CHAPTER 261 A QUARREL ON THE MOUNTAIN ROAD

Seeing Winnie quickened her pace, Brian ran after her and stopped her. "Winwin..." He looked sorry and worried. "Don't be grumpy. Let's get back in the car." Brian took Winnie's hand and said in a less cold tone. "Let go, we have nothing to say to each other, and I can't stand your strange temper." No one could stop Winnie's temper. She shook off Brian's hand and went on. "Winwin. It's cold outside. The temperature is even lower in the mountains. You are ill and you can't get cold." Brian once again stood in front of Winnie. Looking at her angry face, he regretted that he had not control his temper and his jealousy. "Mr. Bennet, don't show me your concern when you see me sick. Even if I die in front of you, you have to do ignore me. I would rather die of illness than need your care." "I am fine, and I need no one to take care of me. Mr. Bennet, it's Wendy you should take care of, not me." Brian's care for Winnie was a kind of pressure. And she could not accept his inexplicable temper. Brian made her feel that when he helped her, she had to unconditionally bear his sudden madness. But Winnie thought it hurt her self-esteem. Winnie had a sharp tone. No matter what, she could not listen to Brian's sarcasm, could not be ignored by him. She walked on around Brian. "Winwin, don't do that. You're still ill. Take care." Brian followed and kept explaining. "Winwin, it is my fault, don't take it seriously." As Brian's voice fell, he again caught up with Winnie. No matter what, he would not give Winnie way. "You say it every time. You can be sarcastic. You can be indifferent. But I've made it clear to you that you should at least respect me. I have not a strong family background, I have no authority, I don't even have parents, but that doesn't mean you can treat me whatever you want to do and say whatever you want to say." "Although I have nothing, at least I have given you two children. Can you respect me for the sake of the children?" Winnie was angry and felt bitter in heart. Every time Brian treated her like this, she was especially wronged, wanted to cry and lost hope. However, she endured it, even if she shed tears, she was still stubborn. "Winwin, I did not mean it, but seeing that you were with another man, I felt..." "How did you feel? Do you like me? Do you like me so you don't like me to be with other men?" Winnie interrupted Brian in time and continued to speak. "It is impossible. You said you didn't like me, and I'll remember that as long as I live, and that's why I control myself." Winnie gave the answer to her questions, because she was afraid that she could not take it if Brian said it out. "Brian, since you don't like me, you think my character is bad when you see me with another man, and you insult me with those words." "I want to tell you that my poor character is none of your business. Get out of the way, or we won't even be friends." Winnie said angrily, feeling disappointed to Brian. She really wanted to break off all contacts with him. She did not want to be scorned by him again and again. It seemed a mistake to choose to be friends with him. He looked down upon her. All he did was to yell at her. What did she do wrong to upset him? He did not like anything she said or did. She tried to be a fool in front of him, but he still vent his anger on her. "You are in a state of agitation, and you won't listen to what I say. Come back with me, and I will let you go when you are well. And I promise you that it will never happen again." Brian had no words to say, he could not tell her that he loved her, and even if he told her, she would not believe it. "I can't tell you how many times you've promised me that. I'm tired of hearing it. Don't detain me. What's the use of wearying you with me?" Brian refused to give way, so Winnie had to bypass him again. But Brian backed away and blocked her way. After repeating several times, Winnie lost patience and began to shout loudly. "What do you want? Will you kill me? Will you be satisfied if I jump off this hill?" Winnie was angry, with tears in her eyes. "Winwin..." "Go away, do you want me to say I hate you?" Winnie broke down, and could not help but burst into tears. He treated her like that, but she could not say she hated him. Her heart had been sealed up and even the function of breathing had lost, but why couldn't she forget him? Why he could easily hurt her? Winnie burst into tears. The reason for crying was not all for Brian's taunts, but for missing Brian. "Winwin, I am sorry." Brian held Winnie in his arms. He loved this woman, who was the last woman he wanted to hurt, but every time he made her cry. "I'm sorry I said that. I didn't mean what you said. I really dare not say I like you, I can only say that I can't forget you." "Let go, every time you hurt me and apologized. Why should I bear all this? Is it a sin to love you? If I knew you hated I liked you, I should have given it up at the beginning. I was wrong. I was wrong." Winnie said sobbing, struggling to leave Brian's arms, but the more she struggled, the tighter Brian hugged her. "Winwin, come on. I don't hate that you like me. I'm flattered that you do. It is my bad today. No matter what you think of my actions, believe that I have never looked down on you because of your family. You are the mother of my children and I thank you for having two wonderful children. Thank you for being in my life." "Winwin, I beg you to go back to the villa with me. Your body can't stand such a torment. First go back, and then you can be as angry as you like." Brian knew that nothing could help him. He knew that he had said the wrong thing. He knew that Winnie was sad. But the most important thing at the moment was Winnie's health. It was now December at the end of the year. Although it was not as cold as in the north, the temperature on the mountain was very low. Standing like this for a long time would make Winnie sick. "You bastard, why do you always do this? Don't be nice to me, don't care about my health. You care about everyone, but I'm the one you take it out on." "You care about your employees, you care about Wendy, more care about your family, even your subordinate's wife, why I....." Winnie could not say a word because of grievance. She then continued after sobbing for a moment. "I gave you surrogacy for money. Penny said I was a cheater. Although you knew the truth, Penny's words had made it the fact that I was a cheater. I hid the existence of Megan was simply because I was reluctant to leave her, but you thought I had my purpose and thought I would use her for trade. Because of all these, you do not respect me." "No, Winwin, I really..." Brian did have these thoughts to Winnie, so his rebuttal was so insignificant. "Yes, yes, don't deny it. If you respected me, you would have lost your temper with me. If you didn't take me as a cheater, you would not guard against me. You are suspicious, but only of me. What have you to quibble about?" Winnie shouted with hysteria, and she suddenly pushed Brian away. Brian had too many doubts about her, and he lost his temper for no reason and had broken her heart for many times. Brian still wanted to quibble, but it no longer had any sense. "Brian, I don't understand what I have done wrong. I did not disturb your life, I did not pester you, but you felt sick of me, why?" Winnie was very painful. In addition to work, she only had her family. She had tried her best to avoid Brian, why he still tortured her? "Winwin..." Brian was sad. Listening to Winnie's complaints, he had no reason to refute. He only hurt her. He reached out his hand and was to take Winnie in his arms again for comfort, but she retreated two steps. "Don't touch me, I will dirty your hands. Leave me alone, if you stop me from leaving, I'll jump off this hill." With that, Winnie walked toward the roadside. She was not to frighten him, but at the moment she did not want to live and wanted to end her life. When her parents died and she was in debt, she had never felt so desperate or so miserable. But now she was tortured by this man, and she wanted to end everything. "Don't, Winwin, you can go." Brian was afraid. Looking at Winnie's eyes, Brian was really afraid. He could bear not to be with her, but he could not bear her leaving his world. Crying, Winnie continued to walk down the mountain, quickly, trying to disappear into the darkness as fast as she could and from Brian's sight. She walked quickly, with the tears flowing down. It was unrequited affection. She was an ordinary woman, why did she encounter such torture? She didn't want to love Brian, but she could not help.

CHAPTER 262 THE PERSON HE FELT GUILTY FOR

How could Brian rest assured that Winnie walked down the mountain alone? He had been keeping a distance with Winnie behind. Looking at her figure, Brian knew she was really hurt. She wanted to get away from him as soon as possible. She didn't want to get hurt any more. He knew what was in her mind and knew he should not do so. But he also loved her, and did not want her to be with other men. Who could give him some advice? How could he not hurt her? How could he make her satisfactory? Winnie's stomach was in pain since she was off work and she had been enduring it. Probably she got a cold, she got more pain. But she must endure and could not go back to Brian. Even if she died out of pain, she would not look back at Brian. But then she suddenly lost consciousness. She had no idea what happened next. "Winwin, Winwin....." Brian's cries echoed along the mountain road, but Winnie could not hear it. When Winnie woke up again, she found herself in the bedroom of the mountaintop villa and became emotionally agitated. As she was to get angry, she found that Kevin and Daenerys were there. "What are you doing here?" Winnie whispered, restraining her temper. "You scared me to death, how can I not come over?" Daenerys said with a frown. When Brian called Kevin, Daenerys was with him. Hearing that Winnie fainted, she ignored Kevin's opposition and resolutely followed to come. "Sorry to worry you. I am fine." Winnie remembered what had happened to her, and remembered the moment she fell unconscious. Being too weak was one of the reasons, more because of being too sad. "You would not have been so weak if you had been well cared for after giving birth to two children. Winwin, get well before work." Daenerys knew Winnie's physical quality had always been poor, but she had not fainted before. But after her accident, her condition became worse. "It's not that serious. My work is not tiring at all. Besides, if I don't work, my family will go hungry." Winnie barely gave a smile, so that Daenerys would not worry her. "I will help you if you don't have money. Pay me back when you earn money." Winnie was joking, but Daenerys was serious. If Winnie continued to work so desperately, sooner or later she would get sick. "I'm all right, don't worry. I have a family to support, so I will take care of myself." Winnie said with guilty for Daenerys' worry. She felt she always brought troubles to others, and Daenerys had been worrying about her, which made her feel bad. "You can't be persuaded." Daenerys knew she could not change Winnie. "I owe you and Daenerys more than I can ever repay, Doctor Burns." Winnie felt that she had brought too much trouble to others, always upset the lives of others, which was a torture to her. "Why so polite? We are friends. You're not in good health, and I happen to be a doctor, so I can help you. Don't say that again and take care of yourself." Looking at Winnie, who was very weak and bloodless, Kevin felt distressed. Winnie was such a good woman, but she had much twists and turns and could not be with the one she loved. "Well, I'll take care of myself in the future." "Daenerys, Doctor Burns, it is late, and I am all right. You can go home. I have business to deal with tomorrow, and I can go to the hospital, so you don't have to come here." Winnie told then her arrangement did not want to trouble anyone. Kevin looked at Brian, who remained silent, and then answered. "Ok, I will wait for you at the hospital tomorrow." Kevin took Daenerys' hand and left. Brian was to see them off, but was rejected by Kevin. "It's a bit late today. My aunt will be worried if I go back at such a time. I will stay here for one night." Winnie now had no strength at all. She found it difficult even to speak. She could not even get up from the bed, how could she leave here? Even if she did not want to loathe him now, even if it would hurt her to see him, she could only stay here. "You can live here all your life, let alone one night." Brian finally said in a guilty tone. "No, I won't bother you all your life." On the contrary, she would never bother him again. "Take me down the mountain when you go to work tomorrow. I have delayed your work these days and affected your mood, I am sorry." With that, she turned her back to Brian. She did not own favor from Brian, but he always made her feel sorry. "Daenerys is right. The health matters. Stop your work, if you have no money, I can lend it to you and you can return to me when you earn money." Although Winnie turned her head, she could hear it clearly. "Only if you have good health can you be the support of your family and take good care of your children. Even for their sake, you should take good care of yourself and don't let them worry about you." "I know my money is the most taboo for you, but you don't need to think too much. I don't give it to you, I lend you, and you can give me interest. I have nothing more to say. Take care of yourself for the sake of the children." Brian soliloquized. And Winnie shed tears silently. She did not want to hear Brian's sensational words, because it was suffering for her. She had not pleased him a moment before, but now he spoke softly. It changed so quickly that made her crazy. Her heart was very painful and only she knew it. "Winwin, don't easily choose to leave this world. There are many people in this world need you, two children could not live without you, neither could your aunt and sister. If you jump off that hill today, Daenerys will cry her eyes out. Live as if you were living for these people, and their lives would be colorless without you." Brian thought of the moment Winnie threatened him and her eyes. He could not live without Winnie. His mother had died unexpectedly, and he didn't want the people he cared about most to leave him in this way. It was suffering that the person who he cared had gone. If he watched the woman he loved died in front of him, it would drive him crazy. Winnie listened to him silently and shed tears silently, but she said nothing. She understood what Brian said, but she hoped that Brian was one of the people who needed her. Winnie thought like this, but sneered at herself. How could he care about her? He was afraid to take responsibility that she died in front of him. What a sad love. What a poor unrequited love. 'Winnie, when can you get him over? Why you won't be affected by his words and deeds? Winnie was tired mentally and physically. Because of crying, her brain began to lack of oxygen, and she fell asleep in a daze. Brian went around the bed and lied down next to Winnie. Looking at Winnie's tears, he had been unable to breathe like his heart was being grasped. He gently wiped the tears from Winnie's eyes with his hand and said in a low voice. "Winwin, I love you, I only love you." "But I can't let you know, because I can't give you anything. I'm sorry, the woman I love most in my life is you, and the woman I owe most is also you." Brian's words could not be heard by Winnie. Even if she heard it, she could not feel his heart. He knew that he had not had the courage to say these words, because he could not bear the consequences. He was unable to protect the woman he loved. It was his fault. The next morning, Brian got breakfast ready, but Winnie was in no mood to eat. Brian had no choice but to drive Winnie down the mountain. Winnie did not say a word, because she knew that she might provoke Brian and she would be sad. "Winwin, here is a bank card. Stop your job, and get heal first." Brian broke the silence and put the bank card into Winnie's hand. Winnie lowered her head, looked at the bank card in her hand and laughed ironically. "Brian, I know you have money, but I think I told you not to use it..." "I know what you hate most is my money, but I just want to help you." Brian had already thought of what Winnie was going to say, so he interrupted her decisively. Brian continued. "Winwin, let me be selfish for once. Let me be selfish for the sake of the two children, for the sake of the two children to have their mommy to protect them all the time. My selfishness demands that you have good health. Bring the children up well for me." Winnie listened to Brian's words and felt more she shouldn't take his money. She placed the card in the car."They are also my children, I know how to protect them. Whether you gave it to me or lend it to me, I can't accept it."Mr. Bennet, I repeat, whatever happens to me in the future, leave me alone unless I beg you, but if I beg you, you have the right to refuse me."I'll take care of my own affairs. Even if I stop working, I won't live on your money. I'm not that miserable."Winnie again rejected Brian's money.

CHAPTER 263 MEET LAURA

It seemed that every piece of money Brian gave Winnie had shame written on it. Winnie did not adopt the opinions of Brian and Daenerys. She felt that she was not that weak and did not need to stop her work. If it had not been for Brian's irritation and for her own indisposition, she would not have fainted. And she was a busy person. If she recuperated at home, her family would be more worried. Winnie went to work the day she and Brian parted. She did not need sympathy, especially from Brian. She wanted to prove to Brian that she lived a wonderful life without him, and that she could take good care of her two children without him. Wendy minded that Brian told a lie. She tried to find the whereabouts of Brian, but she failed, and she was not sure whether he was with Winnie. Whenever Wendy was in trouble, the person she remembered was Klara. Taking advantage of the rest at noon, Wendy asked Klara out. "Wendy, you are frowning, did Mr. Bennet annoy you again?" Klara asked with concern. The distress on Wendy's face was obvious, even a fool could see that. "Yeah, I'm annoyed. I called you the other day and you said he was on vacation." Wendy said with a listless voice. "Yeah, everyone in the company knows that he was on vacation." Klara felt that there was nothing wrong. And the news came from Brian's secretary. "But when I called him, he said he had been busy with work and couldn't see me. Can I trust him? Can I not be annoyed? I always wondered if he was with Winnie, so he hid it from me." Wendy put her doubts out. She took Klara as a friend and she could say anything to her. "Why didn't you say it earlier? If you doubt it, I can ask my friend if Winnie goes to work, and we can know if they are together." Klara had not thought Brian's vacation was false, but he lied with Wendy must have a problem. "I'm sorry to bother you all the time. I thought if I did my own research I might find a clue that they were together, but I couldn't find Brian in two days. He disappeared off the face of the earth." Wendy was uneasy these days and had not had a sound sleep. She regretted now that she had come back late. But she could not give up and must have Brian with her. "We learned the news that Mr. Bennet took three days off, but he was back at work in two days. I can ask my friend if Winnie went to work these two days?" Klara had been working for Brian for several years, so she knew him well. Except that he would lose his temper sometimes, the rest was very regular. He took three days off and but he was back in two days, but there was nothing urgent in the company, so it must be related to private matter. "Klara, sorry to bother you again. Can you ask her now?" Wendy was eager to know the answer now, because she did not want to be in torture. "Wait a minute. She's on break at this hour. I'll call her." Then Klara took out the phone and called her friend directly. "Laura, are you at work today?" "Yes. I've just come back from lunch. You're resting at this hour, right?" The person called Laura was Klara's friend. They originally lived in a community. Hearing that Klara was the president's personal secretary, Laura had been clung to Klara, thinking that one day she could work in the Bennet Group. "Yes, I'm resting, too. Laura, I want to ask you something." Klara went straight to the point. "Ok, I'll tell you what I know." "Did Winnie go to work these days? Klara waited for Laura's answer. Laura was sitting at her desk and could see Winnie through her transparent office. Since the topic was Winnie, it was necessary keep her voice down to avoid being overheard by Winnie. "Wait for me. I'll talk to you outside." She got up and took a look at Winnie again. But Winnie was also looking at her. Laura felt nervous and then nodded towards Winnie and went out with her mobile phone. Although Winnie felt that Laura's behavior was different from usual, and the panic in her eyes was obvious, she did not think much of it. Laura came to the stairwell of the safe passage, and made sure no one was there before she spoke. "Winnie was sick two days ago and asked for sick leave. She came to work yesterday morning. But she has not covered and still needs to go to the hospital." "Oh, thank you, Laura. Let's gather someday." Hearing that, Klara hung up the phone. She could see now why Brian took a vacation, and she was sure they were together. Klara conveyed it to Wendy. "They took leave on the same day and went to work on the same day. They must be together. But why couldn't I find them? I learned that Brian did not buy tickets." Wendy thought that she would feel better to know the truth, but after knowing it, she felt more uncomfortable, a sense of betrayal deeply swallowed her. "I don't know. I am not around him now, so I don't know his whereabouts." "Wendy, I will introduce my friend to you. You give her some benefits and let her at any time keep an eye on Winnie, so that you will be convenient." Klara could not imagine where Brian would go. She thought anywhere was possible. Klara felt that she underestimated Winnie again. She was scheming. She liked Brian, so she had been pegging him with means. "Good, the sooner you arrange our meeting, the better. I can also know the whereabouts of Winnie in the first time." Wendy did not know what to do, and could only do according to the arrangement of Klara. Knowing Klara's friends, it would be help. "Wendy, have you started the plan I gave you? Are you waiting for Winnie to take Brian away?" Klara was worried. If Wendy could not keep Brian, she would have no chance. "No. Klara, I've thought about it. It's a good idea, but it's too early. It should be saved for the last hope." "Brian is cold and arrogant, but he is kind. When I used this plan, he would not abandon me." Of course, Wendy had her own ideas. She would carry on the plan in the critical moment. "You're right. What are you going to do now? Without action, this solution will soon be available. Winnie is sick, and Mr. Bennet put down so much work to take care of her, it can be seen that in Mr. Bennet's heart, Winnie was important. Klara added insult to injury and wanted the matter to have a result as soon as possible. Wendy seemed to be less aware of the crisis and was still thinking about it. But time was waiting for no one, so before she had figured it out, Winnie and Brian would have been together." "I'm not going to sit around like this. I'm going to do something. Klara, help me. You are my only friend." Now Klara was a life-saving straw for Wendy. Klara knew many things and he knew Brian and Winnie, so Wendy must rely on Klara. They met Laura in the evening. During this period, Wendy personally went to visit several elderly at Klara's home and gave them 200,000 yuan. In a fancy Chinese restaurant. "Laura, let me introduce my friend to you grandly. This is the fiancée of Mr. Bennet, Wendy." Klara introduced Wendy to Laura in a very enthusiastic and high-profile manner. "Hello, Miss Yup, it's my pleasure to meet you." Laura greeted her politely, with excitement and surprise. Brian's fiancée was the future hostess of the Bennet Group. It was her blessing and her future that she could know such a big figure. "Laura, just call me Wendy. Klara and I are good friends. She said you are very nice, so I want to meet you." Wendy looked up and down at Laura. She was in her forties, but she was restless. But it was good, only such people could be used. After introduction, they began to eat and chat, and the topic was about Winnie. Laura drank some wine and began to talk grumpily. "Not only you dislike Winnie, I don't like her either. Before she came, I was the only one who could sit in her position. But she came and got shares in the company. In fact, I was quite unfair." "See, Winnie is annoying wherever she goes. She wouldn't have been fired if she behaved well in the Bennet Group. Wendy and Brian are match, but she stepped in between them. Our president fired her after noticing that. "Klara also drank alcohol, but her capacity was unknown to most people. When others got drunk, she was still sober. So she said nothing wrong at this moment. She said that Winnie's departure was fired and belittled Winnie's character. Even if not for herself, just for the sake of Wendy's 200,000 yuan, Klara would strive to exaggerate this matter. "She was dishonorable in the Bennet Group and secretly seduced our president. I told Wendy about it. I most disliked this kind of person." Klara's selfishness became the elimination of evil and promotion of good, but only she knew that she was using them.

CHAPTER 264 ASK LAURA FOR HELP

Laura heard that Klara's evaluation of Winnie was belittling, so she would not respect Winnie. "Would she give up? All the women in the country want to marry Mr. Bennet. He had power and money. Winnie would not give up for sure." "Come on Klara, let's propose a toast for our misfortune to meet such a shameless woman." Laura said in a high-profile manner and had more disgust to Winnie. If it hadn't been for such a mess, Winnie wouldn't have come to a small company like theirs and taken her place. "Yes." Klara agreed, and they clinked the glasses. "Laura, I have something to ask you for help." Wendy finally spoke. "No problem. I'll help you if I can." It was her honor that Wendy asked her for help, with Wendy, it would be easier for her to work in the Bennet Group. "Winnie has a selfish interest in my fiancé. You are a colleague with her. If I want to know more about Winnie's whereabouts, I need your help." Wendy said her request. "No problem, I can do it." Laura promised. It was easy to tell her whereabouts, and it would not be found out by Winnie. The most important thing was to please Wendy. "Laura, thank you very much for your help. I will try my best to help you if you need my help in the future. I am Klara's best friend and I will be your best friend." Wendy used money and strength to get the help of others. However, she knew that the strength was not hers, but Brian's. This showed how important it was to marry Brian. "Thank you, Miss Yup, thank you for thinking highly of me and making friends with me." Laura was surprised by Wendy's words. Although she knew that Wendy needed her, as long as she helped Wendy and knew something about her, she would have Wendy to help her in the future. Therefore, society was materialization, and people used each other. "Laura, you are polite, you can call me Wendy." "By the way, Laura, have Winnie gone to the hospital these days?" Wendy asked. "Yes, it seems another two or three days." "What time did she go to the hospital?" Wendy seemed to have an idea and continued to ask about Winnie. "I am not sure. Sometimes it was at noon. She was there after work today." "If you want to know when she's going to the hospital, I'll let you know tomorrow. She always arranges her work before she goes out, so I know when she's going to the hospital." Laura knew Wendy cared about the existence of Winnie, even though she was like indifferent, or they would not meet today. But she did not care what Wendy thought, she just did what she should do. Knowing when Winnie was going to the hospital was her first task, and she must finish it. "Good, I will wait for your news." Wendy felt at ease, with the cooperation of the two people, it would be easy to know that Brian and Winnie were together. Wendy collected evidence from Winnie and at the same time tried to please Brian. After she separated from Laura and Klara, she came to the Bennet Group and took the elevator straight to the president's Office. Although only Brian was only left, he was still working. Because only work could distract his attention and he would not think if Winnie had recovered. As he was looking down at some papers, he heard a knock at the door. He thought it was an employee working overtime in another department, so he asked it to come in. "Come in." He looked up and found that it was Wendy. "What are you doing here?" Brian stopped what he was doing, got up and walked down the steps. "I guess you're at work, and I don't know if you've had dinner, so I brought you some food. If you haven't, eat it now. If you have, take it as a midnight snack." Wendy said thoughtfully and put the food on the tea table. "I haven't eaten yet." Brian said calmly, of which the emotion could not be told.. "Eat now, wash your hands, I help you set." Wendy put down her bag and began to set the food. Brian said nothing, but turned and went to the restroom to wash hands. After walking into the break room, Brian closed the door. This move made Wendy feel sad. Wendy had learned her lesson and learned its secrets, so if she couldn't go to his break room at will if she want Brian did not hate her. Although she understood, she still minded Brian's behavior made had more resentment to Winnie. When Brian walked out, Wendy's expression was relaxed. "Eat now." Brian then sat down on the sofa. "Have you had your supper yet? If you haven't, join me." Brian thanked Wendy for thinking about his dinner. And he just thought about Winnie, which made him feel guilty for Wendy. "I had with two friends." Wendy sat beside Brian. "Who are they?" Brian inadvertently asked, but Wendy was nervous. "Oh, just two old friends catching up. I don't think you had met them." "It's good that you hang out with your friends." Brian did not notice the tension in Wendy's words, he only felt that if Wendy hung out with friends, she would not think too much. "Brian, the day after tomorrow is the weekend. I want to take the children out to play. The first two meetings were very unpleasant. I formally apologize to them and cultivate our relationship. Even if we can't live together, I'm a member of the family, so I can't make it hard for you." "If I give birth to a child and it can get along happily with its brothers and sisters, it will be good!" Although Wendy did not like children, she had to force herself to like them. She could see how important the two children were to Brian. If she could not accept them, she would never get Brian's heart. "I'll call them and ask their opinion. Wendy, don't worry, the children will accept you." Brian was depressed. He should be happy that Wendy had made such a concession, but he couldn't be happy. "Ok, I'll take my time. Brian, I have been back for long, and you have been living in the company. When on earth will our house be ready?" Wendy said, with both hands circling Brian's arm, and her head on Brian's shoulder. "The villa decoration is not so fast." Brian was preparing the house, but he hadn't seen it once since the decoration. He didn't care much about it as if it was the house of others. He was more concerned about the hilltop villa, where there was Winnie's body fragrance. Hearing that, Wendy could only continue to wait. But what made her happy today was that Brian did not resent her touch. After Wendy left, Brian took a look at the time. It was more than nine o'clock, and the children should not be asleep at this time. So he made a call."Luke, Wendy wants to take you and sister out to play. Would you like to give her the chance?"Brian said gently, for fear that the children disliked that."Go out to play, I don't..."As Luke was to refuse, Megan stopped him."Daddy, we will let you know after the discussion."After that, Megan hung up the phone directly."Brother, we can give her this chance."Megan said."Why, I don't like her, and I don't want to see her with Daddy."Luke expressed her thought. He did not want to give Wendy a chance. Even if Daddy married her, he would ignore Wendy for a lifetime."Brother, she wants to see us because she wants to get on well with us and marry Daddy. But we can use this opportunity to make our relationship worse."Megan was clever and got her idea, and Luke unconditionally cooperated with her."Tell me in detail."Later they called Brian."Daddy, I have discussed with Megan that we would like to give Wendy this chance. Just let me know when and where you choose. I'll ask my grandaunt to take us there."Brian was pleased about Luke's answer, which proved he was growing up and understood him."Ok, I will text you the time and place."Brian then asked about Winnie."Luke, where's Mommy?" "Mommy hasn't come back yet." Luke looked at the time and thought Mommy should have come back at this hour."Is she working overtime?"Brian was worried. She had not yet recovered, how could she work so hard?"No. Mommy called when she got off work and said she was going to the hospital to see a friend and would be back later."Luke did not know that Winnie fell ill and went to the hospital for infusion, the family did not know either."Ok."Then he hung up the phone, picked up his coat and hurried downstairs with the car keys.From Luke's words, Winnie should go to the hospital for infusion, but he was worried that she had not yet home.Brian's car drove out of the parking lot and was seen by Wendy.Brian took Wendy to the underground parking lot and went upstairs. Wendy came to the car and answered a foreign phone call. She had been chatting over the phone and had not left.The phone lasted for half an hour. As she hung up the phone, she saw Brian's car driving out.

CHAPTER 265 PEEP AT WINNIE IN THE HOSPITAL

As Brian sent her down, he said he still had a lot of work to do, why did he leave in only half an hour? Wendy had a bad presentiment, so she quickly started the car and followed Brian. Brian contacted Kevin when he was in the car and learned the exact ward of Winnie. When he arrived at the hospital, he went directly to Winnie. Standing outside the ward, looking at Winnie taking infusion quietly, Brian stopped. If he broke into it like this, would Winnie be angry with him? Would she quarrel with him? Would she faint emotionally? Winnie had told him to leave her alone and don't appear in front of her for no reason. If he went against her will, she must not be happy. And the purpose of Brian to the hospital was to see if Winnie was OK. And he was relieved now. "Not going in?" Kevin's voice was heard behind. "No, she seems to be asleep." Brian said in a low voice, for fear that Winnie heard his voice. "The children said she came to the hospital after work, but she has not yet come back, so I come to see her." "I'm in this hospital, I'm her attending doctor, you can learn her condition by a call. Is it necessary for you to come?" Kevin teased Brian again and wanted to match them. "It's reassuring to see she was ok, you're not the kind of doctor I can rely on." Brian knew that Kevin was mocking him, but he really thought that he would not be at ease if he learned the news on the phone. "You can't control yourself and came so late. Don't use me as an excuse. I can cure Winwin even if I can't be relied on." Kevin did not want to bear the blame and become Brian's high-sounding excuse. "After so many days she was in a hospital bed, it is high time I take a measure of your medical skill." Brian said in a domineering manner. "Does she come this late every day for an infusion?" "No, she came yesterday at noon and came after work today. Before she could get an infusion, she went back to the company, so she was late. By the way, she hasn't had her supper yet." Kevin felt Winnie was pathetic. If there was no one to accompany the patients, it looked poor, and Winnie was one of them. "I'll get food for her and let her eat it later." Brian turned around and disappeared like a wind in the sight of Kevin. Kevin helplessly shook his head. Brian returned half an hour later. Seeing that Winnie was still asleep, he took dinner to Kevin's office. "Bring it to her, and tell her to eat it now. You share it with her. Don't tell her I came." Brian left after the explanation. Kevin took the dinner to Winnie's ward and woke up Winnie. "Winwin, I bought dinner for you, eat before it is cold." As Kevin said this, he set down the small table and put the dinner on the table one by one. "I again trouble you. I will come earlier tomorrow, so that you can get off work earlier." Winnie felt sorry. He cured her and got dinner ready for her. She was grateful. "Come on, I'm on duty today, and it's time for dinner. I can't sit in my office and eat alone ignoring you." Kevin did not want Winnie to have burden in her heart, so he explained in this way. "Thanks, Doctor Burns." Winnie knew that Daenerys and Kevin had helped her a lot. They talked while eating. "Winwin, you can't always be like this. When you're sick, you need someone to look after you." Kevin wanted to persuade Winnie to fight for love. As long as she was persistent, Brian would not refuse and would come up with the best solution. "It is not necessarily a good thing. I am ok to be alone. When my children grow up, they can take care of me." Winnie did not expect that Kevin referred to Brian, she thought Kevin was persuading her to marry. But who could guarantee the man she met would be good. Even if Brian took care of her, she fainted. She did not believe in men anymore. Of course, the men she didn't believe were protective of other women, and only she had been destined to be neglected by men all her life. It was pathetic, but there was nothing bad about being alone. She could hold on to the day of her old age. "The children will be farther away from you when they grow up, they could not always take care of you." Kevin found that the topic he wanted to talk seemed difficult, and Winnie did not cooperate. "I have my sister, my aunt, you and Daenerys. You can't all leave me alone." Winnie seemed to have been used to this topic and had been ready to be single for a lifetime. "Winwin, in fact, I want you to pursue love bravely. As long as two people love each other sincerely, there is no problem that cannot be overcome." "You know who I'm talking about." Kevin went straight-forward and did not give Winnie a chance to refute. "Winwin, the most important person in the Bennet family is Grandpa, but he is over ninety. He may die one day and can't stand in your way." "The Bennet family is powerful, but you have seen Rufus and Stella. They are nice, and don't have strong sense of rich family background. You don't have to feel any pressure when you're with Brian. As for Uncle Thomas' family, you don't have to worry about it. They can't do anything to you." Kevin said a lot, including his understanding of the Bennet family, so that Winnie could move forward bravely. Winnie had been quietly listening and spoke when Kevin finished. "I understand what you're saying, Doctor Burns, but we don't have conditions." "I like Brian, you and Daenerys know that. But Brian does not like me, so we can't be together." "It's not about the gap between the family, the power and the money, it is just that we don't like each other." "He has a woman he loves, and Wendy has finally returned after years. They're perfect together." Winnie said indifferently, but she felt pain in heart. She wanted to be with the man she loved, but she could not force him. "Did he tell you he loves Wendy?" Kevin asked. "Yes, he told me before Wendy came back, when I was with him. He was afraid I had plans for him, afraid I covet the position of his wife, so he told me he loves Wendy." "He did not say that to Penny, but to me, and this shows that in his eyes, I am of a very poor character, even inferior to Penny." "Doctor Burns, I don't know what I have done wrong to annoy him." Winnie's heart was still sore when she talked about these things. She didn't know why Brian did that to her. She even suspected that there was a deep hatred between them, and Brian tortured her in order to avenge her. "Winwin, it's not like that." "At that time he did not understand his heart and thought he loved Wendy, that was why he said so. Now..." Kevin tried to explain for Brian, but Winnie did not think Brian had feeling for her. "Now he is in love with Wendy. Otherwise, how could he admit that she is his fiancée and is to marry her? He would have a happy family by now if two children had not threatened him." "Oh, don't talk about him. The thought of him affects my appetite." Winnie smiled bitterly, and then lowered her head and continued to eat. In Winnie's opinion, all things were very simple to say, but it was difficult to do. She was very clear about what Kevin meant and knew that he hoped she was good. But her difficulties in life and in love had reached the limit she could bear, and now she had no more energy to pursue her own happiness. She did not have the guts to court a man who hated her so much. Because this road was full of thorns, because this road would make her bleed. She'd better live her low-key life quietly. From the conversation, Kevin saw Winnie's despair to Brian and saw that she loved Brian, but she dare not approach him. Perhaps she had been tortured too much, perhaps the pain was too heavy, and she could not continue to fight. Brian hurt a woman's heart to such a deep level. Didn't he feel guilty? Kevin did not continue, afraid that Winnie's bad mood would affect her condition. Now he finally understood only they could solve their misunderstanding and feelings. That Brian came to the hospital to visit Winnie and got dinner for Winnie had been seen by Wendy. Wendy's car was parked in the parking lot of the hospital. She sat in the car, cursed Winnie and hated Brian. She tried her best to please Brian, got dinner for him, but Brian had given his heart to the other woman. She was so angry. "Brian, aren't you going too far? You repeatedly called me and urged me to come back, but now you fall in love with another woman. Don't you feel sorry to me?"

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 266 WARNED IN THE HOSPITAL

Wendy soliloquized in the car. She really wished to stand in front of Brian and loudly questioned him, but if she did that, her relationship would come to the end. "Winnie, you shameless woman, you are the problem. If you didn't seduce Brian, how can he give me the cold shoulder?" In the end, Wendy attributed all the problems to Winnie, but she didn't have the guts to do anything to Winnie. The next day, Winnie took time at noon to go to the hospital, because today Kevin was not on duty, she could not affect Kevin's rest because of her. After a busy morning, Winnie finally managed to squeeze in some time at noon. She cleared her desk and walked out of the office, with coat and bag in hand. "Laura, I'm going to the hospital. Call me if there's anything urgent." Winnie said in a warm voice. "No problem, I'll call you if anything happens." Laura kindly agreed. "Thank you, Laura, I gotta go." "Okay, drive slowly." As Winnie disappeared, the smile on Laura's face faded rapidly. She took out the phone and sent a message to Wendy. "Winnie is going to the hospital now." As the message was sent successfully, Laura was very happy. She had completed a task, and she was one step closer to her dream. Wendy had been waiting for Laura's phone call. As soon as she received the message, she picked up the car keys and went straight to the hospital. Winnie's car drove directly to the parking lot of the hospital. She parked the car and got off. To access to the main building had to go through a garden. As Winnie had just reached the garden, she saw Wendy walking towards her. Winnie wanted to avoid Wendy, but Wendy had seen her and showed an unfriendly smile. "What a coincidence to meet you here. You really are everywhere." Wendy's tone was sarcastic, which made Winnie uncomfortable. "I come for a physical examination. Miss Yup, you are here too." Winnie said indifferently. She did not care about the sarcastic tone of Wendy. It seemed that she had expected that and had already accustomed to it. Compared with Penny, she was not that mean. "I came to visit a friend, but I didn't expect to see you. You come to have your health examined? Don't get sick, or Brian will worry about you." Wendy said. Thinking of things happened last night, she wished she could reveal them. "Miss Yup, you think too much. He is your fiancé and will not worry about me." "I gotta go, the doctor is still waiting for me." Winnie was to leave, but when she bypassed Wendy, Wendy stopped her way. "Miss Chambers, I'd like to take this opportunity to say something to you." "Don't think that because you gave birth to two children, you can win his heart. Don't think that because you're pretty, you can hang on to him." "You have to know yourself. You should know that his position is too noble for a woman like you to cling to." "If you have the sense, stay away from him, don't let me complain to Grandpa. If Grandpa makes a move, you will lose custody of the children, and you will leave B City forever. And most of all, your family, if you want them to..." Wendy used a variety of methods to threaten Winnie, venting her anger. She thought that after saying all these, she would feel comfortable and have a sense of accomplishment. But she did not expect that Winnie did not have the patience to listen to her and interrupted her words directly. "I'm sorry I don't have time. If you haven't finished your talk, we can sit down together with Brian to talk about what you are worried about one day." "Sorry, I had to go." Winnie said coldly, regardless of the stunned Wendy, and strode away. Winnie was angry about Wendy's threat. Although she had humble status, she was well educated and did not fight with Wendy in public. When Winnie met Wendy, she thought it was just a chance encounter. But the purpose in Wendy's words was so obvious. Winnie doubted that Wendy had been waiting for her there. What Winnie worried about happened. Wendy regarded her as an enemy as Penny did. She had been careful, but she had not avoided the result. She had not tried hard enough to stay away from Brian. Winnie left ignore Wendy, which made Wendy's mood change. The situation was so different from what she had expected and she could not respond for a moment. Winnie should apologize to her, should beg her not to complaint to the Chairman, but she felt she had been threatened. What did she mean three people talked about it? Was she so sure that Brian would speak for her? Wendy was resentful, but the consequences could only be her own responsibility. Because Winnie went to the hospital at noon for infusion, she went home directly after work in the evening. The kids hadn't seen Mommy since the night before, and when they woke up in the morning, Mommy had already left for work. They missed her very much. "Mommy..." The two children fell into Winnie's arms, but Winnie thought of the threat of Wendy. Looking at the two lovely children, she could not imagine that if Felix wanted the custody of the children back, if she would be able to continue to live. "Mommy, you finally come home early today. We all miss you." "Good kids, I missed you too. I am too busy to take care of you these days. I will ask for leave tomorrow and spend time with you." Winnie felt guilty to the children. She failed to give them a good living environment. Now the two children were reunited, the living conditions were better, but she was busy. "OK, Mommy, can you play with me and Brother tomorrow outside?" Megan asked in a sweet voice. "Where do you want to go?" Winnie had not recovered, but she did not want to let the two children down. "The park where Daddy and us went last time. It was so big that we didn't go to many places last time." "After that, we go to Grandpa's house. We miss him, too." Megan said what she thought, but the time and place was sent by Daddy. "Well... all right. We'll take aunt and grandaunt with us." Winnie hesitated for a moment and then agreed. "Great, Mommy." Megan said excitedly and took a look at Luke. She knew her mommy never rejected her. At this moment, Vanessa came out of the kitchen. "I can't go with you. I have an appointment with a classmate to go to the library tomorrow." Vanessa refused directly. If there was no schedule, she would like to play. "Neither can I." Isobel refused, and the reason she refused was Rufus. "Winwin, you take them to play. I can have a rest at home. I don't have strength to play with you." "Just the three of us? Let's go together. Vanessa can make a rain check with you classmate and, Aunt, I won't make you tired." Winnie said with disappointment. They seemed to have never gone out to play together. "I made an appointment with my classmates. She would be disappointed if I don't go." Vanessa abided by her promise. "I have been tired this week, and I can't come back if I go out with you." "You take the children to play, have fun, come back at night, and I can have a rest for a day." Isobel would consider it if they did not go to the suburbs, and she could help Winnie take care of her children, but it was impossible for her to go to the suburbs. "All right, then, we'll go tomorrow." Winnie had to respect the choice of her aunt and Vanessa. The next morning after breakfast, Winnie drove to the park with her two children. She found a nearby parking lot, parked her car and went to the ticket office with her two children. Luke and Megan took Winnie's hands and pulled her to the place designated by Daddy. Winnie was very surprised to see Wendy and Brian. She was not sure her children fooled her or Wendy insisted to come, but it could not be a chance encounter. Brian and Wendy were also surprised to see Winnie. They children said their grandaunt would send them here, but Winnie showed up. Brian was ok, but Wendy disliked that. She thought Winnie was playing tricks again. Knowing that she had an appointment with the children, she had to send the children here. She was so cunning. "Since Miss Chambers is here, let's go together. Brian, I have only four tickets. You go and buy one." Wendy said gently, but her unhappiness did not cover up. As Brian turned to buy a ticket, Winnie stopped him. "No more tickets, Mr. Bennet. I'm not going in. You have fun with the kids." It seemed that the two children had put her in such an awkward position, and now she could not blame them but left. "Mommy, we agreed to play together, you can't go home." Megan stopped Winnie. Her plan had not been implemented, Mommy could not leave now. "Mommy, we finally have a chance to go out, stay with us." Luke said to Winnie. Winnie turned her head and squatted down to look at the two children, with no reproach or anger in her eyes. Because she knew the intention of the two children was good for her, and they could not accept Wendy now. But under such a situation, Winnie could not indulge them. "Last night you didn't say you were going to play with Daddy and Wendy. If I have known they would pay with you, I wouldn't go out with you." Winnie said softly. "Why, mommy? It is our fault we did not tell you the truth, but we want to play with you." Luke asked. If yesterday he told Mommy that Daddy and Wendy would come, Mommy would not go with them.

CHAPTER 267 STRIVING FOR HAPPINESS

Winnie continued to persuade the children. "I don't feel well. I did not want to come out with you, but I am afraid you would be disappointed. I am relieved that Daddy and Wendy are with you." "Have fun with Wendy and Dad, I go to the hospital for examination." Winnie could only say that, otherwise Megan would cry and did not allow her to leave. "Are you really ill?" Megan felt distressed about Mommy, but she was disappointed and saw no hope for her plan. "Yes, I am ill." Winnie got up and touched the children's heads to comfort them. Then she turned and looked at Brian and Wendy. "Sorry, I didn't know you made an appointment. I leave the children with you, enjoy yourselves." Winnie gave a sorry look and then left. After Winnie left, Brian felt bad and the two children's moods were low, but Wendy was happy. She did not believe that Winnie got cheated to be here or that the two children had such intelligence. Even if she saw Brian, she had reached her goal. Two adults and two children walked into the park together, the children in the middle and the adults on either side. Brian took Luke's hand. Wendy wanted to express her kindness, so she reached out to hold the hand of Megan, but was refused by Megan. Megan stopped her pace, looked up at Wendy with a frown, but she said nothing and went to take Brian's other hand. It made Wendy embarrassed, but she could not get angry because Brian was around. Wendy pretended to be fine and gave a smile, and then she came to the front of the three people, facing them. She knelt down and looked kindly at the children. "Megan, Luke, I am sorry that we met suddenly the last two times, which caused harm to you. It is my fault and you should be angry." "I understand your feelings and I will not force you to accept me. You can take your time. Please accept my apology." Wendy's words sounded sincere, but the children did not accept that. Megan and Luke looked at each other, and Megan spoke. "Wendy, we have nothing against you. We just can't accept Daddy getting married right now. Mommy told us that you and Daddy have been in love for years, and we shouldn't be trying to stop you being together. My brother and I know IT, but we can't accept it." Megan said. Mommy said it to them so often that they could even recite it backwards. But they had their thought and there were intransigent reasons. "Wendy, you are fighting for your happiness to be with Daddy. Megan and I are fighting for our happiness by not allowing you to be with each other. I told both Daddy and Mommy that we never had a complete home, and now we have Daddy and Mommy, but we never had one home." "Wendy, our happiness is to have a complete home with Daddy and Mommy. You are an adult, you can't rob with children." Luke said calmly and sophisticatedly. His words made Wendy speechless. "Wendy, we forgive you for what you did. You forgive us for what we did. But we need time to accept you. How about this? You break up with Daddy first, let brother and I have a complete home. Five years later we will give you back Daddy, is that all right?" Megan looked at Winnie, waiting for her answer. These words were the result of two days of thinking with her brother, but the effect would not be so good without Mommy around. Wendy stood up, looking at Brian speechless. She only said one sentence. Why did the two children make her speechless? These two children's intelligence quotient was really so high, even higher than an adult. Their intelligence must inherit from Brian, but their bad ideas must have from Winnie. Brian looked like Wendy who asked him for help. He could not make the situation intense, so he said. "Megan, Luke, we come over to play today, let's not talk about that." "But Daddy, Wendy brought it up." Megan said innocently. Seeing Megan's innocent look, if Wendy was not there, he would laugh out loud. If his precious daughter grew up, his son-in-law would suffer. "Yes, it is my fault, I should not mention it. Let's go and play. You can play whatever you want." Wendy took the opportunity to apologize. She didn't expect her sincere apology would cause unnecessary trouble. How could she get along with such a child with high IQ in the future? Fortunately, Winnie had been given custody of the children. "All right, then, let's go on playing." Megan held the hand of Daddy and continued to walk forward. They had no interest in the games they played last time, so they took a sightseeing car to continue to move forward. "Daddy, do you remember that bungee jump? Mommy was so bold last time that she jumped off alone." Megan shouted suddenly when she saw the bungee jump, and then she got an idea. "Wendy, Mommy dare to play bungee jump, you try too. You must be better than Mommy." Megan said in a flattered way. It was not in the plan, but she would like to let Wendy to experience it. Mommy said that she was afraid after jumping and she wanted to make Wendy fear. "I..." Wendy did not expect Megan's proposal and got stupefied. She did not dare to play bungee jump. It was too high, and her legs would be limp when she went up. "You want to play? If you want to play, we'll go." Brian said with indifference. "Of course, Wendy is a brave person. Bungee jumping is not a big deal." Luke added. "I..." Wendy was forced by two children and she had no other choice. "If the children want to see it, I'll try it." The sightseeing car drove straight to the bungee jump ticket office. Brian went to buy tickets while Wendy and two children waited. "Wendy, can you go up alone? My brother and I need Daddy to take care of us." Megan spoke again. They had played last time, so they knew the process. She was afraid that Daddy would accompany her, so she said in advance. "Yes, you need Daddy to take care of you. I can go up by myself. Mommy dare to jump, I must be all right." Wendy had not played it before, so she did not know there was place for the children to stay. She came here to show Brian. She could not leave the children behind. "Wendy, you are so good. I knew you are the bravest." Megan said in compliment. Although Wendy did not believe that the two children could accept her so soon, but to see the children smile to her, she felt it was worth it to jump once even if she was afraid. Even so, she underestimated both children's intelligence and their determination to pursue happiness. Brian bought tickets back. Before he said a word, Wendy offered to go up alone. "Give it to me. You take care of the children. I'll go up myself." Wendy said and had forgotten how terrible bungee jump was. "It needs to be signed by the family members." Brian was surprised by Wendy's move. "I will say I come alone, and I can sign myself. I'm going up."Wendy's initiative was for Brian. It did not matter to her whether the children are happy or not, as long as Brian saw her determination to accept the children."Be careful."With that, Brian took the two children the best place to see.When he looked up to the bungee platform, he remembered Winnie's eyes when she jumped off.That expression made him heartache. Winnie might be really tired, so she gave that expression.And her tiredness was directly related to him."Daddy, why didn't you care about Mommy when she jumped off? You are partial."Megan pouted and expressed her dissatisfaction of Daddy."But Daddy accompanied Mommy go up. Isn't that care?"Megan, no matter what happens to Mommy, Daddy will care about Mommy, but sometimes, Daddy can't show it directly."Brian flatly explained. The children were unable to understand his hurtful feeling when he saw Winnie jumped down."Mommy just said she wasn't feeling well, and you couldn't care? Now Wendy is not here, can you call Mommy?"Megan looked poor, but she had her idea."Daddy, use my cell phone to call Mommy."Luke immediately handed his mobile phone to Brian, so Brian had to call Winnie.But he was willing to do so, and Wendy seemed not to expect that.Brian used Luke's mobile phone to call Winnie, so that she would not refuse to answer.Soon the call went through."Luke, what is it?"Winnie asked gently."It's me. How are you? The kids were so worried and they made me call you."Brian voice was low and he put the reason of this call on the children."Oh, I am all right. I made it up because I'm afraid they'll insist like last time."Winnie's tone was light, but the expression on her face was bitter.He made a call to her, should she thank him or the children?"Good, the children can feel at ease then."Brian felt relieved too."Tell them I'm okay."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 268 BEING TEASED

There was silence on both sides of the phone for a while before Winnie finally broke the silence. "I'm sorry about what happened today. I was so abrupt. The kids really didn't tell me about the appointment. If I'd known, I'd have asked my aunt to see them off." "Explain to Wendy. Don't make her think too much." "No, she won't think too much about it." Even if Winnie did not explain, he knew that it was the two children making trouble. They suddenly met, which not only made Wendy embarrassed, but also made Winnie uncomfortable. "Well, go to play." Winnie hung up the phone. Thinking of Brian's trust to Wendy, she reminded his trust to Penny. Wendy had secretly seen her twice, and her words were sharper, which was enough to prove that she really cared about her presence. And Brian thought that Wendy was kind. The plot was familiar, as if it were about to happen all over again. Would she stay out of trouble this time or would she be hurt worse? Brian put down the phone and told the children that Mommy was fine. As soon as they had finished speaking, a great cry of misery was heard. Yes, the owner of the voice was Wendy. Megan and Luke hurriedly looked to the sound, only to see Wendy bouncing back and forth, screaming. Megan and Luke laughed with satisfaction. Wendy came back with the help of the staff. Her face was pale. Seeing that, Megan and Luke was happy. But it was just the beginning, the two children did not let her go. A park trip was a difficult adventure for Wendy, which almost killed her. At the end of the day, Brian sent two children home. Downstairs, two children began to praise Wendy. "Wendy, you did a good job today. I am jealous. When I grow up, I must be as brave as you." Megan said sweetly, even if it was flattery, it made people pleased. "As long as Megan and Luke are happy, I will take you out to play if there is a chance." Wendy had been tortured for a day, and her speech was feeble. She was tired. "Great, do contact us when you have time." Megan said in compliment Brian embraced her to get off the car. At this time, Wendy pushed open the door and got off. "Goodbye, kids." Wendy forced herself to say goodbye, in fact, she never wanted to see them again. "Wait for me in the car. I'll take them upstairs." Brian moved forward holding one kid in each hand. Vanessa suddenly appeared in front of them. "Brian, you come to send them back." Vanessa greeted Brian with a smile. Brian was glad to see her because he hadn't seen her in a long time. "Yes, we are tired from a day of play, so I sent them back." "Vanessa, how are you? I don't worry about your study. Let me know if you need help in other aspects." "I am fine, I will let you know if I need help." Vanessa shifted her attention to Wendy. "And this is?" "She is my fiancée, Wendy." "Wendy, this is the children's aunt, Vanessa." Brian helped to introduce. "Hello, I am Vanessa." When Vanessa heard that it was Brian's fiancée, she was upset immediately. But she was same as Winnie. They always put the worry hidden deeply and pretended to be ok. "Hello." Wendy said two words only. Maybe she was tired, maybe she was disdainful, her voice was low. Vanessa saw that this woman did not like her, so she did not continue to see her. "I wish you happiness, Brian, on behalf of my family." "I'll take the two kids with me, thank you, Brian." "Good-bye, Brian, Good-bye, Wendy!" Vanessa said politely and left with two children. The more people looked down on her, the more generous she would be, so she raised her voice deliberately as she said goodbye to Wendy. "Winnie's sister?" Wendy asked in a low voice, and deliberately leaned on Brian's shoulder because she was tired. "Yes, she is excellent. She was the provincial top scorer in the college entrance examination, and a top student in B University." Speaking of Vanessa, Brian felt proud. "Good for her. But I don't think she looks like Winnie, but rather like your sister." It was the first time Wendy had met Vanessa, but she felt familiar. "It's a coincidence." Everyone saw Vanessa and his sister would say that they looked similar, perhaps this was fate. "I am tired, Brian. I have sacrificed so much today for your two children." Wendy suddenly changed the topic, turned around to directly circle Brian's waist, leaning on Brian's arms. She knew that at this time Brian would not refuse her hug. Brian was not used to such contact, but now he could only endure it because of what Wendy said today. He was silent for a moment, and then he spoke in a low voice. "The children had fun today. Thank you for your efforts." Brian said politely, which made Wendy feel strange. "How do you thank me?" Brian's politeness made her uncomfortable, but she still felt it was important to seize the opportunity. "How do you want me to thank you?" Asked Brian. "I don't need anything, but you accompany me to go home." Wendy said softly and Brian knew her meaning. "OK, let's get in the car." Brian understood, but it was his decision to do it or not. Brian helped Wendy open the door, but saw Winnie. Winnie was looking at them. Seeing their intimate move, Winnie was more sure that what Brian gave her was delusion. What a beautiful picture, what a happy scene. But such a beautiful scene made Winnie heartache. She sadly withdrew her sight as if nothing had happened. And she headed the direction of home. The next day was a weekend, and Winnie took a break. She was much better and did not need to go to the hospital for infusion, so she took two children and Vanessa to the suburbs. She stayed in the suburbs only after making sure that Brian would not be there. Brian did not come to the suburbs, but Stella came to visit her father at lunch. They greeted and began to eat lunch. Winnie knew Stella didn't like her, so she ate without talking, which made her feel restrained. "Stella, eat more. These dishes were all made by Winwin." Rufus praised Winnie in a variety of ways while eating. "Well, it's delicious. The children are lucky to have a Mommy who are good at cooking." Stella praised gently. Knowing that Winnie take good care of the two children, she was pleased. "My aunt cooks for kids at home. I'm so busy with work to cook for them." Winnie inadvertently mentioned aunt, which stunned Rufus. "Winwin, why didn't you bring your aunt over, so that we can meet and I can thank her." Stella was grateful to Winnie' aunt for taking care of the two children. She had made much more efforts than

she had."My aunt said she had been tired for a week. She just wanted to rest at home these two days. I'll bring her over when I get a chance."Winnie said softly."Ok."Stella looked at the sensible Winnie and thought about Wendy and Penny. It seemed that neither of them was better than Winnie."Vanessa, right? Are your study nervous? I heard that you're a rare talent."Stella changed the topic to Vanessa."Thank you for your praise. My study is not so nervous."Vanessa is as decent as Winnie, but more lively."Your age is the best years of life. Be sure to live a wonderful life, do not live up to the good years. When I was twenty..."At this, Stella stopped suddenly and looked over her father."Dad, do you think Vanessa looks like me when I was 20 years old?"Stella reminded Rufus.He felt so when he first saw Vanessa, but he forgot it after a long time."Yes. When I first met Vanessa, I thought she looked like you. Not just like you when you were twenty, but like you now."Rufus looked up and down at Vanessa and Stella while speaking.Everyone said Stella looked like him, but who did Vanessa look like?Thinking of this, Rufus looked at Winnie. They looked less alike.Winnie looked like her aunt, even her dimples."Vanessa and Winwin don't look alike, do you look like father and the other looks like mother?"Rufus feels his question was very gossip, but he wanted to ask."My sister looks like my aunt, and I don't look like my father or my mother. It could be a genetic mutation or my parents made a mistake at the hospital."Vanessa said jokingly. She had been accustomed to this question. When her parents were alive, she always asked why she did not look like them, her parents always gave such an answer, so she used to give such an explanation."Vanessa, what a joke. It happens all the time. My friends' kid doesn't look like Mom or Dad."Stella took it as a joke.However, Rufus and Winnie had chance on face.Rufus's change was because Vanessa said that Winnie looked like her aunt, and Winnie reminded Vanessa when she was a child.She was eight years older than Vanessa. The arrival of her sister was very sudden for her.Now it had been twenty years. Time passed by fast.

CHAPTER 269 STELLA'S MIND

Seeing that everyone was happy, Megan was also very happy. She looked at Stella and Vanessa carefully and then gave her opinions. "Aunt Stella and Aunt Vanessa look alike, Aunt Stella can be Aunt Vanessa's sister." "Now I call Stella sister." Vanessa answered Megan with a smile. "Oh, you are sisters. If someone says that you don't look like Mommy, you can say Mommy is not your sister, but Aunt Stella is your sister." "And you can take her to your school and brag that you found your long-lost real sister." With that, Mega cannot help laughing. The adults laughed together with Megan. Only Winnie's smile was stiff. After lunch, the two children went to play in the yard with their grandfather. Winnie, Vanessa and Stella watched the three of them play in the pavilion. "Winwin, the relationship between my Dad and Brian has not made any progress since you left here with the children. Brian had only been here a few times since then, and sometimes he escorted me here without even entering the courtyard." "You know, my Dad is getting old and always wants the family to be reunion and to untie Brian's knot in heart. But Brian hated Dad deeply. If this goes on, I wonder if he will be able to wait until the day of family reunion." "Winwin, can you persuade Brian again?" Finally, Stella came to the point. Stella had been wishing it. She might have to go abroad and her father and brother would be at home. If their relationship was bad, she would not rest assured. Now only Winnie could solve this problem, because Brian cared what Winnie said. "Stella, I....." Winnie looked embarrassed. Now she didn't want to see Brian, how could she persuade him? "Vanessa, you take the children to play, let Rufus rest for a while." Winnie deliberately told Vanessa to leave. If Vanessa knew it, she would make things bigger. After Vanessa left, Winnie continued to speak. "Stella, you know about me and Brian. He...He's with Wendy now and I can't see him." "I don't know how much Wendy knows about my relationship with Mr. Bennet or how she knows about it. The first time I met Wendy was in Mr. Bennet's office, when she just said some polite words. But as I was leaving, she ran after me and warned me to stay away from him." Winnie wanted to bury these words in belly, but if she did not say it out, Stella would not understand why she did not help. "I met Wendy in the hospital a few days ago, and this time her words were sharp. She was warning me." "Now Wendy was not satisfied with me. If I meet Mr. Bennet again, I'm afraid there will be trouble." "Wendy warned you like that? How could she be so rude?" Stella was angry and did not expect that Wendy would be so bad. "Don't be angry. I don't care." Winnie comforted Stella. "Stella, don't tell it to your Dad and Mr. Bennet. I don't want to make things worse." Winnie was afraid that if Brian knew about it, he would think she was making trouble and that she was instigating between their families. After all, they were all family, Wendy was his fiancé, and he believed her. "Winwin, at that time you again and again endured Penny. Albert told me that you have a lot of things that had not been told to Brian. Now you still can endure it?" "You and Brian cannot be together, but it is your fault. Why do you care those sarcasm?" Stella's attitude changed. Although Winnie and Brian could not be together, she pitied Winnie. She was too kind and had been enduring, but the more she endured, Penny became more arrogant. Stella's attitude was unexpected. She thought Stella stood on the side of Wendy, so she said implicitly. She had not told Stella what harsh words Wendy had said. However now Stella was speaking for her, should she be moved? "Wendy and Penny are not the same. She was not as scheming as Penny and will not so rude as Penny." "I knew what she meant and how she felt. I didn't want to make a big deal and make it hard for Mr. Bennet. It will be fine if I endured it. After Wendy warned me, I told myself it is my fault and made Wendy overthink. I will stay away from Mr. Bennet and not let Wendy suspect." What could Winnie do? She had always felt that the more low-key, the better, so that people would not take her as a hypothetical enemy. "You....." After listening to Winnie's words, Stella did not know what to say. "Wendy is so confident of herself. Does she believe that Brian must be her husband? How could she do such a thing?" "They are not married, all the women in the country have the right to pursue Brian. Why is she so arrogant?" Stella would not get angry easily, but Wendy's behavior was objectionable, especially after Penny. Winnie did not continue, but gave a faint smile. She thought that Wendy was right to be arrogant, because Brian loved her, spoiled her. "Alas..... even so, I hope you can help Dad and Brian. It will affect their life." Stella sighed and continued the original topic. "My wish is very simple. I just hope my father and brother can be happy." Winnie looked at the sad expression on Stella's face and felt upset too. She wouldn't refuse if she could help, but it was really hard for her right now. "Stella, don't worry. When you are not around, I will often visit your Dad. Vanessa will come too. If I get a chance to meet Mr. Bennet, I will try to talk to him. But I promise you I have nothing to do with Mr. Bennet, and I will not affect the relationship between he and Brian." Winnie guaranteed. She thought she did not have the ability to persuade Brian, but she could not refuse seeing that Stella was worried. "Thank you very much, Winwin. I trust you that you will take care of my father, and that you will persuade Brian. Thank you." Stella thanked her, but Winnie was guilty. She was guilty that she could help and could not change Grandpa's mind. Stella and Winnie were talking. Rufus was tired of playing with two children and sat down to rest. "Grandpa, we went out with Daddy and Wendy yesterday." Luke talked about yesterday. Although he and Megan got Wendy fooled, he was afraid that Daddy to be with Wendy. "Really? Can you accept Wendy now?" Rufus looked surprised. "No." Megan answered directly. She hated Wendy. "Grandpa, we tried to accept her, but we couldn't. We feel wronged at the thought of Daddy having a family of his own, and if he has another child, we will be forgotten." Luke said in a low voice and did not want to see Daddy to have his family. "The bottom line is that we have nothing to do with Daddy's new family. There's no place for us in it." Megan walked to Rufus, looking at Rufus with innocent eyes. "Grandpa, a child without a home or parents is the most pitiful. We are children without a home. As for our parents, we can only have one. Isn't it more pitiful?" Megan's words made Rufus distressed. He could not give them an answer. The two children were too poor. After finally finding their parents, it was really hard for children to accept that their daddy start a family with someone else. "Grandpa, all the children in our kindergarten are picked up by Mommy and Daddy. Their parents will participate in parent-child activities. But mostly grandaunt went to our activities. Daddy has no time, and Mommy has to earn money for the family. I envy those children whose parents are around." Megan said with tears flowing down. "Grandpa, help us. We want to have a home of our own. We want Daddy and Mommy in the house. I want them to participate in our activities. I want to show off Daddy and Mommy to the children, too." Megan cried more and more loudly, Rufus felt distressed. Even Vanessa who had not spoken felt sad. Vanessa never expect that the two children was so eager to have a home with Daddy and Mommy. Rufus pacified Megan, for fear that she would be sadder. "Megan, don't cry. Daddy will always be your daddy. No matter who he marries, he'll always be your daddy. Grandpa will ask Daddy to go to your activities in the kindergarten, and ask him to pick you up from school." "No, none of this is important. Grandpa, what we want is Daddy, not Daddy to be with anyone else." Luke denied grandpa's comfort. He thought grandpa did not understand them. What they wanted most was Daddy and Daddy could give them a complete family. "Alas....." Rufus understood the children's mind, but what could he say in addition to sigh? "Grandpa, can you help us? We want to be with Daddy and Mommy. We don't want Daddy to marry Wendy." Grandpa refused to help, which made Megan flustered. She thought that Daddy would definitely marry Wendy. "I... I can't promise you, and you'll be more disappointed if I fail to help you." Rufus was helpless and did not know what to do.

CHAPTER 270 FOR THE CHILDREN

Rufus's words made Megan cry. "Why? Why no one help my brother and me? What have we done wrong? Why can't we live with Daddy and Mommy? Even if we have a mistake, let us know, we will correct it, but why can't you help us?" Megan's cry made Rufus more distressed. Winnie and Stella ran over anxiously. "What's the matter?" Stella asked, thinking that the children fell to the ground. "Sister wants Grandpa to help convince Daddy... Stay with Daddy, Mommy." Luke felt distressed for his sister, and could not help but cry. Though the words were broken, Winnie understood why the two children were crying. "We've been trying so hard for so long. Why hasn't anyone helped us? Are we wrong about wanting a family or do you just not love us?" Megan spoke while crying. Her words hurt everyone's heart and made everyone feel guilty. Two children continued to ask. Several adults could not give an answer and no one promised to help. The children did not understand the helplessness of adults. They were simple. But simple things became complicated by adults, who could not fulfill their goal. However, this scene was recorded by Stella with video and sent to Brian. Brian and Wendy were having lunch. When Brian saw it was Megan's crying picture, he did not click it in front of Wendy. "I need to use the toilet." Brian made an excuse to leave and instead of going to the toilet, he went to a safe passage where no one was. He clicked the video and saw the two children crying and begging, and Brian's heart was suddenly pulled together. As the two children asked them again and again what they had done wrong, why they could not have both parents and why no one helped them, Brian couldn't control his emotions. Seeing that two children were so eager for a home, Brian noticed that everything yesterday was false, and it was disguised by two children. They did not intend to accept Wendy. Brian was heartbroken, because Megan and Luke begged, because Winnie held back tears and turned away, because his father was helpless and distressed. He hurried back to his table. "I have an emergency need to deal with, I gotta go." So Brian left and Wendy was confused. When Brian hurried to the suburbs, he did not see the children or Winnie in the courtyard, but Winnie's car was still there. He came to the room, where was sitting Vanessa, Stella and his father. Winnie and the two children were not there. "Where are the children?" Asked Brian anxiously. "Bedroom upstairs. They seem to be asleep, be quiet." Stella answered Brian. As her voice fell, Brian had been quickly moved away. For the sudden appearance of Brian, Vanessa and Rufus were surprised. But Stella knew what was going on. After she sent the video, she guessed that as long as Brian saw it, he would come, but she did not expect that Brian would come so fast. Brian came upstairs and stood at the door of Winnie's room. He steadied his mood before he gently pushed open the door. As expected, the two children fell asleep. Winnie sat beside them, wiping the tears from the corner of their eyes with one hand and wiping her own with the other. She did not notice Brian's arrival. However, this scene made Brian feel hurt. He walked slowly to the bed and wiped away Winnie's tears with his hand. At that moment, Winnie realized that Brian was standing beside her. She wiped away her tears as quickly as she could, not wanting Brian to see her fragile side. "What are you doing here?" Winnie asked in a very low voice, afraid that the two children would continue to cry if they heard it. "I knew they were crying and I was worried, so I come." Brian's voice was very low. He cared about the three people who were now in pain. How could he have mood to eat? Winnie looked at Brian in confusion and did not know how he got the news. "....." "Let's talk." Brian did not explain. The children fell asleep, if they spoke too much, it would wake them up. "No. We've made everything clear. You live your life and don't worry the children." Although Winnie could not guess what Brian wanted to talk about, she felt that nothing was unnecessary. Brian did not speak again, but directly took Winnie's hand and headed toward the direction of the bathroom. He knew that Winnie would not make a sound at this time, and that her strength was not as strong as his own. This trick was much useful. Winnie did not dare to speak and did not have the strength, and was finally forced into the bathroom by Brian. In the bathroom Brian let go of Winnie's hand. "We still need to have a talk about our children. We can't let our children feel so sad again." Brian's tone was low but not cold. "We have nothing to talk about, and if you want anything to do with children, you can say it." Winnie did not want to hear Brian's taunting words. "The children's business is our business, only our business is clear, the children can be happy." Brian denied Winnie's claims, saying the key to the problem lied with the two adults. No, to be exact, the problem lied with him alone. Winnie had nothing wrong. Winnie bowed her head without a word. The children's happiness was very simple, but they could not offer them. "Winwin, no matter what kind of relationship it is between you and me, we can't deny that children have done nothing wrong. When I heard Megan ask me what mistake she made, I want to slap myself." "The children's hearts have always been bitter, but I as a father cannot make them sweet. I am guilty to them." Brian said with a frown. "Me too, and I will feel sorry for them for the rest of my life, but there's nothing I can do to change, nothing I can do for them." Winnie's mood was bad and she also felt guilty. But how could she change what was meant to be? "None of us can change, but we should try. Winwin, just think I'm selfish. Just think you're helping me. Just stay with me for the children." Brian could only think of this method. He told Winnie so last time because he could not leave Winnie. But this time he only wanted to make effort for the children. Although it was unfair to Winnie, although it was very selfish, he wanted to fight for the children. Winnie stared at Brian. It was clear that he wanted her to be his mistress, just like before. Hearing Brian's words, Winnie felt hurtful. The last thing she wanted to hear was these words from Brian, and the last thing she wanted to do was live her life as a mistress. "Have you thought about the consequences of this?" Winnie asked in a low voice. "Yes, I have thought about all the possibilities on Wendy and Grandpa. But I don't care. I want my children to be happy." How could Brian not have thought of the consequences? Without these consequences, he would not have given up on Winnie. However, Winnie only sacrificed, it was not fair. Winnie wanted to let the children be happy than anyone else did. He loved Brian and wanted to marry him. But none of this was promising. For Brian, for the Bennet family, and even for Wendy, Brian's raising a woman outside was a matter of no importance. But for Winnie, it was pity, shame, lifetime stain. "I want them to be happy too, but it's not the best way. As the children grow up and go to elementary school and then high school, their classmates will laugh at them when they find out that their mother is a mistress. It's a much bigger blow to them. It's a great insult. It's much more painful than it is right now." "Winwin..." Brian tried to interrupt her, but Winnie stopped him. "Hear me out." "Even if it's acceptable to the children, it's not acceptable to me. It's too much for my pride to be a mistress, especially it's the man I love. I said I want to live with dignity and not let you think less of me." "Don't overthink. I'm not using the children to be your wife. I know that I am in no way worthy of that position." "No matter what you say, I just can't be a mistress. To tell you the truth, I'd rather marry a man I don't love than live as a mistress of the man I do love." Winnie paused for a moment, and then gave her final answer. "I'm sorry, but I can't grant your request." "Winwin..." Although he thought that Winnie would say so, Brian did not expect to more hurtful after hearing Winnie's words. "If you want the children to be happy, you should marry Wendy as soon as possible and put an end to the child's thoughts. As time goes by, the children will not care about these things." Winnie did not want to listen to Brian's excuses. The more he said, the more harm he would do to her. "No, the children couldn't get it through. Yesterday in the park, two children got Wendy fooled. They never want to accept Wendy." "I know what you mean, Winwin. I know that you would sacrifice and I will make it up to you. Promise me for the sake of the children." Brian felt sorry, but he had no other ways.
