Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 361 SMOOTH IN DELIVERY

Hearing what Winnie said, Brian was upset. He reached out to hold Winnie's hand, feeling guilty. "I am sorry to let you face it alone. If there is next time, I must take good care of you and will not let you hurt in the heart." Winnie looked at Brian with a serious face. Was he feeling sorry for her for the torture she suffered when she gave birth? When would "the next time" be? If there was a next time, she would rather be tortured, but it seemed to be no the next time. "The kids are so big and it is over. You don't have to be sorry, it happens to all women." "Sit back and rest. I'll comfort the elderly, they are so worried." Winnie got up and left. She did not want to mention the time she gave birth, she felt like being tortured again. Daenerys was in good condition. In about 40 minutes a nurse ran out to report good news. "It is girl. Mother and the baby are doing well." Hearing that, people outside the delivery room felt relieved at last and became excited. "Good, good." They could not help saying. After a while Daenerys and the child were taken back to the VIP room, and everyone followed. Daenerys looked very energetic. "Mom, bring the baby here, I want to have a look." "Don. You've looked at it several times. There's someone taking care of it. Take a rest, close your eyes and sleep." Her mother felt distressed and did not allow her to see the baby again. "It is my child, why are you so mean?" Daenerys said mischievously, and then looked at Winnie. "Winwin, I brought you back from your vacation. It is getting late, you and Mr. Bennet must go home, and if everything is all right in the morning, I'll go home too." Daenerys could see that Winnie was tired and knew that Brian must wait outside, so she asked them to have a rest. "Yes, you all go back. Winwin, Mom, Dad, you can go home. I am here and it will be all right." Kevin was happy and asked everybody to go back. Everyone must be tired, and Daenerys could not get enough rest here. "You go back, I'll stay here with Daenerys." Winnie didn't want to go back. She wanted to stay with her friend. "Go back. Brian is waiting outside, and he won't go back unless you do. There's nothing going on here. There are nurses, matrons and doctors. You don't have to worry. Go back." Kevin refused Winnie's company and pushed her away as he spoke. "Ok, I'll go back, and you take care of Daenerys." Winnie had to go back. Brian's car had been sent to the hospital by Albert, so the two drove away directly. "Winwin, don't go back to the suburbs at this time, they are all asleep and we will wake the children." Brian said to Winnie as he drove. "Just take me home, and let they children stay with Grandpa in the suburbs." Winnie wanted to go home, because returning to B City woke up all her dreams and brought her back to reality. In the reality, Brian had his life, and she had her life. It'd better to have nothing to do with each other. "Come with me to the hilltop villa. I want to confirm the picture." Brian could only use this method to retain Winnie. Winnie was silent for a moment. "All right, then." It was three o'clock in the morning as the two people came to the hilltop villa. Winnie was so tired that she took a shower, lay down on the bed and got ready to sleep. Brian said he wanted to confirm the picture, but as she came out of the shower, Brian did not mention it. Winnie did not ask after thinking. Maybe he had confirmed it when she took the shower, or maybe he didn't want her to see it. If that was the case, it was useless for her to ask, so she closed her eyes and got to sleep. "Tired?" Brian asked softly. "Yes, I'm tired. I'm going to sleep." "Me too, and I will confirm the picture when I wake up." Brian also lay down and got into Winnie's quilt. Winnie turned her back to Brian, feeling nervous. Due to fatigue, Winnie fell asleep soon after, but she felt uneasy and did not have a sound sleep. She felt that

Brian got up and opened the drawer, but also heard the voice of the mobile phone turning on. Winnie's consciousness became clear from fuzzy. But she closed her eyes and did not move, but listened quietly. After the phone was turned on, Brian was the first to find the picture. At the first sight, he frowned in disbelief and felt nervous as he was in the dream. Was this a dream? Why it was exactly the same as reality. There were things he could not remember, but the picture was real. So what happened in the dream? Was that reality? If it was, who was it driving the car to run into him? Who was the woman to save him? Now Brian kept thinking about it, but he could not remember more things. He put the phone away, and then lay down on the bed, put Winnie in his arms but still thought of the woman who had saved him. Winnie had her back to Brian. Although she could not see it, she knew what Brian was doing when she heard the sound of the phone turning on. When they came here, Brian said that they were to have a look at the picture, but he secretly took a look at it alone. It seemed that the woman in the picture meant something different to him. He had amnesia and forgot things. This woman might be his friend, might be his classmate, might simply be his savior, but might be his lover, otherwise how could he even dream of her? Winnie told herself that Brian was a mysterious man, there were too many things she did not know, and she even did not understand the man holding her. She had fallen in love with such a man. Why she stayed with him? This night, two people almost did not sleep. At seven o'clock, Winnie got up and was to go to the hospital. She put all the things she had been thinking about last night behind, and she did not ask about the picture, because he would say it if he wanted to, and if he did not want to say it, there would be no answer even if she asked. "You can sleep more. I am worried about Daenerys, so I gotta go to the hospital." Winnie dressed which he talked to Brian. "I will drive the car, and I will ask Albert to drive it back." Winnie got out of bed and Brian got up. "I'll go to the hospital, too. Let's go together." Brian was in no mood to sleep. He wanted to talk to Kevin and see if he knew something. "Ok, take me to the suburbs. I need to get my car and change my clothes." Winnie was not even in the mood to take a shower. She just wanted to leave the villa. She felt this hilltop villa did not like her, as long as she was here, she would have a bad mood. "You have clothes here, don't you?" Brian did not know Winnie's mind, because he had something to think of, so he did not pay attention to her mind. "I don't like the clothes here. I don't want to wear anything stiff when I'm not at work. Get up if you want to go together. Daenerys will be out of the hospital later." Winnie urged and wanted to leave as soon as possible, because she was suffocating in this room. So Brian sent Winnie to the suburbs, and then to the hospital. When they arrived at the hospital, Daenerys had not been discharged, but Brian had no chance to talk with Kevin alone. "How are you today, can you go home today?" Asked Brian, absent-mindedly. "Daenerys and the baby will get checked when the doctor comes, and if everything's okay, we'll go home." Kevin was joyful, smiling. "Why don't you stay two more days in the hospital? It's safer." Seemingly infected by Kevin's joy, Brian shifted his attention. At this time, he envied Kevin, who could be with his wife since she gave birth to his baby. If he had known earlier that it was Winnie, he could have experienced that. "I want to go home. It's so stuffy here and I'm not used to it. It is better to be at home." Daenerys was so eager to get home and did not want to stay there for a moment. "By the way, why didn't Winwin come with you?" Asked Daenerys. "She's to get her car in the suburbs. She'll be here in a minute." Brian looked down at the time and Winnie would take a while to get there. "Be nice to Winwin, Mr. Bennet. You saw yesterday how hard it is to have a baby. Besides, Winwin had two. She must have experienced more pain than I do." Daenerys felt that Brian could not understand till he experienced it. Brian should be grateful to Winnie for giving birth children for him. "She's not easy not only for giving birth. Her whole life has been difficult. Rest assured that I will help her and treat her well." Brian's assurance was appreciated by Kevin and Daenerys, but he himself was not confident. He had no control over what the future held, especially he had no idea what his grandfather would do after the announcement of Megan's identity. He wanted to be good to her and keep her around, but was that possible? While the three were talking, Daenerys' parents opened the door and entered. Seeing them come in, Brian felt that his chance had finally come. After a brief greeting, Brian called Kevin out. "What is going on?" "Kevin asked inexplicably. "It is about my nightmares. I dreamed about being pushed aside by a woman and the car didn't hit me." Brian knew that Kevin's time was limited, so he went straight to the point without being verbose.

CHAPTER 362 ANOTHER WOMAN

It was again nightmare and had new progress. His ever-smiling face became serious. He knew that Brian was not dreaming, but restoring his memory, but he could not say anything about it but pretend not to know anything. "Brian, have you had not enough rest lately? You are neurasthenic. Why are you always dreaming? I'll give you some medicine so you can sleep well." "Not a dream, it is a fact. The woman who pushed me in that dream was the same as the woman in my picture, and that can't be explained by dreams." Brian insisted that it was definitely not a dream, but he could not recall any more details. "What picture? I think you're possessed. Don't overthink about it. You just can't get enough sleep. You won't have nightmares if you stay with Winwin. I will talk to her and ask her to move to the suburbs so that you can have a good sleep." Kevin didn't know much about the picture, but Brian had mentioned it. But now he had to steer the conversation away as far as possible, or he would not know what to answer. "It's not that I haven't had a good sleep, I mean it. The woman in the picture was the same as the woman who had saved me in my dream. She wore the same clothes. Kevin, this is not just a dream. It is my memory coming back." Brian frowned and he was serious, he felt Kevin was intentionally evasive. As a doctor, knowing his memory loss, the first thing that came to his mind should be the possibility of retrieving it. But Kevin had been avoiding this problem from the beginning to now, and had been saying all kinds of reasons, just not to mention the recovery of memory. "You know it, don't you? Tell me who the woman saved my life was. Why I feel special when I look at her picture? What was her relationship to me, and why did she save me?" Brian had many doubts. This woman always affected his mood, so he wanted to know who this woman was. Kevin was shocked, he knew that this day would come sooner or later. But Stella did not allow him to say anything, so he could not tell him. "You think too much, I really don't know. And even if your memories do come back, they are piecemeal not in the form of dreams." "Brian, take your time and continue your observation for some time. I'll give you a detailed examination after the New Year." Kevin could only be temporarily perfunctory, as to who the woman was, he did not mention. But that was not what Brian wanted to know. "What about the woman? Who the hell is she? Kevin, I know I have amnesia, but the feeling in my heart is not to deceive people, it is not amnesia." Brian asked eagerly, losing his composure. "I..." When Kevin did not know how to answer, Winnie suddenly appeared and interrupted their conversation. "What are you doing here. Where is Daenerys? Who's taking care of Daenerys?" Winnie asked. "Mom and Dad are in there. We're here for some air. She misses you. Get in there." Kevin breathed a sigh of relief. Fortunately, Winnie appeared, otherwise he really did not know how to answer. "Why are you so fast? Aren't you going home to take a bath?" Brian's voice was deep, as if with too much disappointment. "I am here from home. Didn't you see I was changed?" Winnie answered Brian sadly. "I'll go and see Daenerys first." Winnie walked forward with heartbreak. She heard the two of them talking. She heard Brian's feelings for the woman. She heard Brian asking the woman repeatedly. Another woman appeared, another story began. Sadly, Winnie was neither his first woman nor his last. Everyone in their own life lost something while growing, but Winnie's growth was more painful, and lost more than others. But she had to face it with a smile. After losing her parents, she did not care about losing Brian? Besides, she never had him. She walked into the world of Brian, and one day she would come out. She would be replaced by others. Winnie put away her broken heart with a sour smile, put on a face of smile and pushed the door into the VIP room. As Winnie walked into the ward, Brian asked Kevin. "Did Winnie hear me?" Although Winnie's expression showed nothing, Brian felt that Winnie had heard their conversation. "I don't know. You didn't tell her?" Kevin did not guarantee that Winnie had not heard it. They had not notice when Winnie arrived. "She was the one who told me if the woman is the same as that of the picture, but I didn't let her see it, and she hasn't asked me yet. I always thought she heard me." Brian felt uneasy. "Why didn't you tell her?" Kevin was puzzled. "Because I feel special about this woman, I am afraid she would think too much." Brian voiced his concerns. "It is a unnecessary move." Kevin thought what Brian did would make Winnie overthink. "Never mind, she might not have heard you." "Well, continue where we were. You must be....." As Brian was about to ask about the woman, Emily walked over, interrupting the conversation. "Why are you standing there, why don't you go in to take care of your wife and child?" Emily said jokingly and walked into the VIP room with two people. "Why are you here so early?" Daenerys asked Emily. Last night after Winnie left, Emily came over, but now she came so early, Daenerys was afraid that she did not have enough sleep. "Come and see your baby." With the child by Daenerys's side, Emily went straight to the child. "So lovely, I want to have a baby too." Emily carefully reached out her hand to touch the child's delicate face for fear it would be damaged. "Then hurry to marry Leo and have one." Winnie also joked, but she really hoped Leo and Emily could get married sooner. After that, she suddenly felt something wrong and then looked around. Daenerys' expression was wrong, and Kevin turned his head away, and even Brian dare not look into her eyes. As her sight fell on Emily, her embarrassing smile made Winnie suspicious. It was like they hid something from her, which made her feel bad. But she didn't know what it was. Okay, if they wanted to hide it from her, then hide it. "What are you doing? Am I telling you a bad joke?" Winnie tired to ease the embarrassment. She wanted to tell everyone that she wasn't stupid, she just didn't want to get to the bottom. "Yes, it's. I'm not the only one to get married, and I'm not the only one to have child. We should urge Leo on this matter." Emily finally recovered and jokingly responded to Winnie. What she did just now was terrible. But after dating Brian, she always felt sorry for Winnie, so she did not act as naturally as before. "You're right. It really takes two people to work together." Daenerys also smiled, but it was awkward. However, the cooperation of two people let Winnie doubt. At this time, Winnie's mobile phone rang, she was afraid of disturbing the child, so she hurried out to pick up the phone. "Leo?" "There's a problem in the backstage. You have to check it out. The sooner the better." "Ok, don't worry, I will be there in a minute." Winnie put down the phone and wanted to tell everyone, but thinking of what happened just now, she gave up. She sent a message to Emily and left directly. To be honest, Winnie's mood was affected by everyone's reaction. At that moment, she really felt betrayed by everyone, as if she was the only one in the world. Maybe she had been through too much, and she was too sensitive. Maybe there was something that being kept from her was for her own good. But Winnie felt that it should not be hidden, after all, it could not be hid for a lifetime, sooner or later it would be known. After Winnie left the ward, they began to shirk responsibility. "What are you doing? Why didn't you speak just now? At least don't let Winwin find out. If she finds out, we might as well say it." Emily knew she was the worst actor, but it was even worse if everyone didn't cooperate with her. "I did not know what to do, but I think Winwin should have been suspicious. She just didn't want to embarrass us by not asking." Daenerys looked at Kevin and Brian. "You two men didn't talk. You embarrassed Winwin. Winwin is so clever and so sensitive, she must feel that I have betrayed her." Daenerys held remorse. If she had known about that, she should have told Winwin. "How can you blame us, but I'm sure Winwin doubted it. She looked into my eyes with suspicion. What to do?" Kevin asked Brian with his head sideways. "I will go and see." Brian turned around. Just as he reached the door, Emily stopped him. "Don't, Winwin have left." Emily said as she read a text message on her phone. "She said Leo has an urgent matter needs her to deal with, so directly she left." When Emily's words came to an end, everyone was silent, wondering if Winnie left without telling them was related to the embarrassment.

CHAPTER 363 THE POSITION OF THE COPILOT

With important work, Winnie had no regard for her mood. If she did not think about it, she would not be affected. No matter what they hid, she had to face it. Winnie came to the Johnson Group. As she parked the car, Brian called. "Do you have work to do?" Brian asked in a deep voice. "Yes, I just arrived at Johnson Group. What's the matter?" Winnie replied calmly, sounding as if nothing had affected her mood. "Why did you leave without telling us?" Brian did not dare to directly ask about the doubts in his heart. He could only talk about some unimportant things and tried to figure out her mood. But from her sound, there shouldn't be a big problem. "I was afraid to wake up the child, so I texted Emily. Didn't she tell you?" Winnie got off and closed the door. She walked towards the Johnson Group with her mobile phone sticking to her ear. "Yes, I thought you would tell me. I'm still waiting for you to return to the suburbs." Hearing that Winnie's voice was easy, Brian finally felt relieved. It seemed that Winnie had not been affected by anything. "It is an urgent, so I did not give you a phone call, if the work is solved smoothly, I will go to the suburbs at noon. By the way, will Wendy be there? If she will, I will go to see your father another day." Winnie had not forgotten the previous experiment, nor what she had said to Brian. To avoid such a thing happening again, she had to confirm it. "She won't be there. Get your work done as soon as possible, we wait for you to have lunch." Brian felt guilty speaking of Wendy. "Ok, I'll do it as soon as possible." Winnie hung up the phone, got on the elevator and went straight to the studio. It was not a big problem, but it was complicated to solve. After Winnie removed the fault, it was nearly noon. Winnie still had words to say with Leo, so the two people came to Leo's office. "There won't be a problem again. It was an oversight of our work and we didn't check it out when we texted it. Leo, let the supervisors hold a temporary meeting, so that everyone takes it seriously." "Now that it's in public beta, if this happens too often, we're going to lose a lot of players." Winnie had to remind Leo, although she did not understand the management, this omission was absolutely the programmer's negligence. "I will arrange that in a moment, it is not a big problem, but it could never happen twice." "By the way, Winwin, I will take Emily home at noon. Do you have any place to go? If not, please come home with me." Leo invited Winnie, because he knew her aunt and Vanessa had not come back. "You take Emily home, why I come with you? I have to go to the suburbs at noon." Winnie was gratified that Leo would take Emily home, judging from that, they could get married. "Good, don't be alone in New Year. Winwin, how are things going between you and Mr. Bennet lately?" Leo was worried. Hearing that she was to go to the suburbs, he thought their relationship should have progress. "We can't be together, but we have to contact because of the children. When the children grew up, I will be fine." Winnie had always thought so, although with such a relationship, she would be scolded and hatred by Wendy, but she had done her best. "I gotta go. Call me as soon as if there is something wrong at work. Bye-bye." Winnie said goodbye and turned to leave. She told herself that she should be relaxed, so she would not be tired. After Winnie left, Leo drove to pick up Emily. Because her parents were persuaded by Leo, Emily had to help Leo. Out of the house, Emily got into Leo's car. "First go to the mall, I buy some gifts for your parents. It is New Year, I can't go with nothing." Emily said to Leo who was driving. "I've got that ready and we just need to be there." Leo started his car and drove home "Why in the back?" Leo asked Emily. "Where shall I sit if I don't sit back? Should I get off and run with the car?" Emily knew what Leo wanted to say, but she just didn't want to be in the co-pilot, that position always reminded her of her cheap pendant. "You used to sit in the copilot's seat. Sitting in the back makes me feel I am your driver." Leo was not used to it, because it was not easy to look at her if she sat in the back. "We had broken up. Everyone thinks the copilot seat should be girlfriend's. I'm not your girlfriend now, so I don't want to sit there. Whether you are the driver or not, it is up to your thought. You don't even want to be a driver, do you?" In fact, the reason why Emily sat in the back was very simple. She wanted to keep a distance with Leo. "You've got a lot of reason, but my parents are counting on you. And as for Winwin, I also want you to cooperate with me a few times. You quit when I find the right opportunity." Leo requested, but he was creating opportunities too. "I can help you, but you must hurry. I may not be able to help you for long because I will go abroad. I can't help you to hide from your parents either, so tell them as soon as possible." "By the way, when you find the right opportunity, don't tell Winwin the truth, just say that we don't love each other, so we broke up. Otherwise Winwin will have a burden." "Tell her before I go aboard and then I'll leave." Emily really didn't want to hurt Winnie, so she came up with such a good idea for everyone. Although it was a lie, it was a white lie. She started to plan to go abroad these two days without any accurate country, just to avoid Leo for a period of time and let him completely disappear in her memory. "Go abroad? For work?" Leo frowned hearing that. "Sort of. I go to learn something, and come back to help my father." Emily said casually. "When will you be back?" Leo was flurried, feeling he was to lose a treasure. "I don't know the specific time. It depends on how I study." Emily planned to leave, but really had no idea when she would return, maybe in a month, maybe in a year. The time was determined by when she got over. "There are also many good learning opportunities at home. You can study well without going abroad." Leo put forward his idea. If Emily really left, his life would be empty, as well as his heart. "I am still thinking about it. I haven't decided exactly where to go yet." For Emily, she could go anywhere as long as there was no Leo. She wanted to go abroad, because it was not easy to come back, so as to control her heart. She could not control herself at home, and she might brazenly come back to Leo. Or abroad, it was another world, she could not find a little about Leo, so she could forget him faster. Winnie drove to the suburbs. The atmosphere of the family was unexpectedly harmonious without Wendy. At the table. "Winwin, eat more, you seem to have lost weight." Rufus was pleased to see Winnie and felt she was his child. "It is good. It's painful to lose weight." Winnie answered with a smile, she did not have to be so constrained without Wendy. "That's what you young people think. I still think don't be too thin. Parents will be distressed if you are too thin. Eat more." Rufus inadvertently made Winnie moved. No man seemed to have cared for her in that way since her father had died. Rufus really warmed Winnie's heart like a kind father. "Ok, I will eat more." Winnie smiled gently and ate. "Winwin, haven't your aunt and Vanessa come back?" Rufus continued to speak. "No, my aunt said she wouldn't come back until Vanessa started school. I'll let you take care of the children during this time." "It's my duty to look after the children. Your aunt is polite." Rufus said, but wondered in my heart why Isobel left early and came back late. Was it because of him or the Bennet family?"My brother and I will take care of you when we grow up."Megan suddenly said, hearing that, everyone was happy."Good, I must live well, so that you can take care of me when you grow up."Rufus fondly touched the head of Megan.Now the atmosphere was much more harmonious. If the family could always be like this, it would be great and the two children would be happy.Although Brian did not speak, he was infected by the atmosphere and gave a smile.At that moment, he felt very secure and felt that he was the happiest man in the world, having the woman he loved most, lovely children and his father around.He was unfamiliar with his father, but now he lived with him. He was grateful to Winnie for forcing him back.After lunch, Winnie asked the two children upstairs to take a nap, and Rufus went back to his room to rest. Winnie and Brian were the only two people in the living room."Why don't you go upstairs and have a nap? You've been busy all year, and you seldom have a rest."Winnie said and got up."Where are you going?"Asked Brian."I am going home to get some rest."Winnie was not used to being here. Since she had her own house, she did not feel dependable anywhere."Go upstairs to bed and eat here tonight. You are alone at home, and it will be bored Don't go back."At the same time, Brian held her hand and walked upstairs."I'm not going upstairs. I'm going home..."You don't have the right to choose. We have managed to give the children a comfortable environment. Don't let the children down."At this time, the two of them had already walked up the stairs, because the children had taken a nap, Winnie did not dare to speak loudly."Ok, let me go and I can walk by myself."

CHAPTER 364 COME AND GO

Winnie refused quietly, but Brian did not let go until he took Winnie to his room and closed the door. "I will go to the room of Megan, in case Wendy came over to see that and I can't explain." Wendy was part of the reason Winnie wanted to go home. This was Brian's home and Wendy had the right to come over at any time. If Wendy ran into her like she did several times before, it would be embarrassing. "Don't worry, she can't come here again." Brian saw Winnie standing there motionless, explaining while pulling Winnie to the bedside and sitting down. "What do you mean? Why can't she come here?" Winnie asked doubtfully. "Megan left in tears that day, my father was angry at Wendy and warned me not to bring Wendy here in the future. If I do, he told me to move out. Do you think I can ask Wendy to come under such circumstances?" Brian told her the reason. He agreed with his father. Only in this way, Wendy would not suddenly appear and the two children would not be sad. "You're in a pickle. It's all my fault. I didn't teach the children well." Winnie felt that she had done something wrong again and had inadvertently caused trouble to Brian. "It has nothing to do with you. Wendy did things impulsively without considering the consequences." Brian sat down and continued to talk. "Winwin, don't put all the mistakes on yourself. You have done nothing wrong from the beginning to the end." "Wendy and I can't be together, even if the children accept her, Grandpa will not accept her. She did too much to make grandpa tired of her, through these things, Grandpa sees through her. So as long as my grandfather doesn't accept Wendy, she and I can't get married." "This is your affair, I have already persuaded the children, no matter who is the person that your family chooses, the children will have no objection." Winnie did not feel joyful to hear that, because even if Brian was not to marry Wendy, he would never marry her. Brian had continued to date, which explained everything. "Do you remember what I told you about blind dates?" Brian wanted to give a general explanation to make Winnie feel more comfortable. "You have mentioned it before." How could she not remember that? As long as it was related to Brian, as long as it was what Brian said, Winnie had never forgotten it. "I went on a blind date, but I was forced and the other party was forced. In order not to continue the blind date, we decided to cheat our parents separately. So in the future, everything you see and hear is not true." Brian did not tell her the other party was Emily, or everything would be exposed. "I am ok with your blind date, and even if I am not ok with it, it wouldn't change anything. But I have to remind you of one thing. If you have to give up Wendy, you should tell her earlier before she gets hurt too much." "In fact, I hope you're a good man. There are so many things that limit your relationship, but you should take responsibility even if you don't want to." That was the man she loved, only such a responsible man did not waste her heart. "I know what you mean, but I want to choose you and take responsibility for you." Brian was sincere. He did not want to face reality but live in the illusory world that had Winnie. "You know we can't be together, so don't jump to conclusions so early. You never know what will happen in the future. You like me now, but maybe someday you won't like me. I'm not real to you, so face the reality." Winnie did not know how many women Brian had around him. She did not know whether he fell in love with her on impulse or only loved herself in his whole life. No matter which one it was, Winnie did not want Brian to be hurt emotionally. Emotional damage, which she had experienced, was fatal and irreversible. Love him, don't think too much, love him, wish him happiness. "Winwin..." Brian did not understand why Winnie said so. He wanted to find out, but Winnie stopped him. "Well, you carry a heavy burden of responsibility. Don't let love add to it. I'm tired. Can I have a rest?" Winnie did not want to talk about love, because it deepened the pain. Since no one could change it, then face the reality and let it be. Brian's love and marriage could not be controlled by himself, so his love could only make her sad. Brian sighed and said nothing. Winnie was tired, so he let her rest, so as not to destroy the rare quiet time. The next day, Winnie went to Daenerys' home, Brian went to Wendy's home. He wanted to talk with Wendy frankly, but Brian did not do so because her parents were so enthusiastic. Brian's arrival made everyone happy in the Yup family, but Wendy's father was nervous. "Brian, you must be very busy these days. You haven't come in these days." Wendy's mother asked gently, but seemed to be dissatisfied about Brian. Brian said nothing, but became serious. If Wendy did a good job, he would have come. "Mom, you know how busy Brian is. He doesn't even have time to eat or sleep. How can he have time to come?" Wendy explained for fear Brian got angry. She winked at her mother as she spoke. "Yes, he is busy and doesn't even rest in the new year. He even came to his father-in-law's home at the fourth day." Wendy's mother did not stop complaining because of Wendy's eyes. She was an outspoken person and said what she thought. In her view, Brian looked down on them and she did not want such a son-in-law. "So you think I shouldn't have come. Ok, I will leave now." Brian was not angry, but his voice was cold. He wanted to leave immediately, and Wendy's mother gave him the chance. He got up, but Wendy pulled him. "My mother didn't mean that. After so many years you still don't know her? Lunch is ready, eat before you go." Wendy asked Brian to stay and was angry with her mother. Now she and Brian's relationship was not good. That Brian came home was his bottom line. Her mother did not know it and still talked nonsense, if Brian really left, he would never come again. "I have business to do." Brian said coldly and there was flame of anger in his eyes, which made Wendy let go of his hand. "Brian..." Wendy begged, wanting to make Brian stay, but Brian could not bear that. If it were not for the elders, if it were not for Wendy's mother, he would not have such attitude of this moment. Brian strode away, and Wendy cried out. "What are you doing, Mom? He finally came and it is New Year, how can you say sarcastic words? Do you have any idea what he is that no one dares talk to him like that? He won't come here again if he's gone." Wendy's mother was stunned at the moment and did not expect Brian would really leave. He did not come home to see Wendy for a long time, did not put his parents-in-law in the eye, so she wanted to take the opportunity to remind him, to her surprise, there will be such an end. "I... I didn't know he'd leave. I am his mother-in-law. I should have said that. Why is he angry?" "Mom, we're not married, not engaged, and you're not his mother-in-law. It is an honor he's here." Wendy got more irritable for a rare opportunity had been destroyed by her mother. Wendy continued to complain. "The Bennet family still doesn't accept me, and maybe I can't marry into the Bennet family, so why you complained him?" Wendy's mother knew the importance of the matter when she heard it, but she could not be blamed for it. Wendy had not told her that before. She thought Brian waited for Wendy for so many years, so he must be deeply in love with Wendy and no one could take him away. She thought Brian and Wendy would get married for sure, but it was not the truth. ".....That's not my fault. You didn't tell me anything before, so I didn't know the Bennet family doesn't accept you." "Don't talk nonsense if you don't know. I gave you a wink but you did not stop. If he and I were to marry, his position would be beyond your discretion." Wendy was mad and her tears were flowing. After yelling at her mother, she vented her anger on her father. "And you, Dad. As long as Brian comes, you will be nervous, you will be respectful. Can't you stop being humble? I've told you so many times, why can't you change? You're trying to drive me crazy." Wendy angrily looked at her father. Originally she felt inferior to Brian, and her father and mother's behavior made her ashamed. "Sure I am nervous. If he finds out what happened to you, our family will screw. When I see Brian, I will think of what happened to you, and I will feel sorry for him. Do you think I am not nervous?" Wendy's father looked helpless and sorry, as if he had done something terribly wrong. "My affairs are over, and I have nothing to fear, why do you fear? Why don't you listen? I said it has nothing to do with you or the company?" Wendy was speechless. Her father was too honest to cheat others. She could stand in front of Brian confidently, but her father could not. "I have nothing to be afraid of, the company is Brian's. It is just under my name, of you are exposed, I can go home." "Can you feel at ease? You know what it was like in our family. Everything we have was from Brian. You..." "There's nothing I can't get over. He has children and woman and he can't tell me what to do." Wendy angrily interrupted her father's words. She did not want to mention what happened four years, and did not want listen to her father.

CHAPTER 365 STIGMA

Wendy continued, trying to persuade her father. "Dad, wake up, you know that the Yup Group is not ours, why don't you work hard to fight for it? As long as I marry Brian, the Yup Group will belong to us. Otherwise we won't have anything." "You know that, why you still mess around? If you don't have those stigmas and come back early, the Yup family is already ours." Wendy's father also raised his voice and was unable to contain his anger. "Dad, you know my stigma, but Brian does not know that. I....." "He'll find it out sooner or later." Wendy's father felt Wendy was unrepentant and Wendy would get hurt one day. "Wendy, don't be obsessed with Brian, break up with him. For the sake of the past, Brian won't be cruel, but it will be embarrassing if we wait until he knows the truth." Wendy's father persuaded her kindly, and only by following his ideas would they not be sad in the end. But Wendy's mother was the first to stand out against. "No, you can't give up Brian. Having held out so far, we can't get nothing. Although the Yup Group is not ours, you have made painstaking efforts for the Yup Group for so many years. We can't work so hard for nothing." "What efforts have we done? Don't you know what I am capable of? I go to work every day, sit in the office and just sign according to other people's meaning. Do you think this is painstaking effort? Even a dog can do that." Wendy's father shouted angrily, taking this opportunity to vent his repressed emotions. "That's why Wendy needs to marry into the Bennet family, so you have the right. Brian will let you have that position for a lifetime for the sake of Wendy." Wendy's mother and Wendy's idea were the same. As long as Wendy could marry into the Bennet family, everything was not a problem. "Ok, do as what you want, we will see the consequence and if Brian can accept you." Wendy's father failed to persuade and could only drop this sentence. In his view the only way to reduce the harm to Wendy was to leave. But he failed to convince his wife and daughter, and could only watch things continue to go bad. Wendy's father left, which made Wendy angrier. She sat on the sofa and cried. But she found that even if she cried out, she was still depressed. Winnie had been staying in Daenerys' home since she came out in the morning. Looking at the quiet baby, looking at Daenerys, Winnie's heart was very warm. "Have you named the baby yet?" Winnie asked Daenerys softly. "Nick name is Jelly Bean, the two of us now have a dispute on her formal name, so it has not been finalized." Daenerys stared at Kevin and blamed him not to agree with the name she gave the baby. "Winwin, which name is better?" Kevin got the signal and defended himself. "Winwin, Daenerys gave the name Taylor Burns. It's too much like a boy's name. There's no girl's grace at all." "What did you name the baby?" Winnie thought Taylor Burns was indeed not suitable for cute baby. "Phoebe Burns, I feel it suitable for girls." Kevin spoke his mind. "I think it's better than Daenerys'. Taylor Burns does sound like a boy. You can have boys if you like, Daenerys. Why do you want Jelly Bean to have a boy's name?" Winnie said, but Daenerys did not deny it. "Yes, I like boys. But if Jelly Bean were a boy, I might have wanted a girl. In short, I feel not enough. It would be better to have both at once like you." "No, you have enough torture, I don't agree to give birth to the second children. I like girls, not boys." Kevin objected out loud. One was that he really liked girls, and the other was that he loved his wife. "No, I have to have a son. I must make my life perfect." Daenerys insisted on her idea because she envied Winnie for having both children. At this time Winnie looked at the small Jelly Bean in her arms with a smile. "My Jelly Bean, your father and mother are quarreling. Just go to sleep and don't listen to them. This kind of quarrel will go on for years." Winnie had been holding Jelly Bean in her arms and was reluctant to put her down. Listening to the two people had dispute, looking at the children, it was also a kind of happiness. "You'll spoil her by holding her all the time. You are a mother of two, and you still like children." Hearing that, Winnie could not help but laugh. It was funny, and Winnie seemed to be the real mother. "I didn't have much time to take care of Megan when she was small. My aunt took care of her. Hold Jelly Bean and see how it felt back then." "Don't insist on the name you gave her. I think the name Doctor Burns gave is good." Winnie agreed with Kevin. "Yes, Winwin is right, don't insist on it. Your name is more suitable for a boy. Let it be as I wish." Kevin said proudly, finally someone spoke for him. Daenerys did not speak, but stared at him angrily, and then she looked at Winnie. "Winwin, why isn't Mr. Bennet here? He's off work, isn't he?" "He went to Wendy's home." Hearing that, Winnie's smile froze. "Why go to Wendy's house? That woman is so annoying. I don't know what Brian was thinking." Although she did not agree Winnie to be with Brian, but Wendy was not suitable for Brian. "Yes, Brian did not cherish Winnie but mess around with Wendy, I don't understand either." Kevin got excited. So far, he had not given up the idea of Winnie and Brian to be together. Maybe he would not give up in this life. Winnie sighed and gave the child to the matron, then said looking at the couple. "Brian and I won't be together, so don't think about it. He won't choose me even if there was no Wendy. There are a lot of women waiting for him." "You should know his blind date, if it doesn't work, he will have the next one until he finds the right one." Winnie believed that Kevin and Daenerys must know Brian had a blind date, so she had nothing to hide. She was not to show how pitiful she was, but to tell them to stop setting her up with Brian. If it was destiny, they would be together, or it would be in vain. "Yes, I know about his blind date. But Winwin, he accepted it just to put off his grandfather, he does not really want to go on a blind date." Kevin sure knew it, but he did not expect that Winnie also knew about it. "I know, and I understand. It's not the one thing he couldn't help himself with. That's why I say we can't be together. How can a poor woman match such a noble status?" "Children are young and need parents now. We have to maintain our relationship. When they are older and independent, our relationship will fade." Winnie's heart was sour, but what she said was absolutely the reality. Now she did not care about anything, because she could do nothing and could only calmly accept the fate. "Love is not easy to fade away, some people cannot forget it for a lifetime." "Winwin, if you really want to be with Brian, you should try. From now on I have no objection. If you don't want to be with him, ask Kevin to persuade him to let you leave with your two children. Or you will be tortured." Daenerys gave Winnie two options and firmly opposed Winnie to admit defeat. If it went on like that, Winnie would suffer. "I don't have the right to choose, and I won't fight for it, or it will make Brian have a hard time. Forget it. It's useless, it's not going to change." Winnie dropped the topic. After talking about it countless times, the result was the same. Just then the nanny opened the door and came in. "There is a visitor." No sooner had the nanny finished speaking than Brian appeared at the door, surprising the several people in the bedroom. "Why are you here? Didn't you go to Wendy's home?" Winnie asked with a puzzled face. "Yes, I was driven out by Wendy's mother." Being driven out, he should be sad, but he seemed to be relaxed. "What do you mean, did she give up you as her son-in-law?" Kevin was stunned and couldn't believe what he had heard. Everyone wanted to get connected with him, why Wendy's mother drove him out? Was Wendy's mother crazy? "It is good that she gives up." Daenerys thought getting kicked out was a good thing. "It's a long story, and I don't want to talk about it. Anyway, I won't go to her home again." It was hard to guess what he had gone through, because he was so relaxed. "Where is the baby?" Brian did not explain too much. "She has just been taken to the baby's room." It was Kevin who answered. Then he went on. "You mean you have nothing to do today?" "Yes, for the time being." When Brian was at Wendy's home, he felt constrained in any case and could hardly rest as if he had a thorn in his body. Seeing Winnie was here, he felt at ease.

CHAPTER 366 NEW YEAR'S PARTY

Kevin knew that one day Brian would tell him. Kevin changed the subject. "Then let them talk, we get some lunch. We can't let you be hungry." Kevin put forward an advice. "Daenerys call Emily, let's get together." "I call her and Leo." As Winnie went to get her phone from her bag, the other three looked at each other again. An hour later, Emily and Leo came together. During the hour, Daenerys took a nap while Winnie helped in the kitchen. Leo saw the child for the first time, so he stayed in the baby's room for a while. After that, he came out with a face of envy. "Good, it is adorable." Leo was excited to talk about the baby and wanted to have such a lovely child too. "I can give it to you." Daenerys was lying on the sofa in the living room, Emily was sitting on one side, and the other three people were still busy in the kitchen. "Doctor Burns won't agree. Keep it for Doctor Burns." "Emily, chat with Daenerys. She must be lonely because she can't watch TV or mobile phone. I'll help in the kitchen." Leo said and then went to the kitchen. "He is such a good man, do you really want to give up?" Daenerys whispered, afraid Winnie in the kitchen would hear her. "If I remember correctly, you have asked me this question before." Emily looked at Leo's back and replied. She had to part with him even if she did not want to. "I know I have asked you. I just feel pity." "Not at all. It's a pity to live your life with a man who doesn't love you. Look how nice you and Doctor Burns are. You love each other and have lovely kid. This is true love, Daenerys. You are married to Love." Now the only thing that could make Emily envy was Daenerys. Two people were in love. It was not as sad as her love and Winnie's love. "I don't think Leo has no feelings for you. Maybe you will find that he has fallen in love with you." From that Leo asked her for help, she could see that Leo had feelings for Emily. "You mean I shouldn't find it out? If I do, I should pretend I don't know it and then wait for him to love me? It's a waste of my love if I wait for that all my life." Emily did not believe Leo would like her. Leo only loved Winnie. "You won't wait for a lifetime. Leo might love Leo, but it was different now. I feel it was guilty. If he had helped Winwin, Winwin's fate would not have been so tortuous and she would not have been so much hurt, more could not have given birth to two children. Leo felt that Winwin's experience was because of him, so he wanted to compensate as much as possible." "Do you call this love?" Daenerys analyzed in a low voice. "I don't know. Love or not, he doesn't like me." "Daenerys, look at Leo and Winwin, I think they match. Brian can't marry Winwin anyway. Let's match Leo and Winnie." Emily suddenly had this idea. Although she felt it was difficult, but if they were really happy, it would be a kind of comfort to her. "Are you crazy? Last time you said you wanted to match Winwin with Brian, and this time you want to match Leo with Winwin. If Winwin finds it out, she'll break up with us." "My dear young lady, don't think about others, just go after what you like, and don't give up your happiness to others. It is easy to get Leo." Daenerys encouraged Emily, she always felt it was a pity if they separated. Like Kevin firmly believed that Brian and Winnie would be together, Daenerys also firmly believed that Emily and Leo would not separate. "I go after him? It's not like I'm unwanted. There are plenty of men who want to marry me. I won't go after him. Are you worried that I won't get married? Don't be afraid, as long as I am kind, there will be a man waiting for me." Emily was open-minded. She was cheated by Leo, so she had no self-confidence to pursue Leo, afraid of being cheated again. "Never mind, we have broken up. I'm done with him. After I tell Winwin, I will go abroad." Emily was hurt, and more deeply than others thought. She just didn't show it. She needed to heal in a quiet place. No one abroad knew her, it was the best for her to heal her wound. "Is it worth going abroad just for a man?" Daenerys suddenly raised her voice. Hearing that Emily would go abroad, she was angry. "Keep your voice down. It's bad to be heard by Winwin." "I don't have to go abroad not for a man." Emily didn't say much about going abroad, nor did she have the courage to admit that she left only for man. "No, I don't agree that you can't go abroad." Daenerys dropped her voice, but she was still angry. "Well, you're still in confinement. Don't be so excited. It's bad for your health. Let's talk about something happy instead of clinging to our relationship. It's just a small part of life. It doesn't affect the whole life." Emily comforted Daenerys. She knew that Daenerys was good for her, but if she did not leave, the wound on the heart could not heal and it would really affect her life. In the kitchen. Leo came to the kitchen, said hello to the two men, and then came to Winnie. Without saying a word, he directly took Winnie's knife. "They're talking. You go in. I'll do your work." Leo said. Winnie envied Emily had such a thoughtful boyfriend. "Come on, if you three men are in the kitchen, we can't have dinner till night. Our new mommy has to eat." Winnie said jokingly. "I don't know their cooking skills, but you can be sure of mine. It seems that few men can cook food so delicious." "Go and chat. There are too many people here." Leo insisted that Winnie go out. Those two women did not come into the kitchen, Winnie should be treated the same. "Go in, Winwin. Daenerys's lunch will be ready by the matron. She will not go hungry. The three of us is enough, and you will have dinner at noon." Kevin persuaded, now the kitchen was not suitable for Winnie. If she stayed for a while, Brian might be angry. "I'd better stay and help, you..." Before Winnie finished speaking, Brian walked over to her, took her hand and pulled her out of the kitchen. "Go and rest, talk to Daenerys." With that, Brian returned to the kitchen. Winnie had to go to the living room. "What are you talking about? I've been kicked out to talk to you." Winnie smiled and sat down. "She is the new mother, of course we talk about the baby. You have a say in that, Winwin." Emily also said with a smile. From the moment she saw Winnie was sent out of the kitchen, her conversation with Daenerys had ended. "I've almost forgotten how children are raised. I don't have any say in that. The child has a professional babysitter, do not worry. I think it's important that Daenerys takes care of herself physically so she can be ready for her second child." Winnie was very modest. "You are tough, Daenerys, you think of having a second child so soon." Emily smiled from ear to ear. "I started to think about it today. I said I must experience the feeling of being a mother-in-law." Daenerys' mood improved, or Winnie would think more. Emily was in a good mood too, and it could not be told that she had broken up with Leo. At the moment she was not Leo's girlfriend, but Winnie and Daenerys' bestie. As they were chatting happily, the men in the kitchen whispered. "Leo, don't miss Winwin, I will be good to her." Brian said coldly. Leo was nice to Winnie just now and made him jealous. "How can you be good to her if you can't marry her?" Leo asked Brian in reply. Then he continued. "I know Winwin and I can't be together, but I owe her, I want to compensate her, so that I can feel at ease." "You can't compensate her. You have changed her life and ceased to care about her. But I should thank you otherwise I wouldn't have met Winwin." "It's too early to say whether I'll get married with her." Brian could not promise anything now, but he would strive to do everything perfectly and strive to marry Winnie. "There's no point in you two fighting each other here. You look like children." Kevin said, otherwise the situation would be worse. "Leo, Emily is so nice, you should cherish her. You should know that debt and love are different. Winwin doesn't blame you, so you don't need to put it in heart." "And something is arranged by fate, not by anyone." Kevin then looked at Brian after that. "And you, cherish the person in front of you. She has given you two children and she is so nice. I'd rather do nothing than defend her." "Now Leo is good to her and you are jealous. When you have chance, you don't cherish her." Kevin could not help but say. "You two have exactly the same symptoms now. Just think how you can hold on to the person in front of you. Your happiness is in front of you, not..."

CHAPTER 367 THE DIFFERENCE OF TRUE LOVE

Brian was impatient and then interrupted Kevin's words. "You can shut up, everybody knows it and you don't have to give us a lesson." "Doctor Burns, I also think you should keep your mouth shut and make a good meal, or we'll be hungry at noon." Leo added. The two men turned to their respective duties, ignoring Kevin's eloquence. "I am right. If I don't speak, will you stop? Now you gang up to blame me." Kevin had not finished his words, but as long as there was no quarrel, it was good. They stayed at Kevin's home all day and left after dinner. Winnie wanted to go back to her home, Brian asked her to go to the suburbs. Finally he failed to persuade her but he did not leave. He got in Winnie's car, no matter where Winnie went, he was with her. Brian sat in the co-pilot's seat. He looked at the bright and lively night scene outside and then at Winnie who was focusing on driving. He seemed to enjoy it very much. As he was enjoying this comfortable moment, Wendy called him. Seeing that, he frowned and took a look at Winnie before he picked up the phone. "What is it?" Brian's callous voice and the bright fireworks outside created a world of ice and fire. "Brian, my mother has been a little out of line today. Please don't be angry. I talked to her after you left, and it was only because you hadn't been home for so long that she said that. She misses you and doesn't think you're a stranger, and that is why she said that." "Brian, are you angry? I'm sorry for that. I promise it won't happen again." Wendy gave a sincere apology, afraid of Brian hung up the phone and did not give her a chance to explain. "Wendy, I won't go to your home these days. Don't come to me in the next few days. Let me have a good rest. I'll contact you when it is time for work and we'll talk about it." Brian's tone eased when he heard Wendy's soft voice. "Brian, I know you are angry. But your will go to work on the seventh day, and we have leisure time finally, I want to be with you. Brian, I..." "Stop and do what I tell you. I'll call you." Brian cruelly interrupted the words of Wendy, and then hung up the phone. He wanted to be quiet and not think about the annoying things. After the phone was put down, the car was silent for a while. Winnie knew it was Wendy who made the call, but she didn't ask. Finally, Brian spoke. "Don't you wonder what I said to Wendy?" Brian looked sideways at Winnie. "Yes, I'm curious about everything about you. But I can't ask. It's your private affairs." Winnie answered insipidly. She would be curious about Brian all her life, but her curiosity could not be satisfied. "You love me carefully." Brian helplessly shook his head. He knew that Winnie was a cautious and a noble person, but he really hoped that Winnie could be selfish in love. "If I'm not careful, I'll be haunting you now. If I do that, it would be hard for you, and after a while you wouldn't like me." "Whatever I do, it's better to be sensible, and that's what keeps it going." Winnie had her own rules. If the person sitting next to her was her boyfriend or husband, she must ask who made the call and what they said. But he was not, if she asked, it would only annoyed Brian. "Everything you say is right." Brian sighed and continued to say. "It's Wendy apologized to me. But there was no need anymore. I decided to straighten things out with her when I get to work and end our relationship." As he said that, his attitude changed and his voice sank. Winnie saw Brian was upset, after all, it took him more than four years to get Wendy. "Are you willing to? If you don't want to break up, talk with chairman and get married with her. Even if you make another choice, it may not be true love." Winnie thought she must be crazy. How could she persuade the man she loved to marry another woman? It was normal though, because she loved him and wanted the person she loved to be happy. "You are my true love. Grandpa will choose. I don't care as long as he's happy." "For Wendy, I really can't bear it, but if I keep dragging it like this, it will hurt her more. Besides, Grandpa will not accept her. It's no use trying." As his voice fell, Brian took a deep breath. "She caused that, if she came back and said she would accept Luke, we would have married, and Grandpa would not be so disappointed." Winnie could feel his contradictory heart at the moment. Although he said she was his true love, Wendy was his true love too. If Winnie remembered correctly, Brian had never hesitated or conflicted when making a choice about her. However, on the issue of Wendy, Brian must be careful for fear of causing harm to Wendy. That was the difference. "Don't let yourself regret it." Winnie had nothing more to say. She could not get involved in Brian's matter, otherwise it would become worse. "I will regret it, Winnie....." Brian got serious in eyes. "Huh?" "Let's leave, take the kids with us." Brian's unexpected words scared Winnie. She inadvertently stepped on the brake and the car rocked back and forth. Winnie recovered her mind. "Don't talk nonsense, it would be the most irresponsible thing for us to leave, and you will regret it." "It's better to face reality than to run away." Winnie rejected Brian's irresponsible behavior. In the process that she contacted with Felix for many times, Winnie knew Brian was hope to Felix, the future to the Bennet Group. How could she selfishly monopolize such an important man, how could she destroy the hopes of a ninety-year-old man? She loved Brian, whether it was bitter or sweet, it was the destiny. Since it was destiny, she would accept it and never did unconscionable things, never put her own happiness based on the pain of others. Although Winnie's answer was not what Brian wanted to hear, Brian was very pleased and proud, because Winnie did not lose herself and did not escape from reality. That might be the reason why he loved her so much. After putting down the phone, Wendy was more flustered than before the call. She left the living room and went back to her bedroom. In the whole process she was in a trance. She closed the door and shut herself in an airtight space and did not want to be disturbed by anyone. At this time she was panic and wondered what Brian's words meant. She could not figure it out. She even thought of a hundred possibilities, but she felt that none of them would be right. At a loss, she could only ask Klara and Laura for help. Wendy: Who is there? Laura: I'm here. Klara: I'm, too. I always stare at my phone during the New Year? Laura: Yeah, in New Year, a group of people huddled around the dining table with chopsticks in hand and looking down at their phones. Then Laura sent a laugh emoji, not aware of Wendy's troubles now. Wendy: I'm not as happy as you are. Give me some advice. I think my hair is falling out. Klara: What's wrong? Laura: What happened? Klara and Laura found Wendy was wrong. Wendy was silent these days, they thought she spent New Year with Brian. This was only the fourth day. Did she mess it up? Wendy: It's a long story. I can't finish typing in a day. I'll use voice. Then Wendy used voice to tell them what happened the two days. But as for the reason why she did not go to the Bennet's for the New Year, she said that she had to stay at home with her parents. It could be seen how hypocritical Wendy was, and she even did not tell truth to her friends. Klara: The chairman is not at home, and Mr. Bennet is not at home either? You can go to the suburbs. If You went home like that, it would be embracing. Your mother was really a little too aggressive in this matter. I know Mr. Bennet, except the chairman, a puzzled look is unacceptable to him. Your mother must have made him lose face. Klara had been restrained, in fact, her evaluation on Wendy's mother in heart was much worse than that. She felt that Wendy's mother could not see the facts and thought her daughter was noble, now they were in troubles. Wendy: I can't go to the suburbs because I quarreled with Brian's father that day because of the children. I wouldn't be there even if he invited me. Wendy said herself so lofty and covered up what she had done. Laura: quarreled with Mr. Bennet's father? Wendy, are you trying to give up Mr. Bennet? Although the relationship between them is not very good, but after all, he is Mr. Bennet's father, why did you quarrel with him? I told you to please everyone in the Mr. Bennet family before, but you've offended the key person. Laura felt incredible. Wendy had not done everything well. Wendy: I can't always be humble. I should be strong when it necessary. Their bad relationship won't influence Brian's choice. Wendy said lyingly.

CHAPTER 368 THE ORIGINAL HEART

Reminiscent of that day made Wendy regret it. She had burned her bridges. But what could she do? The truth was in front of her and it was impossible for her to take it back. Wendy continued to type here, and in private Laura sent a message to Klara. Laura: Klara, Wendy messed up things, if it goes on like that, Winnie doesn't need to rob it, the Bennet family would rule her out. Klara: I was thinking about that too. Now the Bennet family must hate her. Chairman must have avoided her. Klara: Wendy look clever, but she did silly things. She messed up things and it's hard to go back now. Laura: What to do now? If Winnie becomes Brian's wife, we are both standing in the wrong team. Laura was worried and fear that those things before exposed, and once exposed, Winnie would retaliate. Klara: I don't know what to do. In the future, the two of us should keep a low profile as much as possible. We can talk in the group, but don't meet each other, or we will be in troubles. Klara was more worried than Laura, because her situation was different from Laura's. If Winnie became Brian's girlfriend, she would not have a peaceful life. In a group of three. Wendy: Now don't talk about other things. You two help me analyze what Brian wants to tell me. Wendy asked anxiously. Wendy: Are you still there? Klara: Yes, I'm thinking about it. Laura: Does he want to break up? Otherwise, he would accept your apology. Laura's word was like a sharp knife breaking Wendy's expectation to Brian. Her heart sank rapidly. She also thought of this possibility, but at the moment she thought of it, she was eager to deny it, because it was a possibility that she was most afraid of. Klara: It's possible, but I think there's still a chance. If the word of Laura made the dream of Wendy be broken in an instant, then the word of Klara was like glue to stick Wendy's piecemeal dream together. Wendy: What is it? Klara: Wendy, think about your first meeting. What of you attracted Mr. Bennet? Wendy: I'm not sure, but I know he likes a black hoodie I wear. The first time we met I was wearing a black hoodie, ponytail and canvas shoes. It's the ordinary stuff that girls on the street are wearing. Wendy: How can this help? Wendy was full of doubt, and hoped that Klara could give her a surprising answer. Klara: Yes, the original heart is the most true. If you remind him of his first feelings, he may change his mind. Laura: I think Klara's analysis is reasonable. If Mr. Bennet always wants to break up with you, when he sees the way you make him feel at first, love will come back. It is possible that he will give up that idea. Klara: Yes, that's what I meant. We're not sure what Mr. Bennet is going to say, but we have to be prepared for the worst. Wendy: Do you mean I have to wear the hoodie when I go to see him? Wendy understood what they meant, but did not know the odds of success. But it was for the best, before she could think of no better. Klara: Not only do you have to wear hoodies, but you also have to wear ponytails and canvas shoes. This will make the memory deeper. Time was limited, Klara could come up with only this way, and now she could not do too much, or she would be completely dismissed. Laura: There is still time. If you have nothing to do tomorrow, you can go out and buy these things. Wendy: No need to buy it. This dress is Brian's favorite and has a special meaning for me, so I keep it. Wendy: Fight for it. I hope Brian is a lover of old. Wendy had no other choice but to make up her mind for the time being. Wendy had been insisting, she did not want to and must not give up Brian. In the next day Wendy came to the Bennet's old house. Although she was to find Thomas, she was disappointed that Felix was not there. "Maria went to play cards again?" Wendy asked Thomas with a smile. "Yes, she got nothing to do at home. Grandpa is not at home, and we don't have visitor's, so she went to play cards." Thomas looked very enthusiastic, because he was looking for a chance to chat with Wendy. "Yeah, it's boring to stay at home." Winnie said and sat down, looking embarrassed. "Uncle Thomas, actually I come over today to seek your help." "Help? How can I help?" Thomas asked rhetorically. "Please help me persuade grandpa to bring back Luke. After all, Luke is a child of the Bennet family, he can't always live with Winnie." "Grandpa will listen to you, so I came to ask you for help." Wendy did not know whether Thomas could agree to her request, but in any case she had to try. "Well...I don't know if I can help. You probably don't know him very well. He makes decisions that others can't easily change. Why don't you go to the suburbs and see if my brother can help you." Thomas did not immediately agree but kept her appetite up. "I'm sure there's no hope. He doesn't like me now, and I don't dare to ask him for help. Uncle Thomas, you can certainly persuade Grandpa. Please help me." Wendy begged, now only Uncle Thomas had not abandoned her, so she could only put her hopes on him. "I..." Thomas looked embarrassed for a moment. "All right, I'll try, but I can't guarantee success." Thomas agreed in the end. "Thank you, Uncle Thomas. Thank you so much." Wendy thanked him with some excitement. "By the way, Wendy, I heard that Winnie's child is not his ex-husband's. Do you know who the father of the child is?" Thomas suddenly shifted the topic, which surprised Wendy. Wendy was first shocked and then looked panic. "I never heard of that. I don't know who the father is." Wendy tried to hide her panic, but Thomas found some clues. "Winnie has disorderly relationship, but still wants to be with Brian. It seems that I really can't continue to indulge her. If she succeeds, Brian will be laughed at." Thomas transferred the topic to Winnie, so that Wendy could relax her guard, and any sentence might betray her. "Yes, such a man would be a disgrace to the Bennet family even if she were a mistress. I don't know who the father of her children is, but she dare seduce Brian." Wendy was angry and thought Winnie should die. "Wendy, why don't you start with this child? Find out the father of this child and expose this duplicitous woman, so that Brian won't be with her." Thomas was waiting for Wendy to fall into his trap. "No, that won't work. The child was not a problem at all, and Brian would not give it up." Wendy answered with certainty, as if she knew everything. "Why, the child has nothing to do with Brian. He can't accept her." Thomas continued to guide forward. Although it was his guess, it was from the analysis of many doubts. "How..." "Dad, I'm home." As Wendy was to blurt out, Jack's voice was heard, avoiding the debunking of the truth. Hearing the voice of Jack, Wendy got cold sweat for her careless behavior. It seemed that she had to be very careful when she walked to the Bennet family, or she would be caught in a trap. "Wendy, you are here." Jack was very surprised to see Wendy. However, Thomas gave him a black look. Wendy almost said out the valuable information, but it was destroyed by him. Now he stared at Jack and wanted to teach him a lesson, but he could not reveal his true purpose. "Look at what time it is. Go back to your room. You had a crazy night out." In order to continue to chat with Wendy, Thomas wanted Jack to leave. "I am not tired, why should I go to my room? Wendy is here, I want to chat with her." With that, Jack sat next to Wendy, he had his reasons to do so. Thomas was angry, but he could do nothing about it, but only blamed his son that could not see his mind. Being affected by Jack, Thomas's plan was bound to fail again. What a pity. "Let's chat another day, I have guests at home, I gotta go." Wendy got up, picked up her bag and said to Thomas. "Uncle Thomas, please help me." "Ok, I will. Since you have something to do, go back first. I will make an appointment with you when it has progress." Thomas was full of regret, but he pretended to be calm. "Then I'll go first." "I'll see Wendy off." Wendy walked away, followed by Jack. He had not said anything yet. Two people went to the courtyard outside. Jack looked around, there was no one and his father could not hear their dialogue, so he stopped Wendy. "Wendy, wait, I have something to ask you." Wendy stopped and looked back at Jack seriously. "What is it?" "I... I want to know what kind of relationship Winnie and my brother have now. Are they just friends or in a relationship?" Jack saw the obvious changes in Wendy's eyes after that. He felt guilty and then explained. "Don't take it in heart, Wendy, I just want to confirm it. And it doesn't seem a good idea to confirm it with others but you."

CHAPTER 369 CAN'T GIVE UP

Jack's words did not make Wendy angry, but let her see hope. Since Jack was so concerned about the relationship between Brian and Winnie, he must care about Winnie. "Why do you ask that? Do you like Winnie?" Wendy asked Jack. "I... I don't know. I just think Winnie is pretty. You know I like to deal with pretty women." Jack said implicatively. He dare not say that he liked Winnie, or Brian would kill him. "It is ok, but Jack, you have good taste. Winnie is a good woman, and I think she will be good to husband. Who marries her will have a bright future." Wendy said, with a sly smile. Why didn't she think of that before? If Winnie was snatched away by another man, Brian would naturally give up. Although this man was Jack, which made her feel guilty for Thomas who helped her, but at this time she could only do that. "Yes, she is good, but you haven't answered my question. What is the relationship between her and my brother?" Asked Jack eagerly, like a silly boy. "They have an ambiguous relationship. Even so, as long as they don't get married, others have the right to pursue. Jack, I think you have a chance." Wendy dropped these words and the left, but Jack was pleased that he had the right to pursue Winnie. But what should he do with Brian? Winnie had breakfast and went to Daenerys' home to see the baby, followed by Brian. "Don't come with me to Daenerys' today. Go back to the suburbs and spend time with your father." As Winnie dressed up, she talked to Brian, who was lying on her bed. "I don't go to Daenerys', I go to Kevin's." Brian said. These days he had been accustomed to stick with Winnie. Holiday would be over soon, such a comfortable life would also soon be over. He must cherish every minute he spent with Winnie. "Then you go to Kevin's, I go to the suburbs to accompany your father." Winnie glared at Brian angrily, not because she didn't want to be with him, but because she was afraid of being used to him. After returning to reality, she couldn't live without him. "Are you running from me or do you hate me? Brian got up and got out of bed behind Winnie. "Both." Winnie answered simply, but she really wanted to escape. She dare not face the real after the end of the holiday. "Neither works. I am steadfast at your side." With that, Brian couldn't help but embrace Winnie from behind. "Winwin, these days I am very steadfast to be with you, and I don't have nightmares at night. I really want to be with you all the time. I really want to sleep with you all my life." Speaking of the nightmare, Winnie thought of the woman in the dream, thought of that Brian secretly looked at the picture. This woman suddenly appeared in Winnie's mind was telling her to come out of the illusory and see the fact clearly. "Tomorrow is the last day, and I can only stay with you until tomorrow. Brian, we have to stay away from each other. I can't be the only one for you, even if you don't have a relationship with Wendy." Winnie did not continue the story of the woman in the nightmare, and did not want to explore the secret of Brian hidden in the bottom of his heart. Knowing the truth might be more painful. Winnie continued "Brian, I want a love that is unique and free of all impurity. You can't meet my love expectations, and I can't meet your family's requirements to be your wife. We'll separate." When Winnie said these words, she obviously felt Brian's arms around her unconsciously tightened. This kind of tightening made her think Brian also loathe to give up her. "Do say that, I can't accept it. You know how happy I am with you and my children." "Since my mother died, I have no concept of home. But the kids and you make me feel like home again. Winwin, don't say we will separate, we should try to fight for it, maybe there will be different results." Brian just wanted to freeze the time at this moment and didn't want to return to the so-called real world. The world was cruel and cold, and he had had enough of its darkness. Winnie first turned around. She reached out her hands and cupped Brian's handsome face, even if it was angry. She gave a light radian, showing dimples and said in soft voice. "Don't make it hard on yourself. You're already tired from work, so let it be. If you and I were destined to be together, we would have a happy ending without fighting for it." "On the contrary, even if you try, there is nothing we can make it right." "Brian, didn't you say that you love me? Live easily and happily, and don't live in worry, because I suffer more to see you suffer, and you don't want me to grieve, right?" Winnie wanted Brian to give up his idea by saying that, in order to make himself relaxed, in order to make her less troubles. Brian held Winnie into the arms with force again. "What should I do with you? Why you can see into my heart, while I can't see into yours? I don't want you to get hurt. I'm really in a bind in this matter. But I really don't want to sacrifice you for me. This was the thought of Brian, but he could not withstand the cruel reality. He loved her but hurt her the most. At the same time, in Daenerys' home. After waking up and feeding the baby in the morning, Daenerys lay in bed and began to meditate. She was not thinking of Winnie and Brian, but of Emily and Leo. "Why don't you close your eyes and sleep? What are you thinking about?" Kevin walked in and looked at Daenerys who was looking at the ceiling in a daze with eyes wide open. He asked curiously. "Think of Leo and Daenerys." Daenerys inadvertently answered. "It is not suitable for you to worry about other people's affairs while you are still in confinement. Don't think about it. Get some sleep while the baby is asleep." Kevin said, while pulling the quilt to help Daenerys cover. "Why? They're too worrying. Honey, do you think Emily is serious about going abroad?" It was because she was bored that she would worry about other people's affairs, but these two people were the ones she had to care about. "I think Emily is serious. She got hurt and wanted to go out, so that she could get over Leo. It's better than being stuck at home and wondering." Men were always open-minded, which was completely different from women. "That's right. But once she goes abroad, I don't know when she'll come back. And she can't be with Leo anymore." She still felt pity, even now, to think of them missing out like this. "Well, Honey, you just had baby born. Don't think so much about other people's affairs. It is not up to me if they can be together. Why don't you close your eyes and sleep for a while? If someone comes, you will talk all the time." For Kevin, friends were important, but not as important as his wife, whose health he was most worried about. "You can't have the final say about Brian and Winwin. Why did you intervene to help?" Daenerys retaliated with Kevin, and then gave him a casual glance. "I help them because they love each other, but there are external factors that influence them. But Leo and Emily are not the same, Emily likes Leo, but Leo likes Winwin. How can you help in this situation?" Kevin gave his analysis. Friends should help, but this situation would be worse if he offered help. "Leo like Emily, or he wouldn't have asked me to help him procrastinate." Daenerys said without giving up. "Did Leo say he liked Emily?" Kevin asked. At this time, the phone rang on the bedside table. Daenerys seemed to be waiting for this phone, so she quickly picked up the phone. After taking a look at it, she gave a smile, raised the phone and showed it to Kevin. "Leo's call, he will say he likes Emily." Daenerys said triumphantly and answered the phone. "Leo." "Am I disturbing your rest?" The telephone spread the voice of Leo. "No, Why?" Daenerys asked. "Emily is going abroad. The other day when she told me, I thought she was just angry. Today I found out that she was really going through the formalities to go abroad." "Daenerys, I don't want Emily to leave. Try to help me keep her." This was Leo's request and he could only find Daenerys for help. "Can you tell me why you want her to stay? I can only help you if you have a reason." Emily hated Leo's calmness at this time, he'd better go the point. Leo felt into silence, and Daenerys continued to ask. "Do you like Emily?" Daenerys asked directly to avoid further verbose. "I'm not sure if I like Emily yet, but I'm sure if she leaves, I'll miss her and everything we have together." "I feel the same way I did when I met Winwin in a foreign country, but I'm confused about who I like now." "Daenerys, help me. Help me keep her. I need time to determine whether I feel guilt or love for Emily." This was the reason why Leo was hesitant, because he was not sure now and needed time to confirm his heart.

CHAPTER 370 CIVIL AFFAIRS BUREAU CLOSED

Hearing that, Daenerys understood Leo's meaning, she was no longer eager but smiled with relief. "Leo, I am not sure whether you love Emily or not. But I'm sure you've lost your love for Winwin. It's more about friendship and what you owe. These come from your kind heart, not love." "I can help you. I can drag her, but you must think clearly and not deceive Emily again." "No, I will never cheat Emily again." Leo assured, he really cared about Emily. "That's good." She breathed a sigh of relief and went on. "You now can't ask her out, right? You come to my house, I will call her over, so that you can communicate with her.” “Thank you so much, Daenerys. I’m touched.” Leo was worried about how to find an opportunity to see Emily, and then Daenerys offered him help. Leo was grateful about it. “But Brian will be here later. You and him...” “Don’t worry, it will be all right, and I won’t argue with him for the sake of Winwin.” Leo knew what Daenerys was worried about. Now he did not have the kind of desire for Winnie, so he did not have hostility to Brian naturally. But he hoped that Winnie would be happier than anyone else, and that Brian and Winnie would be together, because only when Brian was with Winnie, Winnie could be happy. Only Winnie was happy could Leo feel at ease. After she dropped Leo’s call, Daenerys made an appointment with Emily and got some sleep before she came. Everyone was sitting on the sofa in the living room, but Daenerys was lying down. The TV in the sitting room was on. Kevin was afraid of that Daenerys would watch TV, so he asked Daenerys to rest her head on his leg, and then he held up the sight of Daenerys with his hands. “Why don’t you bring Luke and Megan over, Winwin? It’s been so long, I miss them.” Daenerys could see everyone but the television, so she could speak to them. “They are in the suburbs with their Grandpa. They wanted to see Jelly Bean, but I did not allow.” Winnie sat in the position at the foot of the Daenerys’, while leisurely watching TV she answered Daenerys. “Let them come.” “No, Megan got a cold, she can’t come over. I’ll bring them here when she gets well.” “What do you want to eat at noon? I cook for you. Emily, Leo, what do you want to eat?” Winnie asked Leo and Emily, who were sitting next to Kevin. “Anything will be ok. I’m not picky about what I eat. I’ll help you. How can you do it all by yourself for so many people?” As soon as Emily finished speaking, Leo handed the peeled apple to her. “I...Give it to Daenerys.” Emily was flattered to see Leo peeling an apple but didn’t realize it was for her. “She can’t eat apples. It’s too sour for her stomach. Take it.” Kevin refused. What Daenerys ate has strict standard, he did not allow her to eat. “Then give it to Winwin.” Emily continued to push it away. “I have one.” Winnie also refused, and Emily finally took the apple. She knew that Leo did that to Winnie, but she still felt warm in heart. “Tell me what you want for lunch.” Winnie continued to ask. “Don’t cook today. I’ll order takeout.” Brian answered, who could not bear to let Winnie keep busy. There were only a few days in the holidays, but Winnie was the busiest and got no time to rest, which made him distressed. “Mr. Bennet’s right. Order takeout. You can talk to me. You start work in two days and I’m going to be bored to death myself.” Daenerys seemed to have seen her own loneliness in a few days, which was quite pitiful. “Let Emily and Leo come to you tomorrow. Winwin and I won’t come.” Brian said in a low voice. “Why?” Winnie asked with doubts, she did not know her schedule tomorrow. “Tomorrow my sister and my brother-in-law will come back. I said I would go back to the suburbs and get together.” Brian explained, but Winnie sighed. Was she going to face this awkward situation again? In what capacity was she going to face the Bennet family? “It was like to see parents. Leo, Emily, whether you should consider getting married?” Daenerys turned away in the middle of her sentence. She didn’t realize she was wrong until she had said half of the sentence. If she said the second half, Winnie and Brian would be sad, so she would rather help Leo. Winnie was there. Whatever she said, Emily would cooperate. “As long as Emily agrees, we can get married right away.” “No hurry.” Emily and Leo gave two completely different answers, making each other embarrassed. “You have different opinions, Leo, did you disappoint Emily?” Winnie said with a smile. She hoped that the two people get married as soon as possible. “What I have done is not good enough. I will try my best to do better and let Emily marry me as soon as possible.” Leo’s attitude was sincere, but in addition to Winnie, all people knew it was perfunctory. Emily looked sideways at Leo. His acting skills were so good that Emily couldn’t tell the difference between true and false. “Why are you looking at me? I mean it.” Others might think it was a joke, but Leo himself knew that what he was saying at this moment was the most serious and thoughtful time in his life. He really wanted to marry Emily and have a family. No matter whether he loved her now or not, he hoped that Mrs. Johnson was Emily. "Good, go to register marriage now." Emily's answer was even more unexpected. Even Daenerys, who had been lying down, sat up unbelievably. Everyone was surprised, but Emily did not mean it. She was angry that Leo said so irresponsible words, did not put her in her eyes but hurt her self-esteem. "Yes, register right away." Leo was the most surprised person, he knew that Emily was acting, but he really wanted to pretend to be real and register marriage immediately, so that he could keep Emily. "Don't play, the Civil Affairs Bureau is closed." Daenerys reminded others. Daenerys sighed and lay back again. "You are not sincere. Pick the right time when you say it again and take your household registration book, so that you can go to the civil affairs bureau directly." Winnie said with a smile. Seeing that, she felt they would get married soon. However, Brian had his own thought. Brian's thought was same as Emily. Even if Leo really got married with Emily, he did that for Winnie, since Leo loved Winnie. "He daren't say such things when he gets those materials. He knew that the Civil Affairs Bureau is off duty today." Emily said jokingly, she knew it could not be serious. After a pause, Emily continued. "It is early to get married and my job is not fully settled yet. My father insisted that I help him run the company. Being married so young, there's nothing I can do to help." "We're fine the way we are. We can be together longer and know each other better. When I have settled down, I will consider marriage." Hearing what Emily said, Leo was upset. He knew that Emily was refusing in her own way. It seemed that Emily did not trust him at all. It seemed that he had broken Emily's heart. "It is too long, do you want Leo to wait until he is old?" Daenerys said again. She realized Emily's sadness and felt her disappointment to Leo. "If he really loves me, he'd be willing to wait till the next life. But if he doesn't love me, there's nothing I can do." Emily said, looking at Leo, implying that Leo would not wait for her, nor love her. "You guys, don't wait any longer. You are perfect match in every aspect. Why wait?" Winnie said with a smile, seemingly joking, but she was worried. She sincerely hoped that the couple could get married, or they would regret for a lifetime. Her love was helpless because she and Brian did not meet each other's requirement, and it was expected that they could not be together. But it would be a pity if Emily and Leo could not be together. "Pass this topic, I'm hungry. Mr. Bennet, didn't you say you order food. Now it's time for you to make a move. Be fast or I'll starve." Emily changed the subject. Other took a sigh of relief expect for Winnie. But Winnie still sensed something was wrong. All the people in the living room except her now felt they had something in their mind, just as they did in the hospital. What on earth they concealed? They looked weird, but they got along well, and she now only doubted about Brian. What happened to Brian? Everyone knew it, but she didn't. Winnie involuntarily turned her head and looked at Brian. Brian was silent as usual, and his eyes were always sad when he was silent. Winnie sighed in her heart, anyway, no matter what they hid, she pretended not to know it. After lunch, everyone left so that Daenerys could rest. Brian and Winnie returned to the suburbs, and Leo sent Emily home. Emily still sat in the back seat. "Don't make jokes again, or Winwin can't accept it when she finds out. And you also think about my feelings, I am helping you, even if it is a joke, don't say that." Emily looked out of the window and said bitterly. "It is not a joke. I mean it." Leo's attitude at this time was extremely serious.
