Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 121 A LIAR BORN FOR MONEY

Kevin didn't expect that Brian would accept the threats of Winnie willingly. Brian feared that Winnie would leave. All these showed Brian's real feeling. It was just that Brian refused to face it. Only Winnie could deal with Brian. Even if Winnie didn't do anything and just stood by Brian's side, she could cure Brian's illness. Winnie was the cause of his headache. But Winnie was the only one in this world who could make him recover quickly. Brian couldn't do without Winnie. After Kevin went out, the bedroom became quiet. Winnie did not speak. Brian did not dare to speak, for fear that Winnie would leave. With the silence in this way, the pain was also lessened bit by bit. Brian felt a little better. Although it hurt now, it was not so unbearable. Brian reached out and accurately grasped Winnie's hand. Then he started massaging her hands like the previous few times. "Take a break. Your hands are tired and stiff." "It's okay." Two people said the word at the same time. Then they went into silence again. For a long while. "Don't care about my affairs anymore. Don't treat my family well. Don't shake me. If I really fall in love with you, I will not bear to leave. It will be you who will feel trouble." "I will try my best to solve my own stuff. Even if I ask you for help, you don't have to help me. Just leave me alone. It's better for us to keep this relationship for the time being." Winnie had to remind Brian. Now, she couldn't control her feelings. She would hurt even more if it continued. "I'm not caring about you. You think too much. You are my woman, but you don't accept anything I give you. I can only compensate you in other ways. I don't want others to think me an asshole." Brian was angry again because of Winnie's words, but he didn't let go of Winnie's hands. "It turns out that you care about what other people think of you. Sorry, it's me thinking too much. Well, since you are so afraid of others saying you are an asshole, you can give me money in the future. If our deal becomes a money transaction, no one will slander you." Winnie smiled bitterly. If it turned into a money transaction, she would become a woman who worshipped money. Then she would be a liar born for money. It didn't matter. As long as Brian was happy, it didn't matter that she became a nasty villain. As long as she could control her feelings, it didn't matter that she had to lose her dignity. "How much is it?" Brian asked angrily. "Give as much as you want. I'm a liar. Naturally, I want more." Winnie and Brian had experienced a lot, but finally they returned to the original point, back to the time when she was a liar. "I'll give you a hundred million. I will compensate you when I leave." Brian waited for this moment from the very beginning. What he hoped was that Winnie would ask him for money. Only in this way could he believe that she was a liar, and only in this way could he treat the relationship between them calmly, and only in this way would he not feel guilty for Winnie no matter what he did. Winnie finally asked him for money, but why didn't he feel relax and calm? Why did he no longer believe that she was a liar at this moment? Why did his guilt for her become deeper and deeper? "Okay." Winnie never thought that she was so valuable. If she knew that, she would have found a rich man earlier. Then she didn't have to work so hard to repay tens of millions of debts for four years. Then the two went into silence again. Now, they had already said their own thoughts out. Then they could clear their minds. It was alright. No, it was just only her who should clear her mind and control her feelings. The next day, Winnie asked for leave. She took Vanessa to the real estate to go through the transfer procedures. Everything was done in the morning. The money to sell the house was finally paid. After Winnie sent Vanessa to the cram school in the afternoon, she went to return the last one million to Romeo. Then she went to the cemetery alone. After getting to the tombstone of her parents, she put down the flowers. Then her tears couldn't stop. "Parents, don't worry anymore. I have paid off all the debts. From now on, you don't have to feel guilty to anyone. You can live with peace of mind." Although Winnie was crying, she felt relaxed. Since her parents passed away suddenly, she had been living with tense nerves for so many years. Now she didn't owe money to anyone. Her hard time should end. In the future, making money was not to pay off debts, but to strive for a better life for the aunt, the younger sister and her children. After getting home in the evening, Winnie prepared dinner and invited Daenerys over. In order to thank Kevin for taking care of Daenerys in the hospital, she invited Kevin over. It was just that the two of them didn't know that they would meet each other in Winnie's house. Daenerys and Kevin got on the elevator together and were surprised to see each other. "Doctor Burns is going to Winwin's house?" Daenerys asked in surprise, but she still didn't make eye contact with Kevin. "Yes, so are you?" Kevin said gently with a smile on his face. "Oh, I'm going to her house too. What a coincidence." After knowing that the destination of Kevin and her was the same, Daenerys felt a little upset. She was a little awkward. Daenerys turned her head to look at the figure of the elevator, only hoping to reach the 18th floor quickly. She didn't want to be with Kevin in a small space, which would make her heart beat faster and remind her of things she shouldn't think about. The two entered the house together. Daenerys was a little surprised to see Vanessa. It was not the first time Daenerys saw Vanessa, but it had passed five years. At that time, Vanessa was a child. But now, she was now a big girl. Daenerys almost couldn't recognize Vanessa. "Daenerys!" Vanessa happily pounced on Daenerys. The two of them hugged each other. "You grew up. You're taller than your sister now. I miss you so much." Daenerys was a little sad. If it hadn't been for the sudden change in the Chambers family, she wouldn't have not seen Vanessa for so many years. "I miss you too." Vanessa hugged Daenerys tightly like a baby. Suddenly, she raised her head, then she saw Kevin. "Daenerys, is this your boyfriend? So handsome!" Vanessa looked at Kevin up and down in surprise, but this sentence made Daenerys embarrassed. She quickly let go of Vanessa and explained. "No, no, this is my colleague, Mr. Bennet's good friend. He should have been invited by your sister." "Hello, my name is Kevin. Your sister's friend. I'm not Daenerys' boyfriend." Kevin introduced himself. He also helped Daenerys explain. However, he really liked Vanessa's questions. Kevin's explanation made Daenerys tremble. She was not used to Kevin calling her so affectionately. But it didn't sound bad. "Hello, I'm Vanessa." Vanessa smiled and greeted Kevin. Because of the misunderstanding, her smile was a little embarrassed. "You guys came together?" At this moment, Winnie walked out of the kitchen and asked happily. "Yes, is there anything I can help?" Kevin answered heartily. "No, everything is ready. You can wash your hands and prepare to eat. Let's talk while eating. Vanessa, help me set the tableware." After saying it, Winnie started doing her own business. Kevin went to the bathroom to wash his hands. Daenerys greeted the two little guys. Vanessa went to help her sister set the tableware. After a short while, dinner officially began. Just when everyone picked up the chopsticks to prepare to eat, they heard the door opening. Before everyone could react, Luke and Megan rushed out together. "Daddy..." "Uncle..." The two children directly guessed that it was Brian, because no one would open the door and come in directly. "Hey, do you guys miss me?" Brian squatted down as he spoke warmly. Then he hugged the two children one by one. This scene made others feel warm. But it made Winnie sad. It made Kevin couldn't believe it. Was this still that Brian with a poker face? When did he start to be so gentle with children? If Kevin remembered it correctly, Brian didn't listen to his suggestion at all. Could it be that Brian was threatened by Winnie again? How much magic did Winnie have that she could change Brian a lot? Brian's arrival surprised Winnie. She did not invite him. Vanessa was also surprised. "Sister, you invited Brian over?" Vanessa asked in a low voice. "I..." "I called him." Before Winnie could answer, Kevin gave the answer. To be precise, Kevin was with Brian when Winnie called. Then Brian heard it himself. At this time, Brian had arrived at the dining table. Winnie immediately got up and took the two children over and put them on the seat. "Go to wash your hands and eat." Now that he had arrived, Winnie couldn't drive him away in front of so many people. Winnie could only let this uninvited guest join them. This time, everyone started to eat. Winnie took the wine and started to pour for some people. "I don't drink. I drove over." Daenerys hurriedly refused. She secretly vowed that she would never drink as long as she was with Kevin in the future. "Then I will pour for Doctor Burns." Winnie walked to Kevin and was about to pour some wine. Kevin spoke. "I drove here too. So I can't drink." Kevin also refused, but the reason for his refusal was different from that of Daenerys. He was acting. "No, you have to drink it today. Dany doesn't drink. She can drive you home." Winnie poured the wine directly regardless of Kevin's objection. In this way, Kevin's goal was achieved. It was Winnie who forced him to drink. It was not what he insisted on drinking. But Daenerys looked stunned. Why did Winnie decide for her? She couldn't avoid him now. What excuses could she find to refuse? Winnie continued to pour the wine, but stopped when she walked to Brian's side. "You drove here too. You can't drink." Then Winnie sat in her seat and poured the wine for herself. She didn't want to see Brian's headache again. She felt even more hurt when she saw that he was tortured by pain. Brian didn't say anything. He just started to eat obediently. Last night he promised Winnie that he would not drink. He must keep his promise. "Doctor Burns, thank you for taking care of Daenerys. None of them can drink. To express my gratefulness, I toast you." Winnie politely thanked him. The reason why she invited Kevin over was to thank him. "She and I are colleagues. It's my pleasure to take care of her. Besides, you're her friend. Brian and I are good friends." Even if not, Kevin would take care of Daenerys. Because their relationship was not just colleague relationship. The two politely clinked their glasses and drank it up. "I also want to thank Mr. Bennet. Thank you for arranging the job for me." Daenerys picked up the juice to toast Brian. "They drink wine. We drink juice. Mr. Bennet, thank you so much. Cheers." Daenerys said mischievously. But she was sincere to thank Brian.

CHAPTER 122 WE ARE TWINS

Daenerys went to work in the hospital. Kevin sent her to the work place on the first day. Then she kept hiding from Kevin. So they two had not met until now. Daenerys thought it was not Kevin who helped her. It was Brian who was against his wife, so that she had the chance to get the job. "Cheers." Brian toasted directly after saying the word. The two little guys also imitated the adults to toast, which made adults laughed. Only Vanessa was eating silently. From the moment Brian came in, she noticed that Brian had some complicated feelings to her sister when Brian looked at her sister. Vanessa was a little worried. She was worried that the relationship between her sister and Brian was no longer normal. "Daenerys, you drink juice. I drink wine. I toast you. Cheers." Winnie helped Daenerys pour the juice while speaking. "What are you doing? Why do you thank me?" Daenerys felt inexplicable. What happened to Winnie? "Let's drink first." Winnie drank another glass up. Then she began to talk before Daenerys raised the glass. "Daenerys, there is a total of one million on this card. It is the money you helped me for so many years. Today, Vanessa's house was sold. I can finally pay back your money. Thank you so much. Just take the money." Winnie put the bank card directly in front of Daenerys, then Daenerys understood why Winnie thanked her. "You don't have to give it to me so soon. Don't you want to buy a house for Vanessa? You take these money to buy a house. Anyway, I have some money now." Daenerys refused. Winnie's life was hard. All Daenerys could help was to give this little money. She felt ashamed to accept Winnie's gratefulness. While saying, Daenerys was going to hand back her bank card to Winnie, but was stopped by Vanessa. "Daenerys, please accept it. We still have money. I am not in a hurry to buy a house. After I go to college, I can live in a dormitory. I will buy a house for my sister after graduation." Vanessa was very sensible and heart-warming. For so many years, it was Winnie who had been working hard to pay off the debts. Even selling her house, Vanessa couldn't repay what her sister had paid for her. "Vanessa, you have grown up. You're sensible now. Then I accept the money first. If you don't have enough money to buy a house, tell me." Daenerys was a little sad. Vanessa was so sensible that Winnie could finally relax a little. Hearing this kind of dialogue, not only Daenerys was sad, but Kevin and Brian felt sad. They really didn't know what the sisters had gone through. It seemed that their life was so hard. "Well, let's eat. It won't taste good when it's cold." Winnie said lightly. Now she didn't have to owe others money. Winnie and Kevin both drank a lot. After dinner, Kevin and Brian were sitting in the living room drinking tea, while Winnie, Vanessa and Daenerys were tidying up in the kitchen. "Brian, have you noticed that Vanessa looks like your elder sister? She is too much like your sister when your sister was young." Kevin had this feeling when he saw Vanessa, but he never had a chance to say it out. "You think so?" Brian was a little surprised. Not only did he think so, but now even Kevin felt so. Vanessa and Winnie were sisters. The two of them should look the same, but Vanessa looked like Brian's older sister. "How could I not feel so? Unless I'm blind." Kevin continued. "It's weird. You and Winnie must have some connections. The two children have similarities. Luke looks like Winnie. Megan looks like you. Now Vanessa looks like your elder sister again. It's so amazing." Kevin said these words deliberately. Brian might not have noticed such similarities, so he needed to remind Brian. "Does it look similar?" Brian hadn't noticed it before. So he asked suspiciously. At this time, the two children who had been playing heard the conversation between the two adults. They thought it was very interesting, so they interjected. "Dad, the teachers and children in the kindergarten said that Megan and I are twins." "No, no, the teacher said we are pigeon pair. Do we look alike, uncle?" Megan also said, but Brian's heart beat fast suddenly when he heard what Megan said. Pigeon pair? Winnie gave birth to a boy and a girl back then. Was this a coincidence? The two children were born in the same day. They were allergic to the same things. They had similar looks, and had a natural affinity for Winnie. Was it all coincidence? The more Brian thought, the more he felt excited. He frowned and looked at Winnie who was busy in the kitchen. He didn't know if she had the same thoughts as him, or she simply regarded Luke as the child she had sent away. Brian couldn't be calm because of the words of the two children. Then he made up an excuse to leave first. When he walked out of Winnie's house, he started calling Albert. "Have you gotten some progress about Winnie's matter?" Brian asked coldly, which was as cold as before. "Not yet, Miss Winnie's news was deliberately blocked. We couldn't even find out which hospital she gave birth in." Albert had tried so many ways, but there was no result yet. "Be deliberately blocked? Why?" Brian was even more suspicious when he heard such news. Now he felt that Winnie was a mystery, which made him more and more confused. "It hasn't been found out yet, but what is certain is that she has no boyfriend." Albert felt that he was not bad, but this time he encountered a tricky problem and felt a little ashamed. "She has no boyfriend? What are you talking about? Where do the child come from if she has no boyfriend?" Brian's tone was obviously unhappy. "Sorry, Mr. Bennet, I will find out as soon as possible." Albert quickly answered, but only he himself knew how difficult this matter was. Brian didn't ask anything. He just hung up the phone angrily. But the doubts in his mind were getting deeper and deeper. Kevin was about to go home after sitting for a while. Winnie insisted on letting Daenerys drive him home. Daenerys could not find a reason to refuse. So she could only leave with Kevin helplessly. The car drove smoothly on the road. Kevin kept silent since getting on the car. This made Daenerys a lot easier. The next moment. "Do you think I forgot you?" Kevin suddenly said. However, his word scared Daenerys. She stepped on the brake and almost injured Kevin. "Why are you doing?" "Do you remember it?" Daenerys slowed down and pulled over the car on the side of the road. "I'm not a fool. How can I forget it? Do you need me to be responsible for it?" Kevin turned his head to look at Daenerys teasingly. "No need. We are all adults. I can take responsibility for this matter by myself." Daenerys was already blushing at this time. But she still pretended to be calm. Kevin asked so suddenly that Daenerys was a little at a loss. She thought Kevin had forgotten the one-night stand that day. However, he remembered it, but just didn't say it out. That time, Daenerys went to C City on a business trip then she met Kevin at the party. The two did not know each other, but they sat together. Later, after drinking too much, they had a one-night stand. Although she drank too much, she still remembered Kevin. But she did not expect that they were in the same city, and there was a relationship between them. "Are you sure you don't need me to be responsible for you? This is your only chance." Kevin confirmed again. "No. We just forget that thing, just as if we didn't know each other before. In the future, we will get along as colleagues." Although Daenerys was not sure what Kevin's responsibility referred to, she believed that only marriage could shoulder this responsibility. But marriage required two people who loved each other to manage. She and Kevin didn't know each other too well, so they were not suitable for marriage. "Well, no one is allowed to talk about this in the future. No one will use this to threaten each other in the future. You can drive. My colleague." Kevin made the final decision. It seemed that he felt relax in his tone after solving the problem, but in fact, he felt a little lost. Although he did not have the same family background as Brian, although he was not so good-looking as Brian, he was also a popular surgeon after all. Moreover, he was an internationally renowned professor-level figure. So many girls confessed to him, but he rejected them all. This was the first time he had been rejected by a girl. It hurt his self-esteem. Daenerys took a deep breath, releasing the panic. Then she restarted the car. After driving for a while, Kevin's cell phone rang. He took a look and then picked it up. "What's up?" "I'm behind you and get off in the park in front. I have something to tell you." Brian's cold voice came over. "Got it." Kevin put down the phone and looked around before speaking. "Stop in the park ahead. I have a date." Kevin said deliberately, feeling that he had to do something to make up his self-esteem. Daenerys was a little bit inexplicable. He was going to date again after just answering the phone? "Aren't you going home?" "No. Just pull over in front." Kevin said with certainty. Daenerys didn't continue to ask. She pulled over the car. "In the future, you don't have to avoid me in the hospital. Colleagues don't have to be so awkward." Before Kevin got out of the car and closed the door, he didn't forget to say these. Then he walked into the park. In less than five minutes, Brian parked his car and came to the park. "What's the matter? I'm chatting with beautiful women." Kevin asked reluctantly. He thought that Daenerys could take him home, then he could find an excuse to drink some wine with Daenerys. At that time, he would have another one-night stand with Daenerys, but they were all destroyed by a phone call from Brian. "You have to help me." Brian stood in front of Kevin and lit a cigarette, though he hadn't smoked for a long time. "About Winnie?" Kevin couldn't remember how long he hadn't seen Brian smoking. Brian wouldn't smoke easily if he didn't encounter troubles or problems. Now Winnie was the only one who could make Brian feel trouble. "Yes, about Winnie. Megan's and Luke's words made me suspicious of Winnie." Brian frowned. There were doubts in his eyes. "Megan and Luke? Twins?" Kevin accurately grabbed the key again. "Yes. Winnie gave birth to a boy and a girl five years ago. She gave a boy away and kept Megan."

CHAPTER 123 DOUBT WINNIE

Brian said it out. If he didn't say it out, Kevin couldn't help him. Besides, he could feel relieved after he said it out. "What? Are you serious?" This news was shocking to Kevin. His eyes widened in disbelief, waiting for Brian to give him an affirmative answer. "It's true. Vanessa told me it." Brian said. "Oh my God, what's going on? How could she give one of her children away?" Kevin hadn't recovered from his surprise. Suddenly, he thought of another possibility. "You suspect Winnie is..." "Yes, I have some doubts now." Brian said in a low voice. At this time, he felt complicated. He hoped that his suspicion was true, but he also hoped that it was just suspicion. "Based on what?" Kevin asked seriously. At this time, Brian had finished smoking a cigarette. He threw it into the trash can at the back, then he turned and spoke deeply. "Do you know why I have to let Winnie be my woman?" Brian asked the question suddenly. Kevin shook his head. Brian continued. "The first time we met was on an airplane. I was shocked when she spoke. The voice was exactly the same as that of the surrogate woman, and then she came to my company. I had close contact with her. She doesn't wear perfume. But that faint fragrance is exactly the same as that of a surrogate woman." Her jerky kisses, and their intimate relationship on the bed. All these were the reasons why Brian insisted on getting Winnie. "I took her to the hilltop villa by chance. She knew everything about there. She knew where the bathroom was, knew there was water in the refrigerator, knew how to use the remote control of the shed light, and knew that there were several cars parked in my garage. How could she know so much detail? She had never been there before." "Because she is similar to the surrogate woman, I want to catch her. Now I have to suspect that she is that woman." Brian recalled everything that had happened between him and Winnie from the time he met Winnie. There were too many suspicious places that he had overlooked. Now that everything was linked together. It seemed even more suspicious. "There are so many suspicious points. Did you find someone to check it sooner? You know everything if you check it early, don't you?" Kevin said anxiously. If Winnie was really the surrogate girl, he thought it would be perfect for the children. "I checked it. I asked Albert to investigate it a long time ago. But her previous information was blocked. It was impossible to find out." Although Brian didn't think that Winnie was the surrogate girl at first, he also asked Albert to investigate her fully. If Winnie's information was not deliberately concealed, he would have known Winnie's true identity. "The news is blocked? Who did it?" Kevin became more and more anxious. He felt that the light was right in front of him, but he could not touch the truth. "I don't know. I haven't found out yet." If Brian knew who did it, he wouldn't be so annoyed. If he knew who did it, he would know the truth. "Then what can I do for you?" Kevin would help Brian unconditionally, but not only for Brian, it was also for the children and the kind-hearted Winnie. "Help me get some clues from Daenerys. They are best friends. She must know everything. If I ask her, she will doubt me and won't tell the truth." This was why Brian was still looking for Kevin so late. He wanted to open a breakthrough from Daenerys. "No problem. Leave this to me." Kevin readily agreed to Brian, but then he thought of another important question. "But does Winnie know that you are the man? After all, you didn't see each other's face clearly at that time, right?" "If she were that woman, she should have known my identity. Otherwise, she wouldn't try to protect Luke, she wouldn't go to the villa, she wouldn't have promised me many rude requests. She is for Luke. If she is not for Luke, she wouldn't be my side without asking for money." "If she is really that woman, all this can be explained." Brian was nervous. He thought of the time when two people traveled together on a business trip, Winnie cried and fainted for Luke. If she wasn't Luke's mother, how could she be worried to such a degree? It was just that Brian was a little late to realize it. "If she really is the surrogate girl, she must know it." "Brian, if Winnie is really the surrogate girl, what are you going to do?" Kevin asked the key to the question again. This question made Brian feel embarrassed. "I don't know. This is not just a woman's problem. If she is the girl, I will have an extra child. Just like Luke suddenly appeared back then, I have a lot of problems to face." Brian really didn't know how to solve it. He hadn't thought of that step yet. Wendy couldn't accept Luke until now. If Megan was really his daughter, plus Winnie, he might not be able to see Wendy again in his life. "Who would you choose between two women?" Although it was a question, it was also a reminder. Brian could only choose one. He was either to be with Winnie to give the children a complete home, or to choose Wendy. But Brian had to carry the guilt for a lifetime. "Wendy." Brian gave the answer without even thinking about it. But after he said that, it was Winnie who popped into his mind. It was her painful, sad and desperate face which popped into his mind. Kevin sighed and said nothing. If Brian chose Wendy after knowing the facts, then where should Winnie go? Winnie would become the biggest victim. If Brian chose Wendy, should he still go to Daenerys to ask the truth, and then destroyed the children's happy life? Should he push the woman with scars into hell mercilessly again? Winnie finally finished cleaning up. Then she lay down on the sofa in the living room to rest. Vanessa also sat next to Winnie, chatting while helping Winnie massage her calf. "Sister, now that we have paid off all the debts. You should also think about yourself. Find someone to marry. You're still young." Vanessa was afraid that Brian and Winnie would continue to develop, so she tried another way to persuade Winnie. As long as Winnie married, Brian would definitely not appear. "Married? What should you and aunt do if I get married?" Winnie didn't take Vanessa's words seriously, but Winnie felt warmed after hearing what Vanessa said. "Don't think about me and aunt. I can make money on my own after I go to college. Then I will raise aunt. It's my turn to contribute to this family." Vanessa didn't want to be taken care of all the time. The more Winnie did this, the more Vanessa felt guilty for her aunt and her sister. "Vanessa, I'm very happy that you think about me. But it's all a few years later. When you finish college and find a job, when you get married and have a stable home, you can take care of us. I have no plans to get married for the time being. No one wants to marry me. I have children. " She would not be able to marry in this life. She just wanted to take care of the two children for the rest of her life. She would let her aunt and Vanessa live a good life. They were her everything. "Who said it? My sister is so good. There is someone who wants to marry you. Sister, your neighbor, Leo, I've seen him a few times. I think he's a good person. Is he single?" If it was possible, Vanessa wanted to be a matchmaker. She wanted that Winnie could find a boyfriend and then get married, so as not to be scolded as a mistress. "He's single, but it's impossible for us. Vanessa, Leo is my ex-boyfriend when I was abroad..." Winnie already understood what Vanessa meant. So she had to tell Vanessa the matter between her and Leo roughly. "My ex-boyfriend was fooling around with other women. Do you think I and he can get back?" The answer was no. Although she didn't hate Leo anymore, her love for him had also disappeared with her hate. Her heart was full of a man, so there was no room for other men. "Holy shit. It's so complicated. I think Leo is a good person. How can he do such a thing?" Vanessa said indignantly. She was unable to believe that a sinister heart was hidden under such a gentle and handsome appearance. "Well, it's all past. Don't..." Winnie's message prompt sounded just now. She took a look at the phone. It turned out that Felix had sent a message. Click to open. "How are things going?" Seeing this message, Winnie felt helpless.

After a while, she replied a message. "It doesn't go well. There is no progress." Putting down the phone, Winnie called Luke to her side. Since Brian avoided this topic, she could only look for clues from others. "Luke, come here." Winnie sat up. As soon as she finished speaking, Luke quickly walked to Winnie's side, leaning directly on Winnie's body, looking very dependent. "Auntie, I'm here." Luke said mischievously. During this period of time, his mood had been very good. Not only did he always laugh and talk, but also often acted like a spoiled kid and made jokes. This was the state a child should have. "Luke, why have I never heard you mention Grandpa? Haven't you met Grandpa?" Winnie asked tentatively, because she didn't know if the relationship between Grandpa and Luke was good or whether it would affect Luke's mood. Surprisingly, Luke suddenly became excited when Winnie talked about his Grandpa. "I often go to see my Grandpa. Grandpa likes me and he always makes a good meal for me." Luke's smile looked brightly. It seemed that he liked Grandpa very much. "Often go to see Grandpa? Who will take you there? Your Dad?" Winnie asked, but she already knew the answer. It could not be Brian. If it was him, their relationship would not be so rigid. "No, Dad never goes to see Grandpa. Great grandpa took me there." Luke said, which fully confirmed that Brian's relationship with his father was very bad. "Why? Why doesn't Dad go to Grandpa's place?" Winnie continued to ask. "I don't know." Hearing Luke's answer, Winnie took a deep breath. It seemed that it was not easy to know the truth of the matter. "Does Luke know where Grandpa lives?" "I know. Grandpa has a villa on the outskirts of the city. Grandpa lives there alone and doesn't come back. He just had a meal with us during the New Year and then left."

CHAPTER 124 THE VIDEO

Thinking about it, it seemed that Luke hadn't been to Grandpa's for a long time, so Luke continued. "Auntie, when you're available, can you take me to Grandpa's place to play? I miss Grandpa." "Okay." Winnie said. If she could meet Luke's grandfather, she might gain something. But before going, she had to get to know Luke's grandfather. A few days passed, there was still no new news. Brian was a little anxious. He was always a calm person, but now he could not calm down. Walking back and forth in the office, he finally couldn't help but call Kevin. "What's going on? Do you have any news?" "No, Daenerys always avoids this topic. She and I are not so familiar. So we can't talk everything. Don't be anxious. I will definitely be able to get the clues." Kevin answered. To be honest, he had already met Daenerys several times, but he never asked this topic because he hadn't decided whether or not to hurt Winnie. "The faster, the better." Brian hung up the phone in disappointment. The expression on his face still did not calm down. There was a knock on the door, and then Albert walked in. "Mr. Bennet, I found the video about what you asked me to check that day. The bottle of water you drank was drugged by Penny." As soon as Albert finished reporting, he heard Brian smashing the table loudly. "Penny, I knew it's her!" Brian roared angrily. Not only because of Penny, but also because of his eagerness to find out the truth. "I checked the monitoring of the supermarket. After buying the water, she unscrewed the bottle cap and put something in, but I didn't know what it was. Based on your condition at the time, I guess it was sleeping pills." "The video is here." After Albert reported, he turned on his mobile phone to find the video and then gave it to Brian. Seeing Penny's sneaky look on the screen, Brian's anger was even more vigorous. She set him up. She deserved to be punished. She wanted to use this trick to keep her position. She had gone too far. "How is the acquisition of the Burns Group going?" Brian gloomy voice sounded in the silent room, as if it was a kind of panic before the storm. "It's still going on. Their..." "Quickly." Brian didn't want to hear any reason. He just wanted the Burns Group to close down as soon as possible. Then he could give Grandpa an explanation, and taught Penny a lesson. "Yes, I will notify Calvin immediately." Albert left the office. But Brian was lost in thought again. Although Penny was making trouble, it was Winnie who affected his mood. He hoped that there would be clues from Daenerys as soon as possible. Thinking of this, Brian thought of Penny again. She and Winnie were also classmates. Would Penny know what happened to Winnie before? Did the grudge between them have something to do with Winnie's secret? Cell phone! That cell phone must have hidden secrets of the two of them. Thinking of this, Brian quickly walked back to the desk and took out Winnie's phone from the drawer to look again. This time, he looked carefully. He opened each folder to take a look. He took a serious look at the photos of the two children when they were young. Looking closely this time, Brian still didn't see anything which was similar to Luke. When he saw Luke for the first time that year, Luke was already one month old, which was completely different from the newly born thin child in the photo. Brian frowned. Suddenly, he remembered the birthmark on Luke's body. He began to look for the same birthmark in the photo. But by coincidence, the left forearm of the child in the photo just couldn't be seen. Brian was disappointed again. He continued to search for clues. Finally, in a separate folder, Brian found a video file. But when he opened the file, his anger soared uncontrollably. In the video, Penny was teaching Luke. She scolded Luke. She would stretch out her hand to beat up Luke from time to time, but Luke did not dare to make a sound or cry. He just stood trembling all over. Brian smashed the table with all his strength like a lion going crazy. Penny! Penny! She deserved to die. She vented all her anger on Luke. She was nasty and despicable. Brian looked so furious. Could this be the reason why Penny always made trouble for Winnie? Thinking of it, Brian went out with the mobile phone. He happened to meet Winnie who had just walked out of the office. With an angry face and cold eyes, Brian walked to Winnie's side and pulled Winnie directly into the elevator. This sudden behavior made Winnie confused. "Mr. Bennet..." "Follow me. I have something to tell you." Brian's tone was so domineering. He did not give Winnie a chance to refute. The two people stepped into the elevator. The scene where Brian was holding Winnie's hand happened to be seen by Klara. She was so jealous. Winnie was taken home by Brian. There was no one in the house at this time, so it was most convenient to talk about things. "What's the matter? I asked you all the way, but you just pulled a long face and didn't answer me." From Brian's furious face and the strength of Brian holding her hand, Winnie knew that something important happened. Brian didn't speak. Then he took Winnie's mobile phone out from his pocket and handed it to Winnie. "Is this your phone?" Winnie looked at her mobile phone. She felt so surprised. How could the phone be in Brian's hands? Did he see the contents of the phone? So he was so angry? "It's mine. How did you get it?" Winnie said. "It doesn't matter who got it. What is the video inside?" Brian spoke coldly. The anger in his eyes was too obvious, making Winnie feel sad, as if there was evidence of her doing something wrong. Since Brian asked her that, it showed that he must have seen the video inside. But why did he come to her instead of coming to Penny? Winnie turned on the phone and first found the video folder. There was nothing in it. It was obviously deleted. Then she opened another folder. There was only one video in it, which was the video of Penny's beating up Luke on the day of the banquet. "Explain what's going on." Brian asked coldly. The anger in his eyes seemed to scorch Winnie. "It's what you saw. What can I explain? The video was made by me. I..." Winnie had no choice but to tell the truth. She seemed unable to keep her promise to the chairman and Luke. "I didn't ask you who took the video. I was asking why you didn't tell me." Brian suddenly roared loudly and interrupted Winnie's words. "Luke doesn't let me say, for fear that you will worry about him. The chairman also doesn't let me say. He said it will affect his plan, so I can't help but hide it from you. Besides, what if I tell you? Will you divorce Penny? Huh?" Winnie was not afraid of Brian's anger. At the beginning, she said very calmly, but afterwards, she couldn't control her emotions. She had kept the secret for a long time. She also wanted to find someone to vent loudly and to roar. But why did she become the object of venting anger instead? For the sake of the overall situation, was she wrong? Brian was speechless when Winnie asked him. Now, he was standing in front of Winnie, but he was so angry with Penny. At this time, he couldn't teach Penny a lesson. He could only vent his anger on Winnie. This was unfair to Winnie. "I can't for the time being." "If you can't, don't question me. I can't help it either." Winnie asked back loudly. Like Brian, she was filled with anger too. "Grandpa also knows about this?" Brian's voice was somewhat restrained. He realized that his attitude towards Winnie was a little too far. "Yes. Last time when Penny abused Luke, I had no choice but to call the chairman." Since Brian already knew it, Winnie didn't have to hide from him. Since this matter couldn't be concealed, she told him everything. "How many times did she abuse Luke?" Brian was so sad. His heart was broken when he thought of Luke's helpless little face. "How many times? I don't know. Anyway, as long as you are not at home, as long as she feels a little unhappy, she will abuse Luke." These were what Luke said to Winnie. Now she told Brian. But she still felt so furious. "Brian, come with me to see how Penny abused Luke." Winnie decided to show all the evidence to Brian, letting him know as a father how unqualified he was. She wanted to let him think about what he was doing when Luke was abused. After Winnie finished speaking, she turned angrily and went directly to her studio, followed by Brian. Winnie opened her laptop and found all the videos she had collected, then she showed them to Brian one by one, while crying. Brian's eyes widened. He couldn't believe that Penny was so vicious. He could not accept that Luke had suffered a lot. Seeing Luke's thin body curled up on the ground and being kicked one by one by Penny, Brian couldn't wait to kill Penny now. "Why didn't Luke tell me? Why did he bear it alone? He is just a little kid. Would he continue to be abused if he didn't meet you?" Brian seemed to be asking, but it was like more self-blame. All of this was caused by him. Luke took all the unhappiness between him and Penny. His poor child had been living in darkness and pain. As his father, he didn't know it at all. "Why? Why? You still ask me why? You are so alienated and indifferent to him. How can he tell you? All your attention is on women. Have you had cared about him a little? As long as you care for him even a little, he would not be abused." Winnie couldn't help but cry fiercely. Finally, she could accuse Brian loudly. Finally, she could fight for Luke. "I really don't know that things will be like this. I was wrong. I ignored Luke." Brian blamed himself. His guilt towards Luke reached its peak at this moment. Such a small child had tolerated what he shouldn't bear.

CHAPTER 125 CLARIFY FOR HERSELF

"Are you wrong? Now you realize that you are wrong? Do you know that Luke was suffering from depression because of being abused by Penny? I asked you to be gentle with him and try to give him more love, but what about you? You just know to make things difficult to me. As a father, is it what you should do? He is your child. Isn't he important than your woman?" Winnie almost yelled. She questioned loudly, tears streaming down her face. She felt heartbreak. Winnie despised Brian. For other women, he made her child suffer. "Depression? Luke?" Brian was shocked again. "Yes, Luke, because of your neglect of him, he was depressed. He left a shadow that could not be erased for a lifetime. I can't figure it out. You are so powerful. Penny is not Luke's real mother. Why can't you divorce her? Why do you still keep her by your side? Why do you want to covet the strength of her family? Did you know that Luke's life was almost ruined by her?" At this time, Winnie was almost crazy. She could no longer care about what she should say and what she shouldn't say. Brian suddenly looked at Winnie coldly. "How do you know that Penny is not Luke's mom?" "Not only I know, Luke also knows. Luke told me all this. Which mother does not love her children? Which mother is willing to abuse the child like that? If Penny is Luke's mother, I won't ask you to divorce her. Would I be so cruel to separate Luke from his mother?" Winnie cried so fiercely. But she still held on to confront Brian. He should have known all this, and he should have endured all this a long time ago. "Luke also knows it?" Brian muttered to himself. He was no longer as furious as just now. He just felt guilt towards Luke. He thought that all this was well concealed. He thought that Luke could grow up happily if he had a Mommy. He didn't expect Luke to know everything. He didn't expect that Luke had to bear so much. As for him, what had he done for so many years? He blamed all the resentment on Luke just for the departure of that woman. He ignored Luke. He didn't care about Luke. It turned out that he was the culprit. It turned out that he was the one who deserved to be scolded the most. Winnie had no strength because of crying so long at this time. She didn't want to answer Brian's question. If he wanted to get the truth, he could investigate it himself. If she said more, he would think she was a liar again. The studio fell silent. The only voice that could be heard was Winnie's low sob. For a long while, Brian's eyes became cold again. He frowned. Then he picked up the phone and dialed a phone number. "Find someone to temporarily manage MT. Call Morgan over. You, Morgan and Calvin, the three of you will do your best to deal with the Burns Group and buy it in the shortest time." Brian gave the order coldly. He had to let the Burns Group pay the price. He had to let Penny regret to beat up Luke, and let Penny return to the poor college days. Brian put down the phone. But he was still full of anger. Looking at Winnie's red eyes, he felt guilty. Walking to Winnie's side, he pulled her onto the sofa. Then he took a tissue to help Winnie wipe the tears off. "Don't cry. I'm sorry for Luke. I will definitely not let Penny go." Brian held back his resentment towards Penny and comforted Winnie in a low voice. At this moment, the person he should be most grateful to was Winnie, who used her own power to save Luke. Hearing that Brian was about to acquire the Burns Group immediately, Winnie relaxed a little. She gradually stopped crying. She took a deep breath with trembling voice. "I insist on letting Penny leave you. It's not because I have any selfish intentions. I just want Luke to grow up in a good environment. If you can separate from Penny, I won't worry about it." After Winnie finished speaking, she took a deep breath, as if to exhale all the muddy breath in her body. "I told you that I will separate from her. We have some special relationship. We just signed a contract. The contract will be terminated when the time is up." Brian tried to comfort Winnie. He understood everything she did to Luke now. Winnie was a little shocked that they turned out to be a contractual marriage. But Winnie calmly thought about that matter again. He and Penny had already had sex. What was the difference between a contractual marriage and a real marriage? "I don't care about that. It's your own business. I just want Luke to grow up in a good environment. If you can't give him a good growth environment, I'm willing to take care of him until he grows up." Even if the contract was terminated, maybe there was second Penny. But if the woman could accept Luke, she would leave. "I can give him a good growth environment. I am already sorry for him. I can't let him continue to be hurt." Brian assured Winnie that he would never let Luke suffer any harm. "Where is that woman? Can you guarantee that she won't be the second Penny?" Winnie felt that she had asked something that she shouldn't ask. But she had to be sure. Otherwise, she would never be relieved. "... " Brian didn't answer. His face was a little terrible. "Forget it. When the woman comes back, if she really can't accept Luke, you can give me Luke." With that said, Winnie really hoped that woman couldn't accept Luke, so that she could live with Luke forever. "How did you know that Luke was abused?" After a moment of silence, Brian changed the topic. He couldn't answer Winnie, because he was not sure whether Wendy would accept Luke. "The first time I saw a bruise on Luke's legs, so I asked Luke. He said that it was Mommy who beat him. Later Luke told me that Mommy was not his real Mommy, so I gave Luke a doll. The doll's eyes are cameras, connected to my phone. So I know." At that time, Winnie took great pains, but the purpose was simple, just to help Luke in time. "You told me not to leave Luke alone because of this?" Brian thought about those things. Then he found everything seemed to make sense. "Yes, but you didn't listen to me, so Luke was beaten." Winnie felt a little disappointed. She still felt heartbreak for Luke. "Last time, when we were on a business trip together, you ran to me and cried for this?" "Yes, it was that time. After that, I used various methods to keep Luke by my side. I exchanged a piece of software for Luke's staying with me, but in the end, Luke was still taken away by the chairman, or else Luke didn't have to be abused once." Winnie said in a low voice. After sighed to relieve her sorrows, she continued. "Luke was abused by Penny. I gave you so many calls but you didn't answer. I wanted to drive over but I don't know where you live. I called Klara. Klara didn't tell me. I had no choice but to call the chairman. I scolded Klara because of it. But in the end, I was scolded by you." Finally, Winnie had the opportunity to tell the truth of the matter, and finally she had the opportunity to clarify for herself. Every time when Winnie thought of this, she felt heartbroken. "When I rescued Luke, I vowed that I would never let Luke suffer such a pain again, but he still got depression. During this period, Penny went to kindergarten several times to take Luke away. I didn't agree." "Sorry, I made you bear what you shouldn't have to bear." Brian was ashamed of himself. He felt guilty for Winnie. He had never thought of how much wronged Winnie suffered during this period. "Penny stolen your mobile phone and smashed your computer because of these videos, right? So she always makes troubles for you, right?" Everything could be explained now, except that Winnie was still a mystery, there was nothing else to explore. "Yes, I said at the beginning that Penny and Klara partnered to steal my mobile phone. You don't believe me. What can I do?" Winnie said sadly. For Brian, she really had no ways. Since Brian first met her, Brian was skeptical about everything she said. Later she also gave up. Just let Brian believe others and doubt her. His eyes were not good and his ears didn't want to hear the most authentic things, so why bothered him? "Sorry, I..." At this moment, Brian could only say a few words. Winnie was tired of listening to him saying sorry. "Stop saying sorry. From your point of view, you don't think you have done anything wrong, so why bother to say sorry? Our positions are different. I can understand you." Winnie interrupted Brian. She had already gotten the grievance. She had already taken the blame. Sorry couldn't smooth this out. It just made her feel even more sad. "Okay, you already know the things. It's your business how to do it. Be nice to Luke in the future. It will take some time for him to recover." Winnie said that she got up. No matter what happened, she had to go on. Life had to go on. She couldn't sit here and listen to him saying sorry. "Winwin, I still want to know one thing." Brian spoke in time. Winnie did not speak. She just quietly waited for Brian to continue speaking. "Is it true that Penny said you were a liar?" Brian wanted to figure out the thing. Although Penny's words were not credible, Leo had not given him a positive answer. Although the result of Albert's investigation was negative, Winnie never denied it. When Winnie heard Brian's words, she smiled bitterly. "If you can ask me the question, it means that you just believe Penny's words. If you believe me, you won't ask me. Of course I am a liar. I deceived you one hundred million. Even if I say I'm not a liar, you wouldn't believe it." So just treat her as a liar! Just hurt her as much as he wanted, lest she got stuck in the quagmire of love and couldn't get out. Winnie turned and left. It didn't matter whether she was a liar or not. It didn't matter how Brian thought of her. If Brian could let Luke live with her, she would rather be a liar. Brian couldn't describe his feeling today. For the first time, he felt that he had hurt others. There were two people he had hurt. One was his son... The other was his woman. Now the person he hated most was Penny, but he must endure her for a period of time. After the acquisition of the Burns Group was over, he would let Penny pay for the price.

CHAPTER 126 SUPPORT LEO

Winnie returned to the company and continued to work. Since Brian promised to divorce Penny and to avenge Luke, she didn't have to deal with Penny in person. However, should the transaction with Brian be over? After Vanessa came back from school and passed the parking lot, she happened to meet Leo. She had known Leo before under the introduction of her sister. Although her sister told her about the complicated relationship between them, Vanessa still thought that Leo was a good person. He was sunny, handsome, gentle, steady and humorous. He was a good guy. Vanessa thought that this kind of man was suitable for her sister. Only this kind of man could give her sister happiness. "Leo!" Vanessa stopped Leo who was walking in front of her, and catch up with Leo. "You just came back from get out of class?" Leo asked with a smile. "Yes. Why did you get off work so early?" Vanessa found the topic casually. "Well, it's not busy today. So I come back early. How are you? How about your study?" Leo was very willing to chat with Vanessa. He liked Vanessa very much, just because he loved Winnie. During this period of time, he was very busy. He even didn't have time to come back. After seeing Winnie, he always kept the distance deliberately. Since the last time he confessed to Winnie and was rejected, he did feel sad for a few days and persuaded himself to give up. But he found that it was easy to love someone, but it was hard to forget someone. Therefore, he decided to let nature take its course. He didn't want to embarrass himself. Maybe Winnie would fall in love with him one day. "Go to our house for dinner. You're alone. Let's eat together. I'll go home to help with my sister to cook." Without waiting for Leo to answer, Vanessa hurriedly ran home. Leo smiled. Vanessa ran home, but saw that Brian was also there. She was a little disappointed for an instant, but she didn't show it out. "Brian, you are here. You miss Luke, right?" Vanessa said hello. Even if Brian didn't come for Luke, she insisted that he came for Luke. She didn't want Brian to have anything to do with her sister. "Yes, I come to see Luke." Brian had no other way to answer. He could only say that he had come to see Luke. Vanessa went straight to the kitchen without speaking. But she deliberately spoke loudly. "Sister, I just met Leo. He is alone, so I invited him to come to our house for dinner. Make more food. He will come over in a while. I'm going to change clothes and come down to help you cook." Vanessa ran upstairs without waiting for Winnie to react. In the living room, Brian happened to hear what Vanessa said. Brian frowned, not understanding why Vanessa suddenly changed her attitude. In this way, Leo and Brian sat at the same table for dinner again. Brian came here. Leo also appeared suddenly. Although the food was good, the atmosphere was not very good. After Leo came in, Brian's face sank. They didn't talk more. Even the voice of greeting was cold. "I didn't prepare wine today. So just eat some food." Winnie was embarrassed. But she couldn't show her embarrassment out. If her face was covered with clouds, both children would not eat well. What she could do was smile, no matter who was on this table. "This is already very rich. I'm embarrassed to always come over to trouble you." Leo said softly. The smile on his face was kind. Compared with Brian, it could only be said they were different. One was like an angel and one was like to come from the hell. "Leo, enjoy yourself. We are all neighbors. We have to help each other. Maybe someday, we have to ask you for help." Before Winnie could speak, Vanessa responded enthusiastically.

However, that Vanessa showed her favor to Leo made Brian very uncomfortable. It seemed that he needed to have a good talk with Vanessa, or she would give her sister as a gift to Leo one day. Winnie belonged to him. No one could take her away from him. "I hope you can trouble me. I will try my best to help." Leo was so happy. He also saw Vanessa's preference for him. It seemed that he was not hopeless. Winnie was getting more and more embarrassed. Looking at Brian's dark face, Winnie felt that her fake smile was a little embarrassing. When Leo and Brian met, even if they didn't speak, they didn't like each other, not to mention that there was someone showing her obvious supporting, which could only make the atmosphere more tense. "Okay, let's eat quickly. If you don't eat it, it will be cold." Winnie could only tactfully interrupt the conversation between Vanessa and Leo. She was really worried that if Vanessa continued to talk, Brian would be mad. The meal was a bit weird. Although Winnie was not full, it was finally over. After the meal, Leo went home to rest. Brian also drove away. Winnie finally found a chance to chat with Vanessa alone. Winnie came to Vanessa's room on the second floor. "Are you studying? Can we talk for a sec?" "Sister, what's up?" Vanessa answered with a smile. "Vanessa, don't invite Leo over in the future. It's no longer possible between me and Leo. Last time, when he confessed to me, I already refused." Winnie leaned on Vanessa's desk and told Vanessa about this, hoping that things like today wouldn't happen again in the future. She didn't want to give Leo hope, and didn't want to disappoint him in the end. Disappointment was the most painful injury. "Why? Sister, are you stupid? Leo is such a good person. He is rich and powerful. The most important thing is that he likes you. He must have realized that he was wrong before so he would confess to you again. Why did you refuse him?" Vanessa felt it was a pity. It was an opportunity but her sister could not grasp it. "Vanessa, love is not as simple as you think. He and I are over. I have been hurt. Although the wound will heal, it will still leave scars." "Do you know who snatched Leo from me? Do you know when she snatched Leo?" Winnie sighed. It still hurt to talk about the scars of the past. But if she didn't make it clear, Vanessa would be persistent. Vanessa didn't speak, waiting for Winnie to continue speaking. "Penny, the girl you treat her as sister. She took Leo away when our family needed help the most. Vanessa, you don't realize how painful that kind of injury is. I will never forget it in my life." Winnie said sadly, with a bitter helplessness on her face. "Penny?" Vanessa asked. When her sister was in college, the three of them were best friends. How could her sister be betrayed by her best friends? Last time, Winnie only said that Leo was robbed by her friend, but Vanessa did not expect it to be Penny. "Yes, it's her. If it wasn't for her to snatch Leo away at that time, Leo would help me with that difficulty, then I wouldn't end up with a surrogacy." "I've never coveted Leo's money. As long as he helps me, I will definitely make money back to him. But when I was in a difficult time, Leo chose Penny. This is a scar in my heart that can't be healed. So it's impossible for Leo and I to get back." Although Winnie no longer hated Leo, and understood that no one had the obligation to help her, in that special situation, how much she expected that Leo could help her! However, the greater the expectation, the greater the hurt. Even if she thought about it at the moment of death, she would still feel hurt. "Sister....." Vanessa felt it was a pity. She wanted to persuade her sister to forget the past, but seeing her sister's injured look, she didn't go on. She just felt it was a pity for her sister to give up Leo in this way. If her sister let go of Leo, Brian would have the big chance to get her sister. "Sister, it's okay not to be with Leo, but you must stay away from Brian. Aunt said that even if you are single, you can't be someone else's mistress." In the end, Vanessa did not forget to remind Winnie to avoid future troubles. "Don't worry. There is nothing between Brian and I." Winnie had to lie, but she was certain of one thing, which was there was no ending between her and Brian. Brian finally ended the morning meeting and returned to his office. He sat on the sofa wearily, and saw the time inadvertently. It was already noon. He got up and went to the desk to press the call."Order some lunch. Call Miss Winnie over."After Brian ordered, he went directly to the lounge. Now he never hid his feelings to Winnie in front of Klara. He thought that it was a good thing to let Klara know his relationship with Winnie, so that Klara could give up. Then she could work with peace of mind.Thinking of that Winnie got wronged because of his defending for Klara before, Brian felt that he was a bastard. Brian was lying on the bed in the lounge, recalling the past. Winnie knocked on the door and walked in."What can I do for you? Do you have to convey the spirit of the meeting in person?"Winnie asked, neither teasing nor particularly serious. But there seemed to be something in her eyes."Can't I ask you to come for lunch?"Brian said while tapping his side with his hand, motioning Winnie to sit next to him.Winnie looked down. After thinking for a moment, she walked to the bed and sat down, but she didn't sit close to Brian."Since the meal has not been delivered, I want to talk something with you."Winnie said in a low voice."Since you already know what happened to Luke, you can't let Luke be abused anymore. Luke's life will get better in the future. I..."Winnie was a little hesitant. She thought a lot last night, but she found that she was reluctant to end the twisted relationship between them."The point is?"Brian asked in a deep voice. He noticed Winnie was a little weird today."Our relationship should also end."Winnie, who was enduring the pain, said it out.It was Brian who was silent this time.He suddenly became cold and frowned. He knew Winnie was weird today. He thought that she would warn him not to go to her house again. But he didn't expect that she would end this relationship.He also thought about the two should break up, but it was not now. He didn't expect that it would be so fast. He disagreed. He would not want Winnie to say break up. Even if they had to separate, it could only be him who proposed first."You mean I will take Luke home?"

CHAPTER 127 A CHOICE WITHOUT HESITATION

Brian suddenly mentioned Luke. In his opinion, if they had to break up, he had to take Luke away. Winnie never thought about giving up Luke. She thought that Brian would not threaten her with Luke. After all, he already knew the truth of the matter. But she was wrong. Brian was Brian. No matter what came, he would be the most reason one. "No, I didn't say that I will give up Luke. I just think our relationship should end." Winnie quickly denied it. "When I promised to be your woman, I wanted to use this relationship to drive Penny away and let Luke grow up in a stable environment. Now..." "Does Luke no longer need you? If our relationship is over, I have to take Luke home. Do you think Luke can leave you in his current situation? Do you think your departure will be good to Luke's recover?" Brian wanted to get angry. But he thought that his previous attitude towards Winnie had already hurt her, so he could only keep Winnie stay in such a relatively gentle way. "Luke can still stay with me. I can take care of him." In fact, Winnie knew very well that if she did not tell others the real relationship between her and Luke, she would not be able to stay with Luke. One day, she would be separated from Luke. What she was talking about now had nothing to do with Luke, it was that the improper relationship between her and Brian must end. Besides, even if the relationship ended, it would not affect her taking care of Luke. "You mean you can accept Luke, but you can't accept me, right?" Brian was still trying to suppress his anger. He was thinking in secret why Winnie suddenly changed her attitude towards him. Did Vanessa change her mind? Did she want to be with Leo? "There is nothing to accept or not. The relationship between us is originally a contract. It is normal to terminate it." Winnie couldn't hold on. It was a torment for her to say break up. But she had to endure this kind of torment. "Contractual relationship?"

Well, well. Since it is a contractual relationship, I can tell you now. As long as our relationship is terminated, I must take Luke away. This is the condition that we stated at the time. You can't see Luke again in the future. I will never let Penny go, but I can't guarantee that Wendy can accept Luke." The anger in Brian's mind had almost scorched himself, but he was still trying his best to endure it. He didn't show any anger out, but he was still cold. He finally couldn't lie down. He got out of bed, and came to the window with his back facing Winnie. "Wendy is the woman you love, right?" Winnie seemed to be asking, but she was sure. Wendy, what a nice name! She must be very beautiful. Otherwise, how could Brian willingly wait her for so many years? "You..." Winnie put the focus on Wendy. Didn't she know that he was keeping her stay? "I'm talking about Luke's affairs. It doesn't matter to you who Wendy is. Now you have two choices. One is to give up Luke. Then I can terminate the contract. The other is to stay by my side and continue to take care of Luke." "I choose to continue to take care of Luke, but I also have a request. After Wendy comes back, if she does not accept Luke, you have to give Luke to me." Winnie chose Luke without hesitation, but she also had her own requirements at this time. She not only said this request once, but Brian didn't give her a clear answer every time. "Luke is my child. It seems inappropriate to let him live with you. At that time, Wendy is also Luke's family. What will she think if Luke lives with you?" Brian was not sure about the future. If Wendy could accept Luke, he must let Luke live with him. Brian's words made Winnie stunned. There was sadness in her eyes for an instant. "You are a good man. You are always thinking about your own woman. Wendy is the happiest woman." He thought about Penny. He protected Klara because of the shit guilty. Now, he was working hard for Wendy. What about her? Why did he not think about her once? She was Luke's mother. "... " Brian looked at Winnie deeply, but couldn't say a word. "You are right. Wendy will be Luke's Mom by then. The child should be with Mommy. But this is the case where Wendy can accept Luke. If she can't accept Luke, will I still be able to protect Luke? Can I reappear in front of you?" Winnie asked calmly, but she had already tried her best to hide the sadness to say it out. "... " Brian remained silent. He didn't know if Winnie's assumptions would come true. He was not sure whether he could find Wendy. "We will see how things develop at that time." After silence, Brian gave this answer. Because this topic was not going on, Brian started the next topic, which was the main reason why he asked Winnie over. "Don't you want to buy a house for Vanessa? Buy it as soon as possible. I have arranged for Klara to move in the house you live in now." Winnie didn't have any feelings to the first sentence, but after listening to the last sentence, she felt so heartbroken. It turned out that he wanted to drive her away to give the place to Klara. Although he already knew that Klara had done many things wrong, he still favored Klara. "Vanessa will have the exam in another ten days. Can you wait for ten days? I don't want to disturb her during this time." Winnie wanted to buy some time. After all, buying a house was not like shopping. She couldn't find a suitable house in short time. "It's best to move out immediately. Klara's parents will be here in two days, plus her parents-in-law. They have nowhere to live." Brian said seriously. He didn't want to give Winnie one more day. Winnie was helpless again. She didn't expect Brian to be so merciless. "You should have told me earlier. Give me a day off tomorrow. I will go out to see the house. I won't let Klara be embarrassed." Winnie still endured the sadness. She was whispering. At this moment, she just wanted to let her heart die, and then she could not feel the pain. Brian was on a business trip the next day. Winnie started looking for a house. It was impossible to buy a house now. Because it was not her house. She had to consider many aspects. Even if she bought a house, it was impossible to move in within a day or two. Winnie's only way now was to rent a house. She spent the morning looking for a three-bedroom and one-living house near the children's kindergarten. It took an afternoon to clean up the house and purchased the necessities. The next morning, she woke up and moved out. Then she sent the children to school. After finishing these, she went to work. She didn't let anyone know about all this. Even her neighbor, Leo, didn't know that she had moved. Winnie walked in through the secretary's room. "Miss Klara, I have vacated the house. You can move in." "Sorry, Miss Winnie, I can't do anything about it. My parents and parents-in-law are all old. I'm always on the business trips. I can't take care of them often. Let them live together and take care of each other. I can rest assured." Klara said sorry, but she looked very proud. "It's okay. Nothing serious. Your idea is right. You can work with confidence if the elderly take care of each other. I have to go back to the office." Winnie said with a smile. This matter had nothing to do with Klara. Brian was the person who made things difficult for her. Winnie knew that what Brian had wasn't just only this house. Brian must feel disgust to her so he drove her away to let Klara live there. After Winnie returned to the office, Klara called Brian. "Mr. Bennet, Miss Winnie has vacated the house." "So soon? Where did she move?" Brian was surprised. "She didn't say." Klara didn't ask at all. As for where to move, she didn't want to know. It was better that Winnie moved to other planets. "... There was a moment of silence on the phone. "You pack up and move in." Brian hung up after saying it. After going home at night, they were a little uncomfortable. The house was not as big as it used to be, and the two children had to live in the same room. But the children didn't say anything. For them, as long as they were with Mommy, they felt like it was home. But Vanessa didn't understand it. When she came back from the cram school last night, she knew about the things. Then she packed up with her sister. She woke up early this morning to move out, so she didn't have time to ask her sister. Now the two children were playing in the living room, and the sister was tidying things in the room. She couldn't calm down to study. She just asked her sister what was going on. "Sister, did something happen to the company? Why did we move out suddenly?" "No, nothing. There is an employee in the company who is more than we need that house. So I moved out." "Vanessa, don't have any burdens. Remember, even if I don't have a job, you and aunt can live a good life. I can research a piece of software, then I can get hundreds of thousands of dollars." Winnie thought that Vanessa was worried about her work. So she could only comfort Vanessa. "Sister, I don't worry. I know your abilities. I am worried that you were bullied by colleagues in the company." "No, no one bullied me. I've never been bullied. Don't worry about me. The most important thing for you now is to study and take the college entrance exam to let me feel proud of you." Being bullied was already a common thing for Winnie. But she had long been used to it. She just couldn't let Vanessa know it. Otherwise, Vanessa would be under pressure and would be worried about her. "It's fine as long as no one bullies you, then I'll go back to study." Vanessa was relieved when she heard that her sister hadn't been bullied. The rest things didn't matter to her. Winnie kept packing till late. The children and Vanessa both slept. She was tired and had to stop, but there were still a lot of things that hadn't been unpacked. Lying on the bed, although it was hot and sweaty, Winnie felt cold. Brian took her house today. Would he take back the car next? Take it back. Take back everything that he gave to her. Then she could get rid of the relationship. Then she could feel relieved. Without taking a shower, without taking off her clothes, Winnie was about to fall asleep like this, but the phone rang.

CHAPTER 128 PREPARE FOR MYSELF IN ADVANCE

Winnie directly answered the phone without even bothering to look at the number. "Hello?" Her voice sounded so low and weak that Brian's heart suddenly tightened when hearing it. "Are you okay?"

Hearing Brian's voice coming from the other side, Winnie immediately cheered herself up. "I am fine. I am just about to go to sleep." The actual fact was that she couldn't whine to him, complaining about how tired she was. Because it just was a waste of breath. "Have you moved yet?" Hearing that Winnie's voice was getting a bit cheerful, Brian then gave a sign of relief. Today after answering Klara's phone, Brian was planning to call Winnie, but something urgent happened that he needed to handle immediately which made this call had been delayed until now. "Yes, we have moved. That house has been emptied now." Winnie's voice sounded delightful, but actually she was wearing a sad face. "Have you bought a house in such a short time? Where is the house?" Brian thought that Winnie would ask him for help in terms of buying a house, but who knew that she could have handle this all by herself. "I don't buy a house, I just rent an apartment near the kindergarten. You want us to move out in such a hurry, but Vanessa is in cram school, so I can't decide where to buy the house in such a short time. I have no choice but only to find a place to live temporarily. I'll buy one when Vanessa's finals are over." Winnie really wanted to disappear and told Brian nothing, but it was a bit unrealistic. He was so powerful, even if she went to the moon he could find her out, unless she went to the heaven. "You rent an apartment and again share it with others?" Brian asked coldly, thinking it was another cramped room like the last one, where several people lived together. "No. There are so many of us and no one wants to share an apartment with us. There is one hall and three bedrooms in the apartment which is quite nice." Winnie answered coldly, thinking that since they had been kicked out from the house, then what kind of house they were going to live in was totally up to her. "Now the apartment is very close to the kindergarten, which is very convenient for me to send and pick up the kids. There is no need for me to use the car, so I return it to you." Winnie continued. In all, what she got from Brian were only a car and a cell phone. Now the car was returned to him, the phone she would also find an opportunity to return to him, but just in cash. As for that 100 million dollars, sooner or later she would return them to him too. "Winnie, you are doing this again, what do you want?" Brian suddenly became angry. The most annoying thing was that Winnie always wanted to return everything to him, which made him feel like she was going to leave him forever. "Keep your voice down, don't always get angry so easily. I don't want anything from you. I just think it is better to prepare for myself beforehand than to wait for you to ask me to give your things back to you. It's late now, you should go to sleep too." After saying that, Winnie hung up the phone directly, and then turned off the phone. She didn't want to hear him growling when she was helplessly tired. Brian was about to be mad, his phone was hung up and he couldn't call her back. It was obviously that she was avoiding him. Did she get angry when he asked her to return the house back? But he also had his own ideas. Or was he saying it in a wrong way? Why was she always thinking she was the victim? Brian rushed back the next night and went straight to Winnie's house after getting off the plane. Opening the door, everything in front of him was not the same as what he thought. The apartment was totally different from the previous one. The apartment was not completely packed, and boxes were stacked on one side. The kids only could play in the small living room. There were three bedrooms, one for Vanessa, only with a desk, a single bed and a small closet. One for the kids, with two single beds and a desk. The last room was for Winnie. Winnie's room was the smallest of these bedrooms, with a single bed, a computer desk and an easily assembled closet. It was so small that even could not save the space for the dresser. Brian checked the apartment with his eyebrow frown all the way, and then immediately made a decision. "Move out now, you can't live here." Brian's voice was a bit loud. Winnie was afraid that the kids would hear it and went to close the door first. Only then did she return to Brian's side. "Don't bother, there is only a few days away from Vanessa's exams, she can't be disturbed. And I don't feel bad about this place. It is convenient for me to pick up the kids. We will stay here for now, and move out later once we buy a house." Winnie refused his request, she finally walked out of Brian's shadow. She did not want to go back to her old life. "I'll prepare a house for you in the next few days, and you'll move out after Vanessa's exams." Brian could compromise in order to no longer affect Vanessa. But he absolutely could not let Winnie live here all the time. This was also not the original intention of letting her move out of the house. "There's no need. If you really want to help me, you would have helped me find another house before kicking me out. And don't use Vanessa as an excuse to help me find a house. If you really care about us, you wouldn't have given me only two days." Since he hadn't even considered her condition when she was driven out, and now he was coming to offer his hospitality, Winnie didn't need it at all. "The reason I kick you out..." Brian wanted to tell the truth, but if he did it, Winnie would definitely be more angrier, the words coming from his mouth could only be swallowed back. "You should leave this matter alone, I will have someone come to help you move when the time comes." Brian said firmly, but Winnie also insisted on her own ideas. "No, these things were all packed by me during the whole night. I moved them over here all by myself. If you help me move them away again, sooner or later I still have to move them out of your house, so are you really helping me or torturing me?" "This time it is Klara who needs the house, and then I have to move out for her. The next time when Wendy comes back, then I have to move out again. So am I a clown for you to make fun of at will?" Winnie couldn't hold back the anger in her heart and began to question Brian. "Brian, since you can't accompany me for the rest of your life, then you should not get involved in my life. You have the woman you want to wait for, and I can also find a man who tolerates everything about me. We are in a contractual relationship, you keep Luke on my side and I'll sleep with you, it's as simple as that. So let's not have any more interactions other than having sex together, and do not make fun of me like a monkey." For Winnie, she was determined to clear up their relationship with Brian, in the future she would never let Brian participate in her life, and definitely would not let him affect her mood. This was a chance for her to go back to her own life, which should be quite and peaceful. She never wanted to sacrifice herself for Brian again. "I can have a woman, you can't have a man. We are in a contractual relationship, but when should it end is entirely up to me, and if I don't let go of you, you will never leave me for the rest of your life." Brian was furious. He was so angry because Winnie was so determined to leave him, because Winnie was going to look for another man. This was a problem he had been avoiding, a problem he had never dared to think about, and when Winnie finally said it, he felt like he was drowning in a mudslide, feeling absolutely smothering and panic. He was about to leave, but was quickly pulled by Winnie. "Do not leave now, calm down for a while, or the kids will worry about you if they see your angry face." Now Brian was extremely furious with his face and ears red. If the kids see him now, it would affect the mood of the kids. They are still feeling unhappy because of moving out of the house so suddenly. Brian's angry face would make them feel more unsecured, then they may need more time to get used to this new place. Brian glared at Winnie sulkily, thinking that all she did was for the goodness of the kids, he reluctantly stayed there to calm himself down. He turned back to walk to the bed and sat down, breathing heavily to release his discontent and coldness. Brian sat on the edge of the bed and did not say anything. Winnie sat in front of the computer table and mindlessly clicked the mouse. It took a while for Winnie to break the silence. "This house is for temporary use, although it is not as good as the previous one, it will not let Luke feel uneasy here. After Vanessa's exams, I will take Vanessa out to buy a house. I return the car to you, because you have given me a lot of money before, and I will buy another one for myself." Winnie said calmly, she was just repeating her position, but also telling Brian, even if he now prepared a palace for her, she would not go there to live. Winnie got up after finishing her words, and handed the key that was on the computer desk to Brian. Everything of

Brian did not belong to her, it would only damage her dignity if she accepted his things. As for buying a car and a house, she won't use Brian's money to buy them either. The 100 million dollars, if it was not to stabilize Brian's emotions, she would have returned it to him long ago. "Can you not be so stubborn? The reason I let you move out of that house is not..." Brian's emotions became relatively stable, he intended to tell the truth to Winnie so that she would not feel aggrieved for this. But when he was about to reveal the truth, his phone rang. Brian picked up the phone, with his eyes suddenly drifted elsewhere. "Wendy, are you up?" Brian's voice suddenly got gentle. "Well, I'm up. How about you, do you have dinner?" A sweet and soft voice came from the other side. "I haven't eaten yet, I just come back from a business trip." Brian replied absentmindedly, talking while gazing at Winnie. Winnie knew who the phone call was from when she heard the softness of Brian's voice. She smiled at him, comparing Brian's attitude before and after Wendy's call in her heart. Just now when talking to her, he was like a lion roaring wildly and desperately wanting to eat her alive. But now when talking to Wendy, his voice became so warm and gentle, just like the spring breeze flowing into her ears. Winnie walked away and left quietly. Although she knew that Brian did not belong to her, but she couldn't stand him to be so warm to other woman. She couldn't control Brian, but she could choose to leave and not to hear him flirting with other women. Winnie came to the living room where the two kids were playing with toys and wanted to join them, but at the moment she was not in the mood. "You two stay at home and play by yourself, I'm going to the supermarket to buy something." Then, Winnie walked out of the house. After Brian finished his call, he saw that Winnie was not there and asked the kids, and knew that Winnie had gone to the supermarket. "Daddy, we have so many houses, can we take one out for Auntie Winwin to live in?" Luke walked to Brian's side and asked directly. They moved in such a sudden, the moment he knew about the move he wanted to call his dad, but later heard that his dad was on a business trip, so he didn't bother to call. "This place is not good, is it? Is Luke not used to living in a house like this? How about Megan? Are you used to live in here? If you are not used to this place, uncle will find another place for you." Brian sat on the sofa and gathered the kids to his side.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 129 DO YOU WANT TO KNOW THE TRUTH?

For the first time, he observed these two kids so attentively. They had a lot of similarities, they all had different shapes of birthmarks on their bodies, one on the left arm, and the other on the right arm. Megan was more like Winnie. At first glance, she was just the same as Winnie, but taking a closer look, she also looked like him in many places, such as forehead, ears, eyes. If Megan was his child, how happy he would be. "Uncle, the place we lived when we were in A City was just as big as this one. My aunt and grandmother lived in one room, and I lived with my mommy in one room. So I can get used to this kind of house and I don't need you to find a better one." Megan said in a gentle voice, Mommy said it doesn't matter what size it is, it is enough when it is cozy. As long as we are together, even living on the roadside is a kind of happiness for us. "Daddy, I can also live in this house, but I am afraid Auntie Winwin would feel aggrieved. Why do we have to move out from the house? Isn't that daddy's house? Why won't daddy let us live there anymore?" Luke's mood was obviously very low, these days he knew Auntie Winwin was busy in moving but complained nothing, and he felt sad for her. "No Luke, it's daddy's fault." Brian now felt regretted, he should have talked to the kids and Winnie to make things clear, now Winnie felt aggrieved and the kids' emotions had been affected as well. "Daddy, Auntie Winwin is very nice to me. I will follow her no matter where she goes, even if we live in a broken house as long as I am with Auntie Winwin, I will feel happy. It's just that she has done so many things for me, so giving her a house is the right thing to do." "Daddy, all the things are packed and moved by Auntie Winwin and Auntie Vanessa. They are so tired and sweat a lot, which makes me feel so heartbroken. Daddy, give them a house, and never let them move and pack things again, please." Luke said very sincerely that Brian's heart continuously tumbled. He just wanted to keep Winnie away from Leo, and did not expect things to end up like this. He even did not expect Winnie would rent a house to live, if he gave her more time, if he considered this matter more maturely, maybe their situation would be better now. Brian pacified the kids for a while, Winnie still did not come back. So he went to Vanessa's room. "Is it okay to talk to you for a while?" Brian asked in a deep voice. "Yes, it's just that I'm tired and need to rest for a while." "Sit on the bed, this place is too small and there is no other place to sit." Vanessa looked around and all she could sit was this one chair under her butt. She could only let Brian sit on her bed. "Having you guys moved out in such a hurry won't affect your studies, right?" Brian continued to ask. "No, what should be reviewed has been reviewed, now I just need to check them again, there is no influence to me." Vanessa replied with a smile on her face. "Vanessa, I want to ask you a question. These days why do you deliberately distance from me but you are very attached to Leo?" Brian wanted to ask Vanessa long ago, but just never had the chance. "Do you want to hear the truth?" Vanessa asked frankly. She was thinking that it would be better if Brian could accept the fact and tell him all the truths, so that he wouldn't have any other thoughts about his sister. "I am all ears." Brian was an adult. He believed he was strong enough to ask for a truth from a little girl, or he would not come here. "You like my sister, don't you?" Vanessa asked so suddenly that Brian stunned there speechless. "If you don't answer me, I'll take as a yes." Vanessa took a slow breath and continued. "Just because I could see that you like my sister, that's why I start to distance myself from you, and also warn my sister many times that she must keep a distance from you too. Why? Because you have a family, and if you are with my sister, then my sister will become your mistress. Our family can not accept it." "So, I just want my sister to be with Leo, so that you will give up on her. And she also doesn't have to live her whole life with the reputation of being a mistress." Vanessa revealed her thoughts without any hiding to Brian, hoping that Brian would think more about her sister and voluntarily give up on her for the goodness of her sister. Brian finally understood. "I admit that I have a child, but I don't have a wife, even if your sister is with me, she is not a mistress." Brian did not know how many times he had explained this matter, probably Winnie never told this to her sister. But no problem, he now had the opportunity to explain for himself again. "Brian, I don't understand what you're saying. How can you say you don't have a wife, but could have a child?" Vanessa asked in confusion. "Your sister also has a child, is she married? Does she have a husband? If she is with Leo, will others say that Leo is the third person?" Brian gave a very simple example. In fact, he and Winnie's situation was the same, except that he found a wife with a contract. "But my sister she..." Vanessa wanted to say something but she resisted herself to tell the truth. Brian felt something unusual, there was the deep, unseen curiosity in his eyes. What did Vanessa want to say? Did she want to say that her sister was a surrogate mother? Brian wrinkled his eyes and spoke in a low voice. "I don't know what's going on with your sister, you must want to know where does Luke come from if I am not married." "Yes, you are not married, so where does Luke come from?" Vanessa looked at Brian expectantly. "In order to find an heir to take over the Bennet Group, Luke was given birth by a surrogate mother. But just keep this secret between you and me, do not let Luke know." Except from his family and Kevin, Brian did not tell anyone about Luke's birth. Today he revealed this secret to Vanessa with a purpose to dig out more information about Winnie from her. Vanessa was stunned and shocked. She was shocked by the coincidence happened between Brian and her sister. Surrogacy? Luke was actually born from a surrogate mother, and her sister was also a surrogate mother to earn money back then. Could it be that... "It's unbelievable, so there really is such a thing. I can't believe it." Vanessa pretended to speak calmly, but the doubts in her eyes that could not be waved away exposed her real thought at the moment. Could Luke be the child that her sister sent away? Was it possible that her sister took care of Luke because she already knew the truth? Vanessa was so confused that she couldn't make sense of them at all. "It is not an uncommon thing. It is very normal for a big family like us. Now you should believe that I don't have a wife, right?" Brian also could not calm down, looking at Vanessa's doubtful and drifting eyes, he became more suspicious that Winnie was the surrogate mother. It was just that Vanessa swallowed back her words before finishing it, making Brian feel doubly disappointed. "Brian, do you mean by that you want to stay with my sister? Are you sure you don't care about her having another child? Are you sure you can love her for the rest of your life? Are you sure you can give her an official title?" Vanessa kept questioning him. She could believe that he didn't have a wife, but there was no guarantee that he could really treat her sister well. After all, his social status was so high, not to mention with a child, even with ten children, there were still someone that would want to marry with him. But, her sister was the woman with a child. Brian looked at Vanessa seriously, but could not give a definite answer. He wanted to be with her, but not because he loved her, he had someone to love. He was sure he didn't care that she had a child, but he couldn't give her an official title. This was the most contradictory thing that tortured Brian now, and this was the most difficult problem he encountered. It just felt like his heart was all tangled together because of Winnie. "Can't you give your promise?" Brian did not say anything, Vanessa had learned his thoughts. He wanted to be with her sister but did not want to marry her. He did not love her at all. "Don't tempt her if you can't give her anything, it's not easy for her to live now, don't let her struggle in pain anymore." Vanessa could not accept her sister being teased by someone else, even if that person was her big brother whom she respected. "Vanessa, do you think Leo..." Brian didn't want to hurt Winnie, but he didn't want to lose Winnie either. He was trying to explain himself and compare with Leo. But Vanessa didn't give him a chance. "Brian, you and Leo are not the same. If my sister is willing to be with him, Leo will accept my sister unconditionally and accept Megan as well. Leo thinks he owes my sister and he is looking for every opportunity to make it up for her. I want to help them, and as long as they are together, Leo will definitely make my sister happy." All these words Vanessa said were said to her by Leo, who had approached her alone that day after having dinner at her house to ask for her help. Vanessa could see that Leo truly liked her sister, so she agreed to help. But she knew her heart was still inclined to Brian, if at this moment Brian could give her sister happiness like Leo, she would not hesitate to help Brian, but unfortunately he could not promise anything. Brian took a deep breath, helplessly. At this moment he was a selfish man, even if he couldn't give Winnie the happiness she wanted, but he still didn't want Winnie to be with Leo. Vanessa's worry which he could understand, but he couldn't accept it. No matter what others wanted to do or were thinking, he just didn't want to let go of Winnie now. Winnie was walking alone around the neighborhood, just wanting to take a break, and forgetting about that phone call Brian just made. Unconsciously, she walked out of the neighborhood and to the sidewalk. Winnie stood on the sidewalk and looked around listlessly, not knowing where to go, just like her confusing life at the moment. Winnie randomly chose a direction to continue walking, not looking up, but only looking down at her feet. At this moment, two sturdy men suddenly appeared in front of Winnie, blocking her. Winnie raised her head but was surprised by them. They were with black hats and black masks, only to reveal a pair of sharp eyes, making people almost scare to death. Winnie hurriedly lowered her head and wanted to go pass the two men, but who knew that she just moved her shoulders to walk away, one man put his hand on it, so firmly that Winnie could not resist at all. Winnie was scared and panicked, and looked back at the road to see that there was not a single person, Winnie's heart beat quickly. She tried to turn around, but pain came from her shoulder and she could only give up. "I wonder what do you want from me?" Winnie asked bravely, but in her heart she was praying that someone would pass by at this time. "Winnie, right?" One of them asked coldly.

CHAPTER 130 BEING WARNED

Winnie thought in her heart since they could call her name, they must have grasped more information about her, denial was just futile, she could only give them an affirmative answer. "Yes." "You did something you shouldn't have done, do you know?" The man continued to ask, his voice was cold and terrifying. "En... I don't know which aspect you are referring to." Winnie had no idea what these two guys were here for, so how could she possibly know what she had done wrong. After Winnie said this, pain came from her shoulder, making her so painful. But she knew that if she resisted at this time, she would suffer more. "I really don't know which aspect you guys are referring to, can you be more specific?" If the two men were not specific, Winnie would not have known who she had offended, so she had to let the two men to be more specific. "You do not know what you have done, and you dare to ask us, I think you are an ungrateful thing and want to go to hell now, right?" The man who grabbed her shoulder lost his patience and shouted threateningly. Winnie's heart trembled terribly, but she had to pretend to be fearless. "I..." Winnie just wanted to continue to ask for the truth, when a car on the side of the road stopped, the man sitting on the passenger seat leaned his head out. "Bros, is there a hotel near here?" "Get out." The man grasping Winnie's shoulders shouted impatiently, and only then did the man in the passenger seat realize that something was wrong. "Miss, are you in danger, do you want me to call the police?" The man asked kindly. Hearing his words, two men were a bit panic, and one man released his hand from Winnie's shoulder. Winnie looked at the man sitting on the passenger seat, she was about to open her mouth to ask for help, one of the men firstly whispered around her ear. "I'm warning you now, don't destroy other people's families in the future, if you don't behave yourself, we'll send you to the hell." Finishing his words, and the two men left with quick steps. But Winnie's heart was beating wildly. "destroy other people's families", just from this sentence, Winnie could learn that this must be planned by Penny. It seemed that she had never been at peace, and she had always been her target. Winnie crouched down slowly. She never encountered this kind of thing before, fear was inevitable. The two guys in the car got out and checked for Winnie. It took a while for Winnie to calm down and thanked the two guys before going home. Winnie was in a state of shock walking towards home, when she received a call from Felix, nothing special, but for the matter between Brian and his father. "Any news?" Felix's serious and low voice came from the other side of the phone. "Chairman, I'm really sorry, I'm very busy recently, and there are many things going on in the company, so there hasn't been any progress yet." Winnie was a little embarrassed, but there was no way but to let Felix down once again. "It is out of my expectation, the thing is getting a bit slow. I think you are capable enough. It seems that this matter is still difficult for you." Felix was clearly mocking her. But the slow progress was also within his expectation. The reason why he said this was to provoke Winnie to try harder. "I have tried my best, but the president always avoids this topic, and every time I mention it he gets angry. This matter is indeed difficult, please give me more time." Winnie was afraid that Felix would take back the task, and the task would be taken back at the same time he would forcefully take back Luke as well, which was something she could not accept. So even if the task was difficult she had to find a way to complete it. After receiving the call, the focus of her thoughts was again on the matter of Felix. It seemed that she had to trouble Kevin again, he must know about Brian's secret. The next day Winnie went to the hospital at noon, without an appointment, and coincidentally ran into Kevin in the hospital's park. The two came to sit in the gazebo and Kevin spoke first. "I heard from Daenerys that you moved?" "Well, I did move. The new apartment is close to the kindergarten, so it's convenient to pick up and drop off the kids." Winnie said with a gentle face. "The environment is not as good as the old one, right?" There were no new-style residential buildings near the kindergarten, so it was easy to know that it was not as good as the original one. "Well, it's not comparable to the old one. But it's good enough for us to live in." Winnie still replied to Kevin with a grudge-free face. Living in such a house she had no regrets and would not complain to anyone that the environment was not as good as before. Just thinking about this matter, she thought of Brian's ruthlessness towards her. Brian's attitude was more than the house issue to make her heart cold. "The arrangement of the company is too impersonal, you are a very important person for the company, how can they take back your house?" Kevin hadn't met Brian yet, and he had heard all this from Daenerys. So he wasn't sure what Brian was doing this for? If he didn't want Winnie to be that close to Leo, he should at least prepare a place for them to live before letting them move. "I'm not that important, for the company, every employee is important. Klara's family is special, they are more people and need the house more than I do. It is right for the company to arrange in this way." All of this Winnie understood well and would not blame Klara for this. In business, she supported Brian to do so, but in life she was indeed heartbroken because of Brian. She agreed to move out, but only wanted to postpone for a few days. But she was rejected. Anyone would be upset for this in their heart. "I have an empty house which is quite big, you can move in if you like, just for helping me to guard the house." Kevin said generously. "Thank you, Doctor Burns, the place I live now is very good, although it's a little small, but it's quite cozy. This is also just a temporary place to live, we'll buy a house when Vanessa's exams are over." Winnie refused him. She was fine now, she didn't owe anyone any favors or a penny, her heart was light and eased. She was not in a position that needed someone's help. "Doctor Burns, I'm looking for you today for something." Winnie changed the subject. "For Luke?" Kevin thought Winnie was going to take Luke for another body check. "No, it's not for Luke, it's for Brian." "... " Winnie told Kevin about what Felix had entrusted her with. "I don't know anything about Brian's father, and I don't know what have happened between them either, I have no way to start, so I can only come over to ask you for help." Kevin's face got ugly after hearing what Winnie said. He didn't know if he should tell Winnie the truth, this topic seemed more sensitive than Luke being born from a surrogate mother. This topic was also the cause of the change in Brian's temperament. Kevin had known Brian since they were in middle school, when Brian was cheerful and lively, and now became an iron-faced cold man, which was completely different from the old one. At the age of his 14, everything changed. He became cold and gloomy, even cruel to people when it came to something. Since then the Brian who always put a smile on his face had never returned. Kevin knew that for so many years Brian was also very depressed and wretched. Although he rarely met with his father, but he had his father in his heart, but his love was hidden by his hatred. "You can't tell me the truth, right? If you can't tell me the truth, then give me the address of Brian's father, I will ask him in person." Winnie looked at Kevin and knew that things were not simple. She could not make things difficult for a person, not demanding to know the truth of the matter from him, but she wanted at least to understand it, otherwise she could not complete her task. "Did Grandpa threaten you with this matter?" Kevin finally asked. "Yes, he said he couldn't let Brian and father make up, or he would take Luke back." Winnie didn't hide anything, it was for Luke's sake that she took so much trouble to find the reason. Once again, Kevin went into silence. It seemed that grandfather believed Winnie could accomplish this task, and it seemed that grandfather also saw that Winnie was extraordinarily important to Brian. If Winnie could really uncover the hidden scar between Brian and his father, Brian's repression would also be released, which would be good for everyone. "The scar between Brian and his father is because of her mother's death." Kevin finally decided to tell the truth, he also believed that Winnie could help them heal the scar, so that it was good for both the father and son. "That year, his father met a woman outside, his mother chose to suicide because of this matter. Brian went home to see his mother, just saw her mother jumped off from the building and died in front of him." "At that time, it was a great blow to Brian, he could not come out from the trauma for a long time, during that time he closed himself off and blamed his father for his mother's death. When he could finally come out of the shadow, the whole person of him changed and he became what he was now, also from the day his mother died, he and his father did not say a word to each other." Kevin said in a very low and serious tone, you could imagine how much pain this matter had brought to Brian. Winnie didn't expect it could be such a sad story, and she didn't expect Brian to have endured what others could hardly bear for this matter. To see your mother die in front of you, how sad he should feel. For all these years, Brian had suffered so much alone. He was also a man with a very sad and heavy story. "What about his father?" Winnie continued to ask. "He is good, kind and gentle man. The first half of his life was devoted to the Bennet Group, until the death of Brian's mother, he also suffered a lot, that's when he began to become depressed, and later gave up everything and moved out to live alone." "To live alone? What about that woman? He is with that woman now?" Winnie asked suspiciously, she thought the reason for so many years Brian did not go to see his father was because Brian's father was living with that woman. "No, that woman also left him, but I don't know for what. Just because two women left at the same time, he couldn't accept the fact." This was all Kevin knew, as to be more specific, and Kevin didn't know and he never heard Brian said more about it. Winnie couldn't figure it out and was silent for a while. "Doctor Burns, thank you for telling me this, tell me his father's address, I'll go to meet him when I have the time." Winnie needed to meet Brian's father first to understand his current condition before she could continue this difficult task. "I'll send you the address later. But I'll give you an opinion, take Luke with you, the old man likes him a lot." Kevin did not forget to give Winnie a suggestion.
