

My Mates 458

Chapter 458-No Pain, No Gain

"That's worrisome," I mumbled, stroking my chin and sitting on the bench for the last few minutes. After Kellice told me the mother witch had gone missing, I couldn't help but connect the dots between the disappearances.

"You seem too distraught over her disappearance. Is there anything we should know about?" Kellice asked, standing in front of me.

"My brother is missing too," I whispered. "The two of them were the only ones trying to help me during the time when I was in misery," I said, and I raised my head to watch Kellice look a little more worried this time.

"So somebody is only kidnapping those who love and care for you?" Kellice nodded as she realized it was all about me.

"I better hire guards," said Theo, who had no clue when to joke. He rubbed his arms over his biceps and pretended to be afraid.

"Don't worry. No fool would want to kidnap a nuisance like you," Kellice said as she stepped back.

"How about we make a list of people who can gain from hurting Enya?" Kellice said, grabbing a little notepad from her purse and clicking her pen to work.

"Alpha King Corbin," I shrugged as his name appeared first in my mind, "but what is he going to gain by hurting me? It is not like I am on his way to anything," I frowned, as it didn't make any sense.

"Oh! And Valerie maybe, but—," I paused when I gave it a thought, "not anymore. I left Lazlo for her, so why would she want to hurt me?" My shoulders slouched once again as another name left the list of people who could gain something by hurting me.

who said her name. "She hates you because her mate claims to love you." I admired how Theo was careful with his words. He wasn't too sure himself if Enya's mother. What was her name again?" Theo snapped his fingers, making us silently watch tried to make it seem like she was on good terms with me, that didn't last for too long as she any sort of help," I find out what is going on with this get your wolf back, which you should have had when Theo arrived," she frowned at her own words, "I don't understand why your wolf didn't wake up." She tilted that magic, I accidentally put my wolf into a deep slumber?" I your wolf was supposed to wake up when Theo came back. It is like something is holding Nia back." She let out a challenge Corbin for the crown," Theo mumbled, playing with him and

I am only here for one of you," he said as he

she kept looking we can get Enya's wolf back." It was then that Kellice snapped her fingers and what she was up to, but it that a plan was being

Kellice's vision.

get her wolf. No need to be all defensive," Kellice complained when Theo didn't step aside and reveal me to have discussed any plans you make about Enya first. I am not letting you just initiate a plan without explaining anything to me," Theo stubbornly stood there, refusing to walk