

Multiverse 291

Chapter 291: Sealed again

Hela of course couldn't take all of this lying down and retaliated. Again swords started growing out from the ground. The swords were bigger than last time signifying that she was becoming stronger little by little.

John stopped the swords using magic and supported Strange so that he could be near Hela to bring out her astral form. Erza too started defending, but not with flying swords this time. But by close combat.

John saw that the chains were on the verge of breaking and used magic again to strengthen it.

"Oh no. You are not going anywhere."

Zatana said as he used more magic power to make her more slow, and even used magic chains over vines that she had used. Strange finally was able to be close to her.

He struck her head which was the only accessible part of her body as all the other parts were covered by chains and vines. Kratos helped him in clearing the path towards her with his blades of chaos, cutting down the swords that grew out.

And as Strange struck her head the astral form of her came out. The astral form flew quite a distance back.

"John, come here fast! Her astral form won't be out of her body for a long time."

John flew to him as Hela had stopped attacking now. He directly opened the Amulet of Anubis to suck her astral form inside it.

"No..... No.. Not again..." Hela said as she was trying her best to go back inside her body. But the souls of the previous Lords that were in the Amulet proved to be too powerful. John had already directed the souls of previous Lords of Order to keep Hela's soul trapped and sealed.

After half a minute of struggle the soul of hers was sucked by the Amulet trapping her inside with no hope for getting out again. Everybody sighed in relief after this happened. Even though they couldn't kill Hela, this was close to death for her as she would never be able to get out of the Amulet.

"Thor, are you sure you are Odin's son? Both Hela and Loki had black hair while only you are blonde." John joked in order to make the situation a little funny.

Thor didn't reply to it as he felt sad while Loki gave a weird smile to this comment.

"Thank you warriors for helping us in this fight." Thor then thanked Erza and Zatanna. Erza and Z nodded at Thor.

"You can thank Erza by helping her make a home in Asgard. Their whole guild is going to arrive in Asgard." John said. The source of this content nov(eli)bi((n))

"The whole guild of Fairy Tail you mean? Wouldn't the enemies also come?" Thor asked as he was concerned now. The enemies of Fairy Tail were really of high level, especially Zeref.

"For now, no. Maybe they will arrive but it might be far away from our planet." John said as usual giving a vague answer. John would bring the Fairy Tail to Asgard in order to gain more fan values from it.

"I will take care of it." Thor said.

John could have used Pokemon and many powers to defeat Hela but he chose not to do so. He wanted to see how powerful he was alone fighting her. Even though Hela did stab him, he wasn't fatally wounded. He needed to have good exercise so he had this fight. Though at the end he still ended up asking for help.

Erza and Z were on his agenda for a long time. Erza and her guild would be in Asgard, influencing it and keeping an eye on everything. He wished to do the same with Nova Empire too, but before that he needed to collect fan values.

Z would be with Constantine as that was the deal with him.

"Thor what will you do with your Mjolnir?" John asked as he saw Thor looking at his hammer.

"I don't know. I will need a better weapon." Thor said as he was really confused now of what he needed to do.

"Mjolnir is just a part of your power Thor. This was never your whole power. You need to awaken the powers of thunder that have been buried deep inside you."

"Then what do you recommend I should do to awaken the power which you think I possess?" Thor asked.

"Talk to your mother. She will be able to guide you on this." John said.

"Speaking of your mother, let's go back. The fight here is sure to alert the locals. Loki, you better behave. I won't stop the Avengers if they come after you with swords and axes." John warned Loki at the end. Loki just shrugged at it.

All vanished from the spot the moment John said that and appeared again in front of House of Mysteries. Loki was surprised with all the changes Earth had gone through the last few years. When he sat on the throne, he never cared to look into Earth but now when he looked at this new Ring he was in awe.

Chapter 292: Water of Sights

As they were about to go inside John stopped and looked at Loki with squinted eyes. Loki became stiff when John looked at him.

"What..?"

"Don't play tricks Loki. Come back here." John said with a grave tone. Loki's shoulders drooped down as he knew that he was caught. He wanted to escape and look around the scenery but was caught red handed. The illusion faded away and the actual Loki who was a few metres away appeared out of thin air and started walking towards them.

"You can see the illusion?" Loki asked.

"Didn't your brother tell you I am the Sorcerer Supreme of this Ring? Do you think anything escapes my eyes here?" John said. Loki had a weird look on his face when John said that. When they last met, he wasn't even half as powerful as he was now. Now he had weird Phoenix powers and even became the Sorcerer Supreme.

"This guy really thinks that he can escape from the Lord of Order. Funny one." Z said with a bland tone as if Loki being caught was written on the stars.

Finally they all went into the House of Mysteries, including Kratos, Erza and others. They saw Frigga sitting in the fireplace talking with the spirit of the house. She had a sad and anxious look on her face but when all came inside there was relief.

"We won mother. She is sealed away." Thor said.

"Thanks to me and my friends here." Loki added as he too was emotional seeing mother again. He really missed her all these days and now finally the family is back together. Only person missing was the father.

All took their seats which the spirit had arranged for them. Everybody introduced each other properly now. And had a talk of the battle that had happened against Hela and narrated to Frigga of how they had defeated her. She was relieved that her daughter was sealed away.

Even though she was a violent one, at the end Hela was her daughter. Her body was with John and would be given to Frigga to be laid under the vault of Odin where her previous army was buried. They were able to stop the Ragnarok of Asgard and that in itself was a huge achievement.

"Thor, you should give me the crown of Surtur. Eternal fire and Surtur staying close to each other is a disaster." John said to Thor.

"Only a fool like my brother will do stupid things like these." Loki said.

"Shut up Loki. I at least defeated Surtur while you spent the days in luxury." Thor replied back.

"My sons stop fighting. I heard Mjolnir had cracks now. What do you want to do about it?" Frigga asked.

"I don't know mother. I thought I was strong enough to stop the Ragnarok of the universe. I can't even save Asgard from Ragnarok. How do I even confront that being?" Thor said as almost lost his confidence.

"Didn't your father always tell you that Mjolnir was just a weapon to channel your power? The hammer does have a power of it's own but you, Thor, is stronger than that. You are the God of Thunder." Frigga said. (have to mention this as I just remembered Jane Foster will be the new Thor in Love and Thunder)

"I know that but how do I awaken it? Even John said the same thing but I don't know anything about it. Then what should I do mother? Guide me." Thor asked.

"Isn't there a Water of Sights in this realm? Go into the water. Maybe the water spirits will help you in this regard." Frigga said. (Water of Sights was in the deleted scene of Age of Ultron. You can all look upto in Youtube.

"The legends don't end well when it comes to that water." Strange said as he was drinking tea and listening to their conversation.

"All the more reason for him to go and experience it. Only hardships will make him stronger." Frigga said.

"Sure mother. I will leave for the Norn Cave of this realm. I hope the water spirits will accept me of this realm." Thor said as he was now determined to be powerful and awaken his hidden powers.

"Loki, you too need to practice your illusions." John suddenly said.

"Why am I being brought here into the whole conversation?" Loki grumbled.

"Do you think I saved you those years ago because I had a pity on you? No. It's because I know the potential of you. The potential to do good. Didn't you want a throne? Now you have it. With everything you ever wanted." John said.

"I never wanted the throne. I just wanted recognition." Loki said in an aggrieved tone. With the search for recognition he just lost his father. Even though he didn't like his father very much for lying to him, in the end he was still his father.

"Recognition. You were born in a palace with all things delivered to you. Can you imagine how many people in your own realm envy you?" John said.

Chapter 293: Heven

Loki became silent when John said that he was really privileged in this regard. He had all the luxury one can think of. Being a Prince he never cared about it. But what John said was right. Now Black Winter was coming and all the past grievances needed to be together to save themselves.

"I hope we all can be together to face the upcoming danger." John said.

"Agreed. We need to be together. And I need to go to Norn Cave. Who will accompany me in this?" Thor asked. Strange got up and even Zatanna. John expected Strange to go with Thor as he had seen the future. But never expected Z to join.

"Don't want to meet Constantine yet?" John asked.

"Who cares of that assh***? I will meet him when I am in a good mood." Z said.

"Mother, you should go back to Asgard with Loki." Thor suggested.

"Yes. You should go back, Queen Frigga. I don't think the TVA will come after you anymore. The future is already in the garbage bin. There is no point anymore to fear them." John said. Frigga nodded at it as she really missed her home now. Especially after the death of her husband.

"What shall we do about our other sister?" Loki asked as he remembered another sister being present in the universe.

"Heaven isn't exactly friendly to the nine realms. Opening that realm will cause a war. We will have to tread very wisely here." John said.

"Opening the realm? What does that mean?" Loki asked.

"The current 9 realms were once 10 realms. Your father sealed away the 10th realm, known as Heaven after a war which broke out for supremacy of all realms between Asgard and Heaven. In that war my daughter was kidnapped and killed. In anger, your father went to the Yggdrasil and cut away Heaven from the World Tree sealing away that realm forever. We always believed that my daughter was killed." Frigga said.

"Until now..."

"Yes, I can sense her in that realm. But in order to save her we will have to do a tough fight. This will be an uphill battle to free her as she has already been brainwashed by them and she doesn't even know her own heritage and birth." John said.

"How dare they kidnap our sister and brainwash her? I will kill everyone in that realm." Thor said with anger.

"For once in life, we agree with each other, brother." Loki said. John shrugged at it as Heaven really needed a kick in their posterior to remind them who was the boss in all the realms.

"Before saying such big things, get your power. Then we can talk about your sister." Frigga said as she too felt a little angry for being deceived by them and losing a daughter.

After a small chat with everyone, Thor, Strange and Z left for the Norn Cave where the Water of Sights was present. Every realm has its reflection in the Water of Sights and all of the wells were connected to Yggdrasil and originated from the Well of Mimir, the place where Odin got his power and knowledge.

Frigga, Loki, Krtaos and Atreus and Erza left for Asgard. Erza left with them in order to see her future home. Since John had said that the Fairy Tail would arrive on Asgard she needed to see the place with her own eyes.

John went to rest after everybody went away as he was a little tired from all the fighting. Especially him being impaled was painful. Even though he healed with no scars he still didn't like it.

He just went to bed and slept. He was so exhausted that he slept till the next day. He felt refreshed after waking up. He called Audino and the Spirit to make him good food as he was hungry and needed a recharge for his body.

He was having a good time when he heard a knock at the door. Audino went and opened the door only to see Thor whose vest was in tatters standing. With Z and Strange standing behind him.

"Come in." John said.

"Can I have some sleep here my friend?" Thor asked.

"Sure. Audino, take him to the guest room." John said. Audino led him away to the guest room so that he could rest. Thor looked like he had a tough battle.

"Did he dip in the water with all his clothes on?" John asked.

"Yes." Z said.

"No wonder his clothes are in tatters. Did nobody tell him not to do so when you go swimming?" John asked.

"We wanted to but he jumped before we could say anything." Strange said.

"No wonder. Was the journey successful?"

"He hasn't spoken a word after coming out of the pond. He just asked us to take him to the Ring as he needed a good sleep."

"Hmm. Let him wake up. We will know what his deal is."

Chapter 294: Nidavellir

"You all can take a rest till he wakes up." John suggested as he could see Strange was a little tired with all the running around and even Z. But Z refused as she wanted to pay a visit to Constantine. At the end of the day she loved him even if she hated how Constantine led life like a thug.

Strange sat in the living room and was looking at the fireplace with concentration.

"You know all of this and what is going to happen. Don't you?"

"Yes. Well I know what the future possibilities are and where it might lead to. I am just trying to rudder the ship till I become the Sorcerer Supreme. I only know up til that point."

"Care to share?" John asked.

"From what I have seen you already know what is going to happen." Strange said. John raised his eyebrows when Strange said that. He knew many versions of the story but the problem here was the story had messed up a long ago after the emergence of Black Winter so he actually had no idea of what was going to happen.

John didn't ask more and advised Strange to rest while he went to work. And as expected Thor slept for more than 24 hours. John was surprised that he could even sleep for so long.

After having a huge and proper meal all sat in the living room. Even Z came back, and this time she brought Constantine. Thor was sitting silently for some time before finally opening his mouth.

"I had gained the powers of thunder." Thor said.

"Then dude why do you look like you lost everything in the process?" John asked as he was confused. Thor should have been happy but he didn't look like that at all.

"Because I met a child at the pond? The child said I am still very weak and needed to find him to become the King that I was meant to be." Thor said.

"Mate you just met the kid. Couldn't you just kidnap him?" Constantine said.

"No. The child wasn't a living being. And it was just a dream. How can I catch him?" Thor replied.

"Figures." Z said.

"What does the child look like?" John asked.

"The child was made of white light and spoke in ancient language which has almost been forgotten in the 9 realms." Thor said

"What more did the child say?" John asked again.

"The child said that I can only find him after I complete the Yggdrasil." Thor replied. John was now thinking who this child was. He had to go through all the known stories he knew of Thor and then suddenly it struck him. A story of Thor which was long forgotten.

"Did the child have two crows on his shoulders?" John asked.

"Yes." Thor replied with shining eyes because John had guessed correctly. He was confused with what his visions were and so he came straight to John as only he might know of these visions and the meaning of it.

Then John looked at Strange. The whole story became completely clear to him.

"No wonder you joined us in this quest. Are you ready to sacrifice?" John asked Strange.

"Yes. I have already thought of it." Strange said as he too now knew the story.

"Good. Thor, what else did the child say?" John asked.

"He only said I needed to be powerful and connect all the realms to the Yggdrasil to meet him."

"Understood. But before we connect Heven to the Yggdrasil, we will need preparations." John said.

"Leave the hammer. You will not need it anymore." John continued

"You want me to give away Mjolnir?" Thor asked in a sad tone.

"You will get a better weapon. Don't worry. Even though you are now the God of Thunder, a weapon like Mjolnir isn't enough for you. Only a king weapon will be fit for you." John said.

"Avengers, we have a war to participate in. Report back who are free and want to have some fun in space." John said after he put on the helmet. After a minute, notifications came to Fixit. Tony and Bruce were busy with finding Anti-Metal, so they declined. Tony wanted to join but he knew finding the metal was more important than participating in a galactic battle.

At the end Victor, Aquaman, Oliver, Clint, Mera and the wolf school reported for battle. John had already given a small rundown of the battle they were going to face. Another realm which was very powerful and even clashed with Asgard once.

Thor knew that they would have to fight Heven after they connect it to Yggdrasil so he was happy that many joined to help him in this journey for self improvement.

"Now since all of you are here, let's go to Nidavellir. The place where Mjolnir was made." John said.

Chapter 295: Eitri

"Where are Diana and Steve?" Victor asked.

"Apparently they went on a date somewhere in the Amazon. Steve wanted to build a post for the League there so Diana joined in." Clint said.

"Seems like the end of the world had made them closer." John joked. Everybody laughed at it.

"So now all of you are updated about what is going to go down?" John continued.

"Yes. A different realm. Enemies. Kill. Got it." Oliver said.

"Right but I do have to mention, among the enemies will be my sister." Thor mentioned.

"What's up with your family? First it was Loki, then your sister Hela. And now another sister?" Arthur said. Thor shrugged his shoulders as he really didn't know what was wrong with his family.

"Alright let's go. Then we will go to Asgard too." John said. With that being said, they all vanished from their spot. At the next moment they were in Nidavellir, the place of the dwarves. Well they weren't actually dwarves. More like giant men.

And Nidavellir didn't look like the way it was in the original story. The forge surrounding the neutron star. The Rings surrounding the star looked huge. And there were several rings surrounding it. As they landed they saw several dwarves working and running around. All had hammer on their hands or on their back.

In Nidavellir all the dwarves present knew how to forge weapons. As they appeared the dwarves noticed that many people suddenly appeared. At first they were defensive as these people had never seen before here but soon noticed Thor among them.

One of the dwarves asked "Are you Thor?"

"Yes. I am Thor from Asgard. I need to talk with your Eitri." Thor said.

"Sure. Please follow me. He is in the main forge." said the dwarf.

"How are these dwarves. They are more big than giant men in our realms." Ciri asked in a low tone.

"That's a good question." Triss replied.

They all followed him to the main forge where they saw Eitri hammering a sword. John after seeing Eitri mumbled

"Tyrion Lannister."

Eitri turned back when they all approached him.

"Thor! What a surprise! After so many years. How are you? How is Allfather Odin?" Eitri asked. Thor became sad when Eitri asked this.

"Asgard is fine. Father passed away 3 days ago."

"What? How did this happen?" Eitri asked as he was surprised that Odin had died.

"He was old and his time came to an end. Its been many years." Thor said with a sad tone.

"I understand. Why are you here Thor? You should be in Asgard mourning." Eitri said as he was confused why Thor was here.

"I need you to make a King weapon for me Eitri. Mjolnir now has cracks. I need a new weapon fit for myself. There will be a war soon, and I need to be ready."

"War? What war?"

"Heaven is going to be connected again." Thor replied.

"Heaven..." Eitri mumbled. He too knew about Heaven as was the was the King of Dwarves and he too was as old as Odin so he knew that Heaven existed and terrorized all the other realms until Asgard came and pushed them back.

"Why do you want to connect the Heaven to the World tree again? The 9 realms are better off without them." Eitri said.

"Because I need some answers and more power. And my sister is with them." Thor replied.

"Your sister.... I understand. We have a mold for your weapon. Do you want me to build for you now?"

"Yes. And if possible make some swords and weapon for my friends here. They will accompany me to this war so we need to be armed." Thor said.

"Gladly. My friends, we will have to make the sharpest of weapon from Uru metal for the guests here. We will have to be ready for war." Eitri declared to the dwarves.

The Dwarves got serious when Eitri said there will be a war so everybody got busy. And since the Ring was working properly Thor didn't have to be near dead to make his new weapon.

Other dwarves too started asking the others of what kind of weapon they wanted. Everybody was amazed by the new place that they were in. At first they thought Nidavellir would just be another planet, but that notion quickly went away as they saw it was a bunch of rings like their Ring surrounding a neutron star. They never expected such kind of places existed in the universe.

Oliver and Clint asked for new and improved bows. The witchers asked for new swords made of Uru metal, as John had said that Uru metal is more strong and powerful then their current swords. John suggested that they should combine Uru and Vibranium if that was possible to make by the dwarves.

Chapter 296: Stormbreaker

The dwarves needed to gauge the power levels of everyone to make suitable weapons for them and thus took the witchers, Clint, Oliver and Ciri. Eitri was particularly interested in the trident of Aquaman after placing his eyes on it.

So Eitri asked to check on it. Arthur gave him the permission and thus he started researching on it while the other dwarves became busy in getting the mold ready. The whole process took a longer time than John had expected.

He thought it would only take a few hours but in the end it took more than a day. Apparently Ciri's power level was too huge so they had to bring another mould of Uru metal which had the same power as Thor's new weapon.

Even though John expected her to be very powerful, he didn't expect that they would be happy to help her with king's mould. Probably because Heven might have antagonised them a long time ago and since they all came to fight Heven they were happy to help.

So after a day, all the weapons were ready. The dwarves were successful in adding uru metal to the vibranium made bow of Clint. And Oliver's long bow too got added by Uru metal, since Oliver's power was more magical now.

The witchers got new and shining swords. The swords could even shoot now as opposed to only being used for close combat. But Ciri was the one who got a more fantastic weapon.

Her sword now literally could distort space and send space blades across. John was sure that Ciri's sword was more powerful than Thor's Stormbreaker.

"What do you want to name it?" John asked as every good weapon has a name.

"Zireael." Ciri said.

"Hmmm.... Thor, is your weapon ready?" John asked.

"Yes." Thor said as now he had the Stormbreaker in his hands. And instead of having wood as the handle, the axe had a handle made of uru metal and was wrapped in a cloth around it. Groot wasn't present in it's making so it wasn't required.

"So can you open the Bifrost with it?" John asked.

"Yes. They also mended Mjolnir so I can use both Stormbreaker and Mjolnir."

"Good. Let's go. Thank you Eitri for all the hospitality. Contact us if you need any help, specially if Thanos comes asking for making a gauntlet. No matter what, don't oppose him. Just send us a signal. We will handle it by ourselves after that." John said to Eitri. During the whole time he was here, he talked with him and warned him that Thanos might come to Nidavellir to make a gauntlet.

Thor who was also listening to all of this convinced Eitri that whatever John was saying might come true so they needed to keep an eye. Thor even decided to send some soldiers here as defense since John had warned.

Eitri nodded at it. And after saying goodbye and thanking the dwarves all vanished from their place and appeared at the palace of Asgard. Those who have come to Asgard for the first time were in awe of such a majestic palace.

They all had to take a second to fully take in the view. Even Arthur who lived in Atlantis was impressed by such a huge palace. They all went into the hall.

The guards didn't stop them as Thor was with them. After they reached the hall they saw Loki directing some guards. John was expecting Loki to sit on the throne but surprisingly he didn't. There was nobody sitting on the throne.

"Brother." Thor shouted.

"My brother. You are here. How was the adventure in the Water of Sights?" Loki asked.

"A successful one." Thor replied, showing him both Stormbreaker and Mjolnir.

"Congratulations. I guess you are all here to face the upcoming war."

"Yes." John replied.

"I didn't expect you not to occupy father's throne." Thor said.

"Do you think so low of me brother? I said I never wanted the throne. I just needed recognition." Loki said.

"Doesn't matter. There should always be a king of Asgard. That's what it was and that's what it should be. You all better be ready to appoint a King after the war is over."

Thor and Loki both nodded at it. As they were talking Queen Frigga entered the hall.

"I was waiting for you, Thor. Tonight there will be a mourning ceremony for your father." Frigga said.

"I understand mother." Thor said. All knew they would have to participate in the ceremony before they would go to war. And all were okay with that.

For many people it was their first time in Asgard and they wanted to explore this legendary and beautiful place. Thor got busy in the arrangements with his brother while others just left. The family needed a bit of time off after all that had happened the last few days.

They didn't even get time to mourn their father's death and so they wanted to have a fitting mourning ceremony for their father.

Chapter 297: Heven (2)

That night they all went to the ceremony. The ceremony was almost the same that happened after the death of Frigga in the original story. Only this time Odin was on the other end of it instead of Frigga.

All were sad about the passing of their beloved King. Many had tears in their eyes. John and others too attended the ceremony and mourned for the King.

The next day all got ready to assault Heven. This time even Loki was present. They all wore Kryptonian suits as they might have to travel in space. All gathered in the main hall for departure.

"Before we go to Heven, I will make something clear. From what I know their kingdom is ruled by women. The men there can be said as only lower class as their powers are mostly centred towards the women and they have a Queen to rule them. Their appearance will be like angels. That is the reason why their realm is named as Heven."

"They are aggressive and are nothing like the angels that are depicted in the books of Midgard. So don't get distracted by their beauties. Their place is like Asgard. But they are more towards the technological side. Their city is powered by a furnace. If we can destroy their furnace, we will win half the war. The suits of yours are calibrated to fly so you all can fly and fight. Victor, Arthur, Ciri, Triss, Yen, Thor and I will be the frontal assault. Expect heavy retaliation as they will probably be very pissed off. We will first bring their realm to their knees. And then Thor can connect their realm to the world tree by going to the Water of Sights in their realm."

"Can't we have a discussion first?" Loki asked.

"They will attack the moment you show your faces. Especially you, my son." Frigga said as she pointed to Thor.

"Doesn't matter. We will come out victorious." Thor said.

"Alright. This war is going to take time. So good luck. Don't die out there. Especially you Clint."

"Why am I being pointed out here?" Clint asked.

"Because only you are the normal one here mate. Angels huh!! Love to bring these false goddesses to their knees." Constantine said.

The team consisted of Strange, Kratos, Erza, Zatanna, Constantine, Thor, Loki, Clint, Arthur, Mera, Oliver, Victor, Geralt, Triss, Yennefer, Ciri, other 2 witchers and John. This was a big team which had huge fire power.

"Let's go." Geralt said. With that said John vanished with all of them. And the next thing they saw was a huge city. A city that had almost the same size as Asgard. But the main difference was the sky reaching skyscrapers. The buildings were so tall that the buildings on Earth would look like ants when taken into comparison.

John didn't directly take them to the city but just teleported them outside the city where they were hovering using their magic or suits. The city looked so futuristic so they had to stop and appreciate such marvels created by people of Heven.

"This is better than I imagined." John mumbled.

"Let's stop the appreciation and assault." Thor reminded John.

"True. Ciri, Triss and Yen. You three will in in-charge of destroying the furnace. We will divert their attention. Since you three are women it will be easier for you. They haven't noticed us yet and I have also enchanted ourselves so you three will be able to blend in easily. Now go. After blending in, signal us. We will then cause havoc." John said.

"Noted. Let's conquer this realm, girls." Triss said and Ciri teleported them to a dark alley in the huge city. While John and others just waited in a hidden place outside the city,

"This place is huge." Mera said.

"Yes. It's a pity that such a place has such a dark past." Geralt said.

"Every monument of civilization is also a monument of barbarism. Neither is Asgard very pure. All the progress that Asgard has achieved didn't come easily. Odin and his father fought for it and conquered realms." John said.

Thor who was listening to it also accepted it. He knew that his father went to conquer realms and for this reason they have the current prosperity. This riches and glory came at a cost. The cost of lives.

"Then what should we do? Be peaceful at all times? I don't think that is possible." Victor said.

"It isn't. Ambitions will always be there. Wars, battles will always be present. Even if we are silent do you think others will be silent? No. We can either choose to attack or defend. That's how the world's work. Survival of the fittest." John said.

As they all were getting philosophical, suddenly a signal came that Triss and others had already disguised themselves and had found out the location of the furnace. They now needed a distraction.

"People, it's our time to shine." Arthur said.

Chapter 298: Getting attention

"Are you ready to light the fuse Constantine?" John asked.

"With pleasure," he replied.

"SHAZAM!" Both of them shouted at that time and as they did so a huge bolt of lightning came and hit both of them. Then John proceeded to change himself to the Phoenix.

If the lightning bolt wasn't enough to draw the attention of the people here, then the appearance of a huge burning bird would definitely cause a commotion. John didn't attack but waited for their army to arrive.

And they didn't disappoint, after a minute or so a whole platoon of armed women appeared on small speed boats which could be driven in air. Their number was large. Around 100. They stopped near John's team. The leader who was leading the team said

"Who are...." then she squinted her eyes and looked at Thor.

"ATTACK!!" As they said all the women instantly attacked without even hesitating for a second.

"I hate to say this but I told you so." John said to Loki who wanted to negotiate first. Loki shrugged his shoulders as he really didn't expect that the people of Heven would be so agitated.

And thus the fight ensued. John used his Phoenix and magical powers to attack all of the realm of Heven. Oliver used his magic to make arrows and started shooting the army. So did Clint. Even though Clint's arrows were limited he had a close combat and even used the magical arrows given to him by Oliver.

Arthur turned himself to aqua form and started fighting. The women of Heven used spears and swords but they had no effect on Arthur as he fought. Arthur started flying around in circles so fast that it caused a sonic boom and aimed his Trident at the army. While doing so it caused ice to form around. Mera too joined him.

Victor and the witchers went on a spree of close combat. John had specifically asked them not to give fatal injury to the army of women as they weren't sure how Angela would react if she sees her sisters being dead.

No matter what, Angela was brought up here and still had affection for the people here. The whole fight didn't even last 5 minutes before they defeated the whole army. There was lesser damage as the fight was mostly in the sky and the army had a disadvantage of not knowing how to fly. So that gave them a good advantage over the whole army.

"Let's get down to the city. We should concentrate on getting Aldrif." Erza said.

"Good idea."

They all landed at a huge square after throwing the bodies of unconscious women on the side in a safe place. The normal people which consisted mostly of women and few men were scared when they saw unknown people landing in the middle. Especially the huge blue colored burning bird was enough to be a nightmare for them, as they had never seen such a creature.

"Another platoon of people will come and this time it will be a much larger one." Victor said.

"And we will defeat them." Thor said as black clouds started forming above.

"As agreed 'no kill rule' until Aldrif comes into the scene." John reminded them.

"How will we recognize her?" Loki asked.

"You don't. I will." John replied.

This time there was a much larger number of army and they looked more prepared and armed than before. Their numbers now exceeded 500.

"Oh this isn't going to be easy." Geralt said.

"Where is the fun if it's that easy?" Erza said as she transformed herself to heaven' wheel armor. She used normal armor to assault first but this time she had to be serious.

Like before the women could utter a word and started attacking, more frantically this time. John flew over and started using both lightning and fire to stop the women. Their physiques were like Asgardians and thus normal fire wouldn't hurt them too much but John's fire and lightning were too powerful and the women were instantly knocked away.

Meanwhile others joined the fight. Thor wreaked havoc with both his weapons as he threw them around. Erza was a huge menace to them as she threw the swords around. Nobody could come close to her, let alone attack her.

Clint and Oliver held their own with ease as they used both long range and short range tactics.

"Hey Arthur, can you put us on a high building? It's weird for us to fight in the open." Clint said. Aquaman nodded at it and took both Oliver and Clint to the roof of a tall building to fight exactly like he did in the New York War. Only this time there was Oliver with him. The jets on Kryptonian suits wasn't fast enough to fly around in high speed.

Zatanna used her magic to do all out assault on the army. While Mera and the witchers engaged in close combat. They all were too powerful to handle. Mera used her power of controlling water which she found in the fountain nearby. The witchers used their new swords and used magic too for combat.

Loki used illusions to distract the army which the witchers took advantage.

Even though the number of the opposition was huge, they were not able to overwhelm John's team.

Chapter 299: Destruction

It took a solid 15 minutes to defeat the platoon of Heven. It took so much time because the army was well trained and were better than the previous smaller platoon.

"Is that all they have got?" Thor asked.

"No. This was a distraction for us too while they set up long range combatants around us." Constantine said.

"We need to neutralize them before they can do any harm." John said.

"Victor, Constantine, John and I will be going around. You all hold the fort." Arthur said.

"Let catch these sneaky bast***s." Constantine said. Then they all flew away to neutralize the opponents.

"Don't make them unconscious. We need to talk to them. It's not going to lead anywhere if we just go on assaulting." Loki said.

"From when did you become such a pacifist, Loki? I still want to bury you 6 feet down, you know." Clint said over FOCUS. He was still angry with the manipulation that Loki did. Even though nobody was killed in it, it still pissed him off.

"We are here to bring the realm to surrender, not make this an empty shell. And you are welcome to try if you can defeat a God, mortal." Loki argued back.

"Both of you just put a zip to it." Strange said.

"John, we do need to talk."

"I will bring some people who can talk. Hold them down." John replied. The 4 were going through building after buildings flushing away the long range assassins who had already started shooting at the people on the square. The people who were fighting on the ground had to defend now. Strange and Zatanna used magic to defend.

Clint and Oliver were still on a rooftop sending long range arrows to the surrounding buildings, wherever they thought the enemies were hiding. Even though they were in the open, they were able to defend well. But unfortunately, they weren't perfect. One such shot went straight through the shoulder of Clint.

"Clint.. No..." Oliver shouted who was close by.

"John, we need help. Clint's been shot." Oliver said. This was the first injury they suffered. John became angry when he heard that. They had been trying to keep the damage to the minimum.

"Since they don't understand, let's try the hard way now." John said as now he proceeded to demolish buildings around. All the tall buildings around the place were demolished as he went through them one after another.

His body was powered by the strength of Zeus and Phoenix so even these sturdy buildings couldn't stop him. As he demolished them, he came to the place where Clint was.

He was bleeding profusely. John used his resurrection fire to heal him and even the philosopher's stone to grow the tissues that were damaged. On the other hand, Constantine was able to catch an assassin.

"Phew. Thanks John. Couldn't handle another scar on my body. My wife would just be very angry." Clint said.

"You are Hawkeye. You shouldn't get shot so easily." John said.

"I am not invincible as you guys. I can't see all the shots." Clint replied.

"It's fortunate that the shot went through your shoulder and not the head. It would have been game over for you." Oliver said.

"Let's go down. And see what their deal is." John said. They then both teleported to the square where Constantine brought the woman prisoner.

"Thor, did you ask?" John asked.

"Yes. Her name is Lorelei. She said they don't know anyone named Aldrif." Zatanna said.

"In a much less friendly way." Strange commented.

"Do you know anyone named Angela?" John asked, looking at the woman. She could be said as one of the most beautiful woman John had ever seen. The woman in the army wore golden armor.

This new army had golden wings on their back which allowed them to fly, though not at high speed. John could see the hatred in the eyes of the woman. The woman shuddered when she heard the name Angela.

"From your reaction it seems you do know her. Z, find out from her memories what is the deal with Angela. Angela is the name that these people had named your sister. Aldrif was the name given by King Odin." John said.

"Gladly." Z said with a very evil and seductive smile looking at Lorelei.

"No.. No.. Don't come close... The Queen will kill all of you...No..." the woman resisted but of no avail. Constantine was holding her tightly as Z used magic to read her memories.

"The Queen can't even defend herself, forget about killing us." John said. Even if Heven had a weapon that could pose a threat to them, Triss and others were going to take care of it as the furnace would be destroyed soon. Any weapon would need massive power to launch and by destroying the main power source it would be much easier.

Chapter 300: Angela

After a minute or so, Zatanna was able to read her memories. She had a weird look on her face after reading it.

"Is there any problem?" Thor asked as he saw the weird face of her. They all got acquainted in Asgard and so they knew each other quite well now so Thor didn't hesitate to ask her. As of now all the people in the Avengers didn't find it weird with people joining them as they all had their own stories.

"There is no problem per se. But the point is Angela is the princess of this realm. Next in line to be the Queen." Zatanna said. Everybody was taken aback by this sudden change. Even John didn't expect that.

"What a way to spit at the face of Asgard. I admire them more now." Loki said. Nobody paid attention to this sarcastic remark of his.

"Since she is the princess, let's go to the Palace. She will be there." Thor said as he was unfazed that his sister was the next-to-be queen.

"True." Arthur said. They then all flew away to the direction of the Palace that they could see from afar. Like all the buildings here their Palace too looked futuristic from afar.

As they were flying they heard a huge explosion coming from their left side. The explosion was so huge that there was a huge mushroom cloud above it.

"Looks like the magicians were successful." Mera said.

"Ciri, is everything fine there?"

"Yes. We are fine. The guards didn't even know what hit them." Ciri replied over FOCUS.

"Come to the palace. We are going there." John said.

"Right away." came the voice of Triss over FOCUS. As they approached the palace they saw a huge army levitating over and the most surprising part was the woman that was leading the charge had blonde hair.

"Let me guess, that is my sister." Loki said.

"Yes." came the reply of John.

"Hence proved that Thor isn't an illegitimate child of King Odin." Arthur joked.

"My father never had such kinds of things." Thor said in a serious tone.

They all flew opposite to the army. For the first time the army of Heven didn't attack nonsensically like the previous two times but just looked at them.

-----

About half an hour ago, the palace got the information that there had been intruders. The first team was sent to inquire and capture the outsiders. It's been thousands of years that they have been imprisoned here. Even though they were self-sufficient they couldn't go out.

And the reason for this was only one person.

Odin.

The people of Heven hated him to the core. The children were taught from birth that Odin was responsible for all the wrong things that happened to them. And the portrait of Odin was always shown to everyone. So when the first platoon went to confront John's team they could easily recognize Thor as a descendant of Odin and that was the reason they immediately sent the request for more help.

After the Queen came to know that people from Asgard had arrived she immediately sent her strongest two platoons to confront the enemy. One in front and one sneakily. But the strongest of them couldn't even hold the enemy back for more than half an hour, forget about defeating the enemy.

The Queen was surprised as Odin's army wasn't that powerful last time. She again blamed Odin as she thought Asgard progressed further ahead while they stagnated. And then another bad news came.

The furnace was destroyed. The Queen now knew for sure that the enemy had come prepared. This war against the Asgardians today might be their ultimate test, as before Asgard was never able to come so close to their kingdom.

And thus she used her trump card.

Angela.

She was born an Asgardian which she didn't know yet. She brainwashed her like all others from childhood and raised her like her own daughter. Being an Asgardian and daughter of Odin she had superior physique and could easily best her opponents.

The Queen made her the princess after she was sure that Angela would be dedicated to the Heven. She made her the princess just so that she could spat on Odin later when their realm would be opened.

Because she knew for sure that the realm would open one day. They just needed to wait. But she didn't know that the opening of the realm would be their doom.

-----

"Your name is Angela. Right?" John asked.

"Asgardian, be mindful of your tone. She is the princess of Heven, you are just a soldier of Asgard. You all should bow down to her." said a woman who stood close by her. But the next moment a knife was placed on her neck.

It was Loki with his illusion.

"Even I, the Prince of Asgard, don't dare to talk with him in that tone. You have quite the courage."