

My Twins 431

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 431 EXAMINE YOURSELF

Winnie apologized angrily, but after that, she walked around Brian and headed for the bus stop. "Winwin, can't you listen to me?" Brian once again held Winnie. Listening to Winnie's words, he felt that he was too selfish, only thinking of his own thoughts and ignoring Winnie's pain. "Explain what? What to explain? Brian, You are a wise man, but don't take me as a fool. You know your own abilities, even if the whole restaurant is shooting videos, you'll still be able to silence the gossip. So your explanation is no excuse at all." "You and I have heard that Stefan asked her come over to apologize, but did she apologize to me?" Winnie questioned Brian with uncontrollable emotion and Brian was speechless. "Winwin, she apologized to you the day in the hospital, before I..." Brian tried to save the situation, but found himself in a complete mess. "Is that an apology? Didn't you hear their record in your office? That was because they were afraid I'll make a scene and tell you the fact, so they had to apologize to me. That's not an apology. That's scheming. That's framing me." "Wendy owes me an apology. She hurt me more than this time. I think you know it better than anyone else." Winnie gritted teeth angrily. No matter what, she would not believe Brian's explanation and did not expect that Brian thought that apology was true repentance. It seemed that she was not that important in Brian's heart as he said. "I'm not qualified to interfere in your relationship, but please think about who you care about, and let go if as soon as possible. Don't play with others' feelings." Winnie said with heartache, directly shook off Brian's hand and left quickly. Brian looked at Winnie's back with regret. It was indeed he did not handle the matter well. He felt sorry for Wendy not because he still had feeling to Wendy, but was afraid Wendy was that woman who saved his life. If one day he recovered his memory and found Wendy was really the one who saved him, he might regret his cruel treatment of his rescuer. Winnie got on the bus, and Brian was worried and kept driving behind. Winnie did not go home, did not go to Daenerys' home, but came to the seaside. She sat down somewhere, looking out at the vast ocean, feeling the cool breeze, and her anger was relieved. She wished that her heart was as wide as the sea and could tolerate any degree of dissatisfaction and grievance. It was a pity that she was an ordinary woman, unable to accept the man she loved was half-hearted. She was unable to control her emotions, to avoid sadness, heartache and to swallow all the bitter feelings. Winnie thought she still did not know how many secrets Brian had, but she was sure that Brian did not love her, at best he just liked her. There was a big difference between liking someone and loving someone. Liking a person was a sudden whim, the freshness would always go. And loving a person was a lifetime. Even if they could not be together, he would protect her life. Clearly, Brian's behavior did not fit the second kind. Since he did not love her, since she had no hope on this man, why did he expect her to do something and get angry with her? Winnie told herself that it was not Brian who was wrong, because he had his own ideas. Wendy was not wrong either. Wendy still loved Brian, and there was nothing wrong to strive for her love. It was she was wrong. She had put herself in the wrong place, had wished for things she should not have wished, had covet a man she should not have covet. Yes, it was her fault. Stop asking others to pay for her fault. Don't lose temper because others don't care. In this world, except parents, no one had the obligation to be good to her, no one would pay for her unconditionally. Winnie looked at the boundless sea, although she was not in a good mood, it was not so painful. Because it was her fault. She sat in the seaside for a long time, until the sea breeze stopped, the sun went home, the road lights lit up, the sea felt asleep. It was time for her to go home, to continue her miserable life, to continue to control her heart, and not to contend with anyone who did not care about her. Winnie still took the bus. Instead of going home directly, she came to the company and took the car before driving home. Brian had been quietly following behind her without bothering her, until she took the elevator to go home, Brian was relieved. Today their relationship was somewhat relaxed, but because of the appearance of Wendy, it cooled down. No, he could not blame Wendy. It was his failure to deal with the relationship. He could not blame Winnie, every word she said was reasonable, making him speechless and could not explain. The next day, Brian came to work early, thinking when Winnie had calmed down, he would apologize to her. However, Winnie did not come to work after he had been waiting for quite a long time. Brian could not help but ask the secretary, only to know that Winnie did not come to work because of physical discomfort. Brian quickly called Winnie. Winnie might have been blown by the sea breeze for a long time. She began to have a fever at midnight last night and came to the hospital at midnight. Now she was receiving intravenous infusion in the hospital. "Auntie, I am fine, you go home first." Winnie's fever had subsided and she wanted to go to work after the infusion. "Don't mind me, the two children have been sent to the school by Vanessa, and I have nothing to do at home. You feel at ease with the infusion." Her aunt was worried. She was to babble but because Winnie looked bad on face, so she said nothing. "You came here with me in the middle of the night. You didn't sleep. Go home and catch up on your sleep. When I finish, I go to work." Winnie did not say with her aunt what happened yesterday, afraid her aunt would be worried, plus she thought there was no need to say. Brian did not take it seriously, why she bothered others? "This is how you go to work? You dressed down, did not wash your face or have make-up. We go home together." Isobel did not want Winnie to be alone, because she felt that Winnie was too lonely. So many men like Winwin, especially Brian. When Winwin was sick, none of them showed up, which seemed really sad. "Oh, I forgot I came out in the middle of the night." No sooner had Winnie finished speaking than her mobile phone rang. She picked it up and saw that it was Brian calling, and her heart became immediately fluttered. She looked at her aunt and then answered. The phone was connected. Before Winnie said a word, Brian asked eagerly. "You don't feel well. Are you ill?" "No, just a little dizzy. I'm better now. I'll go to work soon." Winnie played down her illness. Because no matter how bad she was, no one cared, which was miserable. "Don't come to work, just rest at home. Are you at home? I'll come and see you." Brian was still very worried. After all, he had not seen Winnie. He could not judge the severity of her illness only by listening to her voice. "Don't come. Aunt is at home. I'll go to the office." Winnie hung up and then put her phone on silent mode, so as not to influence her aunt if he called again. "Brian?" Isobel asked. "Yes." "Why didn't you tell her you are in the hospital?" Isobel continued to ask. "What's the use of telling him? It won't take the place of me in bed." Winnie answered simply, if possible, she did not want her aunt to know she was sick. She would be concerned about her. Besides, Brian probably only cared about her on the surface, which was not from his heart and it had no meaning. "Winwin, you can't think like that. Can you spend your whole life beside him wanting nothing? Is that what you intend to do for the rest of your life?" "Leave him. You can't waste your life with him." Isobel said. She did not want Winnie to have a similar life with her that only loved a man for a lifetime, and happiness had been gone for this man. "Aunt, I stay with him now for the sake of the children. I won't waste my whole life on him. I'll leave him when the children grow older." "Aunt, don't worry about me. I'll lead my own life well." Winnie promised to her aunt again and again, but leaving Brian was really a painful thing. She could not see through her own heart. Clearly she knew there was no position for her in Brian's heart, why she still loved him deeply? Why not pull out her own heart from the swamp? Falling in love with someone was really like falling into a swamp. The more she struggled, the deeper she fell, until her heart suffocated and died. Winnie returned home after infusion in the hospital and simply cleaned herself up and put on makeup, making her face look better. She ate a bowl of porridge cooked by her aunt before she went to work. Before she put down her bag, Calvin came to her to study work. She had been expecting Brian to come to the office, but he never did. Brian was in his office with Wendy. Wendy came over to apologize for what happened yesterday. "I'm sorry about yesterday. Is Winwin angry? Shall I go and apologize to her." "She's out of the office now, so no need to apologize." Brian did not know that Winnie had come to work at the company. "Brian, I will try to avoid these things in future. If we meet in a public place, I will not say hello to you, otherwise Winwin will have wild thoughts again." Wendy seemed helpless as if she was bitter. Such Wendy made Brian think of that Wendy he had met at the very beginning. No matter what she did, she always did it carefully. "It's none of your business." Brian said while watching the time, waiting for Winnie to come to work. "But I still feel guilty. Brian, it is noon, let's have dinner together and take it an apology." Wendy took the opportunity to fight for the time to be together with Brian. "I have a midday date with a client and I can't go out. You don't have to apologize." Brian refused. If he had been so direct yesterday, Winnie would not have been sad.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 432 SEEK MEDICAL ATTENTION FOR A HIGH FEVER

After talking about work with Calvin, Winnie could not help but asked. "Calvin, isn't Mr. Bennet in the company?" Hearing that, Calvin took a look at Winnie. "He is, Wendy is in his office." "Oh, then I won't bother him." Winnie gave a bitter smile. Her eyes were dim with disappointment. It turned out that Wendy was there. Wendy came a lot lately. Are they going back together? Winnie could do nothing about and let Brian do what he wanted. "Pack up the data, ask the assistant to copy this to me." Winnie put her mind on the work again and then gave a document to Calvin. Calvin stretched out his hand to take it, because he did it early, he touched Winnie's hand. He was suddenly nervous. "Winnie, why is your hand so hot?" Calvin looked up at Winnie and found that her face was as red as the sunset. "Do you not feel well? Your face is rosy." Calvin was worried. "It is ok, maybe the air conditioning is too cold." Winnie was perfunctorily and knew that her fever had started again. "Calvin, you go to work, I adjust air conditioning." "Are you really all right, don't you go to the hospital? The cold germs are really bad and a lot of people are sick." Calvin did not think it was because of the air conditioning, so he was worried. "I am really ok. Copy this data, I need it now." Winnie affirmed again, saying she was okay. "I go to copy the data first, if you feel uncomfortable, call me, I send you to the hospital." Calvin took the data to leave. Winnie quickly turned up the temperature of the air conditioner. She was hot but cold. She had endured it after a while and found she was still cold. She took medicine from the bag and found she forgot to bring antipyretic. In order not to get fainted in the company, and to cause Brian trouble, Winnie had to leave with her bag and greeted her secretary before she left. Calvin came back from copying the date and did not find Winnie. He went to the secretary's office and asked. "Where's Winnie?" "She said she wasn't feeling well and wanted to go home and rest. She told you to call her if you had any work." The secretary relayed Winnie's words. "Does Mr. Bennet know? Calvin knew that Winnie must be sick and have a fever. "I don't know. He has visitor in his office." As the secretary's voice fell, Calvin knocked on the door of the president's office. Get permission and then push the door in.

Without greeting Wendy, and taking a look at her, Calvin went directly to Brian. "Mr. Bennet, Winnie asked for a sick leave. Do you want to see her?" "I know, I asked her to rest at home, but she insisted to come to work." Brian was not so anxious as Calvin, because they referred to different time. "Winnie had come and had finished her work, but she did not feel well and left." Hearing that, Calvin just knew that original Winnie was back in the morning. "When did she come? Why didn't you tell me?" Brian was worried. "The secretary didn't bother you because you had a visitor in your office. Winnie seems to be in high fever, you'd better call her." Calvin had basically ignored the existence of Wendy. Now he hated Wendy very much. Because of her, Brian had ignored Winnie. "When did she go?" "When I went to copy the document." Calvin had a look at the time and found Winnie had left for five minutes. "You come with me." Brian was impatient, ignoring Wendy, took Calvin directly into the president exclusive elevator. Before the elevator door closed, Wendy heard Calvin's voice telling the secretary. "Mr. Bennet and I have something urgent to deal with, we need to go out. You receive the visitor in the office." As the voice of Calvin fell, the elevator door closed and it began to descend. In such a situation, how could Wendy continue to stay, so she could only leave with disappointment. Out of the elevator, Brian told Calvin to call Winnie, because Winnie would not answer his phone. After talking with Winnie, Calvin knew that Winnie was in the hospital, so they drove straight to the hospital. Winnie got a serious fever that she felt even her bones and eyes were hurting. She drove to the hospital enduring the pain and went straight to the doctor who she saw yesterday. When she reached the door of the doctor's office, Brian suddenly took her hand behind her. "Winwin." At that moment, Brian realized that the temperature of Winnie's hands could melt ice quickly. "You get a fever, why not tell me?" Brian was not accusing Winnie, but was self-blaming. "Why, there's no need to tell everyone. I already have an appointment with the doctor. Go in." Winnie said feebly. She did not feel surprised because of the appearance of Brian, but felt uncomfortable. Brian accompanied Winnie to the doctor's office and the doctor diagnosed Winnie. Looking at Winnie's rosy face, the doctor touched Winnie's forehead. "It is hot, this temperature must be at least over 39.5 degrees." The doctor measured the temperature by his own experience, and gave orders to the nurse. "Get the thermometer, and then go and get some medicine for the fever." The doctor prepared for two eventualities to make it faster. "The medicine to take or inject?" Asked the nurse. "For intramuscular injection. The lady is not in good health. The fever must be reduced as soon as possible." After the nurse confirmed, she hurried to the injection room to get it prepared. The doctor asked Winnie to open her mouth and helped her test the temperature. "39.7 body temperature, it is too high, with this lady's physical quality, if the fever goes on, she will pass out." After hearing the doctor's words, Brian became nervous. "Doctor, get infusion first. Infusion is faster." "This lady came last night with a high fever and received infusion this morning because she still had a high fever. The interval was too short for the infusion now." "First bring down the fever, and get infusion in the evening." Hearing what the doctor said, Brian knew that Winnie was so seriously ill, and was in the hospital at midnight last night. "Why didn't you tell me when you called this morning?" Brian asked Winnie softly. "Even if I told you, you can't replace me, instead, you will worry about me." Winnie said indifferently. "This lady is very tough. If I am right, there is no place in your body that does not hurt. The person is in the case of high fever, the head will be dizzy and bones will ache, even muscle and waist are aching. Do you feel your eyes like burning?" The doctor said so because this patient was tough and he could not see any pain in her face. "Yes, but it will be ok, I can endure it." Winnie answered lightly, and did not want herself look weak. However, Brian's heart pulled together because of the doctor's words. Winnie had been ill since last night, but she did not tell him, she must be angry with him, she must be sick because she spent too much time blowing by the sea. He was wrong and caused Winnie sick. At this time, the nurse called Winnie to the injection room. After a fever injection, the doctor did not let Winnie leave but stay in the ward for observation. Winnie's fever had not subsided. She was dizzy lying on the bed. Brian sat on one side and watched. "Are you feeling better now?" Brian had been around and constantly asked her. "I am fine, I am just sleepy and want to sleep." Winnie was not sleepy but a fever made her dizzy. "Don't sleep yet. The doctor told you to drink lots of hot water. It will help cool you down." Brian said and handed the hot water to Winnie. "I can't drink more, my stomach is full." Winnie refused, if she kept drinking, she would vomit out. "Winwin, can you tell me the first time when you get in troubles?" Brian chatted with Winnie and would ask her to drink more hot water when she digested. "I didn't tell you because I don't want to bother you. I will be ok by myself, besides I have aunt and Vanessa." Winnie meant that Brian was not needed, because seeing him when she was sick would make her heartache and make her unable to be tough. "What are you talking about? Are you still angry about what happened yesterday?" Brian could not help but mentioned what happened yesterday. "Yesterday it was that I am not tolerant, I thought too much. Never mind, Let the past in the past." Winnie did not confirm or deny. Although she said it was in the past, she still felt uncomfortable. She loved Brian, could endure that Brian did not care about her. But she could not bear Wendy's injury to her. From now on she would not forgive Wendy, would not forgive Klara. "Winwin, don't do that. If we don't open the knot in heart, we will become more and more distant. As for what happened yesterday, it was that I thought too little and ignored your feelings. I promise you..." Brian wanted to apologize, but he could not say "sorry", at the middle of his sentence, he was interrupted by Winnie. "It's really all right. I said it is in the past. You don't have to promise me anything, just let it be." Winnie did not want to have guarantee from Brian, which she had heard it for many time from him. Whatever was related to Winnie, Brian would think too little and ignored her feelings. Since it was excuse, why did she have to listen to it? "Go back. Don't put the whole company aside because of me. I'll call Emily or Oscar, they can come and stay with me. Don't worry about me. I'll sleep it off." After giving Brian a reassuring smile, Winnie closed her eyes. Winnie felt Brian here would cause burden to her heart even if he said nothing. And she didn't want to talk about the heartache topic any more. Her heart had been scarred, had been glued. Once the tears flew into her heart, it would melt the glue and her heart split again. Winnie's smile was bitter in Brian's eyes. He felt that Winnie still cared about what happened yesterday, and Winnie deliberately alienated him.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 433 REASSURE WINNIE

Winnie's alienation was the last thing Brian wanted to see. It was the best evidence that he did not take good care of Winnie, violation of his promise to Winnie, making her feel sad and could not move on. How should he do? If the mystery in his heart could not be solved, would he be like this for a lifetime? Would Winnie leave sooner or later? But his damned memory no longer moved forward. He did not want to give up, but it did not make any progress. Winnie was still in a fever, he could not leave. He asked Calvin to go back to the company to arrange work and he stayed with Winnie. After a while, Winnie fell asleep, and later she began to have sweat on her forehead, neck and even all over her body. The doctor said this was a sign of fever bringing down. Winnie did not know how long she slept, but when she woke up, she found that all the organs in her body did not hurt, and her eyes did not feel burning. "You have been here? Why not go back? You still have a lot of work to do." Winnie turned her head and found Brian still sitting on the bed, so she asked. "Calvin is back. How can I leave when you are still in a fever?" "Are you feeling better now?" Brian got up and touched Winnie's forehead with his hand. He made sure the temperature was normal before withdrawing his hand. But he had been doing this while Winnie was sleeping. "I'm all right, I'll go back to the company with you." With that, Winnie sat up. "No, the doctor advised you to rest, you may have a fever again. The doctors also advised you not to go home so you won't infect your family. This flu is so bad that there is a great chance of infection." Brian conveyed the words of the doctor. He did not agree that Winnie went home, if she infected the kids, Winnie would be more worried. "Then ask the doctor to get hospitalized for me. It's really bad for the kids if I go home." Winnie was a mother and had enough experience to know that it would infect others. In this way, she could not go to the company, nor go home, she could only stay in the hospital. "Come with me to the suburbs. My sister takes care of you and I can rest assured to work." Brian wanted to take this opportunity to get Winnie back. "I will infect Stella and Rufus, I prefer to be hospitalized. The nurse will take care of me." Winnie insisted, because the suburbs was the place she could not go even if she was sick. How could she go back on the pretext that she was not allowed to go there. "Brian, it's just a cold. Don't worry. Please persuade Chairman to give the kids back to me, only when he promised that, I can feel at ease." Winnie changed the subject. Only as soon as possible to solve the problem related to the kids, Winnie can think of the next step, in order to find a way to leave Brian. How could Brian not worry? One was that he was worried about Winnie's illness, the other was that he was worried about Winnie's attitude of deliberately avoiding him. She clearly was still angry about what happened yesterday and she got sick because of it, but she now downplayed it and said she was all right. He didn't explain. He didn't apologize. He didn't make things clear. How could she be all right? Winnie once again put all hidden in the bottom of her heart, and once again chose to bear silently. But Brian wanted her to yell at him like all the other women and let it out. Only tough people could bury things in heart, but they needed to take a lot of grievances. If she had more injustice, her heart would be away. "Don't worry about the kids, take care of yourself. Grandpa may know that the kids are with you now, but he did nothing, so he would not be cruel." "I'm going to ask my sister to take the two kids to the old house this weekend. The kids' works are the most useful." Brian said, and when there was opportunity, he would communicate with Winnie. "What if Chairman doesn't allow the kids to come back?" Winnie was worried, after all, Felix had not made final decision. "No, my sister can bring them back. Just get well and don't think about anything. I will keep what I promise you. Even if Grandpa doesn't agree to give you custody of the kids in the end, I won't let you separate from them. I will help you and the kids leave together so that Grandpa can never find you." Brian simply put his final card out, so that Winnie could feel at ease. "What about you?" Winnie asked, looking at Brian sadly with expectation. She wanted to know what would happen to Brian if she took the children away. Would he leave with them or stay alone? "I..." Brian hesitated, not knowing how to answer. He wanted to leave with Winnie and the kids, but such a blow to grandpa was fatal, and besides he could not let go of so many staff of the Bennet Group who followed him. And if he left with them, Grandpa won't give up. He'll find them. Then Winnie's situation would be more dangerous. "You want to stay." Winnie gave a bitter answer for Brian before he could answer. "Stay if you want, don't feel hard to make a decision. You don't have to worry about the children, I will take good care of them." Winnie sighed and continued. "Now that you're going to let me leave with the children, there's no need to persuade the chairman. Just arrange for us to leave directly. And take care of the Vanessa's stuff in the school. I can't just take the kids with me. I want to take my aunt and Vanessa with me." Brian's words did reassure Winnie that at least she could be with her children. From the moment she knew that Luke was her son, Winnie had been looking for an opportunity to leave Brian with her two kids. Now she got the opportunity, but she was disappointed in Brian's attitude. She wanted Brian to say he would leave with them, wanted to spend the rest of her life with Brian. But she was in the daydream, she was not important enough to make Brian give up family, give up career, give up a large forest to choose her insignificant grass.

"Winwin, this is the last thing we can do. I'm still going to try to get you to stay in B City. In that way, I can have a career and children." "I can't just let you go without trying efforts. My life would be colorless without you." Winnie's words made Brian feel cold. He suddenly felt that he had lost Winnie and kids, suddenly felt that he was alone in the world and that Winnie abandoned him. But the fact was, he did not choose Winnie but to stay down alone. "Maybe. Time will get you used to it." Winnie deliberately said her words indifferently. Since she and the children were so important to him, why not choose them? But Winnie would say out these words, she would not force Brian to do anything he did not like.

"Winwin, are you willing to leave me?" Brian asked Winnie. He did not understand why she could put the words so easily. Winnie, however, ducked the subject. "Brian, I am hungry. Bring me something to eat." Brian gazed sadly at Winnie and looked away after a long while "Wait, I'll order food for you." Brian did not ask any further questions. He was afraid that the two would quarrel if the subject continued. The two of them ate together and Winnie felt much better. She wanted to return to the company but was rejected by Brian. Brian asked Winnie to rest in the hospital room and drink as much hot water as possible to avoid a fever again. Winnie knew that no matter where she went, it was irresponsible behavior, so she could only stay in the hospital. After calling her aunt, she lay in bed to rest. At this time, Brian went out to Kevin to see if there was a better way. Kevin was on the afternoon shift. As he just arrived at the hospital, Brian came. "You know I come work at this hour, you are on time." Before Kevin put on the white coat, Brian came timely. "I've been here for a while and Winnie is here, she gets a fever." Brian said in a low tone and he was in low spirit. "You have been in the hospital? Why didn't you tell me? I'll go and see Winwin first." As he said that, Kevin quickly put on the white coat. Kevin was to leave after changing the clothes, but Brian stopped him. "A doctor had check on her, now she is fine and taking rest in the ward." "Kevin, let's talk. I'm torn right now." Looked at Brian's depressing face, he guessed why he was upset. Kevin looked at the time and found it was ahead of the work time, so he took Brian to the roof of the hospital. "It's quieter and has a wide view. Not saying anything will even make you feel better here." It was the first time Kevin had brought Brian here, just to ease Brian's mood. Kevin looked back at Brian and continued to say. "Does Winnie find out the woman who saved your life?" "No." Brian replied in a deep voice. "That woman has been found?" Kevin wondered. "No, If she has been found, the problem will have been solved. And I won't have any worries." Brian took a sigh, and did not improve the mood because of the broad vision here. "What is it? Say it." Kevin urged eagerly. "Winwin is sick because..." Brian briefly said what happened in these days. "So Winwin got sick from the sea breeze? You know she is weak physically, why let her blow the sea breeze?" Kevin controlled his temper and would have lost his temper if Brian had not been upset. "That woman isn't important, and you're not sure your heart to her. If you recover your memory she is only your rescuer and it has nothing to do with your feeling, and you will regret hurting Winwin." Kevin continued. "And you have broken up with Wendy, you should keep a distance from her. It can be solved on the phone if there is any problems, or you can ask Albert they to solve it. Why do you have to meet? It makes Winwin uncomfortable." "What I am most worried about now is that that woman is Wendy. What do you want me to do if it is Wendy? If it is Wendy, it means I have hurt my rescuer."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 434 WENDY'S WINDFALL

Because he was not sure if Wendy was that woman or now, he had a peaceful attitude to her, so he had been tangled. "Wendy just wore a dress very similar to that woman's. The casual clothes were everywhere. Let Winwin wear them, let Daenerys wear them. They might also be the woman who had saved you. Why don't you think it's unfair for Winwin that you judge so casually? How much she has done for you and how much she loves you?" "Do you really want a woman who loves you to leave you? How can you really hurt her?" Kevin's question made Brian speechless. He made Winwin sad without knowing the truth. That was not the way he did things. Why did it all go wrong with women? Brian said nothing, and Kevin continued to say. "Wendy did not apologize to her, but still contacted with Klara. Do you think they won't continue to hurt Winwin?" "Your attitude to Wendy is wrong. Since you have broken you, you should not be hesitate because of anything. If you procrastinate like this, Wendy and Klara won't care about Winwin." "And you're going to make Winnie insecure. She's going to wonder if you love her or not. Brian, don't think of silly things any more. You used to do things quickly, but now you procrastinate." Kevin was very helpless. He had advised Brian how many times. Although he could understand Brian's entanglement, Brian should consider the present situation. "I just don't know what to do now. Now Winwin wants to stay away from me and when I want to explain to her, she always avoided me. I am afraid I can't keep her around if it moves on." Brian finally spoke. "It is your problem. Winwin has put up with it enough. She doesn't say anything, doesn't ask for anything, doesn't cause you any trouble. I think she it has reached to her limit." "Brian, you must find out who is most important to you now. If you don't understand, you will lost Winwin and regret it." Kevin was worried. Winnie was obviously disappointed now. A woman did not stay with the man for seek fame and wealth. There were few people could do that. But a woman's tolerance was limited. When she could not take it anymore, she would leave even if she was sad and painful. "The most important thing for me now is Winwin. Nobody can take her place in my heart." "Don't worry about me. I know what to do." Brian seemed to have figured it out. His primary task now was to cherish Winwin. As for those faint memories, let nature take its course. Before Brian and Kevin had finished talking, Calvin called, saying the company needed Brian to deal with something. Brian asked Kevin to take care of Winnie and then went directly back to the company. However, Kevin and Brian's conversation was heard by Wendy. She heard it not by coincidence, but deliberately. After coming out from the Bennet Group, she had following Brian's car. At the beginning, she just wanted to know which hospital Winnie was in, but when she arrived at the hospital, she followed Brian all the time. Unexpectedly she had windfall and actually heard Brian and Kevin's conversation. She began to think about that woman in their conversation. She wasn't sure what happened, but she was sure it wasn't her. Wendy suddenly remembered Brian's call before she went abroad. On the phone, Brian was angry and told all the things about herself. He said that he liked the wrong woman and that Wendy was not that woman who saved him. Wendy was exposed at that time, so she was stunned and panic and did not pay attention to Brian's following words. Now it seemed that it could the Woman in Brian and Kevin's conversation. It seemed that Brian's heart was not entirely for Winnie's, that was to say, Winnie was likely to be a traveler in Brian's life. Wendy was still on the roof, but now she showed cunning eyes. Since Kevin knew Winnie was sick, Daenerys knew it, since Daenerys knew it, Leo knew it. Taking this as an excuse, Leo asked Emily out. On the way to the hospital. Emily had been silent, Leo felt that the atmosphere was too dull and spoke. "Why don't you get out since you get well?" "I don't want to go out. I learn something at home that I can use when I go abroad." Emily replied in a low voice. They had not seen each other for several days since Leo had been driven away. Although she missed Leo very much, she forbore. She didn't call him, or send him message. She rejected his calls and ignored his messages. However, when Leo appeared in front of her, her mood was complex, mixing with inexplicable joy and intermittent heartache. "How are the procedures for going abroad?" Leo continued to ask. "No news yet, they always said that I have some formalities which do not qualify. It seems that the formalities of settling down abroad are troublesome." Emily kept looking out of the window as she spoke, not daring or wanting to look at Leo driving in front of her. Or, she would have heartache or feel softhearted. "Aren't you going to study abroad? You are to settle down?" Leo asked with doubts. Settling down was not the same as studying abroad. "Studying abroad takes years. It's no different from settling down." Emily was still indifferent, hiding her feelings in her heart. "Emily, are you really not going to give me another chance?" Leo began to feel sad, although he knew that Emily could not go away for the time being, he knew that if Emily was determined to leave, he would not be able to let her stay forever. "There's only one chance between people, and we've used it up." Emily said with a sigh and heartache, and then pretended to be tough and said. "Talk to Winwin about our affairs as soon as possible. If it's too late, I'm afraid I'll leave." Emily had to remind Leo again and again for fear that what she was worried about would happen. "Give me one more chance, and feel with your heart if I really like you." Leo fought for the chance again. After he said this, he looked at Emily in the rearview mirror, but she still looked out of the window with the same posture. "Stop talking about it. Everyone has the right to be loved, and everyone has the right to refuse love. I don't want to waste time on love. You'd better put your heart on someone else. For the one you love, you can find another woman to replace me." How could Emily give him a chance? Leo had been fighting for an opportunity, but the pendant had been in the car. Although it was only a small souvenir, it had extraordinary meaning for Leo. That pendant was there, which proved that Leo could not let Winnie go. If so, even if she gave him a chance, she was just substitute. Since then, she would not give Leo the opportunity to hurt her. The two men stopped talking and remained silent until they reached the hospital. They came to the ward together, which surprised Winnie. "How do you know I am here?" "Kevin knew it, don't you think we will not know it?" At this time, Emily looked energetic, walking toward the hospital bed as she spoke. Then Leo suddenly pulled her. "Wait a minute." Then Leo took out a disposable disinfection mask and put it on for her before she had any reaction. "I don't have to wear it." "It will be safer. You have just had recovered, so you have low immunity, don't get infected." Leo said warmly and Emily was touched. Emily hoped Leo was not acting, but cared about her from the heart. After helping Emily put it on, he and Emily walked over to Winnie. Leo handed another mask to Winnie. "Come on, don't loathe it. Put it on, for double insurance." Winnie took the mask with a smile and put it on herself. "Emily, there are not many sunshine boy like this. You must hold fast, or he will be robbed by others." Winnie joked. She thought Emily was the happiest woman in the world because she had met the warmest man in the world. "Mine won't be robbed away. If I hold him too tightly, he will feel annoyed. It's a routine, and no man should be held too tightly." Emily said jokingly, but her heart was bitter. She admitted that Leo was indeed one of the few sunshine men, but it was a pity that she could not catch this warm man's heart, it was a pity that this sunshine man had a woman he loved. "You don't have much relationship, but you get much experience. It is quite reasonable." Winnie burst out laughing. Every time she saw Emily, she felt like she was in a good mood. Emily was a little angel, fighting for nothing. "Of course, or how do I control a man's heart?" Emily joined Winnie, and then continued to speak. "Daenerys' kid would be one month old. Get well and we can drink together." "We can drink, but Daenerys can't. If she drinks, the baby will get drunk too." Winnie was still laughing, as if she had not been so happy in many days. "I forget that.

Then we drink at home to allure her." Emily smiled as if she had been kissed by the angel. Then she realized something and hold back her smile. "Are you alone in the hospital with nobody to take care of you?" "My aunt was coming, but I didn't allow that because I am afraid she will get infected. The kids and Vanessa don't know I am sick." Winnie answered indifferently. She did not feel wrong being alone in hospital, because she had been used to it. "How about your boyfriend? Doesn't he know?" Emily continued to ask, she felt that Brian was not qualified as Leo. "He had been here for a while, but he came back because he got something to do." "You are too miserable. I can lend you my boyfriend. You are sick, but your boyfriend only focuses on work, he is not good." Emily said jokingly, but she wanted to create an opportunity for Leo. Although she felt ridiculous, it was not a bad thing that Winnie and Leo were together. "Forget it, if I'll stay here and Mr. Bennet knows it, I will be hospitalized." Leo managed to defuse the awkward jokes.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 435 ANOTHER FEVER

Leo could take care of Winnie, but as a friend. He did not have other motives. Leo continued to joke. "If I have to take care of you, Emily must be with me, otherwise I can't bear the responsibility." "You don't need to take care of me. I just have a cold. Why are you so nervous?" "Well, you can go back. I am fine, don't worry. If you stay long, you will be infected." Winnie did not want more people to get sick, and didn't want everyone to worry about her. She could ask them to leave. "All right, if nothing happens, we will leave first. If no one is with you in the evening, you can call me, I will be here." Emily decided to leave, not because of Winnie but she was tired of acting. After Leo and Emily left, Winnie felt ill again and felt her body temperature rising. For fear of affecting Brian's work, she had to call a doctor by herself. After the doctor's examination, the nurse began to give infusion to Winnie. As the infusion just began, before the doctor and nurse had left, Brian came to the ward. "Have a fever again?" When Brian saw the doctor and nurse, he guessed that Winnie had a fever. "Yes, but not that high. The temperature is 38.5 degrees. It does not need medicine to cool down temporarily." The doctor answered Brian. "Why get a fever again? She is taking medicine and getting infusion, but she doesn't get well." Brian was worried. Winnie's physical quality was weak, and she could not stand such a torment. Brian was really afraid that Winnie would get fainted. "The virus is obstinate, and all these patients have repeat fevers. But it is not a high fever, it is better." "You don't have to worry, after this infusion, she will feel much better, and she will be fine by tomorrow morning at the latest." The doctor understood Brian's eagerness, as family members were in such a mood. "Can we go home?" Brian asked. He was afraid that Winnie could not rest well in the hospital. "Yes, you can go home when the infusion is over. But prepare some medicine to reduce fever in case you need it." The doctor allowed Winnie to go home. Even if she was in the hospital, she could only take antipyretics. The doctor explained and left the room with the nurse. Winnie at this time was dizzy. "Have you got your work done?" Winnie did not care about herself but concerned about Brian's work. "Yes. I'll bright you some hot water. You can't have a fever all the time though it is not high." Brian got up, then Winnie held Brian's hand weakly. "I can't drink it now. I'll drink it later." Winnie's hand was hot, which made Brian even more worried. "Then drink it later. Take medicine if you have a high temperature." Brian felt sorry but had no other way. Winnie closed her eyes, but did not let go of her hand on Brian. "I feel very tired. I really want to lie here and not to think anything." Winnie said with emotion, but she was not tired physically but mentally. "If you are tired don't work. You can rest for a lifetime with me around." Brian said it with certainty, because he could be sure of it. Let alone a lifetime, he could support her for a few lifetimes even if she did not work. "Then I will become a waste? I'd better work, it doesn't matter to be tired." Winnie would rather feel tired than to be supported with money. Her only dignity was not to give in to money. "I want to go to sleep. I'll be all right after a good sleep. Please keep an eye on the infusion." Winnie said polite words in a naughty way. She did not want to trouble anyone, but she had to. It was not a high fever and there was no pain in her body, but she was so dizzy that she couldn't think of anything. She could let herself fall asleep. Winnie soon fell asleep, and Brian sat by the bed. It was Winnie who had held his hand. Now he was holding her hand in his own. Looking at Winnie's reddish face, looking at her dry lips due to fever, Brian felt sad. Although Winnie loved him, Brian felt that she reserved and did not dare to express all her love. She was so insecure about love that she dared not give away all she had. However, he gave Winnie this feeling of insecurity. When Winnie woke up, she felt much better and her temperature dropped. But it didn't look like she was in the hospital. Looking around, Winnie was sure that she was in hilltop villa. This was a place she didn't want to come to, since she knew that the woman in the picture was very important to Brian, she had no feelings for this place. She felt she would fight for Brian with that woman. When Winnie got up, Brian came in. "You are up." Brian went to the bed and touched Winnie's forehead to make sure that she did not have a fever. "What time is it and why am I here?" Winnie felt confused and did not know what time it was. "It's more than nine o'clock. You didn't wake up after the infusion, so I brought you here. The kids are not here. We are the only two here, so you don't have to worry infecting others. And the air here is good for your recovery." Brian's tone was gentle, and his words were warm. "Send me back to the hospital. I am afraid you can't sleep well if I have a fever in the middle of the night." Winnie found an excuse. She didn't want to be here. "If you are in the hospital, I will be with you. The doctor said in the midnight you may have a fever, I will worry about you if you are alone." "Are you hungry? I'll give you something to eat." As Brian was about to get up, Winnie said. "I have no appetite. I don't feel like eating anything. Get me a glass of water. I want to have more sleep." Winnie really did not want to eat anything, she felt she was to vomit. Since she couldn't get out of here, she would go to sleep early so that she wouldn't mind anything. "I'll get you some water. Take your medicine and then go to bed." Brian walked out, leaving Winnie alone in the bedroom. Winnie's eyes fell on the drawer containing several mobile phones. Was that woman there? Was she Brian's first love? Brian had deep feelings for her that his feeling was still there though he had lost his memory. When Winnie was in a daze, Brian came in with water and medicine. Winnie obediently took the medicine and then lay down. "I'm still dizzy. I'm going to sleep." As soon as Winnie said this, Brian turned off all the lights in the room. It was dark in the bedroom, but Winnie felt that Brian was lying next to her. "Don't get so close to me. You'll be infected." Winnie pushed Brian with her hand. If he was infected, his work would be completely suspended. But Brian did not stay away. Instead, he embraced Winnie in his arms. "If I don't get close to you, how can I know if you have a fever or not?" "We haven't been together for a long time. Let me hold you." Brian was not afraid of being infected. It was better if he was infected. Then he could rest with Winnie. Winnie said nothing, the dark room fell silent. But this silence did not made Winnie feel sweet, but depressed. "Open the curtains. I want to see the sky." Obediently, Brian reached for the remote control of the curtain and opened it. When the curtains were opened, the light from the courtyard was reflected into the bedroom, and the faint light from the stars in the sky finally made Winnie relaxed. "The view here is so good, it makes me feel good." Winnie said. "Winwin, there is something I want to tell you." Brian was not in the mood to see outside. He was thinking about how to say it so that Winnie could accept it. "What is it?" Winnie was confused, but at the same time she began to worry. She was afraid that what Brian said would be too much for her to bear. "Did I tell you about the woman in the picture?" Brian's tone was slow, afraid that Winnie could not accept it. Winnie felt never. She thought Brian had found that woman and he wanted to break up. "Yes." She answered as indifferent as possible. Even if Brian wanted to break up, even if she would have heartache, she had to pretend as if she was ok with it. "I came back two days late from my last business trip because of that woman. I looked for her there for two days." Brian paused at this point, as he could clearly feel Winnie's body tightening. Winnie bore it and asked no questions. Because she didn't want to know about the process, she just wanted to hear the result. "But I couldn't find her." Brian continued. "I don't know what I feel about that woman, I wanted to find her out, wanted to find out what I feel. So I didn't pay much attention to you those days." "But the person I love the most now is you. Even if I find her, even if I know what I feel about her, I will still choose you." Brian was candid about his feelings. At the beginning, he did not want to tell Winnie about it and wanted to deal with it quietly. But it did not work, because if Winnie found it out herself, she would be sad. Winnie said nothing but sighed, because Brian did not put forward to break up, she felt relaxed. "Brian, you know that I have never asked you to give me an identity or status. Even if you feel you love that woman, I am ok with it. After all, you know her ahead of me." Winnie finally spoke. She felt it necessary to give her attitude and try not to make it hard for Brian. Winnie continued. "Don't worry too much about what I think, but do as you please. She's your memory. Find her and you'll find your lost memories. I thank you for telling this to me and for thinking I have right to know about it." "Winwin, don't say that. In this world, the person I love most is you, the person I want to grow old together is you. So you have right to know everything." Brian felt Winnie's answer was so polite and so formal. The more she said that, the more it proved that she cared and she felt hurtful because of this matter. "Winwin, even if I have my memory back, even if I had liked her, I believe the person I choose is you." "I'm telling you this because I don't want you to get your head around it and get hurt."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 436 CHOOSE BETWEEN HER AND ME

Brian paused for a moment and continued. "And as for my attitude towards Wendy, it was because she may be that woman. If she really saved my life, I'm afraid I'll feel guilty for being so unkind to her." "But you don't have to take it to heart, I have no feelings for Wendy, it is impossible we get back together." Now that it had been spoken of, Brian should make it clear, so that Winnie would not feel uncomfortable. Winnie sighed again, but felt much more comfortable than when she had wild thought. But it's too late for Brian to mention it. She knew that it was impossible for her and Brian to be together in the future, so she could not interfere with how many women Brian had. They would not get married in the end, so she could not expect too much of Brian. But the only thing she wanted was Brian's attitude. Like now, if he said it out, she would feel better, or she would feel being ignored and cheated. "Do it in your own way, and I will not interfere. Whether Wendy is that woman or not, I would forgive her. I didn't send her to prison, it is already an act of tolerance." "I want nothing, but she will never be where I am. If you feel difficult to do with it, choose between her and me." "Wendy still doesn't think what she did to me is wrong, it proves that she doesn't give up on you at all. Everything she did is ostensibly staged for you to see." Now that Brian had said so, Winnie had no choice but to say what she thought. She felt everything that Wendy did was to get back to Brian, during this process, she would be hurt avoidably. "Winwin, Wendy has given up on me and won't bother us anymore." Brian did not want Winnie to have grudge, but wanted her to be as sunny as before. But his words were like giving unprincipled protection to Wendy in Winnie's eyes. But Winnie did not complain. His opinion on Wendy was his own business. "Maybe I'm overthinking about it, but I think I should remind you that if she's doing anything to hurt me, I'm not going to spare her." Winnie said with certainty. She would not attack anyone, but she would take anyone's attack silently. She had to protect herself, for the sake of her two children. Because other people's protection was lip service, she could only rely on her own. She had no backup, no one to rely on, so she had to be tough. "No, it won't happen again. Don't think about anything, just take care of yourself and be a good mother." "Give me some time and I will find out who the woman is as soon as possible. If it is not Wendy, I will stay away from her." Brian pacified Winnie, knowing that she had been unable to forgive Wendy. It was natural she could not forgive Wendy, after all, Wendy did not really apologize to Winnie. In order to relax Winnie, he had to speed up. "Memory doesn't take a rush to recover, so take your time." Winnie comforted Brian and then she said nothing more. She just said she was too sleepy, turned her back against Brian and then closed her eyes. She had no right to intervene Brian's affair and she did not care he believed Wendy or her. She had warned him of the possibility, just to give him a reminder. Whether or not Brian realized the importance of this reminder, it was his own business. Winnie couldn't sleep after a long time. That night she figured out a lot of things, figured out her heart, and knew what she should do in the future. She wanted to think nothing, as before, for man had no power of foretelling, and it is vain to think about it. She did want to fight for anything, because even if she tried, it might not belong to her. In the next days, she had no fever anymore, but she still got a cold. Winnie was sent to hospital for infusion by Brian, and he then went back to company. After telling her aunt about her condition over the phone, she continued to get infusion. However, Wendy came to her ward. "What are you doing here?" Winnie looked at Wendy alertly. "I come to see you." Wendy's attitude was different with Winnie's. she said in a low and soft voice, and she did not seem scheming. "How do you know I am here?" "I knew you are sick and hospitalized when I was in Brian's office yesterday, so I come to see you." "I... It's been long since what happened to us, and I feel ashamed to come to you. Today I come to apologize to you." "Winwin, it was my bad. I was impulsive and made you and you children hurt. I promise it won't happen again." It was too sudden, and Winnie could not believe it. And it was interesting. She said she would not apologize yesterday, but now she was in her ward. Did she do it deliberately? But it was unimportant if Wendy made apology or not, but there was no sincerity in her eyes. "Ok, you can go out. I will affect you, if you get sick, I can't take the responsibility." Winnie did not care Wendy's apology and did not want Wendy to stand in front of her. "Winwin, I hope you can forgive me and we can be friends." "Have a rest, I will come and see you the other day." With that, she turned and left. Winnie did not feel comfortable, so she got off the bed and walked out of the ward pushing the infusion shelf. As she walked out, Wendy turned to the elevator. She caught up. As she turned too and saw Wendy, she gave a ironic smile. Why? Because Klara was standing at the door of the elevator. What did it mean? It meant that Wendy came after discussion with Klara and that they had a plan. Wendy and Klara did not notice Winnie and they kept talking. "Did she accept your apology?" Klara asked. "It is her business, I didn't mean it." As her voice fell, Winnie spoke, which frightened the two. "Wendy, I really hope you meant to apologize, but now it is proved that it is pointless." Wearing that ironic smile, Winnie said. Then she became serious and her eyes became cold. "What you are planning on? Never mind, I can paly with you. Klara, you are persistent. Wendy has broken up with Brian, what of she is useful to you?" Winnie said to Klara warningly. Hearing that, Klara was awkward and there was panic in her eyes. "Winnie, I don't get you.

Wendy and I feel sorry for you, so we came to apologize. It is ok that you don't accept it but you can distort our hearts." Klara defended for herself. But she did not explain that Why Winnie said she used Wendy, for fear that Winnie would expose her out of anger. "You are here to apologize? Why only Wendy came to the ward and you are out?" Winnie was domineering, because she had to expose their false face. "Klara, since you dare worked together with Wendy to go against me, admit it." As the moment Wendy saw Klara was in the hospital too, she knew that they had their plain. No matter how Klara defended herself, she would not believe her. Now she regretted that she had forgiven Klara for many times, or Klara would not be so arrogant. "Winnie, it is not like that, we don't work together to go against you. We do come to apologize to you." Wendy said. Though they got caught, she could not let their efforts go vain. "Then what did you say just now?" Winnie once again gave the ironic smile. Since they did not admit it, she had her way to shut them up. "Nothing, we just fear that you don't accept our apology." Wendy was fluttered. "On your way to here, you must have talked about how to apology. If there is a record in the car, we can have a check." Winnie said and felt playing with the two was fun, she felt pleased when she saw their gloomy faces. "There is no record in the car, we can't prove that we are innocent." Klara was calm compared to Wendy, but she felt that she could not hold on in face of the domineering Winnie. "Check the WeChat then. You must have communicated on the WeChat. Don't you want to prove that you are innocent, show your chat record and prove your innocence." Winnie raised a request. Wendy at this time was panic and did not know what to say, so she had to say. "It has been deleted." But then she felt wrong and then said. "I mean..." She wanted to explain, but Winnie was sure that they must have something could not been seen in the chat record, so she did not want to play with them anymore. "Don't defend, Wendy, even if you have deleted it, I can restore it. Even if you don't give me your phone, I can hack into it." Hearing that, Klara was panic too. "Without our permission, it is illegal to hack in our phone." Klara raised her voice and confronted with Winnie. And now Winnie cast her eyes to Klara. "Klara, Wendy doesn't know my ability, but don't you know it? Since I have the ability to hack in your phone, I have the ability to avoid being found out. I can erase the browse record. "Don't defend yourselves anymore, it is meaningless. Don't you want to frame me and get me away from Brian, well, just try, but if you hurt my children, I will not spare you."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 437 THE WOMAN IN HIS MEMORY

Winnie had to warm them and had to directly expose their true faces. "I hope you can attack me in the front me instead of from the back, if you fail, you may hurt yourself." With that, she turned with the infusion shelf. After that, she remembered she still have something to say. Then she turned to Wendy. "Fix your household registration, but let it become my handhold." Winnie once again reminded Wendy, she believed that this reminder was a weak point for Wendy. After Winnie left, Wendy and Klara turned pale on face. Wendy's heart trembled because of Winnie's remaindered. It had been a long time, she thought Winnie would have forgotten it, but she remembered it all the tome and now she threatened her as a handhold. Klara was panic and annoyed. Winnie almost exposed her motive, she was clearly warming her, so she had to be careful. They felt better when to returned to the car. Remembering what Winnie said to Wendy, she asked. "Wendy, did we fail today?" "I think so, if Brian knows that we made a perfunctory apology, he will now believe me." Wendy regretted it. She did not expect that Winnie was so alert and would follow her even if she was in infusion. She was not unthoughtful, if she came alone, it would not end up like this. "Wendy, what does Winnie mean by her last words? What is wrong with you household registration?" Klara asked curiously and put all her attention on Wendy's expression, trying to find any clues. Sure enough, Wendy looked panic and then gave a perfunctory answer. "I don't know, I don't get her." Wendy said she did not understand, but her eyes were erratic. Seeing that, Klara had doubts and she remembered Wendy's call. She did not know what happened, but she felt Wendy had something to hide from her. "Winnie is swashbuckling, she is talking nonsense. Don't mind it, Wendy. It doesn't matter we failed, we still have plan B. You contact Mr. Bennet openly and get him back." Klara did not ask anymore but encouraged Wendy. Wendy would not say out her secret and it needed to be found out. Winnie did not tell Brian that Wendy had come to the hospital, because it is pointless, and Brian would do nothing to Wendy. After a day of resting in the hospital, she came to the company. There were a lot of work to do. If she did not work, the schedule would be delayed and it would bring lost to the Bennet Group. She was focus on work and forgot about the time and even forgot to have lunch. If it were not Brian came to find her, she might could only had supper. As they were to go out and reached the elevator, Wendy walked out of the elevator. "Are you going out?" Wendy asked in a soft voice. "Do you have something to say?" Brian asked. "Yes, but if you are going out, I can come another day." Wendy pretended to be ok with that, but Winnie spoke at this hour. "You talk first. I sill have work to you, let me know when you finish." Winnie said to Brian and then turned back to her office. She knew what Wendy was doing, but she did not care. Brian did not belong to her, whoever took him, it was the same to her. Even if Wendy got Brian, it was not easy for her to be accepted by the Bennet family. Brian took Wendy to his office. He did not ask he to sit down and he kept a distance from Wendy. "Wendy, before you say anything, I have something to tell you. Don't come to me suddenly, please make an appointment with my secretary, so as not to affect my schedule." After talking with Kevin, he determined to focus on Winnie. Only when he stayed away from Wendy, Winnie would not be sad. "I am sorry, I forgot to make an appointment, I will next time." Wendy said sadly. In the past, whenever she came, Brian never said anything about it, but now it was different. "What do you want to say? I will go out soon." As he said that, he took a look at her watch, for fear that Winnie would be impatient. "Well, you asked me if we had an accident, I didn't remember at that time? I recalled a car accident last night, does that count?" Wendy said and she believed that Brian would not be in hurry to leave after hearing that. Sure enough, there was change in his face. He frowned, looking nervous. "What did you say? We had a car accident? When? Where? What does that car look?" Brian got emotion and nervous. Was Wendy really that woman he had been looking for? "I don't remember when, it should be before we started dating. It should be abroad and I don't remember what the car looked. I am so nervous that I don't remember it." This information was from Brian's phone call years ago. On the phone, Brian asked the questions one by one, as if he was confirming something, but Wendy could only remember some one of them, and she would take that she did not remember as an excuse for those parts she did not know. Brian was tunned for a moment. He had been expecting, but why did he not excited when he heard this news? Was it because it was Wendy? The he asked a few questions, but Wendy gave a vague answer, but it was enough to make sure Wendy was that woman. Brian finally felt relieved. It did not matter that it was Wendy. He had no feeling for her, though it was the fact she saved him. "We did not know each other and I don't remember the specific situation. I lost this part of my memory, and I think it was you saved me." Brian was not sure, but he could not pretend he knew nothing. "You are my saver, Wendy, if you need help, I will help you." Brian did not know how to thank her, he promised that if she got difficulties, he would help her. "I don't need help. I told you just because it came to me mind. I thought it is useful to you, so I come to tell you. I am fine and I don't need help, I just hope you can be happy.” Wendy said in a low and soft voice. She did not need any help, she just needed Brian, but she could not say that. “I will be happy, you too, take care of yourself.” Brian answered. He could understand Wendy. They had many years being together, she would not get over him easily. After Wendy left, Brian was in daze alone in the office. He now had the answer, but he was still curious and could not help thinking about it. But as he thought, he had a headache, so he had to give up. He walked out of his office and went out to have lunch with Winnie. At the table. “No matter what you are thinking, don’t think now, if you don’t eat now, it will be time for work.” Winnie did not ask anything but reminded Brian to eat. Brian came back to his sense. He did not continue to eat but told Winnie what happened. “Now I am sure that woman saved me is Wendy, she came to tell me.” Hearing that, Winnie was nervous. She guessed that he might be unhappy because of Wendy, but she did not expect this. “Then you should be happy, why are you depressed?” Winnie adjusted her mood and then asked Brian. “I don’t know. I know it now but I don’t remember a bit of it.” That was why Brian was depressed. “Don’t think about it. If you don’t get your memory back, you can’t think about it for the rest of your life. No matter what you are not sure about it, don’t mind it. Don’t be sad for the uncertain thing. It is not late to deal with it when it comes.” Winnie took a breath of relief. She thought Brian was to get back to Wendy, and she made him feel difficult to deal with. But, if not, Winnie had to show her attitude. She said jokingly. “I thought you will get back to her because you know she was your saver, and that is why you are depressed, don’t worry, if you want to get back to her, I will let you go.” After that, she forced a naughty smile, showing her attitude. “Nonsense, my heart is on you, I won’t get back to her. I do feel sorry for her, but I can’t go back to her. Don’t talk nonsense, eat.” Brian gave a warming look to Winnie and then continued to eat. It had been in the past and he would not be with Wendy, but it was inevitable that he would have more contact with her, and he was afraid that Winnie would mind. Wendy was in a daze alone in her car, wondering how long her lie could last. Once Brian had his memory back, she could not act anymore. It seemed that she had to speed up, making it a fact before Brian got his memory back. After thinking a while, she left in car. She sent someone to check the monitoring in the prison, wanting to finish the task Penny gave her.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 438 EXCHANGE INFORMATION

After work, Brian parted with Winnie. Winnie went home and he came to hospital to find Kevin. He told Kevin about Wendy and his uneasy mood. “I don’t know why I still want my memory back.” Brian did not know why he had concern and felt something wrong, and he still cared about that woman in the picture. “It is normal, if it were me, I want to get memory back because it is real in the memory.” “Brian, didn’t Wendy require for anything?” Kevin asked. He was sure that it was not Wendy, because they met after that accident. But Wendy knew much about it and dared to replace that woman, it meant she had her plan. “No, she asked for nothing.” Brian answered in a low voice. “How about you? Do you change your mind? Do you regret breaking up with her because you know she had saved you?” Kevin asked. If Brian had changed his mind, he would not conceal it, and he believed that Wendy had her plan. “I know what is love and what is gratitude. I have feeling to Wendy and we won’t be back together. I promised her I will help you if she needs help.” Brian said with certainty. He could pay back for her help but girlfriend could not be changed. “Ok, you have your position on that, don’t hurt Winnie again.” After confirming what Kevin had in mind, Kevin felt relieved, but he had to be careful of Wendy. Kevin continued to remind him. "Wendy did not request for anything, you should be careful too. She said she had moved on, but I don't believe it. You had been together for years, and now you separated, I don't think she can move on so soon. If you break up with Winwin, can you move on so soon?" "So watch your behavior and keep an eye on her, don't give her any chance." "I will, if I won't, Winwin will be unhappy. I can't hurt her again and I will pay attention to her mood." Brian guaranteed and reminded himself. After he left, Kevin made a call to Stella and told her what happened. "Stella, should we expose Wendy?" Kevin could not determine what to do, so he called Stella for help. "No, if we expose her, Brian would continue to find the truth, we don't want him to get his memory back for the time being." Stella stood for the Bennet family and gave a full consideration. And she had to consider what her grand told her not long before. But the Bennet family had respective mind, but on the surface it was peaceful. It was in a mess, if Brian kept searching for the truth, it would not do good to anyone. So she prefer to conceal it and let Wendy be proud. "Wendy solved that problem for us in this way actually, never mind." "I thought so, but Wendy must have her purpose, I am afraid it will hurt Winwin, if so, Winwin and Brian will have no hope." "Stella, find a way out, I think Winnie's family is more important. Kevin gave his thought. If it was dealt with earlier, it would be good to everyone. "It makes sense, I will find a way out." Stella hung up the phone. She felt Kevin's words were reasonable. Winnie did not dare to accept Brian's affection, if Wendy made a scene, Winnie would give up. Wendy found out the man Penny did not know within the time Penny gave. But she was stunned, looking at the man in the video. How could it be Thomas? What were their relationship? The Bennet family should not come to see Penny, but with his help, Penny had a comfortable life in the prison. Wendy did not tell Penny about it immediately. She needed to think of it and found out the secret. But after thinking for a night, she did not find anything wrong. She wondered she could tell it to Brain, if once she told him, her purpose would be exposed. Finally, she decided to see Penny and wanted to get something from her mouth. She came in the morning and saw Penny. "You come with answer." Penny was expecting, but she pretended to be arrogant, for fear that she lost to Wendy in momentum. "Yes, or I won't come." "That man is Thomas Bennet." Wendy went straight to the point. At this time, Penny was stunned? "Thomas Bennet?" She first thought who he was and then she raised her eyes and looked at Wendy in disbelief. "Brian's uncle?" "Yes." Wendy gave her answer. Penny did not expect that he would be from the Bennet family. But why? Was it because he had bad relationship with Brian? Penny knew that Thomas and Brain had a bad relationship from her father Richard. She had never seen him, but she knew it from his name. Her father had mentioned their bad relationship for more than once, but she did not expect that Thomas would come to her like this. "I don't understand why he came to see me." Penny showed that she did not know anything, and Wendy thought it was truth. "I have told you what you want to know, you should tell me how I should deal with Winnie." Wendy did not care about Thomas, now for her the most importance was Brian and Winnie. "Sure, first, you can't do it directly. You should find a way to make him touched and caused some misunderstanding for Winnie." Penny wanted to deal with Winnie, so she gave advice to Wendy. "Cause misunderstanding?" Wendy asked with doubts. "Find a way to make Winnie misunderstand Brian and Brian misunderstand Winnie. In this way, they will break up." At this, Penny was sure that Wendy had limited capability and she had to explain. "What is the second way?" Wendy asked. It was not easy to carry out the first method and she had failed. "I am not sure about it, but you can try. Once it works, it is much better than the first method." Penny continued. "I have been suspecting about Winnie's identity, but I got nothing. such a person has a purpose to get approach to Brain, but I don't have much time to expose her. If you are capable, you can investigate her, and she may flinch." Penny was not sure about but she had been trying to figure it out, but now she was in prison, so she had to tell Wendy to do it. Hearing that, Wendy felt she had hope and felt what she had done for Penny worth. She felt Winnie had her purpose too, and it must have been planned for years, or how could she have given birth to a strange man? "I will try. I gotta go, I will come to see you when I am available." With that, she got up and was in a hurry to leave. She wanted to investigate Winnie now because she had limited time. "Wait, tell Thomas that I want to see him." Penny requested to Wendy. Wendy did not want to help, but she agreed reluctantly. After she left, she sent someone to investigate on Winnie, hoping that truth could be found as soon as possible that the result could be a fatal blow to Winnie. Stella had no idea and decided to tell the truth to Winnie. She came to the company and got into Winnie's office without telling Brian. It surprised Winnie. "Stella, you are here." Winnie was worried, because every time she saw the Bennet family, she felt it was related to the custody of Megan and Luke, for fear there would be bad news. "It's been days I did not see you, I miss you, so I come. It is my friend, I will take the children when I am back." Stella answered and then she asked Winnie. "You don't look good, you look thinner. Are you worried about the children?" Stella noticed that Winnie did not look well. "Yes, but I got a cold and a fever. I will be fine in two days." Winnie did not feel uncomfortable, but she knew she did not look good and got thinner. "Good, take care of yourself. You don't have to worry about the children, I will find a way out." Stella felt distressed about Winnie. It was not easy for her to support her family, though now money was not a problem, there were pains blowing her ruthlessly. "I believe you." Winnie was not that confident. She had talked to Felix, and she knew he insisted. She was grateful for everyone's efforts for her, but it was not easy to get the two children back and to lead a peaceful life. The only thing that made her feel at ease was Brian's promise. No matter that, she would be with her children. With that promise, she had nothing to worry about and she even did not want Felix to make a compromise, so that she could take two children easily and stay away from Brian forever.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 439 FIGHT FOR HER LOVE

Stella found Winnie's expression, Winnie did not trust her, but she could understand, if it were her, she would not feel at ease either. But it was not the main reason she came today. She would deal with Wendy first. "Winwin, I have something to tell you." Stella was serious, but it made Winnie nervous. "Ok." "It is about Wendy, she was not that woman who saved Brian, but we don't know who that woman was." Winnie pulled her heart together after hearing that. If it was not Wendy, Brian would continue to find out who that woman was, and his affection to that woman would not stop. Winnie felt complex and did not know how to describe her feeling. She felt ridiculous and messy, and her sense of security was gone. Winnie lowered her head and gave a bitter smile, looking at her crossed fingers with ironic eyes. After a moment, she relaxed and gave a stubborn look. "Stella, do you want to expose Wendy? Actually you don't have to tell me? You just need to tell Brian about it." "I came to you because I don't want to tell Brian. Winwin, I told you after I had a discussion with Kevin. We are afraid that Wendy takes this opportunity to hurt you and she would affect your relationship between you and Brian. Stella knew Winnie was tough and helpless. She wanted to help them at her best, but Winnie could only be hurt alone and no one could replace her. Now Stella could only wish that Winnie could insist and not give up in the middle. Stella continued. "It is related to the peace of our family, so I can't make Brian have his memory back. If he continued to look for that woman, he would get his memory back one day and there will be a storm in our family." Stella said generally. She knew Winnie would understand her and would not ask for more details. "Brian had never told me about the Bennet family and I have never asked. I only care about our relationship and the two children." "Stella, please help me to get the custody of the children from Felix, and you don't have to worry about the relationship between Brian and I." Hearing that, Stella was nervous. "Winwin, did Brian make you hurt? Do you want to give up on him?" Winnie once again gave a bitter smile, but she did not give her answer. "I think our relationship is our business, and we should fight for it by ourselves, only in this way, we can know the importance of each other. If you fight for it for us, we may not cherish it." "We will find a way out. No matter how the result was, we won't regret it." Winnie admitted that she did not work hard for her relationship, but Brian did not give her enough impetus. With what she supported her to fight for it? If her loved was got from others, wasn't she pathetic? "Stella, whether Wendy hurt me, she is not the problem, Brian is the problem. If he does not care about me, no matter what Wendy does to me, he will protect me, but if he does not care about me, even if there is no Wendy, there will be another woman showed up." "I don't care if Wendy will hurt me, during this process, I can see clearly Brian's heart to me." Winnie had been disappointed for many times and she had not given up on him. Now she wanted to see clearly Brian's heart so to that she would give up completely. "Winwin..." Stella was worried, because Winnie was disappointed to Brian. She wanted to explain for Brian, but was interrupted by Winnie. "Stella, do as what I said, get the custody of the children back for me. as for others, If Brian wants to do it, he will fight for it." Winnie made up her mind and did not want anyone to offer her help on her relationship. Brian did not know Stella was there and Winnie did not tell him. After work in the evening, Brian asked Winnie to come to his office. They could only chat after work, or they did not have other time to communicate. As they talked, Winnie remembered Wendy's company, wondering if Brian knew something. "Brian, how many years has Wendy's company been founded?" "Why ask that suddenly?" Brian asked with doubts. "Nothing, I just asked casually." Winnie did not give much explain, because she did not know what was going on. "Six years." Brian gave his answer. "Six years, it is not long, but it developed fast. Is it an acquired company or Wendy's father founded it?" Winnie felt Brian must know it, after all, it was his girlfriend's company. At this, Brian frowned. "Why are you interested in Wendy's company?" "I just feel it develops fast, if you don't want to say it, you can keep silent about it." Winnie said, but she did not expect that Brian would really keep silent. "We go home after dinner." Brian skipped the topic, which made Winnie upset. He must know it, he just did not want to tell her. Since he did not want to tell her, she could not force him to do so, she could only investigate it. Stella took two children to the old house. Seeing the two children, Felix was happy and he gave a bright smile. "Great Grandpa, I miss you." Megan said sweetly and greeted him happily, followed by Luke. "Hello, Great Grandpa." "Good, good, I miss you too. I am afraid you are angry and would not come and see me." At this moment, Felix felt he loved two children beyond his expectation, and he had never missed Stella and Brian like this. "It is different. Mommy said it could not be mixed, we should treat it objectively, so we are not angry at you." Luke said philosophically. He could not please others like Megan, but he could make his statement clearly. "Good, your Mommy is right." "Are you hungry? Let's eat first and then we play." Felix took Megan and Luke's hands and walked to the dining room. At the table, two kids were silent, lowering their heads and neither of them ate. "What is wrong with you?" Felix asked with doubts. "Grandpa has not back yet. Let's wait for him or he will be angry." Megan whispered, pretending to be timid. Hearing that, Felix was sad because Thomas' behavior left shadow to them. "This is my home and your home. If I die, this is your home, no one has the right to judge you and give you a dark face. You don't need to care about anyone." Felix's domineering words made two kids show bright faces. Two kids looked at each other with a smile and only they could understand their minds. But it was unlucky that Grandpa Thomas was not home, or it would be perfect, but Thomas's wife had heard it and would tell him. Seeing that the kids were pleased, Stella could not help but laughing, but it was not her plan, it was the kids' decision. Except for Thomas's wife, everyone at the table was happy. After dinner, she went back to her home. Felix and Stella played with two kids in the living room. The kids played and watched TV. Stella and Felix chatted while having tea on the sofa. "They were with Winnie these days?" Felix asked Stella, but he did not allow Stella to lie. But Stella had no plan to lie, because her Grandpa knew it, if she lied, it would be meaningless. "Yes, they started school and it will be more convenient to stay with Winnie, I will pick them up to you in weekend." "Stella, how do you think of it?" Felix asked, wanting to hear her opinion. "Grandpa, before I answer you, I want you to know that I don't speak for anyone. I don't think for Brian, Winwin and you, I only think for two kids. "They are still small and need to be taken care of. They need positive energy and only their mother could give it to them." "I know you have been suspecting that Winwin has motive, but I don't care about it, she won't have motives to her kids and will not use them to reach her goal." Stella dare not say it with certainty, dare not say Winnie perfect, for fear it would not work. "The kids should be with their mother, but Stella, our Bennet family has our status in B City and even over the whole name. our kids are doomed to be extraordinary, I can't let them live with their mother." Felix insisted his position, but his attitude eased. He could talk about it peacefully now, it showed that it was his biggest change. "Grandpa, you should keep pace with times, you can't have that thought. Whether the kids were extraordinary, it depends on them. Don't you want them take over the Bennet Group directly?" "If they don't get through difficulties, how can they have ability to manage the Bennet Group? If they don't have the ability, the Bennet Group will be destroyed in their hands."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 440 TWO KIDS

Stella said a lot and mentioned the fact that her Grandpa did not want to hear. She knew that her grandpa cared the Bennet group the most and did not want to lose it. After a moment of pause, she continued. "I think the Bennet's kids should be more excellent than others. Only when they are excellent, the Bennet Group could be at the top and it could be trained by their mother. We could only spoil them and we can't train an excellent kid. Felix pondered. Stella was reasonable and he believe that Winnie would be a mother who could train the kids. Did he really not keep pace with them time? Was he really outdated? "Grandpa, think about it, the kids are innocent. If we deprive their right to live with their mother, it will distort their heart and they will hate us for a lifetime." Stella continued to persuade him. she felt it was not difficult anymore and thought her grandpa would agree the kids to be with Winnie. Felix was speechless. The kids were indeed prepressed with him, but they were sunshine when they were back to their mother. The Bennet kids had never left their mother, no matter what, they grew up under the protection of their mother. They were healthy mentally. If the right of the kids to be with their mother was really deprived, they would not be healthy mentally and would hate him for a life time. As Felix was silent, Megan became angry suddenly. "Brother, I can't take it anyone, they said we have no parents and we are wild kids in the group. I must confront with them." With that, She was to leave, but was pulled by Luke. "Don't mind it, we pretend not to hear nothing. Beside, they are right, it has no difference with that we don't have parents." Luke said sadly. "Brother, if you avoid it, they will keep saying that. We have parents, why do they say that?" Then she cried sadly. Stella appreciated that Megan's acting skill was so good. Maybe it was her real feeling, so she could cry out loud. "What is wrong with you? Why Megan is crying?" Stella come to them. "Our classmates have a chat group, they said in there we don't have parents and we are wild kids. We told them many times that we are not wild kids, but they don't believe us." Megan cried sadly, but she was still sharp-tongued. "Auntie, I don't want to go to the kindergarten. I don't want to see my classmates, they will laugh at us." Megan said, and Luke lowered his heard and said sadly. "I don't want to go to the kindergarten either. I don't feel uncomfortable about their words. Auntie, please change a school for us." Luke raised his request, but he emphasized he was uncomfortable. "It is no use to chance the school, the kids will know we don't have a family and they will say we are wild kids. I won't change the school. I don't go anywhere, I just want to stay at home, I won't step out of this house." "Megan, don't cry, don't tell it to your Mommy, or she will be sad. And she has no time to fix it. I will communicate with their parents." With that, she embraced two kids in arms. Their purpose had reached and it was time to stop. When the kids stopped crying, they did not continue to play, but sat on the sofa silently, looking depressed. Seeing that, Felix was sad. It could not go on like this. The kids were innocent and should not be treated like this, but he could not still agree Winnie to marry Brain. When it was time for dinner, Thomas drove back to the yard. As he parked the car, he received a call from Wendy. So he drove out again and came to the restaurant agreed with Wendy. "Wendy, what is it?" At the mid of the dinner, Thomas said. Wendy asked him out, but she did not say anything. "Ok." Wendy put down the chopstick, but she did not speak but thought how she should say it so that she could clear herself, but why she would clear herself? Why was she nervous, and it should Thomas be nervous. "Uncle Thomas, do you know Penny?" "Yes, she is Brian's exwife." Thomas was alert, but he still answered her questions, because he did not know what Wendy would say. "She said she wanted to see you and hope you go to the prison." Though Wendy was ready, she was afraid Thomas would ask her questions, and she could avoid the thing she was afraid of. "How do you know her? How did you get this message?" Thomas was cold in eyes and frowned. Seeing the change in Thomas' face, Wendy was scared, and the measures she thought of was not useful at this moment. If she lied, what if Penny's statement was different with her? How could she face Thomas? After a moment of thinking, Wendy decided to tell him the truth? "I went to prison to see her and she told me that." Wendy said timidly. In the past, in addition to Rufus, she thought the nicest person was Thomas, but not he was fierce and she dare not look into his eyes. "Why did you come to see her, you don't know her." Thomas was not clam. If it was really Penny told her, it meant Penny knew he was, and he could not explain it. "I don't know, you can ask Penny. Come to me if you have questions after you met Penny. I gotta go now." With that, she got up and left taking her bag. She could not deal with such a fierce Thomas and did not know what to say. So she had to avoid it. After Wendy left, it was Thomas alone in the room. Now he was nervous and did not know what was going on with Wendy and Penny. If the Bennet family knew that he came to see Penny, it would be hard to explain. As he was analyzing, his wife called him. As he was annoyed, he hated to be bothered, so he spoke impatiently. "What is it? We can talk when I am back, don't call to bother me." After the warming, he was to hang up the phone, but his wife said. "I called you because I am angry, you can't leave me alone." "What is going on?" He felt his wife' tone was not right. "Those two annoying kids came and they said you gave them a dark face. Dad was angry and promised to give the house to the kids and said no one has right to live in the old house." "Didn't he say that to me? Why did he give the old house to the kids? They could not heritage so much legally." His wife complained. She did not want the kids have the valuable old house. "Did Dad say that?" "Yes, I am so angry. I am joking. Thomas, if you don't fight for it, your Dad will give everything to your brother's family and our son will get nothing." Thomas said nothing, his wife felt it was not enough, and she added. "Do you want Brian to manage the Bennet Group all the time? you have put your efforts, why should we pay efforts for others?" "You are as good as he and our son is good. You can manage the Bennet Group. Thomas, get the Bennet Group back, and let me be proud, ok?" She was angry about Felix's words. Hearing his promise to the kids, she realized that they had no positions in Felix's heart. Brian had share in the Bennet Group, but Jack had no. Felix would give him but he said it would be carried out when Jack was capable. But she did not know his standard. They came back from abroad, because he was old. And when he died, the house would belong to them naturally, but now he promised to give it to the kids. She felt unconvinced, so they had to be strong, so she made a call to Thomas. Thomas hung up the phone and felt worse in mood. His attention shifted to his father and two kids from Penny and Wendy. It seemed that his father liked the kids a lot and even love them more than Brian and Stella, or he would not promise to give them the house. He knew that his father would not say it casually. Had he thought of how to distribute his fortune? His father got a big amount of fortune, even if his father distributed it evenly, they did not get much, because there were only three people in their family, but Rufus would get a lot. Now there were two kids, and they had less fortune, and now this old house worth billions was gone. What should he do? Should he continue to seek for an opportunity or create opportunity? No, his wife was right, he could not give up. They had to be ambitious and had to fight for it. If he could not suppress Brian, once his father died, he would be suppressed instead, and his brother would not spare him. After playing with the kids, Felix returned to his room. As he sat down, Butler Lowe came in with a phone. "Chairman, Winnie called. I didn't bother you because you and Stella were chatting. Do you want to call back?" Butler Lowe asked his opinion. Felix was silent for a moment and then commanded. "Call back."