

My Twins 25

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 25 HAUNTING AROUND

Going downstairs, Winnie pushed the door and went out. Penny was waiting by the door. Winnie took Penny to the park in the community. "What do you want?" Winnie said with an expressionless face. "Winnie, have you forgotten I warned you? You went to Leo and told him something? Do you want to get back together with Leo?" Penny said angrily, with a disgusting witch face. "That's the thing between me and Leo. You don't have to worry about it. It's none of your business if we want to get back together. Didn't you break up?" She had no need to tell her thought to Penny. She didn't have to explain anything to her. She used to consider her as her best friend, but now she was less than a stranger. "Winnie, don't be wishful thinking. Your status is not worthy of Leo. I warn you not to talk to Leo, or I will kick you out of the Bennete Group." Penny was menacing with ferocity. The revelation of what happened four years ago would seriously affect her status now. She would never allow that to happen. "Ha ha....." Winnie showed a disdainful smile. "I believe you have the ability, and I am eager that you can kick me out as soon as possible. Tomorrow, if you can, fire me tomorrow morning." Now Winnie was not afraid of this threat. It was good to fire her, so she could get rid of Brian. "You..... Winnie, I am not that poor Penny in those days. It is easy for me to destroy you now. Don't mess with me, or you will suffer." Penny said with vicious threat and arrogant eyes. She was indeed different. Winnie showed a faint smile and said in a fearless tone. "Do as you please. I don't think anyone can change what I want to do." Winnie turned to leave, and Penny was still shouting behind. Winnie shook her head while walking. Penny had studied in a university and went abroad for two years, but her quality was so inferior. Winnie did not go home, but walked along the neighborhood toward the road. Today she was disturbed by Leo and Penny, she could not bear it and again she felt hurt in heart. Such a thing was not expected before Winnie came back, but she did not expect the identity of Penny had such a change. Although none of this had anything to do with her, it still affected her daily life. Winnie felt depressed and walked in the bar when she passing through the bar door. She wanted to get drunk once to feel relaxed. Winnie sat down at the bar and the bartender offered her a glass of whiskey. Winnie seldom drank alcohol and did little research on it. She drank whatever the bartender offered her, and she cared less about getting drunk. She just wanted to get drunk, so as to temporarily forget those things that make her upset. One after another, Winnie got up and was ready to leave. When she was to pay the bill, she realized she didn't have any money with her, nor did she take out her phone. Just when she was embarrassed, a tall man appeared in front of her. Winnie looked at him blankly for a while. "Oh, you do haunt me. Now that you've come, help me pay the bill." Brian appeared and could help her. Winnie could accept it reluctantly, but his face was darkened. "That's all paid. Come with me." Brian's cold voice was unchanged. "Thank you..." Winnie became drunk and said thank you with a smile. She turned around, but she staggered. Fortunately Brian helped her, otherwise she would be embarrassed. "Ha ha...Thank you very much!" Winnie was supported by Brian and walked out of the bar. The breeze hit her and the effect of alcohol made her shiver, which also reflected her poor drinking capacity. "I..." As Winnie wanted to say that it was too cold and she wanted to go home, a man's coat covered over her body. Winnie looked up at Brian with grateful but cute eyes. "Thank you!" Brian did not say anything, but helped Winnie get into the car with a gloomy face. But then Winnie suddenly refused to get in to the car. "Wait, I can't go home like this. I get drunk, Megan will worry about me." Winnie looked around for something, and then sat down on roadside. "You go first. I'll sober up and go back." Winnie asked Brian to leave. But even if a passers-by would not leave her alone since she was like this. Brian closed the door and sat down. Winnie was dizzy and leaned her head on his shoulder without caring he was Brian or not. "I'll just borrow your shoulder for a while." Winnie's voice was low. And then she began to mumble. "They all bully me, who had I provoked? How many bad things have I done in my previous life?" "....." "I just want to have a peaceful life. Don't mess with me. Don't mess with me." Winnie soliloquized, without knowing who would hear that, and without caring what it would be like if anyone heard it. She only knew that her nagging was a way to relax herself. Brian said nothing, listening to Winnie. But what she said was sad, which made him feel hurt in heart. Brian lowered his eyelids and screwed up his cold eyebrows. How many secrets did this woman have, how many things did she have in her heart? An hour ago, he drove to Winnie's home alone, but saw Winnie walking beside the road alone. He slowed down the car, following Winnie behind, but she had not noticed him. She was sad and focused on her upset things. So Brian did not bother her but followed silently. He went into the bar and quietly watched her drinking. Until she had no money to pay, he showed up in front of her. Looking at Winnie's ruddy face and heavy breathing, Brian's heart was uncomfortable. When Brian had dark thoughts, the phone rang. "Hello?" He picked up coldly. "Uncle, I am Megan. Mommy is out and I can't find her because she did not take out her phone." Megan's clearly worried voice came from the other end of the phone. "Mommy is with me, are you alone at home, Megan?" Knowing it was Megan, Brian's voice became soft. "Mummy is with you, then I am not worried. Megan is at home with Daenerys Auntie." Megan's voice changed at once, and it seemed to be secretly pleased. "Good. I'll take your mommy home later." Brian looked at the drunken Winnie. Winnie was afraid that Megan would worry about her, so he could only take her back later. "Uncle, it's Mommy's birthday, will you stop being mean to her?" She was going to celebrate her mother's birthday, but she didn't know why she suddenly went downstairs and didn't come back until now. Megan said this with purpose. She wished Brian could celebrate her Mommy's birthday. Birthday? Brian's head was blank again for an instant. What kind of coincidence was that? There was a reason why he came to Winnie today. It was someone's birthday too. She was similar to Winnie, so he came and wanted to have a look at her. But he did not expect that it was Winnie's birthday too. Why they were so similar? When he put down the phone, he found that Winnie had fallen asleep on his shoulder. Brian called her for two times and there was no response. He directly got up and picked Winnie up and put her on the car. He could not send her home, nor go to the hotel, Brian finally chose to go to the company. Brian held Winnie and took the president's exclusive elevator to the president's office. Brian put Winnie on the bed, and when he wanted to get up, she was pulled by Winnie by the wrist. "Don't leave. It's my birthday. Just stay with me until 12 o'clock." Winnie half opened her eyes, which were blurred and charming. Brian lost the ability to think as if he had been struck by lightning. No, no, Winnie was drunk. It was just a coincidence. Or she knew something, and she was using it to seduce him. Brian thought the possibility of the latter was bigger. Since she had admitted that she was a cheater, the cheater would find out his weakness. Brian leaned on Winnie. Winnie boldly stretched out her arms and put them around Brian's neck. The distance of two people in an instant became close. "Winnie, do you know what you're doing?" Brian's hormone became disorderly and his voice was hoarse. "Yes, I have a kid, how could I not know?" After Winnie gave a cold hum, she continued. "Didn't you bring me here to get me? You and I both know what's going to happen next. Please bear in mind that I am probably lying to you, and don't regret it if you do it." Winnie was clear in mind, but she didn't know why she said so in a direct way. Shouldn't she refuse me? Why did she take the initiative now? She must have gone crazy, or the alcohol had successfully invaded her brain like a virus and changed her mind. "I know you're a cheater. Why do you try to seduce me? Aren't you afraid of getting hurt?" Brian's cold words are mixed with desire. His dark eyes were lit by the fire of desire. Most women lost in the adult game. He was not afraid that Winnie was a cheater, instead he wanted to conquer a cheater and sensed the achievement. Besides, the last person to be cheated in this game might be her. "I seduce you because I'm a woman. It's a physical necessity. As for hurt, I've been through it. Can it be worse?" Winnie's eyes were blurred and watery. She told herself that her answer was very good, and that it was because of her physical need that she was willing to lie in this bed. "Don't regret it." "You too..." Brian could not control his desire. Before Winnie's words were finished, he had swallowed the next half of the words. Two people were out of control passionately. Their clothes were quickly taken off. When their skins touched, once again they felt familiarity from each other. Two bodies blended together with tacit understanding and the harmonious feeling of the body achieved acme.