CHAPTER 241 SEE PENNY IN THE PRISON

Winnie was in better mood because she had fewer things to worry about. During the whole day, as long as she did not think of Brian, she was in a smooth mood. The next night Winnie decided to cooperate with Leo to develop the game. After receiving a phone call from Winnie, Leo finally felt settled. As long as Winnie agreed, he would help Winnie make money. He would do her a favor. The happier Winnie was, the more she remembered the past. And then she would think of people in the past, including Penny. At the thought of Penny, Winnie felt unease, and then she and Daenerys took time to come to prison together. The prison guard told Penny someone to see her. Penny thought it was the man who visited her last time, so she was happy. She wanted to ask more this time. But when she came to the interview room, she saw Winnie and Daenerys sitting outside the glass wall, resentment rose in her heart. But she did not turn to leave, but sat down opposite Winnie with a sinister face. "What are you doing here? Do you come to see if I am dead?" It upset Winnie and Daenerys. "It's not as complicated as you think, we just came by to see how you're doing? We are not so heartless and so unkind as you are." Said Daenerys angrily. If they did not come to see her, they felt unease, but they were angry when Penny was arrogant. "Hum...I have no relatives and no friends. I live a good life, as you can see, I am fatter and got better skin... Oh, I forgot to tell you Brian arranged a single room for me, gave me extra food and saved a lot of money for me. There is nothing bad here except that freedom is restricted. Eat well, sleep well, and keep my energy up until I go out to make a difference." Penny deliberately said that to Winnie. Although she went to prison, she could annoy Winnie. Winnie heard that, but she did not mind it. Brian even if Brian gave the Bennet Group to Penny, even if he took care of Penny, it had nothing to do with her. "You are in good condition. No matter who helps you, who cares about you, as long as you can live a good life, we will rest assured." Winnie said expressionlessly. "Hum...It is pleasing to hear that. Why don't you come in here and see if you can live a good life? Winnie, don't pretend to be nice, you sent me here, how can you visit me kindly? You are to laugh at me, you are to show off your success." "So what if you succeed? Brian comes and cares about me and offered me help. Now I understand that Brian still cares me." "Winnie, until now I think you are the mistress. If you did not appear, Brian and I would still be together. So you must treasure Brian these six years." Penny's words were threats to Winnie, with hatred. To this day she didn't think she did anything wrong. "Penny, you still don't think you did something wrong. I don't understand, it is your mistakes, but you blame others. Brian is going to get married. The bride is not Winwin, why do you put all the responsibility on Winwin?" "You don't repent even you are in prison. Six years of prison is messy for you. You should die in prison. Keeping you in this world is a curse." Daenerys said angrily. She and Winnie were kind to see her, but she had no conscience. "I tell you, Penny, this is our..." Daenerys wanted to say that was the last time they came to see her, but was stopped by Winnie. "Don't be angry, Daenerys. It's not good for the child." After persuading the angry Daenerys, Winnie moved her eyes to the Penny. "It seems that your misconception has not changed. Maybe you don't realize you're wrong. Maybe you do, but you won't admit defeat to me." "Do you not find this life tiring, Penny? Have you ever thought what you would be like now if you had lived as simple as you did in college?" Winnie's tone was still mild, she did not get angry because of Penny's words. She felt sorry for Penny. Why should she get angry with such a sympathetic woman? "Come on, the past is the past. Even if the simple life is good, I don't like it. Don't say anything and just enjoy your six years." Penny could not stand that Winnie mentioned things many years ago, and was reluctant to admit that she had anything wrong. She had disdained to continue to talk with Winnie, warmed once again and then got up to leave. "You have no heart, Penny. You do not admit your faults, you are no better than a rascal." Daenerys couldn't help it, she said aloud. "She enraged me. She is still threatening. Winwin, she has no intention of repentance, and put the responsibility on you." Daenerys was furious. They cared about Penny, but she irritated them. "Don't be angry. Let's go back, we'll never see her again." Winnie appeased Daenerys, in fact, she was also very disappointed and worried. If Penny had no intention of repentance, she would had a good life even if she went out six years later. If she did not realize her mistake, she would spend the rest of her life in a bitter struggle. On the way back to the city. Winnie drove and Daenerys sat in the back. "Winwin, Penny said that Brian takes care of her. Is that possible?" Daenerys had been thinking about the question and could not help asking it. "I don't know. She's always showing off to me, and making things up that aren't true, just to make me envy her. But if it wasn't Brian, who would it be? All the Burns family is in trouble. Besides, her sister and brother hate her so much that they would not give her any money." This was a question Winnie had been thinking about. Penny's aim had been achieved, and it had indeed made her take the matter to heart. "Yeah, who else can it be except Brian? But even it was Brian, it was not because he cares about her, but thinks she is pathetic. Daenerys could not think of another person who could help Penny. "None of my business. No matter what mood Brian was, it has nothing to do with me." They didn't have any real relationship from the beginning. If they did, it was trade. Brian was like an interlude of a song, scenery on a road Winnie. No matter how good the scenery on the road was, she had to continue to move forward and she had become a passer-by in his life. Sadly, as she fell in love with a passer-by, she was destined to suffer the pain. It was self-inflicted, no one to be blamed. Daenerys and Winnie had dinner outside before they were ready to go home. Daenerys felt bored at home and decided to go to the hospital to find Kevin. "What are you doing here? Have you had dinner?" Kevin saw Daenerys sitting in his office when he came back from seeing the patients, and asked with concern. "Yes, I have. I had it with Winwin. Have you eaten yet?" Daenerys asked Kevin. "No, I will be soon off work, I will eat later." "Winwin sent you her, or did you come by taxi?" Kevin said and took off his white coat. "Winwin sent me here. She came home to help her two children with their homework. Get off work now, I'm hungry again." Daenerys stroked her stomach, acting like a spoiled girl, seemed to have been hungry. Kevin looked at the time. In a few minutes, he would be off work. "Let' go. What do you want to eat?" Kevin asked as he changed his coat. "I want to barbecue." "Barbecue is not OK. It's not good for pregnant women. Pick another one." Kevin resolutely refused. "Occasionally it is ok. I want to barbecue, or I can't fall asleep at night." Daenerys insisted. Kevin had to agree. "Ok, but only once before the baby is born." "No problem, just this once, I promise you." Daenerys was happy. She wanted eat barbecue for a long time and Kevin finally agreed. Two people met Brian when they reached the hall on the first floor. "What are you doing here? Do you come to see me or a doctor?" Kevin asked. "I am bored and come around." Brian felt it painful when he missed Winnie. So he came to talk with Kevin and it would distract his attention. "Let's have barbecue." They came to a large barbecue restaurant, ordered food and waited. "Mr. Bennet, I have a question for you." Daenerys remembered the events of the day. "What is it?" Asked Brian. "I will go to the point. Penny lives in a single room, eats well, sleeps well, and looks fine. Did you help her?" There was no need to beat around the bush. "I helped her? Why didn't I know?" Brian was puzzled. "Penny told us. She said you still cared about her and give her the best living conditions in prison." Daenerys asked these questions just to satisfy her curiosity. If it was really Brian, she felt that Brian should not have done this. "She said it? What is wrong with her? I've never been to see her. How could I help her? She's wishful thinking."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 242 WE KNOW

Brian was angry, not because of Daenerys, but of Penny's shameless. "It is good if it wasn't you, I don't think you ought to see her either. But she does have a good life." Who was it if it were not Brian? It was incredible. "You and Winwin went to see her?" Brian knew that Winnie must be there. "Yes. And we were so angry. We were kind to visit her, but she threatened Winwin. I think she is crazy." Daenerys was still angry at the thought. "Don't go to see her. She shows no signs of repentance. Let her reflect on herself in prison. Tell Winwin not to be afraid of her threats. She may not come out after six years." Brian said coldly, and asked a question. "Did Winwin visit Penny before she was sentenced?" That day was great sorrow for Brian, so he forgot Winnie's visit to Penny in prison. "It was Penny threatened the police with death, and the police told Winwin to go. Penny begged Winwin not to pursue her responsibility, and asked Winwin to persuade you not sue her for the child. Winwin refused." "She hates Winwin even more because Winwin refused." "That was definitely the last time Winwin and I see her." Daenerys and Winnie said that more than once, but they still cared about her. They thought she was pathetic and had no one to take care of her, but unexpectedly, she lived a good life. "Daenerys, you said Penny has a single and money, is that her own money?" Brian attached importance to this problem. Penny was not on good terms with her family and had few friends. Richard's whereabouts were unknown and no one was looking after her. The only possibility was her own money. "Didn't she pay the fine with her money?" Daenerys didn't know why. "It was a small amount. I gave her a lot of money and property, so the fine was nothing to her." Brian said it was Penny's own money, but still felt that there was something wrong. The next day in his office, Brian thought about it again. He felt that since it had been bothering him, he should look it up. But when he called Albert, his phone rang, Brian picked up the phone. "Wendy." Brian said indifferently. "Brian, today is my mother's birthday. Can you come to my house tonight?" Wendy said softly with temptation. After being warned by Brian that day, she was careful not to stir up the incident to make him unhappy. "....." Brian did not reply to Wendy immediately, but thought for a while. Now that he had decided to marry Wendy and Wendy had been back for some time, he should not always avoid her family. "All right, I'll be there after work." "Really? Good. I'll prepare the presents. You just need to come." Wendy excitedly said. She did not expect Brian to agree. Brian put down the phone and unconsciously thought of Winnie. Winnie's birthday was coming soon. He wondered if he should give her a present. Thinking of the present, he went to his desk, pulled open a drawer and took out the diamond ring, the only one in the world. Look at this diamond ring, he thought of Winnie. If Wendy did not come back, he believed that he had been with Winnie. Even if his grandfather did not agree, he could not get married and just stayed with Winnie. However, they missed and there was no chance. Winnie had been busy all morning, finally she could take a break by lunch time. She had just returned from dinner and wanted to lie down on the sofa in office. And then the phone rang. Inadvertently, she took a look at the caller ID, it was Felix calling. Winnie picked it up. "Hello, Chairman." Winnie was the first to say hello. "Winnie, I need your help. I am in the teahouse opposite your company. Please come over." Felix's voice was mild, but his invitation was not allowed to refuse. "I'll be right there." Winnie put down the phone and sighed. Then she put on her coat and went out with her bag. Winnie came to the teahouse, and Butler Lowe was standing at the door of the compartment. "Hello, Butler Lowe." "Hello, Winnie, the chairman is waiting for you inside." Butler Lowe said very formally. Although he was not a good talker, he had been very respectful to Winnie. Winnie smiled kindly and then pushed the door into the compartment. "Have you been waiting for me for a long time, Chairman?" Winnie greeted and sat down. "Never mind. I have nothing to do, it is ok to wait for a while." Felix's attitude to Winnie was better than to Wendy. Although Winnie did not complete the task he gave, Winnie did not disturb Brian. According to his men, Brian and Winnie rarely met. This showed that Winnie had kept her promise and proved that she was a person of her word. "Is there anything wrong?" Winnie asked kindly. Although Felix was not busy, he was not the person to chat with Winnie. So Winnie knew that he found her for something. "First of all, I thank you for taking care of Luke. Luke lives with you, I can't let you raise him, so I give you a bank card as the living expenses of Luke, and I will give you more when it spends out." Then Felix handed Winnie his bank card. Winnie raised her mouth, lamenting that the Bennet family used to solve problems with money. Winnie took the bank card and then put it in front of Felix. "Chairman, Mr. Bennet already gave me Luke's living expenses, so I can't accept yours. I like Luke and he gets along well with Megan. I will take good care of him, don't worry." Winnie refused. She would not take any of the money from the Bennet family. "Oh, Brian has given it to you. Then tell me when you spend out and I'll give it to you." Felix said. "Ok, I'll let you know. But the money is enough for Luke to spend for five years. The cost of living can be given five years later." Winnie knew what Felix meant, and knew that he was worried. In fact, even if Brian gave her money, he transferred to her, she would not take that chance to see him. And she could not ask money from Felix. But in order to make Felix to feel relieved, Winnie answered him as he wanted. Now Brian was afraid of her influence on his happiness, and Felix was afraid of her destruction of Wendy and Brian's marriage. She felt like a thief in front of the Bennet family, and her dignity was trampled like a footmat. She would rather stay away from them if possible. "Well, Brian is thoughtful. But I also want to thank you, thank you to teach Luke so excellent." Felix knew that Winnie was a wise man. She knew what to do when he hinted at it. He liked such a smart and obedient child. "Luke is clever." Winnie said modestly. She was willing to pay their lives for her children and did not need anyone to thank her. "Winnie, can't you continue help to improve Brian's relationship with his father?" Felix asked with contradiction. On the one hand, he did not want Winnie and Brian to have too much contact, on the other hand, he wanted Brian and his father could be reconciled. Wendy volunteered, but there was no news, and she hadn't even moved to the suburbs. Winnie was more forceful. "Chairman, I no longer work at the Bennet Group, and Brian won't listen to me. And I don't have much time to see him. This task is really beyond my power. I'm sorry, chairman." Winnie said seriously. This matter went against the original intention of Felix, it was likely to test her. Even if he meant it, she did not want to be involved. "I understand, never mind, I will try another way." Felix had to give up. Then he, too, became serious and continued. "Winnie, there's one more thing I'd like your help. But no one should know about it. You know, I know, that's all." Looking at Felix's puckering brow, Winnie had to be cautious. "You can tell me, if you trust me." "....." Wendy carefully prepared a present for her mother for an afternoon, and then came to Brian's office waiting for Brian. Brian went to a meeting. Wendy felt bored and walked around in the office. She walked to the floor window to look at the blue sky outside, and then sat on Brian's office chair. And then she became very interested in the door that had been closed all the time. She had heard from Brian that he had been living in the company during this period of time. Maybe this door was his break room. The door was unlocked and Wendy pushed it open. Then she walked slowly in. The furnishings inside was nothing special, just beds and sofas. There were two pillows on the bed, which was nothing special. But Wendy indescribably felt this break room some ambiguous. She did not know where her strange thoughts had come from, only that it grew stronger and stronger. She opened a drawer beside the bed, and in it lay a picture frame, which lay face down. Wendy recognized the frame at a glance, which she had given to Brian. If she remembered correctly, there should be a picture of her. When she gave it to Brian, she said she liked Brian looked at her picture when he was thinking about her. Seeing that her picture was put in the drawer, Wendy could not help but feel sour. She picked up the picture and felt bitter then she saw her innocent look in the picture. Why did Brian put her picture in the drawer? He didn't want to see her, or didn't want other women to see it? Was there a woman living here with him every night?

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 243 WOMEN'S CLOTHING

The more Wendy thought about it, the more she felt that it was true, and she seemed to have seen that the person lying on the bed with Brian was Winnie. Wendy's unrest became anger at the thought of Winnie, and she wanted to vent the anger to Winnie. Wendy put her picture in its original form and got up. Desperate, she wanted to find more women's marks, so she opened the wardrobe. The wardrobe opened. Her heart was beating wildly with anger. Her hands were shaking. Most of the clothes in the wardrobe were Brian's clothes, except for two sets of women's clothes. The most infuriating was that there was women's underwear. This had been confirmed her speculation, Brian had a woman here. As she became angry, she heard the office door open. In order not to let Brian disgusted her behavior secretly broke into the break room, she quickly closed the wardrobe, and lied on the bed. Brian came in and did not find Wendy. He looked around and his eyes fell on the door of the break room. The door was not closed. Evidently Wendy was in the break room. Brian immediately tightened his eyebrows and strode into the break room. Seeing Wendy lying asleep in bed, he felt disgusted. Winnie was the only woman had come in. Here were his memories with Winnie. He did not want other women to come in, did not want other women to destroy the light fragrance left by Winnie. "Wendy." Brian's voice was not loud, but it was cold and serious enough to explain his anger. "Yes..." Wendy opened her eyes in a daze. At the moment she saw Brian's cold and angry face, she felt her heart stabbed. But she couldn't show anything at the moment. "You're back." Wendy said and sat up. "What are you doing here?" Brian asked in a cold voice. "I got sleepy while I was waiting for you, so I came in and have a nap. What's the matter? Can't I sleep in your bed?" Wendy asked, pretending nothing had happened. "I'm not used to have strong perfumes here, so don't come in here again without my permission." Brian was still cold and angry smelling Wendy's pungent perfume. "Oh, I know. I won't come in again." Wendy's heart was painful. She did not expect that this break room was so important to Brian. She knew he would be unhappy that she came in, but she had not expected that he would question her coldly. "Come on, go to your home." Brian looked angrily at the bed, then turned and walked out of the break room. Wendy walked out of the room, and Brian closed the door. The sound of closing the door made Wendy uncomfortable, but she did not say anything and pretended to be indifferent. In fact, she was also full of anger and wanted to quarrel with Brian and ask him about the women's clothes in his wardrobe. But if they quarreled at this time, Brian would not go to her home, and she had told her parents that Brian would go to her home. So in order not to let her parents down, she had to put up with it. "Wendy, don't use such strong perfume in the future. It makes my nose uncomfortable." Brian cleared the important documents on the table while speaking in a cold voice. "All right, if you don't like it, I won't use it again." Wendy still endured it. As the two were ready to leave, there was a knock at the door. "Come in." His voice was still visibly angry. The door was pushed open and Klara came in with the papers. "Mr. Bennet, here's an important document. I sent it in because the secretary is not around." Klara walked over to Brian's desk and finished her speech in the process. She noticed the presence of Wendy. It was not the first time she met Wendy. Now the whole company knew that Wendy was the woman to marry Mr. Bennet, but she was not jealous of Wendy at all. In her eyes, Wendy was no more beautiful than Winnie. Although her family was rich, she was not elegant and intellectual as Winnie..... So Klara did not feel Wendy a threat. Winnie's charming face annoyed her. "Leave it there." Brian said coldly. "Klara, I heard from Albert that your mother-in-law is ill. If you have any difficulty, tell Albert and he will help you." The implication was that Brian would not go to visit her in person as he did a few years ago, in case Klara thought too much about it. "I see. Thank you for asking." Klara had been working for Brian for so many years and knew him best. She understood the meaning of Brian's words. Although disappointed, she could not help it. "I'll go back." Klara said and turned to leave. Brian put away the important documents sent by Klara. At this time, Wendy asked curiously. "Is this Spencer's wife?" "Yes." "Has she been working at the company all these years?" Wendy continued to ask. "She has been around me since Spencer left, and she had transferred to another department some time ago." "Come on, it's getting late, let's go." Brian was patient. Mentioning Spencer made him upset. Two people went to Wendy's home together. All the way Brian did not speak, and Wendy knew that he still was angry that she broke into his break room. Brian was still cold when he met Wendy's parents. At the dinner table for the birthday party. "It's the first time you come to my home. If you have a drive, have a drink." Wendy's father said respectfully. "I don't drink." Brian answered indifferently. "All right, drink beverage then. Wendy, pour beverage for Mr. Bennet." "Dad, this is your home, he is your future son-in-law, why are you so respectful? Just call him Brian." Wendy felt awkward and inferior. "I get used to it in the company. I will correct it." Wendy's father looked honest. He was not like a business elite at all. And he revealed fear to Brian from his bones, as if he had done anything wrong and felt guilty to Brian. Brian in his heart was that kind of omnipotent people, if he was careless, he would be seen through the mind. "You are so polite to your son-in-law. I've never seen such a father-in-law." Wendy complained and did not like her father to be so submissive. "Do whatever your father tells you to do. They're used to being subordinates in the company and they can't correct that easily. I am already very happy that Brian can come to celebrate my birthday with me. Thank you for giving me a present." The speaker was Wendy's mother, who was completely opposite to her father. She was outgoing, well-spoken, and shrewd. But Brian hated exactly this kind of person. He felt hypocritical. "It is ok, I am available today." Brian said indifferently, but he was not too cold. They chatted while eating, but Brian was always passive. He would respond to others' questions and say a few words. He could not find the sense of family. So the meal was depressing for him. After dinner, Brian had to leave and Wendy came out to see him off. They talked for a while in the car. "Brian, can you think about what I told you last time? I have no chance of being with the children, and they will never accept me if it goes like this." Wendy mentioned the children again. "What did you tell me last time?" Brian asked Wendy and could not remember what Wendy said to him. "Look at you, you paid no attention to me." Wendy said in discontent. "I want to move to the suburbs with you, so that I can have a chance..." "No, I'm not going to live in the suburbs." Brian interrupted the words of Wendy coldly. If he had known Wendy would talk about it, he would not give Wendy a chance to speak. "Brian..." "Wendy, if you mention it again, let's not get married." Brian was angry, because Wendy was bribed by Grandpa. Since the day back from Grandpa's, Wendy mentioned it.

If it were not for grandpa, it was she volunteered to please grandpa. "I..." Wendy did not dare to continue the topic. When Brian was angry, it could only make it more and more worse. "Never mind, never mind, let's..." As Wendy tried to break the ice, her phone rang. When she checked the caller ID, her face instantly changed. She spoke in panic. "You go back first, my mother may have something wrong." Then Wendy got out of the car and walked quickly home. She was glad it was evening, otherwise Brian would have been able to see that she was looking very bad. Brian had doubts. Every time Wendy would not take the initiative to get off. Why the call made her get off immediately? May be her mother really had something to find her. On behalf of B city, Luke participated in the National Children's Programming Contest. Winnie asked for leave and went with Luke. In order to adapt Luke to the local environment, Winnie came to the SH City a day in advance with Luke. She had been SH City before, but hurried in and out on business. This time she had more time to know more about this city. After getting off the plane, as Winnie and Luke reached the exit, they saw Calvin. It was unexpected, but it was immediately clear what was going on. "Winnie, I have business here and Mr. Bennet asked me to pick you up. I've booked a hotel. And I'll show you there." Calvin said happily. Since Winnie left the Bennet Group, he had not seen Winnie, now he was happy like seeing an old friend. "Thank you." Brian's arrangement made Winnie moved, but she knew he did that because of Luke. If she came alone, his people would not come to pick her up. "You are welcome, Winnie, let's have a rest in the hotel." Then Calvin took Winnie's luggage and left the airport together with them.

CHAPTER 244 AN UNEXPECTED SURPRISE

The location of the hotel was very close to the place of the competition. It seemed that Calvin was thoughtful. The hotel was the best five-star national chain hotel, and the room was the presidential suite, which was ridiculously big and super luxurious. Looking at such a luxurious hotel, Winnie was under pressure. "Calvin, it must cost a lot of money. It is just me and Luke, there is no need to live in such a big room, change a smaller one." Winnie did not live in such a good hotel, and her conditions could not afford that, sure she had pressure. Another reason was that she did not want her children to be influenced by this environment, and did not want to them to pay attention to material luxury from an early age. "Winnie, don't worry, you don't need to spend a cent. This nationwide chain hotel is owned by Mr. Bennet. You're in your own hotel. There's nothing to worry about." "Winnie, there are some things I need to deal with, you and Luke take a rest. The lunch will be prepared by the manager. I will come to pick you and Luke out for dinner in the evening. If you need help, let the manager know. He will follow your orders." With that, Calvin gave the manager's phone number to Winnie and then hurried away. It just occurred to Winnie that the hotel seemed to be part of the property Brian had given to her two children, but at that time she had not read any information about the hotel, let alone such a large hotel. The more she knew about Brian's assets, the farther she felt away from him. After lunch, Winnie received a call from the organizing committee of the competition, saying the competition would be postponed. They hoped the players could wait patiently. Winnie had to ask for two more days leave from the company. Then she made a call to Megan. "I'm sorry, honey, I will probably be two days late back, because the competition is postponed." Winnie was sorry. If she had known the competition would be postponed, she would have come with Megan. "Mommy, when will you come back? I will miss you, I miss you now." Hearing that, Megan seemed very aggrieved. She was not used to being separated from her mother. "Good girl, Grand aunt and auntie will accompany with you. I will be back as soon as I can." Winnie placated Megan, afraid that she cried. "Mommy, come back as soon as possible, I wait for you and brother." Megan was sensible, but she had tears in eyes. She misses Mommy, Brother and Daddy. "Ok, I will be back as soon as possible." Megan hung up phone, and then made a call to Daddy. Brian was having a simple meeting in his office. When he saw the caller ID that it was Megan, he hurried to get out of the meeting. He didn't answer the phone until everyone had gone out. However, before he spoke, there came the sound of Megan crying. "What's the matter, honey?" Brian asked with concern. "Daddy, I miss Mommy, brother, and you..." Megan was sad. When it came to Mommy, she cried more sadly. "Mommy and brother will be back the day after tomorrow at the latest. Don't cry, Megan." Hearing that, Brian felt relieved, since Megan just missed Mommy. "They won't, Mommy said the competition is postponed and she would stay a few more days. Daddy, I miss Mommy, I miss Mommy very much." Hearing that Megan cried sadly, Brian just suddenly understood that the children were inseparable from the mother. It seemed that he was right to give the children to Winnie, otherwise the children should be more sad and would miss her. Hearing the child crying, Brian couldn't bear it. He took a look at the time and the work at hand, and finally made a crazy decision. "Megan, I will ask Albert to pick you up, you come to dad." "Ok, I'll wait at home." "Let your grand aunt and aunt know." Brian hung up the phone, and then told Albert to pick up Megan. Winnie felt uneasy after she hung up the phone. Luke saw her worries and walked to her. "Mommy, are you worried about sister?" "Yes, she hasn't been away from me. I guess she'll cry." Winnie knew Megan well. She must have held back her tears over the phone. "Why don't we go home? I won't quit the competition." Luke was also worried about Megan, afraid she was sad at home. "No, you can't quit. Megan has aunt and grand aunt with her, she will be ok. Luke, don't worry about, just focus on the competition." Children had to experience what they must went through, even if they would cry, even if they would be hurt, they had to take it alone. "Ok, Mommy." Luke said, but he was still very worried about Megan. "Luke, I will take you to get familiar with the competition scene." Brian knew that Luke needed to distract himself to forget Megan, so she took him out. Winnie did not take Luke back until Calvin made a call to her. Winnie met Calvin in the lobby of the first floor of the hotel. "Have you been waiting?" Winnie said in embarrassment. "No, I just got back, too." The smile on Calvin's face was more brilliant than the one he saw at noon. And Winnie saw a sniggering expression on his face. Something good happened or she was wrong. "Hand on a second, I will be down after I change clothes for Luke." Winnie did not think so much and took Luke back to the presidential suite. When she opened the door, she did not expect that..... "Mommy." Megan rushed to Winnie and directly hugged her. The sudden appearance of Megan stunned Winnie and Luke. "Megan." "Daddy." Then Luke ran to the coming Brian. At the moment she saw Brian, Winnie understood that he took Megan over, and finally understand why Calvin had a mysterious smile. "What are you doing here?" Winnie picked up Megan and asked, in fact, she asked Brian. "I called Daddy to tell him I missed Mommy and brother, so Daddy brought me here." Megan was happy and did not expect Daddy would bring her to Mommy. "Does Grand aunt know?" Winnie continued to ask. "Grand aunt only knows I went to Daddy and she does not know I come to Mommy." Megan answered, when Brian held Luke and walked to Winnie. "Make a call to them. In order to give you and Luke surprise, I didn't tell anyone." "Do you bring clothes for Megan?" Winnie asked in surprise. She was pleasantly surprised, but it didn't feel right. "Yes, the secretary got it prepared." Brian told Albert to pick up Megan and ordered the secretary to book a plane ticket and then told the secretary about the height and weight of Megan. While he dealt with the urgent work, the secretary prepares the clothes for Megan, Albert picked up Megan. Time was urgent, and finally they could have a beautiful dinner together. "That's good."

Megan, I will call Grand aunt.” Winnie put down Megan and called her aunt and told her that Megan was with her. Isobel was worried knowing that Brian had brought Megan to the SH City, for fear that Winnie and Brian stayed together. The family and Calvin went out for dinner together. This was the most characteristic of a restaurant in SH City. Calvin got the best position through connection. “Mr. Bennet, the food has been ordered, and it will be served soon. I won’t accompany you to dinner since I have something to do. I’ll come back to pick you up after dinner.” Calvin felt it was not easy for Mr. Bennet to see Winnie, so he left. But Winnie felt restrained, and she could not show it because two children were around. “Happy to see Mommy, are you?” Winnie smiled and asked Megan. “Yes, I never left Mommy, and when we parted, I felt like nobody wanted me.” Megan also answered with a smile. “Grand aunt is at home, Auntie is at home, Daddy is at your side, how could no one want you? I won’t run away with brother. Why do you say like you are miserable?” Winnie said jokingly. “Yes, I was afraid that you would abandon me, so I went to Daddy. But Daddy was more afraid of losing you than I was, or else he wouldn’t have brought me to you.” “Daddy, it was you miss Mommy, right? It has nothing to do with me.” Megan cleverly pushed the responsibility to Brian. However, it embarrassed both Mommy and Daddy. Winnie said nothing. She seemed to be waiting for an answer from Brian. Brian was speechless and didn’t know what to say. Megan was true. He missed Winnie. He wanted the four of them to participate in the competition like last time, so he brought Megan over. But now should he Megan’s questions truthfully? “Well, it is your responsibility, and you blame on others. Megan, you can’t be capricious and come to Mommy. You have grown up, you have to deal with some things by yourself. You’re going to have to face it all on your own one day. Mommy can’t be with you all your life.” Winnie saw that it was difficult for Brian to answer, so she changed the topic. She knew that Brian was not here because he missed her and that Megan’s question embarrassed him. Although she knew it all, she felt disappointed at the silent Brian. Unexpectedly he was not willing to tell lie, to be perfunctory to the child. So he hated her to a certain degree. “I know, Mommy, and I will be strong in the future.” Megan humbly accepted Mommy’s instruction. “I forgive you, eat, eat more.” With a faint smile and dimples on her face, she looked relaxed. But only she knew her heart was bitter.

CHAPTER 245 HOLD HANDS TIGHTLY

Brian did not know whether he should thank Winnie for her help or blame his hesitation. He really wanted to tell Winnie that he didn’t come here because of the children, but because he missed her. But why didn’t he do that, why made her misunderstand? Brian said nothing, seeing that the two children had dinner happily. “Daddy, do you have time to see me participate the competition?” Luke asked. “How many days will it take?” Brian only knew that the competition was postponed, but not how many days it was postponed. “Two days’ delay plus three days of competition.” Luke calculated the time. “Ok, I have time.” Brian gave him the answer with certainty. Before he came here, he had handed over all the work to Albert. If there was something he couldn’t handle, video conference would be fine. So he had three days. “Great, Daddy, since you have three days, let’s go out to play for two days.” “Good, good, I agree with brother’s idea. Let’s go out and play, go to Disneyland, maybe go to the beach.” Megan said with excitement. In order not to let two children disappointed, Brian readily agreed. “We can go wherever you want to go.” Brian was in good mood and gave a smile seeing that the children were happy. At this time, Winnie found that Brian’s smile could be so bright. When they returned to the hotel after dinner, she realized a problem: How would they sleep in one room or did Brian have another room? It was late. Why didn't Brian go back to his room? This problem had troubled Winnie for a while, and finally she could not help it and asked. "Both the children sleep with me, and you..." Winnie did not put the words so straight forward, she believed that Brian could understand. "I..." As Brian was about to say that he was going to another room, Megan spoke to him. "Daddy, sleep with us. We haven't slept together in ages." "Yes, the bed is large enough for four. We sleep together." Luke said so. At this time, Megan was afraid of her father would leave, got up and sat in his arms. "Daddy, you can't go. You said my brother and I had the final say for two days. You must sleep with us." Megan insisted. Luke came to Winnie and hugged Winnie sitting on the bed. "Why don't you let Daddy sleep with us, Mommy? We haven't been together for a long time. I miss having Mommy and Daddy sleeping next to us." The two children insisted and Winnie had to agree. "We'll sleep together, the four of us." Winnie said reluctantly. As this was told, would Brian think she was scheming and had her plan. Alas, Winnie was crazy. She was afraid that Brian looked at her as such a woman, but also she could not escape the suspicion. Winnie allowed leaving Brian, but she was distressed. It seemed that after being apart for a long time, she was not used to being together. After washing the two children, Winnie asked Brian to take a bath so he could sleep first and she would feel better. Brian did as Winnie said, but after Winnie took a bath, she found the three people did not fall asleep lying on bed. Winnie became nervous again. She deliberately slowed everything down, dried her hair slowly and applied lotion slowly. However, the three people played more and more happily and they were not sleepy at all. "Go to sleep, raise enough spirit, and we go out to play tomorrow." Winnie urged. "Mommy, go to bed and we sleep together." Luke said patting the empty position on bed. "Mommy, hurry up. You are slow today. If we don't go to bed, we can't get up tomorrow. If we get up late, we won't be able to go out to play." Megan also urged. Winnie knew they were all waiting for her. If she didn't go to bed, they wouldn't go to bed that night. So she went to bed and lay next to Luke. Then the lights were turned off and the room was dark except for the faint light from the moon. "Daddy, Mommy, good night." Luke was sleepy and said good night. "Mommy, give me your hand." Megan reached out and tried to take Mommy's hand. Winnie gave her hand to Megan without much thought. But Megan unexpectedly put her hand in the hands of Brian. When Winnie realized that it was wrong, she wanted to take it back, but was held by Brian. Feeling the steadfast warm hands, Winnie had an impulse to cry. She did not understand this man's heart. She hated him so wary of her. He should have pushed her hand away. Why did he hold her hand and give a false impression of love? It was an addictive feeling, that would get her lost, would make her have hope again, would make her heart in pain. "Daddy, Mommy, good night." Megan held the hands of her parents, feeling the kind of real happiness. Winnie did not move, but she could not fall asleep. Closing her eyes, she could feel the temperature from Brian. How long had it been since they had not seen each other, since they had not spoken with no distractions, since they had not made physical contact? It had been long. Brian's heart heaved because of the weak and delicate hand. He did not expect that Megan will put his hand and Winnie's hand together, did not expect Winnie's had big reaction at the moment they touched. When Winnie wanted to take back her hand, he instinctively grasped her hand and never wanted to let it go. It was the same feeling, that he could not forget, that it only belonged to him. Two people held hands like that. Winnie dared to move after the two children issued a balanced breathing sound. Without warning, she pulled her hand away, got out of bed, and walked toward the bathroom. Winnie thought she needed an independent space and to calmed down But when Winnie reached out to open the bathroom door, Brian suddenly pulled her arm from behind, and Winnie turned around and fell directly into Brian's arms. "Winwin." Brian held Winnie hard, afraid that she would slip away. "What are you doing? Let go. You'll wake the children." Winnie said in a low voice, but did not dare to look up at Brian, because as she was in Brian's embrace, her tears fell down. This man's embrace did not belong to her, but she had been greedy thinking it. Yet the moment she was put in his arms, she felt humble and pathetic, as if she had been given a charity hug. "No." Never want to let go. If he now let go of Winnie, his heart would be painful for a lifetime. "Let go, we can't do this. You have a fiancée. It's unethical for us to do this." Winnie could not help sobbing, and Brian realized that she was crying. Brian lifted Winnie's face with one hand and watched her tears pouring down. His heart was like being struck by a hard object. He couldn't breathe in pain. "I'm sorry. I'm sorry for everything. Don't cry, it hurts me." Brian unprecedentedly appeased Winnie in a soft voice. He knew her grievances, knew that her life was not easy and that all this was because of him. No matter she accepted it or not, he must say sorry, just to let her heart get a little comfort. Winnie could not believe what she heard. He actually said her cry hurt him. Was she wrong or was she dreaming? How could that be possible? How could not he speak so softly to her? He was Brian, domineering as the emperor. In his eyes, Winnie should be dust, fluttering around him. She must have misheard. Brian hated her, no man in the world loved her. Winnie forced herself to be strong and wiped away her tears. "Mr. Bennet..." "You don't have to apologize to me. You don't owe me anything. We don't have any relationship now and it's not appropriate for us to get so close." "Let me go..." Winnie just wanted to persuade Brian to let go of her, just wanted to let him see the facts that they could not hug together. However in this moment Brian kissed her. She had no place to dodge and directly controlled by his lips. The feeling was familiar, washing away all her reason like flood. Brian looked like a hungry lion. His kisses were so fierce and he was greedy to swallow up Winnie. Brian's kiss let Winnie's tears keep falling down. She was extremely conflicted. Her inner voice told her to push him away. It was a sign of belittling her. But her body did not listen to the instructions of the brain. And she could not push him away. Winnie knew that after the kiss, Brian was still the man who hated her, and she was still the woman who was disgusted by him. Yes, she knew that, but she could not stop to love him. Brian let her go, till she was out of breath. "What are you doing? Why do you always do this to me? What am I to you? You wouldn't even give me a look when you disgusted me, and now this." "What have I done to make you think I am frivolous, I have no dignity and I can casually be kissed by men?" "You have a woman, don't come to mess with me. Let me go, treat me as a human being, stop tormenting me, ok?"

CHAPTER 246 I LOVE YOU

Winnie sobbed, and Brian heard the pain in it. "No, I'm not torturing you. I'm torturing myself." How could Brian torture her? She was his favorite woman. "Then I will leave, I will take the children away. You live your happy life. And if we never meet in this life, you will not torture yourself anymore." Winnie did not understand what Brian meant. He only knew that his actions to her were like a rusty blunt knife, which could not kill her at once, but it made her shudder with pain. "No you can't go, never leave my world. My soul is gone without you." If she left, he would become a walking dead, his world would have no luster, and his life became meaningless. "Well, what do you want? You want to see me in pain to make you happy?" Winnie tried to hold back all her emotions so as not to burst out and wake the two children. "I'm not happy, I haven't been happy since you left me, only with you..." "Brian, please don't say any more. Don't sway my heart. I don't even know now which of your statements is true and which is not." Winnie took a deep breath. Her breathing trembled because of crying. At this moment, she was both sad and angry. She wanted to scold Brian, to put an end to this ambiguous relationship with him, and to live like a person in front of him. With this in mind, Winnie did so. She reached out and pulled Brian's sleeve and took him to the secluded cloakroom. When the door of the cloakroom was closed, where the sound insulation was so good that no matter how loudly she talked, she would not disturb the children. "Say what you want. What do you want me to do to make you happy?" Winnie finally magnified the volume, finally she could shout angrily at him. But when she looked into his painful eyes, her heart went astray again. There was no dislike for her in his eyes, no hate for her. She was not sure if it was care, at least it didn't hurt that much. "Be my woman, as before. Winwin....." "Impossible, I can't do it. Kill me rather than make me your woman." Winnie gave her answer straightforwardly. The previous life made her miserable and put her in deep danger. She was not afraid of death, but she could not be selfish just to be with him without caring about the form of being together and the feelings of her children and family. "You hate me that much?" Brian said more painfully. He knew his request was too selfish and that it was unfair to Winnie, but he just wanted to be with her. "I don't hate you, I like you, I love you. Listen, Brian, I love you." Winnie cried loudly. She failed to control her heart and told him she loved him. Although this love would be laughed at, would be ignored, she really hoped that Brian could let go of her for the sake of her love. She just wanted a plain life. Brian was shocked that Winnie loved him. She had said that she did not love him. So it was false, otherwise Winnie would not be so painful. "But because I love you, I want to have dignity, I don't want you to see me with contempt." "Brian, I don't know when I fell in love with you, but I have decided to forget you, just because it is impossible between us. So I'm begging you, don't do that to me and let my world be calm." Winnie cried bitterly and miserably. Now she had no dignity in front of Brian. Would she ignore her love, would he trample on her love? Never mind, she had been living in a bad life. Even if Brian trampled on her love, there was nothing to be afraid of. Winnie was crying all the time, but she didn't hear any response from Brian. Maybe her love caused him trouble. Winnie wiped away tears, pretending to be strong. "I love you, but it won't affect you, it won't bother you, you can completely ignore what I said. For the sake of our past relationship, and for the sake of our children, stop treating me like a puppet." Winnie said and turned to leave, but Brian tightly embraced her. "No, I never thought of you as a puppet. I had never been afraid of your influence on my life. I had never despised you or hated you." On the contrary, he also loved her. He could not extricate himself or give up. "Winwin, whatever I said before, don't take it to heart. It's not what I really mean. I am not rational enough. Because I am jealousy, I said so many words to hurt you. I won't do it again." "Thank you for your love and I will cherish your love forever." Brian was moved, because Winnie loved him. In the end, he did not express his love like Winnie, and finally let Winnie disappointed. Winnie did not want to hear that. The only thing she wanted to hear was that he loved her too. However, Brian only said thank you, she had no other feelings except disappointment. "It's my business, let me go." Winnie's heart was trembling because of her disappointment. She wanted to hear him say 'I love you', because his words would give her strength to support a lifetime. But how could he have said that? Brian reluctantly let go of Winnie. Although he heard that she said she loved him, he had a feeling that they would be more and more far away. He felt that Winnie would forget him after what she said. However, he did not want her to forget himself, want to be in her heart for the rest of his life. Winnie finally saw the truth at the moment that Brian really did not love her. What he said before was not true, but it was true that he did not love her. 'Give up, Winnie, forget it, Winnie, this man is not your destiny.' Winnie wanted to be strong, put her heart in armor, and got no any harm again. Winnie turned to Brian. There was no pain, love but reason in her eyes. "We both know that when we have children, it's impossible to break the bond. Since we can't stay away from each other in this life, let's get along as friends. I won't be embarrassed to see you, and you don't need to avoid seeing me. It's better for both of us and the children." After that, Winnie turned to leave, and Brian did not stop her. He had no reason to do so. His hunch came true. Getting along as friends was the furthest distance. When Winnie got up the next morning, she played with the children and communicated with Brian as if nothing had happened. She did not show any signs of pain or sadness. But only she knew, her heart had been block by herself, so that her heart would never be seen by Brian. Only in this way could she live happily and freely. The family of four went out for fun. They went to Disneyland in the morning, went to the beach in the afternoon, and went to sea the next day. Winnie was happy these two days, but it was temporarily, because people always had to face the reality and wake up from the wonderful dream. The third day, Luke's competition officially began. Brian, Winnie and Megan sat in the audience, while was in the competition. Seeing that Luke controlled the computer flexibly and seriously, Winnie knew that Luke had been fully focused. Again, the ranking was not important, what was important was the spirit of his courage to face challenges. Winnie hoped Luke could be an excellent person like Brian when he grew up, prudent and introverted, wise and upright. Competition was still on, suddenly a judge went to Luke and stopped next to him. He looked at Luke's proficiency in operating the computer, looked at his program generated so quickly and could not help but look at his basic information. There was a look of surprise in his eyes. He was only five years old, and he was the champion of B City. He was so skillful at such a young age, either he had a great teacher or great talent, or both. After five hours, the competition was over and the results were waiting to be announced. The results would be announced at 3 p.m. Brian had Calvin book a return flight at 6 p.m. Then the family went out for lunch. "Luke, you did a good job." Winnie praised Luke. Although she did not know the results, she knew that children needed encouragement. "Mommy, I was nervous. I don't know if I'm going to win this competition." Luke held the chopsticks but was in no mood to eat. "Why were you nervous?" Winnie helped vegetable in Luke's bowl. "The judge was standing next to me for a long time. He probably realized I wasn't doing a good job. You know, Mommy, I think he's the chairman of the judges, and if he says my work isn't good, I'm hopeless." Luke was very depressed, thinking about the judges. "Did you do the program carefully when the judge was standing next to you?" Winnie asked, not eager to comfort him. "I was serious. I didn't think about him at the time. I was just concentrating on the competition." Luke can be sure of this, the judges affect the mood is after the competition. "That's enough. Luke, don't worry, every coin has two sides. You think the Chairman of the Judges does not think your work is good, but I don't think so. I think he appreciated your work so much that he didn't want to move on and look at you longer." Winnie found the reason for the child's worry before starting to comfort him, which would have a better effect. "Really?" Luke seemed to regain some spirit.

CHAPTER 247 KLARA AND WENDY

Winnie continued to comfort. "There were two possibilities. Luke, the competition is over, no matter what the result is, don't let the competition affect your mood. Even if you lost the competition, it is a normal thing. People realized the joy of winning because of loss." "In the future you will face a lot of competitions, no matter how big the competition is, you have to treat it with calm and never let anything affect your emotions." Winnie said a lot, but Luke, who had depression, needed. "Luke, there are something you need to learn from Daddy. He is calm in face of difficulties. There was nothing that Daddy couldn't solve, nothing would become his obstacles. You won't grow up until you learn how calm Daddy is." "I know, Mommy, I will not let things get me down, I will learn from Daddy and become a real man." Luke suddenly enlightened and his mood was not depressed anymore because Mommy's words. He knew that his Mommy had the best way to ease his troubles, and he knew that his Mommy was not only the best Mommy but also the best teacher. "Brother is the best. Brother is the pride of my family." Megan could not feel the kind of tension of Luke, but she believed her brother could succeed. Brian ate while listening to Winnie's advice on Luke. He cared the most Winnie's evaluation on him. He did not expect in Winnie's heart he was so successful and became a children's role model. After dinner, they returned to the hotel. Winnie asked the two children to take a nap and lay down beside them. Then she heard Brian's phone ring, followed by the voice of Brian answering the phone. "I'm out. I'm flying back tonight." Brian's voice was impatient and cold. "Then I'll meet you at the airport." Wendy said with some excitement. She hadn't seen him for several days, and he hadn't contacted her by phone. In order to give Brian a surprise, she came to the company, but Brian was on a business trip. Now Wendy standing by the elevator was ready to go home. "No need, it will be very late. I have asked Albert to pick me up. I'll contact you tomorrow." Brian did not want Wendy to see him return with Winnie, or Wendy would be jealousy. "Ok. The elevator is coming, I gotta go. See you tomorrow." Winnie listened to Brian, and her intuition told her it must be Wendy. So her heart began to ache. She seemed to have made a wrong decision. She was a friend with Brian but it still hurt her. Wendy hung up the phone and got on the elevator. When the elevator stopped at the twenty-eighth floor, Klara came in. Klara knew Wendy but did not speak, just gave a faint smile. "Are you Klara? I met you in the president's office." Wendy spoke first. "Yes, I'm Klara. Hello, Miss Yup." Klara had to say hello. "Are you Spencer's wife?" Wendy continued to ask. "Yes, thank you for remembering my husband." No one in this company remembered Spencer. "If you are not busy, can I talk to you for a minute?" Wendy offered the invitation. So the two went to a cafe in the back of the company. "Klara, Spencer had been gone for so many years, are you single?" Wendy asked with concern, and did not directly mention the topic she was interested in. "Yes, I have my parents and child to support, so it's not easy to have a boyfriend. I am good, I just live like this." Klara was sad. For so many years, no one mentioned her dead husband, except Brian no one cared about her family. Wendy asked her so, which was a kind of concern. "Then wait until the child is older. It's not easy for you to bring home the bacon all by yourself. If you have any difficulties in the future, just let me know, and I'll do what I can to help." "Thank you, Miss Yup." Klara thanked her faintly; she knew that there was no free lunch. Wendy and her husband were not that familiar. She did not have to take care of her for him. The only possibility was that she wanted to know something from her. As expected, Wendy then said the key point. "Klara, I wanted to ask you something. I heard that you have been around Brian for so many years. You must know a lot of things since you left him only a short time ago." "Miss Yup..." "Wait, don't call me so politely. Call me Wendy for Spencer's sake." In order to know more things, Wendy tried to have a close relationship with Klara. "Okay, I'll call you Wendy." Klara was innocent and unscheming. "Wendy, I can tell you anything I know, but don't let Mr. Bennet know. If he knows, I'll lose my job." "I won't. You may rest assured that I will never betray you." Wendy saw hope and felt that Klara was a simple and kind person. Such a person could become her eyes in the Bennet Group to keep an eye on Brian and Winnie. "Ask, then, and I'll tell you if I know." In fact, Klara had known what she wanted to ask, but she had to make sure ensure her interests, and could not lose her job because of Wendy. Now Brian was not the Brian of a year ago. Since Winnie came, he had changed and would dismiss her at any time. "You should know what the relationship between Winnie and Brian."

Wendy went to the point. She just wanted to know how far Winnie and Brian had progressed and if they were seeing each other now. "There are close and used to live together. They didn't separate until you came back. I don't know if there is any contact now. But the last time Winnie came to the company, Brian always accompanied her. This kind of treatment is not available to any employee in the company." Klara did not conceal. She finally had opportunity to take revenge on Winnie. Wendy was not obstinate like Penny, and she looked smarter than Penny. She could be used if Klara was careful enough. The face of Wendy changed after hearing that. She felt they were ambiguous, but she did not expect that they had lived together. It seemed that Brian really had feeling for Winnie. "Do they live in the company?" Wendy remembered the women's clothes in Brian's office. "Yes, there's a break room in Mr. Bennet's office. They rested there when they were busy and had no time to go home. When I reported work, I saw Winnie come out with disheveled clothes." Wendy clearly misrepresented the facts and exaggerated what she saw. Only in this way could make Wendy hate Winnie and drive her away from Brian completely. "When did they start?" Wendy continued to ask, but her heart had been unable to calm down. "Nearly a year. Since Winnie was back, Mr. Bennet felt in love with her, and did a lot of things that he never did for her." Klara looked up at Wendy's gloomy face and knew that she had been interest in Winnie. "Winnie, game's on." "It seems I should have come back earlier, or none of this would have happened." Wendy seemed to say calmly, but the anger and hate in the eyes had not been able to hide. "Wendy, don't be angry or discouraged. It's never too late to come back. Mr. Bennet still loves you. It blamed on Winnie. Knowing that Mr. Bennet has a girlfriend, she stilled seduced him." "You'll be able to hold your position since you get back. She won't be a threat." Klara was adding insult to injury and setting up enemies for Winnie. She could not directly handle Winnie, but she found help, which made things much easier. "I hope so." Only Wendy knew if Winnie was a threat. The existence of the two children made her lost half, plus Brian had feeling for Winnie, she lost another half. In fact, she did not have much advantage, and it was not easy as Klara said. It seemed that she had to find a way to get rid of Winnie and that she should plan for her status. "Klara, I want to ask you a favor. In the future, if you hear anything about Winnie and Brian, please tell me at the first time, so I could be prepared. Help me, I will not mistreat you." "I will, few people in this company still remember Spencer, and I am grateful you still remember him. I will help you for sure." Klara said kindly, showing her simple and kind side. She had to make Wendy believe her. "Wendy, there's something else I want to tell you. Mr. Bennet is on a business trip. One of my friends worked in the same company of Winnie. When we were chatting, she said that Winnie was also on a business trip. And they left on the same day. I don't know if it was a coincidence or a design." Klara's word made Wendy break down. She felt uneasy all the time. And Brian deliberately lowered his voice on the phone, which made her more suspicious. After parting with Klara, Wendy had been thinking about this matter. If Brian did go out with Winnie, what would she do? To expose it on the spot or to pretend she did not know anything. At two o'clock in the afternoon, the result of the competition was announced on time. Luke lived up to expectations and won the first place in the children's group in the national competition. After the host announced the results, Brian and Winnie were excited again. "My son is great. I knew he could do it." Brian had never been so restless. This honor was different from the last one. This honor was the first in the country, of which no one could surpass. "Well, it's great. He gets your genes." Winnie was also happy and even praised Brian.

CHAPTER 248 I'M YOUR WIFE

Winnie looked at Brian. He was smiling like a child, showing off with honor in his smile. Winnie moved the line of sight from Brian's face, for fear that she could no longer get him over. Winnie's sight was back to the competition. The chairman of the judges came to the front of Luke and slowly squatted down. "Who do you learn programming from? How could you be so good?" Asked the judge gently, as if he feared Luke might be afraid of him. "I... I learned it from a teacher." Luke just wanted to say he learnt from Mommy, but as he thought of what Mommy and Daddy said, he temporarily changed to the teacher. But his Mommy was right that the judge really appreciated his work. Otherwise, he wouldn't have won the championship. "Your teacher is very good and you are very clever. There will be good developments in the future." After the judge finished, he got up and touched Luke's head. Then he handed the award certificate and trophy to Luke. After the awards were over, the family headed straight to the airport. After walking out of the competition hall and into the parking lot, they loaded things and carried children to the car. When everything was ready, Winnie had something to do. "Just give me a minute. I'll say hello to someone I know." Winnie said and went back the same way, but before she got out of the parking lot, she saw the man she wanted to see. Winnie stopped and looked at the handsome man walking towards her with a happy smile. The man looked up inadvertently and saw Winnie. When he saw Winnie, he was stunned at that moment, and then he showed his surprise and walked quickly toward Winnie. He said nothing, but directly hugged Winnie. "What a surprise! Can't I be wrong?" The man asked incredulously, with Winnie in his arms. Winnie's appearance was too unexpected, making him feel surprised and unreal. "Yes, I am your wife." Winnie said jokingly. "No, you are my ex-wife, we have gone through the divorce formalities." The man said jokingly, and then looked at Winnie up and down. This man was Winnie's nominal husband, who held Winnie to get the household registration of Megan. The man was Steven, one of her college classmates. "Are you surprised to meet me here?" Winnie asked happily. "Yes, I never dreamed of meeting you here." "But why are you here?" Steven asked, looking back to see the stadium. "Are you a parent or a teacher coming to the competition? A teacher of Luke, the champion of the children's group." She heard what Luke said on the stage, so she said she was Luke's teacher to Steven. "My God, you taught that genius. Nice, it is your style." When it came to Luke, Steven got more excited. "But you saw me before, didn't you?" "Yes, I saw you sitting on the panel at the start of the competition. Are you going to ask why I didn't say hello? I wanted to avoid suspicion and you would not give in Luke special care." Winnie knew Steven well enough to know what his next question would be. Steven was also the friend she could confide in, her only male friend she could say anything to. "You're too cautious. You know I'm not a mercenary man." Steven smiled, which came from Winnie's understanding of him. "Yes, but others will not think so, especially those rival's parents of Luke. They will not be convinced to lose to a child younger than their kids and would say we have connection with the judges. It could be avoided, which is why I am here till now." Winnie had always been cautious. She saw Steven but did not say hello to him, because she did not want Luke's championship to be controversial. "You still are cautious. How are you and where do you live now?" Steven still admired Winnie's meticulous work style. "I now live in B City with my aunt and sister. I'm fine, and everything is all over." The smile on Winnie's face was still bright. Seeing that, Steven felt relieved. "What about Megan? How is Megan now?" "Good, she has a gift of the gab." At this, Winnie looked at the time. "Steven, tell me about you. Where do you live, where do you work, are you still single?" Winnie got limited time and would like to know Steven's situation. "I have no a fixed home. I would go back to my hometown to accompany my parents when I was not busy with work. You saw my job, I go around the world all the time. My work unit is in this city, but there are so many opportunities to travel. "You're right. I am still single." Steven said it easily and seemed was satisfied with the present situation. "That's good, give me your phone number. Since you went abroad, I had not contacted with you and did not know how you are, fortunately you live a good life." Winnie asked for Steven's phone number so she could have more opportunities to contact him. The two exchanged phone numbers and befriended each other on WeChat. "Steven, I have to go to the airport now. We can talk on the phone." Winnie was reluctant to say goodbye. If time was enough, she would like to talk with Steven for three days and three nights. As her voice fell, she gave a hug to Steven. "Goodbye, my husband, and be sure to contact me if you go to B City." "Goodbye. Take care of yourself and your family. I'll see you sometime." Obviously, Steven was reluctant too. He hugged her and patted her on the back. However, the scene was seen by Brian. He could hear nothing, but Winnie and the man's smiling faces revealed their relationship. At the thought of this, a sour taste rose in his heart at the sight of such intimate behavior. Just two days ago, Winnie said that she loved him. How could she embrace another man? It was time this woman learned a lesson. The next moment, however, Brian realized that he was in no position to lecture her. Winnie got back in car and they set off for the airport. "Mommy, the man was the chairman of the judges at our contest. How did you know him?" Luke asked curiously, breaking the silence in the car. "He is one of my college friends, we hadn't seen in years." Winnie said lightly, but still hung on the face of the joy of reunion. "Really? He must be great, or he wouldn't have been a judge." Luke said with worship. "Well, he is great." Luke's problems reminded Winnie of the time she graduated from university. At that time, she and Steven were in the same department and class, and both of them did well in study. Finally, because of the tutor, Steven failed to study abroad. He went abroad to study after helping Winnie to settle her household registration for Megan. The two lost touch after that. "But Mommy, he is a man, why did you hug him?" Megan seemed to be very unsatisfied. In her heart, Mommy should be Daddy's and she could not have a boyfriend. It was a question Brian wanted to ask, but he did not. "Do you know who he is, Megan? Without him, you would still be a child without an identity." Winnie was not depressed because of the question of Megan, but happier. "What do you mean, is he that important?" Megan asked in doubts. "Remember Steven I told you?" Winnie asked in reply. "Steven....." Megan thought for a moment. "Oh, it was Daddy. The Daddy you married and divorced." "Yes, that's him, and that Daddy Steven who just hugged Mommy. We had not seen for many years, we hugged because we were happy and it is understandable." Winnie explained, hoping Megan could understand her. "Yes, you are right. I didn't know it was Daddy Steven. If I knew, I would thank him." Megan looked very excited this time, but Brian tightened his eyebrows. Leo was enough to worry him, and now Steven showed up. And he seemed to have a good relationship with Winnie. Winnie sat in the back of the car and could not see the expression of Brian. He was in the joy of meeting Steven. "There will be plenty of opportunities to see him. When Daddy Steven comes to B City, I will take you to thank him." "I also want to see Uncle Steven. He must be very good. I want to learn from him." Luke said. Suddenly Steven became the central figure of the topic, which annoyed Brian. "Don't call him Daddy. I don't like that. Megan, I am your only Daddy, call him Uncle Steven." Brian said in a low voice, trying to hide his emotions in front of the children, but there was no warmth in his voice. "Daddy, you are jealous. It is my bad, I didn't take you into account. I won't do that again." With that, Megan laughed out loud, which made Winnie and Luke laugh too, only Brian had a gloomy face. On board the plane, all four were seated in first class and soon the plane took off. It was quiet, and the children soon fell asleep. Winnie and Brian thought of the first time they met on the plane. "Time flies. It's been almost a year since we met. If I had known you were the father of Megan, I wouldn't have walked out of the airport." Winnie whispered, remembering the familiar feeling when she first met Brian and heard his voice for the first time, as well as the straight figure of his back."This may be fate. Fate arranged us to meet again."

CHAPTER 249 EMBARRASSMENT AT THE AIRPORT

Brian was also deeply touched. He still remembered the first sentence Winnie said to him, remembered that his heart trembled because of the familiar voice. He agreed with Winnie that if he had known that Winnie was the surrogate, he would have driven her out of B City in any way. They met, now he was reluctant to leave her. But although her appearance brought him and her a lot of trouble and suffering, the children brought him happiness. "I'm sorry to made you suffer. Since fate arranged, I could not change. No matter what I brought you, please forgive me that I could not compensate you." Winnie said sadly. She felt that all the changes of Brian had a direct relationship with her, especially the custody of the two children was given to her. Brian must have had strong ideological struggle. "I owe you an apology for making your life such a mess. Do you hate me, Winwin?" Winnie's words made Brian guilty. Indeed, the person who should say sorry was he, from the beginning to the end, Winnie suffered the greatest harm. She suffer alone, endured alone, but she never complained and never troubled anyone. "No." Winnie answered without hesitation. "It is my destiny, and I hate no one." If she hated, it meant she cared, and it would always affect him. It did not bright her any advantage, so she did not hate. "Mr. Bennet, when we get off the plane, we'll go back to our own lives and get along as friends, as we said. Let bygones be bygones." Winnie was reminding herself too that as long as she controlled herself, she would not have anything to do with Brian. As long as she kept her mind quiet, her life would be plain. These days were good for Winnie. Although she had cried sadly, there were more laughter. But after getting off the plane, this happiness would be over. she had to return to reality and should face bravely and continue to challenge the new suffering. "What if I can't get through?" Brian was reluctant to let all be bygones. Although the past was bitter, but it showed his and Winnie's heart. In this bitter process, he fell in love with her, she also fell in love with him, how could be willing to let it go? "It is said that time cures all kinds of ills. The good and the bad will disappear as time goes by, and we will be really happy when everything disappears." Winnie also said these words to herself, because Brian had nothing worth remembering, so he had nothing to forget, let alone to be hurt, so he did not need time to heal. "Live a good life. It is my own business that I love you. Even if I hurt, I hurt myself, I will find a way to heal." Winnie just wanted to tell Brian that her everything had nothing to do with him. He just needed to live his own life, and she was happy to see him happy. "Not as easy as you said, it does not depend on me to live a good life or not." Brian was distressed about what Winnie said. She always took all the responsibility on her own, such Winnie actually let Brian more worried. It was not her own business that she loved him, because he also loved her, but he could not say it and he also was painful. "It is not so bad as that. We arrange all our affairs together. If you have time, go back to see your father. He is old, no matter what mistakes he made, you should forgive him." Winnie knew that the contradiction between Brian and his father had been like a super heavy stone in his heart, which not only made him breathe hard, but also made his life lose its color. Winnie hoped that they could get along well with each other, so that Brian would never have anything to worry about and could live happily with her lover and family. Winnie gently persuaded Brian. "....." Brian did not answer. Winnie did not know whether it was a silent protest or acceptance. "Now you're a father too, you can imagine what it's like a father could not be with his child. Learning to let go, you will make you happier." Winnie continued seeing that Brian did not speak. Now she had no other requirements, only hoped Brian could be more happy and less painful. "Don't talk about me. You should be good too." Brian was not angry but spoke in a mild voice. Listening to two women said the same thing, his attitude was totally different. "I've always been fine. I've got two kids by my side, and I'll be even better." "I'm tired. I need to take a rest." Winnie knew that Brian did not like her to talk about it, so she stopped talking. But there seemed to be nothing else to talk about, and she could only turn her head and close her eyes under the pretext of weariness. More than two hours later, the plane landed smoothly. Brian pushed a suitcase and walked out together with two children and Winnie. Albert saw Brian came out and hurried up to meet. "Please give me your suitcase, Mr. Bennet." Albert took the two suitcases, and then Brian continued to walk forward, Winnie came to Albert. "Albert, give me my suitcase." Winnie reached out her hand to catch it, but Albert hurriedly avoided. "I'll do it. You've got two kids to take care of." Albert continued to walk forward. Then Wendy suddenly appeared in front of Brian. "Brian, you are back." Wendy excitedly said, but Brian wrinkled eyebrows because of her appearance. "What are you doing here?" "Pick you up. I wanted to give you a surprise so I didn't tell you." Wendy said, held the arm of Brian. "I don't know when you will come back, so I've been waiting here for you for a long time. You must give me a reward." Wendy took the initiative to embrace Brian, but she felt upset to see Winnie and two children behind. But she seemed to have learnt to be refrained and did not reveal her displeasure directly. "Did Miss Chamber come back with you?" "Yes, we came back together. We took the kids to the competition." Winnie said with a smile. And the two children's faces darkened at the moment they saw Wendy. They didn't lose their temper, but they didn't say hello either, because they still hated Wendy, and they hated her more and more. "Luke, Megan, say hello to Wendy." Winnie told the two children and found the change in their face. She knew the children still did not like Wendy, but they had to accept her, who was their Daddy's choice. Since Mommy gave the order, the children had to say hello. "Hello!" "Hello!" The two children said hello together reluctantly. "Hello, kids. You must be tired. Let's go home together." Wendy's performance did not let Brian down, and the children were obedient. The atmosphere was better than the previous time, but he was not comfortable. "Let's go home." Brian gave the order, and everyone moved forward. Megan found that Wendy was to take Daddy's hand, she gave her brother a wink. Two kids at the same time ran to Daddy and held Daddy hands respectively. "Daddy, let's go home." Megan looked up at Daddy with a sweet smile, but Wendy squeezed away was embarrassed. Wendy glared at the two children angrily and then put on a gentle smile and walked on. Seeing that, Winnie knew that Wendy showed up intentionally and that Wendy pretended to be nice. But she might be wrong, perhaps Wendy was like this at usual time. Only facing her alone, she was domineering. A few people came to the parking lot together. To tell the truth, this scene let Brian not happy and even Albert felt embarrassed. "Albert, give me the suitcase. My car is over there. I'll drive back." Winnie took the suitcase from Albert and called for the two children. "Megan, Luke, say goodbye with Daddy and Wendy. We take another car." Mr. Brian was relieved by Mr. Winnie's remark, though he would have preferred that Wendy left alone. "I want to be in a car with Daddy." Megan protested. "Mommy, be in a car with us, too. Let Albert drive your car." Luke cooperated well with Megan, was that the unique tacit understanding between the twins? "Daddy is very tired. Let Daddy have a good rest. Don't bother him, it is out of our way." "Come here." Winnie knew that the two children were on purpose. They had never been so disobedient before, but there were so many people, she could not blame them. "No, I want to be with Daddy." Megan was stubborn. She hated Wendy and told her that she could not to destroy her family. "Mommy, I want to take Daddy's car, too." "Yeah, Daddy's car is big and comfortable." Megan cooperated with Luke. Two kids insisted. Brian did not say a word. Winnie thought it would be a bad choice for him. "Do you think Mommy's car is not good? Fine, you take Daddy's car, I drive back." "Mr. Bennet, please send the two children back." Winnie deliberately showed that she was angry. She knew it was not the children made Brian embarrassed, but her. As long as she and Wendy were not in the same car, he felt better. With that, Winnie took the suitcase and turned to go. She did not expect Megan to be so stubborn. Megan suddenly cried loudly, which sounded miserable in this dark night.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 250 OBEDIENCE TO THE CHILDREN

Megan cried sadly and said loudly. "Mommy, will you abandon me? How can you? I just want to stay with Daddy for a longer time, and won't you agree?" "Don't go, Mommy. We don't mind your car. We just want to go home together." Luke ran to Winnie and stopped her. With that, he ran to Brian. "Daddy, how about we three take Mommy's car home? Mommy took a long flight like you, and she's very tired." "Luke....." Winnie did not know what to say. Now she knew that the children were too clever to handle them. "Let's go back together. Let Albert drive your car." Brian could not bear to let the children sad, even if he was embarrassed, he could only endure it. "No, I'll drive myself. The children can't be spoiled." Winnie told Brian that she would never disturb him in any way. How could she fail to do so just after she promised? Besides, Wendy was there, she must think that she was using her children to get close to Brian. In order not to let Brian embarrassed, not make everything have random thought, Winnie insisted. She turned away from the child and walked quickly toward her car. Though Megan's cry grew louder and louder, though Luke was calling her, she did not stop. "Brian, since the children want to stay with you for a longer while, take them to Miss Chamber's car. I also drove here by myself, and I can drive back. I'll see you at work tomorrow." Wendy said magnanimously, but she was scolding in the heart. The two brats spoilt her good deed. Originally she wanted to annoy Winnie, but two children messed it up. "See you at work tomorrow. I have to send back the kids." Brian said that in a low voice, bent down and picked up the weeping Megan, holding Luke's hand to chase after Winnie's footsteps. In such a situation, in fact, Brian was very grateful to Wendy. If it were not for her help, he had no idea when the two children would stop being sad. Brian drove, and Winnie sat with the two children in the back. At this time, the two children stopped crying and stopped making trouble, and the triumphant looks could vaguely be seen on their faces. "You let me down today, you know?" Winnie questioned seriously. "Yes." Replied the two children at once. "Do you know how embarrassed it is for Mommy and Daddy?" Winnie continued to lecture, but there was no sign of remorse on the children's faces. "Yes, Mommy, we know we are wrong, and we won't do it again." Luke hurriedly apologized, but the corners of his mouth had a light radian. "Mommy, we do this for a reason. Now we could not accept Wendy, of course we do not want she to be with Daddy. You have to give us time." "You have to accept it, because no one can change the fact. You can trick today, and you can do it tomorrow, can you do that all them life? Don't feel it is too childish?" "You should try to accept it, not..." "Winwin." Winnie was still lecturing her two children, Brian interrupted her. "Stop it. They are still young. They won't do that when they're older." Brian persuaded. He knew what the children were thinking. He did not feel good when Winnie lectured them. "They do this on purpose, and they will do that again. Will you never marry?" Winnie angrily asked Brian. "If they can't accept it, I'll never marry." Brian said seriously. If he could not live with Winnie all his life, he just cooperated with grandpa. It would be ok if he could not have a marriage like that .

Brian realized that on the plane back, and he had been thinking about the relationship between him and Wendy since Winnie turned away from him and didn't talk to him. He would find a chance to talk with Wendy, in this matter, he did not want to hurt the two women. "You'll spoil the children." Brian said so, Winnie had nothing to say. It seemed that children must be lectured when no one was present. "Go back to coax Wendy. She waited for you for a long time, but the two children destroyed that. Tell her I'm sorry for being a bad parent." Winnie said she was sorry. If this happened often, she would be more embarrassed than she was now. "She wasn't angry. She told me to come back with you and the children. She's not that stingy. Don't worry." Brian said casually, but Winnie felt sarcasm. It seemed that Brian saw only a part of Wendy, the real Wendy was not so sensible as he said. It was also possible that she was wrong. Brian loved Wendy, so everything about her was good in Brian's heart. Not like her, a liar. This was the gap, she thought. Winnie took her children home and tried to educate them again, but she did not see any repentance on their faces until the end. "Well, stop it. The children know they are wrong, and you are still nagging. It is late, you still don't sleep. You are not tired, but the children are tired." Isobel felt distressed that two children were lectured and stopped Winnie. From Winnie and the children's dialogue, she knew what had happened. "You rest, I'll take them upstairs." Isobel did not give Winnie an opportunity and directly pulled the two children's hands upstairs. Luke was first sent back, and then Megan. "Megan, did you have fun?" Isobel asked while helping Megan take off her clothes. "Yes. We went to a lot of places to play, and Dad stayed with us for three days. I am happy with Daddy and Mommy with me." Megan said joyfully. "Who did you sleep with that night, Daddy or Mommy?" Isobel had to ask, but there was something she had been worried about. "The four of us slept together. The hotel room was very big and the bed was very big. Brother and I slept in the middle, Daddy and Mommy slept by sides." Megan said happily. "Oh, I see." However, the answer of Megan did not let Isobel feel relieved. "Megan, you and Luke can't force Daddy to be with Mommy." Isobel had to say that to avoid more trouble. "Why?" Megan asked in doubts. "Daddy and Mommy are not suitable to be together. And they won't be happy if they were together. They will often quarrel. Luke and you will be sad." Isobel could not put the words too straight forward, afraid of hurting the child, but saying so was blank, and it was of little use for the clever and independent Megan. "Brother and I would rather be sad than be with Daddy and Mommy." Megan was unhappy, she did not like others to separate her father and mother. Others did not understand the fear and loneliness of not having a mother or father. In Megan's view, being Daddy and Mommy was important than anything. Isobel did not dare to continue, for fear of having the opposite effect. It seemed that the two children were very determined and would not give up easily. But if it went on like this, it would be a mess. One day, Brian would know the identity of Winnie. Once he knew, how should they get along with each other? Would they continue to live like this for the sake of their children, or would they fought? In the next day Wendy did not come to find Brian, but Brian thought of Wendy after work. He asked Wendy out for dinner. "I was too busy to call you today." Brian broke the silence. "You were away for a few days and had a lot of things to deal with. I didn't bother you since you were busy. Did you have a good trip?" Wendy said open-mindedly, as if she did not care. "The main purpose of this outing is to accompany Luke to participate in the competition. I am not at ease about his first participation in such a large-scale competition." Brian told the truth without concealment, but Wendy's performance these two days really surprised him. Brian knew this was not the character of Wendy. Wendy was not as arrogant as Penny, but she had been very headstrong. Such a change, especially her magnanimity in front of Winnie must have a reason and purpose. However, he should thank Wendy did not embarrass him last night. "Children want their parents around." "Brian, I want to pick up Luke and raise him. Since grandpa doesn't know about Megan, she can stay with Winnie. And we pick her up when grandpa knows about her."Wendy said softly. Since knowing Brian and Winnie had a relationship, she understood one thing. It was difficult for her to pull Brian back by her own strength, so the children became a powerful weapon."How did you change your mind so quickly?"Brian asked in surprise."Well, it's selfish actually. I want them back because we could get married sooner. But you can rest assured that since I decide to raise them, I will treat them well. Never mistreat them like Penny did. You can always monitor me."Wendy said sincerely, which made Brian moved. But Brian knew Wendy best that she had no patience to get along with children."I have given Winnie the custody of the children, and the law has notarized, we can't take them back."Luke was hurt. Brian could not trust others all of a sudden. Moreover, if the custody of the two children was taken back, Winnie could not live. How could he made his beloved woman sad?"Then when shall we get married? You've seen that the children don't like me at all."Wendy was annoyed. If she could not have the children back, her possibility to loss was big.
