

My Rebirth 308

Chapter 308

In the principal's office, the dean of the Traditional Medicine Department and the dean of the Physics Department, as well as Howard, the professor, were present.

When Edward saw Cassandra coming, he greeted her warmly. Because she got Lucas and Kenneth as backups. If these two people were unhappy at any time, the university might be in danger.

Although Juset University was a first-class university, it was short of money. There were too many professors and classmates engaged in scientific research, which needed money.

The university counted on Lucas, the government education allocation, and Kenneth for money. If they were unwilling to donate money, what would the university do?

"Cassandra, here you are." Edward's flattering smile made Cassandra a little scared.

She dodged expressionlessly and said in a respectful tone, "Mr. Huddleston, what can I do for you?"

Edward then remembered his business.

He said in a low voice, "Here's the thing. The Board of Regents has discussed it. A talent like you can stay in our university. I know there will be better offers outside. But we want you to be a distinguished professor in the Physics Department here. We will guarantee you a doctoral diploma so that you can teach students."

Then he pondered for a moment and continued, "As for the Traditional Medicine. Department, are you qualified to practice medicine?"

With such excellent grades, she must have medical qualifications.

“Yes, what’s wrong?”

She also had a certificate of appointment from the Traditional Medicine Alliance.

“Then we will also award you a graduation diploma as a traditional medicine practitioner. You can choose to continue your studies or be a teacher.”

In Howard’s words, if a talent like her left the university, it would be a great loss for them.

Cassandra was stunned. What were they going to do?

“I don’t understand, Mr. Huddleston. Why did you give me such a great offer?”

“Here’s the thing. According to your current grades, all the teachers have told me that they are not qualified to teach you, so I can only let you graduate in advance. Professor Kaptur said that you are talented in physics, plus you are Elaine, so it’s perfectly acceptable for you to work at Juset University.” Edward looked at Cassandra with a smile.

He believed it was a wonderful idea.

Cassandra didn’t know what to say.

“Cassandra, what do you think?” Edward asked.

Howard walked up to Cassandra and pretended to be angry. “Cassandra, you are a bad girl. You lied to me that you were a student. I didn’t expect that you were Elaine. And you came here to learn physics for the research equipment of physics?”

Although Clusia only had one set of equipment, she could have any equipment if she wanted.

Why did she lie to him?

Cassandra looked at Howard and said apologetically, "I didn't mean to hide it. In the past, I studied for some purpose. Later, when I came back from abroad, I just wanted to keep a low profile. Unexpectedly... Things became like this."

In her previous life, to return to the Yates family as a good girl, she hid all her identities. After she lived once and cut off contact with the Yates family, she then realized that what she had before was hers. Why did she hide it?

In the future, except for hiding Faye's identity, she would not hide anything.

"I don't care about the process. Think about what Mr. Huddleston said and be my colleague?" Howard came to the office simply to persuade Cassandra, or he would not be here.

Cassandra looked at Edward and said, "That's it. I will have two classes a month in the name of Elaine. For the rest of the time, I am free." She paused and seemed to be thinking about the things in the Traditional Medicine Department. "As for traditional medicine, I will participate in all activities that I can attend. I won't go to class anymore. But I will attend all the exams. There is no need for me to graduate without exams."

She wanted to study traditional medicine as a practitioner, and she also wanted to go further on this road with people who liked traditional medicine. After graduation, her dream would be out of the question.

For her, the identity of being a teacher or a student wouldn't affect her pursuing her dreams.

"That's okay. You can take the classes in the Traditional Medicine Department as you like in the future, and no one will restrict you." The result was quite satisfactory.

She couldn't ask for more.

The dean of the Traditional Medicine Department felt sorry for Cassandra and even wanted to fight for it. However, if she didn't graduate directly, she would be a mouthpiece for the department in the future. Perhaps more students majoring in traditional medicine could be recruited next year.

The dean of the Physics Department came here today not to discuss Cassandra's courses, but to make a handover with Howard. He was transferred to another department and was no longer in charge of physics.

She was responsible for the whole Emma thing. She made a matter that had long been settled become what it was now and made two classmates turn against each other and become enemies, so she should pay for what she did.

After Cassandra left the office, she found that Cassidy and Sofia were waiting for her.

"Cassandra, what did Mr. Huddleston say?" Sofia couldn't help gossiping.

"Nothing. It's just about my studies," Cassandra didn't say anything more. If she said those things, others may have thought she was showing off, so she did not intend to make it clear. There would be opportunities in the future.

"Well, I think you are wasted in Juset University, no matter as a student or a professor," Sofia couldn't help but mutter.

Cassidy couldn't help but roll her eyes. "Sofia, you are exaggerating."

Sofia thought that Cassidy would say something insulting, but on the contrary, she said, "Shouldn't it be better for Cassandra to become a professor here? At least we can see her every day."

Sofia was speechless.

Who was exactly Cassandra's fan?

Cassandra didn't know what to say.

"Aren't you the same?" Sofia couldn't help but talk back.

"All right, let's go to dinner." As soon as Cassandra finished speaking, a phone call came in. She saw the name on her phone and smiled gently.

"Is the class over? I'm here to take you home for dinner," Kenneth's beautiful voice sounded in her ear, and Cassandra looked happy.

Seeing this, Sofia couldn't help but roll her eyes.

"I'm done. Are you coming to pick me up now?" Cassandra asked.

"Well, Kenneth, you're being unkind. Our idol just promised to have dinner with us." When Sofia heard that someone was coming to pick up Cassandra, she knew it was Kenneth.

Because Cassandra had never smiled so much when she answered other people's phone calls.

Cassandra laughed, and when Kenneth heard her laughter, he felt sunshine around him.

"Then let's have dinner together. I'll take another car to pick you and your classmate up for a fancy meal. It is on me."

They were Cassandra's classmates and friends. Cassandra had few friends in the university after all.

He hoped that Cassandra could enjoy her life at university instead of just studying.

Sofia heard it and shouted,

“Great!”

It was Kenneth’s treat. They had to eat expensive food.

“Then we’ll wait for you...”
