Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 311 IT IS WORTH FIVE MILLION

After Felix left, Wendy cried more sadly. She came here to try to solve the problem, but the things got worse. She did not expect Felix would have such reaction. Brian and Felix, the two most advantageous people, stood on Winnie's side. What could Wendy do to save the situation? Wendy left in tears, helpless and wronged. Winnie was finally able to go home early this day. After having dinner with the two children, she went back to her room and continued to study the game. At 8 o'clock in the evening, she received a call from Wendy. When she arrived at the agreed place to meet, Winnie found that it was nearby the Bennet Group. Approaching the café, she found Wendy was already sitting there with a look of hatred on her face. Looking at such Wendy, Winnie reminded of Penny, because Wendy looked like her now. Winnie walked to Wendy and then sat down calmly. "Tell me what you want." Winnie was calm. "You are satisfied that I made an apology? I can see that from your face." Wendy had glared at Winnie from the moment she met Winnie and her tone was not kind. "You see that? Shouldn't I be satisfied?" Winnie asked Wendy. She thought it was over, but Wendy had not learned her lesson and still held resentment towards her. "What are you so proud of? Haven't you ever think why I did it? The relationship between you and Brian was not simple. You are the mistress and deserve to be scolded." Wendy said angrily and vented her anger on Winnie. "You like Brian, because you like his money and his power. How much money do you want to leave him? As long as you tell the number, I will give it to you." Wendy was emotional. She had been thinking about it for an afternoon. She would rather send Winnie away with money. Wendy's words made Winnie ashamed. She did have an ambiguous relationship with Brian. "I can only admit part of what you say, but I cannot admit that I am a mistress. To say the most unreasonable but true words, you are not even an unmarried couple, and I have the right to love." "But Wendy, I did not value Brian's money, his power and status. It's all about the children between me and him..." Winnie did not admit Wendy's unreasonable charges, but wanted to defend herself, but Wendy looked at her with disdain and interrupted her words. "It is just your excuse. Your necklace costs more than five million, and you said you are not for money. If you are so noble, you wouldn't have accepted the necklace worth of a five million." With that, Wendy pointed to the necklace on Winnie's neck and glared at Winnie angrily. Winnie frowned immediately. Was this necklace really worth more than five million? She insisted that she would not accept one cent from Brian, but she took more than five million yuan. How shameless she was, how filthy she was. "Why, don't you believe me, or your ambition has been exposed?" Winnie did not contradict because she was guilty, but Wendy intensified. "This necklace was made by a famous foreign designer. The charge for his workmanship averaged cost more than two million. Plus the top material, this necklace is worth five million." "Winnie, don't hide your ambition. Say it, to leave Brian, how much do you want?" Wendy said contemptuously, she thought Winnie could be got rid of with money. She looked noble on the surface, but she was a typical Wolf in sheep's clothing. "You really want me to leave Brian?" Winnie recovered from her surprise. "Yes, the sooner the better." Wendy did not want to see Winnie again. "You don't want my children either, do you?" Winnie recovered calm in her bright eyes. "Better to take them away." It would be best for Wendy if they all disappeared. "Well, I don't want a cent. If you can convince Brian to let me take the children away, I won't be in front of you again." This was the only requirement of Winnie. If Wendy could do it, she would leave Brian even if she did not want to. For Winnie, Brian could not be reached. No matter where she went, he could only be in her heart. "Do you think it is possible? You're making it difficult for me? So you don't want to leave him." Wendy knew it was more difficult than anything. If Brian could leave the two children, she wouldn't have left. "It's hard, but that's all I ask. Think of it, and if you make it happen, I will be grateful." Winnie got up and left with her bag. She knew it was difficult. If it had been easy, she would have left. But this depended on what Wendy did. She felt that Brian loved Wendy, for Wendy, for the sake of their days would be better, Brian would agree to Wendy's request. At the same time, in the Bennet Group. Since she knew that Brian would be staying at the company at night, Klara had been looking for opportunities to approach him. After that Winnie got slandered, Brian had prejudice against Klara. At first, Klara was alarmed, but later she thought it was an opportunity. So Klara returned to the company in the evening taking making an apology as excuse. She usually wore work clothes, but today she dressed up and made some dessert. Standing at the door of the president's office, Klara felt nervous. She had no idea how Brian would react when he saw her. Brian was still working, but suddenly there was a knock on the door. Brian instantly frowned, and then turned on the monitoring equipment. When he saw that the person standing outside the door was Klara, Brian twisted his eyebrow more tightly. He pondered for a moment and pressed the remote control to open the door. Klara heard the door opened and went inside. "Mr. Bennet." Klara called him. "Why are you here at this late hour?" Brian asked the enthusiastic Klara with indifference. "...I came to apologize to you." Klara said and lowered her head in shame. "Don't apologize to me, you should apologize to Winnie." Of course, Brian knew what Klara was referring to, but it made Brian angrier. If it were not for Winnie, if it were not for Albert interceded for her, Klara had no longer been in B City now. "I know I was wrong, and I have apologized to Winnie. Mr. Bennet, I should apologize to you too for making you disappointed and troubles." "I'm sorry, Mr. Bennet. It won't happen again." After listening to Brian's words, Klara felt uncomfortable, but she was very sincere in her apology. "Now that you've brought this up, Klara, I have to warn you again. Winnie and I will never break our relationship. You should know how I feel about her. I won't let anyone hurt her. Even if I can't be with her, she is still my woman in this life. I will protect her forever." Brian stood there like a king and his words were domineering. "Klara, you should know in your heart why I have taken special care of you for so many years. You're an employee to me. If such things happen again, I will not indulge you even if Winnie intercedes for you." Brian's voice was cold and his eyes were sharp. "I know. It will never happen again." Klara guaranteed and now she was ashamed. "I'm sorry, Mr. Bennet. Don't be angry. Knowing you will work late, I made dessert. Eat when you are hungry." Klara put the dessert on the coffee table. After that, she went to Brian. "Mr. Bennet, I've remembered all the years of your kindness to me, and since my husband died, you've helped me support the family. My idea was extreme and I did something to hurt Winnie, but please don't put it in heart. I'm going to focus on my work and not let you worry." Klara felt it was necessary for her to be more sincere, so that Brian could completely put down his wariness. But speaking of her husband, she felt sad. "Good. I believe you can keep your words." Brian saw that Klara was sad, so he did not continue to blame him, but his voice was still cold. "I know...I know..." Before the words came out, tears began to flow down Klara's face. "I'm sorry, Mr. Bennet." Klara controlled her emotion and apologized to Brian, but she felt sadder, because Brian had no any response. Klara opened her bag, looking for some tissue to wipe away her tears. By a casual sideways glance, she saw that the president's elevator was going down and had reached the third floor. As she was rummaging for tissue, she thought fast. At this time, it could only be the assistants of Mr. Bennet or his family would come, but the assistant dared not take the president's elevator. And the president's elevator was run with fingerprint. Without the president's authorization or without the fingerprint entered into the system, it could not take the president's elevator. So who could this person be? Klara took out the tissue and stole a glance at the elevator as she wiped away her tears. By this time the elevator had begun to rise, and it was going very fast.

CHAPTER 312 DEAL ON THE NECKLACE

No matter who was coming up, Klara hoped it was not Wendy. "Mr. Bennet, please forgive me for my husband's sake, I promise you..." Klara burst into tears and hugged Brian suddenly. "I'm sorry, I was wrong..." Klara was crying and apologizing. Brian was confused for a moment. Then he was to push Klara, but she held him tightly and didn't show any intention of letting go. "Let go, Klara. Are you apologizing sincerely?" Brian's voice was cold, and he frowned tightly. He had never expected Klara to do this, and was completely unprepared. However, Klara made him more annoyed. Seeing that his words were of no use, Brian put his hands on Klara's shoulders. Just as he was about to push Klara hard, the elevator door suddenly opened and Winnie walked out. Winnie did not expect to see such a scene. She looked at the two people holding together in surprise. Brian said more than once that he had no relationship with Klara, but how could they each other so closely? Winnie withdrew her vision. "Sorry to bother you." Winnie turned around and was to walk away, but she felt that doing so showed that she cared about Brian. But if she did not leave, she could not stand it. Saying words might make her less embarrassed, so she turned around. Brian called her at this moment. "Winwin." At the moment, Brian was crazy. He pushed Klara away hard, regardless of whether Klara would fall to ground. He stopped Winnie and grabbed the remote control of the elevator as fast as he could and took control of it. Then he went to Winnie. "You misunderstand, I..." "No need to explain. This is your personal life and no one has the right to interfere. On the contrary, I came over without telling you in advance, which was abrupt. You go on and I'll come tomorrow." Winnie didn't think it was necessary to listen to Brian's explanation. It had nothing to do with her and she had no right to listen to his explanation. As her words fell, she reached out to press the elevator key, but it did not work. "I turned off the elevator, you can't get down. Say what you want to say now." Brian was sure that Winnie could not go out. After saying that to Winnie, he walked to Klara. It was only then that he found Klara sitting on the ground. But he showed no mercy. "Klara, you saw the elevator coming up, so you did it on purpose. Your behavior makes your apology ironic. I have seen through you and will not give you another chance." Brian breathed a sigh of relief. At that moment, Klara realized the seriousness of the problem and quickly got up and began to cry and apologize. "I'm sorry, Mr. Bennet, but it's not like that. I didn't mean it, I thought of my husband and I can't control myself. I am sorry, I will explain, I will explain to Winnie now." Klara walked to Winnie and said crying. "Don't get me wrong, Winnie. I'm here to apologize to Mr. Bennet for what happened to you. I couldn't help but... It's nothing to do with Mr. Bennet. I am shameless. Don't be angry." This was the first time Klara apologized to Winnie. Although Klara was not convinced, she had no other choice in order to keep her job. The determination in Brian's eyes just now had explained everything. If she failed to explain it, she had no need to work tomorrow. "Klara, don't do that. It has nothing to do with me. You don't need to apologize to me." Klara tried to explain, apologized with tears, but it made Winnie at a loss and have remorse. It would not have happened but for her sudden appearance. "Winnie, believe me, I really have nothing to do with Mr. Bennet." Klara continued to apologize. Now her only thought was to ask Winnie to forgive her. But for Winnie, if she forgave her, it was an admission that she and Brian had an unusual relationship. At this time, Winnie did not know what to do. She just wanted to leave here as soon as possible, and the two of them could solve the problem. "Klara, your relationship with Mr. Bennet has nothing to do with me, you don't need to explain to me." Winnie bypassed Klara, strode toward the door of the office and was to leave. Brian had been paying attention to Winnie. He knew she wanted to leave. He strode forward and caught Winnie. Then he said coldly. "Klara, go out. You don't need to come to work tomorrow." Brian had made up his mind not to give Klara an opportunity. If Klara did not make this scene, Winnie would not be sad. "I'm sorry, Mr. Bennet, I'm sorry... please forgive me." "Winnie, sorry, I am really sorry. Please beg Mr. Bennet for me. I have children and parents waiting for me to earn money." Klara panicked because she did not know how long she would stay at home, so she came to Brian and continued to apologize. Klara did not expect it was Winnie who came up and did not expect that Brian would punish her with her job. If she had known what was going to happen, she would have been less impulsive. Winnie was embarrassed. She wanted to leave, but Brian caught her arm. She really didn't know how to cope with the situation. Looking at Klara's panic-stricken appearance, Winnie's heart softened. "It's a private affair. You shouldn't threaten her with her job. Mr. Bennet..." Winnie wanted to intercede for Klara, but was interrupted by Brian. "How many times have you been hurt by her? Isn't that enough?" Brian said angrily. As Albert said, Winnie was kind and always forgave the people who hurt her. "That's a thing between her and me. We will work it out. You just have to be a good boss." Winnie wanted to say that it was too late for Brian to say these words. Klara hated her so much that even if she helped her this time, she would hate her as well. But Klara would hate her even more if she didn't help her. "Let her go back first and think about it." That was what Winnie could only say. As for what was the relationship between the two, as for whether they were acting now, Winnie did not want to know. Brian gasped heavily, looking at Winnie. Although he was angry, he felt sorry for Winnie. "Go home, Klara. We will deal with it tomorrow." Brian said angrily, but Klara still wanted to continue to fight for it. "Mr. Bennet..." "Get out, now, or I won't give you the chance." Brian suddenly was in rage, staring at Klara angrily. Seeing the burning anger in Brian's eyes, Klara was so afraid that she didn't dare to say another word and left quickly. As the door to the president's office closed, Brian felt less angry. "What you just saw..." "Mr. Bennet let go of my hand first." Winnie said coldly, at the moment, she did not know what attitude she should hold to communicate with Brian. Reluctantly, Brian let go of her hand and once again explained, only to see Winnie take out the necklace from her bag. "Mr. Bennet, I checked on the Internet that this necklace costs more than 5 million. I can't accept such a valuable thing." Winnie handed the necklace to Brian. Only she knew she was reluctant to do so. The necklace meant a lot to Winnie and she loved it. But it was too valuable to her. If the necklace was a worthless and fake, she would not return it to Brian. Brian frowned. Looking at the necklace Winnie handed over, his heart was sore. Brian did not reach out his hand to take it, but lifted his eyes and helplessly looked at Winnie. "Why do you care about who much it costs? It has nothing to do with money. I admit that this necklace costs more than five million. I did not tell you the truth, but if I told you the truth, you would not accept it." "I really appreciate it, but please take back the necklace." Winnie did not explain too much. Seeing that Brian did not take the necklace, she bent down and put the necklace on the coffee table. Then she turned to leave. Seeing that Winnie was to leave, Brian caught her. "Winnie, take the necklace. If you take it, I'll move to the suburbs tomorrow." For Winnie could accept this necklace, he could only agree with Winnie's requirement. He knew this was Winnie's weakness that she was always thinking of others. Brian's proposal made Winnie moved. She turned around, took Brian's hand away and stared at him silently. For a moment. "Will you keep your word?" Winnie asked with worry. "Yes." Brian was sure that he would not break his promise. "You can't get angry with your father, don't lose your temper. As long as you are at home, have dinner with him."Winnie put forward her requirement.One of the reasons she wanted him to move back to the suburbs was to keep them on good terms. If he spent every day sulking and shouting, he might as well not have gone back.Another reason was that Brian could have delicious meals on time, which made Winnie feel at ease.Brian did not answer, but bent down to pick up the necklace and walked close to Winnie."I can't promise to do everything you said right away, but I'll do my best. Take the necklace, and if I don't do a good job, you can give it back to me."

CHAPTER 313 MOVE BACK TO THE SUBURBS

Brian had no confidence to get along well with his father and those requirements Winnie put forward was difficult to him. But he was willing to try so that Winnie could accept the necklace. Winnie knew that was Brian's bottom line, so she glanced at the necklace and reached for it. At this time Brian dodged her hand, and helped her to put on the necklace. The close contact of two people made Winnie's heart disorderly, and it reminded her of the embrace of Brian and Klara, so she felt sore in heart. How could this man do that? He had a woman in his arms a minute ago, and now he helped her put on the necklace. Having the necklace on, Winnie retreated two steps. "I'll take it, but you have to keep your words." Winnie said seriously and turned around, but she stopped after just two steps. "You have my fingerprints stored in the elevator, delete it, to avoid that I suddenly barged in like today." With that, Winnie left. The first thing Brian did the next morning was to pack up and move to the suburbs. All the people in the suburb looked at him in surprise as he stood in the suburb yard with his luggage. Rufus stood there in daze and could not believe what he saw. If he came to send things, he would be disappointed. "Brian, what are you doing?" Stella was the first to come to Brian. She was also carrying simple luggage and was about to catch the plane. "I promised someone I will live here." Brian replied in a quiet voice, but his face did not look natural. However, Stella was moved and felt her brother was cute at this moment. "Dad, your son has finally moved back in. I can leave with ease." Stella got tears in eyes and called her father excitedly. Hearing that, Rufus control his emotions and quickly walked to Brian. "Good, good." He did not know how to express the mood at the moment. He was excited for sure and there was a sense of recapture treasure. His son came back suddenly, it did not feel real, but he was happy even if it were a dream. At this time, Paul ran over to take Brian's luggage with a smile. "I'm going to clean a large room so that you can live comfortably." "Paul, no need, I live in Winwin's room." Brian said it as naturally as if it was his room and his woman. Paul paused for a moment and then replied. "All right, I'll take your luggage to the second floor." "Sister, are you not to catch a plane? I send you to the airport." As Paul turned to leave, Brian said that he would send his sister, because now he did not know how to communicate with his father. "Eat breakfast before you go." Rufus spoke. As Brian wanted to refuse, he remembered Winnie's request, so he turned his face away from Rufus and spoke in a low voice. "I will come back tonight for dinner." With that, he took Stella's luggage and returned to the car. As soon as the car drove out of the villa, Stella took out her cell phone and called Winnie. "Thank you, Winwin, and thank you on behalf of my Dad. Thank you, thank you so much." Winnie picked up the phone and heard Stella thanked her before she said anything. She was confused, but she could hear excitement in Stella's tone. "Sister, you have confused me." "Brian has moved back to old house and is going to live with Dad. Don't you think I should thank you?" Stella had always been a calm, elegant and intellectual person. But she could not calm down today. Brian's sudden return made her excited.

"Really?" Winnie felt incredible. Brian promised her last night, but she did not expect him to carry out so soon. "Yes, he got back with the luggage, but now we're on our way to the airport. Thank you, Winwin. Brian didn't say anything, but I know it is because of you." "Thank you for bringing Brian home. I don't know how long I'll have to wait without you." Stella said thank you again. Winnie did them a favor, without her help, they would not have family reunion. "Sister, you are exaggerating. I didn't do anything. Don't thank me. As long as he goes back and your father is happy." Winnie was moved by Brian. In this way, Brian would be happy in the future. If only he was happy, she would be happy too. "Winwin, you are modest, I will come back to thank you." After saying thank you again, Stella hung up the phone and then looked at Brian with a smile. "Sister, how do you know it is because of Winwin?" Brian could not understand how his sister had guessed so. "Isn't that obvious? In addition to Winwin, who you will listen to?" Stella asked Brian, waiting for Brian's question. Seeing his sister's strange eyes, he felt unaccustomed. "Why are you looking at me like that?" "Am I not right? Something must have happened between you and Winwin or you wouldn't have come back." Stella was sure about that, but no matter what happens. the result was good. "Sister, it is Winwin told me to come back." Brian suddenly became serious and continued to speak. "She was wronged by Wendy. No matter how I apologized to her, she didn't forgive me and returned the necklace I gave her." "Sister, if she returned the necklace to me, we will have no connection in the future." "I really can't get along with her like a stranger. To make it up to her, for my own sake, I said yes to whatever she wanted, but I didn't expect that she wanted me to go home." Brian was grateful to Winnie for what she had done. Without her, his world would be a gray one. Although he could not be with Winnie, but for Brian, as long as he could often see Winnie, he felt happy. He had never felt such happiness since his mother had died. "So you said yes? Where's the necklace?" Brian was curious. Brian continued to explain. "I said if she took the necklace back, I will return to the suburbs. That's why I'm back today." "The necklace must be very expensive?" Stella asked Brian without surprise. "How do you know it's expensive?" Brian felt that her sister knew everything. "From what I know about Winnie, I guess it must be expensive. Otherwise she would not give it back to you." Speaking of this, Stella sighed before she continued. "I wonder which man will marry her. No matter which man he is, I think he is the luckiest man." Stella's sighed because Brian could not be with such a talented and responsible woman with self-restraint. She was kind, she was magnanimous, and she had all the qualities of a hostess for the Mr. Bennet family. "Sister, don't say that. I can't take it." Brian could not accept Winnie would be someone else's wife. He might break down if Winnie married one day. "I understand. I think it's a pity, let alone you." Stella sighed again and then persuaded Brian. "Take it easy. It's not your destiny, so you can't force it. Leave your life well and that is enough." Stella wanted to encourage Brian with these words and think of a way. "It is my destiny. We met again, this is fate." Brian sighed after that. Even if it is a destiny, he could not be with the woman he loved. "I can see that you don't want to give up, but you can't be with Winwin. Brian, you should give yourself a choice as soon as possible, only when you settle down, you can be steadfast. Let Winwin give up early and get married with other men. She is a good woman and deserved to be happy." Stella felt sad about it, but she knew Brian's helplessness. "Let me know when you have your answer, I will support whatever decision you make. But I hope my sister-in-law is Winwin." Stella gave her own opinion. If Brian chose Winnie, the Bennet family will be happy, but it was no easy. Brian was silent. He hoped that too. However, when he mentioned it to his grandfather, his grandfather's attitude was still so persistent. If he was to be with Winnie, how many people would be hurt? Winnie put down the phone and felt warm in heart. He went home, back to his father, which was a good start. She felt bitter too, because she was not with him. But it was not a big deal, she could endure it. During the break time, Winnie came to Leo's company to study the next step. "It is up to you, and I will do my best to cooperate with you." After listening to Leo, Winnie gave such an answer. After all, she was an amateur and Leo was a professional. "All right, then, we'll go ahead with our plan. You start shooting this weekend and you're deprived of time off." Leo closed the document in hand. It was easy to work together with Winnie, because she trusted him.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 314 NOT FEELING THE LOVE

Every time speaking of shooting, Winnie felt that her heartbeat fast. Although she had learned acting lessons, she still had no confidence in herself. "The timing is fine, but I'm starting to get nervous now." "Don't worry, do as your usual practice. I believe you can do everything well." Leo was full of confidence. Winnie was meticulous, making him feel steadfast. For Leo's trust, Winnie smiled. As she was make a joke, there was knock on the door. "Come in" As Leo's voice fell, Emily walked in. But when she saw Winnie, she was not calm. "You're here, too." Emily ran to Winnie and embraced her as she got up. "You are finally back." They had not seen for days, Winnie was excited. "You were saying like we've been away for a long time. I've only been away for a few days." Emily let go of Winnie and smiled brightly. "Really, I felt you have been away for many days. God, have I fallen in love with you, so I feel the day is very long without you around?" Winnie said jokingly. "You are disgusting. I have a boyfriend, even if you love me, you have no chance." With that, Emily could not help laughing heartily, and the two women had ignored Leo. However, looking at these two happy women, Leo showed a smile. After that, Emily suggested to have lunch together. "I'll book the restaurant, and you two just eat." Emily took out her mobile phone. Winnie spoke at this time. "You two go, and I'll join you next time. There will be a performance at the kindergarten at noon, and I promised my children I will go and see." "Then we can have dinner after the children finish the performance." Emily wanted to have dinner with Winnie, and her attitude was sincere. "No, I still have work to do. You eat this time and next time I'll join you." With that, Winnie picked up her bag. The performance would start at afternoon, but Winnie did not want to disturb their time so she refused to have dinner together. After Winnie left, Leo and Emily were left in the office, and the atmosphere was immediately subtle. "Why didn't you tell me you are back, so that I can pick you up at the airport?" Leo's tone was warm, but Emily did not have intimate or ambiguous feeling between lovers. "I tried to surprise you, but I seemed to fail, because I don't think you were happy to see me." Emily inadvertently teased. "I am happy, why not. Come on, let's go to lunch." Leo said with dodging and he was guilty to Emily. The two men went downstairs together. Leo drove Emily to lunch. This was the third time Emily took Leo's car. She took a deliberate look at the pendant on the car, but she felt upset because the previous one was still there. Emily felt uncomfortable and she was straight-forward, so her emotion could be told from her face. But Leo asked her, she said. "It seems that you really don't like the pendant I bought for you." "Huh?" Emily's sudden words made Leo stunned, and then he realized what Emily was saying. "Oh, I left it at home." Leo did not say that he did not like it, but he did not say that he liked it. He only said meaningless words. Hearing the light explanation, Emily felt more upset. "Return it to me if you don't like it. It is meaningless if you put it at home. I bought it because I liked it, I will take it back and hung it on my car." Emily's tone changed and Leo could hear that. He wanted to comfort her but felt himself hypocrisy. "You have given it to me, you can't take it back. I'll give you one if you like it." Leo could only say on. Emily looked at Leo who was driving, but she said nothing, because she did not know what was in his mind. Brian had been thinking about Klara since returning from the airport. He had a second thought about what had happened the night before. Klara was standing at the right angle to see the people coming up by the elevator, so Klara was intentional. She came to apologize, and since she did that, it was a false apology, so she had not realized she was doing something wrong. After consideration, Brian arrange works to Albert and at noon he called Klara to his office. "Mr. Bennet, you want to see me?" Klara timidly said. She had not felt at ease since she left the office the night before. Standing in front of Brian, she was nervous and dared not say a word. "Klara, I know exactly what you were up to last night. I know everything you've done to Winnie since she came here. She treated you well, but you hurt her." "I've told you in all seriousness that I don't want you to hurt her any more. But now it seems you can't do that." Brian went to the point. He was already disappointed with Klara. In his heart, she was no longer a person he trusted, but just an ordinary employee. "Mr. Bennet..." Klara wanted to explain. But Brian had seen through Klara and had made a decision, so he did not want to listen to Klara's excuse. "Klara, I won't dismiss you for your husband's sake. But you can't stay in B City. I have asked Albert to arrange for you to go to the branch office in A City." "Mr. Bennet..." "I'm not finished." Brian interrupted Klara sharply. Then he went on speaking coldly. "The Spring Festival is coming soon. We should not let the elderly and children have an easy festival, so go to A City after the Spring Festival. If you have a good performance, you can come back in a few months." Brian paused before he continued. "Think about it. It is time for you to wake up. You are a wise man, and I think you can understand even if I don't say it, but you have let me down." "Klara, You and I have no chance to be together, to put it bluntly, I would not choose you, even if I need a mistress." Brian felt that Klara would not give up if he did not make the words clear. Although it would hurt Klara's self-esteem, he could only do so. And it was herself asked for it. "Mr. Bennet..." Klara wanted to intercede on her behalf. She didn't want to leave B City, but Brian did not give her a chance to speak. "I have given you many chances, and this is the last one. If you do not cherish it, your husband cannot save you." "Get out. I want to work." Brian issued the order decisively. Klara was sad and bitter but dared not show resentment. Brian's words were unfeeling. How could he say it like that, had he ever considered her thought? When Brian got off work, he was hesitant and tangled. He didn't know how to get back to his home. His sister, the children and Winnie were not there. If he had dinner with his father, the atmosphere would be stiff. But he had to go back since he had promised Winnie. Brian had to call Wendy, so that he would not be embarrassed going back with Wendy. On the way home. "Why do you come home suddenly?" Wendy was excited. She did not know why Brian changed his attitude, but the result was good. Then she would have something to say to Grandpa. "No reason." Brian didn't want to explain. "Never mind, your father will be happy since you go home. And your grandpa and your sister will be relieved and you should have done it long ago." "Well, now you have a home, I can move in with you." Wendy's tone was affirmative. She did not think about the consent of Brian. "This is not my home, and you should ask him for his consent." He meant his father, which he could only use it as an excuse at the moment. "I'll talk to him in a minute." Hearing Brian's answer, Wendy felt bitter. But she made it easy for herself. Brian's meaning was obvious, but she pretended that she did not understand. If she wanted to win his heart back, she had to pretend fool. "By the way, it is about new year and Grandpa said you should spent new year with you parents at home since it is the first year you came back." Brian shifted the subject, but it sounded heavy. Wendy had known about it. From Felix's attitude, she had expected such a result. But for Brian's attitude, she was disappointed. "Grandpa is thoughtful. Thank him for me." Wendy said in a bitter tone. If it went on like this, her position would lose. As Brian's car drove into the courtyard, Winnie waiting in the house saw Wendy sitting in the passenger seat. She told the children a few words, put on clothes, picked up her bag and walked out. When she walked to her car,

Brian and Wendy met her when they got off the car. "What are you doing here?" Wendy's smile instantly froze and her tone was unkind, as if she was accusing that Winnie shouldn't show up here. "I brought the children here. Go inside. Rufus is waiting for you." Winnie gave a smile, but she was embarrassed, but it was covered by her soft tone and warm smile. As Winnie opened the door, Brian said to her. "Stay for dinner." Brian's tone was obviously different from that when he spoke to Wendy. "No, I'm meeting a friend for dinner."

CHAPTER 315 AWKWARD

After talking to Brian, Winnie got into the car and left. When she turned around, Wendy saw the necklace was still on Winnie's neck. Wendy got angry. It seemed that her warning did not work and she did not voluntarily return the necklace. Brian did not expect Winnie to be here. If he had known that, he would not have brought Wendy here, so that they could have a happy reunion dinner. He had regrets and blamed himself for missing a chance to get along with Winnie. Winnie felt bad too. She did not take the initiative to come, but she had to leave since Wendy was here. He brought his fiancée back. How embarrassing it would be if she didn't leave? Winnie always thought Brian was cold, but he was emotional. But now it seemed that he was rational. This morning he brought back his luggage and in the evening, he took his fiancée back. Winnie had been feeling that she was a strong woman who would not be bound by relationship, but she accidentally loved Brian and lost herself, and then she screwed up everything. It seemed that she was not rational, so she could not blame Brian. Brian took Wendy into the house. Seeing Wendy, everyone's facial expressions became stiff, especially the two children. "Daddy..." The two children rushed to hug Brian, ignoring Wendy. "Good kids." With a smile on his face, Brian stroked the children's heads. He gave a look to the children and then they greeted Wendy. "Hello, Wendy." "Hello, Wendy." The two children said hello reluctantly. "Hello, I haven't seen you for ages. I didn't know you were there. If I knew, I would have brought you a present." Wendy squatted down and wanted to be close to the two children. No matter how resisted she was in the heart, she had to pretend to be nice on the surface. "Thank you, Wendy, but we have a lot of presents, you don't need to buy one." Megan refused Wendy's gift, but she put the words euphemistic. Wendy had no excuse to be angry. "Ok, let me know when you want one." Wendy was alleviating her embarrassment. At this time Rufus walked over expressionlessly. "Here comes Wendy. Wash your hands and eat." Rufus turned and went to the kitchen. Not that he did not respect Wendy, it was what Wendy had done that made him annoyed. At the dinner table, Rufus was not happy, although it was Brian's first meal back home, because Winnie was not sitting next to Brian. It was silent and no one spoke. Wendy felt embarrassed and found a topic. "Sir, Brian has moved back, may I move in too? I can take care of you." Wendy looked at Rufus with expectation, but there was a voice of opposition. "You can't." Hearing that, Megan objected out loud. She felt that Wendy would live here if she objected too late. But when she saw all the people were looking at her, she realized that she was being rude. But she persisted in her opposition. "Wendy, think about it. Your parents are old and they need your care. Grandpa has Daddy, my aunt, my brother and me. With so many people taking care of Grandpa, You can rest assured." "Megan is reasonable. If your parents have no one to take care of them, they will be very pitiful." Luke joined the opposition, which made Wendy awkward. She forced a smile on her face. "Megan, Luke, you are right." Wendy did not continue, or it would make her more awkward. She would mention it again when the two children were absent. Megan smile happily. She did not expect that Wendy gave up soon. But she still hated Wendy, especially now. If Wendy was not here, Mommy would stay with them. "Brother, did you call Mommy? I wonder if Mommy has had dinner at this hour." Megan said deliberately. "Yes, Mommy hasn't arrived at destination yet. She must be hungry." Luke said to Megan. He did not like Wendy either, even if he spoke less. "Poor Mommy, poor us. It's been a long time we did not get together, well..." Megan groaned, showing her sadness. Wendy was not a fool and sure she could understand that, but she could not retort, so she kept silent, or she might be awkward. The atmosphere at the table was the same all the time. Rufus did not speak. Winnie had entered the city. She had told her aunt that she would have a meal in the suburbs, but now she came back, so she did not know how to explain to her aunt. At that thought, Winnie did not go home but went directly to Daenerys' home. As she entered the door, she found Oscar was there too. "I thought I am the only one who always comes here for a free meal. I didn't expect you are here, too." Winnie said jokingly. She put her bag down and went straight to the bathroom to wash her hands. The three men at the table looked at each other quizzically. "Didn't you say she was going to have dinner at the surburns? Why is she here?" Kevin asked Daenerys. "Yes, that's what she told me. How do I know she got back? Do you know that?" Daenerys turned to Oscar. "How should I know? I didn't contact her before. I don't like to cook dinner when I go home, so I came here, but I don't know she's coming." They were curious, then Winnie came out from the bathroom. "Don't guess, Wendy went to the suburbs. How can I have dinner with them? Why? Do I need ta reason to have dinner here?" Winnie did not conceal it, because she did not want them to worry about her. "Brian brought Wendy back on the first day he moved home?" Daenerys asked in surprise. "Yes." Winnie answered and went to the kitchen to take the tableware. She carried a bowl of rice back, and then sat down to eat. When she was hungry, she should fill her stomach and not let herself be affected by other boring things. "Wendy lives there too?" Kevin asked a more realistic question, which caused Winnie to stop chewing. "I'm not sure about that. Probably." "Would you like some wine?" Oscar did not ask anything about Brian because he was afraid Winnie would be upset. "No, I have an important job tomorrow. If I drink too much, I will not do a good job." Winnie refused. She did not drink every time when she was in a bad mood, because drinking too much wine could not solve the problem. No one spoke, but looked at each other for a few minutes and then began to eat. After a while Oscar broke the silence "I've been back for a long time. You said you wanted me to see the kids, but you haven't let me see them yet." "I was too busy and I have forgotten that. Luke mentioned you in the past few days." By Oscar's reminder, Winnie suddenly remembered it. She was busy at work and experienced too many upset things, so she had forgotten it. "Since you are busy, let Luke be with me, I can teach him well. When you are available, take me to see him. As long as I have time, I can teach Luke, and I can eat the food your aunt cooked." Oscar wants to help Winnie by giving her as much time as possible to rest. "I think you just want a free meal, teaching is not the main reason." Daenerys said jokingly. "Don't expose me. Are we friends or not." Oscar responded to Daenerys, perhaps saying so would make Winnie have no burden. "Well, I won't expose you. If you have the confidence to make a genius out of every child, I can cook for you every day after my baby is born." Daenerys took the opportunity to make a fuss. "If I fail, shall I spit out the food I had?" Two people said jokingly. "We are having dinner here, can you talk about something that's not disgusting. I really will throw up." Winnie stopped their indecent jokes. "I'll take you home when I'm finished work." Winnie ended the topic and began to eat in earnest. Only when she was focus on one thing, she would not think about Brian. After dinner, everyone except Daenerys began to clean up the kitchen. Then they sat together in the living room and chatted. "The baby is coming, and this is the most suffering time." Winnie said, caressing Daenerys' belly. "Yes. I feel sick in every part of my body." Daenerys looked uncomfortable. "Hold on, you will be ok after the baby is born." Even though Winnie had two children, she was envious of Daenerys and the fact that she had a husband to go through the pregnancy with her. "Winwin, don't talk about Daenerys. With Doctor Burns in charge, we don't have to worry. Can you tell me something about you?" Oscar turned the conversation to Winnie. "What do you want to know about me?" Winnie asked knowingly. She felt she had nothing to say about Brian. "Your relationship, Brian." With that, Oscar looked at Daenerys, hoping that she could persuade Winnie. "I have nothing to talk about. He has a woman, and you all know that. Why should I associate him?" Winnie took her hand on the belly of Daenerys back, and her spirit got down. "Winwin, give it a consideration. After all, Mr. Bennet said he loves you, and since you love each other and you have kids, why not give it a try?" Daenerys said. "He loves me? Did he tell you?" Winnie asked. "He told you, and we heard that." Oscar was explaining. "He told me? I don't know that."

CHAPTER 316 SHOW UP IN THE STUDIO

Winnie's eyes dodged, but she did not look up do others could not see it. "He took you to the guest bedroom the day you were drunk. You're fighting so loudly, so we heard you." Daenerys explained. "Why don't I remember? I don't think it's likely. If he did say it, he didn't mean it. He must have intention." Winnie sighed, adjusted her mood, and then looked up. "I know you're all worried about me, and I know it's going to be hard for me to get over Brian for the rest of my life. But we really can't be together." "You needn't worry about me. I can take care of myself." Winnie knew that everyone was kind and that there were only a few people in the world who were sincere to her. That was why she didn't want to see people upset about her. Even though she drank too much that night, she remembered everything Brian said, but she still didn't believe what Brian said was true. She could not believe that a man could make the woman he loved so miserable. Soon after dinner, Brian drove Wendy and the children back. In order to avoid the embarrassment of meeting Winnie, Brian sent Wendy home first and then the two children. When he came back from that, his father was still in the living room, seemingly waiting for him. Brian sat aside without saying anything. "I told Winwin to come here. I was afraid you wouldn't be used to eating alone with me for the first time, so I asked Winwin and the children to be here. Seeing Wendy was here, she was afraid Wendy would not be happy, so she found an excuse and left." Rufus said, because he knew that Brian would not communicate with him for the time being. It was good enough that Brian could sit down. Rufus continued. "I knew you had chosen Wendy when you brought Wendy here today. Since so, you should keep a distance from Winwin and don't regret it." Rufus waited in the living room for such a long time just to say these two words to Brian. He had to warn Brian not to spend his life in regret as he did. Rufus got up and went back to his room. After listening to Rufus's words, Brian felt more self-reproach. He brought Wendy back, which made Winnie leave in embarrassment. Brian went back to the room, lying on the big bed that still have fragrance of Winnie, which made him comfortable. He then picked up the mobile phone and texted Winnie. "Have you had your supper? Are you home now?" Winnie had just returned to the parking space downstairs when she received Brian's message. She stopped and turned off the car, unbuckled the seat belt, and then took the phone out. Looking at Brian's message, she was in a daze and did not reply. She could not contact Brian like this. She must adhere to her own principles, in addition to the children, she could not communicate with Brian. Even though she told herself so, she had no intention of replying, she couldn't put her phone down after reading the message. Actually, she had been having an unrealistic idea. She hoped that Brian become poor, even poorer than her, so that they could have a chance. For this unrealistic idea, she would wait for him, till she was old, till next life, and she couldn't believe that God wouldn't give them a chance. Brian had been looking at the phone and waiting for Winnie's reply, even if only to tell him whether she had a meal. But soon after, he could not help but send another message. "I have kept my promise with you and moved back to the suburbs, and you must promise me that the necklace will not be taken off." After that, he expected a reply. Looking at another message, Winnie's feeling could not be described with words. No matter what Brian said, she told herself to ignore him and just wait. Their relationship should be put off until there was a chance. Winnie resolutely put away the phone, and then walked home. Brian felt asleep while he was waiting. Time passed fast and it was weekend, Winnie was busy. At the end of year, she had to summarize the work and the game's promotional video also began to be shot. Winnie thought was nervous before the shooting, but when she was in the studio, she felt steadfast. She had no other thoughts but to concentrate on making the promo. it was Winnie's first day of shooting, Leo was worried and came to have a look, but he only stood outside the studio, afraid that Winnie would be more nervous. Secretly looking at Winnie, who worked hard, Leo involuntarily appreciated that, like looking at his lover. Emily knew that Winnie began shooting today, so she came to cheer Winnie up. From a distance, she saw Leo standing outside the studio. Emily did not call him and wanted to give him a surprise. But when Emily walked close to him, she felt upset when she saw love in Leo's eyes. That kind of lusting eyes for a woman was luxurious for Emily. They were lovers, but Emily had never seen that. Love could be seen in his eyes and it was unreachable for Emily. Was the person Leo loved Winnie? Oh, no. They were good friends. If he loved her, why waited until now? She must be overthinking. Emily comforted herself and brushed away any unwanted thoughts. She first gave an indifferent smile and then walked close to Leo. "Here you are." Emily gave Leo a playful pat on the shoulder, which really startled the hyper-focused Leo. Leo turned his head sideways and looked at Emily with a mixture of concealment and panic in his eyes. "Come and see Winnie, it is the first day of shooting, I am afraid there will be a problem. Why did you come without telling me?" Leo's voice was not as warm as before, apparently he did not expect that Emily would come. "I know Winwin shoots today, so I come to see her. She didn't know it, I am going to surprise her." Emily had uncertainty in heart spontaneously seeing dodge in Leo's eyes. "Well, I'm relieved you're here with her. I gotta go to work. Let's have lunch together." Then Leo gave Emily a kindly smile and turned to leave. No hug when they met, no goodbye when they parted, even friends were not so strange to get long. Emily suspected that Leo had no love for her. Winnie's work was going well until Emily walked in when she stopped for a rest. "Winwin, you are great. I think you're more suitable to be an actress." Emily couldn't stop praising her. "No, I have no experience at all. I'd be ashamed if the actor hadn't done it so well." Winnie was modest. No matter how well she did, she felt she didn't work hard enough. "You are good. Have faith in yourself." Emily envied Winnie very much. No matter what she did, she was so excellent. "When have you come? I didn't see you." Winnie asked Emily as she rummaged in her bag for her phone. "I have been here for a while. And I have been looking outside. I was afraid to influence you if I came in." As Emily spoke, Winnie had turned on her phone. Daenerys sent a message to calm her down and tell her to do her best. And there were a few unimportant messages. Now the only person who sent her a message was Brian. "I heard from the children that you start shooting today, don't be nervous and don't have pressure, just do your best!" It made Winnie feel bitter. What was that? The encouragement between friends or concern for the sake of the children? Winnie didn't want to see either of it. It affected her mood. Emily waited in the studio until noon, because Winnie's makeup took a long time, Leo brought the lunch to the studio, because of Winnie, the whole team had a good meal. "After the meal, you go back. You are busy, how can you company me? I can't pay back this favor." Winnie said. She didn't want everyone wasting their time on her. "I will leave soon, I gotta work this afternoon." Leo replied. He was relieved to see that all was well with Winnie. "I'm busy this afternoon too, and we can't even spend time with you even if you want us to. By the way, Daenerys says she's coming this afternoon. Let her keep you company." Emily reminded Winnie. "She can't come, I'll make a call to her." As Winnie's voice fell, Leo's assistant came in. "Mr. Johnson, Mr. Bennet wants to see you." As the assistant's voice fell, several people at the table looked up unexpectedly and only to see Brian standing at the door of the studio, giving a sense of oppression. Leo looked back at Winnie, and then put down his chopsticks and stood up. By this time, Brian had already walked in. Winnie took back her sight and continued to eat. Whether he came or not, it could not affect her. "Mr. Bennet, have you had lunch by this hour? We..." Leo greeted first. He was not sure why Brian came to him, but the reason must be related to Winnie since he came to the studio. "Yes, I have." Brian replied coolly, but his sharp eyes were fixing on the food on the table. See the food was good, he took back the line of sight, and then fell on the Winnie's face. She was wearing makeup, but he could feel her tiredness. He told her more than once not to make her work so hard, but why didn't she listen to him? "Mr. Bennet, you want to see me?" Leo felt the embarrassment between Winnie and Brian, so he spoke. "Yes, I have a new project I want to work on with Mr. Johnson." This was one of the purposes for Brian to come here. The most important thing was that he had not received any message from Winnie, and he was worried, so he took it as an excuse to come and have a look. She didn't even look up, but he was relieved to see that she was all right. "Let's talk in the office, Mr. Bennet."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 317 CHILDREN ARE EXCUSES

Leo said politely. He said to few words with Emily and then left with Brian. In the end, Brian looked back at Winnie, but Winnie always lowered her head to eat but did not look up at him. Because of the sudden appearance of Brian, Winnie's meal did not taste good. "You've got good taste. This man looks much better than he looks in the magazines. He is like an ancient emperor. I'd like him if I were you." Emily said jokingly, knowing that Winnie's mood was affected. "It is useless. He does not belong to me." Winnie was self-deprecating. She knew that Brian was a legend, admired by all women. He had a rich family, excellent ability, and handsome face. Everyone could not help loving such a perfect man. There were a lot of women who liked him, but the important thing was who he liked. Obviously Winnie was not Brian's favorite person. She could only silently admire him like other women. "In my opinion, he is more handsome than the ancient Emperor." Winnie was helpless but Emily was still joking, she did not want Winnie's mood to be depressed. From the moment Brian appeared, Emily noticed a change in Winnie's mood. Although she knew she could not be with Brian, a move of Brian could affect her mood. This was love, one-sided love. It was like Emily liked Leo. She could not feel his love, but she still liked him. "Don't think about him, you already have Leo. Leo is as good as Brian. But if you stand with me and let Brian choose, he will really choose you." Winnie had no confidence, because Brian's criteria for choosing a spouse was not the feeling of the heart, but the family background. "Really? Then I have a chance. Well, if Leo is not good to me, I will decisively leave him and go to Brian. Don't cry when the time comes." Emily laughed without scruple. She was just joking and wanted to make the atmosphere lighter, so that Winnie's mood could not be so low. Wendy had been upset since she saw Winnie yesterday. Winnie was still wearing that necklace. She did not give it back or Brian refused to take it back? But anyway, she saw it, and it was Winnie showing off to her. What should she do? She could not allow Winnie to make a scene. Wendy thought for a long time and could not come up with an idea, so she chatted in the group to relieve her depressed mood. Wendy: What are you all doing? After a while, no one answered, so Wendy sent another message. Wendy: You're all busy and I'm the only one with nothing to do. It seems I should find a job. This time someone finally replied, but she did not say a word, but a crying emoji. Wendy: What's wrong, Klara? What's going on? Wendy asked Klara with concern. Klara: I scolded Winnie on the website and Brian investigated my responsibility. Another row of crying emoji followed. Wendy: You are fired? Klara: Not really. I am transferred to branch office in A City. Let me reflect on myself. Wendy: It is bad. All your family members can't live without you. If you go to A City, what should they do? I will call Brian now, he is going too far. Klara stopped her in time. Klara: Don't. Don't. Klara: if you make this phone call, our relationship will be exposed. How should we deal with Winnie? Wendy felt it reasonable, so she gave up the idea of making a phone call. But it happened because of her, and she couldn't help blaming herself. Wendy: I'm sorry, Klara, I got you involved. Wendy: Don't worry, Klara. I will try my best to help you no matter what problems you encounter in the future. Even if you lost your job, don't be afraid. I'll take care of your family. Wendy said, she felt that she should at least do so since Klara had helped her. Klara: I won't be fired. Mr. Bennet said I could come back in a couple of months if I have a good performance. Wendy, don't worry about it. And don't mention it to Mr. Bennet. This was what Klara wanted when she said that. Brian had lost confidence in her, she had to seize Wendy's heart and let her know that all this was because of her. Klara: The culprit of these things is Winnie. If it weren't for her to complain to Brian, how could I be found out? Wendy: It must be Winnie. When it came to Winnie, Wendy was angry. Now it was Winnie had been making her trouble. Klara: By the way, Wendy, you said you saw Leo with a woman. Do you know what their relationship is? Wendy: I don't know. Do you know that? Klara: She is Leo's girlfriend, and she gets along well with Winnie. The relationship between the three of them is "special" ... Winnie prepared for a long time but took only seven days to finish the shoot. After the shooting, it came the post-production, Winnie could finally relax. In the evening she went straight to pick up her children after work, but the children asked to go to the suburbs when they got into the car. "Mommy, tomorrow is the weekend, we miss grandpa and want to go to the suburbs. We can play with Daddy and Grandpa." Megan begged, Winnie thought she had another plan. "Mommy, take us there, Grandpa can take care of us." Luke was calm and his words were easy to be trusted. "All right, I'll take you there." Winnie started the car and drove straight to the suburb. The car. "Can you come back early on Sunday, Luke? I want you to meet with Uncle Oscar." Winnie was talking to two children behind her as she drove. "Yes, you tell me the time in advance, I will ask Daddy to send me back." Luke got excited about seeing Oscar. "I want to see Daddy Oscar, too. I'm her daughter." Megan was clamoring to see Oscar. "All right, I will make an appointment with Oscar, and you come back." Winnie should make an appointment with Oscar after sending the children back. As the car drove into the villa courtyard, Winnie saw Wendy's car. She did not want to see Wendy under such circumstances. When the car parked, Winnie talked to the two children. "Wendy is here. You must be polite. Megan could not make a hard time for her, don't make her embarrassed. Even if you don't like her, try to get along with her." Hearing that, the two children nodded with consent. Then several people got off the car. "You go in. I gotta go now." "Won't you come in and say hello to Grandpa?" Luke asked Winnie. "You go in. I will say hello next time." When Winnie was talking with the children, Wendy had come out of the house and was walking towards her. "Go in." Winnie urged the children, afraid that they would hear Wendy's harsh words. "See you, Mommy!" After the two children said goodbye to their mother, they turned around and saw Wendy.

They were stunned for a moment and then said hello to Wendy. "Hello, Wendy!" After that, they ran to find grandpa. At this time, Wendy had come to the front of Winnie with a gloomy face. "Why are you here again? You know I'm here so you the children here deliberately?" No one was around and she could not be heard from her position, so she spoke freely. "I didn't mean that, and you needn't fancy it. The children come here because it is weekend. There's nothing wrong with that. I can't stop them coming, can I?" Winnie replied softly. She had forgotten the fact that Wendy was here, but even if she remembered, she had to bring the children here. "You are using the children, and they're the excuse for all your thoughts. The children can come, but you can send someone to bring them here. Why do you come?" Wendy was so angry. "Well, I'll not do it again. But watch your words. I have no any thoughts." Winnie's most hated thing was being framed. Wendy's face reminded her of Penny. "You don't have any thoughts? Why didn't you give the necklace back to Brian? Who are you to wear such an expensive necklace? You don't have thoughts, why accepted a gift values five million?" Wendy said ironically and her eyes were full of satire. "It has nothing to do with you. I keep it with my own reasons. Wendy, put your attention on Brian and don't put too much emphasis on me. I'm not as mean as you think, but I'm not as kind as you think. You'll have a bad day if you annoy me." Winnie was angry and had to warn Wendy. Wendy's unreasonable quarrel was more than once. She could bear it once, she could bear it twice, but she was not a weak, helpless creature to be ripped off. "Are you threatening me? Do you think I'm afraid? You dare to challenge me? You are a lowly person..." "If you are not afraid of me, why are you so restless and do things against me? Isn't your ultimate goal to make me disappear in Brian's life?" Winnie interrupted Wendy's words making Wendy speechless. "And I haven't got nothing, I've got two children, two Bennets, and that's enough." Winnie said sharply and turned to open the car door, but only to see Brian's car parked behind her. The car should have just stopped. Winnie looked at Brian with resentment and then quickly got in her car and started it. Winnie drove past Brian without looking at him and left. Winnie hated Brian every time she saw him under such situation. If it had not been for him, how could she have been treated so rudely, how could she have been treated as an enemy by everyone?

CHAPTER 318 SPEND TIME WITH CHILDREN

As Brian drove in, he saw two people standing there talking, and he clearly saw Wendy was staring at Winnie with hatred. When he stopped the car and was to get off, Winnie turned over. He also clearly saw Winnie looked at him with resentment. It seemed that two people were not getting along well. It seemed that someone was provoking. This person could not be Winnie. Brian came to Wendy and Wendy was panic. When she was arguing with Winnie, she was too focused to notice that Brian had come back. If she saw him, she would have ended the conversation. "You are back. Megan and Luke are here too. Go in and have a look." Wendy forced a smile but she was panic. "What were you talking about?" Brian did not move, trying to see if Wendy could tell him the truth. "Nothing, just about the children." "Come on, the children are waiting." Wendy could not tell him that they had argument, if she did, Brian would blame her. Wendy pulled Brian's arm and wanted to go in together with him, but Brian was still motionless, looking at her sharply, which made her timid. "Wendy, listen, Winnie has no motives on me. You'd better not provoke her, or you will bear the consequences yourself." Brian warned her coldly and strode forward, leaving Wendy who was nervous. Since Brian came back, the two children tried their best to occupy Brian, and Wendy could not close to Brian. After dinner, the children asked Brian to help with their homework and pulled him to their room. Despite the children's mischievousness, Brian enjoyed helping them do homework. This was an indispensable part of their growth, and it was fun for Brian to experience their growth. "Daddy, you know everything. You must have been a good student in school." Megan proudly said, as if she was the good student. "Not bad. I've never had any tutoring in my lessons. I've never been to any cram school." Brian showed off. It were not for his excellence in study, grandpa would not choose him to be the heir. "That's great, Daddy. I must learn from you. I don't want to go to extra classes except for specialty classes." Megan felt herself must inherited Daddy's excellent gene. "You are great too, Luke got several champions at young age. Daddy is better than you in this regard. Megan, I know you are not interested in this aspect, but you need to learn from brother's serious attitude. Everything is easy if you take it seriously." Brian said to his children. The more he was involved in their growth, the more he felt that this plain happiness was the most real. "I know, Daddy, although I have no interest in software, I will study hard." Unconvinced, Megan said. She did not win any championship, but she was good at school and she was just more mischievous than her brother. "Daddy, Mommy teaches me well. I wouldn't be like this if Mommy didn't come back. Mommy said I have a lot of development space and told me to learn from Uncle Oscar." Luke was low-key and calm, which was gratifying. He looked like a person who would make great achievement. But Brian mined Oscar. "Do you like Uncle Oscar?" Brian looked at the children with expectant eyes, hoping they would say no. "Yes! Uncle Oscar is great." Luke soon gave an answer. Megan, "So do I." Although he had never met Oscar, Oscar was a good friend of Mommy and he was nice to Mommy. He must be a good person. "Daddy's great, too." Brian said, but it sounded sour. "Daddy is really excellent, and even better than Uncle Oscar. But Daddy, I do not like the way you live. You have too much concern without freedom. I don't want to be like that when I grow up." Luke's words made Brian stunned. He did not expect that such a small child had such a deep understanding and knew his life tired. "What do you want to be when you grow up?" Brian asked Luke, perhaps he could learn different things from him. "I want to be free and happy. I don't need too much money, as long as it is enough for the family to live well. I will spend more time with my family, so that I can have the happiest and most relaxed life." "Daddy, you are bound by some things. You cannot give your children a complete home, you love Mommy, but you cannot be with Mommy. I think your life is too tired." Luke analyzed like an adult. Although he was young, but he analyzed it thoroughly, it seemed that he had seen through a lot of things. "Since you are tired, why promised Great Grandpa to inherit the family?" Brian's heart was sour because of what the child said. Actually, it was so simple to think of it, but to him, everything was complicated and apprehensive. "I'm sure you won't force me to take over the family business. I don't want to live like that even if I have to inherit it in some way." "Daddy, even if I must inherit the family, I will choose my love for myself." Luke was afraid to live a life like his Daddy, so he said so. Brian looked at Luke, feeling sour in heart. After being silent for a moment, he answered Luke. "Now I promise you that I will never interfere in your lives. Live at your will. I will not compel you to inherit the family business or interfere in your love." "Thank you, Daddy. That's a relief." Luke felt relieved. With Daddy's guarantee, he was not afraid of Grandpa's force. "Well, finish the homework and go to bed early." Brian did not continue the topic but got up to leave. "Brother, I will go to see if Wendy is gone. If she is not gone, we can't sleep." Megan tiptoed to go out after saying that. She walked out of the room and heard Wendy's voice coming from downstairs, so she found a hidden place to squat down. "Finished helping with homework?" "Yes." Brian answered as he descended the stairs, lifting his wrist to check the time. "I was tired of sitting down and wanted to go into your bedroom, but your bedroom door is locked. Why is the bedroom door locked at home?" Wendy asked.

She had been sitting there for a while. "Since the bedroom is locked, you can go to the guest room." Brian said lukewarm and walked to the front of Wendy. "Guest room? Am I a guest?" Wendy was sad. She got up and stood opposite Brian. "May I stay here tonight?" Wendy pulled Brian's hand and said shyly. Her meaning was obvious and Brian could hear that. Brian was now very tired of this close contact and had no interest in Wendy. As he did not know what to say, the two children ran down the stairs at the same time. Luke ran to Brian, took one of his hands. Megan came to Daddy too, but Wendy was holding the other hand, so she grabbed it from Wendy. "Daddy, why don't we sleep together tonight? Every night Mommy tells us a story before we go to bed. Mommy is not here, so Daddy, tell us a story." Megan said cleverly. "Daddy, come sleep with us." Luke begged him. "Ok, but don't laugh at me if I tell a bad story." Brian promised the two children and then looked up at Wendy. "The children are sleepy, so I will take them to bed. If you don't dare drive back by yourself, let Paul drive you back." Regardless of whether Wendy agreed, Brian directly took two children upstairs. Seeing that, Wendy's heart was cold as if there was ice inside. These two children must be Winnie's troublemakers in order to prevent her from getting close to Brian. Damn Winnie, she was so scheming. And she still said she had no ambition. Winnie asked Brian to send the two children back on the night of the weekend. In order to avoid meeting with Brian, she asked Vanessa to go downstairs to bring up the children. When the children came back, Oscar was already sitting in their living room. After the polite greeting, the two children stood next to Oscar with a smile. "Come here, my darling girl, let me take a good look at you." Oscar was excited. One was the genius he loved, and the other was his daughter, whom he had only met once. "You are growing more and more beautiful." Oscar was happy and put Megan in his arms. "If I am really beautiful, then I have inherited my father's genes." Megan was praised, so she was in good mood. "Oh, you are so sweet. I always think Luke is a genius, it seems that you are also a genius." Oscar was pleased. These two children were beyond his imagination. "Thank you for your praise, Daddy Oscar." "Good, Luke, come, let me get close to our talent." Oscar let go of Megan, stretched out his hand to pull Luke into his arms. "Luke, even if you are not the son of Winnie, or the godson of mine, I am impressed with you. You are wonderful. In all these years I had not had seen a talent like you." Oscar loved talent and he cherished a genius with such a close relationship of him. Luke was smart and calm. He knew that this child was extraordinary and he would be greater than his father. "Thank you for your praise, but compared with you, I am just a child." Luke nestled in his idol's arms with excitement.

CHAPTER 319 EMILY IS DISTRESSED

By Luke's word, Oscar felt his extraordinary. He was modest and low-key and not tsundere at all. "I like you, and I will give you software programming class." Oscar was eager to be his teacher, because it was a sense of achievement to teach a talent. "Great, thank you, Daddy Oscar, thank you! You are my most admired person, I must learn from you." Luke was excited. He seems to have been waiting for this opportunity, and today it finally realized. He was so excited and kissed on Oscar's face. Everyone laughed in surprise. The New Year was coming. Thomas was afraid that Richard might be short of something, so he bought a lot of food and sent it to him personally. He had not found anything useful for so long, and as the New Year was coming, he did not want to make a big deal out of it. It was safer to wait until after the New Year was over. When he came to the place where Richard hid, Thomas found Richard depressed. However, it was understandable. After all, it was soon the New Year and his family could not gather. It was inevitable that his mood was affected. "Are you going to stay like this?" "What can I do then? I am a man with no way out anyway. As long as I can see the retribution for Brian and Winnie, I will be satisfied." Richard said coolly. He suffered because of Brian and Winnie. "The New Year is coming, so don't think about these things for the time being. Try to figure it out after the New Year." Thomas was holding back his ambitions for the time being. "It makes it more resentful. What has become of my family? Other families are reunited, while our family is in prison and in exile. The rest of us have no good life either." Richard still worried about his family, both inside and outside the prison. He didn't dare to contact his family for so long. "Don't worry, I will send them some money in a few days. Your sons and daughters have jobs and they can earn money." Thomas contorted him. If not for more information, if not to want to reuse Richard once, he did not bother to take care of their things. "How about Penny, have you seen her these days?" Richard continued to ask. "Not in a while." "Go and see her. She must be in a bad mood." Richard's demand made Thomas disgusted. "If I always go to see her, I may be checked. She's in a special time, don't you know that? I inquired that the room where I saw her were separate, unlike the other prisoners. The police paid much attention to her because there are things they haven't found out, and you haven't been caught." Richard understood that, but he was really worried about Penny. "Before the new year, you see her once. I can find out some things after New Year and I will let you know at the first time." Richard could only tempt Thomas with this. Only in this way could he know whether Penny was good or not. "I'll try to see her in a few days." Thomas agreed, because it was not easy to find out information about Winnie. Now he more and more doubted that Winnie and Brian's relationship was not so simple. His father spoke for her many times and Luke was with her. If they had nothing to do with each other, how can she be trusted by his father? Emily was on her way to Leo's company, planning to have dinner with him when he was off work. However her face slightly changed after receiving a call, so she put down the phone and turned the car. Arriving at the bar, Emily found the person who called her. She walked into a dark corner and sat down without saying hello. "Why do you want to see me, Miss Yup?" For such a long time getting along with Daenerys and Winnie and after Winnie had got slandered, Emily had bad impression on Wendy, so she spoke in a rather stiff tone. "It is such a good environment, have a drink, no hurry." Wendy's attitude was surprisingly good. She wanted to win Emily over, so that she could have more helper. But she seemed to have made the wrong choice. "I have nothing to do with you, and it seems awkward to sit and drink together. Miss Yup, just go to the point, if you don't say it, I have no time to chat with you." Emily was disdainful, and she hated Wendy's hypocrisy. Wendy's face suddenly changed. She did not expect Emily resisted her. "Well, then, if you're in a hurry, I will tell you then." Wendy came to the point. "I heard that you are Leo's girlfriend and are on good terms with Winnie, so there is something I think you should know." Wendy intended to procrastinate, but Emily was impatient. "Can we get to the point?" "All right, get to the point. The point is simply – don't be fooled by your friends and your boyfriend." Emily's heart slammed when she heard this. "So you don't know the relationship between Winnie and Brian. Well, let me tell you something. Five years ago, when they were both abroad, they were lovers. Then something happened to separate them, but Leo does not seem to get over Winnie. That is to say, he still loves her up to now." As she spoke, Wendy watched the change in Emily's face. She thought it was a good torment. Emily's face was indeed getting worse and worse, not only her face, but also her heart was twisted together. No one had told her that, and Wendy told her so, showing that she had bad intention. But Emily felt that these words were true. Emily's heart was beating disorderly, at the moment, she could not calm down, but she could show it in face of Wendy. Emily forced to compose herself. "Is that all? Is there anything else?" "That's pretty shocking, what else do you want to know?" Wendy did not know anything more, and that was heard from Klara. "Since you have nothing to say, I gotta to. The drinks are on me." Emily got up immediately and looked back at Wendy with disdain after a few steps. "Brian's taste is too bad, why does he like a dirty person like you, who was sinister?" "You..." As Wendy was to refute angrily, Emily interrupted her. "If, as you say, Winnie and Leo had an old love affair, then I should make Winnie and Brian together. Only then can I have Leo." Emily left decisively, but Wendy got nervous. Was what Emily said true? Did she really want to make Brian and Winnie together? Her starting point was to make Winnie suffer, but now it was bad for her. Emily drove absentmindedly. She did not know where she was until she saw the sea and pulled over. She distractedly recalled what Wendy said, the more she thought about it, she felt more real. But she believed in Winnie and Leo, why no one told her that? Thinking of Leo's eyes looking at Winnie, thinking of his politeness to her, thinking of the pendant in the car, she was more annoyed. If Leo was still in love with Winnie, what should she do? Continue the relationship or break up? But she had fallen in love with Leo, could she get him over? Suddenly the phone rang and interrupted her messy thoughts. It was Leo calling, her heart fluttered. She was an outspoken person, but she could not ask questions unless she was certain about it. After thinking for a while, she picked up the phone. "Hello." Emily had tried to cover up, but her voice was depressed. But to her disappointment, Leo did not hear that. "I have been waiting for you in the company, why haven't you been here yet?" Leo's tone was warm as usual, but Emily felt it cold at the moment. "Sorry, I can't go. I don't feel well and I forgot to call you. I will see you another day." Emily was upset because of Leo's attitude to her. "You are not feeling well? Do you want to go to the hospital?" Leo asked gently, but Emily could not hear worry from his tone. "No, I will take some sleep, you can go to work." "Ok then." Leo hung up the phone and it was like a lover would do. Emily smiled ironically. If Winnie was sick, would he be so indifferent? However, Emily knew very well that Brian was the one Winnie loved. If what Wendy said was true, it was Leo's problem and it had nothing to do with Winnie, she could not blame Winnie. Winnie worked earnestly in the company, but suddenly she received a phone call from Klara, so at noon she and Klara met at the seaside. "Winnie, I am sorry." Klara was kind, and her tone and eyes looked nicer. But her apology made Winnie feel burden. "The past is the past. I don't know what you are sorry about." "You misunderstood me about what happened that night in Mr. Bennet office, Winnie, please don't take it to heart." Klara apologized sincerely, and she thought the final trigger was what happened that day. If Winnie could not see the scene, if Winnie was not angry, Brian would never let her leave the head office. "I didn't care, and you don't have to apologize. Klara, you know what happened with Mr. Bennet. We used to be together, but ever since Wendy decided to come back, we have broken off our relationship." "There may be some things that may be misunderstood, but I have never been obsessed with him. I don't care what kind of woman he liked to be with and I won't make any difference." "I want the best for him, I want the best for everyone, I have no animosity towards anyone. So don't apologize to me. I'm not angry and I'm not qualified to take care of Brian's personal affairs." Winnie said a lot, only for Klara to understand that Brian did not belong to her. And she would not fight for Brian with anyone and she did not want others to regard her as an enemy.

CHAPTER 320 EMILY BREAKS UP

Klara didn't listen to Winnie's reasons. The most important thing for her was to keep her job. "But Mr. Bennet is angry, and he had ordered me transferred to the branch office in A City. Winnie, please help me for the sake of that we worked together." Klara could be humble to Winnie, although she was resisting in heart. Winnie said she had nothing to do with Brian, but she knew only Winnie could persuade Brian and Winnie was the most important person in his heart. "Transferred you to A City?" Winnie was surprised and wondered what happened. "Yes, after the New Year, I have to work in A City, if I leave, what should my family do?" At this, she shed tears, she cared about her family. If she didn't have the family, it didn't matter where she went. But now she would not be at ease if she left. Winnie was silent. She had found out the main reason Why Klara came to her. She was not to apologize but let her intercede to Brian. What could she say? No matter Brian agreed or not, Klara's attitude to her would not change. "Winnie, please help me, I certainly won't aim at you. It was my fault. Please forgive me." Klara was anxious and hurried to apologize again. Winnie found that she was in tears, and she softened in heart. "Fine, I will try, but don't give too much hope." Winnie was not sure about the result. "Thank you, Winnie, but, Winnie, please don't tell Mr. Bennet I asked for your help, or he will be angry." Klara understood Brian and she had to remind Winnie. "Ok." Winnie agreed, but she did not know how to mention it to Brian. After what happened to Wendy, she was further away from Brian, and he had sent her many messages, but she did not reply any one of it. But she felt embarrassed to find Brian, and if Wendy knew it, it would be more awkward. Emily felt upset these days and had been thinking about how to deal with it. She should pretend she did not know anything or should ask Leo about it. If she pretended that she did not know anything, she found she was sad and even suspected that she would be sad forever. If she asked Leo about it and it was the fact, how should she get along with Leo? If she knew that he did not love her, but she still was with her, would not it be sad? After thinking for a few days, she decided to talk to Leo, even if it was to break up, it would be better than that she tortured herself. She contacted her secretary and knew when Leo was available. And then she came to his office. "Have you recovered?" Leo learned from his secretary that Emily was here. As he walked out from the break room, Emily had come in. "It's been a few days and you asked me whether I have recovered, isn't it too late? You are like a fake boyfriend." Emily was not joking, her expression and tone were serious. Leo found that Emily did not look good and she expressed her mood on face. "What happened?" Leo walked to Emily, but he kept a distance from her. Seeing that, Emily gave an ironic smile. "We always have a distance between us and you never closed the distance. I want to make it close, but you take steps back. We are just like friends." Emily said and felt her eyes sour. She did not need to prove the fact actually, seeing that Leo kept a distance with her, she knew it was truth. "Emily..." Leo did not expect to hear that. Looking at her bitter face and strange tone, he was nervous. "Well, don't waste time, I like to go to the point." "What is your relationship with Winnie?" Emily wanted to ask questions one by one. Only when everything was clear, she could leave Leo. Leo was nervous and guilty. "... "It is pointless to lie to me." Emily reminded him before Leo said anything, she did not want to be cheated twice. Seeing that Emily was sad with firm attitude, Leo knew that she had got to know anything before she came. Since that, he had nothing to hide. ... Leo asked Emily to sit down and told everything about him and Winnie to her. Hearing that, Emily felt sad about what happened to Winnie and her relationship with Leo. "So till now you still love Winnie and has no feelings for me. You want to make Winnie feel relieved, so you chose to stay with me, right?" Emily asked with a hurtful heart. She has been looking for an excuse to give up Leo. As long as Leo admitted that he still loved Winnie, she would give up immediately. Leo did not know what to say, but he could not avoid it like a coward. After a moment of silence, he admitted it. "Yes." Emily was so sad to hear that. How could he do that? How could he play with her feelings? She liked him, but he lied to her. "Was the pedant in your car from Winwin?" It seemed to be late to ask that question, but she wanted to know about it. "Yes." Emily was speechless. No wonder he cherished that pendant and it turned out to have points. She should be aware of it earlier, but she was so stupid in face of Leo. "I'm sorry, Emily. It is my bad. I should have told you." Leo could not bear it. He did not expect to be hurtful when he saw Emily was sad. Looking at her tears, he wished to beat himself. Now he used an innocent woman to make up for another woman, but how should he make up for hurting Emily? "Leo, don't say you are sorry. I want to ask you a question. How long will you lie to me if I don't ask about it?" Emily did not know why she had to continue to ask, Actually, everything was clear and they could not be together. Did she want to feel hurt more not make Leo feel guilty? "I don't know." Leo could not answer this question. Maybe he would tell it tomorrow, maybe he would never tell it as long as he loved Winnie, maybe he would get married or have children, but he really did not think when the lie would be exposed."I know, there is no time limit, that is to say, as long as Winwin think you are happy, you will always hide it."What a pithy and hurtful analysis. Since she knew Leo, this was the most thorough analysis she had, but it was the most painful.Emily took a deep breath, feeling sad and helpless."Well, there's nothing more to say. Since it's a game between us, let's end it."Emily almost broke down when she said that, but she tried all her strength to restrain herself."Winwin is single now. From this moment on, you are free. If you still love her, go after her bravely. Don't use anyone to complete your love for her."Emily said and turned to leave directly."Emily....."Leo called Emily, but Emily did not look back as if she were deaf.Back in the car, Emily finally couldn't help crying. Although she hadn't been in love for long, she knew she had paid her heart. It was so sad, and she could not endure it.She did not cry in front of Leo, because she wanted to keep her dignity, making herself look not so poor.For Klara, Winnie thought about it for a long time before she came to Brian.When she arrived at the company, Brian was in a meeting. After the secretary notified Brian, he immediately suspended the meeting and returned to the president's office.When he pushed open the door, he found Winnie sitting on the sofa in surprise.He thought that Winnie was angry and would never talk to him, and now she appeared in front of him, he could not control the excitement."Winwin..."Call me Winnie, it will be better."Winnie's cold words instantly poured Brian's enthusiasm. He thought Winnie had forgiven him, but her attitude showed that she still held resentment.Winnie stood up."Mr. Bennet, I'm here to see what you've done about Klara."Winnie could not come up with a good reason, and had no time or mood to chat with Brian. Besides their relationship was so sensitive and many people kept an eye on them, she needed to be more careful."This is an internal matter of my company and you can leave it alone."From Winnie's words, Brian understood what she was trying to do. She wanted to be kind again."Yes, but it started with me. Can you tell me how you dealt with it?"Winnie was embarrassed. She could not expose Klara but wanted to go to the point. However, it was not easy to hide from it from such a smart person as Brian."You..... I'll transfer her to branch office in A City after new year."
