the Halo game was finally out. And since Halo was a classic, people loved it. The whole story arc of the Flood and the Covenants fascinated them. The game-play was exquisite.

After a week of the launch of Halo John directly went to the Hall of Justice as he called everybody. The Hall of Justice looked huge and it had a huge table for everybody to sit. The Wolf School didn't come as they were busy with all the alchemy and teaching Wanda sorcery. They weren't required for this anyway.

John even called Clint for this meeting. Everybody sat in their seats. Steve now had totally integrated with the League and everybody came to know the new role of Rogers and were surprised to know now that he was an underground lord.

"If only my father was here to see you, Captain." Tony mocked.

"The League will fight for justice and control the dark side of the world." Steve said.

"Just don't get eroded by the dark side yourself." Wayne said. Steve nodded at it.

"So why are we here John?" Clint asked.

"Our new headquarters will arrive today." John said.

"The one in space. Is it from the Halo game?" Natasha asked.

"Yes. The ring would be our new headquarter and maybe even our home as it is big enough and has its own weather cycle. And you have played the game I presume. The 343 Guilty Spark will be responsible for maintaining order." John said.

"The world governments won't like having such a huge satellite in our orbit." Wayne said.

"Yes, Halo would be like Mars so we can help some of them relocate there. I am sure the wealthy people would prefer to live on Halo more than on Earth. This alone would give us leverage. The AI would be like GAIA, a friend of ours." John said.

"They would try to snatch land from us." Oliver said.

"That will happen only if Guilty Spark will allow them to do so. And that would never happen without our permission."

"Understandable. Now guide the ring here. Victor, open the boom tube after the ring is seen from here." Tony said. Victor nodded to it.

John closed his eyes and extracted the Halo ring in the orbit right above them. The ring was much further away from the Earth's atmosphere so that original satellites wouldn't get hit by the Ring.

Chapter 239: Uproar

John had to spend 600 million fan values for this. Though he felt the pinch, he knew he would be able to gain more fan values by this ring as people would get to see the ring. John placed the Halo ring on the orbit of Earth.

Out of nowhere a huge ring-like satellite appeared in the skies. Even though they were thousands of miles away, they still felt the ring was massive. Everybody was able to see the ring clearly.

The ring was visible to all of America and Western Europe. The moment the ring the general public panicked as they thought there would be an alien attack. Many pointed out that the Ring looked like the one in Halo.

And since John has a history with many heroes which turns out to be real later, people believed that the Ring was from the Halo game. They directly asked the governments to give a proper explanation of what was going on. The customer care lines of Umbrella were hit by massive calls and emails asking about the ring and if it had Flood there.

The normal people felt scared as they didn't understand what was going on. There was a general sense of panic all over the globe as the other part of Earth also came to know. The governments had no idea of what was going on so they contacted SHIELD and asked for an explanation.

Fury, who already knew about the Halo ring, told the world council which he had always said and known. That it belonged to another universe and was transported here.

"Do you want us to tell this to people?" a member said.

"Councilman, a new world is coming soon which will be visible to the public. SHIELD has infiltrated many walks of life and has become the greatest spy organization that ever was but we can't control all lies. Especially the lies of the new world. So I would advice all of you to tell the truth to the public. At least the truth that the Ring belonged to another world. And that it isn't dangerous in any way. If people don't believe us we can take them to the Ring and show them around." Fury said

"Will that be good? Won't it cause more panic? For now there are only good things arriving. The people will think the bad things will arrive too." another member said.

"They have known of aliens from the New York War and even seen the Kryptonian ship. Do you think that the general public will panic more after knowing the truth? No, they will be happy to know that they have their own moon where people could settle down. I know there will be complications at the beginning but trust me. It would be better if we face it now then catching the people off guard when the new world arrives." Fury replied.

"What is this new world that John has spoken about? Did he give any hints?"

"Sadly, he refuses to answer it but only says that it will arrive in a few months." Fury replied.

"Bring out the world's origin from him as fast as possible. We don't like to be in the dark for a long time." a member said.

"I will look into it." Fury replied and closed the connection off. In a matter of hours all the governments finally revealed the origin of the Ring, about the theory of multiverse. And said that many of John's work was real and was based on other universes which were also real.

This caused another huge uproar as they never thought John's work was real. They just believed it was a story and only the movies of John had real characters which they also believed to be just a false story. Now this new information was totally new for them

"So the works of John are real. Then does that mean many heroes we see today come from other universes? Now that I think of it, the names of the cities in the movies were never based on our cities. Are they really from other universes?"

"The animes of John and their world are so vivid. If they too are real, aren't we really weak in front of the other universes? Does humanity even have a chance if the villains arrive from other universes."

"We have the Avengers to save us. Don't we have so many people on the good side. They will protect us from anything bad." .com

"That's fine if it's a major event. The Avengers won't save normal people like us. What shall we do? What shall the commoners do?"

"Yes, you are right. But the Avengers can only do so much. We can report on any incursions from another world and tell the Avengers. Maybe then they will help."

Such discussions were dominating in online forums and social media.

Chapter 240: The Tower

As all these things were going on, John and others had already gone through the boom tubes and emerged from the other side. What welcomed them was a beach which had waves from the sea water. They could see the whole land stretching like a circle. The gravity was almost like Earth and it looked majestic.

There was a cool breeze hitting the faces of the members and everybody felt like they were on Earth. Only difference was the view. They all could see the blue Earth from their position. Even though everybody expected such scenes as all of them had played the game, playing on a television and watching in real life was different.

Even John was in awe as he never expected the Ring to be so beautiful with vivid weather properties. He could see forests, deserts and even snowy peaks from his position on the other sides of the ring. Everybody took a minute to digest such a huge achievement of technology in silence. They could never have imagined that such achievement could ever be possible and they would be able to witness them.

As they were thinking, a small cube shaped flying machine came towards them levitating in the air. It had small blue colored eye. It was the 343 Guilty Spark, the monitor of this Ring.

"Hello friends, how may I be of service?" it said.

"Are you sure you can control this AI?" Rhodes asked as they had seen what a rogue AI could do.

"Don't worry, after becoming Dr. Fate I have become more powerful and controlling such beings is easy." John lied but it was kind of the half truth as he really could control them but it was because of the system.

"That's good." Tony murmured as Ultron had given them a huge headache.

"Hello, 343. Is the Halo Ring working properly?" John replied to the monitor.

"Yes. It's perfectly fine. The whole weather and other functions are working on 100%. The people can easily relocate here but they will have to build their own home and buildings." The Guilty Spark.

"There are buildings built from before? Yes?" John asked.

"Yes. Please follow me if you want to check it out." 343 said. They all followed 343 and went to the structures that were built underground. It looked exactly like it did in the game. They all spent hours exploring the structures and even the landscapes. Victor, Tony and others flew away to check the whole ring while John chose the place where they first landed to play the Tower of Fate.

John directly summoned the Tower of Fate and placed it near the beach. The others who were nearby were surprised to see such a huge medieval looking tower appear after the wave of John. The tower looked ancient and even like a huge guard tower.

"Want to go inside and see my library?" John asked.

"Sure. Magic right? Would love to see." Clint said.

They all entered through through the huge gate placed in front of the tower. There was a huge hall with stairs on all the sides leading high up the tower with books being placed on the walls. The collections of books on the walls surprised everybody as there were so many books that they couldn't even see till the end.

Everybody got interested and all started going through the books as they wanted to see if they could do any kind of magic. Of course, doing magic requires talent and John didn't know any of them have such talent.

John in the meantime checked his fan values and it was rising rapidly. A fan value doesn't actually depend on the likes and dislikes of a character or a thing being extracted but on a person's beliefs and likes of John's movies, animes, cartoons and games.

Thus even though many people felt fear after seeing the ring, John's fan value rose as people got interested in the game and had started playing it to know more about the ring. John was happy to see the rise. He just lost 600 million and from the rise it looked like he would get 600 million fan values back soon.

The ring was massive and almost had the same diameter as the Earth and thus many people could see it clearly. The people still were either in awe or fear of the ring as they felt the Flood might be there.

After almost 12 hours of the ring's appearance, Umbrella finally came out and said that there was no Covenant or Flood in the Ring and it was perfectly safe as The Avengers had already gone and checked

it. Umbrella also said that it would carry out rigorous tests on all the corners of the Ring to check for any infection.

The people were relieved when they came to know this and were happy that like always the Avengers went forward to check the danger instead of cowering away.