

Multiverse 751

Chapter 751: Invasion

Everyone's faces became like a bitter gourd as Gildarts spoke more about the dangers. Especially hearing about Perpetua. They had seen her powers and the cruelty that she had done in the series that was released just a day ago.

Though the dead people didn't have much idea about Perpetua but according to what Kabuto had said it hinted on the fact that Perpetua was someone who was more powerful than Kaguya ever was. This itself was an alarm ring for the shinobis.

After much instructions it was time to leave and they were allowed to use the Harvester for travel to the void. John and others looked at the Harvester which was getting smaller and smaller at every passing second. None of the Avengers nor the other teams came forward to see the suicide team off. Even Makarov didn't come.

People had already said their goodbyes.

"Do you think they will return?" Clark asked.

"We can only hope so." John said.

"We pray that they return. I don't want to lose such a good member of the Fairy Tail." Makarov was angry seeing such pessimistic views on the return of Gildarts, but he could understand. Beings like Perpetua was a huge obstacle for everyone and they needed to steel their hearts to face her and escape her clutch if they ever fall in her hands.

Thanos was a lucky miracle. He was definitely given some life saving powers by OAA in case he suffered and that was one of the reasons that he was able to come back but this time they didn't have any such privilege. Everything now depended on fate.

"We need Gildarts to come back at least." Wayne chimed in. He looked better today. Taking a day off was helpful for Wayne, but now he looked like someone who had more determination than ever and he was itching to make everything right in his previous multiverse and not make anyone suffer more.

Especially for himself. The image of his mother being an evil version of himself was still vivid in his eyes. Though the face of the actress didn't match with her mother in real life, the vibe was the same and this hurt Wayne more. He would love to put an end to the things where everything went wrong. Thus this mission was necessary though there would be very less chance of success.

As this was going on, something else was happening in a secluded dimension. the dimension which had been hidden for such a long time. The dimension of Ta Lo.

The doorway to the world which had been sealed for such a long time with scales of dragons was now on the verge of break. There had been repeated attacks on the door for the last 15 minutes and this has aroused fear among the people who had been living in this small place since they opened their eyes.

"Has someone gone to call the family?" Jiang-Nan, the sister of the Ying - Li asked in a grave tone.

"Yes, we have already sent two people to go to the other side and bring Goku and Xu back." a person standing behind her with weapons in his hand said. Goku had been loved by the people for a long time. He would always visit their place and play with the water dragon countless times and he was already groomed by Jiang Nan to lead the people living here for sometime.

Though Ying-Li didn't like this approach of her sister, she didn't stop her. Goku has been special since childhood. He was powerful and he could easily beat everyone of the people present with only one move. This was apparent from early childhood itself.

This gave quite a relief to Jiang Nan as the presence of Goku gave her peace of mind but right now she was shivering. They didn't have proper communication with the outside world here. Only manually they could contact the outside world and right now none of the members of Goku's family was present.

And by the situation she could feel that the enemy on the other side wasn't easy. The dragon scale door had been sealed for such a long time and there had been no cracks on this but now suddenly it was on the verge of breaking. It meant the enemy on the other side was too powerful. The soul eaters had wiped their civilisation before and now they were back with more force and power.

Only Goku and his family were powerful enough to handle them and maybe even the Avengers but she had almost no contact with them. She could only pray that Goku would be back as fast as possible and help them cruise over this situation.

Or else their civilisation which had continued for such a long time would end with her being the last leader.

Chapter 752: New ranks

"Why have they not arrived yet?" Jiang Nan was pretty anxious seeing how the dragon scales on the door were falling apart bit by bit, losing its red lustre on its surface. There was no color on the faces of the people who were standing behind Jiang Nan and Master Guang Bo. All their lives they had heard of these 'soul eaters' and how they had decimated their thriving civilisation once and here they were again.

And this time, they were probably back with more power than ever before. Though they were afraid of death, they weren't afraid of facing their enemies. Their ancestors had sacrificed a lot for their survival and they would have to do it too. What's more, if Goku was here, it would not have been so difficult for them.

The young kid could easily destroy their enemies with one move, and even the leader had said that Goku had been gaining power in a terrifying speed and his power alone could destroy their dimension with one move.

This was terrifying but also exciting. They would finally have a leader who was ridiculously powerful, though he was never born in their place but he was essentially raised in their dimension. So it was good that Goku was groomed to be their leader.

But today the people were facing an unprecedented crisis. And they were hoping that Goku would be back in time to save them. Praying and hoping, but time waits for none and after 5 minutes of struggle on the door by the supposed 'soul eater', all of the dragon scales attached to the door finally fell off and the rock door crumbled into pieces.

And as if the soul eaters had heard the prayers of Jiang Nan, they became more agitated and with one last push they finally ended up destroying the whole door with one last burst. And immediately with no warning, various flying tentacles like creatures flew from the door and went straight to the people who were ready with their weapons.

"Warriors, formation!!!!!" Jiang Nan shouted on top of her lungs.

The warriors behind took out their dragon scaled shield in front of them. The formation seemed like the ones the old Romans used. The warriors stacked the shields one above another and the soul eaters who were ready to reap the souls were stopped by the shields and the spears that also had dragon scales.

The spears were long and sharp and some of the spears pierced through some of the small soul eaters. Jiang Nan had made small groups of warriors with shields surrounding them so that the flying small soul eaters would not come from behind and attack.

Their civilization had been annihilated once so they had proper knowledge from the 1st war. But they had also miscalculated the number of these small eaters and also they now had a new addition to their army.

the medium sized soul eaters. The last time they faced in the war, it was only a huge number of small eaters and some big soul eaters but apparently after a long time now, there had been new additions to their ranks and these soul eaters also were in huge numbers.

The warriors who were initially able to handle the soul eaters due to their weapons were now facing problems. The unstoppable were the middle sized guys and soon they were able to break the ranks of the small groups of warriors.

The eaters didn't take much time in engaging the warriors and they sucked the life out of them easily once they caught the warriors. There was no pain and no struggle once their souls were reaped. It was eerily silent for the dead ones. They only screamed when they were caught.

The other warriors looking at it gulped down their throats but this scary scene didn't make them fear, instead it gave the warriors more anger and determination to take these evil beings down.

"Kill them, Goku will be here soon. Then I want to see how far they dance."

"Yes, we just need to avoid casualties and everything will be alright."

"Fear not my friends. Their redemption will be here soon and we will take revenge for what they had done to our ancestors."

The warriors were brave enough and they have been trained since childhood, but the number of eaters that were pouring from the doorway was too much for the warrior and soon the number was so large that it seemed like the warriors were swimming among the hordes of the eaters. The shields that were used as protection were not enough to stop the tentacles of the eaters and soon the casualties were racking up in numbers.

"Goku, where are you? We need you!!" Jiang Nan was in tears as she looked around while fighting a mid-sized eater. She was devastated by seeing the dead bodies around. Her constant prayers didn't come to fruition as she hoped for.

Chapter 753: The dragon (2)

The struggle was real as everyone. And the body count was rising faster by every passing second. The struggle didn't last long. For hardly 10 minutes everyone struggled. The warriors, Master Guang Bo, Jiang Na gave everything to save themselves and hold on till Goku arrived.

The warriors fought with majesty and valour fit for warriors of any battlefield. But it seemed like this wasn't enough. Because in almost 10 minutes, everyone was wiped away. Jiang Nan was the last one standing and she too now was exhausted. She had killed multiple eaters and even a medium sized eater. But finally she was caught by

"So this is it? This is how I die? The same way my ancestors lost their lives. If only Goku and Shang-Chi were here."

As Jiang-Nan was ready to close her eyes after she was caught by the tentacles of 2 medium sized eaters, suddenly there was a loud splashing noise from the huge lake that was nearby. Jiang Nan rotated her head to look at the lake. Her face didn't look good after she heard the sound. She knew what the sound meant.

The dragon had come out of the lake to save her. But she didn't want that. The soul eaters, couldn't travel underwater as swiftly as they could above water and thus the dragon, the protector of Ta Lo, who had been on the lake for such a long time, could easily handle the soul eaters.

The emergence of the dragon meant that the protector would now have to try and save her life but that was impossible. She had known the power of the protector for a long time, and though the dragon was a born nemesis of the soul eaters, at the end the dragon was all alone. All the dragon could do was buy time and delay her death.

She would eventually have to die and the dragon too would die in this war. She had lost hope of Goku as the buffer of 10 minutes wasn't enough to call the house of her sister.

"No, Protector, please go back. You are the only one who could guide Goku and make him grow stronger. Please, Goku loves you. He would be devastated seeing you in a horrible situation. Please go back." Jiang Nan shouted on top of her lungs. She was in tears.

She was grateful that the dragon had her in his thoughts but she didn't want that. Goku would lose a family if anything happened to the dragon. At Ta Lo, Goku was closest not to Jiang Nan but to the dragon.

He would definitely go crazy if anything happened to the dragon. But the dragon paid no attention to the words of Jiang Nan and started flying around while clawing and biting at the random soul eaters that came near him. Though his efficiency of killing was superb, it still wasn't enough as the number of soul eaters were very high.

The soul eaters couldn't actually hurt the dragon with its small tentacles, even the medium sized ones weren't much of a deal, but it was a totally different story when two huge ones came over. They looked menacing and whatever they lacked in length as compared to the dragon, they made it up with the body size in width.

The dragon might have been able to take on a single soul eater, but it wouldn't be possible for it to be free from 2 big ones and other small ones that were being used as cannon fodders. The dragon tried its best to reach Jiang Nan and fly away with her. At least, that was the intention of the dragon. When it had sensed that the invaders had arrived, it didn't want to meddle.

The dragon, like others, had been hoping for Goku to arrive but it seemed like he had too much. It was apparent that this was a coordinated attack otherwise Goku, who normally remains on Ta Lo for most of the time, was away with his family outside. The enemies attacked them quickly and efficiently.

And now all the dragon wanted was to leave the dimension with Jiang Nan and preserve the last heritage of Ta Lo. But it seemed like this wouldn't be possible and they would die. Jiang Nan had tears in her eyes as she saw the Protector being assaulted by the soul eaters.

The soul eater that had caught her, held her in front of the dragon. Even though she couldn't see the expression on the faces of these creatures, she was sure that these creatures were sentient and they were taunting her by making her look how their protector was on the verge of fall and there was nothing that they could do to stop it.

The dragon struggled more as it tore down many soul eaters and even gave a bite at the neck of one of the soul eaters.

Chapter 754: The rage

But the power and numbers were overwhelming. And there was no hope once the third big soul eater entered their dimension through the door. It soon entered the fray between the dragon and the soul eaters.

The battle tilted in the favor of the soul eaters. The dragon flew at it and swung its claws on the soul eaters with its sharp long claws but there were only 4 of it in its body. It needed more claws to deal with the soul eaters that had clung to its body.

The dragon intended to reach Jiang Nan as her soul was sucked away slowly but it was too late!! Jiang Nan died with tears on her eyes as she looked at the protector struggling. She wanted to help her protector but she couldn't. She used her martial arts to free herself by moving her legs high up but the tentacles didn't allow her to do so.

She was struck and soon she realised that the soul was being taken away by the soul eater. Though she could feel it, there was no pain. She understood why there was no cry from the ones who died in front of her.

The ability to talk vanishes away and only the unearthly feeling of weightlessness remained after the soul was slowly being sucked away. She just took one last look at the protector as she closed her eyes.

She was dead!!

Jiang Nan. The last leader of Ta Lo had died and her body was thrown away like a rag doll at the ground. The dragon who was struggling moved his eyes and looked at the dead figure of Jiang Nan. Involuntarily, there were teardrops in the eyes of the ancient beast. Over the course of its lifetime he had seen many leaders.

Jiang Nan was a good one among them. He had seen many types of leaders, arrogant ones, merciless ones, kind ones, brave ones. But Jiang Nan was something else. Even after her own sister left the dimension she didn't persecute her or forcefully bring her back. And when Goku showed up, she left all her hopes and dreams for the child who didn't even belong to her.

She was the only one who was ready to give the position of leader to someone who never had any relation with their civilization. In fact, the kid's civilization from what he understood was a savage one.

And here she was. Giving up everything to make Goku as the leader. He loved the boy and soon he too would die soon. He had said his bye to Goku the last time, not knowing it would be the last time he would see the boy.

"Goku, I hope you will live happily and with a smile that you always have. Don't give your life for revenge. I don't want the smile to go away. I know you will be able to kill these degenerates but make sure to live your life. Be the leader that the kid Jiang Nan wanted you to be. Your siblings will carry the will of our civilization to the future."

The dragon was having these thoughts as he was fighting a battle against the 3 soul eaters. He was losing stamina in a very fast rate and he knew that he was going to die soon. One of the big tentacles finally was able to grab his neck and pull at him.

The dragon struggled more as it tried to free itself but soon the half dying soul eater and the other soul eater used their tentacles to bring the dragon down from reaching the dead body of Jiang Nan. Even in death they didn't want to allow the dragon to have any satisfaction.

The dragon got very angry and finally with his claws swiped at the body of the dying soul eater. He used all his strength at its limbs to kill the soul eater. His claws went through the huge mouth of the eater and broke its mouth in two.

The dying soul eater couldn't handle the sudden loss of its mouth and vanished into nothingness instantly. Killing the soul eater!! But doing this, he had sacrificed his defense. The two remaining soul eaters had got the window and used their tentacles to hold on to the mouth of the dragon forcing him to open.

The dragon was squirming intensely in order to free himself but it was too late. The soul eater had already started extracting the soul. The dragon who was struggling heavily slowly let go of his body and soon the soul which looked like it was a small sun was extracted.

The dragon that had been living for such a long time and looked over Ta Lo was dead. And with that the last remaining soldier of Ta Lo was dead too.

Chapter 755: The rage (2)

The soul eaters roamed the small dimension to see if there were any remaining bodies that they could suck off the soul from. The soul eaters didn't even leave the animals that had been living in the dimension with them.

The mythical animals that used to live with the people of Ta Lo also died with the warriors' demise. There was nothing left in the dimension except for eerie silence and occasional small sounds of crickets that were still alive in the dimension,

Only the insects remained in the assault. And the dead bodies.

The soul eaters were the only living creatures alive in the dimension. Many of the soul eaters had gone back from the way they came. There were still 2 big soul eaters who were now occupying the back mountains near the gate. The soul eaters had no idea of how to cross the dimension and go to the real world but they hadn't given up searching and they were turning every stone to search for the passage.

The soul eaters were not listless as one expected them to be and they were carrying out their mission effectively and doing everything possible to find the gate.

Meanwhile, the two people who had fled to call Goku had finally reached the home of Xu. They had been running like dogs in order to reach Xu's home. For the first time in their lives they regretted not taking communication devices when Xu offered them last time. Xu's home was very far and had no connectivity with the normal world.

They had to use satellite phones in order to stay connected. Umbrella had provided every facility now to let the Xu family be connected with the Ring and the real world. Xu with his wealth had even bought a spaceship for the family to travel in space which they often use to have fun in the galaxy.

But sadly, Ta Lo was still outdated in this sense. They had the belief that their technology was much better and if they ever used any kind of technology it would be their own when they develop. Their civilization did have awesome technology but during the war, many things were lost in time as they couldn't transfer the knowledge to the next generation effectively.

And after constant running and climbing a hill, they finally reached the home of Xu Wenwu. The place where Goku lived.

"Bai, what happened? Why have you come out of Ta Lo." Shang-Chi, who was busy playing Switch in his hands in the garden, saw Bai and Qin running to their door and panting heavily.

"Shang, its a disaster. Ta Lo's being attacked from the other side of the door of the back mountain. It seemed like it would break any moment. We need reinforcement. We need Goku and you." Qin who had followed Bai said through his pants.

"What?" Shang-Chi almost threw away his Switch when he heard that. And he wasn't the only one who heard the words of Qin. Goku, who was on the other end of the house, trying to sneak away some snacks stopped when he heard that. His powers had grown exponentially now and he could hear things from far away. Normally he could switch it off, but when he heard from the front he used his powers.

And the dumpling that was almost in his mouth fell off. Without caring about if his mom would scold him later he vanished from his spot and appeared near Qin and Bai. He had just run at full speed. His speed was so high that a normal person would think that he just teleported. Goku still hadn't learned instant transmission.

"What happened? Is Shenron and Aunt Nan okay?" Goku almost shook the body of Qin to death when he asked.

"I.. I.... I don't know. I came the fastest way I can." Qin was shivering when Goku applied pressure. Goku was agitated a bit so he involuntarily used some force.

"Goku, calm down. The door of the mountain wouldn't break so easily. It had been sealed by the dragon scales. But, they had attempted to break the seal which means they are on the move." Xu had just come out of the main door to see what the fuss was about.

"Dad, we need to right now." Goku answered straight to Xu.

"We do. But among us only you can fly. We will have to take the long route and fly to the gate." Xu said.

"Then do it dad. I will fly away, you can follow me." Goku said as he had already started levitating. He didn't want to wait. The moment the message came that Ta Lo was in danger he had a bad feeling. It was as if his instinct was shouting at him to fly to Ta Lo as fast as possible.

Chapter 756: The rage (3)

/My first serious original has started serializing. The name is Two Worlds at a Time. Give it a read if you can. It is based on a man who can access two different universes/

Goku didn't waste any more moments when he flew away. He knew that time was of essence here and if he didn't reach in time, then disaster would befall. And Goku being Goku he didn't take much time to reach the waterfall from where there was entry to the world of Ta Lo.

And without a moment's hesitation he passed by the waterfall and went to the cave that was behind the waterfall. He flew inside and the moment he had stepped inside the dimension of Ta Lo he could already feel that something was amiss.

There were no sounds of birds or the noises that a typical mythic animal usually makes. Normally whenever he came to Ta Lo he would be greeted by the various animals and even the fiery birds that used to fly.

There were no such sounds or movements today. Instead what he saw was a horror show. He saw various animals and birds lying on the ground devoid of blood or life signs. The animals were just lying down. And if that wasn't enough he got to see various evil and distorted creatures flying high in the air.

Goku instantly realized what these creatures were. Aunt Nan had educated him about them multiple times and spoke to them about their origins and their civilization. His heart was already in his throat seeing this and it had generated immense rage in his heart. He had expected that the creatures would cause havoc but he didn't expect this.

With immense rage burning in his heart, he took no time to raise both of his hands and instantly blast at the various creatures flying with his normal plasma type attack. He didn't need to execute kamehameha for these small creatures.

And this small move from Goku was enough to burn the hell out of the numerous soul eaters that were flying around. Wasting no other moment he flew away with full speed to the place where his aunt and others lived. He was praying in his heart, hoping that everything was alright.

But the reality gave him a slap when he stepped on the main courtyard where everybody used to practice. He saw the bodies lying around. All his friends and warriors that had taken care of him in his upbringing.

And that was not the end, among the dead bodies he could be his beloved aunt. The aunt that had been giving all her love and attention at all times. Seeing the body of his aunt, he remembered those times where she used to give her cakes and let him eat as much as he wanted. Goku's mother never wanted Goku to develop an ill habit of eating bad things that would be harmful for health.

Though having a Saiyan body wouldn't really harm his health, but his mother never let him have that freedom as it might be influential to the eating habits of his older siblings. All these memories were flashing through his eyes and then he saw Shenron lying near the lake.

Devoid of life!!

If the death of all his beloved didn't trigger the ultimate rage, then the death of Shenron definitely pushed him off the edge. This was where Goku broke for the first time he had arrived at their Earth. He had received nothing but love and happiness all his life. He had always known that he was different and even his father spoke of the legacy that his race had carried.

His father Xu, even spoke of his own ambitions that he had carried out in his early years, but now he had changed. And giving that analogy he spoke of Goku's race and their war of domination but in the end they got annihilated by greater powers.

But today Goku broke into rage. A rage that consumed him and all he wanted right now was to kill everything and everyone that had annihilated his friends and family. And this triggered a reaction that had been lying dormant in his body for quite some time.

A reaction that would enable him to truly surpass his limitations for the first time!!

The creatures had already noticed that a foreigner had just shown up from nowhere and even annihilated a small army of theirs and many mid sized soul eaters and small ones were flying towards Goku in order to reap one more soul. They could already feel that this new person was different from the rest and they couldn't wait to devour the delicious soul of this person.

But this time they were welcomed by a scene that would forever be a legend among the people who had known the power of Saiyans.

Around Goku a unique power was generated. The power was glowing in a color that had never appeared before. The color of yellow.

The color of Super Saiyans.

The color signified a power that could destroy planets with a move.

Chapter 757: The rage (4)

/My first serious original has started serializing. The name is Two Worlds at a Time. Give it a read if you can. It is based on a man who can access two different universes/

Goku's rage was in its limits and this propelled Goku to break his own limit and get to the Super Saiyan stage for the first time. He didn't need any fan values for this as he had already reached that threshold a long time ago as this Goku was the version when he was healed after the fight against the Ginyu Force.

Though pumping fan values on him would eventually lead him to the Super Saiyan form and higher up but him being in rage was the turning point for him. As Goku went into Super Saiyan form for the first time, many felt it.

Doctor Strange.

Thor.

Captain America (Captain Universe)

And of Course Dr. Fate.

John was at his home having his morning coffee and thinking about what necessary steps to be taken.

"Huh!!"

John spent no time and vanished from his place. His system had already notified him that Goku had a change and if John would allow the changes to happen. John approved it and thus Goku went into Super Saiyan mode.

John teleported himself to Ta Lo, as this was where the changes had happened. And John arrived at Ta Lo, the first thing that attracted his attention were the soul eaters. There were a huge number of soul eaters flying around and all rushing towards Goku who had just turned Super Saiyan.

And Goku didn't even have to do anything. The aura around his was enough to crush the soul eaters. John soon realized what was wrong with Ta Lo. Everyone and everything that had once lived here was dead and for this reason Goku had turned himself into Super Saiyan.

It was the same way Goku turned when he faced Frieza and Krillin died in front of his eyes. That was the trigger and this time, the whole of Ta Lo was the trigger. John didn't go and intervene with Goku and he allowed him to vent his rage.

And John wasn't the only one to arrive. Dr. Strange too opened a portal and arrived at Ta Lo a few seconds later. He too had an astonishing face once he realized what was going on.

"Are those beings from the other side of the door?"

"I am not sure. I have never known any creatures of such sort from our multiverse, but who am I to proclaim that I have knowledge of the multiverse as whole. Maybe they belonged to some random universe or even outside the multiverse. But if they are from Wall, then we will have a problem." John whispered as both John and Strange were seeing the annihilation being carried out by Goku.

He was flying fast and just using raw power and normal power to bring down the soul eaters. He was killing the small ones first as he wanted to kill the big ones later and more slowly. This Goku was not so merciful like the normal one we know.

He was taught to be compassionate and be kind but it didn't mean his father had only taught him that. His father had always advocated that he should protect his family, his world and the people who lived here. The soul eaters had threatened everything that he loved. And they were even on the verge of destroying everything. He would never let this happen and he wanted them to feel the pain for the loss of his loved ones.

The genocide went on for a full 5 minutes, He killed every single small soul eater he could feel and lay his eyes on. The big soul eaters had tried stopping him with their tentacles but he was too fast and thus he was like a small fish in the sea.

Goku went on a killing spree and soon the big ones realized that he was just playing with them. Finding no other way, the 2 big ones noticed two other foreigners flying high in the air. This gave 2 of them ideas of kidnapping them and taking them hostage so that they could force this yellow haired 'human' to stop.

And they flew towards John and Dr. Strange.

"Does this dumb thing think that we are cabbages?" John said as he had a weird face seeing the courage of these soul eaters.

"I don't know. Maybe they are just dumb." Dr. Strange didn't even care about these soul eaters and waved his hands. This single small move of Dr. Strange brought the two soul eaters down and pinged them to the ground with a huge force.

Strnage used the mirror dimension as a weapon and used it to tie these soul eaters down. As Strange made this move there was movement in the gateway of Ta Lo, as new visitors had arrived.

The family of Goku!!

John, seeing their arrival, flew towards them and landed near the family who had just walked in.

Chapter 758: The void

Shang Chi was already ready with his rings after he passed through the waterfall. From inside the cave he could already see the dead animals that he loved roaming about. His rings were already shining on both his arms with an orange color light.

But he stopped in his tracks as he saw John and Strange floating high in the air with 2 huge creatures being held down by what looked like transparent chains and spears. This would have looked cool in any other time but not today.

Meanwhile, Goku was done with the massacre of the whole population of the soul eaters and even not leaving the ones who were trying to escape from the place they walked in he flew down to the place where his family just arrived nearby the floating John and Strange.

John and Strange still hadn't opened their mouths to speak. Even if Strange hadn't seen the family with his own eyes before, he had seen Goku and Xu. Xu's rings were under the supervision of Kamar Taj after he became the Asgardian God. Plus, he had been briefed by John before about Xu.

Thus he knew that this moment from the family was tragic and it was better to stay silent.

Goku floated down slowly with tears in his eyes and hugged his mother. It was all rage as he killed the soul eaters but now there was sadness. He was feeling immense sadness. The fact that Goku had become a Super Saiyan didn't invoke any feeling of surprise among the feelings in the family.

His mother could already feel from the eyes of Goku that her sister and her people from the village were dead. There was nothing that could be done now. She, like Goku, was devastated. They both cried together and her other two children joined her and hugged the mother.

Xu just stood there with a stoic expression but his eyes too were a little wet. He had seen many deaths in his life and that included his subordinates too but her family was the closest family he had and now all were dead. Like Goku he too felt anger and was almost ready to pinch at the body of these creatures that had invaded this sacred land.

"Shenron is dead too, Mom!!" Goku said. His words made the others more sad but there was nothing to be done.

After almost 15 minutes of crying and holding on to the bodies of Jiang Nan and Shenron, all of them wiped off their tears. Even Xu wiped the last bit of water in his eyes with his elbow. Goku and Shang-Chi had started walking towards the last bodies of the soul eaters. They were still pinned down by Strange and they had been constantly roaring loudly. They could feel that their end was near.

They had seen the horror that these people had killed their kind and now they were on the other side of the bridge. But instead of fear, all they showed was hatred for the other kind.

"We didn't expect your kind to have such strong warriors."

Those words rang on the minds of all that was nearby. This surprised John and others. In the movie, Xu Wenwu was seduced by the telepathic words of the monsters and thus he led an expedition to bring the door down. John had always thought that the creatures weren't smart enough to talk. They might be intelligent but not enough but now it seemed that he was wrong.

These savages did know how to talk.

"And for your sacrilege I will kill you in the most cruel way possible. You killed my family and for this there is a special torture that I will inflict upon you." Shang-Chi said as the rings flew away from his hands and had started rotating around him as he was going to inflict some pain before killing these beasts. The soul eaters didn't ask for mercy.

But it was Strange who came down and stopped the first attack of Shang-Chi. Shang-Chi seeing the famous Doctor Strange standing between him and the soul eaters made him more angry.

"Doctor Strange, I know you are a respected member of the Avengers and a magician who is on par with Dr. Fate, but you better not stop us in this crusade or else me and my brother here will not hold back."

"Calm down, Shang-Chi. We stopped you not because to stop from getting revenge but to get more answers. They came through the doorway and from what we can tell, the other side of the door is the Void. That means the creatures came from the void. The void had been a dangerous place recently due to the break of the Wall. If these creatures really came from the Wall, then we would need to investigate who sent them and what did they want." John explained the reason of why Strange had stopped him before.

Chapter 759: Happy ending

"What is the void? What is the Wall?" Shang-Chi and the rest were confused, but only Xu had a grave face when John explained to him. Only Xu was the one who was always updated with the secrets of the Avengers and their recent move to train a huge army.

The army on any other day would be easily able to conquer this universe and take over any empire. The Hala Empire, the Nova Empire won't even last a few months if the Avengers decide to attack them. But he knew that their realities were at stake at the moment. Though he did not attend all the meetings that Avengers had convened, he had a general idea of the problem that they were facing.

Hearing about the Wall sacred him a bit to be honest. Mostly because of his family. He wants to save his family from the upcoming war. And it seems like unknowingly they have stepped on the battlefield.

"Is this our first contact in this multiverse?" Xu asked, ignoring the question of Shang Chi and Goku's anger. He hadn't informed them of the inner workings of the world and this would need time. Though they had watched the series when it was released, the children didn't think much of it, other than the fact the story was great.

Later he would need to explain to them what was going on in the world.

"I don't know. We can't be sure if they belong to the Wall. We will have to take the body to the laboratory, killing them would just make the bodies vanish. These two soul eaters can actually speak. I am sure the science department would love to uncover secrets from the void and hopefully from the Wall itself."

When the soul eaters talked about the Wall, they started flopping around with more power and started screaming and Strange had to use more transparent mirror dimension fragments to hold them down on the ground.

"So from the reaction I guess they are from the Wall." Strange commented after performing his magic. They were sure that the soul eaters had heard John mention about the Wall twice now and they got agitated.

"You can take them away and I hope these creatures will serve its purpose for the war." Xu answered without having a second thought. He had been in countless war in his life and he knew what intelligence was and its importance so he didn't let his emotions cloud his judgement at the moment.

"Dad, What are you talking about? I don't want the Avengers to take them away and I want them to die." Shang-Chi was not ready to compromise. His eyes were red at the moment and all he needed was revenge against the beings that hurt his family.

"Shang, calm down, I will explain everything to you once we get home. For now let the Avengers take away these two. We have a long war on the horizon and it is time you know the invasion that we might be facing soon. Goku, you too." Xu said as he started walking towards the dead bodies.

They needed to give proper respect to the people who died as they had been dead for quite some time. His wife was still in tears. His daughter too was not ready to accept the death of her loved ones and she just went and sat near the dead body of Shenron.

John sighed seeing this. This was the first major loss they had suffered. Since the Wall had broken, one of the 3 John, Strange or Thor would always have their omniscience on so that they could peek into the working of the 10 realms and the universe and make sure there was no breach of any sort.

But they didn't expect the breach in the attached dimension. The dimensions had always been special and their powers never worked on them. Finding a specific thing was fine but having knowledge about them at all times was impossible. Strange was the first to be alarmed about the breach as the magical defense of the Earth was shaken when one of the soul eaters accidentally poked on the barrier.

He didn't think much at first as there were always signs of poking on the barrier from time to time from the beings of different dimensions. It was when Goku turned super saiyan that he realized that something was wrong as the poking of the barrier happened to be near the place where he felt the power of Goku.

By the time he arrived Goku had already started the massacre and John was alarmed due to his system saying that Goku had turned super saiyan by himself.

John went forward and gave a big hug to his summon. Bringing him here, it was never his intention to make life hard for his summon. He wanted everyone to have their own life but it seemed like this wasn't possible anymore.

Not everyone would have a happy ending.

Chapter 760: Revenge and nightmares

After a proper funeral and mourning time for the dead people, everyone went back. For this everyone from Avengers came as they were the supposed first victims from the creatures of the Wall. When John and others visited it was all good and happy during their return.

Though they did come back with grave news, at least none died. But now it was different. They finally have the first casualties. Graves were built on the side of the lake and even a bigger one was done after the dragon was given a proper burial. Goku himself took part in it.

He had tears all the way in doing this. Everyone had sympathy and compassion in their eyes as the dead were buried.

"Reed, did you check the bodies?" Wayne asked as the eulogy was being spoken by Xu and his family.

"I did. Pretty nasty to be honest. Their body structures are unique. Unlike any I have ever seen. I can't say much as I need to check on them myself and make sure if they are from the Wall. If the reading that John and his team bring from the Wall matches then we have a case at hand."

"Hmm."

"What do you want to do if it is the people from the Wall?"

"We will have to decide what could be done. If it is in my hands I would say we should take the war to them. That multiverse is at war anyways. Perpetua is at their home. We can easily sneak in. And even if this so-called Dr. Strange fate come we can handle him as we have the best versions of Dr. Fate and Dr. Strange with us and tons of magic. I can bet they haven't seen the Alien X version of Dr. Fate. I refuse to believe that this bitch is more powerful than what we have. We can go to their world. Handle this so-called Darkest Night if we have time and take matters into our own hands and save both of the multiverse." Tony was agitated as he spat out his heart in one stretch. He had been having nightmares recently about this world. He now has Morgan in his life and he wants nothing but safety, security and a peaceful world and not a world where everything is broken.

They have saved their Earth and for god knows what reason Dr. Strange fate didn't let Owen die till now and everything was fine for now but this ended today and they finally were attacked. He didn't believe in waiting for the enemy to arrive. He had even completed making the Celestial armor and all he needed to do was kill those evil beings and save the multiverse and hope to save the other one too.

He honestly didn't like the ending of that multiverse. It was a fabricated one and though everyone here knows that making a multiverse wasn't a problem. Winning the war was!!

If they lose the war then making a multiverse will be out of question and they will just live under tyranny if they all survive. Though many didn't share the same views as Tony, there were a large part of Avengers who were growing increasingly impatient and just wanted to go and save people at least on the other multiverse.

They had no idea of how the story had progressed and how accurate the prediction of John was but at least seeing them would make them more knowledgeable and help solve the crisis.

"Fine. We can decide after the first time goes and don't return. We will wait for a few days and then we can decide accordingly." Clark said. Like others he too was agitated for his far home that once was. He would definitely like to bring things to order.

A superman who was slowly transforming to Darksied!

A batman who was already dead!

This couldn't go on and everyone knew that. Today was the first instance of them losing an inch of their land. Who knows what will happen next!!

"...Shenron was the name I gave to the dragon and always hoped that he would fulfil all my wishes. I was told that I came from a different world. A world where I was supposed to be a God. I never want and or ever would want to be a God. All I ever wanted to do was play with Shenron and live life happily. Now he has left the world and I want nothing for the people responsible to pay for this. I might be young but naive enough to think that if I don't do anything then the enemy will stop. I will give my heart and soul to the upcoming war and bring peace that Ta Lo was."

Shang-Chi clenched his fists as he too promised himself to extract revenge.
