Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 31 ARGUE ON THE ROOFTOP

Winnie's threat had an effect. She bet Penny did not dare to make a scene in front of the employees, and she was right. It showed that Penny was afraid of Brian, otherwise Penny would not endure in the parking lot. They came to the roof. Winnie was calm but Penny was angry. "Winnie, I know your trick. Good for you, in just a short time, you had seduced my husband and abducted my son to your home. What are you going to do, take my place?" Penny said with hatred and looked at Winnie with venom in eyes. "No, you think too much. How dare I rob with you? I lost to you and I dare not rob with you. Penny, you robbed Leo but you did not cherish him. I hope you can cherish Brian now." Winnie was not angry. She did not think that was necessary, and she was guilty of having sex with Brian after all. No woman would accept such a thing. "Don't be hypocritical. Last time we met, you provoke and said you would rob my husband. And you act like this now, who will believe you? Winnie, admit it, from the beginning to the end, you are the most hypocritical person. You're filthy, you're shameless." Penny cursed Winnie. She was angry, thinking that Brian and his son went to Winnie's home. And now she was talking about Leo. Leo once hated her and he wanted to be friends with her now when they met. If they became friends, what she had done would be exposed. Penny did not understand why all men had no immunity to Winnie, why they were attracted by her. Winnie showed a bitter smile. She felt that these abusive words should be used to describe Penny. "Others know better than we do about what I am and what you are. If I'm filthy and shameless, I will only be against people like you. If I really am to rob your husband, you don't have to be excited, after all you robbed Leo from me and you are an example to me. If I rob your husband, it's only reciprocating." Winnie said calmly. The calmer she was, the more irritated Penny was. "Leave alone Leo, you know better than anyone else what you had done. It is not I robbed him, he didn't want to be deceived by you and he chose me at his will. Winnie, don't prove you are innocent. Leo knew well who you are. Penny said in a shameless way and there was no hesitation in her eyes, as if she was telling the fact. It was not fair that such a perverse was able to live so arrogantly. Winnie showed a sarcastic grin on her mouth. She did not know if Penny had a problem in her head or she had low IQ index. It was not hard to find out what the truth was. Was there any need for her to tell tales? "Look at you, you are disdainful. Winnie, do you know that from the day I met you, I hate you your dismissive look to everything? You haven't changed a bit after all these years. You are sick and disgusting." Penny had been angry and wanted to slap on her, but no matter how she did, Winnie was calm and she could not do anything to her. Penny breathed a sigh of relief and continued to rumble. "Listen up, Winnie, don't get close to Leo, my husband and my son. It's a warning this time. If you do it again, I'll make you disappear in B City." Penny glared at Winnie furiously. She said coldly but there was flame of fury in her eyes. She wished Winnie would disappear in front of her eyes forever. "Don't be so angry, Penny. I just want to get back to work. I just met your son or your husband by accident. I do not want to destroy you, or want to get entangled with you. You came to me and provoked me from the moment I came back. You mind your own business. And I won't do anything to you." Winnie said in a lukewarm manner. Although Penny's words were harsh, she decided to endure it. Winnie, who had been tortured by this couple, was tired to death. Since she was not coming back for revenge, she would have her job done with ease. She knew that if she continued quarrelling with Penny at this very moment, it would often happen. She was tired with her work, so why should she get bogged down in it? Stay away from trouble, stay away from Penny, stay away from Brian, stay away from Leo, her life could return to be peaceful again. Winnie paused and continued. "I have no intention to take your position, but if you want to keep your position, be kind to the child, otherwise your position will lose." Winnie could accept anything and Penny's contemptuous insults, but the fact that Luke was abused. After warning, Winnie turned to leave. However Penny was irritated and pulled her hair from behind directly. "Shame on you, what did you say? What has my child to do with you?" There was obvious panic in Penny's question. From Winnie's words, Winnie must know something. She was not warning but threatening. She would like to teach Winnie a lesson. Winnie was off guard. But in the face of such a thing, she was not afraid. She quickly turned around and decisively pushed Penny. "Are you crazy, bitch? Penny, I really did not expect you to become so unruly. You disgrace Brian and the child. Why did Brian choose you? Is he blind?" Winnie rebuked loudly. If she continued to endure to be pulled hair, she was not Winnie. "Winnie, dare you hit me? You shameless bitch, you robbed my husband and dared to hit me." Penny was so indignant. With her present position, being pushed to the ground was a great shame, and she would not spare Winnie. She suddenly got up and jumped at Winnie. At this moment, a roar like thunder sounded in time, forcing Penny to stop her move. "Stop it." Brian's voice was cold like ice of thousand years. Anger could be seen in his cold eyes. He stared at Penny, as if he wanted to eat her. Brian's appearance surprised Penny. She had been hiding this matter from him, but in the end, he had found out. There was panic in her eyes, but Penny still forced herself to calm down. "Honey, why are you here?" "I ought to ask you that." Brian roared in a cold voice. When he realized that he did not tell Winnie the key matter, he wanted to call Winnie, but at that time the secretary had an important thing to report to him. After he finished the things, he received a notice from Albert that Penny came to the company to find Winnie. According to the news provided by Albert, he came to the rooftop. He had stood there a while and had heard their conversation. It seemed that it was not as simple as what Winnie said. And it was not just because of him. "I... I came to see her. She was shameless. She had a family and a child but she still seduced you and brainwashed our son." Seeing Brian's angry eyes, Penny knew that she could no longer hide it, but she could tell him about Leo, so she blamed Winnie first. She breathed a sigh of relief and continued to denigrate Winnie. "Winnie seduced you. Her daughter learned that at an early age and seduced our son..." Brian did not stop her words, so Penny said more. But before she could finish her words, she felt a slap hit on the face ruthlessly, and she was shocked. Winnie's palms hurt and her eyes were cold and stern. It was okay to insult her. She could stand that her kid was insulted. "I have endured it for a long time, Penny. This slap is for your mean words, and you owed me." Winnie said and was to leave after taking a glance at Brian angrily, but was stopped by Brian. "Stop! You want to leave after you hit her?" Brian's words were calm, which was completely different with the tone just now. She was confused. "Honey, she hit me. She hit me right in front of you. After all, I'm your wife. It is a shame that I was beaten by such a cheap woman?" Penny cried and showed her grievance on her face, as if she was the victim. She clearly heard that Brian questioned Winnie, which meant that Brian chose her between her and Winnie, so she did not fight back and did not hit Winnie. Because Brian came out for her, and she felt pleased about it. However, Winnie ignored Penny and turned to stare at Brian directly. "What do you want? Hit me for your ignorant wife?" "You should explain why you hit her." Brian was angry. Why? Because Winnie did not put him in the eye unexpectedly and challenged him. "Are you deaf? She just slandered my daughter. Don't you think that's something worthy of a slap?" Winnie was not afraid of Brian's majesty and responded directly. "....." Before Brian said anything, Penny continued to provoke. "Am I wrong? What a good daughter can a cheap mother teach? She also is a bitch, and the she grows up, she will be better than you to seduce men." Penny finally found the root of Winnie's annoyance. This was what she wanted. She wanted to annoy her and let her be rude in front of Brian. Winnie became angry from embarrassment. She moved forward and tried to hit Penny, but stopped when she was close to Penny. Beating her wasn't the best punishment... Winnie calmed herself down and looked at Brian with a smile. "Does what you just said in your office count?" Brian frowned. He certainly understood what Winnie referred to, and knew what she wanted to do next. But if he missed this opportunity, it would be uneasy to conquer this stubborn woman. "Yes." Brian answered with certainty. "So, is she your wife?" Winnie asked, pointing to Penny. "Nominally." Winnie had doubts about Brian's answer. "I don't care about that. I just want to know if she is your legal wife."

CHAPTER 32 CALL ME WINWIN

As long as it was not against the law, Winnie had no regard for public opinion. But she did not have too much hope. Everyone knew Penny was Brian's wife, how could she not get the protection of the law? She said that with the purpose to make Penny angry, and it was the best she was in a sulk. However, something that surprised her happened. "There was no registration and no wedding." "Honey..." Brian's affirmative answer made Penny completely shocked. Penny did not understand what they were talking about. When Winnie asked if she was his legal wife, she panicked, but then she calmed down. She thought that Brian would never tell the truth about their relationship, because that would be a dangerous thing for him. But she was wrong. Brian knew it was like a landmine, but he would like to take a risk for Winnie. Winnie was surprised, but then she looked at Penny sarcastically. "Since your position is not so secure, Penny, you should behave well and keep a low profile. When I told you that I despise everything about you, you should stop. You don't seem to be a clever person." "You..." Penny was still angry and had less confidence in her eyes. Winnie did not continue to pay attention to Penny but looked at Brian again. "Since your marriage is illegal, well, I agree to be your woman." Winnie agreed readily with the purpose to suppress the arrogance of Penny. After knowing that it was not a real marriage, she felt relieved and thought she had not involved in others' affair. Winnie said and walked away. "Winnie..." Brian called Winnie, but Winnie interrupted her. "I know what you want to ask. Ask your wife... No, ask Penny. If you don't understand what she tells you, come to me." Winnie continued to walk, and then suddenly stopped. "Don't call me Winnie, Brian. Penny used to call me Winwin, and you may do the same." Winnie's words were meaningful with provocation. As for how they met and what had happened, he could ask Penny. Winnie left in a natural and unrestrained way. The hatred in the heart for years finally released at this moment. Brian got off from work and arranged Luke to Winnie before going home. He did not find Penny in the sitting room, so he directly went to Penny's room on the second floor. Brian kicked open the door with anger. Penny lay on the bed and directly sat up by being startled. Seeing Brian's cold face, she immediately got flustered. "Hon..., Brian, you are back." She had no courage to call him husband, so she changed the way to call him. "Say it, what's going on? What is your relationship with Winnie?" Brian's voice was cold, but his eyes were burning with flame of fury. "It doesn't matter what the relationship is. It's gone, just leave it alone." "Say it." Brian's roar made Penny shudder all over. "Winwin and I were classmates. I don't want to slander her. Brian, I don't..." "I need you to tell me about you, Winnie, and Leo." Brian was furious. He had to know the truth. No matter how shameless Winnie was, no matter how unbearable she was. He just wanted to know what was going on between them. "I..." Penny was helpless but had to tell the story to Brian. "Brian, Winnie cheated Leo. I just couldn't bear it and helped him. As for what Winnie said, it was to cover her up and slander me. I'm really innocent." "You said you were with Leo, and now you said you're innocent." Brian didn't know if Penny's words were true or false. Because what she said was the same as Leo's angry words against Winnie, and what they had in common was that Winnie was a cheater. "Those are all angry words, who can control emotions when he gets angry? Brian, I now feel that I should not have been so kind to help. It's been for four years, Winnie was scheming. She hid her hatred for four years and finally came back to take revenge on me." Penny's ability in talebearing was good. While she said, she cried for being wronged. "Brian, Winnie is really a cheater. Don't be fooled by her appearance. Her approach to you is to destroy our relationship." "....." Penny got more and more sad. Brian said nothing but frowned tightly. "Brian, let us not say any more of the past. It's a shame for Winwin. Now you just have to stop trusting her." Penny continued, wiping away her tears while taking glance at Brian stealthily to see what his attitude was. "Brian, at any rate, you shouldn't tell the state of our marriage." Penny looked up to Brian, who was glaring at her angrily. Penny hurriedly explained. "Brian, I didn't mean anything else. I was afraid that Winnie might threaten you and blackmail you with this after she knew about this. If she breaks the rules and tells the secret, Uncle Zak will have a chance, and Grandpa will be disappointed in you." Penny was clever and began to care about Brian. "You don't have to worry about me. I know what to do and what not to do. I warn you, do not forget our agreement. You have no right to interfere in my private life. No matter what relationship is between me and Winnie, don't interfere. Remember, you are not my wife, and you have no right to ask Winnie." Brian warned her coldly and there were doubts in his eyes against Penny. "Brian..." Penny did not give up but wanted to continue to explain, but Brian did not give her a chance. "Shut up. I don't want to hear it. Other people's business is none of your business. Behave well or the contract will be terminated." Brian turned to leave after saying the malicious words, leaving Penny alone. Penny breathed a sigh of relief. Anyway, it was good for her that Brian did not pursue the matter. But... Penny showed venom on her face. She absolutely would not let Winnie go and would not give up on Brian. Winnie went to the kindergarten after work to pick up two children. On the way home, there was a problem with the car tire. Winnie pulled over and got out to check the tires. The right tire had been flat. Chagrined, Winnie kicked the tire and was helpless. It had been a bad day, but now the car was broken. The car had a spare tire, but she didn't know how to change it. She had to make a rescue call. Just then Leo suddenly appeared in front of her. "What's wrong, Winwin?" Leo was handsome and sunny, and there was no resentment of the past in his tone. "Leo... I got a flat tire." For Leo's appearance, Winnie felt surprised. But his appearance made her feel relieved. Leo bypassed the car to check the tire. The two children got off to have a look too. "You can't drive this car now. Winwin, take my car." Leo said and handed his car keys to Winnie. "No, what will you do if I drive your car? Forget it. I'll call rescue." Winnie refused Leo. Although she felt at ease, she did not want to get Leo into trouble. Leo did not stop Winnie from making rescue calls and said until Winnie put the phone down. "Winwin, it's rush hour. It'll be a while before the rescue truck arrives. Don't wait. Take my car home. I'll wait for the rescue truck." "No, I..." Winnie refused indifferently, but the two children seemed to be impatient. Before she finished her words, she was interrupted. "Mommy, let's drive his car home. We are hungry." While saying, Megan patted Luke's stomach in a naughty manner. Luke nodded with agreement. When the two children spoke, Leo attached his attention on the two children. The boy was Brian's child, and the girl must be Winnie's child without doubt. The last time they met, he had not focused on the child, but now it seemed that the little girl and her mother were so similar that even the position of the dimples was exactly the same when they laughed. Leo felt she was lovely and looked at Megan gently. Since the children said so, Winnie did not know what to say but stand still. "Winwin, take the children back first, I will fix your car and then take my car." Leo handed the car keys to Winnie. This time, Winnie did not refuse. "Thank you, Uncle!" "Thank you, Uncle!" Two children said thanks together. Megan showed a lovely and sweet smile. Winnie took two children and drove Leo's car toward home. Recalling Leo's sudden change, Winnie was puzzled and could not figure out why. Now Leo was like the man when they first met, he was sunny, giving a sense of security and sureness. Winnie looked around inadvertently and saw a familiar hang decorations in Leo's car. Then she recalled something in the past. "Here's a gift, Leo." Winnie said with a mysterious smile. "Why give me a gift? It is me should give you a gift." At that time, Leo was gentle, warm and handsome. His skin was fair. His handsome features made him a Prince Charming in fairy tale. "It makes no difference who gives a gift." Winnie said and took out a delicate gift box. "Open it." Leo pleasantly opened it and saw a red knot bracelet quietly sitting inside. Leo picked it up carefully and looked at with infinite love. "You bought it?" "No, I made it." Winnie said and raised her right hand, swinging in a naughty way. "You have one too!" "Well, I made two. Mine is thinner and yours is thicker. Let me help you put it on." "Remember, if we can be together forever, never take it off. Every knot is my love for you." Winnie said as she helped put on the bracelet. "Don't worry, I will never take it off in my life!" Leo said he would never take it off, but short after that they broke up in a sad way. What was the point that Leo still kept this bracelet? Everything had passed, love or hate had been lost with time. If Leo and Penny did not appear in her world, if she did not come back, what happened four years ago would never occur to her again.

CHAPTER 33 WHAT SHE SAID IS TRUE

She got home and had the dinner ready. As she sat at the table, Brian arrived just in time. He walked in with a cold face, and Winnie had already known why. "Have dinner first, don't affect the children's appetite." Winnie reminded. Brian did not say anything and insisted to finish the meal. After telling the two children, Winnie asked Brian to her room. She closed the door and once again reminded. "Whatever you say, try to keep it as quiet as possible. Kids get worried if they hear that." Winnie said and sat down on the edge of the bed. Brian was silent for a moment before he said coldly. "Penny told me about your relationship..." As Brian spoke, Winnie decisively interrupted his words. Because Winnie really did not want to hear any words to disparage her from Brian's mouth. "She said I was a cheater and that I was with Leo was to cheat him of money. She said as my bestie she personally exposed me for her righteousness and said everything she did was good for me." "She said that I approach you is for revenge, I approach you to get more money. She advised you don't me deceived by me." Winnie knew Penny like the palm of her hand and said the same as what Penny had said. "Yes." "Yes," answered Brian. "What else do you want to know?" Brian would not come here for any reason. Since he came, he had to find out the truth, so Winnie came to the point. "I want to know if it's true." Brian did not conceal. It seemed to be very important to him. "Yes, everything she said is true." Winnie answered heartily with assured tone, but her heart was sour. She wanted to explain everything, to tell the world that she was the victim of this conspiracy. But she knew no matter what she told Brian, Brian would still thought she was a cheater. She knew Brian well, so there was no need to explain. Brian's eyes were cold and he frowned. "....." Brian said nothing and remained silent. Winnie saw distrust to her in his eyes and felt her heart painful. "You still have a cold face since you knew the truth. It is a sign of regret." Winnie paused and continued. "Nothing I said on the roof this morning will count. I won't haunt around you. I won't tear your family apart. Don't worry, take Luke back. Take care of him and don't come here again." Winnie said so, so that Brian would not be embarrassed to clear his relationship with her. Winnie said and was to bathroom, but once again old drama was on again. Brian stretched his long arms and directly embraced Winnie in his arms. "I am serious, and I will conquer you once, cheater as you are." He should have pushed her away and, as she put it, made a clean break with her and left now with his son and never come to her house again. But what he did was just the opposite. Perhaps it was because he wanted to conquer her and he had met such a stubborn woman for long. Even if he got cheated, he would like to have a try. Brian did not wait for Winnie's answer, only to fell her stiff body. Brian continued. "Winwin, keep your word. Don't you want revenge? I'll give you a chance." "Mr. Bennet, let me go." Winnie looked up at Brian's eyes. When they looked at each other, Winnie's heart beat abnormally. She looked away quickly and spoke nervously. "Mr. Bennet, what I said this morning was really out of anger. I can accept any insult from Penny, but I can't stand she insult my daughter." "Mr. Bennet, I'm not in a position to be worthy of you, and it would discredit you if it were known that I was a cheater. Then I would be labeled as a cheater and a mistress." "Mr. Bennet, go back..." "For the last time, I don't have a wife. Do you think I was joking when I said it so seriously this morning?" The certainty in Brian's eyes convinced her. Winnie had a moment of absence looking at Brian who was not angry. The man never trusted her. She was inferior both in her work and in her character. He did not give up because of his strong desire to conquer, once the desire to be achieved, Winnie would become a abandoned clown. "Mr. Bennet, I'm sorry. I can't agree even if you don't have a wife." Winnie refused and pushed Brian away. No matter what she was in Brian's eyes, she had her own life. She didn't trust men anymore. Leo was so kind and warm, but in the end he betrayed her. And in this world, there was no longer a man would be loyal to her. Brian was unfathomable, as if there was hidden mystery in his dark eyes, so he was not suitable for her a woman just wanted a plain life. Winnie rejected and Brian felt lost in the heart, but her eyes were firm, which made Brian get angry. "Winnie, no one can refuse me. Anyone refused me will come to a bad end. I gave you a lot of opportunities, but you don't cherish. Well, I'll show you what will happen if you refuse me." Brian widened his eyes, which was full of anger. "Winnie, you are fired, everything provided by the company must be returned tomorrow." Brian roared and turned to leave directly. Winnie felt that she took a sigh of relief, but why she still felt depressed? Brian finally let go of her, now she should be happy, but why she felt bitter. The resolute figure, the indifferent voice as well as the angry eyes with contempt made Winnie fail to calm down. Brian left but he did not take Luke away. The two children were shocked by his anger when he left, sat on the sofa in the living room, bowed their heads and said nothing. Winnie adjusted her mood before coming out of the room. When he found the children's moods were low, she quickly went to squat in front of the two children. "What are you not happy? I am smiling, why are you so depressed?" "Sorry, Auntie, Daddy was angry with you again." Luke whispered and apologized for his Daddy with a face full of guilt. "It doesn't matter, Luke, don't worry. It is very normal. When people are in a bad mood, when they are depressed, they should lose their temper and release themselves." Winnie said in a simple way and didn't want to the children to worry her. "Auntie, if you don't work in Daddy's company, can I see you?" Luke asked worriedly. If he could not see her, his world would be dark again. Because of Luke's words, Winnie held her breath and felt upset. "Yes, you can still see me. As long as you miss me, I will visit you in kindergarten." Winnie continued. "Don't think too much about grown-ups. Grown-ups are in a complicated world. You'll understand that as you grow up. Just have fun right now. Enjoy the happiest moments of your lives. Being happy is what matters most to you." Winnie calmed the two children. It was not her intention to affect them because of the things between adults. She didn't want the children to worry about her own affairs. These two children were lack of love, so they were more mature than the children of the same age, which made her feel distressed. What she could do for them was to enlighten and relieve them, so as not to let their heart become heavy. "But Auntie, I can't be happy until I see Daddy be happy." Luke looked at Winnie, and there was worry in his dark eyes. "Daddy is happy and he will be fine when you see him tomorrow. Luke, don't overthink." Although Brian was cold and severe, Luke was still dependent on him, he was the whole world for Luke. After comforting the two children, Winnie began to pack up her things. She had to return the house tomorrow, so she had to hurry up and not let Brian think she was delaying. The next day. Before the children got up, Winnie had found a hotel and moved her luggage. After that, she came back and sent the children to the kindergarten before contacting Leo. "Winwin, sorry I'm late." Leo came down from the car and greeted Winnie. He was still handsome and sunny. "It is ok, I've just arrived, too. Thanks for helping me fix the car." Winnie could only say thanks now. Leo didn't talk about the past, of course she would not mention it. "Not at all, Winwin....." "Leo, the car key is in the car. I have something to deal with, so I gotta go." Winnie did not give Leo a chance to speak. She wanted to give back the car and house before the work time. As Winnie's words fell, she got into her car and left. Leo looked at her figure getting away and the smile on his face disappeared. If he had been more sensible four years ago, things would be different now. He owed her and he never knew if he could pay. Now all he could do was to try his best to make up for her without telling her, which made him feel less guilty. As for love, he was not qualified to say it. Winnie came to the Bennete Group and directly found Klara. "Here are the keys to the house and the car. Give them to Mr. Bennet." Klara looked at Winnie in surprise. "What do you mean, Miss Chambers? I didn't get any instructions." "Give it to Mr. Bennet and he'll understand." Winnie gave Klara a smile and turned away. Winnie came to elevator and pressed the buttons of two elevators. The left one was faster, so she stood on the left. But when the elevator door opened, Brian and several assistants were inside. Winnie was surprised for a moment, because Brian had always taken the exclusive elevator of the president. She didn't want to see him today. Why did he appear in the elevator? Winnie came back to her sense. When she found Brian frowned with a gloomy face, her heart was suddenly cold. "Mr. Bennet." Winnie greeted with indifference. At the same time, the door of the right elevator opened. She went in and quickly pressed the button to the first floor.

CHAPTER 34 TRACKING OR COINCIDENCE

However, in her relief, when the elevator door was about to close, Brian opened the elevator door. Winnie again looked at Brian's shady face in surprise. "I gave the keys to the car and the apartment to..." Winnie was about to explain, but Brian unexpectedly stepped into the elevator and stood with Winnie face to face. The distance was too close that Winnie was panic. "I gave them to Klara, and the child..." Winnie wanted to say it was her child's last day in the kindergarten, but was interrupted by Brian's gesture. With his back to the elevator keys, Brian accurately pressed the button to close the door. "I'll give you one last chance." Brian said coldly and his deep eyes could not be seen through. "Mr. Bennet, I have the same choice as yesterday." Winnie gave the answer without thinking about it. She was sure that her choice was right. Only away from Brian could she stay away from Penny, only away from Penny, could she forget the pain four years ago. "You'll come back and beg me." Brian looked at Winnie coldly, and his cold tone was like ice revealing dangerous atmosphere. Brian turned around and pressed the elevator keys hard. The door opened and he left angrily. Winnie walked out of the Bennete Group. Looking at the warm sunshine, she could not feel the warmth. She took a deep breath and let go of all the unhappiness she had felt these days. "Leo?" As Winnie was to walk away, Leo again appeared in front of her. Was it a coincidence? Why did she feel Leo was following her, for example, he showed up yesterday when her car broke down. Did he join Penny to plot against her? "Don't you work? Where are you going?" Leo showed a bright smile. Winnie could not see through what scheming mind he had. "I... why are you here?" Winnie asked and wanted to find out why he was here. "I'm here to talk to the Bennete Group about cooperation." Leo said in an easy and real way. Winnie could not see what was wrong. "Oh, go ahead then." Winnie said that and left. The voice of Leo came from behind. "Winwin, where are you going to? I can send you." "Thank you. I have nothing special, so you have no need to send me." Winnie just wanted to stay away from troubles. She was single and was relaxed, how would she have something to do with Leo? She didn't stay but strode away. Winnie did not know if she was relaxed or depressed. When she was back to the hotel, she received MT's dismissal notice. She finally understood what Krian said she would regret. But he had done so quickly that in one day her work of four years had been destroyed. But Winnie was not afraid. With her current ability, there were many companies would hire her, so she would get a job. But after a few phone calls, Winnie went blankly. All the companies that wanted to dig her before turned her down. It seemed that Brian took her seriously and destroyed her in much effort. It was time for Megan to leave school. Winnie came to the kindergarten gate to pick up Megan and she happened to see Luke. Winnie knew that if she wanted to clear the relationship with Brian and Penny, she had to clear the relationship with Luke, but she was reluctant to do so. Luke and Megan came out together and came over when they saw Winnie. "Auntie, can I still go to your house today?" Luke had a face of expectation. In his opinion, if he could go to Winnie's house, it was ok between his Daddy and Winnie. If he could not go to her house, everything was hopeless. "Luke....." Winnie squatted down, put her hands on Luke's shoulder and wanted to talk with the child in euphemism, but at this moment the housekeeper came over. "Little Young Master, it's time to go home." Said the housekeeper respectfully. "Where to? Grandpa's house or daddy's house?" Luke asked. "Young Master waits for you at home." The housekeeper said. Luke obviously showed a disappointed face. "Auntie, I don't want to go home." "Luke, Daddy is home, it is ok." Winnie was worried but she could not show it. After that, she took a bear doll to Luke. "Luke, you like bears. Take it to Daddy's house and put it on your bed. Take it out when you miss me." Winnie said in a reluctant manner. She did not expect that she would worry about this child. "Ok,, thank you, Auntie." Luke liked bears the most, but at the moment he was not glad. He was afraid that he would see his Mommy when he got home. Luke held the bear and left with the housekeeper reluctantly. "Mommy, Brother doesn't want to go home. He is so poor. Can I see him again?" Megan was reluctant to let Luke go. Luke turned back to look at them frequently, she felt they could not see again. "He has to go home even if he doesn't want to, because that's his home, that's where his life started." Winnie said and took the hand of Megan. "If you miss him, we can see him and call him if we don't." Daenerys quickly came to the hotel to find Winnie after work. They did not contact for two days, but such a big thing had happened to Winnie, which made her worry. "How do you know I am here?" Winnie was surprised looking at Daenerys who was standing at the door. She had no time to tell Daenerys about her things yet, but Daenerys had found her. It was amazing, wasn't it? "....." Daenerys was stunned for a moment, but in any case she would not tell Winnie that Leo called her. In the afternoon, Daenerys received a call from Leo at work. He said

Winnie moved to the hotel, and then he knew Winnie lost her job through his relationship from the secretary office of the Bennete Group. Leo was worried but he could not show direct concern so as not to bring burden to Winnie, therefore, he asked Daenerys to comfort her. "Never mind how I know it, tell me what happened." Daenerys walked into the room while she said. Winnie believed in Daenerys, so she did not continue to ask, but sat down to tell her what happened calmly. "Brian has gone too far. Isn't that bullying?" Daenerys was too angry and her voice was raised. "So what he is rich and powerful? How could he treat you like this? I think he intended to vent anger for Penny." "Well, I'm not even angry. Why are you so angry? It is not surprising if he did it for Penny, after all they are husband and wife. He fired me but I should thank him, so that I can have a peaceful life." Winnie pretended to be calm, but she was indignant in fact, but she could not change anything. "But some things are meant to be, it won't pass only by enduring it. It's been four years. You three should not entangle with each other." Daenerys was not calm as Winnie. She did not think Winnie would have a peaceful life even if she left here and got away from Penny. "Alas..... Forget it, since things have been like this, it may not be a bad thing to stay away from Penny and Brian." Daenerys changed her idea. At least it was better than that Winnie took revenge on Penny and got hurt again. Daenerys was silent for a moment before she said. "Winwin, what is your plan?" "Leave here, go back to my aunt and Vanessa." Winnie's beautiful face was full of helplessness. What other plans could she have? This city was not suitable for her. "Winwin, don't leave. If you can't engage in software development, you can be a lawyer. You have a teaching certificate. If you leave that industry, Brian won't get you into troubles." Daenerys didn't want Winnie to leave, because she didn't know when they could meet again. "You are so naïve. He is targeting me. As long as I am in B city, even if I set up a stall on the street, he will come back to disturb me." Winnie was clear about everything and that Brian could not tolerate her. "I'm going to sell Vanessa's house and leave. These days..." Winnie continued to tell her thoughts, but the phone rang and she had to stop. "Vanessa." It was her younger sister Vanessa. "Sister, I want to discuss something with you." "Ok." Winnie said gently. "Sister, my school status is in B City, and I have to go back to take the college entrance examination..." Vanessa stopped. "That is it? I know that." Winnie was puzzled. With her understanding of Vanessa, there must be other things. "Sister, I want to discuss with you in advance that I want to go back to B City for college." Vanessa's words made Winnie fall into silence. "....." She left B City because of Vanessa. Vanessa was afraid of this city and always thought of her parents and the car accident. In order to let her recover quickly, Winnie decided to leave B City. "Vanessa, do you think you can do it?" Winnie asked awkwardly. "I'm all right, no problem at all. I want to go back. Parents are in B city. That's my home. I want to go home." Vanessa said sadly and was eager to go home. "What about aunt? What does aunt say?" Winnie continued to ask. She also missed home and her parents, but now the situation was complicated. She did not want to continue to live here, but she could not be cruel to refuse Vanessa. Winnie was more embarrassed. "I haven't told her yet. I will try to persuade her if you agree." "Well, talk with her. I have no objection if she agrees." Winnie could only give such an answer. After hanging up the phone, Winnie took a deep breath and vigorously exhaled. "Vanessa's house cannot be sold for the time being. If my aunt agrees, they will have to have a place to live when they come back in a few months." "You won't leave?" Daenerys asked in surprise. Vanessa's phone call was good news for her. "Not sure yet, but I can't stop Vanessa from coming back." "This is home, and Vanessa will definitely come back. She's all right now, so don't worry." Looking at Winnie who was worried, Daenerys quickly enlightened her. "Winwin, since temporarily you won't leave, don't stay in the hotel. Go to my home, my parents can help you pick up the child." Daenerys said as she carried Winnie's suitcase.

CHAPTER 35 MEGAN HAS TRANSFERRED TO ANOTHER SCHOOL

Winnie got up to stop Daenerys. "Daenerys, it's inconvenient to live in your house. Megan is naughty and she will spoil the rest of your parents. I'll settle here tonight, and tomorrow I'll move to Vanessa's house." Winnie rebuffed Daenerys's kindness. "Don't you have a tenant in that house? How can you go back and live with your child?" "Never mind, I will talk to the tenant tomorrow to give me a room." For the time being all things were not sure, Winnie could only make do with it. "Ok, have a talk with the tenant. If it doesn't work, I will think of other way." Daenerys knew she would fail to persuade Winnie and she could only temporarily compromise. Daenerys continued. "I will think a way for Megan's Kindergarten. Don't worry too much about your work. You are a talented person with multiple fields. You can find a job." "Your are good at software, but it was only limited to mobile phones, right?" Daenerys suddenly remembered something and said. "As long as software is used, I can do it except for games and military. I am not only good at software, I am good at the phone including the appearance design." Winnie was not modest, because she has researched more software than she thought, because the mobile phones she designed had won international awards. "Amazing. I don't know you are so good. Our company is working on a new type of surgical probe, and we need someone with software skills. I recommend you." Daenerys said pleasantly. Winnie was capable, but Brian lost her. "No need to recommend, I have a finished product in hand, I can sell it to your company if it is ok." Winnie's words once surprised Daenerys. "Okay, great. If this partnership works, I'll get a promotion. Thank you very much! You're great, I'm proud of you. I should have told you sooner. What else do you have, let me sell it for you..." Daenerys obviously was not calm because of continuous surprise. Winnie didn't need to find a job, she could earn a lot of money by selling software. Winnie was not passionate as Daenerys. She did not know if Brian would intervene or drive her out of the city. Luke returned home and felt relieved when he found Brian sitting on the sofa in the living room. "Daddy, mommy, I'm home." "Here comes my son. I miss you." Penny came forward warmly, but there was no sincerity in her eyes. "I miss you too, Mommy." After Long time of oppression, Luke had to learn to face reality. "Dear son, live here these days and let me be close to you." Penny stood with her back to Brian. Her voice was gentle, but her eyes were cold and sharp. "Ok, Mommy. Mummy, I'll go upstairs and change. I'll be down in a minute." Luke hurried to find an excuse to go upstairs. Daddy was at home today, so he was temporarily safe. But looking at mommy's dangerous eyes, Luke shivered all over. Luke went upstairs. As he put down the bag, Brian pushed the door open and walked in. "Daddy." Luke greeted with Brian and put the bear toy Winnie sent him on the bed. "Where did you get it?" Brian asked in a deep voice. "My teacher gave me as a reward for my good behavior in kindergarten today." Luke had to lie to Brian, because he quarreled with Winnie last night. If he told the truth, he was afraid that Daddy would get unhappy and throw the bear toy out. "Luke, did you see WinwinAuntie after school today?" Brian asked in a cold voice. "Yes, she told me to be good when I came home. She also said that I could call her if I missed her in the future. Daddy, can't I go to her house in the future?" Luke asked in a timid manner. He was very afraid of daddy, so he spoke carefully and dared not act like other children. But Daddy was his idol, because Daddy was so successful, because Daddy was so powerful, like Superman, like Spider-Man. It would be better if Daddy treated him gently. "No. Auntie doesn't work in our company and will leave the city soon." Thinking of Winnie, Brian was angry but wanted to ask. He wanted to know how long Winnie could endure. "Daddy, I like Auntie. She is really good to me, I can feel it. Daddy, why did you quarrel? Why are you being so mean to her? Can't you get along well?" Luke built up his courage when he found that Brian did not show a cold face. He didn't want Daddy and Auntie to have a problem, because he liked both of them. "Never mind adult's business." Brian's voice had a temperature, but the temperature was low. "Daddy, Megan and I had grown up now. Your quarrel will affect our mood. Megan likes you very much. Because you are too cold, she is afraid of you. Daddy, Megan and Auntie are girls, we must be good to them." Luke said and deliberately mentioned Megan, because Daddy was gentle to talk to Megan every time. He was gentler to her than to Luke. This was enough to prove that Daddy liked Megan. He hoped Daddy would not quarrel with Auntie for the sake of Megan. "Luke, how dare you teach me?" Brian's voice was colder, but he was not angry. "Daddy, I'm sorry. I'm not teaching you, I'm too fond of Auntie." Luke hastened to apologize, if he kept saying that, he would annoy Daddy. Luke lowered his head and said nothing. Brian did not question her. A moment later. "Daddy, why can't I go to my great grandpa's these days?" For Luke, the question was more important. "He went to recuperate, and the housekeeper went with him. There's no one to pick you up and you have to come here. Ask Mommy to pick you up from school these days." "Daddy..." As Brian's voice fell, Luke hurriedly said. He calmed himself down when he found himself emotional. "Daddy, can you pick me up from school?" Luke did not want to be lectured on the way to school, so he put forward his own ideas. "Why can't Mommy? Brian felt that Luke was rejecting Penny, maLKe it was because of Winnie. "Yes, but you can send me on your way to work. If Mommy... I'm afraid Mommy is too tired." Luke said. "Let her send you every day, she is not busy." Brian said and turned to leave. In the next day, Winnie went to consult with the tenant. The tenant agreed to give her a room to live in. So Winnie moved her luggage out of the hotel. She now felt at ease. After all, this was her home. After all, this house is the only thing left by her parents. She now had a place to live, and Megan's kindergarten was settled by Daenerys. Although it was not as good as the original kindergarten, she didn't have to be distured by Brian. Winnie did not think she was important. As long as she did not bother Penny, Brian would forget her after a long time. When the time came, she would be able to live a quiet life, but he was still worried about Luke. She didn't know if he was ok. Luke was smart. He did not succeed to let Brian pick him up, and finally he took Mommy's hard work as an excuse to arrange a driver for Mommy, so that on the way from and to school, he was safe with the dirver. Luke came out of school in a very low mood. He wanted to force himself to smile when he saw his mother and don't make her angry, but he really could not do it. Luke returned to his room, sat at the desk and lowered his head with tears flowing down. Brian went home on time these days. As he just entered the house, Penny came up. "Brian, go and see the child. He is unhappy after school today and locked himself in his room when he got home." In front of Brian, Penny was always a good mother and cared about the child. Brian did not understand why Luke did not like her. "I'll go and see." Brian went upstairs and put down his briefcase and coat. Then he went to Luke's room. Brian opened the door and found Luke lowering his head. He wiped his tears quickly when he saw Brian. Brian could not help but wring his eyebrows. "What is going on? Mommy says you're unhappy." Brian asked and went to the desk of Luke. "Daddy, Megan didn't come to school..." Speaking of this, Luke could not help but sob, shedding tears. At the thought that he could not see Megan and Auntie again, he could not control his mood. "Daddy... The teacher said Megan transferred to another school and won't come back." Luke used a lot of self-control to control himself to finish these words, and then he cried out. But he was afraid that Daddy said he was not a man, he got up and ran to the bed with his head under the pillow, so that no matter how wronged he was, it was not too loud to be heard by Daddy. Brian showed a cold face, not because of the cry of Luke, but because of Megan. He didn't want to get Megan involved and he didn't let Megan leave the kindergarten. Now that Winnie had transferred her child to another school, she wanted to draw a clear line with him. Brian's eyes looked fierce. He wanted to see how clear Winnie could make the line. Brian went to work. As he just arrived at the office, Albert came in with an anxious face. "Mr. Bennet, it's going to take a few days for the person from MT to arrive. The final confirmation is needed for the high-end phone to be put into production today. All departments have confirmed it, except for the software development department. How should this be handled?" "Is the software development department free of charge? Why Can't they do that right?" Mentioning software development department, Brian thought of Winnie, and then he got angry. "Mr. Bennet, all the previous work was arranged by Miss Chambers. She left so suddenly that the software department was caught unprepared." Albert continued to report the work. Brian thought for a moment, frowning "Where is Winnie now?" "She is still in B city. She moved out from the hotel and rent a house with others. The specific information of the investigation had sent to your mailbox yesterday." "Where is her child?" Brian could not help but ask about Megan. Thinking of what Luke said to him last night, he felt that Megan must be disappointed with him. "The child is in a kindergarten near the house she rents."

CHAPTER 36 ALL-ROUND TALENT

At this moment the secretary Klara came over with a stack of documents in hands. From Brian's face, Klara knew that Albert had reported bad news. Klara did not say a word, put the document on the desk of Brian and then stood waiting for the report. Albert was about to say something but he stopped. There was one thing Albert wants to tell but he was afraid Brian would get angry. But he could not help but want to tell. "Say it." Brian saw Albert's hesitation and said sharply. "Mr. Bennet, Miss Chambers is a rare talent, a talent in all aspects. Our company engaged in many fields. We have a lot of departments that need software development, and Miss Chambers can shine in every department." Albert said boldly. He knew more than anyone about the things between Brian and Winnie. He felt Brian was too impulsive to let Winnie leave. Albert had worked for Brian for four years and this was the first time that Brian was not clear between public and private things. "....." Brian was silent and his face was dark. Klara standing aside changed her face too when he heard what Albert said. See Brian was not angry, so Albert continued to say. "We are new to the field of mobile phones, and your purpose is to have our brand. Miss Chambers must be able to make our mobile phone brand completely independent." "Mr. Bennet, I have got some information about Miss Chambers yesterday and I have it to your mailbox." Albert thought for Brian. No matter how their private affairs developed, if they missed the talent Winnie, he was not sure when they could meet one in the future. Again, Brian remained silent. He sat down at his desk and checked his email. Information: Winnie had won the gold medal in the international mobile phone design competition. The software she independently developed had been used in computers, refrigerators, televisions, washing machine... She had even been engaged in medical equipment, software applications for ships... Winnie's information was excellent, which was beyond his imagination. Brian frowned. His eyes were dark and his face was cold. "Klara, why didn't you get these information before?" Brian asked in a cold voice. "Mr. Bennet, Miss Chambers always keeps a low profile. Some achievements are not in her resume, and we can not find it out." "It's hard to find out, Mr. Bennet. No one would have thought she would be engaged in so many fields of software development. People say that the software programs on computers and mobile phones are quite different, but Miss Chambers can easily handle any software." Albert spoke for Klara. Winnie had no names for some achievements. These information were gain by him through abnormal means. If it were not for that, he could not find it either. Albert added. "Mr. Bennet, there are still many large companies that do not know about the news of Miss Chambers's resignation from MT. Even if we can control the mobile phone field, the medical equipment, the shipbuilding, there are many areas that we can not control. If a large enterprise finds out that Miss Chambers is a talent, then we will have no chance." Albert was intent on getting Winnie back, with such a talent, the Bennete Group would develop faster. "....." Brian's eye became sharper and sharper, but he was still silent looking at the computer screen. Albert had said everything. And it was up to Brian to decide whether private affairs or public affairs were important. After Albert finished, Klara began to report work. But Brian heard nothing of it. Now he was thinking about Winnie, no, thinking of Winnie's achievements. Cheater, Penny said she was a cheater, Leo said she was a cheater. If a cheater could have so many achievements, she was not a general cheater. When they were out of the president's office, Klara pulled Albert to her secretary's office. The secretary's office had a glass wall. Klara looked around and spoke after checking there was no one around. "Why do you want Winnie back? She is a talent, but there are a lot of such talents. You take Winnie as a god. Will the Bennete Group go bankrupt without her?" "It is not I take her as a god. Her capability, let alone yours and mine, could not be equalled by ten men. You can try to find one person like her. Klara, I'm doing this for the sake of the Bennete Group and Mr. Bennet. Why do you object?" Albert asked in reply. "I... I don't object. Winnie was driven away by the president. With her temper, we can't have her back. Do you want the president to invite her himself?" Klara's eyes were erratic and she casually found an excuse to prevaricate. She continued. "Our president is a superior person, how can he invite her? It will ruin his reputation if words go out." "It has nothing to do with you, and nothing to do with me. Telling the president the truth is my duty. It is up to him to invite her or not. Don't think too much, Klara. Do your job." Albert warned and turned to leave with a gloomy face. Brian took Luke directly to Winnie's house after work. The car was parked in the community. Brian got off the car and looked around the neighborhood. It was clean and tidy, but it was still far from the environment he lived in. Brian knocked on the door of Winnie's house according to the specific address on the information. A man in his sixties came to open the door, and Brian's heart leapt when he saw the old man. "Sir..." "I'm here for Winnie." Brian stood in the doorway and looked at the old man. "You are here for Miss Chambers, come in, please." The old man took Brian to Winnie's door and went back to his room. Brian did not knock, but pushed the door and went in. "Auntie, Megan!" When the door opened, Luke ran in and hugged Winnie standing by the bed. Then Brian entered and closed the door. "Luke!" "How did you find here?" Winnie and Megan spoke almost at the same time, one to the little man, the other to the big man feeling incredibly. "I can find you even if you get into the ground." Brian answered indifferently, and kept frowning. He looked around the room. There was a 1.8-meter bed barely big enough for two people, a simple wardrobe and a dressing table. There were few cosmetics on the dressing table as well as books and stationery of Megan. When Brian came in, Megan was sitting in front of the dressing table doing homework. Winnie's computer was on the bed. She was about to work in bed. Such environment made Brian deepen his cold breath. Winnie sighed. It seemed that she could not avoid Brian no matter where she went. "If you have something to talk about, let's go out. There are other people here." "How do you cook? How do you use the bathroom?" Brian did not want to go out. He just wanted to know how Winnie could live in such a room with her child. "Share with others. Mr. Bennet..." "Don't you have Leo? He didn't give you a house?" Brian said ironically. He did not understand why a cheater with so many achievements could not afford to rent an independent house? Winnie's heart suddenly sank when she heard Brian's sarcasm. The man was good, but his words were too harsh. "My things are no one's business. Mr. Bennet, why do you come to me?" "Luke wants to see you, and your work is not finished.

The launch time of the phone can't be delayed because of you." Brian said coldly and still kept looking around the room. "I'll go to the company tomorrow and take care of it. Mr. Bennet..." "Move out tomorrow. Albert will handle it. Megan returns to the original kindergarten." Brian gave direct command domineering. He could not accept that she lived in such a small room and rent together with an old man. And he could not let Winnie accept it. "Mr. Bennet, I have been fired by the company so it has no need. It's nice here, they will move out after some time..." Winnie refused. She finally left Brian and did not want his help. She was afraid he would dig a trap and throw her into it. "When I say move out, move out." Brian raised his voice, and his face became gloomy. "Auntie, move out as Daddy said. It is too small. Daddy and I have no place to sleep." Luke said when he found Daddy was to be angry to Auntie, but his words made Winnie embarrassed. Winnie was speechless. It was unique that he used this way. The room became quiet because of Luke's words. No one spoke, while the two children had fun. The two children played in the limited space. Brian was tired. He did not leave but lay down on the bed. Winnie moved the computer to the dressing table and sat by the dressing table, not looking at Brian. Brian seemed to be lying tired and turned over and saw Winnie. He looked at her quietly. Because the room was too small, they had dinner outside. On the way home from dinner, Winnie noticed something was wrong. "This isn't the way to my house. Mr. Bennet, drop me off by the side of the road, Megan and I will go home by taxi." Winnie said. "It's the way to your house." Brian only gave an indifferent answer and then said nothing, until they arrived at a high-grade community. Winnie was pulled by Brian all the way to the 16th floor. He took out the key and opened the door. Winnie looked around the house, which was twice as large as the one the company had provided before, with several rooms, a large kitchen and a bathroom in every bedroom. "Mr. Bennet, why are we here?" Winnie asked. In fact, she had already known the answer, but she asked in case there was misunderstanding. "This is your new home. You will live here with Megan." He had said they should move out tomorrow, but Brian temporarily changed his decision. "Mr. Bennet, that's very kind of you, but I can't accept it. I am no longer your employee and do not deserve to enjoy such good treatment." "Megan, it is getting late, we should go home." Winnie again rejected Brian's kindness. In the face of such situation, she was angry. He fired her and got her lost her job. He got her into troubles but now he gave her a house for work. She could not stand it.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 37 INFANT NAME LUKIE

Winnie walked to Megan stolidly. She squat to hold Megan and turned around but directly hit Brian's chest. Brian directly snatched Megan and put her down. "Megan, play in the children's room with Luke. There are a lot of toys. Uncle and Mommy have something to talk about." Brian remembered the words of Luke, so he talked with Megan as soft as possible now. Before Megan and Luke left, Brian took Winnie's hand to the bedroom. When they walked into the bedroom and closed the door, Winnie was directly pressed against the door and could not move. Brian's cold breath approached, which made Winnie panic. She thought everything was over and there would be no contact with Brian, but now what was going on? Why was her heart beating unruly? "Can you not disprove anything I say or do?" Brian wanted to yell at her as warning, but when he came close to her, breathing in her scent, everything seemed to change. The words he uttered were low and hoarse, not harsh. "Mr. Bennet, anything you do is none of my business." Winnie forced herself to calm down, but she was only calm on the surface, her heart was still beating wildly. "None of your business? We kissed and slept together, it is your business."

Brian's voice was hoarse, and there was desire fire burning in eyes. His kiss fell with the words, giving Winnie no chance to speak again. Brian's kiss was wild and unrestrained. The last kiss seemed to have been a long time ago, Brian had been repressing himself. This woman made him fail to control his proudest coldness and his hormonal bursts. Winnie wanted to avoid it, but Brian did not give her a chance. Brian took the advantage to touch her warm tongue agilely. Winnie no longer resisted and became soft in the bosom of Brian. Her heart was beating so fast that it would have been jumped out if Brian hadn't kissing her mouth. They had to stop because they needed oxygen. Their bodies clinked together, and their faces were close to each other. Brian's heavy breathing hit Winnie's face, making her face flush. Brian could clearly smell the faint fragrance emanating from Winnie. This fragrance made his hormones jump constantly and his breath was getting hotter and hotter. He lowered his eyes and gazed at her pure charming lips, moving down bit by bit. "Do it with me again." Brian lowered his voice but could not conceal his desire. As he spoke, he reached out and locked the door behind him. However, Brian's words made Winnie's mind instantly went blank. "Do it with me again, do it with me again..." The same voice, the same tone, this man... Before Winnie reacted, she was once again kissed by his warm lips. When she came to her sense, she had been lying on the big bed and pressed under Brian's body..... This time, Winnie did not refuse, cater to this wild man with memories... After the passion, Brian hugged Winnie in the arms. They said nothing, and it was so quiet that even the voice of air flow could be heard. "We..." Winnie first broke the silence. She wanted to make sure that what their relationship was. But before she asked, Brian had already given her answer. "You are my woman." Brian said firmly and did not give Winnie the opportunity to refuse. But it was this sentence like a basin of cold water poured Winnie from head to feet, which made her feel completely cool. What was the definition of his woman? Girlfriend, lover or sex partner? None of this was possible because he had a wife, at best, she was an instrument to solve his loneliness, just as she had been an instrument of childbirth four years ago. "Mr. Bennet, thank you for overestimating me. I am not your woman." Winnie obviously felt Brian's stiffness and knew that he was to be angry. "Don't be angry, Mr. Bennet. I want to ask you one more question. Why do you choose me?" Winnie was still whispering, giving Brian no chance to get angry. "....." "I want to hear the truth." Winnie added. "Because you are like a woman. You have the similar voice and smell, even familiar when were having sex." Brian made no secret that he wanted her to be his woman because of so many similarities, or because her abilities were what he needed, and not because of anything else. Winnie's cold heart was like pricked by a needle, and her eyes reddened with pain. "So I can't be your woman. I'm an ordinary person who just wants an ordinary life. Your talent, your excellence, doesn't suit my simple life." "Mr. Bennet, my ex-husband contacted me, and I may get remarried, so please let me go." Winnie could only find an excuse to calm herself, and let Brian completely lost interest in her. As expected, Winnie's words made Brian suddenly sat up and glared at her. Brian's mobile phone rang, and Winnie handed it to him. "Answer the phone." Brian glanced at the phone and tightened his brows immediately. Brian did not answer the phone, but got up quickly to wear clothes and left. He stopped at the door. "Albert will send over your luggage in a while. Live here as I said. If you dare to provoke me again, I will tie you to the bed." Brian warned and then left quickly. Winnie sighed helplessly. After Brian left, she thought of Brian's sentence "do it again with me" and thought of the man. From meeting Brian and Luke, it seemed that there were too many similar things. Luke's birthmark, Luke's birthday, similarity between Brian and that man, the same indifference, similar body odor made her again and again feel confused. Were these really coincidences? Winnie got dressed, made the bed and then went out of the room. When she was about to go to the children's room and left with two children, the doorbell rang. Albert was seen in the video. Winnie opened the door. When Winnie was to tell Albert to take the luggage down, she saw a lot of people in suits outside the door. Every one of them was tall, strong, and commanding. Winnie knew that Brian had sent them to monitor her without doubt. Looking at this situation, Winnie felt her words pointless. Albert put down the luggage and said before he left. "Take good care of Miss Chambers. If there is a mistake, you will get fired." Winnie showed a helpless smile and stayed quietly after closing the door. Since she could not leave, Winnie could only settle down. She went to the children's room to chat with the two children. "Are you two sleepy?" "No, we want to play for a while." The two children answered Winnie in unison. "Well, I'll give you more time. Go to bed at ten o'clock." The children were playing happily, and did not force them. "Luke, were you all right at home these days?" Winnie asked with concern. "Yes, Daddy had been home, and Mommy was good." Luke answered Winnie while playing. "That's good." Winnie paused for a moment before she asked. "Luke, does Daddy have a good relationship with Mommy?" "I don't know. Unlike other parents, they always sleep in separate rooms." Luke answered and felt there was no secret at all between him and Winnie. "Sleep in separate rooms?" Winnie was confused. "Luke, how did Daddy treat you these days?" "Daddy is just too strict." Luke put down his toys, went to Winnie and said. "Auntie, Daddy has always been nice to me. It would be better if he was warmer. Auntie, I have a question." Luke asked Winnie with a smile on face. "Go ahead." "Do you know what LK is?" Luke tilted his little head and asked. "LK? The brand of the mobile phone newly developed by your Daddy's company." Winnie did not think much but directly answered Luke. "No, LK is not a brand of the mobile phone. LK is the initials letter of my infant name. Daddy named his mobile phone brand after me. Now you know how much he loves me." Luke proudly said, in his world, being loved by Daddy was the happiest thing. "LK?" Winnie didn't know what LK referred to. "Yes, LK is short for ingot. I heard from my great-grandfather that I didn't have a good name when I was born. Because of the birthmark on my arm, they called me Lukie at that time, until I have a name." Luke heard it from his great grandfather, but great grandfather told him not to tell anyone. But he felt that Winnie deserved his trust. Luke said frankly, but at this moment Winnie lost her ability to think. Luke's words made her brain go blank. In that moment, her thought went back to four years ago when she separated with her son. Stunned, Winnie looked at Luke and suspected that there was something wrong with her ears. Why did she always hear such a similar plot? She recovered from the shock and became panic. Again and again she thought about the past and Luke, but could not figure things out. What was going on? There was no such thing as this in the world. What was she going to do? Shall she confirm it? Winnie had been troubled by this problem. Lying in bed with her two children asleep, she was unable to fall asleep. At eleven o'clock in the night, Winnie was still awake and received a phone call from Albert. "Miss Chambers, Mr. Bennet has been drinking too much. He doesn't listen to me. Come and stop him." Albert's voice was worried and anxious. "Drink too much? Where is he?" Winnie's heart like hung in the air. "I'll send you the location." Winnie put down the phone and quickly got dressed and went out.

CHAPTER 38 MOUNTAIN VILLA

In the fastest speed, Winnie was sent to Brian by bodyguards guarding outside the door. This was a big and high-grade bar. Winnie came to room and went in. As she walked in, she saw Brian. He was still holding a glass full of wine in his hand. He bowed his head deeply and made no sound, which made his expression hard to read. Albert stood beside Brian. He was worried but he did not dare to stop him. Albert saw Winnie come in, as if to see the savior and hope. He did not dare to speak but gestured with his eyes. Winnie understood the meaning of Albert. It was her first time to meet such a situation, but she still walked into Brian. She came to Brian, reached out to grab Brian's wine glass. She had snatched the glass, but the wine had spilled both of them all over. "You're getting bolder and bolder, and you dare to take my drink." Brian subconsciously roared loudly after his glass was snatched away. He thought that it was Albert who robbed his glass. He looked up and continued questioning, but was stunned by the sight of Winnie's beautiful face. "Who told you to come?" He still had that indifference expression. "No one asked me to come. Drinking is bad for your health." When Winnie received a phone call from Albert, she was worried. He had headache. Will drinking cause a headache? Were there people around to find it out? Although she didn't know why he hid fact of headache. "I'll take you home." Winnie got up to help Brian, but Brian pulled her and she fell on the body of Brian in the sofa. "You.....You drank too much." When they got close, Winnie blushed and had fast heartbeat. Smelling alcohol on his body, she felt his hot and heavy breath. But drinking too much was inconsistent with Brian's current state. His eyes were still cold and sharp, which could see through everything. There was no sign of being drunk. Although the two had slept together and had more than one sex, Winnie could not cope with such a sudden approach. She tried to prop herself up with her hands, but she was pressed by Brian's strong hands. "Let go, there are so many people watching." Winnie had no choice but to speak in a voice heard only by the two of them. "Get out of here." Brian frowned and made an order with deep voice. No one dared to disobey his command. As his voice fell, the bodyguard and Albert walked out of the room softly. At the moment, only the two stayed intimate in the dark room where the music sounded softly, adding a bit of ambiguity. Winnie's heart beat violently, so that she could not feel the beauty of the moment. "It's too late, so many people are waiting for you. Let go, and I'll take you home." Winnie tried all her strength to force her heart to calm down, but the effect did not seem obvious. "Take me home? To which home? Your home? Penny's home? Or....." Brian asked in a cold voice, and finally stopped. His cold eyebrow appeared tiredness and sadness. Winnie saw it clearly and thought he must have met something difficult to solve so he drank. But why there was sadness in the eyes? Family? Work? Or woman? Thinking of Brian might drink because of a woman, Winnie was sour in heart. "You can go anywhere as you like. If you want to go to Penny's home, I'll take you there." "No, I want to go to your home. I want to sleep in your bed." Brian said as a rascal, and his eyes were still cold. At the moment, Winnie was helpless. There was disgust and desire in the eyes of Brian, her heart can not warm up. "Well, you can go anywhere as you like." Winnie did not show what she was thinking. It did not seem wise to reason with a drunken man. Winnie once again prop herself to get up, but Brian teased her. "Why is your heart beating so fast?" "I..." Brian's words made Winnie ashamed. She only felt hot air against her face, which made her helpless. Winnie would like to thank the dim light, otherwise her red face would be ridiculed by Brian. "Your heart is beating too, or you'll die if you don't." Winnie got up suddenly, quickly turned her head, afraid that Brian would find that she was at a loss. Brian sent everyone back, and Winnie drove him home. Brian slouched on the back of the co-driver's chair. Although he was drunk and had a bad mood, it did not affect his sharp temperament and handsome face. Winnie could not help but use of the corner of her eye to cast a glance at him, wondering why he acted like this today. "Stop cheating, you can have a life you want with you capability." Brian said coldly and broke the silence in the car. Winnie took a look at Brian, and her heart fluttered. "Are you so sure I'm a cheater?" Winnie did not answer but asked a rhetorical question. She never asked the same question to Leo, but she did not get the result she wanted. It was her second time to ask, she did not know whether it would had no result too. "Several people said you are, and you've admitted it yourself. Why shouldn't I believe it?" Brian said coldly and indifferently. "If you're so sure, don't try to change me. I'll go my own way." What could Winnie say? What could he explain? Brian deeply thought she was a cheater and she had no power to change that.

Winnie tightened her hands on the steering wheel, because Brian did not believe her, because Brian had contempt for her. It was because Brian regarded her as an inferior woman that he insisted on her being his woman, because such a woman only wanted money, and as long as she got money, she won't perster her. Thinking of it, Winnie showed a bitter smile. How could she have made herself so humble, why should she be scorned by this man? "Winnie, I say this for your own good, don't confuse right with wrong." Brian increased his voice and said in a bleak tone. "Thank you for being good to me. I feel grateful." Why was he not good to Penny? It was an insult for her. In Winnie's opinion, this man was poisonous and she must stay away from him. "Winnie..." "We are home, Mr. Bennet." When Brian was to lose her temper, Winnie stepped on the brakes and stopped the car. "Mr. Bennet, the children have been asleep. You'd better be silent when we enter the house. And..." "Drive, I won't go up." Brian said coldly and his eyes got dark. Winnie looked sideways at Brian and did not speak for a long time. She was so angry, too. If he hadn't been drunk, she thought she would have kicked him out of the car. "Where to?" "Turn on the navigation and it will take you there." Brian said coldly, turned his head and stopped talking. Winnie had been driving in accordance with the navigation route. Fortunately, Brian had not bothered her. After following the navigation route for some time, the car turned up a mountain road. Although the mountain path was dark, Winnie felt it familiar. As driving on the mountain road, she felt more and more familiar and her heartbeat became flurried. When the car stopped in front of a mountaintop villa, Winnie was shocked and looked at everything in front of her. Here.....It was so familiar to her that she would never forget this villa even if she had forgotten the whole city. Winnie held her breath. "This is?" "My house. Drive in." Brian gave a cold order and did not notice there was something wrong with Winnie. His house? No..."Your new house?" Instead of driving in, Winnie confirmed it again. Her eyes were wide, and she watch in disbelief as the electric door slowly opened. "It has been six years since I built it. Do you think it is new? Cut the crap and drive in." Brian was anxious. He came here every time when he got drunk. Brian's words were nothing special, but they shocked Winnie again like a bolt from the blue. Her brain had lost the ability to control it, and her face turned pale at this moment. Winnie told herself over and over again that what she heard and saw was not real and that she must be dreaming at the moment, it was not reality. As the car drove slowly forward, Winnie could not feel that she was driving the car. As the house approached, Winnie's consciousness became more and more blurred, so that she could not tell whether it was a dream or reality. Brian was that man, and Luke was... When Winnie realized this, she was pleasant and surprised. At this time, Winnie's heart had abnormal contradictions. She could not accept such a coincidence, but hoped that all this was true. After the car had been parked, Winnie lookd at the villa in daze. "Get out of the car." Brian's cold voice made Winnie come back to sense from shock. "I don't want to get off. I don't want to see Penny. I am leaving." Winnie refused. If this was really Brian's home, Penny must be there, as the maid who knew her. She had not been sure about everything yet. She did not want to be found out when she was off guard. "This is my home, and Penny does not know it. There's nobody at home." As Brian's words fell, he seemed to press the remote control in his hand, and then the whole villa lit up and became bright. Winnie saw the villa clearly. It was exactly the same as four years ago, except that the trees next to the parking space seemed a little stronger. This was it, she kept confirming to herself. Now all she needed to know was whether this man and that man were the same person. Winnie got out of the car and found herself unable to support her legs. Every step she took was so difficult. When she entered the villa, came to the living room and looked up to bedroom with closed door on the second floor, Winnie's memories swept over. It had been four years, she wanted to forget everything here, but it became clearer and clearer. It recorded her most sad life, and four years later, it was once again played.

CHAPTER 39 JUST AS IT WAS FOUR YEARS AGO

Winnie's flurried heart was beating violently and she could not calm down for a long time. Then she walked into the bedroom with Brian. It was still in darkness, and it was in that darkness that she was forced to give everything she had and changed her fate. "Why don't you turn on the light?" Winnie asked deliberately, looking for more evidence. "I don't want to turn on the lights. I don't want to see anybody's face." The bedroom door was closed by Brian, and now the room was completely dark. Brian correctly grasped Winnie's hand and pulled her to the bed. "I'm tired, just stay here with me for a night." She could not see expression of Brian, but his voice overlapped with that man in such a specific environment. They were both indifferent and heartless. Winnie's heart tightened again. She was nervous and did not know what to do. She did not want to stay with Brian, but wanted to explore more things about him. At this time, Brian had lost patience, directly picked Winnie up and put her on the bed, and then he lay down. Brian naturally embraced Winnie in his arms. "Don't be nervous. I just want to have a good sleep. I won't hurt you." Brian felt Winnie's reserve, which he liked and was familiar with. That was probably why he brought Winnie here. "I... I must go home to take care of the children." Winnie wanted to escape. In this dark environment, Brian's hug was exactly the same with that man. She dared not go deeper, lest she was sure about the fact in this way. "Albert will take care of them. You are not allowed to leave." Brian may be tired and his voice became low. "....." Winnie seemed to have no excuse to escape and remained silent for a long time. Now she could see why their backs were so similar, why their voices were so similar, and why their body odors were the same. If he didn't have a brother, she was sure that that man would be Brian. But she needed further confirmation. Winnie was thinking. Soon after she heard the sound of Brian's even breathing. She knew he was asleep. Winnie took Brian's hand from her waist and slowly got up. By the light of a mobile phone, she first went to the French window. The curtain was the same as four years ago, which was thick with several layers. More than once she had stood here to open a gap to peep at his back. After closing the curtain, Winnie came to the bedside table, squat down, and opened the drawer of the bedside table without making a sound. The phone she put in four years ago was still there. Looking at the phone, she could not help but have tears in eyes. It was her hope, but also her shame in the past. Below the phone was a file bag, which Winnie was familiar with. Her hands trembled as she pulled the files out of the bag. When she saw the writing, she was unable to support herself and slid down the bed onto the floor. Gender: male Infant Name: Lukie Date of birth: January 23, XX Features: a birthmark on the left forearm ... Winnie had tears in eyes and was unable to continue to read it. In the next morning when Brian woke up, Winnie was not there. Brian saw a message on the phone. "I am worried about the children and I gotta to leave first. I found car in your garage, so I drove the car away, and I will give it back to you tomorrow when I went to the company." Brian took a deep breath. Although drunk that night, he slept soundly. Brian arrived at the office on time and when he was about to work, Klara knocked at the door and came in. "Mr. Bennet, Young Mistress is here." Penny was just behind Klara, carrying a paper bag with Brian's clothes in it as she had done several times before. This was the only thing Penny could do for him since she became her wife. "Honey." Penny's soft and sweet voice rang out. Klara walked out and closed the door. "Put down the clothes and leave, I still have work to do." Brian said in a cold voice. Penny's heart was cold to the extreme. It had been four years she tried to get the heart of Brian, but there was no progress. As four years ago, he kept her at a distance. "Honey..." Penny did not give up and wanted to care more about Brian. Just then Klara knocked on the door again and entered. "Mr. Bennet, Miss Chambers has arrived."

Penny thought of Winnie when she heard the name of Miss Chambers. It turned out that Brian rushed to drive her away was to see Winnie. "Let her in." Brian commanded, and then looked at Penny coldly. "I have to work." Penny was helpless. "Honey, I will go back first, don't make yourself too tired." Penny said it deliberately, so that Winnie could hear her. Penny turned around and Winnie walked in. The two looked at each other. Winnie was calm, but Penny was angry. Winnie did not say hello, and Penny did nothing due to Brian's warning. They just passed by. The door of the office was closed again by Klara. Brian stared at Winnie with sullen eyes. "Mr. Bennet, I'm here to talk about work, and I don't think I had annoyed you at work." Winnie broke the silence. "When did you leave last night? I asked you to sleep with me and you ran away." Brian's eyes were cold and he questioned Winnie. "Don't use such harsh words to describe me, Mr. Bennet. Usually I will run away after I had succeeded in cheating. Last night I was just worried about the children so I came back in advance. And your mountain villa and your bedroom are so dark that it seemed to have secrets." Winnie innocuously shrugged her shoulders. Although she said in a relaxed way, there were waves in her heard and she could not calm down. Winnie's words made Brian's eyes became colder. He glared at Winnie angrily, as if Winnie had done something wrong and should be punished. "Winnie, I shouldn't have taken you there last night. You don't deserve it." Brian said gnashing teeth. "I also think I shouldn't go, rest assured, next time you drank too much, I won't send you there even if you beg me." Winnie gave a stubborn answer. Brian regretted, she regretted too. Winnie continued. "Mr. Bennet, I have parked your car in the underground parking lot. Here is the key." Winnie walked a few steps up the wooden steps and placed the car keys on Brian's desk. "Mr. Bennet, I have sent both children to kindergarten. Megan can't fit in the new kindergarten, so I have no choice but to send her back to the kindergarten you arranged. I hope whatever happens between us, please don't get the children involved. I'll pay for the kindergarten myself, as long as you don't kick her out." Winnie was kind of begging Brian. Although she took Megan away last time, she did not believe that Brian would spare Megan. She thought she had taken the child away early, so Brian failed to do anything to her. "I didn't want to do anything about Megan. You were the one who dropped the kid out last time. You should know why I fired you." Brian's tone was low and his eyes were cold. Winnie reminded him so, he was like filthy. "I'd like to thank Mr. Bennet for Megan. I do not want to analyze it. It is good to be confused sometimes. I'll stay in the house you arranged for me, until I finish my work..." Winnie said with pride and self-confidence in a calm way. Work was important to all people, and it was considered an honor to work in Brian's company. But Winnie disdained that. Brian finally could not help but loudly rebuke. "Winnie, if you don't want to be controlled by me for a lifetime, obey my arrangement." "Rogue" Winnie whispered, glaring at Brian. She knew he would keep his words. She didn't want to be controlled by him all her life, or she would die quickly. "Mr. Bennet, thank you for your kindness. I will go to work first, and I will do the handover work when MT sends someone over." Unconvinced, Winnie stared at Brian. As the words fell, she turned to leave proudly. Winnie went out of the president's office and breathed a sigh of relief. Inadvertently she saw Klara. Klara was staring at her with angry eyes that were filled with envy and anger. Why? Winnie snorted in disdain and walked away. When she pushed open the door of her office, Winnie was not surprised by what she saw. Penny was sitting on the sofa with her legs crossed, looking domineering. Such Penny had no dignity at all and wasted the supremacy Brian gave her. Winnie closed the door of her office and poured herself a glass of water to drink. "Say it, are you here to, warn me again? Your husband and your son stayed over my home last night. Are you trying to slap me again? Oh, I need to correct myself. He is not your husband. You're living together at best. As for the son..." Winnie deliberately stopped. Before Penny questioned her, she told Penny first. But Penny was not surprised, which proved that she had already known. "Winnie, I underestimated you. I did not expect you dare to take the initiative to admit it. Listen up, even if we are not married, I am his wife. I have my son. He is everything to me. He is my status symbol and no one can change that." "Winnie, leave now, don't regret when you get hurt. When the time comes, no one will heal you." Penny gave a malicious warning, taking Luke as a weapon to resist the invasion of Winnie. However, it was Luke that made Winnie angry. For the moment, she had to put up with it and said nothing. But after she got medical proof of Luke, she would not let go Penny. "Don't talk nonsense. Keep an eye on Brian and ask him to stay away from me. That's what you should do. I have to work now." Winnie told her to leave and watched Penny get up, feeling disgusting. "Winnie, think about it. Regardless of my position as Mrs. Bennet, I can still defeat you with the strength of my family." Penny warned again and showed no weakness. If Winnie was stubborn, she would not show mercy. She took four years of hard work to get Brian. She would not spare Winnie if she dared rob with her.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 40 ON A BUSINESS TRIP TOGETHER

Winnie came to the kindergarten after work to pick up the children. She wanted to let Luke go home with her, but Penny unexpectedly came to pick up Luke. "Mommy..." Luke obviously feared. And then she looked back at Winnie with expectation. "Luke, are you happy that I come to pick you up?" Penny showed a hypocritical smile, but her smile made Luke felt more afraid. "Mommy..." Luke did not know what to say, but his voice was getting smaller and smaller, because only he saw malice in Mommy's eyes. "Penny, can you let the child come to my house to play? If you are worried, you can go with me." Winnie tried to help Luke, so she could only speak gently. In fact, there was hatred in her heart. "No, Miss Chambers. You've been working hard all day. I'd better take the child home." Penny was insincere and then she bent down and looked at Megan. "Oh, you are beautiful. What's your name?" "Auntie, my name is Megan Chambers." Megan said timidly. She didn't know why Luke and she were both afraid of her. She didn't like this woman. "Megan Chambers? You have the last name as your mother? Where's Daddy? Why don't you take his last name?" Asked Penny in puzzle. "Children don't understand these things. Young Mistress Bennet, if it's not convenient for Luke to come to my house, I'll go back first." Winnie retreated, not because of the fear of Penny, but was afraid Penny will be angry with Luke because she was too strong. Luke said goodbye to Megan and Winnie reluctantly, and Winnie was worried because of Luke's panic look. The next day, Winnie received notice to have a business trip with Brian. Winnie thought it was ridiculous that an employee who had been fired should go on a business trip. She went to Brian's office. "Mr. Bennet, you'd better change someone else for the business trip. I have quit my job and cannot go on a business trip with you." Winnie, regardless that Brian was still reviewing the documents, came in and went to the point. She didn't want to go on a business trip with Brian and didn't want to get along with him alone. Now Winnie was waiting for the result and afraid of Luke being bullied. She had to refuse. "No one can replace you, because you go on a business trip for work." Brian did not raise his head, but said in a cold voice. It was not a surprise Winnie came over, if she did not come, she was not Winnie. "You'd better find someone else, or go on a business trip with you when someone from the company gets here." Winnie was still looking for a reason. "MT will not send someone over and you will continue to work with me." Brian said firmly. As of this morning, he had arranged for Winnie to return to work. "I refuse." Winnie said decisively. Brian said nothing, but raised his eyes to look at Winnie coldly. "Mr. Bennet, I'm a human being, not your pet. I have terminated my working relationship with MT and no one can influence me." Winnie finally was not bound by working contract, and she was determined not to fall to Brian's trap again. It was her decision where to work and Brian could not control her. "Winnie..." When Brian was about to get angry, the internal phone rang. He pressed the answer button hard. "Mr. Bennet, it's time to go to the airport." After listening to Klara's reminder, Brian hung up the phone. "Take when we come back. You have to go on a business trip today. Now this job still belongs to you and is your duty. Brian could only temporarily suppress his anger, because work was the most important at the moment. "Ok, but I have my conditions." Winnie could not shirk and it was urgent, so she could only compromise. "Say it." "Send Luke to my house to play with Megan, or Megan will miss me. My best friend takes care of them." "Luke has his mommy." Brian refused. "Then I refuse to go to business trip." Winnie said and turned to leave directly. The next moment, Brian blocked her way. "I will ask Butler Lowe to send Luke to your house." Brian was angry, but Winnie found Brian was helpless to her. This business trip was urgent. Winnie followed Brian without bringing anything. Fortunately, there were not only the two of them, but also Albert and Klara, which made her feel relieved. They had booked first class seats. After getting aboard, they found their seats and sat down. The position made Brian helpless but made Winnie happy. Brian sat by the window, and Klara sat on his right. Albert sat on the right of Klara, and Winnie sat opposite the aisle and by the window. In other words, Winnie sat far away from Brian, and it was even hard to take a glance. Brian showed a cold face, repressing his mood. But Winnie looked out of the window with a smile on her face. Fortunately, she didn't sit beside Brian, otherwise she would be frozen into ice on the way. When Winnie was feeling pleased, she heard someone calling her. "Winwin..." Leo only saw her side face, so he called her in an uncertain way. Winnie turned around in surprise. "Leo?" No way, she was glad that she had eluded Brian, but now here came Leo. Winnie secretly chagrined. What was going on? Why couldn't she have a peaceful day? "Winwin, it is really you." Leo sat next to Winnie excitedly. It was really a coincidence today and he definitely did not track her. "Is it for personal or business affair?" Leo asked with concern. "I'm on business. I'm with my colleagues." Winnie pointed to the other side, and Leo saw Brian. But at this time Brian's face had been darkened, which made people scared. There was a fire burning in his eyes that would engulf people at any moment. Brian had a good impression of Leo before, but now the person he hated most was Leo, especially when he called 'Winwin', which made him angry. "Mr. Bennet, you are here too." Leo greeted. Brian said nothing. His cold eyes moved to Winnie. Unfortunately, Winnie did not look at Brian. "Where is Megan? Who will take care of Megan if you go to business trip?" Leo turned to continue to chat with Winnie, ignoring the anger in Brian's eyes. "Daenerys." Winnie replied in a low voice, not looking at Leo or Brian. "Winwin, I can take care of Megan if you are busy." Leo said enthusiastically, no matter in which respect, as long as he could help, he would like to help. "Thank you." Winnie answered politely. Even if no one would take care of Megan, she would not bother Leo. Having been treated like that, how dare she expect him to help? Winnie had been confused about Leo's attitude. He changed too fast and he didn't know why. She could only be cautious lest again being fooled. Leo's attitude not only confused Winnie, but also made Brian frown. Leo hated Winnie because she was a cheater, but why did he get close to her? Did he want to get back at Winnie or... "Winwin..." Leo continued to care about Winnie, and Winnie could only answer. So they started to chat. Leo was warm, gentle, sunny and elegant, which made Winnie had a feeling of the past. She was very happy when they were in love. Leo was her first love, she thought everything was beautiful. If that it held to now, she must be the happiest person. But now she thought love was a lie. Leo and Penny united to frame her, and she could not accept it. One was her bestie, the other was her boyfriend who she was deeply in love with and wanted to spend the rest of life with him. But they hurt her together, and she could not help feeling resentful. But now she thought she was a heavy burden, and who was willing to carry it? It would have been wise to abandon her. It was good though, in that way, she didn't have to spend her whole life saddled with favors and feel inferior to someone because of what she owed. It was a four-hour flight, so they had to eat lunch on the plane. The stewardess distributed the lunch and sent drinks. Before Winnie said a word, Leo had told the stewardess. "Give me a cup of hot water. This lady doesn't drink beverages." Leo still remembered Winnie's habit, which made Winnie moved for a moment. She looked at the stewardess in daze. When the stewardess left, she met Brian's eyes. At that moment her heartbeat was like missing half a beat. Winnie quickly withdrew her eyes. She did not know why she was nervous, was it because Leo's thoughtfulness or Brian's cold eyes? Leo continued to care about Winnie, pick up the vegetables Winnie did not like and put them to his plate, and then picked up Winnie's favorite food from his plate to her. "Leo, you eat. I've got enough." Winnie was touched, but she was not used to being cared like this. Even if she wanted this kind of care, it definitely would not be Leo. Thinking of this, Winnie involuntarily looked up to Brian. He did not eat but closed his eyes indifferently. Winnie secretly laughed at herself. Even if she wanted to be cared, it would not be Leo, and it would more be Brian. She could not feel warm from him and could only freeze to death. After lunch, Winnie went to the bathroom. At that moment, Brian opened his eyes and frowned coldly. "Klara, change your seat with Miss Chambers." Brian said mandatorily, and did not give Klara an opportunity to oppose. Klara was stunned and then stood up and sat down in Winnie's seat. Leo closed his eye for a snap and opened his eyes when he felt someone coming. But it was not Winnie. "Klara, you're in the wrong seat." Leo told Klara. "Mr. Bennet arranged it." Klara answered unwillingly, with envy in her eyes. At this moment, Winnie came back from the bathroom and stood in the aisle looking at her seat. "Miss Chambers, sit inside." Albert said to Winnie, pointing at the seat by the window. At the moment, Brian was sitting in the seat of Klara. The seats had been changed completely.
