

Multiverse 601

Chapter 601: The grand fight (6)

The third and the last Celestial was a messy one. Hyperion was only able to stop the fast descent of the Celestial using his strength. And since both of the Hulk couldn't fly, all they could do was wait for the Celestial to appear. And after he landed, the real work began. Both of the Hulk had to jump on the shoulder of Celestial to land a punch and since they couldn't manoeuvre like others did when they fought a Celestial it was quite a lengthy fight.

It was fortunate that Hyperion had joined them on this or else, it would have been a disaster. Though the punches of Hulk were quite effective as both of them were in the most rage mode, they could only land a few before they were swatted down like a bitch by the hands of the Celestial.

"Hey, watch out for the hands."

"Hulk don't like big monsters."

Saying this, the 616-Hulk which was in control jumped high on the shoulders of the Celestial. to beat him up again while Professor Hulk (Yes, that is the name of the MCU Hulk in comics) could only shake his head and join his twin while jumping on the shoulder.

"Both of you need to watch out for his hand. I will help you with whatever I can." Hyperion shouted as he was levitating and throwing punches at the back of his head while escaping his wild moving hands.

And thus the long struggle began. The struggle to bring the celestial down. It had to be mentioned that the fight was happening in New York. Surely there were no people around to cause their death but it was happening on public property so the damage was very high. The buildings, the streets, the homes, everything was being destroyed on its path as Celestial was trying to move and trying to kill the annoying flies around him.

It wasn't easy for both of the Hulk as they were beaten down on the ground twice while trying to bring the Celestial down. 616-Hulk in order to stop the Celestial from moving used his body to slam at the knee of the Celestial.

Professor Hulk understood what he was trying to do and also used the same tactic and kicked at the same knee. Both of their attacks proved too much for the Celestial and it instantly broke the knee cap of it, if at all he had a knee cap like the human beings.

All in all, the knee of the Celestial broke and his leg and he was brought down to the knees. This proved to be a huge nail in his coffin as now the Celestial wouldn't be able to swat down Hulks that easily.

The Hulks were not jumping around like the 4th gear Luffy and hitting at the face and the back of the head whenever they got the chance. And Hyperion used his eye laser to kill the eyes of the Celestial in which he was successful in doing so.

And after much time, were they able to burst the head of the Celestial after repeated punches and kicks. The head of the Celestial blew up in a huge explosion as Hyperion used his eyes to put an end to the Celestial.

The symbiote attached to it was even trying to run away but Hyperion made sure that none of this happened while Professor Hulk used vibration from his suit to trap the symbiote. Finally, this team took the longest time in bringing the Celestial down but at the end they were successful.

"Never thought a Celestial would be this annoying, it looked easy when John chopped off the head of the dead Celestial." Professor Hulk thought.

"You all are late."

Out of nowhere they heard the voice of John from high up, only to see three people levitating down.

"Hulk doesn't like big monsters." 616-Hulk said in a loud and monstrous voice.

"You don't like anything that is bigger than you." Professor Hulk had to mention that. In the meantime, the other 'Celestial' team showed up as they had cleared the other one in the second fastest time possible.

"So we are the last party. That is discouraging." Hyperion said in a mock sad tone.

"No time to celebrate. Look up."

When they looked up, it seemed like there was utter doomsday around. The whole sky was filled in black color which was coming down like a blanket from all the sides. It was as if Darkness was coming to swallow the Earth and gobble it down. No matter what one says, Darkness was always ordained as a bringer of Evil and in the back of their head they all thought the same way.

And today was no other day.

The Darkness now was trying to swallow them up and they were the last defenders. The US Military sent their customary fighter jets to poke a hole at this Darkness but only to be swallowed by it.

Chapter 602: The grand fight (7)

"Why are they meddling in these affairs? Don't they know that it is useless even if we send the whole population of Earth against them?"

"Some people just don't trust us and they think their weapons would be effective against all of these." Tony said.

"It's your weapon at the end Tony. You are disgracing your own self." Reed said.

"Hey, I have not given all of my weapon technology to them. Whatever they are, at best, they are at subpar."

By this time, almost all of the Avengers had gathered at the place where Hulk had destroyed everything around and with the destroyed head of the Celestial. The Celestial body was so massive that it had destroyed the building around by falling over them. 616-Tony had a glint in his eyes when he was seeing the dead bodies of the Celestial.

John could already imagine a future where Tony would assimilate the body of a Celestial to make himself an armor and be very strong. But it didn't matter to him now. (the recent comics in Marvel of Thor vs Hulk they have given a Celestial armor to Tony)

"So how do we face them?"

"Same plan as discussed before. Barry and Pietro, you need to be careful, he won't be able catch both of you but you both have enough power to decimate his opponents. The strongest of us will try to stop and distract him while both cause havoc. Lightning has always been a problem for them since the first purge of Thor. So run wild while using the Speed Force." John reminded them.

"Tony, do you want to say something?" Clark saw that Tony had a very happy look in his eyes the moment he had arrived here and as if he had been hiding a huge plan for himself.

"Well, all the vibranium armor I have given is imbued with anti-kinetic technology, so it will be very helpful for all of us and I have even brought many anti-kinetic small devices that could be activated for each and everyone of you. But when I was making the robots, I brought out one of the things which we have almost not used in a very long time."

"Oh! What is it?" Hal was intrigued by the words of Tony like everyone else and they needed to know what Tony was thinking.

"The All-Spark." Tony said with a cheeky smile. The words of Tony brought out memories for all of them. They had not used the All-Spark in such a long time. But now, in this war, it would work perfectly, as there were many vehicles and ships around. If they could use this technology on all the devices on the city, they would have a huge army free of cost and it would be very easy for them to battle these small symbiotes.

This was a brilliant idea.

The eyes of the Avengers shined while the 616-Avengers were rather confused as they had no idea of what they were talking about.

"Go to Baxter Building (home of Fantastic Four) and build a transmitting device as fast as possible so you can awaken all of the portable devices here." Clark said.

"Aye aye Captain."

"Reed, I will ask for help in this regard as only you can help here. The others will be needed at the battlefield and make sure the symbiotes don't reach the Baxter Building. Knull won't take any threat lightly now as we destroyed his main weapon in a matter of minutes. He will now use a war of attrition against us since he understands he can't take us head on."

"Not that I am demotivating, but do we have an end plan against him?" Logan asked as everybody was getting ready to carry out their plans. This question was revolving at the heads of many but none asked. They all were betting on John and his Alien X.

"We do have an end plan. I am waiting for a weapon to arrive on Earth." John said slowly.

"Weapon? From your universe?" 616-Professor X asked with his eyebrows raised.

"No. A weapon that belonged to this universe itself." John said.

"What is that?"

"Light Force."

"Light Force? What is that? Star wars?" 616-Tony asked as the Star Wars was also famous in their world. The talk of Force would always veer their attention to the movies.

"No. Actually, you all have seen the use of the Light Force. You just don't know it and have named it differently."

"What is it?"

"Enigma Force. Yes, the same power that is given to Captain Universe."

"Captain Universe? But is Enigma Force effective against this Knull?" Susan asked.

"You will see." John said while giving a mysterious smile.

"When will the weapon arrive?"

"I have asked Silver Surfer to search for it. It is also supposed to be searching for us. Darkness has always been the nemesis of Light so it has to join the battle to help us. I am betting on its emergence."

Chapter 603: The grand fight (8)

"What if we don't get to be chosen by the enigma Force like it does to Captain Universe?" Reed asked.

"Then pray that we have enough power to defeat Knull and my most powerful form of Alien is enough." John said.

"Why can't you start with that now instead of waiting for him. You have the Phoenix Force too, you know."

"I can't maintain the Alien X form for a long time. I want to keep it as a last resort. Plus it is not like we have only this weapon, we have another hidden weapon too." John said as he gave a side glance at Eddie who was in venom form.

All looked at Eddie when John looked at him.

"No. I told you, my son is out of the picture. He will never come into the picture no matter what." Eddie almost roared when he said that. All sighed at this point. Almost everybody knew that it was his son that had powers to separate a symbiote from its host, without harming the host. That in itself is a huge thing.

He was a weapon made by the Hive just for this situation as the Hive knew that they wouldn't be able to stall Knull for a long time more, now more so as he was really out of the cage.

"Alright, that is the 3rd plan we have. We will use it only when we have no other options." Reed said as he needed to calm Eddie down. Venom was the closest they had to an enemy so they needed him well. But only John knew that Eddie would be the host of Light Force so he was more important than his child.

His child at best was a distraction. Nothing more!!

"You all better pray that the other two plans work because I am not ready to give up my child. He is the last thing I have."

"Deal."

"Alright Avengers move out." Steve shouted.

They all flew or ran away to all the directions to confront all the symbiotes around. Every small team was based on a combination of 616-Avengers and John's Avengers. This was done so that they wouldn't fall prey to the symbiotes.

Of course Tony and Reed went to Baxter Building to send the energy of the All-Spark around the city. It had to be mentioned that on top of Avengers, the robots were also sent to their aid in this war. John had asked for this so they were made specifically for this.

After Ultron, Tony totally stopped dabbling on robots. But for this specific war they needed the help of electronics since they had no soul. The symbiotes at best could stop or kill them, but never use them. (yes, I know there was a symbiote named Scorn which could make weapons from the host body but here there was no host body, only a robot. Scorn was a symbiote which got attached to a host who had a prosthetic leg. Later the symbiote could copy weapons after seeing them as the prosthetic allowed)

The Avengers of both of the teams were now running around and killing whatever symbiotes they could put their eyes on. The symbiotes had already covered every portion of the ground, the trees, the buildings, the streets, everything. Everywhere the Avengers walked, it was dark and gloomy. They could see the head popping out from everywhere. It was like a walking nightmare.

John used Heatblast alien and used it with his Phoenix's fruit. This was a new combination that John had never used nor he had seen the combination himself. As he transformed into a magma-fire kind of humanoid., and then changed himself into a bird.

The bird was what caught the eyes of the Avengers around. The bird had blue wings with reddish flames all over it. But the body of the bird was the most odd thing. The body looked like it was made of broken magma rocks and the rocks were red colored with a hint of blue flowing along the lines of the broken pieces.

It was definitely odd, but it could never be said that it wasn't beautiful. This was an art and perfect blend of different kinds of fire that existed. A blue fire, a normal fire and a magma fire. This was a perfect combination and creativity using all of the fires that John had command over.

"I gotta say you look cool." Phoenix had come out to see how this new look was. She had a small envy in her eyes.

"Thank you. Now it's time for work." John and this time he used a method he had never used before. He breathed fire from his mouth and rained it in all of the land that he was passing by. John always wanted to breathe fire but he never got the chance as this move could only be used on an enemy which is distributed all over.

Chapter 604: The grand fight (9)

John flew around breathing fire while the others were running or flying in all directions and making sure that nobody in the team were getting infected by a symbiote. One tried to take over 616-Captain America, only to be beaten down badly by the other Steve and Diana.

Steve and Diana had been working together in this war, and since 616-Steve wanted to see what was so special about the woman that his counterpart had chosen as a partner, so out of curiosity, he too joined. And for the first time he felt an inferiority complex. His counterpart looked like he had all the things he could ask for in life.

A good partner, someone who had lived through ages and someone who could understand him perfectly. This life was envious. But it was something that he could never get. After Knull's problem he would have to be the de-facto leader since Fury would resign after this and Quake would take over. But he and Maria Hill would have to help the new leader a lot so they would have responsibilities. It felt like his responsibilities would never end.

John was right. The problems would never end if they don't grasp the root of it and kill it. It was for this reason that the other Avengers team was so successful in whatever they did. They needed to implement the same theory here. But the problem was that here nobody trusted each other totally.

There was a whole lot of history in each of the Avengers and they couldn't just mingle with each other like best friends. In fact some of them had been enemies for a long time (Red Hulk and Hulk, Red Hulk being Ross, yes the same Ross from movies and he joined Avengers and in fact helped Hulk in his search for One Below All)

So there were always problems.

As 616-Steve was thinking all of this and fighting with the symbiotes, the other two were continuing to killing at the same rate, Diana being the more active and able to bring down more symbiotes. Her Lasso of Truth was even able to free some of the symbiotes from the control of Hive for sometime. But it was only momentarily as their consciousness went back to the Codex so all of the work went for.

Such things were happening in all of the small teams that they had made. John's team made sure that nobody fell under the control of symbiotes. This was one hell of a scene to watch if there were any cameras. But sadly there was none and nobody in the right mood would do it. Of course it was different for the robots as they saw everything and were being controlled by GAIA.

Since the superheroes were busy, the control of robots was given to GAIA which Victor brought over as they knew they would need her help. The robot sentries were flying all around and raining hell on the symbiotes wherever GAIA ordered them to. Reinforcing the teams and giving aerial support.

Men and machines worked together in this. But it was not all flowers and good 'vibes' on the battlefield. The situation was dire and though they were able to bring down enemies at a very fast rate, all in all, this was a drop in the ocean. The whole Earth was gone and if they didn't bring this war to an end fast, the people who had become host to the symbiotes would soon reach the city and it would turn ugly very fast.

Here there were able to kill indiscriminately but once people show up, it won't be the case. So though they were very effective in killing, it was nothing in the grand scheme. And maybe this was the reason that Knull hadn't shown up. He could feel that he might not win against all of the Avengers if he faced them alone so all he could do was hide and wait for the Avengers to just exhaust themselves.

And this was working. John was trying to use his omnipotence on his location but he was enshrouded in Darkness and it was very hard for him to find this guy. And this frustrated John too.

"Norrin, where are you? Did you find it?"

"No. But I got called by it. I am on the way to receive it." Norrin said over comms. This was a relief for John, as he feared that Light hadn't grown up well till now and they would never receive its help. Only Light could purify the Darkness and help John take control of the Hive.

This was the ultimate goal.

In the meantime, in Baxter Building there was another story.

"This thing is amazing. It can bring any electronic device to life. No wonder you had a smile on your cheeky face."

"What can I say, we have all the good toys."

Chapter 605: The grand fight (10)

"This is amazing." Reed was acting like an exhilarated kid in his seat as he was seeing the results. This device which could fit on both of the arms while carrying was something that could be used as a major weapon. But the main part was that this thing could bring things to life which he never thought was possible.

Scientifically speaking, such things went against the laws of nature and made beings which defied every norm. At any other time, he would have loved to dive down deep into the workings of these robot things that had just come to life.

But now they need to send this special energy to all the electronic devices and things present in the city. This would help them immensely in the war. Both Tony and Reed went into work and since Tony had worked on it before, he was the lead in this while Reed just operated as an assistant while inputting whatever possible with his intellect. Reed had always been the main lead.

This was the first time for him working as an assistant. After half an hour of work they were able to make a device that would be able to distribute the energy in all of the city. But for the jump start they needed a huge power of electricity. Tony instantly called Pietro.

"Oi small Flash. Come and help us instead of running around and eating pizza."

"Hey. I just saw some good pizza at a store. Wanted to see the difference in the pizzas of both the universe. The New York Pizza of this universe isn't as good as our world." Pietro said over the communication.

"Stop talking and come to the Baxter Building. We need your speed Force."

In a second, Pietro was standing at the laboratory, but his stop didn't stop the flying papers around and of course the small lightning spark. Reed was also curious about this so-called Speed Force which the speedsters of their world were able to use. These new Avengers had so many great types of powers that it was amazing to say the least.

"We need you to jump start this device with your Speed Force." Tony said as he was unfazed by his. All of the members of the Avengers were now used to the appearance of Pietro and Barry.

"You want me to do the thing which Barry did to wake Clark? Won't it be better to give it to Barry or even John. John has the power of Shazam."

"True, but both of them are more efficient in their killing, while you are a toddler. Get on with it kid." Tony mocked Pietro without hesitation.

"That hurts man. I have been working for the team the same length as others." Pietro said with sadness with a hint of wetness in his eyes. Of course it was a false one and one could see right through it.

"If you want to be a hero, jump start this device. Now run. I need to join the fun too." Tony said now in a serious tone. Every second they lost was precious.

The device looked like a cylindrical rods inserted in a liquid-like chamber inside. He didn't know what it was but he could understand that this thing could help in the ongoing war, so after all the mock arguments, he became serious as this was his chance to become a hero.

Pietro never spoke it out loud but he always felt inferior to his sister, who was the center of many things in the world. Even in Earth 616 she was a big deal as she had done so many things, even changed the reality. She was feared in this world.

But him being the brother was kind of useless. having only the power of running around. Sure, he could change timelines like Barry could using the speed force, but he would never do it. All this power was for nothing.

But here he got the chance, and he could have a huge impact in the war and he didn't want to let the chance just slip away. Though he complained about him being chosen, but in the depth of his heart he was grateful that Tony thought of him when it came to this minute problem.

Pietro ran a few miles away and made sure after there was enough distance for him to build the electricity around him. And even made sure that after touching the cylinder with his finger there would be enough space for him to slow down instead of facing a wall, like Barry did.

"You can do this. You can do this just like your good brother Barry did. He has even broken the timelines. You can definitely do this tiny thing." Pietro said to himself before he made a run. And after calming his mind, he made a run for it.

Chapter 606: The grand fight (11)

Pietro ran like crazy and made sure that he would touch the cylindrical tube to give it a boost. And the whole process went smoothly and the machine was charged instantly. And in the next moment the cylinder type machine spread a pulse all over the city. The pulse that spread was visible and all of the people who were fighting in this war felt it. Even the people who were flying and fighting felt the pulse.

What came next became a nightmare for the symbiotes. From laptops to cars, from a small electronic watch to big buses and trains. Nothing was silent any more. Hell, even fire trucks came to life with their staircases used as two rods as tools for fighting.

This was something the enemy never expected. Tony and Reed were watching all of this as GAIA had sent the visuals over. Now they have an extra army which will fight for them.

"Knull, you have given me sleepless nights for two weeks now. It's time for you to experience the same feeling before you leave this mortal world." Reed had a weird look on his face when Tony said those words.

"Are you reading too many novels recently?" Tony was caught red handed by those words. Truth to be told he had been reading them, thanks to John's children he came over them when he took care of the children for a few days. And from there he became interested in the fantasy novel genre and couldn't get enough of it.

"Maybe." Tony said while not even looking at Reed. He felt proud that he had been reading novels.

"Whatever!! Let's go. everybody is on the battlefield." Reed said as he jumped from the terrace to join them while cushioning his fall with the help of his hands, just like Spiderman. Reed wasn't exactly an able fighter like others but he has his own merits and he wasn't completely useless.

While Tony just flew away. All this time, he had not been in the war and he felt suffocated, now he could go full crazy. All of the Avengers cheered as they saw thousands and thousands of cars and buses joining the war with their huge and small bodies. It was one sight to behold.

Though the new people couldn't fly, there were no symbiotes which were flying, except for the dragons and the white bugs. They were handled by the other flying members of the Avengers.

"Where is Knull? Has anyone seen him?" John asked over comms.

"No. He is hiding." came the reply from most of the people.

"Norrin, tell me you have got the Light." John asked now, using his omnipotence.

"Yeah, yeah I am on the way."

"How much more time?"

"Give or take 5 Earth minutes."

"Cool."

"Guys, hold on for more than 5 minutes. Help is arriving." John said over his comms to everyone.

"Good. 5 minutes, people. Destroy as many as you can. We have new helpers. Make sure you don't embarrass them." 616-Steve said as he gave a motivating speech to all. All just smiled while they were on rampage. There was destruction all around but the main thing was that it looked ugly. Everything covered in black soot looked horrifying for most people.

Especially, if the black soot looked like it was living. John while fighting saw Venom fighting some bugs. He looked different now. After killing a dragon he had wings in his back and he could easily fly. This was new for him too. But he was using this for the best of his ability.

It was weird that Knull hadn't yet come for Venom or Dylan. Both of them were supposed to be the greatest threats for Knull, but he still hadn't showed up. John flew over to Venom's side while helping him kill other bugs around. Eddie was followed by a team of Raven and Starfire.

"Has Knull tried to contact you?" John asked as he flew over.

"He did when I killed one of his grendels (the dragon symbiote). Telling me to give up." Eddie said.

"I showed him my middle finger."

John laughed when Eddie. Eddie being the typical Eddie, in all cases he was very much of a ruffian. Only in the case of his son was he very gentleman-like. Due to this even Venom was influenced.

"Alright. Continue." John said as he flew away. He called Robin this time.

"Robin is everything alright in the bunker?" John asked.

"Of course, what else would it be? Even your children are here playing games while keeping an eye on every camera of the bunker corridors. None of the symbiotes found us yet."

"OKay." John said. he did leave some of his children to the care of Dylan and Robin. These children were not the ones who were great in fighting. So it was better they were given in guard.

Only a few who were trained by the Avengers were allowed to enter the war and fight for them.

Chapter 607: Silver Surfer

Before Light entered the battlefield, John wanted to make sure everything was in place. For this reason he had been rechecking everything. Only thing out of the equation was Knull. he had been hiding. and for what purpose he had been hiding, John didn't know but that was not something he needed to think about now.

If worse come to worst, he will just destroy all symbiotes and leave Knull high and dry. Without his minions he would lose his greatest source of power and codex. No matter how powerful he was now, it would be a piece of cake for John and with Light and others, he would be dead meat.

After he checked everything for the last time, he sighed. The end battle was approaching and they need to be sure that there were no casualties. Actually, when Knull had been wreaking havoc in all of the universe, it didn't mean that he had been killing people, it only meant that he had been acquiring hosts using his symbiotes and upgrading his power.

Basically, he had been sending different planets and galaxies to eternal Darkness. It would be hard for sure for them to live but it for the moment they weren't dead. For this reason John had not attacked Knull outside.

Earth was their own territory and they could get all the help possible, which couldn't the same for other planets. So Earth 616 was a chosen battlefield by John deliberately. He never spoke out these thoughts for sure because he knew that speaking it out might not actually bear any fruit and some of the 616-Avengers were for sure to hate him.

But this was the best option. He had already changed the timeline a lot. He had inserted his hands on Time by a huge margin. This was the least he could do to keep some things straight. Though it wouldn't matter as the Timeline had become a straight line.

But at the end, it was still a line. He could predict some things possible for him. John was thinking all of this as he was flying around and incinerating some symbiotes mindlessly. His power never got exhausted and he could go like this for thousands of years. For now, all he needed was wait for Surfer.

Soon the deadline was up and as John was thinking that Norrin was late, a small peak of light shined upon the city. Everybody looked up to see how sunshine was able to come out again after a long period of Darkness.

This felt like as if somebody has shown mercy to the Earth with those rays of sunlight. But that was not the only spectacle, after there was a hole on symbiotes that were covering the sky, a person barged in, flying down.

From afar with this spectacle, it looked like as if it was an angel coming down in the damned place to rescue the people from eternal damnation. Or at least that's what many Avengers felt when they looked over.

Forget about the Avengers, even both of the X-men teams from afar felt that. But those who could see closely, knew who had arrived. And labeling him as an angel would not be an understatement.

Because the person who poked a hole among the symbiotes and had arrived from the universe was Norrin, a.k.a, The Silver Surfer. With the Light Force, a.k.a., The Enigma force. John too got a glimpse of such an incredible entrance of the Silver Surfer.

"Norrin, took you long enough." 616-Tony shouted when he said that. Norrin had been a friend of the 616-Avengers for a long time, after the first incident of Galactus, the Fantastic 4 and the higher echelons always maintained a cordial relationship. And they had already know that the help was arriving with the help of Norrin.

Now that he was here, everybody rejoiced or at least those who knew that he was the help.

"Took me some time to find what I was searching for." Norrin said and he had a smile on his face. After getting away from Galactus, he had been roaming free and enjoying life instead of being a stone cold sculpture made of silver, he was having fun around. John flew over and said.

"So the war is in the final phase."

"It is... Oh.. it seems like the thing is itching to choose a new host...." Norrin said as he held his hand near his chest and miraculously out of nowhere a light ball came out of his chest. The light ball was the brightest thing the people around had ever seen. It was as if they were seeing sun from up close.

But surprisingly, there was no sense of heat from it, only light. Endless amount of light. And around the light ball, smaller light balls revolved around like planets revolve around the sun. Only difference was that there were distinct orbits around it.

This was the authentic Enigma Force.

Chapter 608: Shock

Everyone who was close by or the ones who were far away could suddenly feel that the power of symbiotes had suddenly gone down out of nowhere. This already proved the main theory of Light Vs Dark.

Light was here!!! So of course the servants of Darkness would scurry around in fear. As this was happening all around, the Avengers and X-men were taking this advantage and beating the shit out of the symbiotes. For the first time, the number of symbiotes wasn't overwhelmingly trying to devour them.

Almost all of the 616 people who didn't have suits were almost devoured by the symbiotes. If not for John's team, it would have been a tragedy that they wouldn't be able to avoid. Finally they had the upper hand, thanks to the emergence of the 'angel', so of course they were venting their anger on the symbiotes.

Just a few seconds of the arrival of Light and there was already a huge commotion. John who sensed all this had a smile on his face. He had been waiting for this for such a long time. And now his second plan would be set in motion and he couldn't wait for it.

The ball of Light levitated in front of the body of Norrin and it flew away to the new host that the one had chosen. The others who saw this and were close already knew what this Light ball represented. The higher levels were already informed of this.

Now all they had to do was wait for Eddie to become the new host of Enigma Force and put an end to the farce created by the host of Darkness. Or at least what John thought. He had forgotten that Eddie became the God of light after a long process.

To become God, Eddie had to die first. His consciousness had to go through Codex and had to go through a gruelling process to take over the mantle of Enigma Force before he went to defeat Knull. (yes, in the actual story Eddie died and his consciousness was trapped in the Codex. It was due to Enigma Force that he was brought to life and took over the mantle of God of Light)

But here there was never such a case. Eddie was fit and fine. Knull never came to throw him down the cliff. Even Venom was having the time of his life as both of them were flying around and killing bugs.

And John didn't know that for God of Light to take over one had to die or at least had to go near death to get its acceptance and right now there was nobody at the team who even came close to this criteria.

The ball of Light floated around as it went near all the Avengers who had been fighting and even floated near them for a few seconds to see if the person was worthy to hold the mantle. John and other higher echelons were confused about what was going on.

"Hey, you said Eddie would be the God of Light directly? What the hell is going on?" Barry couldn't help but ask. John was also confused by this.

"I don't know. Eddie, fly over to the Ball and see if it chooses you."

Eddie understood what he meant and he flew to Wolverine where the ball of Light was floating around. The Light Force was right now judging if Logan (John's Universe) was worthy enough to be its new Champion!!

Venom flew over and stood Light in order for it to judge him and complete his legacy. He had already known from John that this was his future, so even though he hated this, the part of his destiny being under control he still went through with it.

It was Knull. There was nothing they could do and they needed to get it over with. As Venom went and stood by the Light Force, it seemed like it got distracted and 'looked' at Venom. It slowly floated near Venom for a good 5-6 seconds and at the end it just didn't choose him and flew to the other Avengers!!!

This came as a shock to all, especially John. This was not how the script was supposed to be. Venom was supposed to be the God of Light. John was anxious now. He didn't know what the Enigma Force was even thinking. Venom was both overjoyed and felt a little bit of sadness when this happened.

He finally felt liberated from the clutches of Destiny. But, he felt sad because the idea of being a God was in itself tempting, especially Venom. He had been hearing about him being on the Light side for such a long time now but this dream was crumbling very fast.

"What the hell is going on?" John almost roared out.

Chapter 609: Shock (2)

Everybody soon got to see and know the weird situation that was happening right now. The Light Force was taking time to select its champion. And all they had to do was wait.

"This is going to be the doom for us if the Light Force doesn't choose someone soon. What if it doesn't choose anyone?" Reed asked as he saw the Ball was still floating and approaching every other to see if the person was worthy or not.

"Then we will have to face Knull with everything we have and destroy all the symbiotes present or just kill him."

"Why didn't it choose Eddie? You said before in the meeting that Eddie was the prophesied one."

"I don't know. According to the future which I know, Eddie should have been the One we have been promised. But it seems my indulgence has made many things change." John almost whispered when he said this. He wasn't really what would happen now.

"So that's what you always meant when you said that nothing is predictable when it comes to the future." Barry laughed with a hollow tone. He had a smile on his face as they all looked at the Ball which was floating to every other member of both the Avengers team.

They were looking at it with anxiety running through their veins. This was the most powerful weapon they had against Knull and they didn't want to lose sight of it. And after 10 minutes of silence and stress, the Light Ball finally chose someone.

Someone which nobody would have expected to take over the mantle of God of Light. If it was any other being, then it would have been understandable but the person whom Light had chosen was not something John would have imagined in the wildest of his dreams.

The Enigma Force had chosen Yhwach as his Champion in this war against Knull!!!

Yhwach, the God of Quincy was chosen as its new herald!!!

This made everybody's jaws drop on the ground. All this time, none of the members of the Avengers of both had a very good connection with him. John also had kept himself away from him. Since his story wasn't known to anyone, nobody believed a word of him. It was only because of John that he was even allowed to join them.

He was quite handy in dealing with Knull and in fact he had been the most efficient guy in the battlefield. But the Enigma Force choosing him was something that was not what anyone from the team had expected.

As the Light Ball entered the body of Yhwach, John got a notification.

[

Ding

A foreign unknown mater has entered the body of one of your summons.

Do you wish to block it?

]

"Will I lose control of the summon if I let Enigma Force enter its body or will the secret of the system be out?" John asked his system inside his mind.

[

Ding

Analysing the foreign source....

The source is found to be friendly and the source won't hamper the host's control over its summon.

Do you wish to temporarily enhance the summon with the foreign source?

]

"No problem with the control? Are you sure?"

[

Ding

Yes.

]

"Fine. Allow the Enigma Force to take over. At least I can control how he acts."

[

Ding

Allowing the summon named 'Yhawch' to integrate it's power to the foreign source.

.....

The summon now has a new power and is now the herald of Enigma Force, which is one of the oldest forces of this multiverse

]

"This is unprecedented..."

"This was not what I had ever thought. An unknown guy getting such a massive boost."

Such discussions were going on among all the members of the Avengers and X-men. An unknown guy who had just arrived from the multiverse getting such a massive boost.

"John is he trust-able?" Clark asked as John was bust checking the system and seeing what were the new powers of Yhwach.

"Huh... Oh yeah... I think he can be trusted in this regard. He did help us in the first attack, didn't he? And it's not like Enigma Force would be with him for all time. It would leave the moment Darkness is pushed away. So we can cooperate for this battle. If the Enigma Force stays with him we will see what we can do. A person chosen by Enigma Force can't be that bad. Can he?" John said as that was the only answer he could give them now.

He wasn't concerned about Yhwach as he was still under his control and at the end this arrangement was temporary. They just needed to wait it out and let the Enigma Force just leave later. Even if the Enigma Force stays, it won't actually matter.

The other members of the Avengers also thought about what John had said. Since he was chosen by the Enigma Force, he might not be bad after all.

Only time would answer if the trust they were providing now, would not back to bite them!!

Chapter 610: The final fight (1)

There was a reason why Yhwach was chosen as the next Champion of Enigma Force. He had been sleeping for such a long time after giving away his soul, which in other words meant that he had been half dead from the understanding of the Enigma Force.

And from the start itself Yhwach himself was powered by bright light or at least that's how the color of his powers looked like. A bright shining white light. The Quincys always used a kind of light to use their bows and all other kinds of weapons.

Maybe if Yhwach was never summoned then Eddie would have been the God of Light, but one small change of past had changed the whole story from here. And on top of it, Eddie never faced death or at least near death situations. He never went through the horrors of his past thanks to getting a better version of Venom and him being the only superhero in New York when everything went to waste, thanks to the work of John.

Due to Venom and his antics, the city was safe from other villains. There was havoc for sure, but comparatively, it was better for him and he was hailed as a hero. He had never gone through the actual sacrifices that his other version would have gone through.

But it was different for Yhwach, he had sacrificed a part of his power. There was selfishness in this as he wanted to bring down Seireitei, but in the end he did sacrifice.

Many other factors played into this, as Yhwach was not the only one who fell in this criteria. Batman too had sacrificed a lot and he too had gone through numerous near death experiences. But Light chose him, because Yhwach had powers which belonged to the same spectrum as Light Force.

Bruce was much on the darker side. So there was that too!!

All in all, Yhwach was the new God of Light and there was nothing anybody could do about it and had to accept it. All came to Yhwach as he was checking himself out. He just got injected by one of the greater powers of the multiverse, he had to see what the whole party was all about.

"Feel good?" Clark asked.

"This is new for me. I feel like my soul is full of energy. Like I can burn the whole planet down if I wish to." Yhwach said slowly and that voice had no kind of empathy in it. This sounded terrifying to others. Such words brought silence to the whole team. Even John didn't expect that his own summon would say such words to terrify others.

"Did the Enigma Force really choose the right guy?" Tony whispered.

"I am just joking. I was just establishing the scale of my power. Not that I will use it here. I already said I have nowhere to go so I will have to stick to this place." Yhwach said as he gave a cheeky smile.

"Get serious people, the drones are detecting people running from out of the city here and they are 10 kms out. In a few minutes they will arrive and we will have to exorcise them of the symbiotes. It will be too much of a hassle." 616-Tony said as he looked at the notification GAIA had sent over.

"Yhwach can you feel the Darkness? Where is he?" John asked. Yhwach didn't answer and just looked up in a certain direction. He pointed there with his finger.

"Can you feel what he is doing?" Wayne asked. Yhwach shook his head but said.

"I don't know but whatever he is doing, it is giving him more power." Yhwach said in a little more grave tone as he squinted his eyes and looked in that direction.

"Then I guess, its time to bring the big guns." John said as he looked at his watch. He changed the dials of his watch and soon the dial of his omnitrix showed a long humanoid alien. Everybody who had seen him in this form knew what was going to come next.

Alien X!!

John pressed the side button and then he changed to its form. The person who looked like it was made of small stars. The 616-Avengers still have nightmares of this form of John. Only in this journey did they come to know that the watch was called omnitrix and it allowed John to change into any forms of aliens present or saved in the omnitrix.

"Who is joining me in this battle?" John asked. Many raised their arms eagerly. But John looked at Wayne to decide who would fight against this big guy.

"Yhwach, Clark and John would go and fight it and Tony of our universe will be the distant support. Me and others will stay here and try to get rid of the symbiotes plaguing the land and also seeing that the humans trying to come here would be stopped."