Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 321 TALK ALONE

Brian wanted to say that since you had known about it, there was not necessary to ask, but since Winnie intended to conceal it, she must had her reason, so he pretended that he knew nothing. "Can you make her stay for the sake of me?" Winnie called up her courage and she knew that her dignity was nothing to Brian. "Why you interceded for her? She has no repentance at all, and she will be against you if she stays here." Brian was speechless, for Winnie's kindness and generosity. Didn't she know what hatred was? Didn't everything have a dark side on her side? "I started it, and it wouldn't have ended this way if I hadn't burst in your office that night. There are so many things and people against me that even if she leaves, it won't solve the fundamental problem." "Can you do once what I tell you?" Winnie asked Brian for helped only for a few times, but every time it was not for herself. As her words fell down, she felt uneasy, afraid that Brian did not give her face, afraid that her dignity would be again trampled. "You..." Brian could not express his feelings with words at the moment. What could he say? She never asked help from him easily. How could he refuse her? "Ok, I will do it, but if she does it again, even if she comes to you, leave it alone." Brian could not refuse, because he did not want her to be embarrassed or blame herself. "Thank you." Winnie felt relieved that she was not indebted to Klara and Brian agreed to her requirement. "Winwin, that night..." "The new year is coming..." The spoke at the same time. Brian wanted to explain and did not want Winnie to misunderstand him, and Winnie wanted to have a topic to relieve the atmosphere. Winnie once again heard that Brian called her name and felt bitter in heart. "Don't talk about it, it is over." It did not matter to Winnie and there was no need to explain. "Talk about the children, it will be New Year soon, Luke can't spend it with me and Megan will not be admitted by your family. Megan may feel upset, so talk to her when you are available." Winnie never looked back. She just wanted to move seriously into the future. The past was too dark for her to contemplate. Brian was helpless, from beginning to end Winnie did not give him a chance to explain, did not give him a chance to expiate. Did Winnie want to torture him? Brian sighed before he answered. "I will talk to Megan." "I can tell Grandpa that we can spend new year together, and you can bring your aunt and Vanessa. Brian did not want Winnie and her son to spend the new year separately, and he believed that his Grandpa would agree to his requirement. "No, thanks, I will affect the atmosphere of your family." Winnie refused it directly. She thought it was impossible, if she was there, the Bennet family would be in a bad mood. "The kids will have holidays since this weekend, they said they want to live with you in the suburbs during the holiday. I am ok with it, and if you agree, you can pick them up." Winnie said calmly. "No problem, I will pick them up in the weekend when I get off work." "Discuss it with you family, and I think Grandpa will agree. My uncle and aunt have no say. If we spend new year together, Megan would not feel upset." Brian still wanted to spend the new year with Winnie, it was a happy thing. "No, Luke will be there. My aunt and Vanessa will go back to A City, we have a relative there." Winnie had arranged it well. If they spent new year there, Megan must be sad, so she chose to leave. "Where will you and Megan spend the new year?" "My work will end at 29th December, and then I will take Megan back too. I have booked the flights." Winnie felt complex in heart. She felt sad that the kids spent the new year separately. She thought she had many ups and downs in her life and she had to bear it. "That is it, take care of Luke when the time comes." "I gotta go." Winnie had no more words to say. And if she did not leave, she would be awkward. However, as she turned around, there was knock on the door. Before Brian said anything, Wendy came in, followed by a secretary who was in panic. "I am sorry, Mr. Bennet. I have told her that you don't want to see anyone, and Miss Yup..." "Get out." Brian said coldly. He knew that she could not stop Wendy, but how did she know Winnie was there? "What are you doing there?" Wendy asked Winnie coldly. She came because she knew Winnie was here. After Klara told her, she was worried and wondered if they had close contact. Wendy was so tortured and that was the reason she said in a cold voice. "Can't you say it on the phone? Do you have to come here? Winnie, I have to suspect you." Wendy was emotional regardless that Brian was standing aside. "What is your attitude, Wendy? Is it your decision who I am talking to?" Brian said sharply. He did not care why Wendy came suddenly, but he could accept Wendy's attitude to Winnie. He had warned Wendy more than once that she should respect Winnie, but she did not take it seriously. "Brian, are you protecting her? Don't you know she loves you? Can she give up on you? She has her purpose to get close to you and you still speak for her." Wendy was unconvinced. She could accept anything but that she was scolded by Brian in face of Winnie. "So? Does she deserve to die? Can't we have contact? We have children, can't we talk about children? Wendy, if you keep mess up, we will break up." Brian's tone was cold. He could not let her hurt Winnie. Wendy stared angrily at Brian and said to Winnie, "See? He wants to break up with me because of you. How can't I not hate you?" Wendy raised her voice and rebuked Winnie. In her view, everything was because of Winnie, if not, her relationship with Brian would not be like that. "Wendy, enough." Brian strode towards Wendy and pulled her aside. "I haven't finished, why don't let me say it, do you feel distressed for her?" Wendy could not bear Brian's loud rebuke and finally cried out. "Wendy, let's talk alone." Winnie said. She felt that now the situation would be worse and worse with Brian there. She didn't do anything wrong. She didn't talk about her feelings. She only talked about Klara and her children. She didn't think it was wrong, nor did she think it was trying to seduce Brian. But all this in Wendy's view was not the same. Brian said a few words, and the scene became a battlefield. "Well, I'd like to see what you can say." "Winwin..." Brian stopped Winnie, but his tone was obviously much slower. "Mr. Bennet, this is between me and Wendy. Let us work it out." Winnie didn't know who Brian was worried about, but she promised not to make things worse. "Wendy, let's go downstairs and it's a shame to be seen here." Winnie walked out first, then Wendy taunted. "Now you know it is a shame, why didn't you come after a second thought?" Hearing this, Winnie was angry. She did not know why Wendy's quality was so low. "I'm not afraid of being humiliated. I had not highly status and I don't care about it. If you're not afraid of being humiliated, I'll open the door now and we'll talk it over." Winnie said sharply and strode away after seeing that Wendy was speechless. The two men went to the underground parking lot and got into Wendy's car together. Winnie went straight to the topic. "Wendy, can you be rational and stop making trouble out of nothing? You will make Brian farther and farther away from you. Love is to grasp, and if you grasped it well, no women could you're your man away, but now you are pushing Brian away." "I'm telling you for the last time, Mr. Bennet and I can't be together. You don't have to think about it and you don't have to criticize me arbitrarily. Today I came here to discuss where my children are going to celebrate the New Year. I didn't say anything else." Winnie did not want to quarrel, but to solve the problem and Wendy that she would not be with Brian. "Don't pretend to be nice. You like Brian and he is so excellent, how can you give up easily? Winnie, leave him as soon as possible, or I can't guarantee that I can control myself." Wendy did not believe her. "Winnie, as long as you don't seduce Brian, there will be no problem between us. Everything happened because of you. I will make you in trouble for the rest of my life if you don't leave." Wendy angrily stared at Winnie with resentment.

CHAPTER 322 LET IT BE

Winnie was speechless. No matter what she said, Wendy did not believe her. No matter what she did, she was a thorn in Wendy's eyes, so why should she live carefully? "Well, then hate me as long as you live. I have only one requirement to leave and you know it. I won't leave until this condition is met. And Wendy, listen, since you have doubt on me and hate me, I don't need to live so tiredly." "From now on, I will not refuse Brian's invitation. I will not refuse all his messages. I won't shy away from any things and I will let it happen." Winnie's was visibly angry. She had endured long enough and had lived based on thoughts of others, but she had not been recognized, why did she go against her thought? She had lived carefully, but she did not get rid of sufferings, but had been through more and more. Since then, she would not avoid anything deliberately. She wanted to live freely. Hearing that, Wendy was panic. She did not understand when Winnie meant. Would Winnie fight with her for Brian? "Winnie, I am right you like Brian, or..." As Wendy was to scold Winnie, Winnie stopped her. "So what? It is normal, everyone has someone to love. I am now single, I can even love ten men." Winnie had her purpose to say so, and it was a trap. "Bitch, I know now you are shameless. How can you say such words? Whatever, you can even mess around with twenty men, or one hundred men." Wendy stared at Winnie with disgust. She finally saw Winnie's nature, but it was unlucky that Brian did not hear that, if he did, he would know how cheap Winnie was. "Don't pretend you are innocent, dare you guarantee you only love Brian?" Winnie asked, but Wendy did not know what she was talking about. "Sure, do you think every woman is promiscuous like you?" Hearing Winnie's relaxing tone, Wendy was nervous, but she did not know what was going on. "If you are not promiscuous, why your household registration book shows you are divorced?" Winnie was like throwing a bomb, which made Wendy darkened her face. "What... what are you talking about?" Wendy's voice was trembling. Actually, Winnie was not sure about that, and she was just to take a bet. She was surprised to see Wendy's reaction. Did she really get divorced as Officer Lee said? "You know what I am talking about. Winnie was still not sure but she continued to say. "You checked on me? What did you find?" Wendy was panic and her hands were shaking. "Do you want me to continue to check?" Winnie asked and she felt real to see Wendy's expression. "You... Winnie, I warn you not talk nonsense." Wendy did not dare to continue to ask. She was afraid that Winnie knew everything. "I have never gone against you. I have known it for a long time and I have never told any one. I mentioned it because you are so arrogant and unreasonable. I want to tell you everyone has the right to love, and it is not a shameless to love. Don't think others are cheap and you are noble. Winnie said angrily to Wendy. She wanted Wendy to know that she could not go too far. Winnie took a breath and then continued. "I am serious, I will not avoid Brian and I will let it be." Winnie warmed Wendy again and told herself to be brave. She had to learn to accept the sudden change and accept the impossible destiny, so that she could have a peaceful life. Winnie felt relieved at this moment. Since so, she decided to follow her heart. After that, Winnie got off the car and left, leaving Wendy who was nervous. She had no idea why Winnie investigated her and how much she knew and if she had told Brian. She was messed in brain. Winnie's car was outside the parking lot. If she wanted to take her car, she had to be back to the first floor of the Bennet Group. As she walked out of the gate, she met Jack. "Winnie, what are you doing here?" Jack was excited. "Oh, I came to deal with something." Winnie gave a smile and she disliked Jack who was so enthusiastic. "Since then, let's grab a cup of coffee." Jack proposed. Since what happened to Winnie was clear, Jack was self-blamed. If he trusted Winnie, comforted her and solved the problem, Winnie might have thought high of him. But he had wasted the chance, and now he did not want regret again. "I have work to do and I don't have time for coffee. Take a rain check." Winnie walked downstairs, but Jack stopped her. "I won't take long." "Are you free? Why do you have time to chat here?" Brian said coldly, which made Jack scared. "Mr. Bennet, I am busy, I will go to work now." Jack said and reminded Winnie before he left. "Ask me out when you have time." After that, he left. When he passed by Brian, he did not take a look at Brian. Brian came to Winnie. With a frown and a dark face, he showed worry on face. "Did Wendy make it hard for you?" He asked. After they went downstairs, Brian did not feel at ease, so he came to the first floor. He knew Winnie would pass by, and then he saw Jack talking to Winnie. Winnie gave a smile. She told herself to be optimistic to view everyone's words. So now Brian was caring about her. "No, do you think I am easy to be bullied?" "Go back, I have work to do too. Wendy was sad, so comfort her." With that, she left. She could live as what she wanted, but she could not indulge her feeling for Brian, because she was afraid that she would be hurt. Looking at her to leave, Brian felt depressed. Wendy, who had been sitting in the car, took quite a long time to make herself more conscious. She felt that Winnie must leave. Wendy decisively got off and returned to Brian's office. Seeing Brian, Wendy's first reaction was to cry, because she was afraid. "Brian..." Wendy got into the arms of Brian and then stretched out her arms tightly around Brian. "I'm sorry I was wrong, but I'm afraid. When I see Winnie, I'm afraid." "Do you know, Brian, that it is because I love you that I am afraid of losing you? We've been waiting for each other for so many years. I don't want it to end. I don't want you to be taken away." Wendy said sobbing with tears flowing down. At this time Brian softened in heart. He reached out and stroked Wendy's head, but he didn't know how to comfort her. "Shun, I'm sorry to make you ashamed of my impetuosity." "Brian, if you want to live a happy life with me, please let Winnie leave. I will never be steady with her around. I always feel that Winnie will rob you one day." Wendy cried sadly, but Brian could not calm down. "If she leaves, what should the children do? Do you want them to become motherless children?" It was not only the children who could not accept it, but also Brian. If Winnie disappeared in his world, he would not really feel what was happiness. "I can take care of them. I will love them and raise them as if they were my own children. I can give up my own children for them. Please let Winnie go. I never want to see her again." Wendy insisted that Winnie leave, but Brian could not bear it. What should he do? "Wendy, I will not be with Winnie. Do not think too much. The children can't live without their mother. No one can take the place of their mother in their hearts." Brian could not let Winnie leave, or he would be sad. "Then let her take the children away, and I'll give you children as many as you like." Wendy once again walked impulsive nonsense. She now only cared about her sadness and injustice, but forgot that the children were important to Brian. Brian immediately pushed away Wendy, and there was anger in his eyes. "How can you have such an idea, and what are your intentions? The children are mine. Do you think I can leave them? They are the children of the Bennet family. Do you think Grandpa will accept you if you force the children away? The child you gave birth is a Bennet, and the children Winnie gave birth are not?" Brian got furious angry. He would not let his children leave, but Wendy mentioned it when he was irritable. How could he control his temper?

Wendy cried and explained. She knew she had angered Brian, but she could not take back her words. "This is for our good. I didn't mean that you have to separate with the children, as long as Winnie is far away." "Give up on it. The children can't leave me and their mother. You have a unrealistic idea." Brian said directly and did not allow anyone to refute. The children would not leave him. If Winnie wanted to leave, no one could force her. "A unrealistic idea? Brian, how can you say that? I am doing it for our happiness. Do you want to be between me and Winnie for a life time? Do you think that is good?" Wendy looked at Brian with disappointment and tears in eyes. She could not see Brian and his heart. "You do this out of selfishness. If the children are not around me or Winnie is not around me, you will be carefree and happy." "But have you ever thought about the children and Winnie? How about their happiness?" Brian was disappointed. He felt that Wendy had changed. She was now selfish and only cared about herself. "I don't care about Winnie's happiness, and neither should you. She has nothing to do with you. I am your fiancée." Wendy cried sadly, because Brian cared about Winnie. "What about children? Do children deserve to be unhappy? I'm guilty of not being able to give my children a complete home. Do you want them to never see their father? Wendy, you let me down. Now I finally see through you. You never intended to accept the children from the beginning to the end. Brian was angry and lost patience to Wendy. No matter for whom, he would not give up the children. Neither Wendy nor Winnie could deprive the children's right to have a father. "You..." "Wendy, you need to calm down and think about whether our relationship should continue. If you really can't accept the children, we should end our relationship." Brian marched toward the break room, only to hear Wendy protesting loudly in the background. "You're threatening me with that. We have been waiting for each other for years. Do you really want to let all these years of waiting come to nothing?" ... Wendy was still screaming. When the door to the break room ruthlessly closed, Wendy realized that everything was unexpected. Everything had changed. Brian changed, and she was less confident. Time really could change a lot of things, changed their hearts to love each other. As Winnie wished, Brian agreed Klara to stay, but he told Klara bluntly, now it was her observation period. If she did something wrong, even if she said a word disrespectful to Winnie, she had to leave. Such a warning made Klara have to be careful. Actually, it was easy to do that, after all, she seldom met Winnie. Klara could stay, but she had to call Winnie and thank her, otherwise Brian would know it. Now Winnie's words were more useful than Wendy's. No matter what Winnie said, Brian would never say no. This was a kind of love. Klara called Winnie after work in the evening. "Winnie, Bennet agreed to let me stay, thank you. Thank you very much." Klara said, but only she knew how much she was sincere. "It's all right. I didn't do anything. You are welcome." Winnie gently said. Since Klara could stay, what happened today was of significance. "Winnie, let's have a meal together after work, I can pick you up." Klara wanted to thank Winnie with a meal. Even if she was not sincere, she had to do it for Brian. "Thank you, Klara. I already have an appointment with a friend tonight. I haven't done anything. Don't worry about it." "I have a call in, let's chat another time." Winnie said and hung up the phone. She helped Klara of her own free will, not for thanks or a dinner. Winnie did not hold grudge against Klara, but she did not believe that Klara could change so quickly. She just hoped she wouldn't be bothered again. Winnie did make an appointment with someone, and it was Leo and Emily. When she arrived at the restaurant, Leo had arrived, but Emily had not arrived. "Where is Emily? Didn't you pick her up?" Winnie asked in confuse. At the same time, she noticed that Leo did not look good and his mood was not good, as if he had something on his mind. "She still have something to deal with. Let's eat first." Leo sighed and he could not even force a smile. "Why? Have you had a fight?" Winnie said. Nothing could make Leo depressed, except Emily. Leo bowed his head and said a word after a long time. "Yes." "Why don't you say it directly? It's normal for a couple to quarrel. You can take the initiative to apologize." Although quarrel was not good, Winnie said it with a smile, because Leo liked Emily and was sad because of Emily. "I won't say anything. After dinner, you go and apologize to her. Give her a hug and you'll be fine. Women are easy to be coaxed." Winnie did not want to get involved in their affairs, so they had the meal together. The problem should be solved by the two people, or it would be worse if she got involved. "It's all right. You don't have to worry about me. We will be fine. Order first, you're hungry." Leo pretended to be relaxed, because he feared that Winnie would worry. Actually, he was not at ease. He had never thought he would be upset that a woman he did not like left him. Winnie ordered the food then. "Why so little?" Leo asked with doubts. He wanted to order more but was stopped by Winnie. "Just the two of us, we can't finish it, don't waste the food." "Tell me, what did you do to make Emily angry?" Winnie asked without scruples, she thought it was normal to have quarrel between couples. "Nothing, you don't have to worry. I will apologize to her after dinner." "How about you? You can't be alone all your life." Leo's affair involved Winnie, and it was tantamount to exposing a lie if he told her and he and Winnie would be embarrassed. So he could not tell her. "Isn't that good? I think it's good." Winnie said. Everyone wanted to have a couple to spend the rest of life. But no one could help it if they did not have. Just let it be. "It is not good. If it is good, there will not be couples and families." Leo quickly rejected Winnie's view. "If you can't get Brian out of your mind, try to get along with him. You should prepare for the worst. You can't fall in love once and lost confidence." Leo persuaded her. He knew that Winnie could not forget Brian and that was the only reason she wanted to be single. "This is an old topic. You, Daenerys, Oscar, and Doctor Burns have said that more than once. I've got calluses on my ears." Winnie said with a smile, as if the topic had created an immune system for her. "Leo, do you think it is possible between me and Brian?" Winnie asked Leo, perhaps they would stop bothering her about the topic once they realized it was impossible. "I think it is possible. As long as you love each other, all difficulties can be overcome." Leo thought so. "After the difficulties are overcome, I will start to live a daily life. When the time comes, conflicts constantly arise due to the gap between status and money. How should I solve them?" Winnie thought a lot. Even if she were brave enough to pursue Brian, she could not guarantee happiness in the future. Although there were children, children were not omnipotent. And it would be useless. And the most important thing was that Brian didn't love her. What could be the result of her love? "Winwin, you are overthinking. That is the things after the marriage. If you love each other, and it is not a big deal." "Winwin, you don't want to stay with Brian because of the difference in status?" Leo did not agree with Winnie's view. Even if she matched to the Bennet family, they would have the family contradictions too. Winnie was pessimistic. It was not her fault. Maybe it had something to do with what she had been through over the years. "There is connection. But the biggest problem is that he doesn't like me. There is no love." Winnie said with a sigh. "You know, Leo, I feel very unlucky. I did everything with great care, but in the end I got into trouble." "I went to see Brian in the morning. I called Albert in advance to confirm that Wendy was not here, for fear that Wendy would misunderstand me. I talked with Brian in such a hurry that I didn't dare to say one more word. I wanted to finish talking about it as soon as possible and leave as soon as possible, but Wendy still saw me." "I'm unlucky, what's the point of being so careful?" "Did she bother you again?" Leo was worried.

CHAPTER 324 LEO'S RELUCTANCE

Hearing that, Winnie gave a bitter smile. "Yes, she made a scene in Brian's office. I was afraid that he felt awkward, I asked Wendy for a private talk." "She was even more brazen when we were alone. However, I don't care. Through this incident, I will not consider anyone's feelings or deliberately avoid anything in the future. No matter what I do, I'm a thorn in the eyes of others. I'd better make myself feel better." Winnie thought so and intended to do so. Now she knew that everything was predestined and there was something she could not avoid. "It is right. Be who you are. Be what you want to be. Stay away from people you hate and fight for things you like." "You've suffered enough for all these years. Even if there's going to be more suffering, at least you are comfortable for now." Leo agreed with Winnie. No one wanted to live cautiously, or she would be tired and it was not necessarily to help others. "At last there's something you agree with me about. It's not easy. Rest assured that I will be good to myself." Winnie smiled softly. Although there were too many unknowns in the future, at least for the moment she felt at ease. That was enough. After dinner, Winnie drove away. Leo sat in the car in a depressed mood, thinking of Emily. It was his fault, even if they had broken up, he should sincerely apologize to Emily. Sooner or later Winnie would know about it. He was afraid that she would have a burden. Leo had chagrin. In addition to apologize and explain, he felt reluctant to let Emily go. He explained to himself that they had been together for such a long time, although he did not love her, and Emily's personality was perfect. That was the reason why he felt upset. Leo told himself that it was better to apologize than in regret. He could not let Emily be sad alone. Leo drove straight to Emily's house. When he arrived, he found her parents were in low spirit. Leo knew Emily had told her parents about it. After talking to them and asking their permission, Leo stepped into Emily's room for the first time. When he pushed open the door of the room, he found Emily lying on the bed with her back to Leo. Emily, who heard the sound, thought it was her mother and then listlessly uttered. "Mom, I am not hungry. I will eat when I am hungry." Emily's voice was obviously hoarse, and Leo had never seen Emily look so depressed. "It's me." Leo spoke in a gentle voice. Emily was stunned for a moment when she heard his voice, and then she got up and looked at Leo. "What are you doing here?" "I am worried about you, so I come and have a look." Leo said and went to the bed and sat down facing Emily. Emily gave a bitter smile. A man who had never cared about her said he was worried. Should she believe it or laugh it off as a joke? "I'm pretty good and you don't have to worry about it. It's no big deal, it is just break up." She said, but her heart was weak. She said she was ok, but she felt sad. Even so, Emily could do nothing about it, because the man did not love her and was using her all the time. "Emily, I'm sorry. I was wrong. I shouldn't have concealed you. I'm sorry." Leo was guilty and apologized. "I don't blame you. I didn't see it. I was so stupid that I didn't even notice it since you always kept your distance." She trusted Leo and had never expected that Leo would do that. She did not expect to be a victim of his attempts to appease other women. "Don't say that. The more you say that, the more sorry I am." Leo lowered his head and did not dare to look up at Emily. He was the one who had made all the mistakes. He did make Winnie feel at ease, but he broke another Emily's heart. "Then what do you want me to say? Why do you come to me? Say you're sorry? I heard it and you can leave." Emily said angrily. She did not cry, but quietly broke up, wasn't that enough? She now did not want to see Leo. Leo bowed his head and did not get up to leave. He wanted to explain, wanted to sincerely apologize but these words were so insignificant at the moment. They could not make up for Emily's hurt heart. Seeing Leo didn't say a word, Emily knew that he didn't come back just to apologize. Emily was silent for a while. "Do you still want me to continue to help you, because you are afraid that Winwin would be worried if she finds out the truth?" "No, no, I came here to apologize." Leo denied. How could he ask Emily for help now? "Don't be so quick to deny it. It is ok. I'll help you for Winwin. But our relationship has to end, and I will help you as a friend." "We went on blind dates and our parents knew about our relationship. I already told my parents. I told them we were going to break up because we didn't get along well. Tell your parents by yourself." "Now that we have broken up, I'll help you if you really need help." Emily could not see through Leo, she just needed to take care of herself. "You can leave, I accept your apology..." Emily once again asked Leo to leave, but before she finished speaking, Leo suddenly hugged her. "I'm sorry. I'm really sorry. Can we not break up and start over?" Leo embraced Emily vigorously. When Emily said their relationship came to an end, he suddenly felt a strong sense of loss, as if he had lost precious treasure. Emily was hugged by Brian, but she felt it ridiculous. They had been together for so long and they had held hands only for a few times. She had been expecting to have a hug. Not they broke up, he gave her a hug. Emily came to her senses and pushed Leo away. "You have someone you like, why should I start over with you? I am not disabled nor ugly as hell, why should I have such a humble love?" "Leo, if you need to me to act, I can cooperate with you. But we are over and I have to go on to another blind date." Emily got out of bed. She continued, enduring her bad mood. "Go back, I want to have dinner, and then I will go out with my friends." She asked Leo several times to leave, but he did not leave, Emily could only avoid him. She went directly to the bathroom. Leaning against the bathroom door, Emily's tears silently flowed down. She had never been hurt in love, never expected to be treated like this. She had always thought that love was beautiful and pleasant. But now it seemed to be bitter and sad. She did not want to start over, even if she loved Leo, she would not start over. She did not want to be a substitute for others all her life. Love was abstract, but everyone was troubled by it. Emily was hurt by love, Winnie was trapped in unrequited love and could not move on, Wendy was depressed, because she was afraid of her man would be snatched away. After the quarrel, Wendy had not contacted Brian, and Brian did not contact her. Wendy felt that she could not wait in this way. She had to do something. She still had to please Grandpa. Wendy took action immediately and drove to the old house. Only grandpa was at home alone. Wendy felt much more convenient. "What are you doing?" Felix's tone was cold, mixed with boredom. "Report work to you." Wendy pretended to be ebullient. "Report work?" Felix was confused. Did he tell Wendy what to do? Had he forgotten it? "Grandpa, it looks like you have forgotten it. It doesn't matter, I remember. Besides, I've finished the work you gave me, so I'm here to take the credit." Wendy sat down next to Felix, but Felix was confused. "Cut the crap. I'll be out in a minute." Felix lost his patience. "Ok." Seeing that Felix was serious, Wendy continued. "Brian had moved back to the suburbs. Although it was awkward for him to get along with his father, I told him to try to get along well with his father, and ..." "Wait a minute." Felix interrupted her indifferently. "Do you mean it is your credit that Brian's return to the suburbs?" "Of course, this is your task to me. I advised him to go back and I have successfully completed the task. That is why I am here." Wendy was sure about that. She felt that Brian back is because she mentioned a few times, this is her credit no doubt. "Can you tell me how you persuaded Brian?" Hearing that, Felix was not surprised, on the contrary, he was cold, making Wendy nervous. "I...I just told him over and over again to make up with his father. Maybe I said a lot, so he changed his mind and went back." Wendy was timid and did not understand why Felix was indifferent. "Did he tell you that he was going back before he did?" Felix continued to ask coldly, which made Wendy panic. "No, but he told me when he picked me up that night. You don't believe that Brian had come home? I'm not kidding you. If you don't believe me, you can call Rufus." Wendy thought that Felix had not known about it, so he had doubt. "How could I not have known about it? I have known it before you."

CHAPTER 325 NOT COMPARABLE

Felix took back his cold line of sight, but his voice was still sharp. Then Felix suddenly became angry and banged the table hard. "Wendy, I don't even know what to say to you. What have you ever done and you dare to take credit?" He was once again disappointed at Wendy. Even if she had a good family background, she did not deserve to be Brian's wife. "You went abroad for four years, what you have learnt? You got nothing!" Felix was angrily looking at Wendy who was in daze. He had made it clear and she did not understand it. "Wendy, break up with Brian. You don't deserve to marry into the Bennet family. You even have no basic morals, how can you be Brian's woman? How can you educate my descendants?" Felix stared at Wendy angrily and then walked to the door. Just then Butler Lowe came in. "Chairman, the car is ready, we can go now." They gradually disappeared in the line of sight of Wendy. At this time, Wendy was still stunned. She kept asking herself what was wrong and what she had said that had angered Felix. Was he serious about asking her to leave Brian? Why? Wendy wanted to cry. Felix put the words vaguely, and she did not know what she had done wrong. She tried to please Felix, but it became worse. Felix did make an appointment to see Winnie. Looking at Winnie sitting on his opposite, thinking of the dirty behavior Wendy did, Felix finally understood a saying, "If there is no contrast, there is no harm." "You seem to have something on your mind, Chairman. If you don't feel well, we can meet another day." Winnie said in a warm voice. Felix was usually super serious, but today he was gloomy since he came into the teahouse. Winnie guessed there must be something happening. Felix sighed before he said anything. "I am not in a good mood, but it has nothing to do with you." Then Felix calmed down. "Winnie, I asked you out today because I wanted to thank you. Brian came home because of your contribution. I thank you for continuing to perform the contract even if it had been canceled." Felix thanked a few people in his life, but since Winnie showed up, he had been saying it more and more. He did not know if he was old and got emotional, or if Winnie had done something worth being thanked. "Chairman, I did not do anything, you don't have to thank me. If everybody is happy because he is back, that is enough." Winnie was modest and sensible. Winnie's words reminded Felix of Wendy. One was to take credit for someone else's work, the other was to do something worthy of gratitude but quietly denied it. Their characters could be seen. Winnie paused for a moment before she continued. "Chairman, actually I want to see you too. I've been thinking about it for days and I don't know how to say it. It is improper I mention it, because I feel swanking." Winnie whispered, and then took off the necklace and held it in hand. "I haven't had a birthday present since my parents died. Mr. Bennet gave it to me some time ago. When I asked him how much it was, he said a thousand. I thought it was a small sum, so I accept it." Winnie took a breath and continued. "I was with him and everyone said I was for the money, so I avoided such topic as much as possible. This necklace is the only thing I have accepted from the moment we met." "But I didn't realize that the necklace is worth more than five million. That amount of money was pressure and burden on me." Winnie said while looking at the necklace in her hand. "When I knew it is worth more than 5 million, I went straight to Mr. Bennet and gave it back to him without hesitation. But he said if I took the necklace, he would move back to the suburbs to live with his father, so I took it back." "I'm sorry, Chairman. I must have let you down." Winnie said and gave the necklace to Felix. "Chairman, this is why I wanted to see you. Now that he is home, the necklace is meaningless. It's too expensive for me to accept it. Please keep it for him." Winnie gave the necklace to Felix with reluctance, not for five million yuan, but for Brian and the special meaning of the necklace. Felix had been listening carefully. He finally knew the reason why Brian got home and felt Winnie's honesty. He did not understand how Winnie knew the true value of the necklace since Brian had concealed it. Felix did not speak, but looked at the delicate necklace in silence. He could see that Winnie loved the necklace very much. "How do you know this necklace is worth more than five million?" Felix asked in a low voice, while Winnie was hesitant. "I looked it up on the Internet." She answered without confidence and Felix sensed something wrong. "If I'm not wrong, it's a customized version. You can't find the customized version on the Internet. The craftsman should protect the privacy of the buyer and not display it casually." "Who told you that?" Felix had been contacting with Winnie for a long time, and he knew her well. She was lying, but he knew it was a white lie. "Never mind, it doesn't matter who said it. The key is that it's too expensive for me to accept. Chairman, please give it back to him until his relationship with his father stabilizes." Winnie could not say who told her, or she was like mean and scheming, and she would have nothing different from Penny. To avoid Felix to continue to ask, Winnie changed the topic. "Chairman, I have prepared what you want, call me when you are convenient, I will help you." Winnie thought Felix would not continue to ask since she had changed the topic, but Felix's insisted. "Wendy told you?" Felix's face was gloomy. He guessed it was Wendy, because others would not intervene in it. It was not a problem for Brian to win a woman's heart with fifty million, let alone five million. The problem was jealousy, but it was only Wendy who was jealous. "Chairman..." Winnie tried to deny it, but Felix interrupted her. "Stop it. You're not good at lying." Winnie's eyes had already exposed the fact and Felix needed not to ask again. He got up and looked at Winnie, who was still calm. "If you don't wear this necklace, Brian will move out of the suburbs. He gave it to you. If you want to give it back to him, you should give it back face to face with him. I have no right to take it back." With that, Felix left. On the way back to the old house, Felix had been silent, but always could not help sighing. "What is wrong, Chairman?" Butler Lowe asked Felix as he drove. "Butler Lowe, what do you think of Winnie?" Felix asked Butler Lowe in a low voice. "Well, I like her. She was sincere, competent and kind, self-motivated and self-respecting. And I think she really liked Mr. Bennet." Butler Lowe explained his views on Winnie. "What about Wendy?" Felix continued to ask. "Well....." Butler Lowe did not know what to say, after all, she was Brian's future wife. If he said something wrong, it would anger Felix. "Go ahead." Felix said, he knew Butler Lowe's concerns. "Compared to Winnie...it is not comparable. I don't think she's as good in any way as Winnie." Butler Lowe could only say so. Winnie was better in many regards, but he could only sum up in a sentence. Butler Lowe took a look in the rearview mirror of Felix, seeing that he had no reaction, he continued. "Chairman, Winnie is malleable. If she is trained well, she will be great." Butler Lowe said with euphemism. Actually he felt that Winnie was unyielding. Even if there was no one to train her, even if she had been growing in troubles, she could become a great person. "I know that... It's a pity." Felix had the same thought as Stella. It was a pity that she did not have a good family background and she had a child, or she would be the best candidate for Brian. "Butler Lowe, arrange Brian with blind date, Wendy is the last choice." Felix commanded decisively, which made Butler Lowe stunned. "Does Mr. Bennet agree?" "It's not up to him, I can make him agree. You just need to arrange it." Felix had lost confidence on Wendy. He could not let such an ignorant woman marry Brian, or she would affect the reputation of Brian for a lifetime. Thomas did not want to go to the prison to see Penny, but he still went to see her in the end. In the same room, the police were guarding there. Thomas had no chance of saying what he wanted to say, so he came in hesitant. "Sir." Penny was very happy to see Thomas, after all, it was the New Year and Thomas was the only one to see her. "I am here to see you." Thomas inadvertently said. "I knew you will be here. Thank you, Sir." Said Penny, sitting down with a smile. "You're welcome. I should come to see you." Thomas felt that every time he came in vain. There were too many police and monitoring, and he could not even pass a note. If Richard hadn't asked him to come, he wouldn't have been there.

CHAPTER 326 THE STRANGE PENNY

Before Thomas could finish his words, Penny spoke. "Sir, I heard from the police a few days ago that Winnie was slandered online, do you know that?" Since the day she heard about it, she had been excited. And now she wanted to verify it from Thomas. As Thomas heard Winnie's name, he was in high spirits. "Yes, the new spread everywhere, sure I know it." "It was said that her private life was indiscreet and she messed around with several men at the same time. I don't know if it's true or not, but she was scolded miserably." Thomas said with interest, which made Penny more excited. "It is true. She deserved to be scolded. While she was with Brian, she still has an affair with Leo. And she could have other men. She was not a good person, but Brian is blind to be with her." Penny said gladly. She had not been so happy since she was sent to prison. She knew that Winnie would be punished sooner or later. "You're right, there were three guys on the site at the same time. I heard that one is Brian, one is Leo, and the other seems to be her ex-husband, but it is hearsay." Thomas was more and more interested in it, and the police would not have suspect. "Ex-husband? What ex-husband, it's just formality. She temporarily registered with a man in order to register her child's household, but she divorced after the household was registered." Penny knew it, but she did not know who Winnie's ex-husband was. She felt that saying so would not have an impact. "What does it mean? Her ex-husband is not the father of her child? Thomas felt this information valuable. If the child's father was not Oscar, who was the father? "It is....." She uttered a word and paused. If she said that, this man might spread it. If it reached Felix's ears, Winnie would become the hostess of the Bennet family. "I don't know who the father is, but it's definitely not her ex-husband's." "By the way, Sir, do you know who her ex-husband is?" Penny asked casually. "It's called...Oscar, yes, Oscar." Thomas answered, but he kept paying attention to Penny's expression. When it came to the child's father, Penny hesitated visibly, which proved that she knew the father. It seemed that she had Richard knew a lot of things, but they had not told him. When she heard the name Oscar, Penny was stunned. She did not expect that it was Oscar. She did not expect that Oscar would have a fake marriage for Winnie. "Why... Do you know Oscar?" Thomas always paid attention to Penny's expression, so it was not difficult for him to see she was shock. "Yes, he is a classmate of Winnie." The two men continued their conversation, but Penny suddenly refrained from discussing sensitive topics. Two people were inside talking but someone was waiting outside. Oscar wanted to see Penny before he went back to spend new year with his parents in his hometown. When he arrived, he found that someone was meeting her. He could only wait outside until the first man came out. After a while, the police came out to inform Oscar. As Oscar talked to the police, Oscar saw Thomas walking out. Oscar did not know Thomas, but he was curious who came to see Penny. He asked the policeman. "Did this man come to see Penny?" The police looked at Oscar warily, and then in the direction he was pointing to. "Yes, you know him?" The police asked Oscar. "No, I've never seen him." Oscar really did not know him, but judging from the age of this man, he should be her father's friend. Oscar thanked the police and hurried to go into the room. Seeing Penny had a dignified face, it seemed they had talked about unhappy topic. "What happened? You are not glad to see me?" Oscar said jokingly, trying to liven up the atmosphere. "No, I am happy. Did you see that man who just went out?" She had a lot to say to Oscar. She was very happy that Oscar came to see her, but there was something urgent. "Yes, an old man." Oscar did not understand why Penny asked. "Do you know who he is?" Winnie asked anxiously, she wanted to know who he was. "He came to see you and you don't know who he is?" Oscar was confused and had no idea what was going on. "He came several times. He did not say who he is and I did not see him before." Penny was disappointed that Oscar did not know him. "I'll check it out and I'll tell you next time I come." It was weird, but Penny did not look like she was lying. Oscar could only promise to help inquire. "How have you been doing? I was busy, so I had no time to come to see you. I have brought you a lot of things, and they will give them to you soon." Oscar went on talking. "Eat more and think less. It's the best." Oscar advised Penny. "I know, you don't have to worry about me. It's just that six years is a long time. I don't know if I'm going to make it." Penny felt tired, after seeing Oscar, she was eager to be out of prison. "It's not a problem commute your sentence if you behave well. It won't take six years. Time is fast. Don't worry." "Oscar, did you help with Megan's household?" Penny casually asked. "Yes, I registered marriage with Winwin and then dealt with the child's residence. Why?" Today Penny was different, asking questions that made him confused. "Nothing, a few days ago I heard that someone scolded her on the Internet, and it reminded me of the child. Did you know at that time that the father is Brian?" Penny had no scruple against Oscar, because Winnie would not hide things from Oscar. If she guessed right, Oscar should have known the child's father was Brian. "I didn't. Winwin told me when I was back. But those on the Internet are not true." Oscar felt it necessary to clarify for Winnie, after all, that was slander. "Who has she offended? Who would slander her for no reason?" Hearing Oscar's explanation, Penny felt bitter and her voice became cold. "Brian's fiancée, Wendy, had a problem with Winwin and deliberately slandered Winwin. She had been found out and had made a public apology." The name of Wendy appeared again in the ear of Penny inadvertently. She first heard the name from Winnie, but she had never met Wendy. Oscar said she was Brian's fiancée, so what Winnie said before was true. But that Winnie liked Brian and Brian also liked Winnie was an indisputable fact. She posed a threat to Wendy, otherwise how could Wendy slander her without any reason? "Brian is really fast. When will they get married?" Penny asked bitterly. If nothing had happened, she was Mrs. Bennet. Either Wendy or Winnie could contend with her. "They were going to get married before, but two children objected, so the wedding was postponed indefinitely. Whether they can get married or not, it depends on when the two children accept the fact." Oscar told Penny what he knew, but the news was a surprise to Penny. Winnie was behind the children. If she could see Wendy, she would teach Wendy how to deal with Winnie. "Winnie... Forget about her. Tell me about you." ... Penny wanted to comment, but she knew Oscar would be on Winnie's side. Whatever she said, it would only make him angry. The children finally had a holiday. Brian was not available, so Rufus came to pick up the two children. When he arrived, Rufus did not go upstairs. Instead, Isobel took the two children down. Since Isobel came back, it was the third time they met. Isobel was reluctant but she had no other choice. Everyone was absent today, only she could send the child down. "Grandpa..." "Grandpa..." The two children saw Rufus and ran into Rufus's arms. "Good." At this moment, Isobel came, but stopped at a certain distance. "Take them home. There's influenza these two days. Be careful." Isobel said and turned around, Rufus hurriedly stopped her. "Isobel....." He let go of the two children, and asked them get in the car first with Paul. Rufus went to Isobel. "Spent New Year here, take the children, Winwin and Vanessa to my home, so that the children feel better." Rufus said gently, but his mood was complex. "No, it's a bother to you. We've communicated about it and we'll be fine." Isobel walked on, thinking there was no need to get involved with the Bennet family, for it was better for them to stay away from each other, even though they had already been inseparable from each other. They, the poor people, could not afford to stand with the people at the top of the pyramid. However, Rufus did not give up, he again stopped Isobel. "We'll pretend we don't know each other, so the children won't see it. Think for the children." Rufus was sincere. He wanted Isobel to spend new year in suburb with the children. It might be the only chance in a lifetime for a family reunion.

CHAPTER 327 MEETS AGAIN IN THE CEMETERY

Isobel felt Rufus's words not realistic at all. "I'm doing this for the sake of the kids. I'm afraid I'll be found out one day. Besides, Brian and Stella both know me. We can't pretend we don't know each other." "Go back, it is just a New Year, the children have another chance to be together." Isobel's attitude was firm. With that, she bypassed Rufus to leave directly. Rufus thought simply. Although more than 20 years had passed, although she was old and her appearance had changed, but she was always so clear in the hearts of Brian and Stella. They could not forget the person who caused their mother's death. In the next morning after the children went to the suburbs, Isobel took Vanessa to A City. Winnie went straight to the cemetery on her way back from the airport. Holding a bunch of flowers in her hands, Winnie was at ease when she looked at her parents' smiling faces. Although she didn't have anything particularly sad this time, she still felt sad when she could not spend festival with her parents. "Dad and Mom, the new year is coming soon, be happy in heaven. The family is good recently, and it will be better and better in the future, don't worry about us." With that, Winnie put the flowers next to the tombstone, and then continued to chat with her parents. "Your two grandkids are very obedient, and Vanessa is the pride of you. She ranks first in this exam in school. You don't have to worry. She'll find the best job in the future." "My aunt is healthy. She said she must take good care of herself, so that she can help me with the children and not cause troubles." Speaking of this, Winnie gave a warm smile. "Fortunately, I have family with me. My aunt, Vanessa and the children are the power of my survival. I will take good care of myself for them. Mom and Dad....." However, Winnie suddenly heard Brian's deep voice. She looked over and saw Brian coming towards her. "I'll see you next time, Mom, Dad." Winnie said and walked toward Brian. She didn't want her parents to see Brian. Seeing the person who bullied their daughter, her parents would hate him. Just a few tombstones away, Brian walked up to Winnie's parents, and Winnie was already in front of him. "What are you doing here? What destiny is it? Why do we always meet in the cemetery?" Winnie was teasing feebly, perhaps this was the fate hinting at them, only after death they could be together. Although it is her imagination, such a thought made her sad. "I came to see my mother." As he said this, he looked at the tombstone with flowers on it. Unfortunately, the photos and words on the tombstone were blocked by flowers, and she couldn't see anything. "I also came to see my parents, I am now going back." Winnie bypassed Brian to walk away, but Brian closely followed Winnie. "So am I. Let's go." "The children are good, you don't have to worry." Brian found a topic. He knew Winnie would not avoid such topic. "Good, don't spoil them." Winnie said but did not stop her pace. "Has Vanessa gone to A City?" Brian constantly looked for a topic, just wanting to talk with Winnie, even if it was irrelevant, Brian wanted to say a few words. "Yes. I just got here after taking them to the airport." Winnie said and quickened her pace. Although she wanted to let it be, but in the face of Brian, her heart was restless. She was afraid that she could not do it. "Winwin, can you and Megan stay?" Brian also quickened his pace, overtaking Winnie in the parking lot and blocking her path. "Let's have a chat. Grandpa won't allow Wendy to go our home in the New Year. I'll tell Grandpa, he'll agree with you and Megan to celebrate the New Year together." Brian was anxious. He was afraid Winnie left again. He wanted Winnie to stay and celebrate the New Year with them, which was a rare opportunity for him. After the marriage with Wendy, there would be no such a possibility. This topic made Winnie sad. She lifted her eyes looking at Brian. "The New Year is a time for families to get together and relax, and your family will feel constrained because I'm an outsider. Besides, it's impossible that Wendy doesn't know I am coming to your home. It will make her angry again.” “Never mind, I have booked the air ticket and will take Megan back in a few days.” Winnie stood still. She raised her head and looked at Brian again. “Mr. Bennet, I think I’ve said more than once that I won’t let you call me Winwin. Why haven’t you noticed?” Winnie did not know what she was entangled, why she was so persistent? Every time Brian called her Winwin, her heart was beating disorderly, while every time he called her Winnie, her heart froze. “I like calling you like that. I’m used to it. You can remind me, but I will not change it.” “Winwin, I know I have ignored your feelings, I would like to say sorry to you again for Wendy slandered you and Klara hugged me.” “Don’t be angry and don’t keep distance with me. If you don’t forgive me, I have been thinking about it and I can’t calm down when I am at work. For that I can feel at ease, can you forgive me?” Brian had been tortured exhaustedly, but he knew that if was not Winnie torturing him, but himself. He could not get over Winnie, but he could not be with her, this feeling was perhaps the most painful. Winnie gazed at Brian who was sad and felt distressed. She told herself to believe it once that all his troubles were because of her, because he cared about her. “I don’t blame you, and I don’t hate you. As long as you can be happy, I don’t love you in vain. From now on you can call me whatever you want. I won’t restrain you anymore.” “Go back and...” Before she could finish, she was stopped by Brian’s sudden embrace. “I’m sorry I can’t give you anything. I’m really sorry.” Brian hated himself. Every time he heard Winnie said she loved him, he felt he was a heinous bastard. He only hurt Winnie and brought her no happiness, there was no way to make up for. He told himself to let go of Winnie and stay away from Winnie, so that she might have happiness, but every time he thought of it, his heart was very painful. He was selfish, and his selfishness hurt the woman he loved most. “Don’t say that. I’ll be serious if you do. I’ll think you love me, too.” “Don’t say you’re sorry. These words make me feel like my love is burden for you. I dare not even say I love you again.” “Be sensible. It will be harder for you if I was desperate.” Winnie didn’t refuse Brian’s hug. Instead, she patted Brian’s back and said what she wanted to say in a gentle voice, as if she was comforting Brian and reminding herself. She reminded herself to be sober that the hug now was not real. If it was real, she would pursue it, even if her heart would be broken into pieces, even if Brian did not love her. Brian let Winnie go and his eyes were sometimes soft and sometimes firm. “If I am desperate, will you cooperate with me? Will you believe me if I say I love you?” Brian had a desperate impulse, regardless of everyone, as long as they were happiness. Winnie stared at Brian and did not understand why he said so. She was not sure it was true or false. She was flustered and didn’t know how to answer the question. So she could only run away quickly, away from the crazy man. Winnie said she would let it be, why at this juncture she escaped? If a man was not rational, it was really like the roaring lion. Brian watched Winnie leave and did not go after her, or he would not control his emotions. He had always been cold and calm, but every time he saw Winnie, he had a kind of inexplicable impulse. But there was too much helplessness after he calmed down. After his mother died, he became independent. There was nothing that could catch him. No matter how difficult things were, he would try his best to solve the problems. But meeting Winnie, that all-powerful and omnipotent Brian had no more way to solve. Winnie was busy, but took time to reunite with friends, after all, the New Year is coming. The first person Winnie called was Leo. Because no matter how busy he was, he would come and meet her. “Are you free tomorrow night? Let’s go to Daenerys’ home.” “Ok. You get ready.” Leo agreed with Winnie’s request. Even if he was not available, he would make it. But when Winnie called, he was thinking of Emily. After leaving Emily’s home that day, Leo called Emily several times, but she did not answer. When he could not the voice of Emily or see her, Leo was panic. “And take Emily. Will you contact her or shall I contact her?” How could Winnie forget Emily? They couldn’t be happy without her. “I’ll do it.” Leo put down the phone, but he felt difficult. Emily did not answer his phone, how he contacted her, but since he had promised Winnie, he could not let her down. Even if Emily did not answer the phone, he must find Emily. Afterward, Leo came to Emily's home. He knew that he was not qualified to find Emily at the moment, but he wanted to take this opportunity to talk with Emily. Standing at the door of Emily's house, Leo hesitated, not afraid of meeting Emily but her parents, because he did not know how to explain to them.

CHAPTER 328 PENNY

As Leo hesitated, Emily's cold and cheerless voice was heard. "What are you doing here?" When Emily stayed at home, she had random thoughts, so she hung out with friends. After a tired day, she came back to her house only to find Leo standing there. At this moment, she felt depressed again. "I have something to tell you." Leo was honest this time. He did not dare to say he was worried and depressed. "Is it about Winwin?" Emily was right, and it could only be related to Winnie. "Yes, I didn't tell anyone about us, not even my parents. Winwin called this afternoon and wanted to get together. Tomorrow night at Daenerys'. She told me to take you there." Leo looked up and down at Emily. Although she wore makeup, she still looked pale. Although she was in loose and casual clothes, she still looked thinner. It seemed that she was not so free and easy as she said. Looking at such a listless Emily, Leo blamed himself. "It is your business, but I will be there, for Winwin. I'll drive there myself tomorrow night." Emily did not want to listen to Leo, or she would have wild thoughts. She knew that Leo would not tell Winnie that they had broken up, because he liked her. If he wanted her to feel at ease, he must conceal the fact. Emily then walked towards the door of her villa. She stretched out her hand to push the door but stopped in mid-air. She said without turning around or looking at Leo. "Don't call me again. If it is related to Winwin, just text me. I will do what I have promised you." Then she pushed open the door. "Emily, give me some time, I want to talk with you." Leo hurried to stop Emily. "I don't think there's anything to talk about. See you tomorrow night." Emily finally did not give Leo a chance. She thought she was good enough to help conceal the fact from Winnie. For Leo, she had nothing to talk about. Because Daenerys was about to give birth, she was inconvenient to go out, Winnie chose to meet in Daenerys' home. All the appointments were made in advance, and Kevin changed shifts with other doctors. Tonight they celebrated the New Year ahead of schedule. "Why haven't Leo and Emily arrived? Is Leo busy with his work?" As she busied herself in the kitchen, Winnie talked to her helpers. "He is a big leader, it is normal to be busy. It doesn't matter he is a little late. We haven't finished our dinner anyway." Daenerys said standing on the side. "The food will be ready soon. Are you ready for your due date, Daenerys?" Winnie looked back and asked Daenerys, looking at her round belly. "Yes, the hospital is ready, everything is ready for the baby to be born. I'm waiting to unload it now. It's killing me." Daenerys was really tired, especially these days, and it was so painful to breathe that she could not sleep well at night. Now she realized how hard it was for a woman being pregnant. "Hold on for just a few more days. Did you hire a maternity matron?" Winnie continued to ask. "No, my parents and my parents-in-law wanted to take care of the baby themselves. It will be fine since four people will be there. I respected their advice and didn't hire a matron." Kevin and Oscar couldn't get a word in edgewise while they were talking about having babies. They could only listen quietly. "The old people take care of the children in the old way, and they may not know you diet when you are hospitalized. I have already booked you a matron, I will tell her when you go to the hospital." Winnie was thoughtful, but she did not know that if Daenerys had hired a matron. If she had known that she did not hire one, she would have booked two. It would have been more considerate. "I love you, you are so good to me. Now the matrons are difficult to hire now." Daenerys said and clumsily walked to Winnie and then kissed Winnie's face unexpectedly. "Don't kiss me, freak." Winnie said jokingly, with a happy smile on her face. Daenerys had been helping her ever since her parents died. After she got married, Kevin helped her too. Winnie was indebted to Daenerys, a matron was of significance. Despite the price was high, Winnie felt it was the best thing she could do. "Yes, such a pretty face is for men, how could you kiss her? I'll sacrifice myself if you have that habit." Oscar made a joke, however Kevin could not bear it. "I am the real husband, Oscar, stand aside." Kevin made a serious but funny remark that made everyone burst into laughter. "By the way, Winwin, I asked Brian to come without your permission. It is happened that he is not busy at work today. I will ask him not to come now if you're embarrassed." Kevin actually wanted Brian to come. When Winnie heard that, her hands stopped for a moment and she did not speak. "You said at this moment, how embarrassing if you ask him not to come now." Daenerys glared at Kevin. Even a fool knew that it would affect Winnie's mood, but Kevin did it intentionally. "Since Kevin has asked Mr. Bennet come, it doesn't matter. It will be more lively with one more person." Oscar instantly understood the meaning of Kevin and spoke for him. "Yes, I am ok with that." Winnie spoke at last, and then the mood was low. "Yes, I went to the prison to see Penny..." Oscar tried to cheer up the atmosphere, but he was interrupted by Daenerys. "It's nice day, don't mention annoying people." Penny or Brian would affect the mood of Winnie, but they mentioned about these two people at the same time. "It's weird, I want to talk about it, or I'll forget it." "Don't interrupt me and hear me out." Before saying it, Oscar reminded Daenerys. "A man was seeing Penny when I was there, and I did not enter until he came out. Then Penny asked me if I had seen the man who had just gone out, and asked me who he was." Oscar paused at this point and convinced that they had heard something wrong. "She didn't know the man who saw her?" Daenerys became interested in the topic, but she didn't have the composure of Kevin and Winnie, so she asked questions first. "No, she didn't. And the man had come to see her several times. Something fishy, don't you think?" Oscar didn't think there was anything special at that time, nor did he care. Now, however, it was suspicious. "Yes, how does he look like?" Daenerys asked. Winnie and Kevin seriously looked at Oscar. "He is his fifties. But he dressed well and looked like a rich man." Oscar described the person he saw, but he didn't see any more details. "A man of that age can't be a friend of Penny's, much less her father. He is a wanted man and can't visit her in prison." "It is weird that she doesn't know him who has been to see her several times." Daenerys analyzed it carefully, but she did not know who the old man might be. "Daenerys, when we went to see Penny, she said she had a single room and she was good in there." Winnie said to Daenerys with a serious expression. The feud between her and Penny and Richard was not over yet, and Richard had been on the run. She had to be suspicious of it. "Yes, she said that Brian arranged it for her." Daenerys felt funny remembering that. Penny had been put into prison, but she was still arrogant, she was so shameless. "Brian said he hated Penny so much that he didn't help her. Since Brian didn't help, would it have anything to do with this man?" Winnie also analyzed. Although she did not know who that man was, he must be rich and powerful, so that he could help Penny, after all, the people who could live in a single room in a prison was a few. From Oscar's description, he was indeed rich. "It is possible." Daenerys felt it was possible too. The sudden ringing of the doorbell interrupted their analysis. "It should be Brian. I'll open the door." Kevin was to open the door but Winnie stopped him. "I'll open the door and you cook." Winnie said and went directly to the door. It wasn't that she didn't want to cook. It wasn't that she was in a hurry to open the door because she heard that it was Brian. She just wanted to talk to him alone. When she got to the door and saw that it was indeed Brian, she opened the door. She did not ask Brian to walk in, but walked out herself. "....." Brian felt warm when he saw the person opened the door was Winnie. As he was to say a word, Winnie spoke first. "Since you are here, cooperate with me. Don't show a gloomy face, otherwise everybody will feel uncomfortable." Winnie was not warning, not discussing but ordering. She knew that she would be affected since Brian was here not matter what expression he had. But she didn't want it to affect others. "Ok." Brian said. He could not laugh out loud as others, but he could do that as Winnie required. "Come in." Then Winnie and Brian walked in together. The two men walked in together, and the scene was quite harmonious. A talented man and a beautiful woman, they were perfect match. "Alas.....It will be a pity if such a good couple is not together." Oscar said in the kitchen looking at them.

CHAPTER 329 GATHER IN DAENERYS' HOME

Hearing that, Kevin looked over, and it was the true that they were match. "Yes, you are right. It's a pity that they're not together." "Oscar, I think they are match from the begging and I really wanted them to be together." Kevin couldn't help admiring. "I think they are match too, but it is useless, they are not in a hurry." Two men were gossiping, but their positions were consistent. When Winnie came in, she went directly to the kitchen and was surprised to see two men standing idly. "What are you doing? Why aren't you cooking? Mr. Bennet said Leo and Emily were downstairs and would come up soon." "Look at the painting." "Look at the scenery." Two people said at the same time, although there was the literal difference, the meaning was the same. "Crazy, you continue to look at the painting, I will cook." Winnie was puzzled, but she didn't have time to play word games with the two men. Downstairs at Daenerys' house. Emily arrived first, but had been waiting downstairs for Leo. To act well, at least they came up together. Leo came in a hurry and found a parking space to park the car before he came to Emily. The two of them walked together toward the apartment. Emily walked silently. Leo wanted to speak but he did not feel it was the right time, so he had been silent too. Suddenly Emily stopped and looked sideways at Leo. Then she spoke politely. "I may need your help. I am afraid that we have to drink, and if I am drunk, find me a driver." Drinking could solve everything when she was in a bad mood. If Winnie did not let her drink, she wanted to be drunk once. "Don't be so polite. I feel strange when you talk to me like that." And Leo did not feel good. "We are strangers, and I will be ill-bred if I am not polite. Don't worry, I won't be so polite when I'm acting." Emily didn't see anything wrong with her. Although it hurt herself to speak like this, it was a basic etiquette when communicating with strangers. "Emily, even if we have broken up, we can't be so strange. Can't we be friends?" Leo could accept the word stranger. He wanted to make up for Emily, but as a stranger, she would not accept that. Emily was silent. She did not want to make friends with the people who cheated her, or she would be cheated again, but looking at Leo's sincere eyes, she did not refuse. In this dilemma, she kept silent. For a moment. "Let's go upstairs, they're waiting." Emily did not give the answer, because her heart was very messy and painful, and she had lost the ability to judge. Leo had expected that. He was disappointed but he did not intend to give up. He did not intend to give up the friendship and did not intend to let Emily be hurt. Emily and Leo were the last to arrive. When they arrived, the table was already set, waiting for them to wash their hands and eat. "Sorry, we are late. You can punish us to drink." Emily returned to her usual innocent and uninhibited personality, and no one could tell that they had broken up. "I'm not going to let you off today." Winnie said to Emily. "Leo, as I said, we have to drink tonight." Emily took the initiative to communicate with Leo, suggesting that he needed to find her a driver. "Emily said on the way that you will ask her to drink today." Leo said gently and naturally. Winnie was puzzled but did not take it seriously. "You are wise, all of you have to drink today except Daenerys. Daenerys doesn't have enough rooms. You have to find the driver early." Winnie was active because she wanted to make her heart excited. She did not want to feel depressed and put all her attention on Brian. She was surprised to see Brian, but she was happy to see his face not cold and he was not frowning. They were together to accelerate New Year in advance. And she was happy that she could accelerate New Year with Brian. Everyone sat down and drank the wine that Brian had brought, which ordinary people could not drink. Emily was excited and always rushed to drink. She wanted to get drunk as soon as possible so that she could forget the pain the man was causing her. Winnie was relaxed. Knowing that she would talk nonsense to Brian when she was drunk, she told Daenerys to leave her a guest room, so as to drink freely. Compared to women, men today were so weak. Daenerys would give birth in about ten days, and it could happen at any time. So Kevin had to be prepared so he wasn't allowed to drink. Leo was not in the mood to drink. He blamed himself watching Emily use alcohol to numb her nerve, also felt the taste of heartache. To avoid a headache, Brian drank very little. Oscar was the only one of the men who was in high spirits, but his momentum could not keep up with the two women who were going mad. "Look at you, you look like men, don't you want a marriage?" Oscar joked, and he was the only one who could say something for the man. "I can remarry you. You said when we are 40 years old, we will get married if we are single." Winnie could not help laughing when she said that, because it was not a promise. "No. I didn't say that." Oscar did not remember he said that, even if he said that, he dare not admit it in face of Brian. The sharp eyes of Brian would be able to kill him if he admitted. "Winwin, you are drunk, it was said by two stars." Emily debunked Winnie. "You're on the wrong side. You're on my side. How can you help him?" Winnie said with a smile, and Brian did not want to move his eyes away from her. "He said I can't get married too. I would like to have that agreement with him in case his words come true." Emily said jokingly. What happened between her and Leo was not Winnie's fault. Because she knew Winnie loved Brian, and she had got over Leo. Emily felt it would be rude of her to put the blame on Winnie. "Wow, I didn't see that you have this thought. But you can rest assured, Leo is waiting to marry you. Give me Oscar." Winnie laughed out loud. The more she talked freely, the closer she got to each other's hearts. She liked Emily a lot. "Enough, you two. Don't you think about my feelings as a pregnant woman who can't drink? Don't you know how anxiously I am when I look at your glasses?" Daenerys joined in, dropping her head and stroking her belly. "Come out, baby, I want to drink too." "Don't worry, I will drink with you after you gave birth." Emily said and couldn't help laughing. "Does your boyfriend know you're so bad? Leo, you should be careful." Daenerys could not help but smile. They had fun together. Seeing that Winnie laughed unrestrainedly, she was in a good mood. "He needn't be careful. I won't marry him. I'll wait for Oscar to be forty." Then Emily picked up the glass and took another gulp. She wanted to marry a man who loved her. She can act temporarily to help Leo, but she would not live a lifetime in the love of others. She treated everything with a free heart, but not love, so she would not marry a man who loved other woman. All the people laughed, even Brian gave a light radian. Leo was the only one who could not laugh. He was the only one who knew that Emily was not joking or saying something angry. She meant it when she said she would not marry him. It might be that she was in a good mood today, or the wine was sweet and mellow. After drinking a lot, Winnie was still sober. But Emily soon got drunk. Emily did not admit that she was drunk, but still insisted to drink. Leo persuaded Emily. "Don't drink, or you will have headache tomorrow." "It doesn't matter, I don't have to go to work."

Winwin, don't drink. You have to go to work tomorrow." Emily thought Leo's concern was for Winnie. Although Winnie experienced too much suffering, at this time, Emily was particularly envious of Winnie, because two of the best men loved her. But she was a tool for him, but at least it was worth something. Emily comforted herself in the heart. Winnie turned her head and smiled at Emily. "I know I will get a headache when I drink too much. So today I've finished all my work for tomorrow morning..." "Oh... Tomorrow morning you will be off. You're smart. Let's all propose for Winnie's wisdom... pregnant woman, you can drink water." Emily suggested and everyone agreed.

CHAPTER 330 BORROWED YOUR SHOULDER

"Oscar, where are you going to the spent the New Year? You can come to my home, my family is lively." Daenerys was the only one who was sober and was the first to be serious. "I have been outside home this year, so I want to stay at home with my parents. I have booked my flight." Oscar got flushed on face. He drank, but he spoke clearly and coherently. "Winwin, since your aunt and Vanessa will come to your relative's home, you can come to our home." Daenerys turned to Winnie. But before Winnie could answer, Emily said ahead. "Her children are Bennets, she can go the Bennet family... Oh, no, there's Wendy. Don't make the New Year unhappy. Winwin, come to my home. My parents are nice and they like to be lively, you can bright your children to have dinner with us." Emily felt that she was not considered. She remembered Wendy in the mid of her sentence. "I have booked my flight, I will leave on 29th. Megan and I will come to A City to see my aunt. Luke stayed will stay with his family." Winnie would not go anyone's home, or she would be upset in the day of reunion. "You go to A City? Don't, what if you can be back when I give birth?" Daenerys did not want Winnie to go. She was afraid when she gave birth if Winnie was not around. "Rest assured, I will be able to come back. I have booked the flight." Winnie would not leave, or she and Megan would be left. Everyone would worry her and that was last thing she wanted to see. Brian had been silent. He had not given up, but Winnie was so stubborn and he could not persuade. It seemed that he should change his strategy and discuss it with his grandfather first, and then talk to Megan. In this way, Winnie might agree. After drinking, Emily was so drink and needed to be helped to walk. Leo left first with Emily. Oscar got a guest and lied down on bed to sleep. Daenerys was tired and went back to her room to sleep. With a thick smell of alcohol, Winnie helped Kevin clean up. "You go rest and I'll help him." Brian looked at Winnie and said. He would rather help so that she could have some rest. "I'll do it. I'm in a good mood today. It's getting late. You go home first. I'm staying here." Speaking of this, Winnie remembered one thing and put down the cutlery she was holding. "Have you talked to Megan?" "I talked to her last night. She was sad and cried." Brian said and that was one of the reason he wanted Winnie to stay. "She will be fine. Megan likes crying but she was strong." "Go home. I'll help clean up and go back to my room to sleep." Winnie felt sad too, but she could do nothing about it. "There is no room for you, you go back too. The hourly cleaner will come and clean up tomorrow, so we don't have to do it ourselves." Before Brian objected, Kevin said. He was helping his friend, and it was up to Brian to decide what to do next. "There's one room that Daenerys got ready for me." Winnie retorted. "We have one master bedroom and two guest bedrooms. Daenerys and I sleep in separate rooms. Yours has been taken over by Oscar. Go back, both of you. It's time for me to go to bed." Kevin looked at the silent Brian and wanted to kick him, because he did not make a move. "All right, then, I'll go back." "Mr. Bennet, I will go with you. I have something to talk to you."

Winnie had to go home. She and Brian went out together. Before reaching the elevator, she took out the mobile phone. Brian asked. "Who are you calling at this late hour?" "A driver. I can't drive, I'm drunk." As Winnie's voice fell, Brian grabbed Winnie's mobile phone. "Albert is downstairs. He takes us back." After saying that, Brian naturally took Winnie's hand and continued to walk towards the elevator. "I can't always have you helped me. I'd better call the driver." Winnie was forced to keep up with the footsteps of Brian, but she refused him. As Winnie spoke, Brian had walked into the elevator, which began to descend. "Give me my phone." Winnie asked for the phone, but Brian did not respond, so she reached out to take it. Brian raised the phone directly. "Don't worry, I won't take you to the hilltop villa. I'll leave as soon as I drop you off." Of course, Brian could guess Winnie's mind, but he really wanted to take her home, the home of only the two of them. Winnie was embarrassed and gave up grabbing her phone. Winnie thought she was in a good state today and didn't drink much. But when she was out of the door, the cool breeze made her want to vomit. She ran to the dustbin and threw up. Brian followed closely behind and patted Winnie's back. "You drank a lot. You are tormenting yourself." Brian said to Winnie, feeling distressed for her. Winnie took a breath, bent over and gasped heavily. "Better?" As Brian's voice fell, Winnie vomited again. Brian continued to pat her back, and then hurried to the car to get a bottle of water. He remembered that Winnie could not stand the taste in mouth after vomiting. "Rinse the smell out of your mouth or you'll vomit again." Brian passed the water to Winnie. She felt much better after gargling. Winnie was supported by Brian and came to the car. As Brian reached out and opened the door, Winnie threw up again before she could get in the car. After that, Winnie was weak and had stomachache and sore throat. In the car, Winnie leaned her head against the seat back of the co-pilot, feeling limp. "I thought I will be fine, but the wine is strong." Winnie whispered and only Brian could hear her. "I told you not to drink, now you regret it. Don't drink so much in the future." As he spoke, Brian lifted Winnie up and let her lean on his shoulder. "All right, let me borrow your shoulder for a moment. Your shoulders are more comfortable than this." Winnie said, pointing to the back of the seat she had just reclined against. Drinking tortured her body, but her heart was relaxed. Brian's care could make her happy for a while. Every time she drank, this man would appear in front of her. Sometimes they quarreled, but Winnie felt happy even if they quarreled. Leaning on his shoulder, she did not want to move, but... "Do you have monitoring in this car? Will Wendy see this?" Winnie's words upset Brian. However, it was Albert who was driving answered Winnie. "There's nothing in our car. Miss Yup won't know it. Even if she knows it, it doesn't matter. Mr. Bennet's shoulders were for you." Albert felt distressed when listening to Winnie's words. Although it was just a casual joke, it was enough to see how much influence the netizens' abuse had on Winnie. "Well, his shoulders are for me? Then I will be unscrupulous." Winnie smiled and looked up at Brian. She felt Brian more handsome when she was drunk. "You don't belong to me, you don't love me, but please temporarily lend me your shoulder, I will give you back when I get home." Winnie said sadly and leaned on Brian's shoulder again. "I have something to tell you." Winnie remembered what Oscar had told her. "Go ahead." Brian said. He felt distressed for Winnie that she could not have his heart and could only borrow his shoulder temporarily. "I have a problem. I can get into the prison's surveillance. It belongs to the state and I can't break the state system." Winnie's hacking skills were unbeatable, but she had her principle. As long as it involved the government or it was illegal, she would not do it. "What happened to Penny?" When it came to prison, Brian thought only of Penny. "Yes, it is Penny. Remember I told you someone had given her a single room?" Brian forgot to check that. At that time, he wanted to tell Albert to check, but he was disturbed and had forgotten it. "Yes, but it was not me. I am not that kind to her." Brian answered Winnie with certainty. "Two days ago Oscar went to see Penny and met a..." Winnie repeated what Oscar had said, and then put forward her request. "Look up who the man is. I think he must be Richard's friend." "Albert, do you hear that, check it tomorrow." Brian was nervous. That man was indeed suspicious. Winnie would be in danger if Richard was involved. "I know, Mr. Bennet. I'll give you the news at noon tomorrow." Albert answered with confidence, because it was easy. Winnie felt more at ease after hearing Brian's command. She did not speak again and fell asleep after a while. The car was parked in the underground parking lot. Brian got out of the car and tried to carry Winnie upstairs, but Winnie woke up. "I'll go up by myself." Winnie picked up her bag. She felt top-heavy, but she was conscious. "I'll take you up." Brian was worried if Winnie went upstairs alone, afraid that she continued to vomit. He picked up Winnie without asking Winnie for agreement. "There you go again. This is where the picture was taken. Put me down and I can walk back myself." Winnie was anxious, she did not want to bear Wendy's attack again. She had been exhausted because of Penny and Wendy and she had no extra energy to deal with them. In other words, she was tired and became timid. She just wanted to live her life quietly with Brian in her heart. She would not fight with Penny and Wendy for Brian. "I promise you it will never happen again, and I will never spare anyone if it happens again."
