

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 16 IF YOU WERE MOMMY

After playing with the children for an afternoon, Winnie took Megan to go home, but Luke did not want to leave. "Daddy, can I go to Auntie's home for a night?" Luke begged Brian, but he felt that his hope was not big, because his Daddy rarely agreed to his request. "No..." "Yes..." Brian and Winnie spoke almost at the same time, one with hope, the other to destroy hope. Winnie looked up at the angry Brian, tightened her heart, thinking about the wild kiss just now. This man was domineering as Satanic, which made people feel distressed. She could never take a second look, or she would get caught in it. Winnie quickly dodged and smoothed her wildly beating heart. "Whatever." Winnie did not want to say a more word, or he would say she played a trick. "....." However, before Brian said a word, Megan said. "Uncle, let Luke come to my house. Once, just once, Ok? You can come too if you don't feel relieved." "Megan." Winnie did not expect Megan to invite Brian on her own initiative, and she quickly stopped her, but it was too late. "Mommy, Uncle has been playing with us all day. Why don't you make dinner for him?" Megan had the same theory, that was, pay at once to others who helped her, and that was what her Mommy taught her. "Good, I am hungry. I will have dinner at your home tonight." To everyone's surprise, Brian agreed to Megan's request, perhaps to compensate Megan for her disappointment with him. "Thanks, Daddy!" Of all the happiest person was Luke. His Dad agreed, which made him feel that happiness came suddenly. Brian told the driver and assistant to leave work and he drove the other three to Winnie's apartment. After getting off the car, Winnie and two children went upstairs first, and Brian did not go up with them. Luke saw his father did not follow and he quietly took Winnie's hand. "Auntie, if only you were my mommy." Winnie looked at Luke. "Why?" "I like you." Luke did not know why, but he liked to be with Winnie. And he knew Winnie could convince Daddy. "Don't you like your Mommy?" The child's answer made Winnie feel depressed. She did not know why a child said such words. "Mommy doesn't like me. She never goes out with me, never sleeps with me, never sends me to school... she didn't seem to do anything with me." Luke sighed. Speaking of his mommy, he was in a bad mood. Luke's words made Winnie feel said. She looked at Megan in confuse, and Megan looked at her in a pathetic way. "Mommy, Luke is so poor, I will be good to him in the future." "Ok, you play with Luke more and don't let Luke feel lonely." Winnie told Megan and continued to say to Luke. "Luke, I will accompany with you to do anything your mommy did not do with you." Touching Luke's head, she felt sour in heart. Poor kid, he lived in a superior condition, but he never felt a mother's love. He had to bear, even though he was so young. When they were back home, Winnie asked two kids play in the living room while she prepared dinner. Half an hour later the doorbell rang. "Megan..." "Luke....." While chopping vegetables in the kitchen, Winnie asked two kids to open the door, but the children were obsessive in playing and they could not hear her. Winnie turned to look at the children who were playing happily. She didn't disturb them and ran to the door. "....." Without thinking, she knew who was outside the door. When she opened the door, she only took a look at Brian. Without saying a word, she hurried back to the kitchen. Winnie went back to the kitchen, took a look at the soup that was being cooked, and then continued chopping vegetables. As she reached out for the knife, Brian accidentally held it. "What are you doing?" Winnie refused in panic. "Come here." Brian darkened his face and directly pulled Winnie to the chair and asked her to sit down. "Your hand was hurt. Cook after applying medicine." Brian said indifferently, but touched a nerve of Winnie. She did not expect him to go out to buy medicine and such a cold man applied medicine for her. It seemed to be different with his character. "I'll do it myself." "....." Brian kept silent and did not allow Winnie to apply the medicine by herself. He dipped a medical cotton swab in the disinfectant, gently wiped the back of Winnie's injured hand, and carefully stuck a band-aid. And then he took out a pair of rubber gloves. "Put it on. You may get infected if you get water on your wound." He said coldly and then directly walked to the sitting room. Winnie was moved by Brian's gentle movements. She could not return to her mind but stared at him as he walked to the living room. This figure... Winnie froze suddenly. This figure was similar with that man, even the walking postures were the same. No, no, there were too many similar people in the world. The similarity between these two people was just accidental. Winnie recovered and continued cooking. "Luke, is there anything you can't eat?" Winnie went to the living room to ask Luke, for fear that she cooked something that he didn't like. "Anything, except sea fish." Luke answered while fiddling with toys. "Sea fish? Why?" Winnie became nervous suddenly. "He's allergic to sea fish." Brian held the magazine and answered the question for Luke. "....." "Allergic to sea fish? Winnie was shocked. "Uncle, I'm allergic to sea fish too. I have too many similarities with Luke." Winnie was still in shock, while Megan had spoken it out. Megan's words attracted the attention of Brian. He lifted his eyes from the magazine and looked at Megan inscrutably. And then he looked at Winnie. Winnie was shocked, which made him feel surprised. Winnie inexplicably flustered and was at a loss. She walked back to the kitchen, still thinking about the "sea fish" things. Luke and Megan had too many similar things, which made her again and again think of the child she sent away. "Your dinner is turning into breakfast if you still are in a daze." Brian's voice was heard suddenly, which pulled back the wandering soul of Winnie. "It will be ready in a minute." "Megan asked me to be her father." Brian said coldly, which made Winnie stunned. "Well..." "Kids like to make a joke." Winnie was embarrassed. "I refused." Brian still said coldly. "You are right to refuse." "If you want to seduce me, do it yourself. Don't use the child as a springboard." Brian had a straight face and an obvious warning tone. "You..." "Ok, I admit it was I who seduced you. I came back to work because of you, so I applied to the company. I had a plan for you. So you're satisfied?" "....." Brian's face was like it was instantly covered by cold frost. His black eyes dashed out the intention of killing.
