

Multiverse 701

Chapter 701: First approach

"Damn. He is one grumpy old man." John thought when he first got the reply. The last time he met him was during his fight with Galactus. The Living Tribunal probably didn't like how he did things. But he had 3 personalities so nothing could be speculated correctly of him.

"I called him to be on the lookout. The first attack from the Wall has already been launched and the first person to be hit might be you." John warned the Living Tribunal. The Beyonders attacked all the abstract beings first during the secret wars and thus John needed to keep them. Any damage to the abstract would throw the multiverse off course so he needed to make sure everyone was safe.

There was silence again from the other side. After a few seconds the Living Tribunal finally said

"Is the enemy that powerful?"

"It's not a single enemy. You can specify them as a kind of species who does things for fun. I will advise all of the abstract beings to be together. They wouldn't be that powerful outside the Wall otherwise we would have already been dead. But if they lay a siege on you then it might be difficult to escape so I hope everyone is together and take my warning seriously. OAA had already asked me to call you for help. So this is me asking for help. Save yourselves. We will handle the rest." John said.

"I will call the others. If they don't listen then there is nothing I can do."

"If they die then it's on their shoulders not ours. If you think you are unsafe then come to the Ring. We will handle the rest. The enemies wouldn't dare come close to the Earth as it would interfere with their plan."

The Living Tribunal didn't reply to that and John could already sense that he had gone off the communication. He wasn't sure of how seriously the Living tribunal had taken his words or how the other abstract beings would take his words. John didn't care. The Wall would break one way or the other.

Which abstract beings will be alive? And which ones would die was already up in the air and there was no need to go beyond to save them. They didn't have that much energy to save their lords.

After warning them, John and Clark vanished from the Hall and had reached Barton Hills, Austin, Texas. The place where Owen lived and worked. They had taken the guises of normal people and walked up to the home of Owen. GAIA had already made arrangements so that there would be no police arrest or any kind of action from any security force.

Even SHIELD was told to back off long ago in the matters of Owen.

"GAIA is everything normal around?"

"Yes. You can go in." GAIA replied. John took a deep breath before he went to ring the bell at his apartment. Owen didn't have a family to live with and he lived alone. He was divorced and there was no child involved in the relationship.

"Be calm and let me start talking. You are not very good at socializing." Clark said as he rang the bell.

"Thanks Clark for the heads up." John said. This was true as he had always been a little introvert and he didn't like talking with people who didn't have any connection with him. Only his summons made him feel okay to be around them.

After waiting for a few seconds. The door finally opened slowly and a head popped out. The man looked like he was in 40s but the hair he had didn't go with his age. He had hair which could already be specified as someone who frequents an animecon.

Spiky green colored hair. This hair didn't look anything like the one they had seen in the picture. This was the first indication that Owen wasn't normal or he had been normal all this time but now he had been going through changes that were out of his control and character.

"Mr. Reese, hello. We are from the Ring. We would like to talk about something with you." Clark spoke the first words seeing the face of Reese.

"Ring? Are you the Avengers? Have you come to kill me?"

"Yes. Mr. Reese we are the Avengers but I didn't come here to kill. We just came here to talk to you and if you agree we can even let you join us." Clark said.

"Join you? But I just stabbed a guy on the streets an hour ago."

"We know Mr. Reese that you did that to catch our attention and you are probably scared. It was a good way to get revenge. I might have gone more crazy on them after what they did to you at the bar. You don't have to fear us Mr. Reese. We are here to help you and believe it or not, we have been searching for a person like you for such a long time."

Chapter 702: Madness

Reese had been having a hard time in the last 2 days. Out of nowhere he suddenly had visions of him standing in front of a huge chamber and there were many thrones surrounding the circular chamber.

It felt like he was here as an exhibition sample of the weird looking humanoid sitting on the thrones surrounding him. Reese could feel the disdain that these humanoid species had for him, and he felt angry when he saw that. He didn't know why but he just felt like going up and beating these aliens that suddenly appeared in his vision when he was at home.

And this vision didn't just stop there, the main alien who was sitting on the throne stood up and started giving him commands. Commands which made him feel like his whole world was crumbling down.

They wanted him to do a self suicide when the time was right. In the upcoming time all he needed to do was get accustomed to his new power and try to control his new gained powers. And later when the time was right the aliens would ask him for self sacrifice.

Reese was angry and confused. He never asked for powers or anything of that sort. He had a cute Aipom at his home that had been his partner for a long time. He was divorced because his love chose a career over him. He thought his love would be strong enough to maintain everything in a balanced state but her constant tours over the world had rendered him helpless and he could already see that there was a wedge between him and her.

And so at the end there was a divorce with mutual agreement and there was no money involved. But through all of that Aipom had been by his side and he was happy with his life and had no anger whatsoever for anyone.

The world has changed in the past few years. Better life, better way of living, better food, almost no pollution and people were happy with all the changes that the Avengers and Umbrella had brought upon them.

People idolised superheroes but those with little brains knew that it was the toughest job ever. They had seen a glimpse of what kind of enemies they had faced. Those huge giants that were bigger than their own solar system!!

The idolised them but they weren't stupid enough to want get a seat at the Hall of Justice. Reese had a good life with being a police officer. After the Pokemons came out, the crime was an alltime low. And after the change on Earth, their own place turned out to be a heaven.

No random murders, no random robbery or any of that sort. The crime rate was at an all time low and he had a happy career to pass his days by. In fact being a police officer was now a sought after job. Good pay and almost no work. He was lucky that he had the job before the changes took place.

But 2 days ago everything changed. At first he thought it was schizophrenia but when he sensed that he had telekinetic powers, he knew that whatever he had seen in his vision was true. He tried going back to his vision but it was inaccessible and only the mission in his head was ringing from time to time.

"Get powerful and commit suicide when you are being called upon."

This notion drove him to madness and thus he took the only measure he could think of. Get the attention of the Avengers. He could not get the phone number or email address of the members of the Avengers so all he could do was show his powers. He already knew that there was a global AI looking over everything.

So he went to the bar to create a brawl. He used his powers there but since he was new to it he was beaten down. But today he was able to have better control and so he went to take 'revenge' for yesterday and this time he made sure to get everything on camera. He had been waiting anxiously at home for the Avengers to arrive.

"Come in." Reese said as he could vaguely understand that the Avengers had anticipated what happened to him. Their words were warm and had no malice. He felt relieved as he felt that the way he hurt those people might have rubbed the Avengers in a bad way but it didn't seem like it.

Reese opened the door and two strong looking men entered his home. Reese took them to the couch and both the men sat.

One among them was famous.

John Jameson. The rumoured Phoenix.

And another man who had a body fit to be a god among humans. This guy was either Batman or Superman and from his behavior it was probably Superman. He looked warm and amiable. Looking at him made everyone seem like they were looking at a warm sun.

Chapter 703: First attack

"Mr. Reese, can you tell me what had happened to you recently that you had to take such a drastic decision and had to commit crime just so that you could get our attention?" Clark asked. He needed to be as formal as possible and wanted to keep everything calm.

Reese then proceeded to tell him about the visions and the powers he suddenly gained and after hesitating for a bit he spoke about the suicide he was asked to do. Clark had been very forthcoming and calm in all of his questions and whenever he asked any doubts of his he had been cheerful.

So Reese felt comfortable. And on top of this John had the aura of king which made others believe that he was someone that one could put their trust on. John after listening to Reese already knew that the Beyonders were able to send their powers to him and all the versions of his over the multiverse.

"We understand what you are going through. They can't directly control you. If you follow our instructions then that voice in your head which is guiding you to commit suicide at the end could be stopped. You just need to be forthcoming with us. We will try our best and at the end we can even give you the power to overthrow the people who did it. You said you hated those people on the thrones. Right? Then we will do our best so that those people on the throne will be brought down." John spoke up for the first time.

"They looked powerful. Can you all defeat them?" Reese asked in little fear.

"Of course. We have you. We have all the means to defeat them. You have seen how powerful we are on TV didn't you?" John reassured him.

"I know but due to my power awakening at that time I could also feel their power. Godlike might be a word to represent them." Reese was still in fear of the visions. He was already suffering from PTSD from what he had seen.

John didn't care about his mental trauma which he was facing right now. All he cared about was how Reese viewed humanity. The more unstable he was, the more it would have been problematic to control. But now it seemed like Reese was more stable. GAIA had informed John about his past and it could be seen that Reese was a person who had a good view of the society and wouldn't want to cause any harm to anyone just out of free will.

"Reese, now we will take you to the Hall of Justice. Is that okay with you?" Clark asked.

"Yes. I am fine even if you lock me up in a prison. I don't want to commit suicide or follow their instructions. I just hope you will treat me well. I am not so good with pain." Reese said in a meek tone. He was not ready to commit suicide just so that some beings asked him to. So he wanted himself to be under maximum security, after all nobody would want to die.

"No. Mr. Reese, you will be our weapon in this fight. Don't worry. It will be all fine soon." John said as the 3 vanished from the room with Aipom who was lying on the shoulder of Reese.

Reese was startled seeing such a change of scenery out of the blue. He saw that he was in huge hall with people sitting around a round table. There were many people looking at him in curiosity and interest. He felt like he was back in his visions but this time it was human.

The only silver lining in this regard was that the humans had a different view of himself from the ones he had seen in his vision.

"Welcome to the Hall of Justice Mr. Reese, we have been waiting for you." Tony stood up and welcomed him with a warm smile. He didn't show any malice or mockery. Everyone here was warned multiple times about this, though they didn't understand the reason.

Soon a chair conjured up out of nowhere allowing Reese to sit in the middle while John and Clark took their older seats.

"Thor, Strange ... It is better you are present for what I am about to say." John suddenly had empty air. Thor and Strange normally don't move their asses. They use their omnipotence to look into discussions and situations.

But John had called them out so they appeared the next second. There were two empty seats at the Hall and both of them directly appeared there. Reese, who was looking at all of this, was surprised. The average people almost didn't know anything about the Avengers.

Some of their identities were made public but that was it. Nothing more was known. And now two people including him just appeared out of nowhere.

Chapter 704: First attack (2)

"For a long time many have been curious as to why Owen Reese is very important for the safety of the multiverse. I have repeatedly asked for an eye on each of the Owen Reese. It is because Owen is chosen by the Beyonders, a species of super powered beings from the Wall. And they have only one purpose. Destruction of the multiverse. And Owen is the way to do it."

There was complete silence in the Hall. All this time he had given hints about Owen but never explained much. But the topic 'destruction of the multiverse' woke them up.

"How is Owen responsible for this?"

"The species who are attacking us in a stealthy way are known as Beyonders. They come from the Wall or that is what I think. They are here to destroy the multiverse with one large bang. Owen is their weapon. If any Owen from any universe commits suicide it will destroy Earth. And destruction of a single Earth will destroy every consecutive Earth in the multiverse. Essentially killing everything, because with one destruction of Earth, their universe will just crumble upon itself."

"Wait, you mean every Earth is connected in the multiverse?" Banner asked.

"Yes. Why else do you think Spiderman is always chosen from Earth and not from other planets?"

"So the loss of one Earth will just kill everything?"

"One Earth and we are doomed."

"Then how shall we stop it?"

"It's simple. We use their own weapons against them." John replied.

"How?"

"If we kill a sufficient number of Owen from the multiverse and give their powers to Owen here, we will have our weapon with which we can kill the Beyonders. Once we have the powers of the Beyonders, we can stop their mission." John said.

"So Owen here can suck the power of other Owens and even the Beyonders?" Clark asked.

"Yes." John replied. The other Avengers went into contemplation while Reese was hyperventilating. When he came here he just thought that some random super powered beings were interested in his life or his body and that was the reason they wanted him to commit suicide.

But this!!!

What is this?

Suicide? Destruction of Earth? Destruction of the multiverse? What the hell did he put his hands into?

And now these people were thinking of making him a weapon? A weapon to kill the ones who gave him power and even seize the power? Isn't that just suicide? Did he have a choice?

"So we will have to travel to the multiverse in search of Owen and kill them?" Clark asked as he felt a little disgusted at the thoughts of killing innocents.

"Some have to be killed because most of the Reese in the multiverse are either mentally sick or a criminal. If an Owen in the multiverse is innocent, then we will just suck his power away and if he is a criminal we will suck his power and kill him. And if we can't do that on a live person then we will just leave. We don't need countless numbers of Owen to defeat the Beyonders. We have our own powers and with Owen it will be easier." John suggested.

"So we need to take Owen and travel the multiverse and collect more power?" Professor X asked as he wore his helmet and looked around.

"This is the plan."

"Who will go to the multiverse?" Many raised their hands when John said that but he himself didn't. He had work here to do and he felt that since Doom was able to do it successfully, his own summons and the Avengers would be enough to handle Owen.

Owen wasn't apt enough with his power yet so it was easier for everyone.

"Mr. Reese, now the decision lies on you. Do you want to be our weapon or do you want to live a normal life?" Clark asked this time to the person who was in the center of everything.

"Do I have a choice?"

"Of course you have a choice. John here has already mentioned that each and every version of you out there has been activated. I am sure many of you out there are like you. Peaceful and just want to live their life. We can choose one of them and make him our weapon. I am sure at least one version of you will accept the deal."

Now Reese was contemplating. What Clark said was true, he could easily give away his power to the other Reese, supposing whatever John said was the truth. And if that was done he would be free and would be able to go back to normal life. But does he want to? Now he was in the Hall and got to see these amazing people around.

People who he had never seen before on TV. He even got to see Yamamoto and the 5 kages. This was amazing. Even the Shinigami and Naruto worlds were real. He had watched their anime so he knew who they were.

Chapter 705: Universe hopping team

In a sense some of these people were his idols. The anime characters, the Avengers, everyone here had a name and they were the most powerful in their own field. He even saw Yamamoto among them.

He knew that whatever weird discussion had been done just now was real and there was no lie in this. There was no reason for a grand lie by the people with strong power. They could easily force him to be a weapon for them.

But they had been forthcoming to him which was more than what he could ask for. After a lot of contemplation he finally said

"I will be the weapon for you. What do I need to do?" Reese said.

John and others smiled when he said that. This had been their plan from the start. To show him the real world and let him decide for the rest. Wayne had studied his life from GAIA so he decided on how to make Reese voluntarily join them. Though whatever Clark said was true when he said that they could find another Reese, but they didn't have time to do it, so it was better for Reese to join them.

And so he did.

"Good. We as Avengers thank you for helping us in this regard." John spoke up and said those words from the bottom of his heart.

"No..No.. Everyone here has been saving our world for such a long time. This is the least I can do to repay all the lives that have been saved."

"Alright since all formalities had been done, we will have to choose who will go for this mission." Wayne said since he saw that his plan for incorporating Reese had been successful.

"We will need some strong people for this and so we as the Kages have decided to lend Naruto Uzumaki, the seventh Hokage for this mission. He is capable and strong. He has a strong heart and is known for convincing people." Gaara said as he stood up. This was decided by the Kages the moment they came to know that they needed someone to travel the multiverse and acquire more power for their weapon.

"Good. Naruto will be a good fit for this mission. He is a shinobi and can sneak in easily."

"The Gotei 13 will send Kisuke Urahara for this mission. He is meticulous in his plans and is known for devising full proof plans for his mission. He will be in charge for this whole mission."

The Avengers also nodded their head when they heard that. Urahara will be the perfect leader for this kind of mission.

"And the Avengers have decided to send Diana as her Lasso of Truth would be very good in this kind of mission along with Raven. For those who are in favor of this whole team please raise your hands." Wayne said. Everyone raised their hands, including the ones from 616 and TRN 891.

"It's settled. Mr. Reese you can go back and pack everything. We don't know how long would be gone for so you should pack all the essentials."

Reese nodded his head with excitement. He would be following some of the greatest characters he had watched on TV and along with their powers. How could he not be excited?

Guilty took him away after making a proper introduction with each member of the new team. Others from the team too needed to make their own preparations and so they left and later the other people in the Hall of Justice were discussing what their future plans would be and how to handle the Beyonders.

John spoke of everything that he knew of Beyonders which wasn't a lot. The comics haven't been really transparent about their origins or their powers. They came. Beat a shit ton of Gods. And then Doom came to beat the shot out of them.

This was all he knew and so he said everything that he had read in the comics about them. After an hour of discussion John and the others left. They had done everything that they needed to do.

The newly formed team had decided to come to the House of Mysteries in about 2 hours so John went to his home to wait for them. He would be sending them away and he would be responsible for their universe hopping journey. Once a universe was done, they would come back to their own universe and John would send them to another universe.

Since any universe hopping being had not joined this was the only thing that they could do. America was too young for this serious mission and she wasn't right for this job. She wasn't mature enough.

After 2 hours, everyone had reached the famous home of John. Reese was particularly fast about this as he was very excited.

Chapter 706: Earth-31117

"Welcome to my home." John said as he opened the door for everyone to enter. Everyone happily entered the room. None of them had come to John's home before and this was a first time for everyone.

Reese was back with his Pokemon and bags. Naruto and others had standard SHIELD bags provided by Coulson. Fury had been a part of this operation so Coulson knew about the whole plot of Reese though SHIELD was warned not to interfere.

"Reese, you do understand that you can't take Aipom on your travels." John said to Reese.

"Yes. I want to send him to the ranch of the Ring." Reese said with a hint of sadness. Aipom had been with him for quite a long time and he didn't want to be away from him but there was nothing he could do as he was sure that no other universe had Pokemon as SHIELD had already sent some rules of universe travel to him.

"You can keep your Pokemon with me. This home is big. Emma isn't here most of the time and I only live here with Audino and Orchid." John said as Orchid came forward to provide everyone some juice.

"Alright. That way after every trip I can get to see him." Reese said. John nodded.

"Since all are ready for this great adventure. I will start with a cruel universe...." Reese gulped when John mentioned that. He had spent his life as a police officer so he had an idea of crime fighting but this was another level. A team made solely to bring another version of him to the knees.

"... of Earth 3117. This universe is special because on this Earth the Nazis won the war." John said.

"What?" Reese almost jumped from his couch when he heard that. When John said it was a cruel universe he thought it was because there were more crimes than the normal standard. Here the standard being before the change of their Earth.

But an Earth where Nazis won the war. Even thinking of this kind of world was chilling to the bone.

"Yeah. There is an underground revolutionary team led by Steve Rogers of their universe to overthrow the power but that is it. The Nazi are still in power and ruling the whole world. You will have to go and find Owen by yourself while not raising an alarm.

I have made a magical compass so that you can use it to find Owen but you will have to deal with Owen as you see fit. If he is unstable, kill him and get the power and if he is a good kind of person approach him and tell him about your plans and if necessary show him that whatever you're doing is real."

"Got it." Diana and the others accepted it without much thought. The concept of Nazi hasn't been of any importance to them. Only Reese knew what horrors could there be if there was Nazi. Reese clenched his fist thinking of this.

John noticed this from Reese and said

"Owen. I hope you will remember your main mission while going to that place."

"I understand." Reese replied after a moment of silence. Saving the multiverse was more important now.

"The portal will open on the sewers of New York. You can do as you see fit. You have all the gears and arrangements. Good luck." John said as he waved his hand and a round portal opened near him. Owen was still not sure what his power was. According to SHIELD instruction John was a magician like Doctor Strange and was the Supreme Sorcerer of the Ring.

But he could feel from his power that John was more terrifying than that. He felt it in his bones. The others stepped inside the portal without a second thought. Reese took a deep breath as he stepped in.

John then closed the portal after everyone went away.

"The race against time or should I say Time is Running Out. That comic was a really scary one. One bad move and everything will be over. Hope these people will be fast enough to bring necessary powers..." John was delving in his own thoughts as he was contemplating his next move.

The war has just begun and it will stretch for a long time. He too needed to be ready. He needed to make another army in secret like the one Yhwach is making right now. He had already checked him once and he saw Yhwach recruiting Quincies by giving up part of his soul. He wasn't going to make a huge army by giving away a huge part. That would make him sleep.

Just a few selective one. He saw Barton willingly accepting the power of Yhwach in Earth 616 and he could already predict many of the Avengers would be Quincies. Especially the ones who have no power.

Chapter 707: Mission successful

"I hope they will come back fast. We don't have much time. I can't go back in time like Doom did. The history has changed a lot. Beyonders activated the Molecule Man very late so I guess the whole operation will be very fast. Probably by 1 year...." John was in his own thoughts as he walked slowly towards his office.

Like others he didn't need to practice with others for coordination. His knowledge of Gil which included warfare was enough to cover that. All he needed to do now was finish his last work and get his friends to have a wake up call.

He was back at Disney and proceeded to do his work as usual. There was a sense of urgency now, more than before. The Molecule Man has already appeared so time is really running out. He wanted to gather as many fan values as possible. Once the Wall breaks fan values would stop. Assuming the fact there would be no Earth and they lose.

This was the worst assumption but he needed to be ready for everything.

He started working as usual, directing and working hard. This went on for a week when he sensed the talisman which he gave to Diana. This meant the mission was over and they were done. In the office itself he opened the portal in front of Kevin.

Kevin had seen too much in his time with John and so by now he was used to it. A portal opened. And people stepped out of the portal. But among the people who had come, there was an extra person, Steve Rogers.

He wore the traditional Captain America dress that he had once wore during the fight against the Red Skull. It was ridiculous to say the least, but even that dress couldn't hide the personality and confidence which he has and thus seen in all variations of Captain America.

"Ohh we have a guest here." John said with a smile. Steve was looking around with keen eyes. He was astounded by what he saw. Just the surroundings of the room was enough to dictate that the world was technologically advanced.

The Nazi rulers of his world was advanced too but technology was kind of gold currency. Only available for the power who had power. Few days he and his revolutionary team across a team, scratch that. They came across a team which could take them down with just a wave of their hand.

After twists and turns they finally came to know of how this weird team was together and their purpose. And technically both of their missions coincided.

Owen Reese.

The revolutionary team was finding ways to assassinate Owen while this new team wanted to suck out his powers. They were surprised that their target had powers and thus the revolutionary and this new team banded together.

For Owen of their world it was the first time he actively killed someone. He was here for just 3 days and he was disgusted to the core. He wanted nothing but to kill all the people who were sitting on the top. If not for his own mission and saving the multiverse he would have loved to stay here and join the revolutionary army.

So when he got his chance of killing a high ranking officer of Nazi in the form of his doppelganger he was the first to jump on this occasion and kill him. And thus with the help of Naruto and others he was easily able to kill his other variation and after killing him, he could already feel that a new power had entered his body allowing him to have better control on telekinesis and other elements.

He was finally convinced of what the Avengers had spoken of before. He can suck away the powers of his doppelgangers and whatever John and others had spoken of before was the truth. Meanwhile, the Revolutionary army was having a hard time understanding how powerful this new team they just encountered was.

The skills these people had shown were immense. Even the guy named Urahara who seemed like was sleeping had outstanding sword skills. And he had a feeling that there was more to his swordsmanship that he was showing. Diana, being the wife of Steve in their world, told their story to another version of Steve and the more he learnt the more he thought that these people were lying.

He thought it was all a joke until a portal opened near him. Believing his instincts he finally stepped in and the things he saw around made him feel that whatever Diana had said was the truth.

"Welcome to our Earth, Steve." Diana said with a smile as she already called her husband and informed him of her arrival.

"This is amazing. There is another Earth out there? This" 31117 Steve was still fascinated by what he saw around.

Chapter 708: Zombie

31117 Steve was mesmerised by what he saw around but that was not it. Soon a person had arrived at the door who looked exactly like him. He had heard Diana speak about this and at that time he didn't believe him but now. Steve and the other Avengers were always allowed to come to the Disney office as GAIA was the one who handled the security of headquarters here.

Diana went forward and kissed his doppelganger. He didn't expect that. Due to his leadership in the revolutionary army, he didn't have time for romance. But here was his other variation who had such a hot girlfriend/wife. He was envious for a bit for sure.

After a moment of romance and catching up Steve and 31117 Steve talked to each other while John asked the team about the progress.

"How was it? Did you catch the power?" John asked.

"It was weird for me. It was as if the power belonged to me from the start." Reese replied.

"It should be. It was yours to begin with. the Beyonders just separated the powers."

"Won't they know that one of them died?"

"If they don't deliberately search they shouldn't. But I am not 100% sure, so it is better for you all to leave for the next world. You will be surprised by the next world." John said.

"I am all ready for it."

"Good. GAIA, give all of them a full body suit with a gas mask." John shouted.

"They are on their way." GAIA replied.

And all they now had to do was wait for the new gears. Though they were surprised by those words, they didn't ask about it. Meanwhile both of the Steve was having a good time talking with another version of themselves. 31117 Steve hadn't seen such a world before so he wanted to take all of this in and experience the new world before he left.

The more he saw the more he felt like his world was a little cursed.

"So only our world is ruled by Nazis?" 31117 Steve couldn't help but ask.

"As far as I know, it is the only one." John replied. He felt bad for him but he could do nothing about it. Each universe has their own fate. He can only lend a hand to make things better. Until something comes up which threatens the multiverse he couldn't actively help the other Earth.

"Do you need help?" John asked. Steve didn't expect that John would ask him that. Diana had told a lot about their members and especially John who was the prophet of the big team and the one who knew everything.

"No. You have bigger responsibilities. Nazi is just one other army, plus you are on a crusade and you don't have time for small things. We will handle the Nazi ourselves. If you want to help, provide us with good arms and ammunition."

"Sure. GAIA, send them enough supplies to last for a year and big enough to tilt the rivals. Steve, you can talk with GAIA for the specifications." John said. GAIA acknowledged and led Steve away.

Kevin meanwhile was just looking at this new scene with amusement. He saw how casually people travel through multiverse with the help of John and was surprised to know that there was a universe where the Nazi's ruled. This gave him movie ideas but he knew he couldn't speak about it now.

The new gears arrived after half an hour while the others went out for some fresh air and see their beloved home. Reese went to meet his Pokemon while Naruto and others went to the moon to see how the preparations were going on.

After the gears were worn by the team John said

"The new world doesn't have any friends. Only enemies. The only thing you can do is fight your way out and if you can't fight your way out, you can only escape." John reminded as he calibrated their Owen finding treasure a bit.

"Only enemies? How come a world can only have enemies?" Diana was confused.

"It's not enemies per se. It is just that the world only knows hunger. So you will be regarded as enemies the moment you step in."

"Hunger? They want our food?" Raven as he clutched his bag.

"No. They want to eat you."

"What?"

"This new world will be a zombie world!!!"

"What?"

"What the hell!!!"

"This is shit."

"What is a zombie?" Naruto couldn't help but ask. He didn't have the notion of zombies as of yet so he was confused. Diana then explained what zombies were. Everyone here needed to be knowledgeable about zombies as she had seen enough movies and series to understand that the lack of knowledge will just be fatal. After Naruto understood he screamed out 'Nani-the-fuck!!!'

Chapter 709: Journey

"Due to an accident everyone there had been turned into zombies. So I had to calibrate the device to find a version of Owen who is already dead. Your job will be to find him and obliterate him. Killing him will do no good. The only thing you can do is to incinerate him. Remember the zombies won't die even if you chop their head off. They will be headless corpses and nothing more. Only if you tear them limb to limb or burn them, they will be endless. They go for the smell of humans and sound. The gear is sound proof and smell proof, thanks to Shuri."

"Got it. Any more advice?"

"May the dead may never die." John said remembering those famous lines. Then John opened two portals. One was for 31117 Steve and the other to the zombie world. 31117 Steve had a good time here and he even got to see the Ring from outside and their Earth.

It felt like a fantasy to him and made his conviction stronger to liberate his Earth from the cruel rule. He wanted his Earth to be like this, the paradise. 31117 Steve thanked John for letting him be in their world and showing him around before leaving.

John after much thought spent a small amount of fan values to give him a devil fruit. The devil fruit of Ace. The Mera-Mera no Mi explained the working of this fruit.

"Are you sure you want to give such a precious thing to me?"

"We have people here who have more power than this, so don't worry. It is just one of the useless things."

"Alright. Thank you. I will use this for the better of mankind and save the people." 31117 Steve said as he took the fruit. John could already imagine Captain America as someone flying in the air with the use of flame.

It will come full circle with the old movie of Fantastic Four. That would be one hell of a story.

Kevin had seen all of this from the corner of the office. He was surprised to know that there was one universe where there were only zombies. This sent a chill through his spine and he prayed for the departed soul of his counterpart.

Then John as usual proceeded to work on the series as before. The other Naruto team took 3 days to complete killing Owen and was back. The moment they came back Diana went straight to her home without speaking a word.

Everyone had a smell of rotten flesh and all kinds of disgusting smell from the vibranium clad suit. Following Diana all the others too went to have a proper rest and bath. John could already feel that the mission was successful and Owen had gotten more powerful so he didn't ask.

In this way the mission was going well. Most of them needed Owen to kill his other part and a very few ones had to be talked with properly. And as the days went by, Owen started to get more powerful. He could now easily control his telekinetic powers and change the molecular structure of things around himself.

This was a huge leap in his power. This happened after Owen killed the Hulk version of himself. That world was weird as that Earth had only America as the only country. John had visited that world long ago with General Ross. And gave him the scare of his life which prompted the military to stop sneaking into his world or in the world of Avengers.

They just played their own politics. Now the playing field had gone to different empires over the universe and the Avengers never cared about this. As long as there was peace and people had a happy life, John and the Avengers never bothered with them.

After a few months of travel by this exclusive team and working tirelessly, and visiting many Earths. Owen felt like he had enough power to handle the Beyonders now. He had tried his power before, and he could feel that he could change the structure of planets and solar system as he saw fit. He could easily influence the probability of things around him without even touching them. Provide life force or take it away.

But he could still feel that his body could handle more energy easily and there was no limit to his potential. That notion gave him a scare. He was so powerful but he still felt there was a lot to do. And above all, he could still feel that John was more powerful than him.

Even Steve Rogers of their planet was more powerful than him but it didn't matter now. John had already informed him that they would leave to catch the Beyonders soon. It was time to face his maker and put an end to it.

Chapter 710: Going to the Wall

John was keeping an eye on the power levels of Owen and also made sure that he was stable with his powers. He even sent Zatanna and therapists to check his mental state and make sure everything was in order with him.

He didn't want the comics version of Molecule Man who was apathetic to things around and didn't care how Doom ruled over the people. He wanted to make sure that this version of Molecule Man loved mankind and in a greater sense loved all the species around the universe and multiverse. John had tried once taking the power from Owen and even volunteered for this.

But his power and John's power weren't compatible at all. Even with Phoenix Force and Celestialsapien he was still not able to bring out the power of Owen. Reed and others tried to comprehend the powers of Owen with the help of Grey Matter, another alien with high IQ, and others but they still failed.

The whole molecular structure of the body of Owen had changed over time and their existing theory of physics and other laws didn't apply to Owen.

"We will need to understand the physiology of the Beyonders to understand the powers of Owen and its working. Or we will have to relearn everything that we know of ourselves and start afresh." Reed said after finally getting the depth of the matter.

"So it is a dead end."

"No. We have all the samples and all we need is to understand the connection."

"So what you mean is we need to understand their laws of working and functioning."

Reed nodded his head.

"We need to go to the Wall and fight the Beyonders for that."

"Are we really going to do it?"

"We will have to do it."

"What if we encounter others instead of the Beyonders?" Reed asked.

"Then we will have to fight them too." Clark said as he entered the laboratory. The laboratory was made in the Hall of Justice and due to war preparations on the moon, most of the Avengers of the 3 universe now worked in John's universe. Clark was in the Hall of Justice when this conversation was happening between Reed and John and due to his super hearing he came to the lab.

"Is Owen ready?" Clark asked.

"Over the course of time Naruto and Diana had trained on the ways of sneaking up on enemies and the path of a strong warrior. He had gone through multiple Earths and I think this is enough experience. He isn't as naive as he was a few months ago. Or at least that's what the therapists say."

"Then it's good. Time to assemble a team to invade the Wall."

"Is Thanos able to walk and fight?" John asked Reed.

"We have a functioning Thanos but not a full powered Thanos." Reed said. He had lost a lot in his journey to the Wall and bringing the Totality which was now secured on the Ring and is always under tight surveillance with people from Seireitei and the Naruto world.

"We don't need a functioning Thanos. We just need him to guide us and help us avoid things." Clark said.

"Call all the Avengers. It's time we take matters into our own hands. GAIA..."

"On it..."

Thus Reed and John walked to the main Hall of Justice where all the high echelons were called. They had to wait as they all had been working hard in their own ways. Trying to get better. The League of Assassins had also joined the war preparations as Killmonger had specifically asked for this.

The League hadn't been active the way it was before. There was better control in the crime scene of the world so the League had lesser work. When Killmonger came to know that the Avengers were preparing for the ultimate battle he couldn't just stay away so he too joined.

After an hour or so, everyone was at the Hall, and those who were on the Harvester, they joined via video calls. Reed had advancement in science to figure out a faster way to communicate between them.

Everyone sat on their seats and thus the discussion began.

"Owen is ready to handle the Beyonders." Clark said .

"Then do we know the position of the Beyonders on the Wall?" Wayne asked.

"No. We don't but for that we will take Thanos and Owen. So with both of them we will have guides who will help us." John replied.

"Are you sure that Owen will be able to guide? Thanos can be controlled as he is a weakling now and all he wants now is to save the multiverse. I have been studying him recently so I can say that he has no plans of killing everything in the world. It won't serve his purpose as all life will be extinct if we lose the war and there will be no freedom."