

My Lady is a Warrior Goddess Novel

Chapter 20

The Ministry of Defence in Northon City.

William and the others waited quietly for the higher-ups of the Ministry of Defence in Country Z to arrive.

When the fighter plane landed, an old man slowly walked down from it.

He exuded the vibe of someone who long held a high position all year round.

He was one of the three Field Marshal of Country Z's Ministry of Defence, Walter Knightley!

William stepped forward respectfully and said, "Field Marshal, the matter between General Dorothy and the Sherratt Group in Northon City has been settled!"

Walter nodded, but he had no intention of going back, anyway.

He sighed slightly. "We've offered the position to General Dorothy twice, but she has never agreed to become the fourth Field Marshall of Country Z. I wanted to use this executive meeting as an opportunity to have everyone convince her, but then the incident with the Sherratt Group happened."

"If I were to be rejected again this time, I'm afraid I don't know what else to do."

Initially, William had been worried about the potential harm the Crawford Family could bring to Dorothy, but at the moment, he felt that he had been overthinking.

However, he always had an indescribable feeling whenever he looked at Walter.

The position of Field Marshal of Country Z could be said to be the dream of all the warriors. Yet, Dorothy had rejected the offer not just once, but twice. However, they were still going to try to convince her a third time.

If such a good thing happened to him, they wouldn't even need to ask him for his approval. He would just happily accept the offer himself.

The difference between him and Dorothy was incredibly significant.

"I heard that the Sherratt Group is planning to challenge General Dorothy tomorrow afternoon. Get some people ready, and we'll go together," said Walter.

Even though Thomas said that he wanted to apologize to General Dorothy and would throw her a surprise, everyone knew that it was a challenge in disguise.

However, he found it impressive for a Field Marshal of Country Z to come to a small town like Northon City to stand up for General Dorothy.

How desperate was he for Dorothy to become the Field Marshal?

Thinking of that, William suddenly realized what a joke it was that Mrs. Clark tried to threaten Dorothy with the Senior General of the Crawford family.

If Mrs. Clark knew that the good-for-nothing daughter they had abandoned was the officer Walter had repeatedly begged to become a Field Marshal, would she regret her decisions?

Other than that, it seemed that Senior Colonel Donald, Howard's father, had also asked for a leave to come back for the sake of the battle between the Sherratt Group and Dorothy!

If Donald got involved in the matter the next day...

The spectacle would truly be entertaining and interesting to watch!

Meanwhile, Dorothy brought Elizabeth to the hospital where Frederick was.

Dorothy received a call from Uriel Todd the moment she got out of the car.

Uriel and Celestine Todd were both Dorothy's trusted aides.

"Dorothy, I've found the information you asked for. So far, there's only been one star token that has been unsealed in Country Z.

"And it was unsealed in Imperial City."

"However, it was a long time ago, and there were some highly classified details in between, so we still need to investigate further."

Dorothy frowned slightly. "Make it quick!"

"Yes!" Uriel replied respectfully. "Other than that, we found the trace of the man you were searching for in the process of finding ways to unseal the star token."

Hearing that, Dorothy's heartbeat went rapid, and her grip on the phone grew stronger.

"Where is he?" she asked in a deep voice.

Ever since she was reborn, she had been on the battlefield, roaming between countries just to find that man!

However, five years had passed, and there had been no news about him.

The man was as handsome as a god and as decisive as an emperor, yet he was willing to soften his edges in front of her.

He was the same man who claimed that he didn't have a crush on her and was stubborn and arrogant, yet he had secretly learned how to act cute just for her.

He wanted to stay by her side all the time but was worried that she would get tired of him.

A tender smile crept up on the corners of Dorothy's eyes, and her lips gently curved, revealing a warmth that she did not even notice.

Uriel, on the other end of the phone, couldn't see Dorothy's expression, but he could feel her excitement hidden in her words.

"Our people found clues about him in Imperial College."

Dorothy's expression changed slightly.

It seemed that she must visit the Imperial College then.

Just as Dorothy was thinking about it, Uriel spoke again, "Dorothy, Thomas and Howard are gathering all their forces to challenge you tomorrow.

"On top of that, Howard's father, Donald Sherratt, also took a leave from the Ministry of Defence and is rushing back to the Sherratt family.

"However, he doesn't seem to know your identity."

Dorothy wasn't surprised, even unbothered. She said faintly, "Okay, I got it."

She would not harm Donald as long as he didn't interfere.

However, if he stepped in, she wouldn't show him any mercy, even if he was a Senior Colonel.

In Frederick's ward.

Elizabeth couldn't help but burst into tears when she saw Frederick on the hospital bed, whose face was pale.

She rushed to the bedside and caressed Frederick's face with trembling hands. She turned to look at Dorothy and tried her best to calm down as she asked, "What happened to Frederick?"

Dorothy briefly described the whole incident.

Elizabeth's eyes turned red after hearing the incident.

She looked at Frederick with pity and guilt.

"Frederick is her grandson! Why is she so vicious? How could she do such a thing?"

"Frederick is still so young, and yet she allowed those people to drain his blood. She clearly wants him to die..."

Dorothy hugged Elizabeth's trembling shoulders and patted her gently.

She comforted her in a soft voice, "Mom, Frederick will recover after resting for a while. Don't worry."

Elizabeth wiped her tears and calmed down after quite some time.

She nodded and went to the bathroom.

She took out her old phone, and a trace of cruelty flashed in her eyes.

Dorothy and Frederick were her limit. No one could harm them!

Since Mrs. Clark and Howard wanted her dead, she would drag them to hell even if she had to die!

Then, she seemed to have made a great decision and dialed a number.

Send Gift

Comments