

My Rebirth 411

Chapter 411

“Hahaha.” The group of people were attracted by a burst of laughter. Who was so ignorant and laughing at this moment?

However, the tattooed man bent down respectfully and put away his gun.

The laughter should be from his boss.

“Dr. Quirke is really courageous. You maintain your integrity in the face of so many people. You are bold.”

Dominic Jensen looked smarter and more capable than Simon, but he was also more courageous.

Dominic and Zack both wore a string of beads around their wrists. They looked like sincere believers.

He made a somewhat conventional bow to Cassandra.

Cassandra nodded slightly and responded in a cold voice, “Mr. Jensen, you do not exhibit good hospitality. I find it truly repulsive.””

Julius had just now revealed to her in a low voice that his last name was Jensen.

Dominic was not annoyed at Cassandra’s words. Instead, he appreciated it very much.

“Dr. Quirke, would you like to have a cup of coffee with us?” Dominic laughed. “Of course, Mr. Linton and this gentleman are welcome too.”

Cassandra and Kenneth looked at each other, and Kenneth nodded.

Kenneth let his guard down and quietly took out his phone to send a message to Eddie.

Eddie immediately asked his superiors whether to arrest Dominic and was told immediately:
[Plainclothesmen are on that street. Just give them a chance.]

The tattooed man led them into a nice cafe before guarding the door. No one was allowed to enter.

“Dr. Quirke, you can order whatever you want.” Dominic made a gesture of invitation.

“Honey, you go ahead,” Cassandra gave Kenneth the menu and spoke in a soft voice, quite different from the icy one from earlier.

Kenneth almost dropped the menu out of excitement. This was the first time she called him “honey”.

If it weren't for the wrong time and place, he would do something to her to show his affection.

Cassandra felt a little embarrassed as well. She didn't know why she spat it out just like that, although they were pretending to be in a relationship.

Dominic looked at Faye with interest. “You brought your boyfriend when you traveled to treat patients?”

Cassandra snorted coldly before saying proudly, “He is my new boyfriend.”

Kenneth was speechless.

Cassandra was now getting better at making fun of herself.

Julius didn't know what to do at this point, so all he could do was hope Simon would arrive soon to save Faye.

Dominic was stunned for a moment, but he also understood that successful people had special hobbies...

Kenneth deliberately ordered a cup of coffee with a cold face. Cassandra said cheerfully, "I would like his kind of coffee."

She looked at Dominic and came straight to the point, "What can I do for you, Mr. Jensen?"

Dominic became serious and said, "Dr. Quirke, I don't want you to treat Simon. Can you understand what I mean?"

"I don't understand. Just tell me."

"Simon and I share the biggest market in Hydias, and our businesses are comparable. We are deadly rivals. But he did get in touch with a drug dealer from Atharia. In a few days, if they can come to a cooperative agreement, he will have the upper hand. So, I don't want you to cure him.

Dominic assumed that Simon would deteriorate rapidly within six months without Faye's treatment and eventually die. By then, he would dominate the whole drug business in Hydias!

"I don't interfere in anyone's business, especially my client's business. I just treat my patients. You should handle whatever is between you two on your own," Cassandra said. This was a refusal.

They would be busted anyway for what they did.

"Dr. Quirke, you are treating him for money. Just tell me an amount and I'll double it, Dominic said with great generosity.

Faye did this for money. Dominic knew exactly how much Simon could afford to her.

“Simon offered me 800,000 thousand dollars. You will offer me the same amount, plus 50% of that. What do you say?” Cassandra said.

Dominic was in disbelief to hear that. No way? Simon was such a mean person. He knew better than anyone that Simon wouldn't make such a big financial offer “That's impossible.” Dominic didn't believe it.

Now their coffee was served. Dominic turned around and said something to his man. Cassandra took the opportunity to flick a small pellet in her hand into Dominic's cup. There was no splash because the pellet was so small.

Cassandra felt lucky. Fortunately, it was coffee without flowers. Otherwise, it would be easy to find out.

Kenneth noticed it, though. They took a sip of coffee quietly.

Dominic noticed their movements after he had finished speaking. Taking up coffee, he gestured to Cassandra before taking a sip.

Cassandra gently smiled. “I have my principles, Mr. Jensen. Since I've taken charge. of this, I won't easily stop treating Simon as long as he doesn't cross my bottom. line.”

“Well said!” a loud voice sounded outside, along with a commotion. The tattooed man wanted to stop Simon from coming in but didn't succeed.

Simon walked in bravely and sat near Cassandra. “I didn't expect you to be so principled, Dr. Quirke.”

Cassandra was speechless.

“Dominic, I invited Dr. Quirke to come here.” That’s not nice of you to have poached her this way!” Simon angrily looked at Dominic, very dissatisfied with his behavior.

“Dr. Quirke should go to whoever offers the highest price, isn’t that right?” Dominic was surprised by Simon’s sudden appearance. He seemed to genuinely care about his condition!

Dominic smiled proudly, taking another sip of coffee. It tasted good today.

“You are talking nonsense!”

“You are talking nonsense!” Simon yelled, slapping the table.

“You’d better behave yourself. I invited Dr. Quirke first. Don’t you dare try to poach him again!” Simon warned him.

Kenneth was fiddling with his phone. His current identity was Faye’s new love, and he didn’t participate in such negotiations between “big shots”.

Simon didn’t bother talking to him further but turned to Cassandra and said, “Dr. Quirke, let’s get out of here.”

Cassandra got up and headed to the door behind Simon, who abruptly paused and said gloatingly, “Dominic, don’t you notice many plainclothesmen around here? I think they came for you because you came out alone today. They will not miss this opportunity.”

Chapter 412

Dominic smiled contemptuously. “Do you think I will take them seriously?”

These people had been hunting him for so long, but they couldn't catch him. There would be no exception this time.

Simon glanced at Dominic with a cold face without saying anything more. However, he did hope that Dominic would be arrested so that he could dominate all the drug business in Hydias.

After Simon left, Dominic looked at their backs solemnly and coldly told the tattooed man, "Get out of here now."

However, his feet went weak when he was about to leave, and he fell directly to the floor. His entire body was weak. The tattooed man was terrified and hurriedly shouted, "Mr. Jensen, what's wrong?"

Fl..."

"Don't move!" A group of plainclothesmen with guns surrounded them. Some other plainclothesmen also appeared from inside the store.

The tattooed man was furious. He pulled out his gun and tried to fight the plainclothesmen! "Don't come any closer!"

The leader among plainclothesmen shouted harshly, "Put down the gun. Otherwise, we will shoot!"

The tattooed man snorted coldly, "You should put down your guns!"

"Surrender now! Your boss can't escape anymore!" Dominic was immobile on the floor.

The tattooed man turned to look at his boss and found themselves in a difficult situation. "From now on, he is not my boss. Go ahead. Take him away if you want to arrest him. I haven't done anything wrong. Isn't it inappropriate for you to point guns at me?"

Dominic couldn't believe what he had just heard and yelled, "Y-You bastard!"

The commander of the plainclothesmen was caught in a difficult situation, unable to think of a way to break the standstill. Suddenly, the tattooed man was shot in the hand!

It suddenly became chaotic, and the plainclothesmen immediately took action to control all these people!

It was a huge victory even though there were only 14 people total, Dominic included. Most significantly, Dominic—the person they had been spying on for a year was finally taken into custody.

The evidence of Dominic's criminal conduct had already been gathered. As long as Dominic was arrested, he could be sent to court immediately and convicted!

When Dominic was taken away, he was unwilling to accept it, his eyes menacing.

He was still baffled as to what had gone wrong to render him immobile.

He could have escaped, but now he had to watch himself taken away, and that was worse than death!

*****

Simon returned to the village and said to Cassandra apologetically, "Dr. Quirke, I'm sorry about what happened tonight. Because of me, you..."

"It's okay. You came to rescue me," Cassandra said, but she still looked unhappy, so Simon thought that she was still a little angry.

“I was negligent this time.” Simon paused and added, “Dr. Quirke, please don’t go outside recently. Otherwise, I am afraid this might happen again.”

“Are you going to hold me here?” Cassandra looked cold and irritated.

“I have important meetings in a few days. I hope you can understand me,” Simon uttered.

Cassandra looked at Kenneth who nodded and said reluctantly, “Fine.”

Simon looked at Kenneth and Cassandra in surprise. He thought, ‘Why have they switched positions after a tour outdoors?’

After Cassandra and the others returned to their rooms, Simon asked Julius seriously, “What happened today?”

Julius told him that Faye took Kenneth to the hotel, including the noise of knocking on the wall from time to time.

Although the hotel room was soundproof, the knocking on the wall was still audible.

Simon was speechless.

He didn’t expect Faye to be so open-minded.

“And then?” Simon asked.

“That man didn’t seem the same after leaving the hotel. He and Dr. Quirke went to the street where the business was open to chill out. But soon after we got here, we were surrounded by performers. That guy was a little nervous... Then we ran into Dominic’s men.”

Simon nodded, what Julius said was close to what he had learned. It seemed that Julius didn't lie.

"I appreciate all of your efforts today. No one else could cure me if Dominic could successfully poach Dr. Quirke today," Simon thanked him heartily.

"That's my job." Julius nodded.

In Cassandra's room, Kenneth couldn't help but ask, "Did you drug Dominic's coffee?"

"Yep." Cassandra raised her eyebrows..

Kenneth was a little surprised. "Then he can't escape now, right?"

"Well, as long as those plainclothesmen act fast, he should have been arrested." The moment Cassandra finished speaking, Kenneth received a message from Eddie: [Dominic has been arrested.]

They both grinned simultaneously at the news. They finally have taken one down. Although it was not Simon, residents here could live in a more peaceful place with fewer drug dealers, and the police would be safer.

Meanwhile, Simon also received the news. When he learned that Dominic had been carried away via a stretcher, he was a little shocked.

What on earth was going on?

Julius said carefully, "When you were drinking coffee, I saw Dr. Quirke..."

Simon immediately walked out of the room toward Cassandra's room as Kenneth prepared to celebrate and kiss Cassandra.

With a bang, the door was opened. Kenneth held back his anger!

He cursed inwardly, 'Fuck!

Is he out of his mind? Why does he come in without knocking on the door every time?

This man interrupted me twice when I tried to kiss my girl!

"Unbelievable!

I'll make him pay when we catch him!"

"Dr. Quirke, I'm sorry to bother you again." Simon smiled awkwardly, but he was too eager to know the answer.

"What's the matter?" Cassandra looked cold.

"Dominic suddenly became immobile. I just want to know if you..."

"So, what if I did it or not?"

"If you did it, I really have to thank you!" Simon was ecstatic. He had been looking forward to this day for a long time, but he was always powerless over Dominic. When Faye finally took action, Dominic was arrested right away.

Cassandra snorted lightly, "That was just a payoff for what he has done to me. He was just out of luck." She looked at Simon. "What happened to that guy?"

Simon grew more excited as he gave it more thought. "He was arrested by the police. It's not a big deal anymore."

He thought of something and said, “Dr. Quirke, I will talk to you later!”

After saying that, he left immediately. Dominic’s business was exclusively his to handle and could not be shared with anyone else!

He immediately got Leva over and told her to take action right away.

Chapter 413

Kenneth coldly watched Simon leave and said to Cassandra indifferently, “He wants to take over all Dominic’s business.”

It was wrong.

It was destined to be a restless night. Dominic had been arrested and all his business associates would be arrested tonight.

Cassandra’s bone–softening pill would go in vain if the Falcon Special Operations. Force, the Air Force and the Marine Corps, and the Narcotics Squad in Hydias couldn’t eliminate Dominic’s lair.

That was worth a lot of money.

“Of course. Look at how excited Simon was. I guess he has been coveting Dominic’s business for long. He won’t give up this opportunity.” Cassandra stated carelessly.

She was all too familiar with the risks involved in pursuing wealth. That was to say, he would make a lot more money than others if he took advantage of this opportunity an hour sooner than others.

Besides, drugs were very profitable, and Simon wouldn’t let this chance slip away.

"I hope our men can catch Simon during this action. That will save us a lot of trouble." Kenneth liked this idea was good, but it was not plausible.

Simon wouldn't get involved in such matters in person. Otherwise, he wouldn't have sent Leva to do it.

It seemed that Leva's position was higher than Julius's.

The next day, Simon's face was gloomy. Recently, receiving treatment had been his happiest moment, but he seemed off today.

Cassandra said, "You'd better stay upbeat during my treatment. We can postpone it another time if you are not feeling well now."

Simon glared at Faye. "What did you say?"

Cassandra replied fearlessly, "I don't think I need to repeat it!"

Simon abruptly pulled a gun on Cassandra out of rage. "Do you really think highly of yourself, Dr. Quirke?"

Cassandra rolled her eyes contemptuously before sitting down on the couch. "You can shoot me. But before that, think about who will die first. Once the treatment starts, your life will be in danger unless I call it off. I can let you die at any time if you piss me off. Go ahead if you don't believe me. It's not bad to have you die with me."

Cassandra didn't think that Simon dared to shoot her. His behavior today might have been a result of him venting his anger because his actions yesterday did not go as planned.

Julius made an effort to resolve the conflict. Grinning, he moved to stand between Cassandra and the gun and uttered, "Dr. Quirke, calm down. Leva is missing. Our boss is upset today. Please forgive him."

Julius said so to tell Cassandra that Leva was missing, which meant that Leva might have been arrested.

That was why Simon was upset.

After “appeasing” Cassandra, Julius looked at Simon, put away his gun, and said, earnestly, “Dr. Quirke is our guest. She’s here to treat you. Shouldn’t we focus on the negotiation in three days now?”

Simon finally came back to his senses. He took back the pistol and said in a much kinder tone, “I’m sorry, Dr. Quirke. I didn’t mean to offend you.”

He was really too reckless just now. If he offended Dr. Quirke again, it would be a great loss for him.

Cassandra ignored Simon, not planning to continue her treatment. She just sat on the couch without looking at anyone.

Simon was filled with embarrassment but more with rage now. However, he had no way to let it out!

After around fifteen minutes, Cassandra spoke, “Simon, I want you to remember that I don’t like violence and hate people pointing guns at me. Threats are the last thing I fear. No one can threaten me. Like you guys, I always have a plan B.”

Cassandra made plan B when it came to Simon. After all, the people she had saved in the past were not as dangerous as Simon. That was why she had to take precautions when dealing with Simon.

Simon’s face darkened all of a sudden. He didn’t expect Faye to have taken precautions. Did she mean that if he accidentally killed her now, he would shortly die as well?

What a marvelous person! If she were one of us....

"I apologize for my action. Leva didn't come back like most of my men did. Some of the men lost their lives during their missions last night. I am very worried about her," Simon explained truthfully.

It was not a secret that Leva had vanished.

The whole world knew that he was a drug dealer. Why should he be bothered that Faye would find that out?

Cassandra said nothing more but took out the medicine and began to treat Simon.

When it was done, someone came in and whispered in Simon's ear, "Boss, Leva has been arrested."

Cassandra was appreciative that her ears could pick up on the whisper. Simon's face darkened, but he didn't flip out because Cassandra was present. He held back his anger and waited for her to leave.

Cassandra found it awkward to stay here longer, so she packed up her medical kit and left right away.

Inside Simon's room, he asked with a cold face, "What the hell is going on?"

"The Narcotics Squad in Hydias and Falcon Special Operations Force assisted with yesterday's operation. They were allegedly sent here while participating in a border exercise in Hydias."

The man didn't dare to say that the police were sent to arrest them. Although it was true, the boss would destroy them all if he said so.

"Damn it!" Simon angrily threw the napkin in his hand. away.

How could these bastards monitor him so closely?

In a few days, he had a meeting with a client to discuss cooperation. How was the client supposed to come how that the police had him under such close observation?

As expected, Simon received a phone call, and the person on the other end said, "Simon, I heard that your man was arrested. Is it true?"

"No, it's not true. I sent that person to be the scapegoat. Steven, our cooperation will go smoothly. You must believe me!" Simon explained calmly.

"But I heard that Dominic has been arrested." Steven's tone sounded like he refused to communicate and cooperate.

"He was arrested because Dr. Quirke drugged him for his offense and made him immobile. That was why the police arrested him. It has nothing to do with us."

"Then I'll see you in three days."

Steven was a little curious. He had heard that Simon invited Faye to treat him, but Dominic offended Faye. He wondered whether Faye had given Dominic the drug on Simon's orders or for other reasons.

However, the one who was apprehended was unfortunate!

Steven was looking forward to seeing the so-called miracle doctor in three days!

Chapter 414

Simon put on a suit and tie early in the morning three days later.

He had some important business to do today, so he had to dress up to show his sincerity.

Having been "specially treated" by Cassandra for a few days, Simon looked like he was in good spirits.

“Thank you for taking care of me these days, Dr. Quirke. I feel much better now, and I’m sure that the negotiation is gonna go well today.” Simon was also very excited and confident about the coming negotiation.

Cassandra just nodded and said, “I’ll leave since you’re going to have a negotiation. I haven’t got a chance to hang out with my boyfriend these days. Is it okay if I leave for a few hours?”

What Cassandra really wanted was to get out as soon as possible so they could take down all these people at once.

Simon was a little hesitant. He didn’t catch Faye doing anything strange except for treating her, and even Mathias didn’t see her go out or see anybody. She just did her job and that was all.

Simon thought for a while and said in a deep voice, “OK, but I have to ask someone else to follow you because the negotiation is very important and I need Julius there.” Now that Leva had been arrested, Julius had to come with Simon to make sure everything went well.

“It’s up to you,” Cassandra said indifferently. Anyway, they were all going to be arrested today, so she didn’t care who would follow her today.

The only problem was Julius might be involved in this.

It was going to be a tough day today.

Cassandra got the evidence collected by Julius and sent it to Jeremiah, which was enough to put him in jail.

Therefore, all she and Kenneth had to do was finish the job unharmed.

H

“OK, I’ll ask them to go with you,” Simon said. He asked Mathias and another person to follow Cassandra and Kenneth out.

Cassandra snorted and thought, ‘It seems that Simon trusts Mathias a lot.

However, she didn’t have to worry about that anymore.

Kenneth and Cassandra came out quickly and deliberately went to a place where there were few people. After glancing at each other, they each knocked out those who followed them without much effort.

“What are we gonna do about them?” Cassandra asked.

Kenneth took out his phone, which wasn’t the one he used in the village. He searched for a while and said in a low voice, “There’s a police station 656 feet ahead. We take them there and we leave Cassandra was very cautious. She searched Mathias in case he had a tracker or a bug.

As expected, she found a tracker.

She looked around, hailed a taxi, and paid the driver 3 thousand dollars to drive aimlessly around the city with the tracker.

He could stop every hour to rest for twenty minutes and could go to the hotel at noon to rest. All he had to do was throw the tracker in the river at night.

Hearing this, the driver was delighted, thinking, ‘What? Can I get 3 thousand dollars for driving with this tracker? I can’t even make that much money in a month! Besides, I can continue my work while doing this. That’s amazing!’

Thinking of this, the driver agreed quickly. Cassandra transferred the money to him and told him to finish the task well.

Then Cassandra and Kenneth took Mathias and the other man directly to the nearest police station.

After bringing them to the police, they left.

After going back to the hotel, Cassandra and Kenneth went to their rooms, took off their makeup, and revealed their real faces.

Just then, Julius texted them that Simon's meeting with the dru

Atharia had gone smoothly.

Everything was ready and it was their turn.

dealer from

"Let's go!"

They all went out and headed for the village.

Soon, everyone took their positions and surrounded the village.

They each knocked out a man guarding the village and gave them no chance to fight back.

Although they had taken out

They were one step closer to the center of the someone reacted quickly as many of the men guarding the village as they and blew a horn, which put Simon on his guard.

He thought, 'Damn! Someone broke in! How did that happen?'

"Hurry up and run!" Simon ran out immediately, and the people behind him were protecting the drug dealer from Atharia.

As soon as he stepped out of the gate, however, he was surrounded by Kenneth and his subordinates.

"Stop running, Simon, Steven!" Kenneth said in a cold voice.

Steven frowned, angry about being caught by the Clusian police.

What pissed him more was that Kenneth recognized him.

Steven thought for a long time and asked, "Are you Kenneth?"

Kenneth sneered and raised the gun slightly. "I haven't seen you in a while, Steven."

Steven's face darkened more. He couldn't believe that he was talking to Kenneth, who almost killed him before. Therefore, he roared at Simon, "You bastard! How could you get caught by police?"

"I didn't..." Simon didn't know what went wrong. Everything had been going well recently so he didn't know why the police showed up out of the blue.

Suddenly, he seemed to think of something. 'No, they're not the police. They are soldiers.

"They're Clusian soldiers! Damn!"

Simon looked at Kenneth and asked with a pissed look, "How did you find this place?"

"I led him here," Cassandra said in a soft voice.

Simon was sure that he had never seen Cassandra, but he had no idea how she got in.

Cassandra suddenly realized something, so she smiled and said in a male voice, "Thanks for the 1.2 billion dollars, Simon. It belongs to the state now."

Simon looked shocked because she sounded just like Faye.

"Are you Dr. Quirke?"

He didn't expect Faye to be a young woman!

He thought, 'How could it be possible?'

'Wait. She's not an ordinary woman. Is she also a soldier?'

"Are you a soldier?" Simon asked.

Cassandra shook her head and said sarcastically, "I'm not, but my little boyfriend is."

Hearing this, Eddie's mouth twitched. He thought, 'Come on, is this a game?'

Why does she call him her little boyfriend? Isn't she younger than him?"

Simon turned to look at Kenneth beside Cassandra and found him a little familiar.

'You're the boy who stole my heroin!"

Kenneth was speechless, thinking, 'Should I kill him? He talked too much!"

Eddie thought in shock, 'What? Oh my goodness, what a perfect couple.

Suddenly, Cassandra winked at Julius to suggest to him that he should leave now.

Julius took several steps back quietly, but Simon noticed it and turned around to yell at him, "What are you doing?"

Kenneth fired a shot into the air to deter them while Julius took the chance to hide. the soldiers.

Simon, who was holding his head, stood up abruptly and stared at Julius with wide.

eyes.

Chapter 415

Simon didn't expect that Julius would betray him.

"It was you who led them here!" Simon pointed at Julius.

He trusted Julius so much yet the latter helped those soldiers to arrest him.

Even Julius couldn't believe that he could get the protection of the soldiers and get rid of Simon with their help.

It was beyond his expectations.

"It's not his fault, Simon. It was you who hired Dr. Quirke to treat you. You asked for it." Cassandra said sarcastically, "Don't you know Dr. Quirke always does research on people before he treats them? I have to say you're the most suspicious among all the patients."

Simon looked irritated. He wished that he could rip Cassandra's face off.

"You son of a bitch. How dared you deceive me?"

"Ah!"

The next second, Simon let out a scream in pain.

Kenneth broke his wrist and said madly, "Watch your mouth. Don't you dare curse her!"

After saying that, Kenneth threw the burly Simon out like garbage.

Eddie waved his hand, and each of the people behind him subdued Simon's subordinates and took the guns from them. Then they put handcuffs on them and took them away.

Julius was tied to say something when he saw Simon be taken away. He looked at Kenneth and Cassandra and was pretty sure that they were Faye and the young boy, who promised him two hours alone with Simon.

He thought, 'Why are you taking him away directly?'

Kenneth noticed Julius's anxious look and realized what he was thinking, so he said. in a low voice, "Come with us!"

Overjoyed, Julius followed behind Kenneth. Just then, Eddie turned around and asked unhappily, "Who is he, Kenneth? Isn't he also a drug dealer?"

Eddie thought, I just saw him stand beside Simon. Why is he suddenly the one we have to protect?"

"He's the one Jeremiah found out." Kenneth's words surprised Eddie. He thought, "What? They don't look alike at all! I didn't recognize him just now!"

"The one who does scientific research?" Eddie wasn't sure, but Kenneth nodded at him and said yes.

They directly sent Simon and Steven to the Public Security Bureau of Hydias. They were the center of attention in this thing, so the easiest and most efficient way for them was to just send those people there.

When the director of the Public Security Bureau saw Simon, he almost burst into tears of joy because this demon who killed a lot of policemen and ruined countless families was finally arrested.

It felt like a dream.

"Thank you so much. I really appreciate that. It may take me a lot more than I expect to get him without you." It was a great thing that they caught him so soon because the longer Simon stayed at large, the greater the danger he posed to society.

"It's our job. Now you can decide yourself what to do about him." Kenneth said in a low voice, "By the way, I once promised a man a chance to get his revenge. Please give him half an hour alone with Simon and you'd better have a doctor on standby because he may need to resuscitate Simon."

The director was stunned, thinking, 'Is it a legal thing to do?'"

“He provided us with vital information and evidence for the arrest. Besides, his girlfriend and parents were killed by Simon, so please give him half an hour.” Seeing the director’s hesitant look, Kenneth had to tell him the truth.

Whoever provided vital evidence could ask for anything. Besides, Kenneth had already said yes, so he had no reason to refuse.

“OK. Just leave it to me.”

The director called the doctor immediately and sent someone to the surveillance room so that he could delete the half-hour video after this was over.

*****

Julius did everything he wanted to Simon and went out with tears all over his face.

He thought, I’ve avenged you, babe. I know as police, you wouldn’t want me to kill someone, so I just beat him up and stabbed him three times.

‘He’ll get the punishment, and he’s going to burn in hell for what he has done.’

Cassandra had mixed feelings when she saw Julius’s bloodshot eyes. He looked so lonely.

Walking the path of revenge was lonely, and one tended to feel even lonelier after the revenge was done.

If it weren’t for his girlfriend and parents, Julius might have given up long ago.

“You should have faith in the law. All you have to do now is get back to who you were and start a new life.” Kenneth couldn’t help persuading him.

He knew very well what it was like to lose someone he loved.

He thought, 'Cassie probably went through something similar in her previous life.' He had nothing in his life to care about after she died, and he would probably kill himself after avenging her.

Fortunately, Cassandra was given a second chance, which also gave him a second chance to protect her.

"I know," said Julius.

Then he looked at Cassandra and asked curiously, "Have you been treating Simon. these days? He looks pretty good."

Now everything was over. Simon was arrested and Julius could finally move on. Therefore, he was curious about what Faye had done to Simon these days.

He suspected that she was seriously treating Simon because the latter was getting better.

Cassandra said with a mysterious smile, "Of course not."

She continued, "Have you given any thought to what we should do if the mission fails? Or have you ever thought about what I should do if you were a double agent? I had a plan b because there was no way I could trust you with me and my fellow men.

"Assuming you're a double agent, I want to at least make sure my fellow men have a chance to retreat. Otherwise, what are we gonna do if you run with Simon?"

Julius was even more confused. He thought. 'Dr. Quirke's assumption is right. Trusting a drug dealer is a risky business, so she has to do plan b ahead of time.'

"You still haven't told me what treatment you've been giving Simon these past few days.

"All I can tell you is that you couldn't go far if you or someone else had run with Simon. We're ahead of schedule today and you'll see Simon in agony three hours later. He won't go anywhere."

She spent a lot to get the medicine and with ten days of continuous use, it became more effective. What she didn't expect was that Simon asked for it and told her to increase the dose.

Therefore, she had no choice but to put him in jail ahead of schedule.

It had been two hours since Simon was arrested, so in another hour, he would suffer.

This

g pain would follow him until he was shot.

Only then would the souls of the policemen who died because of him and the families he destroyed rest in peace.

Chapter 416

Julius was more curious so he decided to stay a little longer to see how painful Simon would be..

He did nothing but stab Simon three times, but the wound was so bad and it wouldn't stop bleeding.

Julius became excited at the thought of Simon in great pain.

“Really?” he asked.

What she was implying was that whether this mission succeeded or failed, Simon couldn’t go anywhere.

Even the most tenacious man couldn’t bear this kind of pain, which would surely delay his escape. In this way, they had a chance to catch up with him and capture him. He couldn’t have escaped anyway.

“Just wait for it if you don’t believe me,” Cassandra said indifferently.

That was exactly what Julius wanted. He wanted to see how Simon would end up.

Just then, Eddie walked up to Kenneth and said, “Steven wants to see you.”

Kenneth seemed to be pondering when he heard this. He glanced at Cassandra and said to Eddie, “OK.”

Kenneth went to see Steven, and Cassandra waited for him outside.

Steven sat in the interrogation room and stared with a fierce look at Kenneth, who didn’t give a damn about him. “I heard that you wanted to see me,” Kenneth said coldly.

“You don’t have the right to arrest me, Kenneth. Tell them to set me free.” In Steven’s opinion, Kenneth was as annoying as ever.

During Kenneth’s time in Atharia, he found that Steven was selling drugs, so he raided their stronghold with his fellows. If Steven hadn’t run so fast, he would have been killed by Kenneth.

He didn’t expect that he would be caught by Kenneth after so many years and that Kenneth joined the Clusian army.

That was ridiculous to him.

“I told you that I would find you and catch you, Steven. Do you think I was just kidding?” Kenneth snorted.

He thought, ‘You asked for it. You knew that I was back in Clusia yet you still came here to do business with Simon. You came to me yourself.’”

“I have to remind you that I’m Atharian and I’m going back to Atharia, so the Clusian police can’t do anything about me,” Steven said with a smirk.

He thought, ‘Yes, I’m captured by Kenneth, but so what? I’m Atharian. He can’t do anything to me.’

Kenneth was amused by how stupid Steven was.

He said, “You commit a crime in Clusia, so you should be dealt with according to the Clusian law. Do you want to be deported back to Atharia? That’s not gonna happen. Just stay in jail.”

Kenneth didn’t want to waste time on this because he knew that Steven was trying to emphasize that he was Atharian and not subject to the Clusian law. The truth was that things were different now and anyone who committed a crime in Clusia must be sentenced under the Clusian law.

After Kenneth and Cassandra left, Julius had been waiting outside. Suddenly, Simon struggled violently and caused his newly bandaged wound to open again.

He yelled, “It hurts so much! It’s killing me!

“Help me! Doctor, help me!

“I’m dying!

“Where is the doctor? Get me a doctor, Sir!”

Simon was desperate because he, a drug dealer, was calling the police.

Having learned what was going on from his subordinates, the director of the Public Security Bureau went to check on Simon out of curiosity.

He was surprised to see Julius there. “Why are you still here?”

“I want to see Simon suffer.” Julius sounded a little excited. He thought, ‘Dr. Quirke told me the truth. Once the three hours were up, Simon started screaming for help.’

Generally speaking, drug dealers valued money more than life, so the medicine that made Simon so painful that he called the doctor and the police must not be an ordinary one.

Julius admired Faye even more because she was not only brave and intelligent but also highly skilled.

The director was a little curious. “You stayed here because you knew Simon would end up like this, didn’t you?”

“Yes, and it all thanks to Dr. Quirke’s medicine. He won’t die, but the pain in his body will keep eating him.” Julius suddenly felt a little sad as he spoke. “Dr. Quirke said that it was for those policemen who sacrificed.”

The director was surprised to know that it was Faye’s doing. He thought, ‘Didn’t he accept Simon’s offer to treat him?’

Julius noticed that the director was confused so he explained it to him.

Only then did the director feel relieved.

News of Simon's arrest quickly spread across the Internet.

[Great! He was finally arrested!]

[I knew it! There is nothing in the world that the Falcon Special Operations Force and the Air Force and the Marine Corps can't do!]

[Will Simon get the death penalty? I'll hold a party to celebrate his death if he will!]

[Jeez, he got arrested. I can't explain how happy I was when I saw the news. He destroyed my family and I hope he'll get what he deserves.]

[It's said that a foreign drug dealer was also arrested this time!]

[Well done! They deserve it!]

[Am I the only one who cares if Dr. Quirke gets punished? The guy he saved was a drug dealer, so he should be sentenced too.]

[I agree. Simon is in the police station, but where is Dr. Quirke? Is he also in prison?]

Suddenly, Hydias Public Security Bureau posted a tweet. [Thanks to Dr. Quirke for his contribution to this mission. He worked undercover to provide us with important information and get the bad guys what they deserved. No one was injured or killed in this mission and this was made possible by the assistance of Dr. Quirke and the full support of the Falcon Special Operations Force and the Air Force and the Marine Corps! We're proud to have you guarding Clusia! Thank you for everything you've done on this mission. Besides, a citizen has risked his life to provide us with evidence of Simon's crime, and we are confident that Simon will soon be punished. Hats off to all of the above!]

[Wait. What?]

[They said Dr. Quirke was working undercover for the police. How is that possible?]

[Have I been blaming the wrong person?]

[Holy crap! It's like an action movie! Are they saying that Dr. Quirke joined the bad guys as an undercover agent and provided information to the police? That's amazing!]

[I still can't believe it's true.]

[Am I the only one who cares about casualties on this mission? Every police mission in the past has resulted in casualties and the details can't be made public, but this time everyone is safe and sound! This is great news! I feel so overjoyed!]

[Me too! The police caught the drug dealer with no casualties. This is so exciting!]

[Can Dr. Quirke explain what happened? What exactly had he done to Simon? I can't wait to know the truth!]

[I'm curious too. I hope Dr. Quirke will tell us how this all happened, or I'll definitely lose sleep tonight!]

[I'm sorry for having blamed you for the whole time, Dr. Quirke. Can you please tell us more details?]

Chapter 417

While everyone was discussing, Hydias Public Security Bureau posted another tweet. [This clip explains everything and after you watch it, you'll know that everything Dr. Quirke did to Simon was for our mission. Whether or not today's mission is a success, Simon has nowhere to run. Besides, we have to thank Dr. Quirke again for handing over all of the 1.2 billion dollars Simon used to pay for his medical bills. Here's another piece of good news. We also arrested Hydias' second-ranked drug dealer with the help of Dr. Quirke who showed a strong sense of justice!]

They attached a video to the post.

The two-minute video showed Simon in pain and the help he received from doctors. It could be known from Simon's screams that he wasn't screaming, because of his wounds or pretending. All he felt was excruciating pain but the doctors couldn't tell why.

After watching the clip, everyone felt satisfied.

[Can you show us more? Two minutes is too short and I want to see him in more pain!]

[Exactly! Show us more!]

[I'm happy to see him suffer. Promise me you'll torture him before the final judgment!]

[I'm impressed by Dr. Quirke. What a clever trick!]

[Forgive me for having wronged you, Dr. Quirke!]

[I'm so sorry, Dr. Quirke!]

[Dr. Quirke gave all the money to the government. What a selfless man. I shouldn't have wronged him!]

[Please forgive me, Dr. Quirke!]

[What are you guys doing? It's drug money and anyone who gets it is obligated to give it to the government. Besides, no one can be one hundred percent sure if he's keeping some of the money!]

[Are you jealous of Dr. Quirke? Are you still unwilling to admit that you were wrong? Dr. Quirke has done well enough and, in my opinion, anyone who questions him is in league with Simon!]

[Don't you think Dr. Quirke is the key to the whole mission? They got two drug dealers!]

[I can finally tell my dead parents the good news.]

Faye quickly made headlines on websites and in newspapers and made every Clusian proud.

Those people who used to go to Whitecrane Hall to cause trouble gathered at the door to clean up the rubbish and graffiti they had left. What was more, they took a small blackboard and stuck many apology notes on it.

Since Faye had been proven innocent, Whitecrane Hall should be back to normal soon.

After learning the news, Hugo texted all the employees, saying that they would be back at work after Christmas but they needed everyone to take shifts until then.

After all, they sold medicine and customers would complain if they shut down for a month.

*****

Kenneth and Eddie were about to go back with the troops.

To their surprise, they got a call from their superior John. However, instead of being angry with Kenneth, John praised him this time.

“Who is this Dr. Quirke you’re talking about, Kenneth? I’m so impressed. I have to admit that I misunderstood him before. Can you find him? I want to apologize to him in person.”

Kenneth’s mouth twitched. He looked at the phone and said, “The misunderstanding has been solved. It’s no big deal and you don’t have to apologize at all.”

As he spoke, he glanced at Cassandra and thought, ‘She never liked socializing with people she didn’t know. If she knew Mr. Frey was going to apologize to her, she would run away immediately.’

Having heard their conversation, Cassandra quickly waved her hand to say no.

Seeing this, Kenneth smiled. John noticed that something seemed to be wrong with him, so he asked, “Why are you smiling?”

Kenneth stopped smiling and saluted him, “We’ve accomplished our mission and are going back to Drieso, Sir. Is there anything else you want us to do?”

“Good. I look forward to your return.”

Cassandra breathed a sigh of relief when the phone was hung up. She was glad that neither of them said anything about apologizing.

Kenneth walked up to her and joked, “Why are you so resistant to talking to him?”

“You know what, Cassie? He once asked us to kill you. You should let him apologize to you sincerely!” Eddie joked. Honestly, he thought that she had been treated unfairly.

He thought that he had to ask John and Daniel to reward her.

Cassandra did more for this mission than anyone else. If she hadn't drugged Dominic, he wouldn't have been caught so quickly, and Simon wouldn't have been arrested without her treatment.

"No need. I didn't do it for compliments," she said.

She did it at the very beginning to meet Kenneth in Hydias. That was her main purpose and nothing else mattered.

They succeeded in protecting this beautiful city.

Eddie was amazed by Cassandra's selflessness. He turned to Kenneth and said with disgust in his eyes, "Honestly, you don't deserve Cassie."

Kenneth was speechless. He thought, 'Can he just shut up?'

"No matter what you say, Cassie is my woman!" Kenneth held her tightly in his arms.

"You should keep learning, bro. Otherwise, Cassie's gonna get better while you're not making any progress."

"Kenneth is good enough. I'm just an amateur and you're way better than me."

Cassandra looked at Kenneth affectionately with pride in her eyes.

Eddie was speechless, thinking, 'Never mind!'

They went straight back to Drieso the next day.

Simon, Dominic, and Steven wouldn't get away unless they planned an escape thoroughly, so what Kenneth should do was wait for the verdict.

John came to the training base of Falcon Special Operations Force to reward them, but to his surprise, Cassandra was with them.

He thought, 'National Security Bureau didn't participate in the mission. Why is Cassandra here?'

"Why are you with them, Cassie? Did Kenneth ask you for help?" John guessed. After all, Cassandra was the best hacker in the world and someone like her might be needed on the mission to do the technical work.

Kenneth thought, 'No wonder they're father and son. He sounded just like Eddie!'

"No, it's not what you think, John. I was there to see someone..." Cassandra said.

Eddie had nothing to hide from John. After glancing at Kenneth, he said proudly and excitedly to John, "Dad, Cassandra is a lot better than we expected. She's Dr. Quirke and we couldn't have accomplished the mission with no casualties so quickly without her help!"

Stunned, John looked at Cassandra in shock and said, "Are you Dr. Quirke?"

"I..." Cassandra nodded.

"That's amazing!" John was so excited. It seemed that the younger generation was better than he thought.

Chapter 418

John took Cassandra back to the military residential compound excitedly. Kenneth had no choice but to follow them.

As soon as John walked into the house, he yelled, "Selena, Lydia, come out! Cassie, Kenneth, and Eddie are back! They will stay for dinner!"

He was excited that the operation was a success with no casualties. He felt so proud of them.

They used to get killed every time they caught a drug dealer, but with the help of Faye, they all came back safe and sound.

Besides, they made Simon suffer, which was a great comfort to them.

Cassandra didn't know how to deal with John's hospitality. The houses in the military residential compound were so close to each other that John's yelling drew all the commanding officers who lived there.

People who lived here were trusted by the state and had been nice to Kenneth.

Although Cassandra had nothing to hide from them, she was still afraid to talk to them.

Daniel was the first one to come out. As soon as he saw Cassandra, he couldn't help asking, "Where have you been? I called you and texted you but never got a reply from you. What if the National Security Bureau has an important task for you?"

He was so worried because Cassandra had never been out of contact for this long before, except for the first two months of her return to the Yates residence when she had not only been out of contact for several days but was about to quit her job. She might have left the National Security Bureau if he hadn't insisted that she took some time off.

Cassandra disappeared for a week this time. Daniel was going to ask her to give a year-end summary on behalf of the information security department, but he couldn't find her. He thought she had had an accident.

Fortunately, she came back safely.

Cassandra was stunned by his roar, so she said in a small voice, "I went to Hydias. It was urgent and I couldn't pick up the phone in time."

Hearing the word "Hydias", Daniel was more furious. "Don't you know it's dangerous there these days? What if you get killed?"

Daniel took Cassandra as his daughter. He felt sorry for all the things she went through, so he always cared a lot about her.

John couldn't stand it anymore, so he interrupted, "What's wrong with you, Daniel? Cassic just came back. Why are you yelling at her? She made a great contribution this time. All you need to do is compliment her, okay?"

Daniel glared at John. He was just angry with her for always risking her life, and he knew that she wouldn't listen if he didn't lose his temper.

After a short silence, Daniel asked with an awkward look, "Did you get hurt?"

Cassandra smiled warmly and shook her head. "No."

Daniel finally breathed a sigh of relief. He stared at John and asked, "What do mean by 'she made a great contribution'?"

you

John told Daniel about the operation in Hydias as well as the fact that Cassandra and Faye were the same person. Hearing this, Daniel was shocked.

He worked for the National Security Bureau and ran the information security department, so he knew everything that was going on online. He knew what Faye had done but what he didn't expect was that Faye and Cassandra were the same person.

"You're not even nineteen years old, kid. How dare you go undercover like those soldiers? Aren't you afraid to meet a double agent and be betrayed by him? Don't do this again. Leave it to the police and the soldiers. You don't have to risk your life for these missions."

A girl her age shouldn't be doing something so dangerous. It was a job for "adults".

"I won't do it again because the two drug dealers in Hydias and the foreign drug dealer Steven are all arrested," Cassandra briefed him on the current situation.

Daniel was proud to hear that. He turned around and said to John, "The three of them did a great job this time. How are you going to reward them?"

Eddie, Kenneth, and Cassandra were speechless.

Lydia had already come to the corner of the second floor, but since Daniel was talking to Cassandra, she found it inappropriate to interrupt them, so she didn't downstairs until they had finished talking.

Hearing her voice, Eddie became excited immediately. He missed his wife so much!

Just as he stretched out his hand to hug Lydia, she passed him and ran to Cassandra, who was prepared for this or she would be knocked down.

Lydia said with overjoy, "You're finally back, Ms. Yates. I haven't seen you for a long time."

Lydia not only hugged Cassandra but also rubbed her face against hers.

She thought, 'Ms. Yates' face is so smooth. I just can't have enough of it.'

While she was doing this, Eddie and Kenneth stared at her gloomily.

Kenneth hadn't hugged Cassandra in a long time since the mission began. Now they were back but the first person to hold her was Eddie's wife.

Kenneth was pissed off.

Eddie had the same idea. He thought with an unhappy face, 'Didn't Lydia miss me? I wasn't the first person she hugged!'

'It seems that I have to teach her a lesson tonight.'

Thinking of this, he said unhappily, "Babe."

Having noticed the displeasure in his tone, Lydia came back to her senses, let go Cassandra, and turned to look at him.

"Come and help me in the kitchen, Lydia. Leave them alone."

Lydia breathed a sigh of relief. "One second, Mom!"

Lydia loved her mother-in-law so much because she saved her just in time.

Cassandra felt that it was inappropriate for her to sit and talk with these men, so she said at once, "I'll join you, Mrs. Frey."

Then she hurriedly got up and walked into the kitchen.

There were only four men in the living room, and after a while, several old commanding officers joined them.

They were all glad to see those young people come back safe and sound. Besides, the Frey family and Kenneth had been doing the most dangerous thing so they cared more about them.

More importantly, these commanding officer's children were in John and Kenneth's army, so they came here to ask how their children were doing.

About an hour later, the meal was ready.

"Let's get started. Cassie is the main cook for this meal and I'm sure it will amaze you!" Selena said proudly.

She was indeed shocked by Cassandra's quick and excellent cooking.

She thought, 'Is there anything else Cassandra can't do? She knows computer technology, design, and perfume making, and she's good at school and medicine and even cooks well. Kenneth is so lucky to have her.'

Chapter 419

Everyone was surprised to hear that Cassandra prepared the food.

They went up one by one and saw that the dining table was groaning under the weight of all the food, such as seafood, steak, chicken, and salads. They were perfect in color, aroma, and taste.

They all looked appetizing. "Are they really prepared by Cassie?" John asked with disbelief.

He thought, 'They don't look like the food cooked by my wife. So, it's very likely that Cassie cooked the dinner.

Selena smiled happily and proudly. She pointed to the two dishes on the table beside her, "Except for these two dishes, Cassie prepared the rest of the food." She waved at them and continued warmly, "Please sit down and eat more."

She was happy and grateful at the same time.

Selena was overjoyed when Eddie and Kenneth came back safely from their missions.

Every time they went on a mission, she was so worried that she couldn't fall asleep. They returned safely this time, accompanied by Cassandra.

Therefore, Selena was deeply grateful to Cassandra.

She was sitting on Cassandra's right while Kenneth was sitting on Cassandra's left. Both of them kept putting more food on Cassandra's plate.

Soon, Cassandra's plate was full of food. Lydia was a little envious, so she deliberately said to Eddie coquettishly, "Honey, I also want you to serve me food."

Eddie raised his eyebrows. He thought, 'Humph, now you know how good I am!'

But he didn't say it out. Instead, he showed Lydia respect. "It's my pleasure," he said gladly.

Selena immediately looked at Lydia with eyes twinkling with laughter and put two shrimps on Lydia's plate. "Are you jealous?" she asked.

"Selena, don't say it out!" Lydia said, acting like a spoiled child.

Their family was so loving that others were envious.

“Well, your family is happy and harmonious. Both of my wife and my daughter-in-law are domineering. They always fight with each other. I envy you!” One of John’s former commanders said to John with envy in his eyes.

John’s son was filial. His daughter-in-law was well-behaved and lovely. Both his wife and daughter-in-law got on pretty well together. What a model family!

John immediately sat up straight and said proudly, “That’s right. Lydia is very excellent. Selena and I are fond of her very much. Selena and Lydia are getting along very well.”

He was happy and thankful every day.

Hearing this, Hector became more envious. He felt that John was deliberately showing off his family.

Cassandra was also envious of Lydia, who had won the elders’ favor.

The dinner lasted about two hours. They chatted cheerfully as they ate and drank. At last, they almost finished all the food on the table.

At about 10 p.m., Kenneth was ready to go back with Cassandra.

*****

When they came back to Pinehart Mansion, Kenneth was surprised to see Lucas, Sylvia, and Hugo in the living room.

Sylvia immediately stepped forward and walked around Cassandra with tears in her eyes. “Cassie, you made Lucas and I worry sick.”

Cassandra had been away for a long time. They wouldn't have known she was back if John hadn't shared photos on Twitter announcing the hero's return.

They wouldn't have known if Hugo didn't tell them the truth.

Cassandra was bold enough to go to the place of drug dealers in Hydias alone. Did she want to kill herself?

"Sylvia, I'm fine. Don't worry," Cassandra chuckled, comforting Sylvia.

Lucas was also furious. "Kenneth, I entrusted Cassie to your care, but I didn't expect you to take her to such a far-away and dangerous place!" he yelled, glaring at Ken

"I'm sorry, Lucas. It was my fault. I should have thought about it more carefully,"

Kenneth said sincerely, lowering his head.

At that time, he could have taken Cassandra back to Drieso, but he still chose to let her go to the place of drug dealers.

He didn't want to put Cassandra in danger, but he still did.

"I decided to go there. Kenneth tried to stop me, but I didn't listen. I didn't want to miss out on such a good opportunity," Cassandra defended Kenneth.

At that time, they were unable to contact each other. She had already arrived in Hydias, so it was unrealistic for her to leave again.

Lucas was a little bit disappointed. Why did Cassandra keep defending Kenneth? Kenneth let her go there this time. What if she wanted to go to more dangerous places next time?

“Lucas, Kenneth also went with me. He went undercover to protect me. Please don’t blame him for that,” Cassandra continued to explain.

Lucas was a little surprised. He knew Kenneth was the head of Falcon Special Operations Force. He couldn’t believe he delegated command to others and went undercover.

He looked at Kenneth inquiringly, as if to think about if Cassandra’s words were true.

But Cassandra would never lie, so what she said was probably true.

He thought, ‘Humph! Kenneth did the right thing.’ He wouldn’t let Kenneth go if something bad happened to Cassandra.

Hugo was also in tears. Fortunately, Cassandra returned safely this time, he would be to blame.

Whitecrane Hall’s business stopped for the time being. Employees were already given one month off as paid leave. He couldn’t eat his word and cancel their holiday now. Whitecrane Hall suffered a big loss this time.

Thank goodness Cassandra was safe and sound.

“I’m sorry, Ms. Yates. I shouldn’t have reported it to you in the first place,” Hugo said.

The more he thought about it, the scarier he became.

“Don’t apologize to me, Hugo. If it were not for you, I wouldn’t have gone there. did a good thing and everyone is happy,” Cassandra said.

They dismantled the drug den and arrested drug dealers. The results are unprecedented!

Cassandra suddenly realized what she wanted to do in the future. Apart from being a traditional medicine practitioner, she also wanted to do more things for the country.

The arrest of drug dealers not only rewarded Lucas’ efforts but also made everyone pleased. On their way to the airport, they could see that the crowd was happy from their smiling faces. Kenneth, Eddie, and Lucas protected and helped them.

Perhaps in the future, she wanted to do the same thing.

Knowing she was comforting him, Hugo felt a little ashamed.

“Ms. Yates...” he stuttered.

Hugo felt fortunate that Cassandra was safe and sound. Otherwise, he wouldn’t be able to live with this. Blossom entrusted Cassandra to his care. He couldn’t let anything bad to her!

“Stop worrying about me, Lucas, Sylvia, and Hugo! I’m safe and sound. Please rest assured,” Cassandra said, trying to reassure them.

She wouldn’t let the people who cared about her worry.

Sylvia held Cassandra in her arms and said, “Good girl! You are our pride!”

Chapter 420

Simon had been put in jail for about ten days. The students of Juset University were on holiday and Cassandra didn't go back to school again.

Meanwhile, she was waiting for Simon's trial.

It was said that Simon hired an expensive lawyer to put on a not-guilty defense. She was surprised that someone was willing to take his case.

How could Cassandra let him get away with it?

So, she called Jonathan and asked him to provide legal support for the court in Hydias. What if the prosecutor lost the case?

Jonathan cursed under his breath and got on the plane!

He complained while reading the case file.

Cassandra didn't take him as a stranger! She asked him for help whenever she needed it! And now he was even summoned to go to Hydias.

After a week of proceedings, Simon and Dominic were sentenced to death to immediate execution. They couldn't be appealed. Leva was given a death sentence with a six-month reprieve.

Steven didn't kill any Clusian. He was accused of drug smuggling and sentenced to life imprisonment due to a large number of drugs. However, he was not happy with the decision and filed an appeal.

More than half a month had passed. Kenneth only stayed with Cassandra for two days after returning to Drieso. The rest of the time, he was busy with closed training in the army. He planned to give his soldiers a vacation to celebrate Christmas after the training.

Cassandra missed him at home. She was so bored that she checked Twitter on her phone and saw people discussing Simon's trial!

[What great news! The bad guy is finally dying! Two bitter rivals will die together!]

[I'm going to set off firecrackers to celebrate it. They were eventually sentenced to death! My parents can rest in peace now!]

[I'm sorry

for your loss.]

[If they don't die, I will never be able to overcome grief. Now they're sentenced to death, my wish is fulfilled.]

[The world is a beautiful place. It was ruined by these nasty people.]

[I'm glad they were sentenced to death!]

[Where are you gonna celebrate it? I'd like to join you for dinner!]

[Come celebrate with me. My address is xxxxxx! I'm expecting you!]

[Wow, it's for real!]

[Am I the only one who wants to know when Whitecrane Hall will open again?]

[Well, Whitecrane Hall hasn't been opened since someone made a scene in there. Although there are doctors on duty, they only serve patients for their follow-up visits. It's still not open to new patients for the time being. When will they reopen?]

[What? Whitecrane Hall hasn't opened yet. Is Dr. Quirke still unhappy about what happened the last time? Otherwise, how could it not open?]

[I think Dr. Quirke is still mad at us. He did good deeds for his country and the people, but we cursed him to death. No one will be happy about it.]

Cassandra was confused. She didn't get why they said she was angry.

Whitecrane Hall closed because Hugo gave employees one month off.

Unexpectedly, the netizens seemed to know the reason and someone suddenly came out to explain it.

[Who said Whitecrane Hall was closed? When those people caused us trouble, our boss shut it down urgently and gave employees one month off with paid leave!]

[Exactly! We won't go back to work after Christmas. If you have any diseases, please go to see another doctor!]

[Is that true?!]

[One month paid vacation? Does Whitecrane Hall need a cleaner? I'd like to apply for the job!]

[Why do they take such a long time off? Are they immoral or do they lose their humanity? What's the problem with working? Why did they have a break? I don't get them.]

[Don't kid me. I'd like to go see Dr. Quirke now. I beg you to open now!]

In the end, Whitecrane Hall did not open because Cassandra said they couldn't get back on their words.

Their followers waited for a long time but did not hear that Whitecrane Hall had reopened. Meanwhile, Kenneth came back from closed training.

When Kenneth got home, he hurriedly held Cassandra in his arms. "Cassie, I miss you so much!"

He was busy with closed training every day. At least, he could do FaceTime with Cassandra. As a commander, he shouldn't seek any personal privileges. Therefore, he only made video calls with Cassie occasionally at night.

In the past two months, they seldom met.

"Kenneth, I miss you, too," Cassandra said in Kenneth's arms.

Kenneth gently let go of Cassandra and their eyes met the next second. Suddenly, Kenneth lowered his head and pressed his lips against Cassandra's.

He started to kiss her gently and then deepened the kiss. They kissed intensely as if nothing else existed. The butler and Susan blushed and turned to leave as they saw the scene.

Cassandra and Kenneth loved each other so much. They wondered when they would have a baby.

About ten minutes later, Cassandra was short of breath. Kenneth didn't let her go until her hands pushed at his chest. "Why can't you learn to catch your breath when kissing?" he teased.

A glimmer of amusement showed in his eyes.

Cassandra blushed instantly. How dare he tease her after taking advantage of her!

Cassandra buried her face against his chest silently.

Kenneth felt his entire chest warm as if he weren't afraid of the cold outside.

“Next time, I must teach you how to catch your breath. Otherwise, we won’t kiss for long,” he continued.

Cassandra didn’t look up but said sullenly, “You’re such a rascal.”

Chaper 420

“I only teach you how to kiss,” Kenneth said. She was his future wife. So, what if he acted like a rascal?

If Cassandra had not been younger than the marriage age, he would have married her already.

At that time, they would belong to each other for the rest of their lives.

The AC temperature in Pinchart Mansion was high. After they hugged for a while, Cassandra felt a little hot. She patted Kenneth’s hand in disgust and said, “I’m hot.”

“But I’m still cold,” Kenneth grinned.

Cassandra raised her head and stared at him as if considering whether what he said was real or not.

Five seconds later, Cassandra realized that Kenneth was lying to her. She patted his hand again and said, “I’m hot now!”

Kenneth had no choice but to let her go.

“It’s getting late. Go to bed early,” Kenneth said, rubbing Cassandra’s head.

When he arrived home and saw the living room lit up and Cassandra sitting on the sofa, the house was starting to feel like a home.

No matter how late he came home, lights were always on in Pinehart Mansion or neighboring villas. However, he felt different this time.

The moment he saw Cassandra at home, he felt warmth in his heart.

Probably he had never felt it before, so he looked forward to starting a family.

“Okay, you too. Have a good night’s sleep,” Cassandra said with a nod.

“Cassie, let’s go shopping tomorrow and buy something for Christmas Dinner,” Kenneth said.

He was looking forward to Christmas.
