

Multiverse 241

Chapter 241: Moving the headquarters

"Your library is huge. But I still can't do any spells from the things written." Banner said.

"Yes. It depends on talent." John said. Many were disappointed as they understood that they didn't have magic talent. That would have been a boost to their powers. They all went out after sometime and soon the people who went to explore more of the Ring came back.

"How was the view?" John asked.

"It's so beautiful. The Hall of Justice would be huge here. John, you better keep 60% of the whole Ring to us. I don't want to destroy the beauty of it. People will just pollute the Ring." Tony said.

"Ask Pepper to handle all this. 343 will take care of it." John said.

"So that's the Tower of Fate you spoke about before. Looks huge." Wayne said after he came back with Tony as he too had gone to explore the Ring.

"Yes. You can go in and check it out. Anyway let Umbrella handle everything. Is the FOCUS ready to be in the market?" John asked.

"Yes." Tony replied.

"Alright. Soon we will replace mobiles. I am off. Have some work at Disney with the new movies. Tony you can place GAIA here, I am sure she will be happy to take control of this Ring. 343 will be responsible for the influx and out-flux of people. Since she can use the Ring technology to teleport people, she will be the monitor of it. Of course 343 will still have the core control of everything here." John said

"Now Victor doesn't have to use boom tubes for everyone." Tony said. Everybody laughed at it as Victor was basically working as the transport guy here. John vanished away after that while the others remained. He had work to do at Disney. The others went to check for proper space to build a new Hall of Justice.

It was April when the Ring had arrived and John had accumulated quite a lot of fan values. In a month or so he would have enough fan values. And recently due to the work of Green Lanterns across the galaxies the works of John in the Nova Empire had become famous and thus his fan values were also rising very quickly due to this influence.

John after coming back went directly to Disney. He was surprised to see such a huge amount of people outside the headquarters. John knew that they were here to know more about the Ring. John didn't care about greeting them and directly went inside.

But what gave John a headache was that the employees of Disney too wanted to know about the Ring.

"Boss, can we ever go to the Ring?" Kevin asked as he now knew that their boss had high connections with the Avengers and they might get a chance to go through that channel.

"If you want, we can relocate the headquarters to Ring. Umbrella too would probably relocate their headquarters." John said as he was really thinking of relocating the headquarters there. This would keep the normal public away from them and would be able to work in peace.

"Really? Is that even possible? Can we shift our homes too? Won't that be expensive for the employees? How will the employees travel if they want to come to earth?" Kevin said.

"You have played the game. 343 will be responsible for teleportation of people. You can easily come back whenever you want and still live there comfortably. You can ask the employees. Umbrella would soon construct houses. Ask them. I will talk to Pepper about it." John said.

"That will be great. I will ask the employees who work here." Kevin said excitedly. He really wanted to move to the Ring with his family. Living there would be equivalent to living in heaven. John was amazed that Kevin didn't think about the problem of Flood that was shown in the game but thought maybe because John would do nothing to harm them. He didn't think much about it after that.

John then proceeded to work on the upcoming movie and even the new movie that would be out by the end of the year. He was looking forward to new people that he would be able to extract from both the movies that he had planned this year.

It took a month for people to accept that now they had a Ring in their orbit. There was a serious debate about the implications of the Ring on Earth. Be it economical, geological or other such effects. Umbrella and the governments launched a joint probe on the Ring and when they couldn't find any kinds of viruses, the people rejoiced. Now Umbrella finally declared that 40% of the Ring would be for the public and like always there will be space for both rich and poor.

Of course the governments protested against it, let alone the people. Firstly the space was too small and secondly, the rich wanted to buy more land there and wanted to live in luxury.

Chapter 242: Arrival

Umbrella came out saying that this was the deal 343 Guilty Spark had made with the Avengers. If they had problems with it they could go and ask the AI and see if the deal could be renegotiated.

This made the government step back a bit but still some people insisted on asking the Guilty Spark. The governments hired a ship of the Umbrella and went to the Ring. 343 was already given the topic which it needed to speak about by Wayne and Tony.

After the landing of the officials on the Ring, 343 went to greet them and as usual they asked for more land. 343 directly said that the deal was already done and could never be renegotiated.

The officials tried enticing with many benefits but for an AI such human benefits wouldn't matter much, over the fact that he was controlled by John so such conditions were useless.

Thus the officials came back with the sad news that only 40% would be allocated to the public and private. This made the people sad but 40% too was pretty huge so people flocked to the Umbrella again to buy the land. Even though Umbrella wanted to divide the land of 40% to all the sections of society, the rich had more money to spend so they had to buckle on the smell of green bills.

John, who was keeping an eye on this, lamented on the power of rich people. Even though they were successful in keeping Mars's population distributed equally, it was not possible for the Ring as this was enticing and everybody wanted to live in a space which could be said as a heaven.

By the month of June new headquarters of both Disney and Umbrella were established and made on the Ring. Every one of the employees moved to the new place without hesitation as the companies provided them cheap land as compared to other people.

343 handled all the transport logistics so it was precise and fast. It could literally teleport anyone and anything from the Ring to Earth to anyplace and vice versa. The people just needed to use their mobiles or FOCUS, which was the new product of Umbrella gaining popularity among the masses to give the coordinates and then they would be teleported.

Victor in order to give the Ring unlimited power handed the mother box to 343. This would enable 343 to work more efficiently and faster as the mother box itself has unlimited power. The people were amazed to see teleporting technology and even the governments asked for share of technology but as usual 343 refused to do so. Some of the officials feared this teleportation as people could be transferred anywhere, even the homes of officials.

Thus, governments even threatened 343 with nuclear missiles but 343 said that if they do it, the Avengers would come for them as that was the initial deal. Land in lieu of protection.

Now the governments really didn't know what to do and had to accept it and 343 said that there would always be fixed coordinates to transfer the normal public and never invade privacy. They could only take it slowly and try to steal technology from the Ring later. Of course GAIA, who has been brought to the Ring and 343 would always keep an eye on all the people who came to the Ring.

A new hall of Justice was made which was bigger than the one at Jurassic Park. Almost everybody moved their home to the Ring and even SHIELD moved their headquarters to the Ring as with the help of 343 they could respond to emergency situations faster.

This was like a dream come true for Fury as SHIELD now has a base which overlooked the Earth from all points. He was actually thankful that John existed and helped in making the transition smooth. Even though he still felt John was hiding something, he didn't care as long as they did good for humanity. He made sure 343 could never hack into the SHIELD files and sealed many things away from the server, so that if one day 343 went rogue they would have contingency plans. Ultron was a wake up call to many people.

By the month of July everything got settled. John too had started living on the Ring, at the Tower and even asked his dad to move here. But his dad refused saying that his work was on Earth and this needed a more hands-on-approach.

John tried convincing him to retire but he failed to do so. Since he knew his words would just fall on deaf ears, he didn't say more and left. John missed Emma a bit and she would come by the end of the year so it would take a long time for her to arrive.

By the end of July his fan values finally reached the amount he needed to extract a world. And he wanted to bring some of the people first to give people the idea of what world was going to arrive.

He called all the members of the Avengers and even Steve who was working in the League came. Everybody arrived including Fury, the people from the Wolf School, Flash, Petro, Hal, Bucky, Banner, Wayne, Stark, Clint and others from SHIELD.

343 took care of the teleportation and moved all of them to the newly built Hall of Justice which looked exactly like the one in the comics and animated series.

Chapter 243: New people

[Ding

Total fan values accumulated - 16 billion]

"So is the new world going to come?" Wayne asked after everybody sat down.

"Can't you just send the world to other planet like you can guide some things from other worlds?" Fury asked. John squinted his eyes at Fury and said.

"Controlling a real person and a non living thing is different. Do you think I am a God that can bring and send back anything that I like or dislike." Everybody understood that there was a limit to the powers of John and everything couldn't be done as they wish for.

"So, what is this new world that is coming? You have been teasing us about that for a long time." Banner as he was running out of patience.

"Easy Banner, Victor these are coordinates. Go and bring these people. They would be wearing white lab coats and would be easily recognizable." John said as he brought out a piece of paper which had the coordinates and it was scattered all around the globe. Victor with his boom tubes can easily approach the people that have arrived.

"Approach and convince them to come with you. They are the first people to arrive and soon everybody will come from their world." John said

"I understand." Victor said as he opened a boom tube and went in. Everybody now had to wait for the new people to arrive.

"I should have gone with Victor to convince these new people to come." Fury said.

"You with your eye patch will just make people alienate. How are the normal people taking in the theory of multiverse? Have they accepted it?" John asked as they waited for Victor.

"Yes, the response had been positive, even though there are doubts by many sections of the people, but it can be controlled." Fury replied.

"Are the governments ready for the new world?" John asked again.

"More or less. Since you have denied giving us any hints, it made them angry." Fury said.

"Doesn't matter. When you will see the people you will know anyways. Even if they were given a few years it would still not be enough." John said.

Almost half an hour went by and finally a boom tube opened and Victor came out from it. And from the boom tubes came out men and women came out with weird hair color like the ones of Naruto's world. The moment the Avengers saw these people they were dumbfounded.

Because everyone of them knew who these people were and finally understood why John said before that it was better to let the people know of multiverse because people needed an heads up with the upcoming world.

The one man leading the whole team of people who looked like doctors came out of the boom tubes. They all looked around and the people who were sitting on the round table.

"Hello, Mr. Stone here asked us to go with him to meet you people to understand this world. I am Professor Oak. It's nice to meet you all. Hope we didn't disturb much." the man said.

All of the members of the Avengers and even the Wolf School after hearing the name Professor Oak knew what world was going to arrive.

The world of Pokemon.

Yes, this was John plan from the start. Only the world of Pokemon would enable John to have huge amount of fan values always. The people of the world be then forced to see his work and supply him huge amount of fan values always. After all, seeing is believing.

Though he knew that this would create great turmoil in the society and some people will even try to mistreat the Pokemons and even do some cruel experiments.

But the main thing was every single one of the Pokemon would be under the control of John and if any bad thing happened to any one of the Pokemon he would know immediately.

This was one of the reasons head also let SHIELD and the League dig deep into both the bright and dark side of the world. Even though the governments might flip out he didn't care. The last purge was a huge warning to them and if they do any bad thing John didn't mind just killing them off.

"Hello, Professor Oak. I guess you have a general idea of the world as I have tried speaking with you through dreams." John replied.

"Yes. Never knew that even people could contact through dreams. Only knew Darkrai and only such other special Pokemons have that power. Good to know that even humanity has evolved in another universe." Professor Oak said.

"Hello Professor Oak. I am a huge fan of yours." Banner spoke up for the first time as everybody was still taking time to digest the new world that was going to arrive. Many of them thought that it would be a world like Naruto's for example the world of Seven Deadly Sins, Black Clover or even the world of Jojo.

But they didn't expect the world of Pokemon.

Chapter 244: New powers

"Hello. I am glad that you like my work. But I don't know you." Professor Oak said.

"I am Bruce Banner. A physicist and a medical doctor. I have been following your world for a long time." Banner said.

"Thank you. I guess at first we will have to do formal introductions." Oak said. Everybody finally came back to reality and introduced themselves to each other. John had summoned many known Professors of Pokemon world like Professor Rowan, Professor Birch, professor Kukui, professor Juniper and few others and sent them to different parts of the globe to make the summoning more believable.

Fury was now thinking how to tell this to the world council. He really didn't want such a weird world to come but he had no other way to tackle it but head on.

"How many days do we have till all the Pokemon arrive. Will the people also come?" Fury asked after he introduced themselves to all of them. This was the main question which everybody wanted to know.

"A small amount of people will arrive. Some of them are already known to people, and some who had never appeared. We will have to negotiate everything with Arceus though. We have two weeks Fury." John said. As Arceus was the supposed creator of the Pokemon world.

Now all had another headache as there would be negotiations too. Fury now had to do everything in these few weeks and convince the governments to work actively in these two weeks to welcome this new world.

"I will be a Pokemon Trainer." Pietro said as he loved the Pokemon series and would love to collect Pokemons.

"Yeah? Get in line kid." Tony said. Though the Avengers were shocked by the emergence of a new world they have starting accepting the fact that a new world would arrive.

"First negotiate with Arceus and then think of having Pokemon." Wayne reminded as he too had watched the anime. The betrayal of human beings didn't go down well with Arceus and knew they had to convince him first.

"We will give Arceus to live in the Ring. He can overlook everything from here and decide what is good and what not." Steve said.

The professors who had arrived went out with Banner as he said that they were on the Ring. The professors were very much interested in this Ring which worked a huge satellite.

The Avengers were discussing how to handle Pokemon and Fury went away after asking 343 to teleport him back to headquarters. He needed to have a general meeting with the World Council. Wayne stayed back and was discussing the impact of the new world.

"Vesemir, would you all like to relocate here?" John asked Vesemir.

"Yes I would love to. I have spoken with Pepper before to make a new building in the Ring only for us and she accepted it."

"That's good. I might be able to give some of the members new powers." John suddenly declared.

"Huh. What do you mean?" Tony asked.

"The people who came from other universes, I can provide them with more power in lieu with the power that are present in other universes." John said.

"I don't understand." Clint said.

"For example Wayne is a vampire batman in one universe. I can make Bruce like that, by combining and controlling the multiversal magic and pass through them. This is only possible who had come from other universes." John elaborated.

"You mean to say the people who came from other universes have a chance to upgrade themselves via magic?" Wayne asked this time as he understood what John meant.

"Yes." John replied.

"This is scientifically impossible. What are you are saying is changing the genes of the people." Tony replied.

"Yes. But this isn't science. This is magic. I told you. Donning the helmet of Dr. Fate has a huge power." John said. And this was a lie as he could spend fan values to upgrade characters according to the comics and give his summons more powers.

"I need more powers too. You said I am a magician in one universe. Give me that powers by passing the mumbo-jumbo." Tony said.

"Sorry Tony this is only possible who had come from other universes from before as they were already imbued with multiversal energy." John spoke another bunch of lies.

"What a ton of bulls**t." Tony lamented.

"You have always said I have huge potential. Am I really very powerful in other universes." Wanda said.

"Yes. Well strong to the point where you are scary. You once killed a whole race of people." John said. Everybody was taken aback by such knowledge. This really happened as Wanda once killed the entirety of Mutants after she became very angry with her father, Magneto.

"Huh. A whole race? Who did she kill?" Triss asked as she was interested in the powers of Wanda.

"A race of super powered beings called Mutants. You might see them in the future." John said.

Chapter 245: New logos

Everybody understood now why Wanda was favored by John and witches. She was basically a hidden weapon for them that they could use when the situations become dire.

"Let's forget about all that now. Every power comes at a cost. Now, Arceus will arrive first in a few days. What do you propose we should do to welcome him?" John asked. Everybody contemplated it and all wanted to leave a good impression on the God of Pokemon, the Pokemon who possessed all the types known to man.

"Umbrella within these two weeks can establish ranches by buying lands, start constructing gyms and establish Pokemon centers all around the globe. This will take time but that will be a start." Victor said as everybody started pitching their ideas.

"We can change the logos of Avengers and even SHIELD according to the Pokemon, like Avengers will have the mascot of Victini, SHIELD will be represented by Zamazenta and Zacian, Umbrella will have the logo of Mew so on and so forth." Wayne said.

"That's a nice idea." John said as he really liked it.

"We can negotiate with Arceus for sending the Pokemons to their respective climate regions, like ice type Pokemon to snowy regions. Oh yeah John when the world is merged will the islands be merged too? I don't think Earth has enough space for that?" Diana asked.

"I am not sure if there will be the islands. Maybe one or two will arrive." John said as he wasn't sure if he would bring the islands or not as he hasn't decided yet.

"Hmm let's talk with Arceus, maybe he can tell us what will arrive and what not." Steve said.

"We will have to control the people. This will take a long time to calm the public. We will have a lot to do in the upcoming weeks." Tony said.

"Yes. I will keep an eye on all the bad factors and people who will profit in this chaos." John reminded everyone.

"Yes. Thank God SHIELD has infiltrated deeply into the world now. Steve, you better help us." Hal said.

"Worry not. I will take care of the other side."

"The rules of the people getting Pokemon will be like the original. Only kids who cross the age of 14 can be official trainers and take part in battles. The rules will be exactly like the previous world." Diana said.

As they were discussing, all the Professors came back after exploring the Ring and all of them were excited by seeing such a huge satellite.

"How was it, Professors? Do you like the place here?" Wayne asked.

"It's amazing. I have decided to make my laboratory here. If you allow me to." Professor Oak said.

"Why not? This place is huge. You can make a bigger ranch here and we would love it." Tony said.

"It's settled then. The other Professors are more excited about exploring the Earth."

They all then shared their ideas and spoke about negotiating with Arceus about the arrival of Pokemons. All the Professors got excited when they came to know that they might meet Arceus. They thus decided to join in this negotiation too as they also represent humanity.

The whole discussion went on a full day, while Fury was having a brainstorming session with the World Council. He finally said what world was going to arrive and the members were taken aback. They knew they had to act fast and since they had very little time, they needed to inform the governments to brace themselves for the upcoming storm.

When the governments came to know they were in uproar. They never expected such a world to arrive in a matter of weeks. They knew they had to act fast and make a good impression because the Pokemons are really powerful and humanity won't survive if the Pokemons ever revolted.

Fury had to console everyone saying that the Pokemons' behavior will be like the anime. They would be friendly, provided humans are kind to it. Now they had a massive task ahead and each government got to work to welcome the new visitors.

The Naruto world itself was a headache and now an almost a same powerful world was going to arrive and they had to brace themselves again for a weirder world.

The next day Umbrella changed their logo to Mew. The Avengers' organization changed their logo to Victini in their website which was maintained by Felicity. Even Disney changed their logo from the iconic castle to Pikachu.

This sudden change from three large organizations surprised many people. They didn't understand what was going on, and there were serious debates on the internet of what was going on. And in a week the rumors started to float around that Pokemons were going to arrive in their world like the Ring appeared.

Apparently this leaked from some employees of various governments around the globe. Many hid their identities and declared on forums that the governments were getting ready to welcome the visitors.

Chapter 246: The false negotiation

While all this was going on John and other Avengers members came to a secluded island somewhere west of the USA. They were joined by the Professors. They came here for only one thing and that was meeting Arceus. This was the place John decided to summon Arceus.

"Excited?" John asked as he saw that everybody had little tense faces. They were going to meet a God who actually was responsible for the creation of Pokemon. Truth to be told, even John himself was excited to see Arceus. One of his childhood dreams was going to be fulfilled soon so he too was excited at heart.

As they were waiting, there was a sudden flash of light in the air. And from that flash emerged a centaur looking animal. The animal looked pure white and was glistening in the sunshine. It looked huge and majestic.

It was Arceus. Arceus looked more pristine than John had imagined and he almost had a godly aura around him.

"Humans again." these were the first words of Arceus.

"Arceus we are here in peace. You have been thrown to this world without your consent and this planet is the only one you can settle down. I have spoken to you in the dreams so you know the situation here." John said as he needed to work out the lie. Arceus sighed when he heard that, as he too followed the drama played out by John.

"So a new world. I guess humanity will be the same as the previous world." Arceus said.

"It might be, but nobody is perfect. Not even Pokemon. We all make mistakes and learn along the way. From the dreams I spoke to you about what kind of organization we are and what kind of world this is." John said.

"Yes. Feels weird to have monsters that are higher level than me here." Arceus said. As they were talking suddenly out of nowhere a circular portal opened. The portal had yellow sparks around it. And from the portal came out a bald woman.

Everybody was taken aback when this new woman emerged. Nobody had even seen such a person ever before except for John and a few others. It was the Ancient one. John never expected her to come in this negotiation.

The other members of the Avengers who didn't know took their defensive poses because they had no idea where this new woman came from and from the portal she created it looked like the boom tube portals. John in order to calm everyone down said.

"Did the coming of Arceus effect the magical defense of the planet"

"No, there was a shake on the defense but nothing happened. Came to see what the fun is about." the Ancient one replied without even giving an eye to the others.

"John, who is she?" Tony asked. As everybody wanted to know her identity. John never gave any information about her to anyone. Not even his summons who never met her. .c(o)m

"She is the Sorcerer Supreme of Earth." Geralt spoke as he had met her before.

"What? You mean like you she is on the magic side?" Banner asked.

"Yes, Dr. Banner." the Ancient One replied this time.

"You know me?" Banner said, now being more confused.

"Yes Dr. Banner. I have kept an eye on everything going on with the world. You are a person of interest." the Ancient one replied.

"Arceus. I have got to say the power inside you is massive." she continued.

"I can also feel a huge amount of power inside you, human." Arceus replied. The Ancient One smiled at the words of Arceus.

"I hope you come in peace." she said.

"I am a peace loving Pokemon. It's the humans who aren't at peace." Arceus said.

"True. It's the humans but we have goodness in us too." she said. John then stopped both of their conversations as they were in this meeting for false negotiation not for judging humanity.

"Umm.. Hello.. Can we come back to the topic.. We are here to negotiate." John said.

"Very well. I also want to meet these new so-called Pokemons. They looked cute in the anime as far as I remember." the Ancient One said. John sighed and then handed all the negotiation matters to Fury, Wayne and the Professors as they were the more apt people.

John said that Arceus would be controlling the total distribution of Pokemon so they all needed a proper plan before everyone arrives.

The whole false negotiation went on for 2 hours before Arceus vanished from their sights. The Professors were more interested in the physiology of Arceus instead of negotiating. Wayne and Fury were mostly responsible for the main talks.

The others who were present just followed the conversation and inserted themselves and gave their own ideas to it. John just sat down and looked at the ongoing babble. It felt like a huge drama to him as half of the people in it were just his puppets.

Chapter 247: The new world is here

"So, happy with the negotiation?" John asked after Arceus vanished. Even though he was present he actively didn't participate in it.

"Yes. We all got what we wanted and he has a better behavior than what the anime showed." Fury said.

"I told you before. My works are only a reference. Not the actual world sometimes." John said.

"Arceus liked the 'mascot' thing of ours." Tony said with a smile.

"Yes. Never knew Arceus has a liking for show offs." John said and everybody laughed at that. They all been tense about meeting a God. Now they have finally met.

"How is the response from the governments' Fury?" John asked as he too was a little concerned. He would be able to handle it but didn't want to be overwhelmed.

"The World Council is handling it. Some governments aren't very enthusiastic as it might change the geo-political situations of the countries but it was never going to be perfect. We can only do so much." Fury said.

"The Avengers will have to work overtime to maintain everything in order." Wayne said.

"That we do." John said. "We have less than a week."

The Ancient One also left after Arceus went away after saying goodbye to everyone.

"John, does Earth really have a Sorcerer Supreme?" Fury asked.

"Then what you saw just now was an illusion?" John asked sarcastically.

"You knew of her from before?" Tony asked.

"Yes. Even before I became Dr. Fate. She has been doing this for the last hundreds of years." John said

"What? How is she alive? Is she an immortal like Diana?" Natasha asked.

"No. She is a normal human being. It's just that she uses magic to maintain her age and youthfulness." John said.

"I wish I had the magic talent." Tony lamented as he too went to the Tower to study magic but understood later that he didn't have any such.

"Everything has a price Tony. Her immortality comes at a cost." John said. Later they all discussed more about Arceus and what they needed to do.

He wore his helmet and vanished with everyone and went back to the Ring. And after that everybody went to work. John too went to Disney as the new movie was about to be released in September.

"Boss, are the Pokemon really going to come? Will they come to the Ring?" Kevin asked. They by now have all settled in the Ring but Kevin was sad thinking the Pokemon which John had said to be arriving might not be available at the Ring.

"Professor Oak will be at the Ring here with his laboratory and ranch. You can go and catch Pokemon. But catch only those whom you think will be suitable for you." John replied.

"That's great. Professor Oak is here too? This is awesome." Kevin said excitedly. John returned back to the Tower after a day's work. John had even brought Bumblebee to the Ring and now he could finally transform himself in the open without having any problems. John was happy to see Bee being free and being able to move around.

Returning home he checked the internet to see how the public response was after the change of logos. He was not surprised when there were leaks on the internet of the Pokemon world coming as this was too big of a secret to be kept hidden. John was happy to see that at least the people have taken it more positively than he thought.

After 2 days, the US government finally opened its mouth saying that the rumors were true. The Pokemon were really going to come in less than a week. This announcement surprised John as he didn't expect the US would be bold enough to declare such a huge news to the public. This caused a huge uproar.

And the people believed it as the information came from the President of the USA himself. After this declaration many other governments came forward to declare the same news in a day.

"They really trust Fury." John thought as every government came out with the news because the negotiation was already done with Arceus.

By the first week of August, John finally summoned the Pokemon world. After much contemplation he only brought the Pokemons and not the people nor the islands belonging to the Pokemon world.

"Bringing the people will be a hassle. There even might be war just for taking control of the islands and people living on them. I will just change the ecology of the planet with the help of the system."

The system would help him change the ecology of the world by introducing trees and food that are native to Pokemon world. The Professors have already been sent to the different laboratories of Umbrella so that they would help teaching the people about the food habits and other associated factors.

Chapter 248: Overwhelming response

John even sent the medical information of the Pokemon world to the Umbrella Corporation so that they could take care of the medical emergency. Even though the doctors wouldn't be expert on the knowledge immediately, they had to start somewhere.

The moment the Pokemon world arrived all over the world, it caused an uproar. More than 90% of the people were happy to see the cute Pokemon arriving and all came out of their homes to see and even establish friendship. Since Umbrella didn't come out with Pokemon balls yet they could only go the old ways and try to establish friendship.

The Avengers went to work immediately after they arrived as they knew it was time. Fury and John sat side by side. 343 Guilty Spark was responsible for transporting people.

Using the system he would always know if any Pokemon would be hurt or shown aggression by anyone. Thus John sat at the Ring while directing Fury and the Avengers to go to places where the Pokemons needed help. Even though the people welcomed the Pokemons with open arms there were people who had evil ideas.

This was where the Avengers and SHIELD came in. They proceeded in cleaning the evil ones. The League too kept an eye on everything.

And this operation was a long one. The Earth was huge and the evil elements came from the sea region too as there were even people who wanted to kill Pokemon and eat them. This annoyed the Avengers and even in one case Victor proceeded to kill a person who wanted to kill a Pokemon for fun. Victor looked up the information of the person on the Internet and was disgusted by what he saw.

All the people were brought to justice by them and they made sure that the people who were caught would be showed to the public with all their crimes. Even though they couldn't kill any Pokemon but some were hurt. John made sure that all Pokemons retaliated if there any form of aggression shown to them.

Thus the public also came to know that the Avengers and the police were very much active in hunting down people who committed crimes against Pokemons and thus those who had evil ideas threw them away. Finally, after a whole week of hunting almost all the people were brought to justice and the Avengers got rest.

Even though there were one or two cases, SHIELD was looking into it. John too was tired after getting continuous notifications from the system. The barrage of notifications overwhelmed him but he knew this was necessary to root out evil from society.

He proceeded to take rest while all the Avengers too were tired in dealing with such a massive mission. After taking a rest for a full day everybody came together for a meeting.

"So are the cases down now? Is SHIELD enough to handle them?" Steve asked.

"Yes. I am checking through the helmet of Fate and could see that the cases have become minimal. SHIELD and League have been working from their own paths and thus the cases have gone down." John said.

"That's good. I talked to Oak. Umbrella would be able to produce Pokeballs soon. I will have to go and hunt of Pokemons myself." Tony said.

"I will go too." Flash said as everybody was excited to get their first Pokemons.

The governments in the meantime too were handling the process of integrating Pokemon into the world. The governments gave the instruction that every single citizen should watch the Pokemon anime to get a proper knowledge of Pokemon and every country would have unique 3 starter Pokemons for kids who want to undertake the Pokemon trainer journey.

The rules would be followed exactly like the anime, while Umbrella would be responsible for establishing gyms in cooperation with local governments. Of course, every person could catch wild Pokemon's too as the number of Pokemons that were brought was huge. More than double the population of Earth. John made sure that there would be no hunger for Pokemon so with the help of the system he changed the ecology of Earth.

People were surprised to see new trees and plants growing rapidly from the ground after the emergence of Pokemons. And of course all these changes had a huge impact on society. Some people even came together and formed new cults surrounding the Pokemon legends.

"There are mad people in every world." Hal said as Victor showed footage from around the world after the emergence of Pokemon.

"They will always be present." Geralt said. What really surprised everybody was that Ciri was the first person to get a friendship from a Pokemon and when she came back. It was Elgyem, a very rare psychic type Pokemon.

"Ciri, how did you get the friendship?" Yen asked as she saw the Pokemon with envy on the shoulder of Ciri

Chapter 249: Spiderman

"Well he was caught in the net by some people in Africa. Even though he defended himself quite well he was outnumbered. So I came by and gave him a hand. Then he started following me. Now we are here." Ciri said.

"I have saved so many Pokemon. Why don't I get followed?" Pietro said with sadness.

"In a few days the ranch will open here. I am sure you can follow Professor Oak and learn how to catch a Pokemon." John said. They all didn't ask about John trying to catch Pokemon because John dreaming about the Pokemon world should have filled his mind with all the knowledge.

"Umbrella has already started building ranches and gyms. Soon a proper organisation will be set up to control the gyms and the rules. The governments will sponsor the gyms and make strict laws so that Pokemon aren't used to attack humans. Any people found guilty will be served with double punishment. Pokemon can be used for saving purposes and only for that." Wayne said.

"Agreed." Arthur said as all nodded their heads to this.

"You will have to talk with the World Council to establish an organisation responsible for this." John said.

"Yes. And only legitimate people will sit on it. Like the Professors." Banner said.

"I thought the population would rise when the world arrived. Thankfully, human beings didn't appear like the one with Naruto World." Natasha said.

"Yes. It would have been a headache." John nodded as he took the correct decision in not bringing the humans.

"The people in Pokemon world would be pretty pissed with all the missing Pokemon." Clint commented. All laughed at the joke as their world gained Pokemon while another world lost. John just smiled at it as this was all a huge false world.

"What about the special stones, John? They would be needed for various purposes for Pokemon."

"They have already integrated with the land of earth and distributed everywhere. Umbrella can start searching after finding proper tools." John replied.

"That's a relief."

"I am sure you all have work to do now. Go home. Recharge yourself. The first Poke balls would be out soon. And then go out and have fun." Wayne said.

"Before you go I need to say that I have found a very interesting kid. This kid can swing across buildings using some kind of silk that can attach to walls and has immense body strength. I saw him while completing a small bullying case in New York. He too, like Ciri, had a Pokemon with himself. It was Spinarak." Tony said.

"Peter Parker?" John asked.

"Yes. How do you know? I had to ask GAIA to bring out his identity. He lives with his aunt in Queens." Tony said as he was surprised. Everybody understood that this kid has importance in the universe since John knew.

"Tony, take care of that kid. Be his mentor." John said as Peter Parker of this world had a huge attachment with Tony.

"Me? And a mentor? Do I look like a babysitter to you?" Tony asked. John just looked at him with squinted eyes.

"What? In other universes am I his mentor?" Tony finally asked.

"Not exactly. He does tie up with Avengers later in most of the universes, but here will be different. On second thought, leave him. Let him grow up by himself. There will be kids appearing soon. Will just throw him to them." John said.

"Kids as superheroes? Wouldn't that be dangerous?" Banner asked.

"Ask Bruce. His son followed his father's footsteps." John. Everybody's eyes went wide open when John said that. They all turned and looked at Wayne. Nobody expected Wayne to have a son.

"You have a son? You bast**d. You never told any of us." Tony almost screamed. Wayne didn't reply but asked John.

"Is Damian and the others coming?"

"Yes." John replied. Bruce eyebrows squinted when John replied that as if he was being tortured.

"Jesus. Do you hate your son or something? With whom did you have the kid?" Tony and others got interested because they never expected their supposed leader supreme to have a kid with someone. Even the wolf school guys joined in to know about this Damian.

Wayne sighed as he knew the secret was out and it wasn't like he hated his son. In fact he was proud of him. It's just this child of his wasn't born out of proper marriage.

"Damian is the son of mine and Talia Al Ghul." Wayne said.

"Al Ghul. Related to Ra's?" Steve asked as he was the only person here who was connected to Ra's apart from Oliver and Wayne.

"Yes she is the daughter of Ra's."

"Damn. Do you even practice properly in Nanda Parbat or having an affair." Tony didn't hesitate to mock Wayne.

"It's all in the past. Thing is he is going to come." John said.

Chapter 250: A new movie

They all were more interested in the affair of Wayne but he didn't speak much about it. Everybody looked sullen when Bruce just left without saying much.

"Alright guys, you can ask the son when he arrives. Now let's go back." John said and vanished and appeared in Fate Tower. Now he needed to think which Pokemon he would prefer.

"An Audino would be perfect to keep everything clean here. She could help in cooking too and even be helpful in healing purposes. I will just put Victini at the Hall of Justice which would guarantee that we will never be out of power. After all, the rumor of 'winning luck' isn't just for show." John thought.

"I will pick whatever Pokemons I like later when I come across them. For now let me search for Audino."

John searched in the system for a location of Audino. After finding it he vanished. The next moment he was in a forest in Japan where he saw an Audino nearby eating a berry. The Audino turned her head to look at John. Being a summon of John each Pokemon would feel close to him. So the Audino was very happy to see him.

She directly went and gave him a hug. John really felt good by that hug as he felt that his loneliness at home would go away now.

"Do you wish to come with me? There will be enough food and you will be able to eat whatever