

Multiverse 421

Chapter 421: Peter Parker is back

"We have a situation here Steve. There are two consciousness on this body. Can you bring the passive consciousness out?" John said.

"What is going on? Tell me at first." Steve asked. John then proceeded to tell about the situation of this Peter Parker. His consciousness being replaced and taken over.

"Oh. Alright. This will be easy for me." Steve said as he activated his Uni-Power. Uni-Power allows greater control of consciousness and emotions. For this reason John called Steve. He was the best candidate to do these kinds of matters.

Otto who saw this was scared. He didn't expect that his whole secret would be out in a matter of seconds after coming to this world. He was only trying to save himself and all the other Spider-man but now it seemed that he was bigger trouble.

"No please don't kill me. Please... " Otto said.

"I am not going to kill you. I am just bringing the actual consciousness out." Steve said with a smile as his eyes glowed. He touched Otto's head with his hand. After passing a minute, Steve removed his hand. Otto, who was struggling to get rid of any influence all this time, finally opened his eyes. He had been trying his best to stop any kind of invasion in his mind but the Uni-Power was too overwhelming for him to resist.

"Are you back Peter?" John asked.

"Yes. Thank you. Uhh.. my head... it's ringing like a bell.. it was so dark in there.." Peter was fumbling his words as he was saying this. His consciousness was locked away all this time and he had been struggling to free himself. Even though he knew what was going on outside he could nothing about it.

His brutal murders openly and no care of law made him hate Otto more. Even though his work brought the crime under control it was not his way of doing things.

"Now tell me what is going on." Steve asked as all were curious now. Since John seemed to know of them it meant John had dreamt of it before.

"Ahh it's a long story. Avengers please gather at the Hall. We have an interesting case at hand." John said.

"You all must be really tired. Please come with me. I will tell you all about the killers." John said and before anybody could even say anything they were in the Hall.

"What the.." Andrew said.

"What just happened?" Tobey asked. In one moment they were in one place and in another moment they were in different surroundings. Tobey would have tried to escape but his spider senses told him that everything was fine, otherwise it would have warned him. And these were the same thoughts of Andrew and the other Spider-man.

"We are at our headquarters." Peter of their universe said with a sense of pride.

"Headquarters? You guys have headquarters? What is this Avengers he spoke of." Andrew asked.

"This isn't teleportation. I have seen teleportation before and this is nothing like that." The superior Spider-Man said.

"Because it isn't. This is John changing the reality around." Steve said as he understood John's power to the core now.

"Huh.. Changing reality? Is that even possible?" the superior Spider-man said.

"It's possible for him. How about you Peter? Are you ok? Is Doctor Otto asking for a chance back?" Steve asked as he was concerned for this new guy. Steve could feel that this Spider-man wasn't bad.

"I have locked him inside. He won't see the light of the day anytime soon." the Superior Spider-Man reassured. All the three Spider-Man was looking around the hall. But when they looked outside, they were dumbfounded.

They didn't expect that were not even on Earth anymore. But a satellite, that had its own weather and environment. And it was almost big as the Earth itself.

"Jesus on a motorbike. Why is this universe so different from ours? You have a team and now even a live on a satellite. This is unfair." Andrew said as he looked outside through the window. Peter was explaining all the things to the three of them. Since John had said that they were harmless, he was the first to be friendly with the other versions of himself.

As they were discussing, all the Avengers members reached. Not all, most. Because Strange and Thor didn't show up. They both felt it was not required for them to show up since John was looking over the case. Though they would keep an eye.

The Superior Spider-Man has seen his version of Avengers in his universe but he had never seen these new heroes that popped up. He was amazed by how different this universe was from others. In Otto's search for the murderers he had seen many versions of Earth. Even a version were there was only death and radiation, but this universe was what that surprised him the most.

Chapter 422: The inheritors

"So your precaution paid off. Now we have three different versions. Nice one John." Tony mocked as he arrived. He was indicating the fact that another version of themselves turned out to be the main culprit in all of the security measures they took yesterday.

"They aren't the culprits here. Chill." John said. Finally, all took their seats and thus the meeting began.

"This case is very interesting actually. As you can see, we have 3 different Spider-Mans from different universes. And they are here to form a team of Spider-man from different universes. Spider-mans from a different universe are being hunted down right now as we speak." John said.

Now when they heard that every Spider-man was being hunted down, they got interested. John had said there was a reason why there was Spider-man in all universes. This meant that he was important in the picture.

"So do we know who the killers are?" Clark asked.

"We do. It's a family. Think of the family as vampires. But in reverse. This family instead of sucking the blood of humans they eat the flesh of beast totems. Yes, you heard me right. They don't drink blood, but eat totems. To maintain their life force and in turn feed their immortality." John said. All who heard it had an ugly face now. The women in the group had hands on their mouths while the men were just angry about what they heard.

"We need to annihilate them." Wayne said.

"We do. But there is a problem. They all have clones of themselves. And until their life force runs out we can't kill them in reality." John said.

"So what? We can easily kill all their clones and kill their real bodies after finding them." Steve said.

"It's not so easy. They are protected by the Master Weaver. A semi-god. His web of Life and Destiny allows them to hop in different worlds undetected and find different Spider-man. That is why their family is able to search Spider-man so easily. And that is why they were able to get away from my eyes and Steve's."

"Now who is Master Weaver?" Tony asked.

"Master Weaver is the totemic beast of Spider-Man. It is for him that every world has different Spider-Man and his webs of life and destiny hold many of the realities together. Like Black Panther's totemic beast is Bast."

"You mean Master Weaver is under the control of the family and with him that family is able to find out the Spider-Man?" Wayne asked as he was able to deduce the information John gave in a fast manner.

"Yes. That is the reason. But this time it's not the family that is hunting down the Spider-man. Rather an outcast. He was given the punishment of wearing a mask till eternity. And in order to get his honor back, he has been hunting down Spider-man." John said.

"Wait, you said they need to eat the Spider-man to feed their immortality. Why are there no such incidents on all the dead bodies of Spider-Man?" Superior Spider-Man asked as he was the only one who had seen the puncture marks.

"He is an outcast because he once hesitated to hurt Master Weaver. He in general doesn't like violence and he hates what he needs to do to remain alive. They only need blood to maintain their life force. Those puncture marks on their chests allow him to draw the blood out." John said.

"So they are just savages and in the mud a lotus has bloomed?" Barry asked.

"Yes." John nodded.

"Any powers we need to look out for?" Clark asked.

"Naah.. Just their immortality is a headache and of course their clones. But if we can get our hands on Solus's life crystal it will be game over for them." John said. Updated from novelb(i)n.c(o)m

"Oh yes, their family is known as the inheritors and Solus was the previous patriarch who directed his children to take the path of evil. There are many siblings and they hunt down all the beast totems." John said. Wayne, who was thinking of something, suddenly had a revelation and asked.

"So this outcast killed T'Challa?"

"I fear that this is what has happened. He must have felt that Peter was in tight security and his hunger for life force overwhelmed him. So he had no other choice but to attack him."

"This is one fked up story." Arthur commented.

"This Master Weaver must be really something. He escaped the eyes of you, Thor and Strange." Banner said.

"Yes. He must be." John mumbled. Master Weaver's story was another matter entirely. His story was another kind of fked up.

"So now we need to find their family and kill them." Clark said.

"Yes. Supposedly they originated from Earth-001 but I just checked. They aren't there. So they must be hiding in a very secure place to get away from my detection."

"First we need to get the outcast and then through him, the whole family." Steve said as many decided to get involved in bringing the inheritors down. Just the savagery of them disgusted everyone present.

Chapter 423: Upgrades for all

"Then we will need a trap." John said.

"That we do. He just failed to kill the Spider-man of our universe. This must have irritated him. So our universe Peter Parker will be the best bait that there can be." Wayne said..

"This will be dangerous. He has killed various Spider-Man. We should think of this carefully." Clark said as he was not okay with being a teenager being the live bait.

"No, I will take this mission." Peter of their universe interjected in the middle. But nobody cared about what he said.

"I will be invisible near him for protection. He can escape my consciousness scan but not my eyes." John said.

"No. Since he can escape our radar, Master Weaver's powers might allow him to sense you too. Peter needs to be the perfect bait." Wayne denied John's way of being with him.

"Then we need to arm Peter with the best tech possible." Tony suggested.

"Yes. Just give him a vibranium suit. I think that will do the job." Victor said. Peter's eyes shined when Victor suggested. Even though he loved his nano suit that Tony had provided him, having a vibranium nano suit will be totally a different matter. This would allow him to pack more solid punches.

"Then since we are going for the bait thing. Why not bait the entire family?" John again said.

"Entire family? Is that possible?" Arthur asked.

"Yes. But we will have to throw more baits." John said. All the 3 Spider-Man understood what he meant. All the other 3 immediately got up and raised their hands.

"Spider-Man. Each world has almost the same qualities." John sighed.

"Will it be safe?" Clark was still hesitating to give the mission a green light.

"Peter can send out a signal if anything goes wrong." Wayne was still with the whole bait mission.

"Since we are not in a consensus, let's get it to vote." Tony said. Soon all of the members of the Avengers including the Teen Titans. And as expected most people voted for Peter Parker being the bait. This was the first time that the Avengers had included the voting system. They all had decided to be more democratic in this regard since there were many people now. And Clark was adamant that they should do it so that they wouldn't be autocratic.

"So Peter many lives will depend upon you." Clark said, a little sad that his decision was overruled. Whereas, Peter was ecstatic as this would be his first legitimate mission. Even though they had faced Vulture and even faced many enemies together, he was never able to show his prowess. But now he finally got the chance. He nodded his head heavily.

"The other two Peter was way too generic. Tony, provide them with a suit. The Superior Spider-Man has enough of Otto's knowledge and gadgets to work upon." John said as he felt the suits of Andrew and Tobey were very generic and it wouldn't do any good to them.

When Tobey and Andrew heard this they had a smile and gratitude written on their faces. They had seen how this universe's Peter's suit worked. And now they too would get suits that would be of the same level as him.

"Can they be trusted?" Wayne asked. Not even bothering to hide his voice from the others.

"Yes." John said. These two were John's childhood and honestly he was fan boyng a bit inside after seeing them. Even though he knew that they existed from the latest movie he didn't actively search for them in the multiverse. They deserved a better life so he would do everything possible so that he could help them.

"Alright, these two will get new suits. Since we need to be very careful I guess they deserve an upgrade." Tony said after looking at the generic suit that they had been wearing.

"Set the stage up. This is going to be a bumpy ride." John smiled when he said that.

"Peter will be at home. Aunt May will be here at Hall and under protection. And other Spider-Mans will be on stand by. Peter needs to signal when he is overwhelmed because the enemy isn't so easy. None of the siblings are easy. So when Peter signals, all the 3 Peters' will arrive. And then when and if the siblings arrive, we will jump in." John laid out the main plan.

"Oh this is going to be dangerous for all Spider-Man. An immortal is a very tricky thing I presume." Clark said.

"It is. But there is no other way. We need to flush as many people from the family out as possible." John said.

"What kind of sick family one has that they eat human beings as food." Diana commented.

"There will always be demented people in the world." John commented. Meanwhile Tony took the three Spider-Man away to provide them with a new suit from the lab.

Chapter 424: Karn

By the end of the day everything was in place. Tobey, Andrew and Peter of their universe got upgraded suits. The two had happy faces when they saw how nanotechnology worked. They had never had that kind of support from anybody.

Now in this universe for the first time they witnessed such a huge team of superheroes and where everyone helped and supported each other.

"Are you both happy with the upgrades?" John asked, seeing their happy faces.

"Yes. Thank you. I never knew that the universe can be so beautiful. From the looks of it, this earth is more advanced than all the other earth we have visited before." Andrew said.

"Avengers here have a company which shares technological advancement to people. This led to the people having better lives here." John replied.

"You seem to know us from the beginning. Have we met?" Tobey asked to change the topic as he was curious.

"No. My powers work differently. Just think of me as a guide. I dream of different worlds and am able to see different stories along the way. Both in the past and in the future. That is the reason why I know so much about you both." John said.

"Then it must be annoying. Knowing the future. And top of that invasion of privacy." Andrew said as he understood that knowing the future is not always good.

"It is. But the future is never constant. Like this story shouldn't have happened in this way. Doc Ock was supposed to continue in his body with Peter in his consciousness eventually being defeated. So my knowledge isn't always very helpful and it has its own dangers."

"He is kidding. His powers are something that a normal person could not even begin to fathom." Clint poked in the conversation. John just smiled at it.

"Both of you. After you both are done with this, can come back to this universe to help. Our Avengers will always welcome you. I know that you all wanted brothers. So the Avengers will be like brothers for you."

"Really!! That's so cool. Thank you." Andrew said totally ignoring the fact that John had just invaded his privacy. Tobey too was happy to know that he had friends now in the multiverse.

Meanwhile, Peter of their universe had already left for his home. Victor inserted a small chip inside his body so that he could be tracked anywhere on earth and would give out a signal if his vitals changed dramatically.

They needed to take all precautions possible for this. Every Avenger that would participate in this mission would not be very far from Peter. In order not to alert the enemy, even SHIELD wasn't informed about all of this as Wayne took responsibility for everything.

It was already night when everything was in place. And then the wait started. John wasn't sure if the person they were waiting for would show up.

Karn's story was a tragic one as he was ousted by the family. And now to retain his honor back he decided to go on a tragic path. And from what he had read, it probably wouldn't go the way he wanted it to go.

They waited for more than 2 hours but there was no sign, until when the clock struck 3'am.

Peter of their universe was lying down in his bed with eyes closed but suddenly there was bright light in his room. His spider-sense alerted him that an unknown enemy was here. He was excited inside because he knew that the enemy he had been waiting for was here.

Peter got up in his bed to see the face of the enemy only to see a person who had a spear which had two spikes in it. This weapon looked like it was made to poke someone and make a puncture in the victim's body.

The mask was what caught the eye of Peter. It looked like the mask was straight out of an apocalyptic world. This wasn't exactly a mask but a whole helmet. This mask was brown in color and had no holes in it for eyes to see.

"Who are you? Why are you in my room" Peter asked in a very confused tone. He was advised repeatedly not to blow up the thing that it was a bait.

"I am Karn. I am here to fulfil my destiny and regain my honor. I am sorry but you will have to die for good and for my survival." Karn said and without wasting any more time he attacked with his weird spear.

Peter activated his nano suit and it covered his whole body in a second while he dodged from the attack of Karn. And from here on the fight began. And within a few moves Peter understood why this guy had been successful in hunting down different Spider-Mans.

Because this guy fought like a maniac!! In a few moves half of his apartment was in shambles and were now in the streets fighting after breaking through the wall.

Chapter 425: All together

Karn wore a dress that almost belonged to the Victorian age. A shirt with high collars and a bow, and a dinner jacket on top of it. He wore formal trousers and black shoes along with it. Karn, even without his head showing up, looked elegant and even his fighting method was exquisite.

He had terrifying strength on par with Spider-Man which in itself was a huge matter as Spider-Man's raw strength was immense. Only advantage Peter had over Karn was his web but that was quickly offset by his hovering spherical 'skateboard' and his weird weapon which allowed him to be out of the web shots.

Thus the only advantage that Peter had over him was his vibranium suit which actually saved him in many cases by now. Karn was expert in close combat and he seemed to have mastered all kinds of close combat tactics known to men.

And Peter even with all the advantages still was not able to totally overpower him and seemed like they were equally matched. The fight went from streets to the rooftops of the buildings nearby. Peter after a few moments realised that he wouldn't be able to win alone and he would need help.

He sent the signal in a concealed manner as he still needed to maintain the whole bait process. As he did so a dimensional portal opened near the place where they were fighting. Both stepped back to see what was going on.

"I have been searching for you for a long time." Superior Spider-man said. Karn who looked at the 3 new Spider-Man appearing and was surprised. He had been hunting down Spider-man for quite some time now but he never had felt that some people were on his trail.

"New Spider-man. This will make my search easier and faster. I will just kill you all and feast upon you." Karn said as he got ready to fight more seriously.

"You wish. You have been hunting us down. Now it's our turn." Andrew said as he shot his web at Karn. And all the 4 Spider-Man joined the fight.

Andrew shot his web at Karn which he easily blocked by his weapon but that block by Karn gave other Spider-Man to throw a double kick at him. Karn wasn't able to block it and was thrown away by a few metres.

"Hey man. Where are you from?" Peter said, playing the part of his ignorance.

"We are different Spider-Man from different universes. This person is a killer who has been hunting down different versions of us in all of the multiverse. Ah yes... The concept of multiverse is real." Tobey said.

"Really.. That's cool.. Spider-Man from different universes... This is so awesome..." Peter said.

"But before we discuss more we need to take this guy down." Superior Spider-man reminded everyone. And unsurprisingly, Karn was alright even after getting a double kick right in his chest.

"This is interesting. I will be having fun." Karn said as he ran to confront all the 4 together. And thus the fight began. And this time it wasn't like previous times. Karn wasn't able to tackle all the 4 together and he, for the first time, was losing the fight. But even then all the 4 Spider-man were having a hard time to totally overpower him.

What was really annoying was that no matter how many times Karn got wounded he healed in a matter of seconds.

"This was not what we signed up for." Andrew mumbled. John had warned all of them of their immortality but they didn't take it that seriously. All the 4 felt that John might have just undermined his power because even after 4 of them were together they were finding it hard to bring this guy down fast.

But after 20 minutes of constant exchanges he looked exhausted for the first time. Even though Karn had immense life force his body was exhausted from the continuous barrage of kicks and punches. And claws of two Spider-man was more of a menace for him.

They sensed that it didn't take a moment to finally use a large amount of web to constrain him on the wall nearby. And this move by the 4 of them together was successful. They were able to tie him down.

"This is ridiculous. These webs can never stop me." Karn said as he tried freeing himself but failed as he had less strength left in him.

"Congratulations, you just proved yourself wrong.. Phew.. thank you.. umm.. Whatever your name is." Peter of their universe said.

"We are all Peter Parker here. Peter." Andrew said.

"Ahh.. So all Peter Parker of different universes are Spider-man? So cool." Peter said. Superior Spider-man on the other hand walked to Karn and placed his claws on his neck and asked

"Tell me who you are, why are you hunting Spider-Man down?"

Chapter 426: Family

For the first time ever, 4 Spider-man came together to perform a single task. Though the fight was a tough one, it still didn't take away the greatness of this scene. John, who was checking from time to time, had a smile on his face.

He had seen 3 Spider-Man together. This universe just gave him an extra one. Now all he lacked was Spider-Gwen, Miles Morales and all the other versions of Spider-man that had appeared in the animated Spider-man movie that he had watched before he came to this world.

"Now tell me why are you hunting us?" Superior Spider-man asked. Karn was silent. In all fairness, he himself didn't like hunting but he had no other way. Firstly he needed to prove to his family that he was worthy and secondly, he needed the life force of them to survive.

"Oh the silent treatment. I get it. But here this isn't going to cut the corner. I will beat you down till you vomit out the reason." Superior Spider-man said in a threatening tone.

"I don't have any other choice. I have to do it...." Karn finally opened his mouth but he couldn't even finish his sentence as a dimensional portal opened up near them. All the 4 Spiderman went immediately on alert because their spider-sense reached their peak, meaning that a new powerful enemy had appeared.

"Oh dear brother, how the mighty have fallen." came a female voice. And from that portal came out two people. One was female and another was female, and both of them were strikingly similar. Like twins.

They both had white long hair, wore almost the same kind of dress as Karn and they were extremely beautiful to look at. Even the man that had come was extraordinarily handsome. Karn, looking at them, twitched a bit in his position.

He was angry. Angry because he wasn't given the chance to prove himself. His father had tasked him to go and search for spider-totems to kill. He was sent to kill the superior spider-man, in which he failed so he went to another universe where there was almost a spider-man similar to Superior spider-man. And that was Peter of their universe.

But when he came here to kill him, there was such high security around that he couldn't enter and he sensed the people around him were very powerful. By that time he was hungry. The only thing he could do was search for another beast totem.

For this reason he had to kill T'Challa.

And now when he had found 2 superior spider man he was happy. Happy because if he could kill the two, and then he would be accepted by his father. But now it seemed that everything was going against him.

There were 4 Spider-man now and on top of this his two siblings were here to fetch his prey.

"You are not supposed to be here. I was sent by my father. Go back!" Karn shouted at them.

"Oh we know that. But from the looks of it, you need help in dealing with your prey. We should never play with food, as mother used to say." the man said.

"Oh such fleshy bodies and legs...Ummm..." said the woman licking her lips in a very sexy manner. The other 4 Spider-man got goosebumps seeing the woman's reaction. The 4 knew that the family they had been waiting for was here.

But from the looks of it all of the family wasn't here. It was disappointing but at least something was better than nothing. Peter had already informed Avengers that the family was here. The people Avengers were waiting for.

Meanwhile, Karn who was held down by the web freed himself and looked angrily at his two siblings.

"Go back. I will handle them myself." Karn shouted again.

"Oh dear baby brother. It's too late now. These are my prey now." said the man. Karn couldn't hold it any longer. He had been angry with his family for a long time. He had been trying his best to prove himself and now when he was so close to it, his siblings came to destroy everything he had been trying so hard.

Karn attacked his two siblings with his weapon. And he didn't hold back at all. The other 4 Spider-man were dumbfounded seeing the sudden change of events.

"That was not in the script, was it?" Andrew asked. All shook their heads. They were now just waiting for the Avengers to come. And they were not disappointed.

"Such strong sibling rivalry. It feels as if someone is going to be the king." a voice came from high up in the air.

Karn and his two siblings who were fighting against each other paused immediately when they heard and looked at the place where the voice came from. And what they saw was not what they had expected.

There were various men and women levitating high up in the air surrounding the rooftop where the fighting was going on.

Chapter 427: Captured

"Oh new people. They don't seem to be beast totems but they look tasty to me." the woman said in the same sexy and seducing tone. totally oblivious of the fact that they were levitating in air and some of them were there without any external support.

"I don't think I will be tasty Miss Bora." John who was the first to speak replied to her in a very jolly smile. He didn't even care that she just insulted them as prey. When John spoke the name of her, it jolted her and the others.

No person had known their names for ages outside of the family. This was a totally new revelation for them.

"You must be Brix. Twin of her. Isn't it exhausting competing with her always in trying to kill Spider-Man in every universe. In all honesty, I will be quite irritated." John continued as he levitated down with the others.

Bora and Brix. That was the name of their twins. Siblings of Karn. There were other siblings too but they didn't come.

Now all of them were little unsettled. They didn't expect this new person to know such rivalry of them too. Brix, who saw, that this unknown person was distracted in talking with Bora jumped on him.

But as he was in the air to stab John with his knife, chains started coming from from surrounding and pinned him to the ground with a loud bang. Bora and Karn both got the scare of their lives.

Brix got banged on the ground by just a single move of someone who didn't even move his body and inch. They thought the new people appearing were just for show but this sudden change of events was not what they expected.

Bora got angry the next moment seeing her brother pinned down and being unconscious.

"You bastd!!"

Saying that like her brother she too jumped at John but this time she was stopped by someone else. before she could come close to John, Diana almost teleported near her and choked her on her throat.

Bora's body was held high in the air by Diana. She used her hands trying to free herself from Diana's grip. But she couldn't even move her fingers, let alone her hand.

"That was dramatic." Tony whispered.

"Karn, do you want to go on a round with us? I will be glad to entertain you like your siblings." John said and this time too with a jolly smile. Karn got scared to even move. When these people showed up he already had a bad feeling and now his two siblings were totally defeated in one single move.

He shook his head and put his hands up. He knew where he had to surrender or he would be brutally taken down by these smiling faces. Just the smile of the guy talking gave him chills.

"Put them behind bars." John said. And his words were law as all had appeared at the Hall while the other 3 were put in a new prison that appeared out of thin air. They were back at the Ring.

"This guy can change realities at will." Andrew mumbled.

"This was an easy job. Steve, you will have to bring out the truth." Clark said as by now all knew that Steve and Diana were basically the 'truth serum' of their team.

"Gladly. It's a pity I didn't get to move against them." Steve said.

"These are clones. You can join the real party once we get to their lair." Tony said assuring him of the action. John meanwhile went to the makeshift prison where Karn was sitting silently.

He had never seen such powers by anyone where they got teleported just by the words of a man. And even his dimensional portal didn't work. This time they really encountered a huge wall and the enemy was powerful beyond belief.

"Karn. it must be hard for you. Living in hunger and trying to get recognition from the family." John said. The other Avengers were surprised that John just used different tone to talk to Karn.

He looked at John but didn't open his mouth.

"I respect you resolve. You have been suffering and looked down upon for such a long time and still try to get validation from the same family. That takes a lot a toxicity in someone'e life to adhere to that belief." John said as he mocked Karn. None of the Avengers stopped John in this interrogation as he had more knowledge in this regard.

"You know nothing of me." Karn reiterated and opened his mouth for the first time. John just shook his head and didn't continue to taunt Karn. His life was tragic to say the least.

"Wake them up. We need information about their location." John said. And Victor went to pour water on the unconscious twins.

Chapter 428: Earth 001

And in order to have some fun with their new prisoners and mock them, Tony proceeded to pour a bucket of water on both of them. Nobody stopped him from doing this as such prisoners didn't need their sympathy or compassion.

And after pouring a large bucket of water, they woke up with a start. Even after being beaten down terribly, their life force was vibrant as ever. When the twins woke up they realized that they were behind a closed glass shield which was a few centimetres thick and they couldn't move as the golden chains which brought Brix down, held both Bora and Brix.

And as the Chains of Heaven worked, they had no way to get out of it, no matter how hard they tried.

"Whoever you are, you will die for this. My brothers will come and kill you." Brix shouted.

"Oh we are banking on that." Oliver said.

"You don't know who you are dealing with." Bora threatened.

"A family who is hell bent on eating the beast totems. Started from your father Solus, whose soul is in crystal form now and now your family just hunts Spider-Man for food and immortality. And I also know that you have clones too. Isn't it?" John said. All their secrets were laid bare in one sentence.

All of the three who were listening to John didn't expect that this new person knew the core secrets of them.

"And I also know more than your family bothered to care. But that is a later part. Now Captain Steve Rogers will perform his surgery. May you both have fun vomiting out the truth." John said as Captain Rogers levitated towards them after John opened the glass for him.

"What are you going to do?" Bora asked, now a little more scared. She had never been humiliated in this kind of way in her life and this was her first time at the receiving end of the stick. Rogers didn't even bother to reply and used his powers on her and her brother's mind.

"Where are you from?" Rogers asked.

"Earth 001." both replied unisonly in a single tone.

"That we know. Where in Earth 001 are you hiding?" Steve asked as John had already said that they came from Earth 001 where there was a 'web of life and destiny' or whatever that term meant.

"We are in a different dimension created by Master Weaver in a three dimensional space in 5 dimensional reality." Bora said.

"How do we get in?" Rogers asked as that was the main problem.

"No sister...." Before Karn could speak another word Arthur proceeded to use water and put his helmet with water so that he didn't disturb the interrogation. Bora and Brix hesitated for a second as they tried defending their mind speaking the truth but the Uni-Power was too overwhelming for them to act against.

"The location to enter the dimension is ... and only those who have the blood of our father can enter the dimension. " Brix said.

"Blood of your father. Karn will be the key for this then." Clint said.

"Now we have the coordinates." Captain said as he removed his powers from the mind of the twins. Both of them twitched after being out of control. They just spoke their major secret and there was nothing they could do to stop it.

Such an aggressive team of people would probably bring doom to their family. They could already see the end of their time and shuddered just thinking about it.

"Alright Avengers we have a mission to accomplish. Who is volunteering?" Clark asked. Almost all of them raised their hands. Just the prospect of them travelling to another universe and dealing with hardcore criminals excited them.

"We don't need to. Few need to be here defending the fort." Wayne said as refused to allow everyone to go.

"Tony, Clark, John, Ciri, Triss, Pietro, Wanda, Vision, all the Spider-Man and me would be enough. Others can be here if anything goes wrong." Wayne continued.

"Heyyy.. I wanted to go too..." Flash complained.

"Next time Barry." Clark said as he placed his hand on his shoulder reassuring him.

"Get packing people, we have people to Avenge." Tony said as he put on his Anti-Metal suit. Others were ready by that point but some went to bring up small supplies for this mission if anything went wrong. Especially Batman, he made sure there were emergency supplies. Paranoia was what kept him alive, even though he was super powerful now.

"Karn. Come with us. We will go to your home." John said he used telekinesis to bring Karn near him.

"Let's vanish." John said and the next moment they disappeared from their places.

"Next time." Arthur muttered under his breath as John took the team away. Bora and Brix could only look in horror as they saw a small team vanishing, they knew their family was done for now.

Chapter 429: Web of life and destiny

When John had searched Earth 001 he never put too much attention to it. He only cared about Solus and his children. But now that he was here, he could feel why this Earth 001 was the nexus of the 'web of life and destiny'.

This web allowed the multiverse to be connected thus allowing normal people having enough knowledge and power to travel through one universe to another. But of course there were exceptions like John and other higher beings who don't need it.

"I expected more from the travel. It's like normal teleportation. No feeling whatsoever." Tony complained.

"Umm are we really on Earth 001? We just normally teleported like John here does." Andrew said as he was sceptical that it was Earth 001 as they had just arrived at a random flourishing forest.

"It is Earth 001." Karn replied as he could feel that he was back on his home planet. The location of his home.

"You must have another kind of hatred for your family to show no feelings as we are actively hunting your whole family down." Wayne said.

"I decided to go against them the moment the twins showed up. I did nothing but try to prove myself to the family for centuries and now I am just burnt out. I will help you in bringing the family down but on the condition that I am allowed to live. I need life force to maintain my life." Karn laid out his conditions. John raised his eyebrows when he heard this.

He wasn't surprised by this statement as Karn did turn against their family at the end. He was surprised that he changed the camp so fast.

"You don't have the power to..." Tony, who was going to refuse Karn's demands, was stopped by John.

"We will go over this deal once we are done with the family. That is the only thing I can assure you now. I can't promise you anything. We will have to see how everything turns out." John said as he really needed to see how the story went. Karn had another role to fulfill.

"John why are we negotiating with terrorists?" Clark asked if he was confused like all others.

"There is a reason. For now focus on the job at hand. Karn wouldn't be able to run away from us anyway." John assured others that he was doing the right thing.

"If he moves a muscle out of his position, I will blast him myself and that is non-negotiable." Tony said as he refused to let Karn go. He was responsible for murders and even the murder of the King of Wakanda. John accepted the arrangement.

That was unforgivable on many counts.

"Karn, open the dimension." John ordered. Karn nodded his head as he really didn't have the power to negotiate, he just needed to find a safe passage in all of this and it didn't cost him to try any means necessary.

Karn took out his watch and clicked a code on it. And as he did, the scenery around changed as now the surrounding forest was replaced by a huge metallic door.

"So we were in the right place from the beginning. I could not see anything." Clark said. Though John felt that something was here, he didn't want to brute force and go in.

It might prompt the enemy to just escape and he didn't want that.

"Let's go in." Wayne said as he pushed the door. The huge door slowly opened. What welcomed them was a huge palace-like structure inside. It was a huge hall with massive pillars supporting the high ceilings. Everything around looked pristine and antique. Like this palace was made for royalty of the Victorian age.

"I thought I lived in royalty but this is just extravagance." Tony mumbled. Everything was perfect about the hall except for the presence of one thing that was quite unsettling for the Avengers and especially for Spider-man.

There were heads of various Spider-Man being mounted on a wall. A normal looking mask wearing Spider-Man, a bull headed Spider-Man, a wolf shaped Spider-Man and various others. All had their masks worn on them and all could tell that these heads were the actual deal.

"I will kill them with my own hands." Tony said as this view disgusted them and all others. They were already sick to the stomach thinking that the people here eat humans but they had clearly crossed the line of morality.

As all clenched their fist in anger and gritted their teeth all the Avengers heard the sound

"Oh my baby brother has come back with food for the family. This is so nice of you."

The voice came from the upper level balcony. All turned their heads to see who it was. The man who spoke looked like twice the size of normal human beings. Even Superman looked average in front of the size of this new guy.

Chapter 430: Master Weaver

"Daemos." Karn whispered.

"Oh Daemos. The pervert." John, who was looking up, heard Karn say his name.

"Pervert? This is the first time the food has the audacity to talk back." Daemos said in an angry tone as he jumped from the balcony to take a swipe at John. But in mid air itself he was blasted by Tony's thrusters. Now Tony's thrusters were more powerful than the original and with anti-metal derivatives he had added more power to his metal suit.

Daemos was blasted to the place where he came from. To the The upper floor and was slammed at the wall.

"This place needs to be brought down totally. And needs remodelling." Tony suggested not even caring that he had just blasted a man to oblivion.

"Take over the house. Karn, how many more siblings do you have?" Wayne asked.

"Three more. Verna, Morlun and Jennix." Karn replied feebly. He felt a little bit sad that his family would be destroyed by his own hands but he had no other choice.

"Spread out. Kill anything that moves. Well, except for Spider-Man. There might be clones so be on the lookout. None should escape." Clark said as he went to a nearby room to search for others. It was a big house so they needed to check everything

"I will stay here and just keep an eye on everything. I can sense the clones deep inside the home but surprisingly all the others of your family are able to hide from me. Master Weaver must be really something to avoid my detection and even allow others to do so." John said.

"Okay. None should escape. I want this journey to be a happy one. And no Spider-Man should be alone. They aren't easy." Tony said as he flew off to other sections of the house, while Karn and John just stood in the hall silently.

Meanwhile, Daemos, who was blasted away, finally got up after shaking his body. He didn't expect that someone would just have no regard for him and would be pushed back so violently.

When he looked down he saw that only the person who mocked him before was present and rest had disappeared. This gave him a bad premonition. He jumped down with an axe that was in the wall nearby to confront this person.

"Karn!! Did you rebel against us?" Daemos asked, looking at Karn.

"Rebel? Hahaha.. No brother .. I am here to kill you. Rather they are here to kill you. I am just a tour guide to them." Karn replied.

"What a bold mouth!! Let me take that sweet mouth off of my mother's favourite child." Daemos said as he threw his axe at a fast speed at Karn. But before the axe could travel half the distance it vanished in thin air. It felt like it was burnt in a very high temperature, hot enough to burn it down to ashes.

"It's not good to ignore a guest in your own home, Daemos. Didn't Solus teach you manners?" John butted him as his Gate of Babylon opened behind. Both Karn and Daemos were shocked to see so many spear-like weapons sticking out of thin air.

And before he could react or properly ask, 4-5 spears were thrown in the direction of Daemos. He was in alert mode so he was able to dodge the first 2 spears. But he couldn't stop the next three.

It went and directly impaled him to the ground. The spears went straight through he abdomen and chest and the last one through his leg. The spears got stuck to the ground elevating him the air while impaling him. Daemos screamed in pain.

Being an immortal he wouldn't die but the pain was real. The spears didn't allow him to free himself and any small movement would just give him more pain.

"Daemos, never underestimate your enemy." John gave him advice undermining his screams. As John was having fun with Daemos, others were back.

Clark and Wayne both caught two of Karn's siblings. One had his eyes burnt. Thanks to Wayne's heat vision. And Ciri brought the last sibling. That sibling's both hands had gone. Zireael was a pretty nasty sword to begin with. All the three siblings were unconscious. Karn who saw this sighed because he knew that, from now on would be no more the family of inheritors.

Tony was the last one to arrive but he had a weird look on his face.

"What happened? Did you see any disgusting things?" Clark asked, seeing the weird face of Tony.

"No... It's actually something else.. I think I have found the person responsible for bringing the inheritors to the multiverse." Tony said.

"Oh.. So you found Master Weaver? Cool. I need to go and talk to him." John said. Master Weaver was the only person who was responsible for this and he was held here against his will. But then again, his story was complicated and a tragic one.
