

My Twins 30

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 30 BE DEvised BY CHILDREN

Winnie was sure that they did not have anything to do with each other before, so she must owe him in her last life and he came back for revenge this life. "Let go and go home to your wife." Winnie pushed hard. "I don't have a wife." Brian said with certainty. "You lied, you lied. Penny is your wife and you said you don't have a wife. Brian, listen up, whether you have a wife or not is none of my business. I wouldn't care if you were an eligible bachelor." Brian's words made Winnie feel funny. Shouldn't he be accurate when he was lying? Every one knew that he had a wife and child and he lied. "Winnie..." Brian was finally angered by Winnie and pushed away Winnie directly. Winnie almost fell down, so he did not say out the next sentence. "Well, I'll think about us. Pack up your things. You can't go." Brian said coldly and then left. Both of them were too emotional and were unstable to continue the conversation. One person had to leave first. Winnie threw things angrily in the room. When she found the children at the door looking at her with worry, she had to stop. Winnie sat on the sofa in the living room. The two children standing in front of her bowed their heads without a word. "What's the matter?" Winnie looked puzzled. "It was my fault, Mommy, for putting sleeping pills in your wine. Uncle..." Megan explained what had happened the night before. "It was not Megan. Auntie, it was my idea. Don't blame Daddy, he doesn't know what was going on." Luke interrupted Megan. He was a boy and should take the responsibility. "You made it? And put sleeping pills in the wine?" Winnie thought it was ridiculous. How could these two children have such an idea? "Megan, do you know sleeping pill will kill people?" It was the first time that Winnie got angry because of the child's behavior. This was not a joke. If the dosage was more, she and Brian could not wake up again. "Yes, we checked the safe dosage online. Then I stole your sleeping pills from your bedside drawer. It was my fault, Mommy. Don't be angry." Hearing the quarrel between Uncle and her mother, she realized that she was wrong. She thought that if she didn't admit her mistake, they would quarrel more fiercely, and she was afraid that her mother would really take her back to A City. Luke and Uncle were not in A City, she did not want to go back. "Auntie, it is not Megan's fault, just blame me, don't quarrel with daddy. We just want you to be together and hope the four of us to live together." Luke once again took the responsibility. He admitted the mistake, but his voice was getting lower and lower and his mood was getting worse and worse. Luke sighed sadly, and Winnie did not bear to blame them. "Luke, don't have this idea in the future. It is impossible for me and your Daddy to stay together. You have Mommy, she loves you more than anyone else. You are as happy with a family of three. Go home and try to talk to Mommy. I think your Mommy..." Winnie comforted Luke, but was interrupted by Luke. "We can't communicate. She's not my real mother." Luke said coldly with a dark face. This aloof and resentful look was just like Brian. Winnie was shocked at the moment. Luke's words, like an atomic bomb, exploded Winnie's soul into pieces. It took a lot of effort and a long time for Winnie to collect the pieces of her soul. "Luke, what you say is true?" Winnie asked eagerly. "It's true. I heard it last year. I overheard Daddy talking to a maid." Luke still lowered his head and said sadly. That was why he didn't like his Mommy. Winnie was completely shocked and felt distressed looking at Luke's pathetic appearance. She stretched out her hand and pulled Luke into her arms. "Poor boy. Luke, you are the best in my heart, you are a strong and sensible child." She was not his real mother and abused him. His Daddy did not know about it and was strict to him. In such an environment, the child must have a difficult life. "Auntie, be my mommy. I like you and I want you to be my mommy. I'm not afraid of anything with you by my side." Luke cried because he was wronged. "Good boy, don't cry." Winnie could only appease the child, but didn't give any irresponsible answer to the child. She could not be his mommy. Winnie had suspected Penny was not his biological mother, plus Penny's pregnant time was not right. Now the boy told her the fact, he was sure it was the truth. But who was Luke's mother? Who would know except for Brian? Brian went directly to the company from Winnie's home. He had no worry towards Luke, because he believed that Winnie would take good care of him. When he reached his office, his clothes had been sent over. Then the assistant knocked on the door and entered. "Mr. Bennet, Young Mistress is following you." Albert reported. Brian frowned suddenly. "She knew when I was last night?" "Yes, I had just heard that Young Mistress drove to Miss Chambers's home." Albert reported truthfully and dared not delay. "Got it. Keep following her." After Albert went out, Brian picked up the phone and made a call to Winnie. "Where are you now?" "Send the children to kindergarten and go to company right away." Winnie said in a lukewarm manner. "Come to my office first." Brian said imperatively and hung up the phone directly. Even if Brian didn't come to her, Winnie had the plan to go straight to the president's office. It was better to figure some things out as soon as possible. Klara saw Winnie coming out of the elevator and hurried to greet her, but her face did not show friendliness. "Miss Chambers, president is waiting for you in the office." "Ok." Winnie followed Klara to the president's office. "Mr. Bennet..." As Klara was to report, Brian said coldly. "Go out and don't let anyone disturb us." Klara was stunned and then walked out with a shaded face. There was silence in the president's office. Winnie spoke first before Brian said anything. "Mr. Bennet, I'm sorry about last night. The children put sleeping pills in the wine. It is my fault to blame you." Winnie took out her resignation letter from her bag and put it directly on Brian's desk. "Mr. Bennet, here is my resignation letter. For future technical guidance, the company will send someone else over." Winnie took two steps back to prevent Brian from hurting her. Sure enough "Winnie, don't provoke me. I said you can't leave without my permission." Brian was furious and tore up Winnie's resignation letter without taking a look at it. Winnie had expected Brian's reaction, so she was not surprised but calm. "Mr. Bennet, it does not depend on you. I have prepared resignation letter for MT. No one can stop me. Just tell me how much you need me to pay you. I can't pay you right away, but I won't owe you anything until the end of my life." Winnie said cold and left. She would rather spend the next half of her life in the debt, but absolutely would not be this man's woman. She would not be a mistress being abominated. "Stop there... Winnie....." Brian was roaring like a lion. If others heard him, they would tremble with fear, but Winnie walked on as if she had not heard him. Just as she reached out to open the door, her hand was suddenly pressed. "Aren't you afraid I'll ruin your career? Aren't you afraid you'll lose everything and not be able to raise Megan?" Brian was close to Winnie. He grasped Winnie's hand with his big warm tightly, feeling that Winnie would disappear as soon as he let go. His cold breath hit Winnie's face, making Winnie feel cold. She looked at Brian fearlessly and said firmly. "I am not afraid, if my career is destroyed, I can pick up garbage or do farm work in the countryside to raise Megan." "You..." "Looking at this stubborn woman, Brian wanted to strangle her directly, but he could not do that." "What do you want?" They looked at each other angrily. After stalemating for a while, Brian compromised finally. "I want nothing, show me respect, and don't ask me to be your woman." Winnie compromised too. If Brian agreed to the two conditions, she could continue her work. "Ok, don't regret it." Brian agreed readily. There was not a problem. There were many aspects for respect. What was respect, no one could define clearly. As to be his woman, there was no way to define clearly. After a preliminary agreement was reached, Winnie left to continue her work. After Winnie left, Brian remembered his purpose of calling Winnie to be here. He was angry and forgot it. Before long Winnie returned to her office and got to work, Penny broke in. "Please knock on the door first before you come in. Whether you are a famous family member or aYoung Mistress in the Bennet family, you should be polite."Winnie looked up and lectured Penny, ignoring her resentment."Stop that. What's about being polite? You don't deserve it."Penny's voice was loud and there was full of anger on her face."You come to quarrel with me? If so, let's go outside to quarrel and show everyone how sick you are as the president's wife."Winnie got up. If Penny as the president's wife was not ashamed, she had nothing to be afraid of. Whatever it was for whichPennyhad come so angrily, she had something to shame her.As Winnie said that, Penny realized that she came in without closing the door, so she went to close the door forcedly, and then pointed to Winnie."Winnie, you shameless. You know I am the president's wife and you still dare to seduce my husband."Penny raised her hand and was to hit Winnie.Winnie had learned the lesson, so she would never let her succeed.She caught Penny's hand in midair and spoke coldly."I'm giving you two choices now. You can open the door and hit me in the hall, or we can go to the roof. I have a lot of important experimental articed in this office, and if you break one of them, even if your husband is the president of the United Nations, he can't help you."