Chapter 431

431-The Shy B*stard.

"Thank you so much for coming," I said to Marko when rolling into the car.

"Is everything alright? You look kind of worried." He asked, attempting to hit the road after he realized it was an emergency. I don't know why my mind thought it was the right time to pay Corbin a visit, but I knew he would be harassing Janet in the morning until he made her accept him, and I will not let it happen.

"I have a friend to save," I whispered, rubbing my palms together, and looked outside the window. Marko was thirty- five, with black hair and hazel eyes. He was a heavy built man with a genuine nature.

"You are headed to the alpha king's mansion?" He then asked after realizing the address would take me directly to the devil' s den.

"He has the answers to my questions." I was being vague, trying to understand Corbin's game. When I punished his father, I noticed Corbin didn't interrupt. It surprised me until he started acting up. He was the type who knew his intervention would get him in trouble, so he waited until he was in power, and now he was taking revenge left and right.

"I will come inside with you." Marko offered his help, fixing the rearview mirror to steal a glance at me, "And no, I am not saying this because I think you are weak; I am being realistic. You will need a werewolf by your side. Although, I don't know how much I can fight him, I can always distract him." He sounded genuine with his help. But I refused to drag more people into my mess.

"It is alright. Can you wait outside only?" I asked, and after a brief pause, he nodded.

"I genuinely appreciate your help. I do. But I think it is better that I don't make him think we are ambushing him," I stated again to explain the situation to him. It was nice to have someone by my side.

432-Pushed Me Down

I felt a weird, bitter taste in my mouth even when the drug was injected into my neck. Corbin was still holding me by my arms when he pulled me over his chest to support my body and keep it from falling. His scent filled my nostrils, and my muscles contracted.

He drew his face into my neck and whispered, “I realized chasing after a she-wolf is just a fool’s errand. My father did it, and look where it got him. So I will do what will promise me a long, lasting, and powerful life, And while doing so, I will need your help,” he said, pulling his head away from me and then smirking.

I realized I was no longer feeling drowsy. It was so scary when I realized my head was instantly back in the right place.

“I am sorry, but some triggering needs to be done,” he whispered, and then I watched him push me back. Everything was happening in such a scary way that my world turned slowly for a moment. I watched him slowly push me down, and my body fell back. The space between us grew as I went down. My body slammed against the hard surface, and that’s when I felt the pain. A striking pain ran from my head to my entire body, and tears streamed down my cheeks. My body was hurting; my sight was turning blurry, but I kept my eyes on the top of the staircase.

Corbin stood there with a smile on his lips, and then he gestured at his guard for something. Soon I found my body getting dragged out of the mansion brutally. I wanted to whimper and let out a cry, but there was no use. I couldn’t let out a s*b. I lost a lot of blood after hitting my head.

The guard left me on the side of the road and went back inside. I moved a muscle, fighting to get up, when I heard footsteps approaching me.

433-Coming Inside.

"You didn't answer me," I repeated my question and waited for him to respond to me. He looked a little lost before he rolled his eyes at me to dismiss my emotions.

"It wasn't Val! I mean, it was her, but it was some office work," he said to himself in the same sentence and then walked past me to rush into the mansion.

"Sorry! I forgot you are —," he said, stopping just as he was about to enter and turned to offer me his hand. I stared at his hand for a second before I didn't accept it and strolled past him to the inside. I know he was busy somewhere, but that he didn't even care about me as his friend had surprised me a lot.

Although there were no expectations left after that night, I was willing to stay silent until I found a way out of this town. Maybe I can try to leave with Oswin. I remember he had told me that he could offer one person the chance to live as a rogue with him, and Corbin might not be able to do anything about it because Oswin was a fighter, a hero now.

"Why don't you rest a bit while I make a quick run to the office?" Lazlo helped me settle down in the bed first before sliding in the request. He sounded very low when talking about leaving this time. I noticed how he avoided eye contact and kept rubbing his hands.

"You have work to do at this time." I frowned, watching him nod his head instead of answering me with words.

"You think you will be fine?" he asked, focusing on the blanket more than me.

434-F*cking Her Hard Behind My Back.

My heart dropped in my chest the instant I realized what was going on. Obviously, there was no electricity, so I had to take the stairs and run like crazy with such a high fever and low energy. And now I was standing in front of the room, where I could only imagine what I was going to find. With my heart beating in my temples and my eyes forming tears, I gently pushed the door open to see what I once went through with Maynard.

"Ah! F*ck!" Valerie was completely naked and moaning and grunting while Lazlo was doing her from the back. He was completely naked and not caring about all the other issues happening in his pack.

"F*ck! I love how your body makes me kee—p going," Lazlo moaned, running his hand under her chest and rubbing my boobs, bouncing in the air.

She was on her fours, enjoying his d*ck going in and out of her. For a few seconds, I felt like my world was crumbling and the walls were closing on me. I couldn't understand how I could come back to the same moment years later with a different mate.

"I love you so much, Lazlo," Valerie groaned when he flipped her around and threw her back on the matters, getting between her legs to f*ck her again.

"There is an iss—ue," I whispered, and Valerie lifted her face to the side to look at me.

“Oh!” She gasped and crawled away from Lazlo, grabbing the sheet from the side and running it over her body. Lazlo seemed lost for a moment before he turned around and stared at me dead in the eye. His lips parted, and then his jaw met the floor.

435 Who Slept With Whom?

I knew it was going to be pretty rough now that Maynard was also coming here. Lazlo hung up the call and turned to us, making brief eye contact with me before turning to Valerie.

“Christina and Maynard are coming over. Wear the coat and everything, babe,” he said to her right in front of me. As if my world has not been shaken up enough already, now he is giving her loving titles.

“Babe? You have no shame left in you?” I argued with him, enraged at him because he gave me such a hard time when he found me with Maynard. He knew he had already been in another relationship for two years, yet he couldn't accept getting cheated on.

“I don't have time for this, Enya. I see a serious issue going on, so let's keep this topic for later,” he grunted, pointing his finger in my face to silence me.

"I came here to tell you about that serious issue, so don't show me this attitude that you care and I don't." I raised my voice, and the finger he was pointing at my face joined his other fingers to form a fist. He stared me dead in the eye before Valerie approached him and pulled his hand down.

"We can talk about this later. We have to get ready for whatever is coming." She whispered, stealing eyes from me because how can she look me in the eye anymore?

I was getting angrier with every passing minute. I stood in the hallway while Lazlo helped her put on socks and basically all her articles of clothing in front of me.

"What is going on here?" Maynard stepped away from Lazlo and asked him in a most exhausted tone.

“Nothing. She just found out that Valerie and I—,” Lazlo rolled his eyes, but stole them from me. He sneakily turned to the side and ran his hands over his face.

“Wait!” I let out a little uncomfortable laugh when noticing Maynard’s reaction. “You knew about them?” I asked, shocked at the fact that they had hidden it from me so perfectly.

“It is not that big of a deal. An alpha can love as many mates as he wants.” Christina stepped ahead to defend her so-called brother Lazlo. I stared at them one by one, and all I could see were guilty faces.

“Yet you were upset that your alpha mate is still in love with me.” I rolled my eyes when I mocked her for being biased.

They looked like they knew what they did was messed up, but they just didn’t give a sh*t.

“So, he is your mate?” I asked, learning everything from others. I wanted to know what Lazlo had with Valerie.

“Chosen mate!” Maynard said, twisting his face away when he watched me tilt my head and deepen my eye contact with him.

437-Hand On Her Thigh.

I didn't stay awake for the rest of the car ride. I hated the fact that I have become so weak that a little head bump and I passed out like nothing.

I woke up hours later in my mansion instead. They had taken me home after treating my wounds. Sadly, they couldn't give me vampire blood back to back. The night was still a mystery, and I couldn't seem to rest until I finally figured out what happened.

When getting out of bed, I ambled my way into the bathroom and took a quick shower before slipping into a black dress and walking out of the room to look for anyone who can inform me what is going on.

"I don't understand what all that was about." Lazlo's voice was coming from the living room, so I peered inside and found everybody presents there. By everybody, I mean including Corbin.

"I think it was just a bad night, and we shouldn't think too much into it," Corbin sighed, looking all comfortable. What if he was behind all this mess?

"I think he is right," Christina agreed with him, shrugging her shoulders and cherishing the tea. Lazlo was shamelessly sitting with Valerie, with his hand on her thigh.

"That was not a nightmare. It happened. We cannot look away from it." avoiding personal grudges, I walked out to be in their sight. Corbin passed me a quick glance and smirked at the wounds I had been inflicted with last night.

"That surely was a nightmare for you," Corbin commented in a sneaky tone. "Oh! And by the way, congratulations on your new chosen mate. When is the mating ceremony?" he purposely turned to Lazlo. I kind of got the idea that Lazlo made the announcement of accepting Valeria after last night.

438-Oh! Welcome Back, My Love!

"Janet!" I sighed, calling from far away.

"I can't hear you properly," she complained, and that's when Corbin pulled the phone near his mouth.

"Ah! My beloved Luna Queen!" His greeting compelled her to let out a gasp. "I love every time you react so explosively when you hear me call you my queen," he smirked, walking around the couch and sparing a quick stare at everyone present.

These people wouldn't care about Janet or Thiago's pack. I knew that much for sure. I was the only one worried about what he had planned for her, because I knew d*mn well he wasn't in love with her.

yelled from the other side, grunting at him as she asked to know about me.

"She is fine. I have come by her pack to invite her to the big celebration today," he said, leaning over the couch from behind and staring me in the eye.

"You want to celebrate this forced marking?" She said from the other side, scoffing at him, "Sure! Let's do that at my pack then," she challenged him rather than requested.

“Fine. I would very much love it,” Corbin mumbled with a smile on his lips.

“Enya! please come over today.” She said before, not even waiting for Corbin to return my phone. She had hung up on him while he pouted like an innocent and genuine mate.

I couldn’t tell what was going on. For a few seconds, I really thought I was still passed out in the hospital and probably dreaming about this moment. The others didn’t move a single muscle too.

“Thiago!” I whispered, watching him stand under the gazebo in a black suit, looking devilishly handsome. I promise I had never seen a sight so intriguing in my life before.

I took slow strides to reach the others and stand shoulder to shoulder with them.

Thiago looked around until his eyes landed on me, and he narrowed them. I

Before I could process everything and run for him, a girl walked out from behind him.

The beautiful girl with chocolate skin and hazel eyes smiled as she stood beside Thiago.

Something didn't seem right, so I couldn't run into his arms despite my utmost desperation.

"Everyone meet Kellice! She is very special to me," he whispered, letting her hold his hand and wrap her fingers around his.

It was as if I died right there. Thiago faked a smile, clearly a very forced one, before he nodded to himself and then turned to us.

"I am not the one who gives big, explosive lectures, so why doesn't everyone start enjoying food?" He clapped his hands and spoke proudly.

Everybody cheered for him. I could tell they have not been this happy in the last two years.

440-He Is Not Our Thiago!

We have walked away from Thiago after he walked away to call Janet for me. I couldn't process the whole thing. It was as if I came out of one nightmare and entered another one.

"It is his Lycan, so basically he is our enemy," Lazlo claimed as soon as we gathered around in the parking lot.

"I agree with you. He is worse than Corbin for us," Maynard agreed instantly with Lazlo. The girls were silently watching their alphas walk back and forth aggressively.

"Perhaps for you," I interrupted the two, who came to a halt and looked at me.

"What are you trying to say?" Maynard was the one who raised that question.

He briskly came even closer, standing beside me with his hands in his pants and hunching over me.

"Corbin has been friends with you all, but to me, he has done so much that I cannot see him as any less than my worst enemy. Of course, you wouldn't know since you guys have life of your own, which I am not even a part of.

As for Thiago, he means a lot to me. He has done way more for me than anybody has ever done," I said without breaking my posture.

"Theo too? Theo stole Thiago from you. He is a Lycan, he is a monster,"

Maynard argued while Lazlo was staring at my face in shock.
