

My Rebirth 310

Chapter 310

It didn't take long before the waiter arrived.

“Hello, I'm here to serve you...”

Suddenly, the voice stopped abruptly. The waiter looked up and stared at Cassandra with wide eyes.

His eyes dodged, and he even wanted to flee the scene immediately.

Cassandra also felt a little unbelievable. Why did Matthew work here as a waiter?

Matthew couldn't help but glance away, not daring to look at Cassandra in his eyes.

Sofia sensed something was wrong. She glanced at the waiter and suddenly got angry. She stood up all of a sudden and said, “Well, isn't this Matthew from the Yates family? Since when did you become a waiter?”

She wanted to vent her anger a long time ago, but she couldn't find any chance.

It was them who made Cassandra's childhood unhappy, and they also made Cassandra return home to be tortured.

She didn't expect that they were still alive after such a long time.

Why? That was unfair.

Matthew looked embarrassed, but he didn't dare to leave. If there was any mistake in serving dishes, the money would be deducted, and if there were any complaints, the money would also be deducted. Now what he needed most was money, so he couldn't leave.

He forced a smile and said, "Dear guests, I'll serve you the dishes now."

Sofia stopped him and said sarcastically, "Mr. Yates, why don't you say hello to your acquaintance?"

She looked at Cassandra and then Matthew. "Why do you forget your sister so soon?" She suddenly nodded seriously. "You're right. The Yates family is dying, while Cassie is getting better and better. You don't deserve to greet her."

s eyes word erratic, and there was a trace of sadness in his eyes. He said, "Miss, I don't seem to know you. Please let me do my job. Some dishes will taste worse when they get cold."

Cassandra didn't look up at Matthew from beginning to end, except that she was sure it was him.

"Sofia, don't let others ruin our day," Cassandra spoke in a deep voice..

Sofia sat down reluctantly. "Cassandra, how can you let them go so easily? They are just a bunch of assholes who bully you. If you don't fight back now, you'll regret it later."

She thought, 'Is Cassandra becoming soft-hearted?'

No, this kind of person didn't deserve sympathy.

Cassandra chuckled and said softly, "I'm not a child of their family. They don't have to pay for my past. I've been in the Yates family for two months, and I've taken r revenge on them all. The Yates family has nothing to do with me now."

They were not the real cause of her childhood tragedy. Except for Yulissa, who was still alive, they were lucky to live so long.

The whole family experienced falling into ruin, and it was their fault.

Didn't they use to be bossy and look down on waiters? Now Matthew had become a waiter himself.

Sofia was a little shocked, and her tone suddenly rose. "Aren't you their child?"

She looked at Cassandra and then Matthew. It seemed that Cassandra made sense. Cassandra was so excellent, and the people in the Yates family only looked smart. They were just idiots. Otherwise, how could they be fooled by Yulissa?

Fortunately, Cassandra had nothing to do with the Yates family. "But it's true. The Yates family can't have such an excellent child."

Cassidy was also shocked and said in a sarcastic tone, "No wonder I don't think you look like people in their family. On the contrary, Yulissa did. Fortunately, you escaped from that family. Otherwise, you will be miserable."

Matthew was so embarrassed that he could only serve the dishes silently. After they were served, Matthew bowed and said, "Wish everyone a happy meal."

Then he left the room and closed his eyes in despair.

Now Cassandra was too high to reach for them, no matter whether she appeared as Samantha or Elaine.

The six brothers of the Yates family were banned, and they were blacklisted in various industries. No one would hire them.

In the future, they would have to stay at the bottom forever.

All his savings had disappeared, and he couldn't get them back even if he called the police.

Matthew and Yohannes were the only healthy ones. Frederick was healthy, but he had gone mad.

Matthew and Yohannes had six people to feed, and the burden of living was already overwhelming him.

Unexpectedly, he met Cassandra today. She was still dull, but bright and touching. And her brothers had become nobody.

She deserved better.

In the past, they thought Cassandra was not worthy of being their sister. Now, they were not to be Cassandra's brothers.

Thinking of this, he shed tears.

Except for the unhappy encounter with Matthew, Sofia was still unhappy about this meal.

Therefore, when Kenneth went to pay the bill, she and Cassidy found the manager and complained about Matthew.

Although Matthew was no longer Cassandra's family, as long as she thought of how they treated Cassandra, she would be angry. If she didn't do something, she would regret it.

After dinner, Cassandra wanted to go back to the dormitory with them. Kenneth had no choice but to send them there.

He had thought that he could spend a short time with Cassandra, but...

After arriving at the university, Sofia drove Cassidy to run fast, leaving Kenneth and Cassandra in the car. He narrowed his eyes slightly.

He thought, 'Well, they are wise girls. I can have two more friends like them.'

They were to create a space for him and Cassandra.

"Cassie, you seemed to be a little unhappy tonight." He held back this sentence for a long time. It was not easy for him to find a chance to talk to her.

"Not that bad. It must be unhappy to see someone I don't want to see. I'm not a saint. I have feelings." Cassandra felt that she had been able to control her emotions well in the past. Now, when she saw those people, she seemed to have changed.

All the feelings would be written on her face.

"Yeah, you're right." Kenneth nodded in agreement. "Since when you see him, your will be unhappy. We can let him disappear from now on."

Cassandra shook her head. "No, it's not a tragedy if they aren't on the brink of collapse, and they haven't completely broken up."

Kenneth looked at Cassandra in confusion and wondered what she might be again. He was kind of looking forward to it.

“What are you going to do?”

“Of course, I want to intensify the conflict.”

up to

She had been staying in Zosteylor for some time, and she completely forgot about them. After a few days of comfortable life, it was time to continue the revenge.

And Yulissa was still there.

If things didn't end up that ugly in her previous life, she could have saved Yulissa for the sake of not being her biological sister. Now she just wanted to speed up Yulissa's death.